Suffers Burns As Gas Ignites

Willard Wiltse Has Face and Hands Badly Blistered When Lighting Stove.

Willard Wiltse had his face and hands painfully burned Wednesday last week when gas from a stove in the basement of the William Beckenhauer funeral parlors caught fire while he was lighting the heater. His skin is badly blistered, but no scars will be left.

The fact that only a small amount of gasoline was in the stove saved Mr. Wiltse from serious injury and the building from destruction.

Mr. Wiltse was lighting the heater to dry out the preparation room in the basement of the parlors. He had generated the stove and started to turn on the gas when a needle valve slipped out and gas in the tank was forced out by pressure. This ignited and burned Mr. Wiltse. The blaze went out in a few seconds. The fire did no damage to the building.

FARM ECONOMIST IS CONFIDENT OF FARM PROSPERITY

A. B. Genuing, agricultural economist of high rank, says the farm business is now going to have its innings. He looks for a period of greatly stimulated farm prosperity. Farm products and farm lands will be in demand at deservedly increased prices. He thinks establishment of the federal farm board, with fine regulation and protection of the local market, will be influential in behalf of improved and stabilized values. The drift of people from farms to the cities during past years is pointed out as an assurance of increased profits to those who have remained on the farms. Good roads and improved means of transportation and communication aid marketing and generally help conditions in rural communities. The economist calls attention to the largely decreased farm indebtedness, and the multiplicity of modern farm homes and farm equipment. He emphasizes a reassuring prospect which has been apparent to many.

Holdup Scheme Near Norfolk

Wayne Young Folks Drive Away From Men Who Probably Attempted to Rob.

Mystery surrounds an experience which some Wayne young people had Saturday evening on a highway near Norfolk.

Two young folks were returning to Wayne from Norfolk about 11 o'clock in the evening. On a bridge just north of that city, as the Wayne car was crossing, an old man suddenly appeared from the side of the highway, shot a gun and swooned. Suddenly a car appeared from back of the Wayne people.

The Wayne young folks, at first inclined to stop and see what had happened, thought a second time and drove on. No news of a suicide has appeared, and it is thought the incident was a put-up scheme to hold up the young folks. The man probably pretended to shoot himself and the car from the rear was probably an accomplice in the scheme, planning to assist in the act.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Castle, Roper & Matthews' parlor in Lincoln with Rev. W. D. Bancroft and Rev. James MacPherson in charge. Rev. Theobald was pastor of the Wayne church for eight years closing his work here December 1, 1917, when he became a district officer for the denomination. It was during his period of service here that the old church edifice became inadequate and an addition was built and other improvements made. Of his pastorate the church record here says: "In thus breaking the bond that has united us for many years, permit me to say that I shall never forget the pleasant relations that have existed between us. There has never been, so far as I can remember, a jar in any of our meetings between the pastor and the church."

Rev. Theobald came to Wayne after taking post graduate work in a Baptist seminary. He was district secretary for the Baptist state conference after leaving, and then went to Denver, Colo., and Madison, Wis., for a period of years. He had served as pastor in the Tecumseh church also. The past sixteen years Rev. Theobald lived in University Place. He and his wife had a store there for five or six years and the latter is still active in this. Rev. Theobald retired last fall on account of his health. He deceased served as mayor of University Place two terms and was always active in civic interests of the community.

Rev. Walter William Theobald was born in Norwich, England, April 16, 1860. At the age of 13 he came to America with his parents and settled at Garden Prairie, Ill. After living there five years he moved to Palmyra, Neb., and was in the drug business. Later he was in the same business at Ainsley, Neb. He studied for the ministry afterward, retiring in 1902 on account of ill health.

Rev. Walter William Theobald was born April 18, 1860, in England. He leaves his wife, one daughter, Mrs. May Hall of Atwood, Wash., and one son, Jessie Theobald of Lincoln. There are four brothers, S. R. Theobald and H. W. Theobald of Wayne, and C. F. Theobald and H. J. Theobald of Lincoln.

Will Open Studio In Western Springs

Miss Esther Mae Ingham who has taken piano training from Sidney Silber of the Sherwood School of Music in Chicago for the past two years, since finishing the course in the Wayne branch of Mrs. Grace Dickson Keyser, plans to open a studio in Western Springs, Ill., in September when she returns there after a visit here with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham. Miss Ingham has taught for the Sherwood school in Chicago part time during her training there. Miss Ingham appeared before students of Mrs. Keyser and some friends last week Wednesday in a recital at Mrs. Keyser's home studio. She played a heavy program, and her appreciative audience especially noted her fine technique and her excellent interpretation. Each selection she played in a finished manner. She added interest to the program by telling the stories on which three modern numbers in her recital were based. When Miss Ingham informed the Chicago office of her plans for next year, she was told that her instruction had been among the best done by pupils of the school. Miss Ingham will continue her study of piano in the school in connection with her own studio work.

REPRESENTATIVES SCOUT MOVEMENT IN WAYNE TODAY

AN important meeting of Boy Scout representatives is being held in Wayne today, and people are thus reminded again of the fine principles and high purposes of that organization. The record of Scout members is an impressive testimonial in support of the movement. The record shows that Boy Scouts keep out of court and out of jail, and that they usually conduct themselves in accordance with the precepts and rules of the order. Scout teachings tend to make boys healthy in body and mind, courageous and industrious, respectful and helpful to their fellows. No boy sufficiently interested in belonging to the organization, can fail to absorb and practice considerable measure of its good principles. Steadily increasing membership in the order and growing participation in its activities are encouraging signs of the future of American civilization.

State Board Designates Tax Rate For The General Fund And Capitol

Protest Is Filed by Wayne County Against Increase on Valuation of Cattle.

The state board of equalization and assessment, at a meeting held in Lincoln, determined the state tax rate to be levied by the board for 1929, the amount to be 2.18 mills on the dollar for the general state fund and .22 of a mill on the dollar for the state capitol fund. Wayne county, with a valuation of $40,077,551, would thus pay $86,186.12. Of this sum the entire state assessment would raise $37,369,06, and the capitol levy would raise $8,817.06. This does not include taxation on intangibles or on late schedules, which will raise it some.

Last Year's Tax Rate. The state levy is somewhat higher this year than in 1928, when it was 2.06 mills on the dollar. This brought a total levy of $28,833.59. After intangibles and late schedules had been included the amount actually paid to the state in 1928 was $23,411.61.

County Files Protest. Protest has been filed by Wayne county against action of the state board of equalization in raising the entire state assessment on cattle because a few counties placed their valuation of livestock too low. The action, taken by County Clerk C. W. Reynolds, is backed by the county attorney and members of the county board.

The average of assessment valuations placed on cattle by the state is $30. Wayne county's assessed valuation on cattle averaged $46.24. In some counties the valuation was placed far too low. The board, in order to bring the state average on cattle up to what it should be, ordered the valuation on all cattle in all counties to be raised ten percent. This puts the valuation of Wayne county cattle far above some others. The Wayne county officials feel that the state board could have raised the valuation in counties in which they were placed low and allowed the valuation to remain in counties which had as high averages as that designated by the state board.

On Other Valuations. The state board also raised valuations on other property as follows: All telephone companies, twenty percent; all telegraph companies, thirty percent; all electric, power and heating companies, ten percent; and all water companies, forty percent.

The state board, in word to the counties, said that such action of increasing valuations on the specified items was done to make the amounts on these items conform to law. Mr. Reynolds' letter to the state board was in part as follows: "It is my intention to disregard the portion of the certificate or part dealing with valuation on cattle in Wayne county on the grounds that such increases are unwarranted."

