Return Last Week From Visit West

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baker and Miss Hilda Doring returned home one day last week from a 1,400 mile trip through Nebraska and into Colorado. They visited at the Fred Schuelke home near Cheyenne Wells, Colo. They also visited in and around Arapahoe, Colo., the former home of Mrs. Baker. Crops are very poor from Burlington, Colo., to Arapahoe, Colo., a distance of about fifty miles. At some places near Arapahoe, corn is about one and one-half feet tall and is being cut with headers and some is being cut with mowers and then stacked for feed. A number of corn fields have about four and five foot stalks, but not an ear of corn in the entire field. There is a great difference in crops on the same section of land. Mr. Shielke, an uncle of Mrs. Baker, has different fields of corn on the same section. Some will make twenty bushels per acre, while another field will hardly make five bushels per acre. Hundreds of acres of small grain were not touched. Some was cut, but will not be threshed as there is no grain in it. Wayne county crops are by far the best. Range cattle are very scarce in eastern Colorado.

There is a "Death Chamber" in the FLY-TOX factory. This chamber is about the room size. It is used to test the quality of FLY-TOX as a spray to kill flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, roaches, etc. During a test a large number of young, healthy insects are placed inside the cabinet. These insects are raised in incubators for testing purposes. While the insects are flying and crawling around in the "Chamber of Death," the FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Less than a teaspoonful is used. Instantly there is a change. Within five minutes not a buzz is heard. All insects are dead. To make sure they are really dead, the insects are carefully removed from the "Chamber of Death" and placed in incubators in an effort to revive them. If a wing flutters, the FLY-TOX tested never leaves the factory. This test is your guarantee of FLY-TOX quality. It does what you want it to do—kill insects in and about your home. Yet, FLY-TOX is positively harmless to people. FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research fellowship. It will not stain. Has a delightful perfume-like fragrance. There is only one FLY-TOX—insist upon the genuine in bottles with blue labels.—Adv.

There are still a few ultra-conservatives left among us. Every now and then we hear of somebody's being run over by a street car instead of an automobile.—Nashville Banner.

Calliope Wail
Graces Screen

A sixtyfour year old wail familiar to amusement seekers throughout the world has been brought to the motion picture screen. It is the tuneful whine of the circus steam calliope and it is heard in "Dangerous Curves," Clara Bow's new Paramount talking picture.

The steam calliope first joined the circus in 1885 with the Hagenback-Wallace show. It was a tremendous sensation and proved a great crowd gatherer. One by one the other shows took up the calliope until now it is as much a part of the circus as the "big top," lemonade, peanuts and elephants.

In every stand or town played the calliope provides part of the ballyhoo by parading the streets. In circus parlance this is called "tooting up."

All phrases of circus life from the action in the rings to the colorful routine existence of the performers were pictured in the new Bow picture. The "It" girl portrays a performer who turns from an equestrian act to a clown stunt. Richard Arlen, her leading man, takes the part of a tight-rope performer.

"Dangerous Curves" will be the feature on the program at the Gay theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, September 15, 16 and 17.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 14 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, Sept. 12, 1929. Vol. 4

So far we haven't that American fence is too high. The second year in high school is also the year they commence to want to learn to run the family. Look over our display of hog and poultry houses at the fair this week. We know a man who's been planning to go fishin' every week-end for the last three months—and he hasn't gone yet. Barber—"Haven't I shaved you before, sir?" Customer—"No, I got those scars in France." The other day a customer complained because we could not make the same price on our American fence as we quoted to him elsewhere. In order to even up the fence he bought with ours, he should have purchased it at ten per cent less because it weighs ten per cent less than ours. The price per rod should be governed by the weight of the fence. Usually it is. Find out how much a competitive fence weighs before jumping to the conclusion that American fence is too high. "Mi Gosh, Carhart," said a customer a few days ago. "I knew they had a lot of good hard coal up in Alaska, but what I did not know was that it could be hauled all the way down the Yukon river through the Panama canal and up the Mississippi river plus a rail haul to Wayne for the very low price of $16.50. Yukon is good hard coal, you may depend on that. Cheer up! Now that your vacation is over you can start resting up again. Yesterday we were talking to a tourist who reported 3300 miles in three weeks with "no runs, no hits, no errors." See you at the fair.

As many as 6 to 15 different types of tires will fit your rims—you could pay any one of the 6 to 15 different prices asked for them and get tire service. You, however, may drive your car differently than the next fellow does. Maybe you drive it harder, faster—or maybe easier, slower. Perhaps you'll drive it thousands of miles farther—or thousands of miles less. You travel different roads, with different loads.

There is one type and size of tire, therefore, which is the most economical buy for you—for your particular needs. That's where our service is different. We help you to pick that tire. Often we save a customer money by pointing out where a low-price tire is all his driving will require.

We carry all types of tires—all Goodyears. By properly tiring your car—at lowest cost to you—we know we'll win your permanent trade. Come in, talk over your needs—no obligation.

A powerful argument against robbing bee hives comes from Lebanon, Ind., where a man, attempting such unlawful effort, was attacked by bees, frightening him into heart failure. Funeral and burial followed.

Congress is again pulling and hauling over the tariff which is not new. It is a complex problem, rather sectional than political, and one which must be handled with care to avoid injustice to some while trying to do justice to others.

