Hunting In West Enjoyed By Men

Walter Savidge, who with Mrs. Savidge, arrived home Tuesday of last week from a trip to Rawlins, Wyo., and Denver, Colo., had an enjoyable hunting and fishing trip while in the west. He and his brother-in-law, Dr. E. G. Petersen, went from Rawlins to the mountains almost 100 miles from there. They were about thirty miles from the Great Divide, and were close to the Colorado line, in a country scarcely ever crossed by man. Mr. Savidge killed a deer, and he and Dr. Petersen caught sixteen speckled mountain trout.

The two men spent three days on the hunting and fishing trip. Leaving Rawlins by car, they drove seventy miles. They then went ten miles by wagon and five miles farther by pack horse. They climbed beyond the lower mountain ranges and went high into the timber region. The bare mountain peaks, covered with snow, were above them.

Deer season was set for October 10 to 15 this year, about three weeks earlier than usual, and the animals have not yet come from the high ridges to the lower timber region. Mr. Savidge and Dr. Petersen knew that if they got one they had to go far into the wild country. This they did. After a day and a half searching, Dr. Petersen frightened two does and one buck from the pines and Mr. Savidge, who was on a ledge higher than he, shot the buck. The animal was about 350 feet from him and the third shot was successful.

The men dressed the deer and took it by pack horse to the car for hauling to Rawlins. Green mountain grass possesses qualities that preserve the meat and keep it fresh. They packed the venison in this and found that it kept wonderfully well.

The men fished one day on their trip. The mountain stream to which they went was ice cold, the water running so fast it does not have a chance to freeze. The men, with the fly and worm method, caught sixteen of these speckled trout in a short time. The fish they dressed in the cold stream and packed them in the mountain grass. They kept fresh until taken back to Rawlins.

The country to which the men went is one far from settlement. They saw four others on the trip, estimating that the six were the only persons within twenty-five miles. The mountains are very steep, the men having to walk in a zigzag course to keep from falling. Mr. Savidge slipped and fell sixteen feet once when he missed his step. The pack horses are sure-footed animals which are used to mountain climbing. They are shod on all four feet and are able to crawl through the thick timber and up the steep places.

Mr. Savidge and Dr. Petersen found a mountain cabin high in the range. It evidently had not been visited for years because magazines dating twenty years ago were in it. Nearby was a grave. The men figured this to be the grave of the mountaineer's wife. The cabin was that of a miner and a short distance away they located the mine. They found rock containing some gold and copper. The ore did not seem to be in sufficient quantity to pay for expense of mining.

After spending three days hunting and fishing, Mr. Savidge and Dr. Petersen returned to Rawlins. Mr. and Mrs. Savidge then went to Denver before coming back to Wayne.

Brother Wayne Lady Is Pioneer Printer

John Goldie of Sioux City, brother of Mrs. C. A. Chace of Wayne, addressed the Academy of Science and Letters in Sioux City Tuesday of last week. Mr. Goldie told of the trials of early day publishers.

Mr. Goldie came to Sioux City with his father from Ontario, Canada, in 1870. He first was employed on the Sioux City Times, an early day paper. He has established his own high class job office since leaving newspaper work. One of his latest publications in a genealogical book on the Goldie and Chace families, dating back to Cromwell.

Mr. Goldie is a living vital record of history that has just happened for all of these nine renegade wolves have been captured since 1921.

Arthur Carhart was born and reared at Mapleton, Iowa, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Carhart, who now reside at Canyon City, Colo. George Carhart and J. S. Carhart of Wayne, are brothers. The author is also much interested in landscape gar-

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 21 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, Oct. 31, 1929. Vol. 4

A guy in New York recently played the saxophone for thirty hours without stopping. And we maintain that the medal should go to the fellow who had to stay there and check up on him, don't you?

Ed Miller and his crew are busy building another hangar at the airport east of town.

That was a whopping big load of corn crib lumber we sent up to John Bush's place last week and it was a whopping big truck that hauled it. The quality of that lumber was very high, too, for if it had not been, George Bush would not have bought it.

Two colored gentlemen were engaged in conversation when one of them became very much annoyed by the persistent attentions of a large fly.

"Sam, what kind of a fly am I?"

"Dat am a hoss-fly."

"What am a hoss-fly?"

"A hoss-fly am a fly what buzzes 'round cows an' hosses n' jackasses."

"You ain't makin' out for to call me no jackass?"

"No, I ain't makin' out for to call you no jackass, but you no fool dem hoss-flys."

One man may take a step unaided ten thousand men can't help him retrace.

Colonel: "And the next time I see you I hope you will be a second Lieutenant." Flustered Boob: "Thank you, sir, same to you, sir."

We hope nobody sticks a jack-o-lantern in our window Halloween night. They scare us to death!