Return From Trip Into Four States

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Teekhaus, Miss Gretchen Teekhaus and Miss Ida Hinrichs arrived home Saturday evening from a trip to states north and east of here. Rev. and Mrs. Teekhaus and Miss Hinrichs drove to Lena, Ill., Rev. Teekhaus to deliver an address at a festival there. They visited in that vicinity a few days, and then drove to Madison, Wis., the Dells in Wisconsin and to Minneapolis. Miss Gretchen Teekhaus, who had visited ten days in Minneapolis with Mrs. Lura Bell Johnson, joined them there. The group then went to Fairmont, Minn., and to Lake Okoboji enroute home.

The party traveled 1,400 miles. They found the country in Illinois dry and in need of moisture. Crops in the other states are good, but Wayne county's corn looks the best of any the travelers saw. Farms in Wisconsin, in the center of the cheese manufacturing district, are highly developed and farm improvements are excellent. Otherwise the Wayne folks found that Wayne county farms have the best buildings seen on the trip.

Roads in Iowa and Illinois are especially good, many being concrete. Those in Wisconsin are rough in many places, and a number are oiled.

The Dells, resort in Wisconsin, and the city of Madison the Wayne people thought especially pretty places.

CONVICT'S DEATH RECALLS HISTORY OF FAKE FORTUNE

ARTHUR Parsons, father of Jack Parsons who flew high on the wings of a lot of hot air circulated in connection with a fictitious inheritance, his scene of action being laid in the vicinity of Pilger, died early this week in Leavenworth federal prison where he was sent on conviction for using the mails to defraud.

The younger Parsons who proposed to build a "show place" near Pilger on the strength of capital which he was to receive from England, borrowing from his father-in-law and others as far as possible on his roseate financial prospect, followed in the footsteps of his father and was also sentenced to serve a term at Leavenworth. The young man drove an expensive automobile and cut a big swath on a fortune that did not exist. As an Ananias, he was an almost perfect replica of the original, keeping himself busy dodging the truth. Like most false lives, he finally got caught.

The elder Parsons was found guilty of fraud in connection with an "orange ranch" in Florida. With less effort, each could doubtless have made an honest living, kept out of prison and avoided a felon's stigma.

Are You Prepared To House Your Crop?

Every indication points to a season of bumper crops in northeast Nebraska. Farmers are realizing a good yield from small grain, and corn is in wonderful condition. Ample housing facilities to care for the crops after harvest are essential in realizing largest possible returns.

Plan now to build the granary or corn crib you will need this year. We will gladly furnish designs and figures on the structures, without obligation to you. An estimate costs you nothing.

Building materials are very reasonable now. Let us estimate the cost of the granary or corn crib you need for this year's crop.

Another story of automobile accidents appears in today's Herald. It offers a powerful reason why motorists should observe rules and exercise caution.

Herald advertisers can satisfy every human desire, and their offerings should be reviewed and headed every week as carefully as the Mohammedan studies his koran.

If a town does not want to fade into the surrounding landscape, it must show the spirit of improvement and progress in these days of good roads and easy means of travel.

It requires a good deal of skill to stack grain, and so little grain has been stacked in recent years, that old-time farmers had come to the conclusion that young fellows in the agricultural field, could not do it. But this year considerable stacking is being done, and the young farmers will be able to show their ability in that line.

An agreeable peace symptom is found in the order of President Hoover to suspend building certain war cruisers provided for by congress. Complaint against delay comes from men who may be out of jobs if the building program is not carried out, but they could build roads or engage in other constructive work not looking to possible hostilities.

S. R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska and lately appointed grain member of the federal farm board, has just returned to Lincoln from Washington, and he points to the present flooding of the wheat market as evidence of the need of regulated marketing. On account of the rush of wheat to market, the price has slipped somewhat, although wheat supplies over the world are considerably less than they were a year ago.

Threshing of small grain has been in progress during the past two weeks, with an occasional interruption due to rain. The yield per acre is larger than expected, usually double what it was last year. Present threshing will soon be finished, though a considerable number of farmers

THE DIFFERENCE.

It takes the little fellow with abridged vision to be unfair and unreasonable. In a circumscribed circle he flaunts authority and abuses privilege. He does not see far nor well as far as he sees. These suggestions are prompted by frequent experience in the matter of public service as performed by individuals of small groups in contrast with that performed by huge corporations. There are big corporations that deserve complaint, but most of them will be found in the harness seeking to give service to meet all requirements at a minimum of cost. There are still some telephone organizations independent of the Bell system. These local companies are likely to enforce rules that hamper public service. We know of one that charges an extra fee if a stranger uses a subscriber's telephone. We know another that raises a roar of complaint over making connections during the noon hour. These barriers to service would never be raised by the Bell, and the fact that it is too broad-gauged and far-seeing to do so, explains in considerable measure why it is a big and flourishing corporation. The Bell has fixed rules that fairly comprehend public needs, and the more it realizes popular appreciation of its service. If your request to the Bell or to any other giant public service corporation is denied, it is very likely outside the bounds of reason. Such corporations are usually managed by people who are schooled to the ways and needs of public service and understand the importance of giving it completely and courteously. Relations with a small group, with few, if any, ideas of looking to the value of popularity, class or prestige, are usually managed by people who are schooled to the ways and needs of public service and understand the importance of giving it completely and courteously.

stacked bundles and will thresh later. Prospect for the biggest corn crop in the history of the county continues. Stalks run as high as thirteen feet, and the number of ears produced by each is unusual. It would now seem that nothing could happen to prevent full realization of expectations. The additional prospect of high prices is due to less fortunate crop conditions in other states. But while others had big crops last year, the suffering and painful shortages, and in the long run probably all are treated about on a par.

The fear that so called flappers would ruin the race has been upset by facts revealed through an investigation by the American Child Health association. It is proved that young women of today are the mothers of the healthiest babies known in the history of civilization. Young mothers are credited with a better understanding of health rules, and with better judgment in dressing both themselves and their children. Higher standards of living made possible by greater prosperity, have contributed to the preservation of child life. It is mentioned that in 1900 there were 193 deaths per 1,000 among children between 1 and 14 years old, while in 1925 there were 6.2 per 1,000. Mortality among children under 1 year old has been reduced more than one-half since the beginning of the twentieth century.

A Brooklyn woman is reported to have suffered a terrible sting of ingratitude from her husband who is serving a term in the penitentiary for killing a man. On his imprisonment, the woman took over the management of his business devoted to the sale of surgical supplies, and during his absence of eight years, she more than trebled its value. She visited him frequently and encouraged him in his deprivation of liberty, more than making good in the trust which she had accepted. Her dream was to sell the business on his release from prison and flee with him to new fields and begin life over. She has been offered $1,800,000 for the business, and from behind prison bars he has started court action to restrain her, explaining that he will take charge of affairs as soon as he secures a pardon for which he has made application. She says he had always been suspicious and fearful of people—the trait which led him to commit murder—and that now he regards her with the same feeling of distrust. His evidence of ingratitude may result in prolonging his stay in a felon's cell.