Tomorrow will be Friday, the 13th, and we expect it will be an occasion of exceptional good luck, friendly weather, big crowd at the fair, everybody pulling with the current and therefore everybody serene and satisfied. We look forward to a great day for everybody and everything.

A society note from Chicago states that a wife who is said to make $300 every week playing poker, has been denied alimony of $100 a week from a husband who says he makes only $75 a week. The husband charges his wife with habitual intoxication. The wife charges her husband with spending $150 a week to keep up a stable of race horses, which he denies. Altogether the domestic tranquility of the family is seriously disturbed.

The weather last week was not the best sort for holding county fairs, and Cedar county's annual show suffered somewhat from the unfavorable elements. But as the week drew to a close the weather grew worse. Rain all day Sunday with threatening clouds Monday gave a gloomy prospect for the Wayne county fair this week. Added to prevailing moisture and bad roads was the gov-

LOOKING AHEAD.

Harry S. Byrne of Omaha, talked about modern business before the Kiwanis club following its Monday luncheon Monday, and he stressed the fact that consolidations are taking place in most lines and that powerful chains are being developed. He mentioned the large returns realized from ownership of stocks, and suggested that people would turn more and more to such investments for sources of profit. How the tendency to business combinations will affect the country of this country, he did not predict. As chain institutions multiply in centers everywhere, he might well have said that opportunities to engage in banking, merchandising or other lines of business become fewer and less inviting. He might have suggested that towns that lie down to listen to the birds or to whistle smooth surfaces on discarded timbers during working hours are bound to slip and keep on slipping until scant excuse to prolong life remains. He might have suggested that towns cannot shake hands with themselves in congratulation over the fact that they were born and survived pioneer struggles and then depend on original momentum or the favor of heaven to insure longevity. He might have suggested that some towns, watching the procession go by and studying different cobweb formations and bat aerodynamics, will shrink until they become little more than gasoline stations or waiting posts. He might have suggested that centers that are alive to grab opportunities and that follow generous and constructive public policies will manage to live and to grow steadily if not rapidly. In his conclusion, the speaker called attention to Franklin's advice for thrift and honesty, advising that such sterling qualities are still the best way to success in all lines of endeavor.

ernment forecast for a cold, rainy week. People thought the fair was doomed to failure. But Monday night the sky cleared and Tuesday morning warm sunshine look possession. The good omen that had hung over the fair since its organization returned, and the promise of fair weather lifted drooping spirits and put snap in final plans for the big show.

The Wayne county fair which had exhibits in place and opened in earnest yesterday, gives promise of an unprecedented attendance, amply justified by the showing of products and the variety of entertainment features. In specimens from fields and herds and flocks, none better can be found anywhere. Attractions to amuse are new and interesting. Continuation of favorable weather will weld another link into the organization's chain of success.

Every fellow's spirits vary—sometimes high in the air; other times as low as a snake's chasms. When one is disappointed and hurt, his temperature drops and the world looks gloomy and forbidding. But if he does not lie down in the harness, he soon sees reassuring signs, and he rises from the dumps as quickly as he lapsed into them. If he stirs himself to remove obstacles or dissipate bogeys, he soon finds himself back to normal or even above that point. Action is needed to absorb a surplus of sunshine and get away from hypochondria and blue devils.

Two leading Nebraska weekly newspapers observed birthday anniversaries last week. The Wahoo Wasp was 55 years old and the Holdrege Citizen scored 45. The Wasp was started to aid the building of the Union Pacific railroad across Saunders county, but it soon became a fixture, developing into a useful and valuable property. W. T. Pickett is publisher of the newspaper, succeeding his father who retired some years ago. The Wasp has been in possession of the Picketts for thirty-five years, and it enjoys well earned success. The Holdrege Citizen is the oldest newspaper in Phelps county, establishing itself when the town was started and was struggling to its feet. The Citizen is typical of many well grounded and progressive Nebraska weeklies which are giving genuine service and are thus enabled to make substantial headway, taking rightful places among most desirable instead of least desirable institutions of their respective communities.

Wonderful Outlook.
The farm-minded individual that has been privileged to travel at all extensively over Wayne county during the past two months cannot fail to be impressed with the favorable crop outlook. It is rare to see a field of corn that is not bristling with large ears. Reports from farmers that the small grain crop was the greatest they ever raised are common; others not wishing to credit an unreliable memory for early statistics still feel safe in declaring this the best crop in twenty years. Pastures are holding up in exemplary style, few being burned up as so often happens at this time of year. Farmers during the past few weeks have been busy cutting weeds along roads and fence rows and as a result Wayne county may be said to present a truly "dressed up" appearance. To one with an Emersonian viewpoint, Wayne county is even more impressive. The landscape wherein one sees the countryside as a whole, and not the individual farm, easily induces one to believe that the aesthetic values of Nebraska are fully as valuable as the property values. The privilege of viewing and riding through such practical beauty is not limited to those holding the properly recorded deeds.

The material results of this year's crop to Wayne county will be enormous. The increase in AUTUMN.