We have received from the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, New York, a request for copies of the Herald to be included in an exhibition of American newspapers at a convention to be held in Australia. Copies will be sent, and we hope they will be perused by far-away convention members, noting the battle which our advertisers are carrying on to reduce the cost of living, as well as noting the sweeping tide of social activities with which people encourage friendships and banish dull monotony. We want assembled journalists on the distant island to know that the Herald is published in one of the richest sections of the world. Its fertility is comparable to that of the valley of the Nile, and its inhabitants have the advantage of unusual intelligence, descended from hardy pioneer stock and stimulated by the rigors of a northern climate. If after serving purposes of the convention and before being used on pantry shelves, handkerchiefs and of the copies, we trust they will be impressed by the numerous goings and comings and social relationships of the different communities represented in these columns.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: Various influences have contributed to a summer lull in both industry and trade, somewhat more marked than was expected. There is less activity generally in almost all lines, yet a comforting thought is suggested by comparisons that show a more favorable condition than that of last year and of the year before. Nineteen twenty-nine is still ahead for the first seven months, and according to all indications, will go on to a new record for the full year.
Extreme heat has affected business over a wide area. It also has affected crop conditions. Both corn and wheat have suffered decreases in predicted production. Lack of moisture in some sections of the corn belt has shortened the crop. Reports indicate a sharp decrease. The moisture was lacking at a critical time. Generally the corn crop will be smaller. The same thing applies to wheat in the northwest regions and in Canada. The result will be a short crop and correspondingly increasing prices.
Wheat has declined in price on the Chicago market, but this is only temporary since yield had nothing to do with the advance. Overbuying was responsible for the price receding, so it was wholly a market condition that produced this result. Farmers who are harvesting their grain now are advised to hold it in as great quantity as may be possible for higher prices later. They are assured that the price will go higher since a decreased yield is bound to affect it.
Industry is holding its own, but is not so active as it was. Motor car production has been lessened in practically all the leading plants. The domestic trade has been heavily exploited this year, the first six months of production going to a high figure. The manufacturers are now looking to the foreign field for a large amount of the expansion expected. Pay rolls in industry have not been greatly changed in the last month, and there is no annoying unemployment reported.

CAN'T YOU WAIT?
"Can't you wait?" is a favorite expression of those who want to put off until later things that ought to be done at once. In business, in the factory or on the farm, the individual who procrastinates, figuring that he will feel more like performing a duty at some other time, is the one most likely to have an uphill struggle, arriving too late at every turn in the road to keep up with the procession. Needless delay often causes an insurmountable handicap. Whether one's neglect piles up work ahead or invites poor credit by failing to make prompt collections and prompt payments, results are obstructive and disappointing. The fellow who keeps his desk cleared and who meets needs as they appear, is the one who, barring ill health or other unavoidable interference, makes the grade and scores worth-while headway. Even the fellow who is dilatory, appreciates and patronizes the one who is alert and prompt.

There has been a notable increase in industrial dividends this year. New records have been established by leading stocks, according to New York reports. On the whole business this year is in a condition that encourages the confident belief that prosperity will continue. The summer lull is nothing to worry about.

The People Aroused.
(Omaha World-Herald.)
"Personally, I'm rabid against the use of fireworks any longer. Instead of being an instrument of patriotism, they have become a means to prompt rowdiness. Boys throw them into automobiles and it has come to the point where women cannot drive in safety on the Fourth of July. My brother, when but 7 years old, lost the sight of an eye in much the same manner as little Frankie Mellinger lost his life."

This is Paul Martin, president of the Omaha Bar association, commenting on Commissioner Westergard's new ordinance which rigidly bans fireworks and which will come up for hearing before the city council on August 12. Mr. Martin said that if the bar association held meetings during the summer the matter would be placed before it. Superintendent Beveridge, of the city schools, tells of passing the Fourth in Columbus, O., where there is an ordinance banning fireworks. It was a perfectly peaceful day. Quiet ruled throughout.

The World-Herald believes that the city commissioners will not ignore the veritable storm of protest against the further use of fireworks in Omaha. The people have grown weary of the killings and maimings that mar the celebrations practically every year. They believe that this thing—this foolish, foolish thing—of placing deadly weapons in the hands of little children once every 12 months under the preposterous assumption that such ridiculous procedure is necessary or desirable in order that the spirit of patriotism shall be instilled into the minds of youth should stop. And it should stop. There isn't a single excuse for it. It isn't a question of the abridgment of "personal liberty" or anything else. It is simply a case of the community having decided to take certain steps for its own protection, for the protection of its young. That decision has been vehemently voiced by mothers and fathers, by leading citizens, by the press. There is no doubt that the people mean business. Foolish it would be for a handful of officials, with no good reason, to attempt to thwart the will of the people who placed them where they are. And we don't believe they will.

About Crop Reports.
Lincoln Journal: Years ago, before there was a federal and state crop report for Nebraska, the Burlington, for its own uses, gathered crop and tonnage statistics that it might better perform its duties as a common carrier. These statistics gave traffic officials information concerning when and where cars would be wanted and in what number. In the beginning there was no publicity to these reports, but newspapers, keen for news concerning crops and prospective yields, sought this information. It was given out grudgingly, as it was prepared for a private purpose. The information was gathered by agents of the road for the use of the road's management. Because its accuracy or inaccuracy meant much to the railroad in a financial way every effort was made to secure accuracy.
So much looked for became this report that the road finally gave press associations access to it. For more than a decade it has been published, in part at least, as regularly as it has been issued.

Newspaper men know that the Burlington railroad has not sought to invade the field of crop reporting. It has been much interested in crops, in yields and acreage and the progress of development, and because of this interest it has gathered information and has confided in the public what it has learned. Its officials have never asked for credit in publications of its report. It has not sought to use these reports for advertising purposes.

This is not in support of the claim of accuracy or the charge of inaccuracy of the Burlington crop report or of any other crop report. The public will always make allowance, sometimes by rather a wide margin, for the accuracy of any advance report on crop yield from any source. At best these reports are merely estimates. No more should be claimed for them when they purport to give the yield of the state before the crop is threshed and marketed. This is an urge, however, in support of the right of anyone to question the guess of anyone else. That privilege, within the realm of reason, should be allowed anyone.

The fact is that no one knows what the Nebraska wheat yield will be. Any attempt to tell is only an estimate, though based on carefully gathered information.

Market Report.

Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.
After last week's ruinous decline, which extended to include practically all classes of fat and feeding cattle, the trade this week gathered a measure of stability. In places the deal even reflected spots of strength, but at no time were sellers in the way of replacing any appreciable proportion of the long losses sustained a week ago.
As was expected the opening of the week found western types predominating in the receipts. On the opening day cornfeds formed a very negligible percentage of the delivery, with the result that buyers were forced to step lively to obtain a share of the material. This life resulted in some strength. At the end of the Monday trade dry lot cattle were mostly strong to 25 cents higher and although the later week supplies included a normal percentage of killers, sellers were able to hold the initial showing of strength throughout the remainder of the week.
On the prevailing market fancy cornfeds are worth up to $16.25, a price paid only once this week and then for prime 1,538 pound heifers. Generally the choice to prime steers and yearlings are quotable from $15.00 to $16.25, with good to choice from $13.50 to $15.00 and fair to good from $11.00 to $13.50. Grass fat steers, according to weight and quality, are worth from $12.50 down to as low as $10.00 for off colored thin kinds, too plain to attract feeder buyer competition. Just a few fancy fed yearling heifers have been coming to market to sell from $13.50 to $14.50. Corn-on-grass feds are worth anywhere from $11.50 to $12.50, with strictly grass fat kinds from $8.50 to $11.50. The above prices reflect just a little strength over the low close of last week. Occasional kosher cows and big barren heifers are finding their way to market to earn from $11.00 to $12.25 and look firm. Regulation fat cows are strong to 25 cents higher for the week. Fed kinds are selling upwards around $10.00 and over, with corn-on-grass feds from $8.50 to $9.50. Few real grass fat cows are getting outside of a $7.50 to $8.50 range at this time.
Canners and cutters continue to cling to recently depressed levels and are worth from $5.50 to $7.00, with but few exceptions. Fair to good bologna bulls are moving almost entirely from $8.50 to $9.00, with light types and grassy bolognas from $8.25 down. Heavy fed bulls look firm at a $10.00 top.
Veals have moved in a hectic manner the last few days. According to the whims of the city butchers the tops bob around between $13.50 and $14.50, with the practical top to the big packers for choice calves just about an even half dollar under what the city butchers will pay.
The country demands have broadened this week, which together with fewer western cattle than were expected, although it is true western formed the bulk of the early week receipts, brought some strength to the trade. The week shows practically all thin steers fairly active and strong to 25 cents higher. Kinds coming have been largely on the plain to fair order and have sold from $9.50 to $11.00, with just a few good lots to go up around $12.00 and over. Fancy light green feeders would hit an extreme peak well in advance of $13.00 if offered at this time. According to weight and quality feeding heifers have sold from $9.00 to $10.50 this week. In that spread they appear strong. Types of high quality, even colors and of little more than calf weights, might reach as high as $11.00. Practically no feeding cows coming. Odd lots selling from $7.50 down.

Blessed Land. Dr. A. L. Bixby: "Did you ever see such corn?" This question is heard on every hand, and generally brings a negative answer. In the growing section of the state, the crop never looked more promising in early August. Favorable precipitation and seasonable heat have done their perfect work. O, if the people of the brown and barren western coast could see Nebraska now! We do not brag because of this luxury of scenic splendor, this elemental product of sun and rain and soil, wherein the labor of man is a factor not to be despised. But nature is kind and her ministrations indispensable. Peculiarly blessed is this land where the winds are tempered to the fleeceless sheep, the winnowing, and the summer brings the blessings of fruitful crops and salubrious weather. We wish our coal-deliver would deliver stuff like that.—Punch. THE COURAGE OF FAITH The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 11. The Courage of Faith. Daniel 6:10, 11, 16-23. WHAT we heretofore said concerning the Book of Daniel applies also to this lesson. Whether the book be upon the type like the Book of Revelations, or a transcript of literal history, the character of the man who stands forth in these pages and in this incident is clear: Daniel is the type of man who knows no fear where duty is involved. So far as actual life is concerned it was never, perhaps, altogether a right teaching that the man who does right will never suffer for it, or will always be miraculously delivered from the persecutions of his enemies even though his danger be that of a den of lions. The New Testament at some points, especially in its story of Jesus Christ, corrects some of the philosophies that have been too readily based upon the prosperity and happiness of those who follow the way of truth. The story of Calvary reminds us that there are real crosses in life and that there is such a thing as suffering for conscience sake. Willing to Suffer The real point about this story is not Daniel's deliverance, but Daniel's willingness to suffer and die, if need be, for the sake of his conscience. On the whole it is amazing in life what deliverance comes to such men. Sometimes the cross which they are willing to bear is spared them; but there would be no meaning in the deliverance if Daniel had been fearful of the result or had hesitated for a moment in the performance of his duty. The teaching of the New Testament re-enforced by the experience of Jesus and the experience of his early disciples is that, no matter what befalls a man, God is with him and right is triumphant. Here in the lesson we have set before us the things that may sustain a man in his purpose to do right and in his attitude of courage. Daniel's life was founded in real religion. He found a helpful discipline in prayer and in the reverence for sacred things. His windows were open toward Jerusalem—that is, there was the love of spiritual Zion in his soul. A man cannot ever rise very high in whose soul there is no sense of holiness. Nor did Daniel merely kneel in the prayer of petition and request. Like Paul at a later time, he mingled thanksgiving with prayer. "There is strength in the man who can sit ways find something in life for which to be thankful. This religious faith and attitude lifted Daniel above convention and in a sense above law. It is one thing to be lawless and quite another thing to live above law. Daniel dared to disobey a command that impinged upon his religion, but his religion led him to practice the sort of life that could not be described as lawless. The King's Weakness Perhaps one of the most interesting portions of the lesson is in the reference to the king. He appears before us as anxious for the safety of Daniel and with a sort of faith that Daniel's God will deliver him, and yet he had been weak and unholily enough to allow Daniel to be cast to the lions. Is not that somewhat like men and women who are always hoping that God will bring things out differently from their own plan? In reality the king stands before us as a despicable fellow, well disposed toward Daniel and hopeful for his safety, but utterly lacking in the courage that Daniel had for himself and therefore unwilling to risk anything for the safety of the youthful hero. Here also is that element of contrast to which we have referred. We take our stand in the modern world with the weakness of the king or with the strength and resourcefulness of Daniel. It is much better to be Daniel than to be ruler of an empire. "He that ruleth his own soul is better than he that taketh a city."

File Suit Against Owner Of Station

Norfolk News, Aug. 5: Kile R. Martin, owner of a gasoline filling station at Pilger, was named defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed in federal court here Saturday morning by Ida Strand, 37, Sioux City charges.

The plaintiff charges through the negligence of Martin she fell down a flight of stairs to the basement of Martin's place on June 3, 1929, and sustained permanent injuries.

On that date, according to the petition, Mrs. Strand, in the company of her husband and two sons, Stanley and Clifford, stopped at the Martin filling station for gasoline for their automobile. The plaintiff claims an attendant at the filling station named Kemper directed her to a rest room on the west end of the building, and because of that information she entered the room, which was dark, and fell to the basement.

Mrs. Strand states in her petition that she was knocked unconscious, and suffered a fracture of the coccyx, a sprain of the sacroiliac joint, and other injuries.

There was no warning sign or light inside the door, the plaintiff avers. She also states in the petition that after being forced to remain at the Kemper home in Pilger a few days, she was removed to a hospital at Sioux City, and since the accident has been in ill health.

Fred S. Berry, Wayne, is the plaintiff's attorney.

Opposes Crossing To New Railroad

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 6.—The state railway commission was informed by telephone Monday that the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern railroad company which is building a new railroad from Yankton to Norfolk had been refused leave to cross the M. and O. railroad at a point not designated in the message. The new road, as planned and authorized by the interstate commerce commission, is to cross the M. and O. road twice.

The railway commission was asked for an opinion as to whether the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern road should file a formal complaint with the railway commission in order to effect a crossing. Chairman Randall and Commissioner Curtis gave it as their opinion that the state commission has no jurisdiction over the matter of a crossing.

It is their belief that the company aggrieved should file a complaint in the federal court for enforcement of the order of the interstate commerce commission which designated the route of construction from Yankton to Pierce. From Pierce to Norfolk the interstate commerce commission, sitting jointly with the Nebraska commission, directed the Northwestern to prepare a contract for the use of its lines.

This contract has been prepared and is objected to by the Yankton, Norfolk and Southern on the ground that it is unfair to require it to use the right of way from Pierce to Norfolk and to use Northwestern terminals at Norfolk. The new road desires to buy its own right of way and build its own terminals. Another part of the contract prepared by the Northwestern prohibits the new road from running a train in less than two hours of the time of a Northwestern train.

California Youth May Become King Of a Second Monte Carlo

A SECOND Monte Carlo on the Isle of Tavorala, the smallest kingdom in the world!