Light frosts in low places have been reported, but they have been so light that no visible damage to tenderer vegetation is apparent. It is hoped that freezing blasts may be withheld until maturing corn has had a chance to become extra sound and put on all possible weight. If frost remains aloof until October, we will have a corn yield of surpassing quality as well as quantity, and we need it to supply the demand and bolster up cash resources. With damaging cold thus deferred, we may meet the exactions of winter in a better state of mind. With greater relish we may watch the miracle of changing foliage—the tinting of leaves, the crimson blush and purple hue, the brown and gray, the fall and dissolution. Leaves crumpled and cracking underfoot and naked trees with limbs stretching up and out, presage the grip of winter—lengthened nights and shortened days, lowered temperatures and blankets of snow. Requirements of winter are not approving if fruition of the growing season is up to standard and if conditions lend due profit to industry. Their cold inspires ambition and whips up energy, and the melancholy of drab skies is negated by the sunshine of plenty and prosperity. But recurring seasons hint of multiplying years and of the probability of checking out before life's work has been finished.

economic wealth that has been created out of the bounty of Nature and the labor of man makes available to farmer and business man funds to reduce indebtedness, vamp and revamp savings and permanent values, extend property holdings and add to equipment and other necessities.

Psychologically, the stimulation of success will rejuvenate flagging spirits, remove old woes and regrets and turn faces to the sunshine. To know that want and privation have retreated beyond the last danger line serves to give a renewed energy to manual and mental workers. Youthful ambition will again take charge of emotional life and Wayne county progress should be phenomenal.

The permanent values resulting from nature's bounty should not be entirely economic. The faith of the pioneer in his God and himself is confirmed again, and doubting hearts should have doubts removed. Upon a firm foundation of renewed faith it is easy to believe that "God is in His heaven, all is right with the world."—T. S. Hook.

Poisoning Minded.
Omaha World-Herald: "The League of Nations," said Premier Briand in his resounding speech before the league assembly the other day, a speech which should take rank among all the great orations of history, "is pursuing without mercy those who are responsible for evils like opium and morphine, but what I still more want the league to do is to hunt down those who insidiously poison the minds of children and fill future generations with ideas of strife and conflict."

"See to it," said M. Briand, especially addressing the mothers of the world, "see to it that your neighbors love the people of other lands as well as of their own. See to it that they are taught that war is impossible and that peace must reign forever."

It is a big job that M. Briand sets out to do, and a herculean assignment which he gives to the mothers of the world. The fact that it is a big job, the best indication of how far humanity still is from reaching the stage of civilization where reason, rather than foolish and unreasoned prejudice, rules the world. It should be no great task for civilized peoples to forswear war.

Anything as terrifically painful and horrible should be easy to give up. But the trouble is that war and the art of war have for so long been glorified as grand and beautiful things. The whole of the stir in the story of the sequence of human deeds and actions has been made to come from the clash of battle. War has always been dressed up with romance and with fanfare, from the days of the clang of sword upon shield on the windy plains of Troy to the days of George Creel.

And for thousands of years children have been taught, as we still teach them, not to love the people of other countries as well as of their own, but rather that it is patriotic and virtuous to suppose that everybody who has been born outside of one's own country is inferior and probably hostile.

The sober realization today, however, is that the last war was unspeakable in its horror, and that the next one, when it comes, will surpass the last in monumental and scientific killing at least as much as the last surpassed any other before it. We have come to learn so much about harnessing the terrible powers of nature and launching them against human life that it is not at all impossible to suppose that soon a war might be staged, devastating enough to wipe out the human race.

This possibility has stirred the peoples of the world to begin to think more seriously about ending wars than they have ever thought before. But the only way war will ever be stamped out is to substitute good will for ill will, and that substitution must be made in the minds of children, by teaching them that narrow nationalism is unpatriotic rather than patriotic, and that the trumpings and rappings of war are barbarous rather than grand.

Of the 285 persons injured, 30 were permanently disabled.

Twenty-two persons were injured and 13 were killed in public accidents. Nine of the deaths resulted from swimming. One child was accidentally shot while playing with a weapon which was believed to be unloaded. One person died from an insect bite. Another was struck by lightning. One man was killed when he stepped on the highway and attempted to help a farmer stop his runaway team.

Home accidents caused 33 injuries during the last two weeks. Falls still take their toll—16 out of 33. Other causes were: Cuts and burns, 8; sprains and infections, 2; power machinery, 2; and miscellaneous, 5.

Farm employment accidents were responsible for 18 injuries, 7 permanent disabilities and 6 deaths. The causes were: Farm machinery, 12; farm animals, 12; falls, 4 and miscellaneous, 3. Seven runaways resulted in 3 deaths.

Industrial employment was responsible for 7 permanent disabilities. Causes of the accidents were: Cuts and burns, 3; falls, 9; cave-in, 3. Two persons were badly injured and one was killed by electric shocks. Electricity is a great labor saving power. Why not learn to use it safely?

Prosperity.
Lincoln Journal: The indifference of farmers and business men generally as to what type of farm relief may come out of the present efforts of the administration to set up better marketing organizations for agriculture is explained by the report just made public by the federal reserve bank representing the district of which Nebraska is a part. This states that the volume of general business in the district rose to the highest level of all records in July.