That is the plan of L. H. B. Frampton, 23-year-old scion of the French nobility and potential heir to the throne of Tavorala, who is employed in a music store in Hollywood, Calif.

Frampton, whose full name and title is Lowell Hawthorne Biford Frampton, Count de Collobin, has received word from the Italian consul at Los Angeles that his cousin, King Paul, is in favor of abdicating the throne to the dapper Hollywood youth.

"Four generations ago, my great-great-grandfather, Giuseppe Bartoloni, then head of a warring faction in Italy, found himself in trouble with the king," he explains. "With a small band of loyal followers he was ordered to leave the country."

Four Miles Square.

"He sailed into the Mediterranean sea and off the coast of Sardinia founded the kingdom of Tavorala on a tiny island but four miles square."

"My mother, who is now living in El Paso, was born on the island."

L. H. B. Frampton... who dreams of a second Monte Carlo on Mediterranean island with himself as king.

Memorial Cathedral of L'Enfant Placed Nears Completion at National Capital

WHEN Pierre Charles L'Enfant first conceived plans in 1791 for the building of the national capital at Washington, his plans called for a church for national uses.

Today, nearly 140 years later, there rises, stone by stone, on the most commanding elevation in Washington, a great Cathedral which is to be an enduring monument of what religion means to the American people. And this rising Cathedral is believed to be just such an edifice as L'Enfant had in mind.

Pershing is Leader

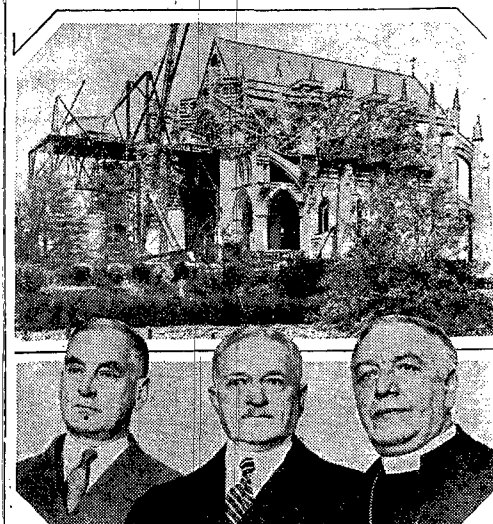

The plan for a symbol of religion at the heart of the Republic is frequently credited to George Washington and, although it was not accorded material expression for more than a century, the Cathedral project is today receiving more widespread recognition than ever before.

Men and women of prominence in every section of the land are striving under the leadership of General John J. Pershing, as national chairman, George Wharton Pepper as executive chairman, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, as campaign treasurer, in association with Bishop James E. Freeman, to hasten its completion.

Notable progress has been achieved since June, 1927, when General Pershing became leader of the lay effort in behalf of the Cathedral. In the months which have elapsed, more than 115 feet has been added to the length of the roof line, which is 124 feet above the ground level, and the five great bays of the choir have been completed structurally to join the already completed design in forecasting the beauty of the entire structure.

During the same period more than 6,000 men and women and a host of churches, Sunday schools and patriotic organizations have responded with gifts and pledges totaling well over $3,800,000.

Since it was granted a charter by Congress in 1838, the cathedral foundation, which is under Protestant, Episcopal auspices, has been the recipient of offerings, large and small, from 33,000 benefactors. The Book of Remembrance, kept at the Cathedral offices, shows that these have come from every state, from distant territories and even from foreign lands.

Completed in 1932

A new construction program has been recently undertaken by the Cathedral authorities. It includes the transepts and crossing forming the fifth great unit of the Cathedral fabric. The other units, which are structurally complete, are the foundations, the crypt chapels, the apse and the choir.

Wrecked Planes Tell Own Story

These pictures tell their own story. Above is the damaged bullet-like plane in which Lieutenant Harold Bromley hoped to make a non-stop flight from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokyo, Japan. It crashed on the island. Picture below is the wrecked plane in which Captain T. L. Crighton and Owen Haughland, Minnesota flyers trying to set a new endurance record, were killed when it fell after being in the air 154 hours.

When the eastern farmers get town of Hyannis has the largest per capita of wealth of any town or city in these broad United States. These wealthy people derive their riches from the herds that graze the ranges of sand and eat the hay of the valley lands. The succulent grasses of the hills and the rich blue stem of the valleys are not exceeded anywhere under the sun for feed for cattle. The land may look barren and uninviting but it contributes a vast sum each year to the wealth of the state and breeds a race of folks who are hospitable, generous, wealthy and progressive.

Grain Threshing Progresses Here

Threshing has progressed rapidly in this vicinity the past week and the yield of oats and barley is excellent in quality and quantity. George Hoffeldt had an average of seventy-five bushels to the acre on an eight-acre tract. Many fields are yielding from forty to fifty-five bushels. Mrs. Elmer Phillips helped Mrs. Monta Bomar cook for threshers Wednesday; Mrs. Will Kieper helped Mrs. Bryan Klopping and Mrs. Floyd Conger helped Mrs. Herman Jaeger. Miss Ruby Hale helped Mrs. Clifford Hale. Mrs. Monta Bomar and Mrs. Ray Perdue helped Mrs. W. E. Back Saturday. Mrs. L. P. Lincoln Journal: Representative Hunt of Otoe has placed his finger on what appears to be the chief weakness of the drivers license law which goes into effect the first of September: The law, as he points out, provides for the almost automatic licensing of all drivers at the start. The only definite requirement made for those who apply during the month of September is that they swear to having driven an automobile for a period of six months previous to their application. Mr. Hunt believes that by licensing everyone this year the law becomes a dead letter. There is considerable weight to Mr. Hunt's analysis. By licensing everyone who has driven for a period of six months the law will have caused hardly any change in conditions. Practically every person who is driving now will, if he has seventy-five cents to spend for a license, be able to acquire one. The law will, however, have an opportunity to prove its worth. Since the careful examination of each driver for physical defects before a license is granted, is not required, and if required would be an expensive process, rigid application of the provisions of the law, after most of the state's drivers are licensed, will be the only means of keeping it from becoming a dead letter. If careless and defective drivers are deprived of their licenses and kept off the streets and highways the law will be made effective. It does seem that the legislature has selected a round-about process of eliminating unfit drivers, that of permitting them to drive until they get into trouble, but since such is the law, the state may be able, by rigid enforcement, to obtain some relief from it.

"Garden Frocks" Which Mother Wore Are Back in Style Among the Stylish

BY HARRIET

MIDSUMMER brings back the old-time "garden frocks." Mildly doesn't really need a garden for even garden parties to wear garden frocks. But it was the ceremonial of the quaint functions called garden parties that created the demand for these frilly, feminine, soft-looking and very cool little dresses that have been sadly missing in late years.

Types of afternoon frocks popular this season are, left, a white tulle with a bolero jacket; center, a fruit organdie of edged tiers and collarless neck, and right, a bottle green printed chiffon, basque-like in its cut.

Now they reappear. Recently, at the Ascot races and the garden parties at Ascot, there were more dainty little frocks than sports costumes. In fact, if women did not appear in this type of costume they felt quite out of it.

In America at beaches, country clubs, home parties and for afternoon wear when women feel like dressing up prettily, one or two frilly little dresses are indispensable.

Organdie is very good, printed chiffon is even more popular, printed tulle, lace, georgette, batiste and handkerchief linen with organdie frills all are in use. Waistlines are very prominent, since these are feminine costumes and the very feminine figure today acknowledges waistlines. Soft collar treatment, many full skirts, with flounces, pleats or dipping panels are quite necessary.

One very smart costume that is new and different is made of off-white tulle with a figure of a bunch of blue and white flowers in it. It is new in several ways. There is a little bolero jacket of the tulle with long sleeves and a collarless neck. This is posed over a sleeveless princess frock, with a pout in the back like an old-time bustle. From under the pout there is a flaring, floating panel below the hemline.

Types of afternoon frocks popular this season are, left, a white tulle with a bolero jacket; center, a fruit organdie of edged tiers and collarless neck, and right, a bottle green printed chiffon, basque-like in its cut.

both on the sides and in the back, has shingling edging its tiers, its sleeveless armholes and its modest rounded neck. Long gloves are worn with it, quite in the manner of 20 years ago. It is consoling, however, to note that quite as many short gloves are worn with sleeveless frocks as long ones. When garden frocks are made of figured chiffon, it is very good to have the print colorful and light looking, but on a dark background. Navy blue, black, brown and even soft dark green make good backgrounds. A stunning Ascot garden party frock has huge pale green and beige flowers on a bottle green background. The squarish long scarf that looks like a shawl is bordered in plain green. A parasol of black lace is used with this frock.

THE ODDS ARE BOBBY JONES WILL WIN NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF MEET AGAIN AND HE PROBABLY WILL

BY PHILIP MARTIN

"I" looks like Jones" will be the consensus of the golf hand-cappers again this year when the golfers go down to the sea with clubs at Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 27, to decide the 1929 National Amateur Championship.

Bobby Jones . . . who can beat him in national amateur golf meet at Pebble Beach?

The Atlanta lawyer, winner of the amateur event in 1923 and 1927, will be a favorite at about odds of 3 to 1 when the simon-pures assemble with their marbles. Jones has been playing a wonderful game this year.

There is the possibility of a hard-fought contest, however, with perhaps George Von Elm, Cyril Tolley or Jess Sweetser in the finals with the young putting barrister. Von Elm, it will be remembered, defeated Jones in the finals for the amateur title in 1925, and at Pebble Beach the Los Angeles insurance salesman will be playing in his own back yard.

The fact that the amateur tournament is being held on a seaside course this year gives the British a chance to annex the title, as the English players are used to seaside conditions. Many of the courses in Scotland and England are bordering on the ocean. Besides, Cyril Tolley, this year's British amateur champion, golfers from England who will compete are Eustace Story, Lord Charles Hope, Major Guy Campbell and others.

ONE of the reasons for this is that there usually is a stiff breeze from the ocean, sometimes bringing a mist with it. The country's best professionals disapprove the pace for American League clouters is still shy of 22 years of age! What will a fellow like this do in a couple more years?

Foxx comes from Sudlersville, Md. He is big, with wide shoulders and a chest expansion of more than six inches. He is all muscle and bone and batting eye, controlled by a smart baseball noodle. There was one other like him in the big leagues once—Ed Delahanty, whose exploits with the hickory this rosy-checked lad of Mack's recalls.

Tolley lost to Bobby Jones at St. Andrews by a score of 12 and 11, but the Englishman's game has shown great improvement this year. Tolley, a giant of a man, is a picturesque figure on the links. During the war he drove a tank for the British army. He plays his best golf when it is raining.

JIMMY FOXX, A PUPIL OF "HOME RUN" BAKER, HAS REACHED STARDOM WITH THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

BY PHILIP MARTIN

WHEN Jimmy Foxx, young first sacker of Connie Mack's pennant-bound baseball machine, slugged his way past the 400 mark the other day, Connie Mack was asked if he didn't think the big boy was batting just a trifle over his head.

Jimmy Foxx . . . he's only 22, but a star of utmost importance with the Athletics.

"No, no," replied the sage of the diamond, "he's batting under it. That boy can hit just anything."

Mack has in James Emery Foxx one of the most valuable baseball properties in the big leagues today. And the man who has been setting the pace for American League clouters is still shy of 22 years of age! What will a fellow like this do in a couple more years?

Foxx comes from Sudlersville, Md. He is big, with wide shoulders and a chest expansion of more than six inches. He is all muscle and bone and batting eye, controlled by a smart baseball noodle. There was one other like him in the big leagues once—Ed Delahanty, whose exploits with the hickory this rosy-checked lad of Mack's recalls.

and the veteran took a great interest in the strong young farmer boy. Baker, says Foxx, taught him to bat naturally.

Baker taught him well, for three weeks after Foxx had joined the Eastern nine, as a third baseman, he was sold to the Athletics as a catcher. The nation and fact, Mickey Mack changed his recruit into a first baseman, and Jimmy's work around the sack has been improving wonderfully since he took over that station.

Aside from all that, Foxx has a wicked appetite. He eats a light breakfast, however, consisting of two orders of ham and eggs or wheat cakes, a couple of fishes of oatmeal, four cups of coffee, toast and a few little side dishes like potatoes hardly worth mentioning.

DOC ERLING, rubber for the Mackmen (masses, if you like that 47-cent word), says Jimmy Foxx has everything an athlete needs, with the legs of a sprinter and the constitution of a brick shanty. Along with this Foxx has a disposition that flows along like a bubbling brook. His tastes are all that a baseball manager could ask for, too, as he doesn't go in for loud clothes, late hours and the sort of thing that has been setting a sweetie from the old home town. He likes the nearest.

Baker was managing the team at Eastern, Md., when Jimmy broke in

THE return of Jess Sweetser to the falways after a long illness is another interesting development at Pebble Beach. Sweetser has won a three-year fight with disease and is shooting again in the form he won the championship at Brookline, Mass., in a 3 and 2 battle with Chick Evans. Sweetser was runner-up in the following year when Max Marston won the title at Flossmoor, Ill.

A battle between Jones and Sweetser, Jones and Tolley, or Jones and Tolley would give California one of the golfing thrills it has been looking for. But almost any way you figure, you have to include Jones in the finals with somebody.

CONNIE MACK won't tell you right out who he thinks is the greatest moral spirit on his ball club, but you can almost guess it—the name is Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane.

Recently Mickey was out for a week or more because of injuries, and Mr. Mack used up several reams of Western Union blanks summoning Mickey back to the lineup after the Macks started dropping games. In fact, while Mickey was away, the Mackian aggregation fell into a terrific slump, losing two games in a row.

Mickey was lame when he returned, but he stepped right back in there behind the log, and since then nobody has got very fresh with the Sleepytown nine.

Farm Prices. Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: Are farm prices coming back? asks Congressman Howard. From what and to what? We would like to inquire. We take it from the query that Mr. Howard accepts our generous differentiation between prices and values. Commodity "values" are intrinsic; prices only are subject to fluctuation. While war conditions prevailed there was big and loud talk about the phenomenal advance in land values. To some extent that profited the sellers, but oh, how it fooled the buyers. They are they who choked up the rustling rural banks with frozen securities, the sort that the more you had of them the poorer you became. Yes, farm prices are coming back, but not where they were when we paid a third down and gave our notes for the balance of the purchase price. In princely sums throughout the state.

Those notes went out in land exchanges; And do they freely circulate? No longer on these western ranges The purchasers seem fairly willing To buy twelve dozen for a shilling.

But land is land, and soil is soil, And, cutting out inflation's gas-sy, Still come the full rewards for toil, And those who work grow fat and sassy. On well-tilled farms the price is rising, Not over-fast, but quite surprising.