The outstanding development, the report says, was a general betterment of agricultural conditions. Wheat and corn crops are smaller, but the advance in prices is much greater than the decrease in production. As a result of high prices prevailing, all records for wheat marketing at the five primary markets were broken. Prices for cattle and hogs were also up, and this brought the heaviest marketing of both kinds of meat animals in five years.

Bank deposits increased, and all credit demands were promptly met. Retailers and wholesalers sold more goods than they did in July a year ago, while lumber sales were heavily increased. Banks have been liquidating their reserves by selling their investments, and unloading a flood of credit that has been used in increased amounts. Payments by check, which are a standard method of measuring the volume of business transacted, were made in a larger volume than the ten years' statistical record of the bank showed. Loadings of freight cars, another index of trade conditions, were also heavier.

At the same time savings accounts continue to increase.

These figures assure a good volume of trade for the next six months, because they indicate that the buying power of the farmer, through the sale of his cash crops and his livestock, for a larger total sum than in years, has been greatly increased, and that is the foundation for optimism in this section.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: The dominant feature of the economic situation in the middle west region is the certainty of a greatly reduced corn crop this year, owing to the severe heat and dry winds the latter part of August. The corn belt, according to careful estimates, will suffer a reduction in millions of bushels. That is to say that the yield will be reduced. It is not to say that farmers generally who raise corn will get less for their crop than if the drought had not come. They probably will receive more than if the yield had been heavier.

Corn is going up in price. It cannot help it. Wheat and other small grain also are short this year, and will command better prices. Corn would have advanced in sympathy with smaller grains, but now with a short crop sure to be harvested it will make its own way to a higher price.

This means, of course, higher prices for hogs. Hogs are corn anyway, and feeders may plan accordingly. The higher corn price will mean an advance in hogs. Every farmer will know that. The law of supply and demand is going to figure powerfully in the economic situation affecting agriculture. This, together with the operation of the farm relief act, ought to bring gratifying results before crops are planted again next year. The farm board is making headway in administering the act and the outlook for agriculture is brighter than at any time since depression came nearly 10 years ago.

Industry in July had an output, according to the federal reserve board's figures, much greater than in the same period last year. The principal increases noted were of iron and steel, nonferrous metals, cement, brick, glass, motor cars and textiles. Lumber showed no change from July, 1928, but in all other lines there was a heavy increase in production.

Trade has been good throughout the country. It has been by far the best summer in merchandising in many years. In fact goods handled this past summer far exceed the turnover in any previous year both in volume and value. There were some spotted sections, which was to be expected, but, generally speaking, the activity was satisfactory.

The stock market has been most active with the usual fluctuations. Now and then there has been an appreciable irregularity, but for the most part there has been an even tone in the markets. At this time with money plentiful and with industry in excellent condition, with the buying power strong and the agricultural situation clearing up, the outlook for business is exceptionally good.

Jerusalem Tragedies.
Dr. A. L. Bixby: What a sorry picture the recent tragedies in and around Jerusalem. Back of it all old superstitions, old race hatreds and prejudices and envies that people should have striven to overcome instead of getting rid of one another. The Arabs of the desert were irritated by the tireless observance of the Jewish people making lamentation over the destruction of the sacred city, once ruled over by David, Solomon and others supposed to have been the chosen of the Lord. Really, in this age of reality and high visibility; of scientific speculation, and some little demonstration; of keener spiritual observation and saner religious conversation, the wailing wall at Jerusalem seems a redundancy, a superfluity. It would be better to take it down and forget a local glory that faded with the centuries, remembering that everywhere is as much God's country as anywhere; every people as much God's people as any people, and we are all headed for the New Jerusalem where there are no temples made by hands, and no griefs over which the inhabitants will be called to mourn.

Market Report.
Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards.

General live stock markets carried a bearish undertone this week but declines were not extensive in any department. Local receipts were moderate and light, causing prices to hold up better than at other centers where sharp losses were reported on some classes.

Cattle receipts were much heavier in the aggregate at leading centers on the opening day of the week than on the previous Monday, the increase amounting to 36,000 head at the 13 main markets. Local supplies were about even with a week ago.

Beef steers and yearlings moved at steady to a quarter lower prices on Monday and firmness was noted on the following day with the lower grades receiving the best attention for a change.

The best cattle offered were 1,000-pound steers that topped at $16.25. Other sales were made at $15.00 to $16.10 with the big bulk at $13.00 to $15.00. Plain warm-ups ranged down to $12.00 and under. Practically no western speers were taken by the killers and sales were made mostly from $1100 down.

Corned cows and heifers were scarce and the market ruled steady. Load lots of heifers sold at $12.00 to $14.00 with a bunch at $14.50 and another, off a load of steers, at $15.00. Cows brought $9.00 to $10.50 with a few koshers above $11.00.

Grass butcher stock was in fairly good demand and the market held a steady basis. Not enough grass heifers were offered to really test the trade. Bulk of the grass cows sold at $7.00 to $8.00 with good quality fleshy kinds $9.00 and better and plain grades sold largely at $5.50 to $6.25.

The butchering market advanced a quarter. Bulk of the medium sausage grades sold at $7.75 to $8.50. Veals were strong to 50c higher with the top to packers at $14.50.

The stocker and feeder market held steady with a touch of weakness on the planer grades. Inquiry from the country picked up this week and indications point to a good clearance at the close.

Sales were made on real good light weights at $12.00 and $12.10 with the big bulk of the medium grades at $9.00 to $11.00. Common lots ranged down to $7.50 and under. Feeding cows brought $6.25 to $7.50 and heifers on up to $10.50.

Hog receipts were meager at this center on Monday and Tuesday and the market held up well in spite of sharp reductions at other centers until some grades sold as high here as they did at Chicago. Sorted light hogs took a decline but the general run of butchers and sows did not weaken much.

On the second session, the top was $10.00. Bulk of the light to medium weight butchers sold at $9.50 to $10.00 with strong and heavy grades at $9.25 to $9.50 with mixed and extreme weights at $9.00 and below. Most of the sows sold at $8.25 to $8.60 with a few to $8.75 and down to $7.85. Stags brought $8.00 to $8.50. A few choice light western pigs topped at $10.50, Monday.

Nowadays a vacation period is usually nothing but a dash in an automobile.—Louisville Times.

Riots in Palestine.
Lincoln Journal: When Palestine was taken over by the British under mandate from the League of Nations that government pledged itself to encourage the development of that country as a Jewish homeland. The Arabs, who outnumbered the Jews seven to one at that time, resented this policy and the present riots in the Holy Land may be traced to this circumstance. Under the British control the Jews have been drifting into Palestine. In six years the proportion of Arabs to Jews has been reduced to between four and five to one. Unemployment has slowed this migration.

A number of minor racial conflicts have taken place in Palestine but none of them have been of much importance. The Jews have gone their own way and have multiplied and prospered. Jewish enterprise has done much toward making the barren land fruitful and toward building up industries of various kinds.

But the Moslems still greatly outnumber the Hebrews and they resent the progress the latter race is making. They also resent the policy of the British government that a serious riot has broken out. The peacefully minded Arab leaders have been unable to stay this outbreak of fanaticism.

Extensive British military occupation of the country seems the only remedy at present. With British soldiers policing the rioting areas, peace may be restored. Speedy action is needed to prevent loss of further lives and the British are using every swift means of conveyance for the transportation of troops into the afflicted country.

A Good Story from Real Life.
Omaha World-Herald: The story of Fred Paffenrath—one of Omaha's best beloved citizens—might well have graced a page torn from one of Horatio Alger's books.

61 he was in the employ of one business man. Appointed at the age of 20 manager of an important business, he held that position for 41 years right here in Omaha. He discharged his duties so faithfully that in addition to his work as manager of the Omaha business he was given controlling hand over 15 other stores owned by his employers.

Now after 44 years of faithful and efficient service the Omaha business is turned over to Fred Paffenrath for his very own—and all as reward for his faithful service.

That is an inspiring story for the young men of today. Likewise it provides a fine example for other employers who have profited from years of faithful service rendered by efficient employees.

Mr. Paffenrath has not only been faithful to his employers but he has been faithful all along the line to Omaha. A man of tremendous energy and boundless enthusiasm, he has helped materially in everything that has been put forth for the advancement of Omaha during the past 41 years. It is a great thing for a man to obtain the reward he has so well earned. It is even greater for his fellow citizens to rejoice over that good fortune. It pays for a town to be ever appreciative of the advancement of one of its deserving citizens. That is why Omaha is rejoicing today with Fred Paffenrath.

Incidentally those who know Mr. Paffenrath personally have learned that in the storm and the sunshine through which this beautiful city of ours has passed during the last 41 years he has never lost his cheerfulness. These will understand that "it pays to greet them with a smile."

About Nebraska and Nebraskans
Will M. Maupin.

The Nebraska City News-Press is preparing to celebrate its Diamond Jubilee with a special edition. The Press was the first newspaper printed in Nebraska. A newspaper called the "Palladium" and ostensibly a Nebraska Territory newspaper, had been set up and printed in Iowa. But the Press was actually the first Nebraska newspaper production. The type was set by Thomas Morton, and he operated the antediluvian press on which it was printed. Many of the spectators who watched Tom operate the press were Otee Indians.

The Press was consolidated with the News a year or two ago, and the Nebraska City Daily News-Press is now not only one of the middle west's most successful "small city" dailies, but it is the oldest newspaper in Nebraska.

It would require multiplied columns to give in detail what has transpired in Nebraska since that day 75 years ago when Tom Morton set the last line, locked up the forms and printed the first newspaper ever printed on Nebraska soil. Then there was not a mile of railroad in Nebraska; now there are more than 6,000. Then there were more Indians than whites in Nebraska Territory. There were fewer whites in the territory than there are citizens in either Hastings, Grand Island or North Platte. Then women wore big chignons and their forms looked like clappers in a bell; now they wear very little and look like clappers without the bells. Men wore plug hats and boots, and women wore chignons and laced so tight they looked like weinervusters. The swiftest messages were carried in stage coaches, for there wasn't a telegraph wire in the territory.

But why continue? The files of the News and the Press make a wonderful history of a wonderful state.