The corn shoofs up, a noble stand, The wheat is harvested already, And everywhere the price of land is holding strong, and firm, and steady. I say to politicians woolly, That agriculture's doing bully.

Heat in Washington. Lincoln Journal: It is hot in Washington these days. Those who are held there by their duties can testify to the truth of this statement. A combination of high humidity and high temperature makes the life of the summer resident of the nation's capital a particularly uncomfortable experience. This fact made President Coolidge's remark to reporters peculiarly sarcastic, when he was in Washington recently. Remembering perhaps, the hot times they had caused him by their questioning, he hoped these perspiring workers were having "a pleasant summer in Washington."

For the relief of senators, whose work is never done, a cooling system has been installed in the senate chamber. This system, similar to the one in use in the house, is designed to keep the temperature down to a place where working becomes agreeable. The capacity of this system for cooling is equivalent to the melting of 350,000 pounds of ice. When the senate chamber is packed and the galleries filled with 350 pounds of ice for each person. When the senate is transacting business without spectators it provides the equivalent of 3,500 pounds of ice.

Without doubt, the people of the United States are pleased that the senate has been provided with a comfortable place to work during the warm weather months. The high death rate of senators has been the subject of much concern for a number of years. If there is one danger, however, of the serious minded members of the senate undertake to generate heat in the debate sufficient to melt their quotas of coolness, the country will suffer. Their constituents will appreciate moderation.

Blind Man Violinist. Homer, Neb.—Although homeless and blind since early boyhood, William Baker, familiar to hundreds of people in Homer and nearby towns, has earned for himself a place in the hearts of his numerous acquaintances, a reputation as one of the best of "old time" dance musicians, and has built up a candy business in Homer.

Threshing Outfit Burned. Decatur, Neb.—The threshing machine belonging to James Young was demolished by fire near here.

It caught afire from a box which had become hot, while the threshing crew was eating dinner on a farm owned by George B. Eagleton.

Two haystacks full of bundles also were destroyed. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

A grouch suffers in some ways, but he always knows where his lawn-mower is.—Illinois State Register.

The new armored tank with a speed ranging from 60 to 115 miles an hour ought to sell well in Detroit and International Falls.—Washington Post.

A Note of Cheer. (By Dr. A. L. Bixby.) Pray do not sing a mournful song.

But be as happy as a linnnet; Hot weather brings the corn along And makes us richer every minute. Upon the board of trade crop prices Soar, as appears by late advices.

If in your lid are leaves of green, Bestrewed in single file and double, The hot sun beating on your bean Will cause you very little trouble. This simple means would save the nation From every case of heat prostration.

So, let's go forward, every one, With lofty purpose our endeavor; To swat the flies, and dodge the sun Shows we are pretty middling clever. A few weeks more and we will gather The corn and grouch about cold weather.

Let's learn to take things as they come And quit our everlasting roaring; The tides of life are moving some When corn is up and wheat is falling. For farm relief, deserts our fretting. We need about what we are getting.

The politicians pledge a lot, Concerning this, and that, and 'tother. But all their gabble goes for naught Except to foster strife, my brother. Dame nature is the friend and neighbor Whose active help requires our labor.

And much in life that has no charm, Like hot nights in the summer season, Are doing good instead of harm, And yet we grumble without reason. We curse the thing that proves a blessing In bitter words that need suppressing.

"A Nebraska Tariff." Norfolk Daily News: Congressman Charley Sloan is sold on the proposition that the Hawley tariff bill, passed by the house and sent to the senate, is a good Nebraska tariff bill. Mr. Sloan is a tariff man and, as such, might be expected to take a favorable slant at the new measure. But let him tell his story:

"Criticism of the Hawley bill," he says, "is based upon the assumption that the tariff will make non-agricultural competitive articles higher to the consumer. Let us assume that to be true. But let us say at the same time and by the same rule, that the increased tariff will raise the price of farm products practically all of which are competitive now. So the important question is, does the Nebraskan living in the exclusive agricultural state in the union, sell more than he buys? Moreover, the articles which he buys and of which complaint is made, are purchased on an average once in five to ten years, while the farmers' products are marketed at least once, and in many cases, several times during the year. It is safe to say that in Nebraska the advantage arising to the producing seller over the consuming buyer is four to one."

Mr. Sloan argues that if the Hawley bill had been in force during the last year and the importations had remained the same the increased revenue would have been about $130,000,000 and of this about $89,000,000 would have been on farm products and provisions. As to sugar, the congressman sees a special reason why Nebraskans should support a higher duty. This state, he says, produces two pounds of sugar for one that its people consume. If this is so then a sugar tariff is just one way of getting outside money into the state. Whether it will be accepted at par by the farmer who consumes, but does not produce, sugar is another matter.

Anyway, it looks as if the agricultural schedules of the bill proposed to do about as much for the farmer as can be done through the medium of the tariff. There will be differences of opinion as to how much that is.

Nebraska Has Her Poultry Manager. Lincoln, Neb.—Roscoe Hill, of Lincoln, Neb., is the new field manager for the Nebraska Poultry Improvement association. He will supervise all accreditation field work in that state. Last year nearly 100,000 hens in 446 flocks were inspected and accredited.

Indications are that it will require the work of 10 or 12 inspectors to handle all the flocks applying for accreditation this year. Mr. Hill will select the inspectors and supervise the banding of the flocks.

Mr. Hill is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. He has had 10 years of practical experience as a partner with his father, E. C. Hill, who operates a poultry farm and hatchery near Lincoln.

Ship Much Bluegrass. Ewing, Neb.—A carload of bluegrass seed, harvested here, has been shipped to Louisville, Ky. Several other shipments of this kind have been made to the bluegrass state from this section.

Looking Before Leaping

"Looking before leaping" has its application in the telephone business. It would be uneconomical to over-build the telephone system of any community—yet it is necessary to plan years ahead and build in advance so that telephone users always will have service that is satisfactory and adequate to their needs.

This Company must see far in advance—forecasting the growth of the community and provide telephone facilities to meet this growth. Otherwise reliable and economical service could not be provided for the people of this community.

Another FINE FEATURE.. Plymouth has Oversize Tires

YOU will find on Plymouth the largest tires of any car in the low-priced field. Real oversize balloons—4.75—more than ample for this full-size car.

That is why the improved Plymouth, with so much else to talk about, devotes an entire advertisement to oversize tires.

Larger tires mean riding on more air, which in turn means greater buoyancy and comfort. Then, too, larger tires wear longer, add much to appearance and, most important of all, give the car greater traction, a firmer grip on the road which means safety.

From tires to roof, from radiator to gasoline tank, Chrysler engineers have endowed the improved Plymouth with qualities and abilities never before available in a car of low price. Make your own comparisons in your own way.

Coupe, $655; Roadster (with rumble seat), $675; 2-Door Sedan, $675; Touring, $695; De Luxe Coupe (with rumble seat), $695; 4-Door Sedan, $695. All prices f. o. b. factory. Plymouth dealers extend the convenience of financing payments, if desired.

Hog Exhibit Train Will Tour State

Lincoln, Neb.—Sixty-one Nebraska towns have received letters announcing plans for the operation of a special hog exhibit train over the Burlington lines in Nebraska in October.

Local station agents are now taking the matter up with their commercial and civic clubs and making the preliminary arrangements for fall festivals and other attractions in connection with the stop of the special train. The agents will report to Fred L. Taylor, their agricultural agent at Denver.