Recently this column offered Will Chamberlain's plaintive reply to Bess Gearhart Morrison's tribute to Nebraska roasting ears. Will is now, and has been for years, doing penance on Chicago newspapers. When Mrs. Morrison received Will's tearful rhyme she sat right down and wrote him as follows:

My dear Will Chamberlain, your words Show that you love Nebraska's corn. Why have you gone to city herds And left the land where you were born? Can wealth or fame ever repay The poverty of soul in chains? Can all Chicago's art display The thrill of sunset on our plains? Come back to folk who love you best— Where friendships ripen with the years; Come back to our glorious mid-west— To squirty, juicy roasting ears.

A Japanese farm boy near Paxton is the champion baby beef grower of Nebraska. "Them durn foreigners is just a takin' th' country."

Governor A. J. Weaver is the only living president of a Nebraska constitutional convention. There are, however, a number of survivors of the constitutional convention of 1875, which, by the way, was not the first constitutional convention in Nebraska as stated by many papers recently. Of course there are many survivors of the 1920 convention, over which Gov. Weaver presided.

The Wahoo Wasp celebrated its 55th anniversary by issuing a handsome special edition. And Editor Herb Crane last week celebrated the close of his 47th year on the Bloomington Advocate-Tribune. Herb admits that he hasn't made much money but insists that he has had a whale of a good time. He says the only change he notices is that "A lot of things I did years ago look mighty foolish now."

One rainy day and another one that was cold and threatening probably prevented the state fair from reaching the 500,000 attendance mark last week. But the attendance was more than 10,000 higher than ever before. The new grand stand's receipts for the week will considerably more than take care of the first installment of debenture bonds.

Times do change. Recently a great furor was raised because Norfolk proposed staging a "bull fight." Nearly 30 years ago South Omaha staged a "bull fight" and the governor of Nebraska, Ezra P. Savage, attended and said he enjoyed it. The only real excitement was furnished by a range cow, the bulls refusing to fight. But the cow chased all the matadors and picadors out of the arena.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stoker and four children, of Neola, Iowa, came Wednesday to visit Mrs. Stoker's uncle, D. J. Cavanaugh, and other relatives.

County Board, Wayne, Nebraska, September 3, 1929. Board met as per adjournment. All members present. Minutes of meeting held August 20, 1929, read and approved. Comes now Mrs. Garwood Logan and says that for the year 1928, she was assessed on a valuation of $1,500.00 on lot 10 and S 1/4 of lot 9, block 1, Jones Addition to Carroll, Nebraska, which made the tax $60.60. That for the year 1927 this same property was assessed at $1,150.00 which would make the tax $46.46. She paid the tax under protest for the reason that an error was made in changing the assessment for 1928 over 1927 and she now asks that the county treasurer be ordered to refund the sum of $14.14. On motion such refund is allowed and the county treasurer is ordered to refund to the said Mrs. Garwood Logan the sum of $14.14. Whereas, a petition has been filed which contains the names of 72 teachers of the county, petitioning the county commissioners of Wayne county to allow a sum equal to not less than 2 1/2 cents nor more than 8 cents for each of the 3,204 pupils of school age in the county, out of the general fund of the county, to help defray the expenses incident to assembling and carrying on the annual school exhibit at the 1929 Wayne county fair.

On motion of Rethwisch, seconded by Koch, that we allow 5 cents per pupil for the year 1929 and that the sum of $160.20 be allowed the Wayne County Fair and Agricultural association for such expense. Voted as follows: Ayes: Erxleben, Rethwisch and Koch. Nays: None. Whereupon Chairman Erxleben declared the motion carried and award allowed. The following claims are on motion audited and allowed, and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown, warrants to be available and ready for delivery on September 14, 1929:

Friends Amazed To See Her Out

"Since I took the Sargon treatment my friends are simply astonished to see me looking so well and walking around like I do. It is even hard for me to realize. "I had been suffering for twenty years with neuritis and could only get around a little in the house. For the past several years I have had high blood pressure and have been in a generally run-down condition. I was very nervous and could not sleep well at night. At times I was troubled with constipation. "No medicine reached my case until I tried Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Now I am no longer bothered with neuritis or high blood pressure and all my pains are gone. I can get out and take long walks now, for the first time in years. The pills are very mild, but effective and completely overcome my constipation. "It gives me a lot of pleasure to tell my friends about the Sargon treatment, because it is the best medicine I ever used in my life."—Mrs. Hattie DeYoung, 236 Ninth Ave., Council Bluffs, Nebraska's Pharmacy, Wayne, Neb., Agents.

A Bank That Fortyfour Years Have Tested and Found Strong

Fortyfour years of sound, progressive, helpful banking! That is the record of the First National Bank of Wayne which was evolved from the pioneer Logan Valley Bank on August 25, 1885. After this long period as a National Bank, it is able to review a record of development that is most gratifying and reassuring.

The First National Bank's steady growth has been closely linked with that of the local and surrounding communities. It has been in harmony with the community and a part of the community. Constructively progressive and at the same time soundly conservative may well express its successful experience. It has been a source of strength to worthy enterprise, and it has helped steer many a bark over dangerous waters. It has been sustaining, and in return it has been wonderfully sustained.

The First National Bank has all the functions of a big city institution, and its endeavor is to make itself more useful. An important auxiliary is its savings department which is turned to advantage by a steadily increasing number of patrons. It opens the way to systematic saving, and its popularity is amply warranted by results.

The First National, mounting as a tower of financial strength, invites additions to its army of depositors. No account is too small to receive the most careful attention. Sound business methods are reflected in the minutest details, and every one, regardless of the size of his bank account, is given utmost consideration and is treated with utmost courtesy.

Reviewing its history, The First National see a future full of bright and encouraging promise.

Mysterious Boy Is Being Sought
West Point, Neb., Sept. 6.—More than 100 men made a futile search last night about five miles northeast of West Point for a boy, believed to be either a runaway lad, or held by kidnapers, who has been seen in that neighborhood several times in the past two or three days.

The mysterious boy, who is about 8 years old, is wearing overalls and a straw hat. He is accompanied by a spotted white dog. Whenever he sights any person, the boy runs and hides. Three prominent farmers in that community have seen the lad.

People of West Point about 11 o'clock last night were summoned by the fire whistle to join in the search.

Sheriff Sexton and a party of men resumed the search this morning.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans
Will M. Maupin.

Nebraska! Nebraska in September! Things a lookin' purty fine. Mighty glad I am a member In this good ol' state o' mine. Got no desire to quit her— She is mighty good t' me. More o' sweet, less o' bitter. An' o' good things full an' free.

September in Nebraska! Overhead th' skies o' blue Makin' joy o' ev'ry task you. Find you're called upon t' do. Haze o' early autom. On th' sun's gold an' brown That September time has brought a com. Long th' lanes that lead t' town.

Nebraska in September! Golden harvests all about. All God's goodness we'll remember. As we sing with joyful shout. Sing her praises, loud an' happy. For she's leadin' all th' rest. Always movin' fast an' snappy. O' Nebraska's always best!

Fred A. Hovey, a former resident of Lincoln, died at his home in Pasadena, Calif., a few days ago. His death recalls an interesting episode in the political history of the capitol city. Mr. Hovey was the last of eleven Lincoln councilmen who served time in jail for contempt of court. That was in 1887. Mayor A. J. Sawyer and eleven of the twelve members of the city council were fined by a federal district judge for refusing to obey a court order, and upon refusal to pay the fines were taken to Omaha for "safe keeping." On the same train that bore them to Omaha was Genio M. Lambertson, their attorney, who kept right on to Washington and secured from Justice Miller of the supreme court a habeas corpus order which brought their release after three days. One councilman, N. C. Brock, was out of the city when the federal court order was issued and ignored.

Mayor Sawyer and the council started in to clean up the city by closing the gambling dens and the brothels. Underworld representatives secured a federal injunction restraining them from proceeding with the clean-up, but the mayor and council paid no attention to it, hence the arrest. It is believed that Mr. Hovey was the last survivor of the "Immortal Twelve," for Mr. Lambertson, the attorney, was included in the number.

At the recent summer session of the Nebraska Press Association at Hastings, Bess Gearhart Morrison was the chief speaker at the banquet, her subject being "Nebraska." In the course of her address, after telling some of her experiences abroad, she said: "I would rather have a fresh, juicy, squirty roasting ear of Nebraska corn, dripping with Nebraska butter, than all the 'a la's', 'entrees', and 'd'oeuvres' of European cities."

This tribute to Nebraska came to the notice of Will Chamberlain, former Nebraskan but long a newspaper man in South Dakota, and he sat down and wrote Mrs. Morrison as follows:

"Oh, Mrs. Morrison! Lay off! Why do you sitch a picture draw! You do not mean to treat us rough. You do not fracture any law. But your Nebraska roasting ears, Squirtin' and juicy, fragrant cob,

To eyes afar would bring the tears, While feasting others face the job.

"You do not aim to torture, taunt, You only aim to laud our own, But your fine fancies—how they haunt, When one has drifted from their zone. So, when you speak again, I pray Your words may thro' with west-ern cheers, But for the absent lovers lay Less emphasis on roasting ears.

LaVona Jean Rouse of Meadow Grove is only 5 years old, but she has already something of a record. LaVona Jean has thirteen living grandparents. She had fourteen three years ago, but one has since died. She has a great-grandfather, who is 71, and a grandmother who is 46. Also a great-grandmother who is 75, and a great-great-grandfather who is 90.

After reading this you can believe anything Ripley tells you. "Abe" Groh, a well known Omaha newspaper man visited Cuba about four years ago. While there he invested $250 in a young Cuban. That's "Believe It or Not No. 1."—Groh having $250 to invest. A year went by and Groh heard nothing from his Cuban friend. Now comes "Believe It or Not No. 2." Suddenly Groh began receiving dividends from Cuba. They came regularly every six weeks and in a few months aggregated far more than the original investment. They are still coming. Groh has just returned from a trip to Europe, accompanied by his wife, and the trip was financed by the dividends from that Cuban investment.

You just can't keep 'em down—These Nebraska boys of ours. Lloyd B. Wilson was born in Plattsmouth in 1893. Before he had finished high school he was acting as night telephone operator in the Plattsmouth office at $15 a month. Later he climbed poles and strung wires. He has been in the telephone business ever since he graduated from high school. He kept climbing, not poles, but the ladder of success. He became commercial superintendent of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. at Omaha. In 1925 he became commercial engineer of the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. at New York. Last week he was elected president of four Chesapeake and Potomac telephone companies which serve Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. Now his salary is more than thousands.