No official name has been given to the train yet. So far it has been simply "the hog train." Within a few weeks it may have a fitting name.

Exhibits on the train will be built and arranged by the agricultural college extension service and animal husbandry department at Lincoln. Faculty of the institution will also travel with the train to discuss the exhibits and hog raising with those who come through the coaches.

Many Phases Included.

Breeding, feeding, disease prevention, general management, marketing, equipment, etc., will be included in the up to date ideas presented in the exhibits. Hogs furnish about one-third the income of Nebraska farmers. Success with them is said to be dependent upon all the factors just mentioned. The actual experiences of many Nebraska farmers who have been in the hog lot sanitation and pig crop contests will be the foundation for the exhibits. Results of experimental data will also be used.

Dairy, poultry and crop, trains have been operated in the same manner before in the state.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

The recent race riot in North Platte, if race riot it may be called, recalls two or three other riots in Nebraska history.

The first riot accompanied by fatalities occurred in Omaha on February 27, 1872. Several hundred laborers engaged in moving dirt in that city went on strike, and great disorder resulted.

In 1891 a spectacular riot occurred in Omaha. A Negro had been arrested on the charge of criminally assaulting a little girl and lodged in the Douglas county jail.

Nearly 40 years ago two men were hanged by a mob in Hastings. Three men were charged with the murder of a local merchant, and one of the three confessed.

Sorensen's "History of Omaha" tells of the "disappearance" of several men who had taken up claims in the vicinity of that city in the territorial days.

It would be interesting to know how many unsolved murder mysteries Nebraska has had.

William A. Cotton, the oldest Nebraska Mason, and the oldest bank president in the state, died at his home in Nebraska City on July 20, aged 96.

There is still some land in Nebraska to be homesteaded. But there is not very much.

Recently Nebraska newspapers carried a story of the discovery of 150 gold medals in the basement of a home at Farnam.

Rev. Walter Z. Zimmerman, pastor of the Methodist church at Eagle was a passenger on the Rock Island train that was wrecked near Stratton, Colo., recently.

An anniversary that was recalled if not celebrated in years gone by, was overlooked by Nebraskans a week or so ago.

Shreds and Spreads As It Should Be Done

That is what the McCormick-Deering spreader will do for you. Hundreds of farmers say the McCormick-Deering spreader is the best money-making machine they own—it can be used every day of the year and best of all, it makes the job of spreading easy. The load is pulverized and spread evenly beyond the wheels by the widespread spiral. The result is a perfect, uniform distribution which is the secret of successful spreading.

The New

Spreader

We have the latest make of McCormick-Deering spreader which we will be glad to demonstrate. It is built from the ground up to meet the requirements of present-day agriculture and to serve efficiently through the years to come. It embodies the highest principles of design, good workmanship and manufacturing skill.

Weekly reports were made on their operating performance and in every instance the reports have been favorable. To the man who owns one, the McCormick-Deering spreader is a source of satisfaction. His spreading costs are reduced because the durability of the machine minimizes upkeep and extends the investment over years of satisfactory service.

For four years this new product has undergone rigid field and laboratory tests under the direct supervision of Harvester engineers. During the past eighteen months several hundreds of these spreaders have been in constant use in all sections of the country.

If you need a new spreader, see us and we will explain what we have to offer. Any of the McCormick-Deering spreader products will do the thing you want done—increase soil fertility and crop yields.

Remember we have repairs for all machines and can serve you promptly.

Dr. A. L. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: The radio seems to have driven one man raving crazy. The editor of the Livermore, Iowa, Gazette, claims to have listened in when a minister, a road report and a poultry lecture were on the air at the same time, on the same wave length, and this is the stenographic report of what he heard:

"The old testament tells us that baby chicks should detour one mile south of Sallina and listen to the words of the prophets. Be careful in the selection of your eggs and you will find hard surface roads on to Garden City. We find in Genesis the roads are muddy west of the hen houses and clean straw is essential if you would save your soul. After passing thru Leavenworth turn north to Jericho. Three wise men bought a large incubator on account of a bad detour. The baby chicks were troubled with the pip and a bond issue is being talked of in the Holy City. Keep feet dry, live a life of righteousness and turn south one mile west of the schoolhouse. Much care should be used in commanding the sun to stand still as there is a washout on the bridge just south of Paola and the road to salvation is under repair, making it necessary for 70 degrees in the brooder houses at all times. After you leave Winfield, unless you do these things the wrath of the Lord will cause the pin feathers to fall out and detour one mile south. Many are lucky unless the gravel road between Topeka and Lawrence is mixed with the feed. Out of 500 eggs one should get good roads from Boone to Fort Dodge and he commanded Noah to build the Ark just one mile west of Rode. It rained forty days and forty nights, caused an eight mile detour, many tourists from the House of David are trying the Plymouth Rocks mixed with concrete and desire to do right."

Paris Combines Silks and Wools Neatly To Gain Distinctive Note in Frocks

PARIS is making a fetish of combining figured materials and plain in new and novel manner. The idea of yokes and the increasing importance of cuffs and collars all have had their influence. With the breaking up of the straight and narrow lines, details are of increasing importance. Therefore, Paris emphasizes them by introducing different fabrics to make much of them. It is not uncommon in the new Paris modes to find silks and wools combined in the same frock. One may have a plain worsted frock with puff cuffs of gaudy silk and perhaps the yoke and collar of the silk, too. The ends of the sash, the binding of the skirt's tiers, or plippings of panels may be of the silk.

This all means much more attention given to hand-finishing. The woman clever with her needle will welcome this return to the "dress-maker" modes. For there was no good way to make over a straight-line frock of which one tired. Now, modes can be refashioned until Missy herself who hates the needle making the change will hardly recognize the frock she started with.

ONE very stylish dark blue dress in the new styles has four godets of poka-dotted blue and beige silk introduced into its skirt, a slot seaming down the back of the blouse that is of the silk and cuffs and collars of the silk. One can quite fancy a plain, straight-line, ordinary blue frock of worsted made over with very little work into this new cute, belted frock of plain blue and poka-dotted silk.

Still another sample of the way to make old things into the very latest. A brown asperie worsted frock has box pleats all about its skirt, with every box-pleat tan asperie on the inside of brown. Merely slash a plain brown skirt and insert the tan, stitch and press, and you have the latest version. All in all, the new modes give the needlewoman the breaks!

TWO very new Paris models which should be pregnant with suggestions for the modiste seamstress are shown today.

One is a little silk ensemble of green and white poka-dotted crepe, with plain green coat. This coat has puff cuffs and bow ties on the cuffs of the fancy silk. And its collar has one of the newest Paris touches, a bow tie with fancy silk ends.

The frock has three tiers in front and an all-around lower tier that flares to width in the back. This manner of lengthening old frocks that are now too short is not so bad. Add a collar, tie, puff cuffs and each of fancy fabric to any plain colored frock from last winter and then put a low full lounce of the figured fabric on to the bottom and presto, there is a very new Parisian frock.

The second frock shown today is just as rich in suggestions. It is a stunning Paquin creation in black crepe satia combined with red, black and white tartan. There is a deep drop yoke both front and back of the plaid silk and this is cut in points where it joins the plain fabric. Below the plaid appears to the sleeves, the plain fabric makes a wide sleeve that slips into a tight wristband of the plaid. The plaid is inserted in one side of the waistband, to knot into a charming bow and decorative ends that hang almost to the knee.

Both of these could be made quite simply. And, besides being suggestive for made-over things, they are excellent ways of using up two bargain remnants together.