Fiftyone years ago this summer Dr. Amri Leander Bixby, better known as "Doc," and his brother, John Bixby, founded the Nance County Journal at Fullerton. A year later the Methodist church at Fullerton was founded. Last week "Doc" Bixby went back to Fullerton and was the principal speaker at the golden jubilee of that church. It is only a year than he received dollars a week when he began service with a telephone company.

The oldest postoffice employee in Nebraska in point of continuous service is Royal S. Mole, who has served in the Omaha postoffice for 46 years. He is 71 years old and quite a bit past the red and white, but because of his efficiency and his popularity he has been granted three extensions. But he will have to retire August 20, 1930.

Wonderful Farm Machinery Famous McCormick-Deering Lines

We have McCormick-Deering machines in stock and will have them on exhibition at the Wayne county fair this week. See these machines at the fair and note the distinct advantages they offer.

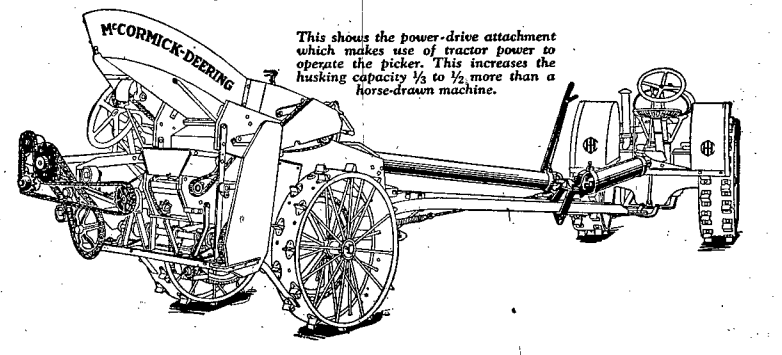

Four-Cylinder Power Plants

The Standard in Harvester Design

All McCormick-Deering tractors 10-20, 15-30 and Farmall—have the modern power plant, a fully enclosed, heavy-duty 4-cylinder engine proved by our many years' of farm power development to be the most practical power plant for the tractor. We began a quarter-century ago with a 1-cylinder design, progressed to the 2-cylinder types and outgrew the 2-cylinder period just as the automobile has done.

We Now Have the McCormick-Deering Corn Picker On Display—Come and See It!

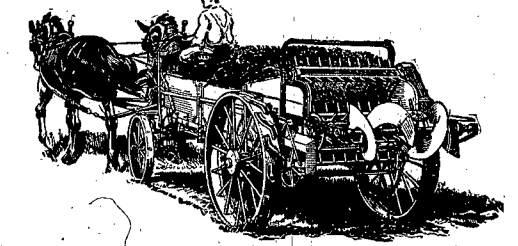

This shows the power-drive attachment which makes use of tractor power to operate the picker. This increases the husking capacity 1/2 to 1/3 more than a horse-drawn machine.

An Investment in Power

Owners everywhere are considering McCormick-Deering tractors an investment in power—an investment that is paying regular dividends by making it possible for one man to do more, to do it easier, and to do it better. In other words, by materially reducing the cost of production. McCormick-Deering tractors are widening the range of profit and making farming more pleasant.

Sandwich Galvanized Alloy Steel ELEVATOR

Ordinary black sheet steel is unsatisfactory for elevators. We use the best open hearth steel, to which is added Copper. This Copper-Alloy Steel fights rust and corrosion. We further treat it with heavy Galvanizing insuring much longer life than ever before attained by steel elevators.

McCormick-Deering Spreader

Frequent Spreading Enriches the Soil, Feeds the Crops, Increases the Yield, Makes the Land More Valuable. A McCormick-Deering spreader saves time, lessens labor, and does the work more efficiently than is possible by hand.

Future Needs

Talk to us about your future needs in the way of tanks, pumps, windmills, gas engines, corn planters, mowers and other machines. We will be glad to show you. See us for anything you may need in farm equipment. You will receive prompt and courteous treatment.

SPECIAL OFFER

This is one of the most liberal offers we have ever made: Order a McCormick-Deering Corn Picker. Pay us a part of the purchase price and put the machine to work. Spread the payment over two harvest seasons while the picker is earning its way. Enjoy the advantages, and profit by the modern method, in the meantime. See us at once if you want to get your picker in time for this year's husking. Such a long-time offer may never be made again.

COME in and see the new McCormick-Deering Corn Picker we have on display. Examine the many features of this clean husking machine. Sit on the seat and notice how conveniently the controls are located.

This machine puts an end to the worries, the hard work and the high cost of husking corn by hand. The McCormick-Deering Corn Picker will pick and husk from 6 to 10 acres a day at a cost far below that of hand husking. It saves time and labor—it ends hand-tearing, back-breaking work in cold, wet, windy fields.

Owners tell us it does cleaner work than hand huskers because it saves the ears and nibbins that grow low on the stalks, and no ears are dropped or thrown over the wagon. It saves hiring extra help—it increases your husking capacity 6 to 10 times. You can finish your husking long before bad weather sets in and get the best price for the crop.

Profit by the many advantages that a McCormick-Deering Corn Picker offers. Cash in on our liberal proposition on this great machine.