Every year more people use photos for Christmas gifts. We are all alike, and just put off having these photos made just as long as we can, and as a result the photographer has too much to do in December.

In order to induce people to sit early, we will give 14 photos, one of which is an 8x10, with every order of $8.50 per dozen photos or over, made before Nov. 15.

You know the quality of our work, and we guarantee everything we do.

We color photos in oil and they are permanent.

Fourteen photos make 14 Christmas presents. Have them made early, and let the other fellow do the worrying about what they will give.

Corn Husking Has Begun At Hoskins. Corn husking began the middle of last week in this vicinity. The frost of the first of last week helped greatly in putting the ears in shape for husking. Before the frost the cobs were quite green, making it difficult to break the ears from the stalks. Corn in the communities around Hoskins is expected to average around 45 and 50 bushels to the acre. Some fields will make a good deal more and others may make less. Evar Anderson has one field which he expects to make 70 bushels to the acre. This field will probably average about 65 bushels after shrinkage.

Nature hung a soaking rag over these parts early Monday and has been squeezing it almost constantly ever since.

Unless one can well afford to lose, he does well to avoid speculation in Wall street stocks, as witness the crash which took place during the past week.

Graveling between Wakefield and Wayne having been finished, it is hoped next year will see hard-surfacing of roads leading to the county seat from other points in neighboring territory.

An encouraging note is found in the report that fat turkeys are more numerous than usual. People will lift their spirits still higher in anticipation if they hear that the price has been revised downward.

Reports from the far east indicate that living costs are much greater there than here. Unless one has a princely income in New York, he would have to dress for comfort instead of looks and wear a hat that would stand much and frequent tightening.

Sunday's Omaha World-Herald contains a comprehensive review of the state's development from the time of its organization as a territory. Many leaders contributed to the edition, and altogether made it one of outstanding value. Preservation of copies would be sound judgment as a source of future light.

Citizenship tests preliminary to the final showing at the Diamond Jubilee in Omaha next week have been taking place in different counties of the state.

The Hartington Herald appeared on corn stalk paper last week, and the quality showed considerable improvement over that used by other publications as a novelty some months ago. Evidently experience has developed a finer texture.

SEVENTYFIVE YEARS. Seventyfive years ago the territorial organization of Nebraska was effected, and the occasion is to be celebrated in due form at Omaha next week. It was on October 7, 1854, when Governor Francis Burt of South Carolina arrived to take over territorial leadership.

In New York investors were seized with a frenzy to let stocks loose on the market. Vast blocks of splendid securities were sacrificed for no good reason. Stocks that were good investments thus ket that get beyond control. Some of the most stable securities listed were forced down in a bear market in Wall street in decades lost several points when by all manner of reasoning and reckoning they should have held their own. One Wall street observer compared the selling to mob mania. Brokers threw up their hands, realizing there was no chance to stem the tide. The result is that thousands of small investors have lost heavily. The same persons could have profited eventually by holding what they had since it is inevitable that recovery of dependable paper will be made.

President Hoover's statement that the production and consumption of commodities was the best evidence of prosperity was true. Buying power has not been diminished in the country generally as has been shown by the movement of goods. Money in circulation is plentiful as indicated by collections reported in the past month. There is no real cause for alarm anywhere.

Freight car loadings prove that the production and consumption of commodities may be looked upon as a barometer of business conditions. The loadings for the week ending October 12 were 1,179,008. This was 11,733 cars under the figure for the same week last year, but an increase over the same period in 1927 by 59,001.

ture. If paper can be made from corn stalks in sufficient quantities and of good in quality and as low in price as that produced from wood pulp it will be generally favored.

If a preacher happens to express an opinion in conflict with that held by one or more of his parishioners, he suffers opposition, and the more opinions he expresses the stronger and more formidable the opposition is likely to become. Then he has to look around for a new field to give place to another spiritual leader who will stay until he preaches counter to the dwarfed ideas of the pillars and heaviest contributors.

Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the prime minister of England, says her second visit to America still failed to reveal one thing she wanted to know—real life in the American home. She had met officials, and she had been entertained at showy society functions, but she had not felt the pulse of the American home. Doubtless she could best judge the character of our people by entering the average American home and seeing how members of the household deport themselves. Next time she should come incognito and avoid the tinsel of social make-believe.

What are supposed to be the fossilized remains of a woman who lived before the glacial period, were unearthed by a road building gang near Naper, Neb., the first of the week. The woman appeared to be holding a child. How inviting Nebraska plains were before the ice age, we do not know, but we have grave doubts as to their desirability for easy subsistence or for many home comforts. Probably this woman had gone out from her cave to find food for herself and child, and perished either from exhaustion or from the murderous attack of a rival savage.

We have received an anonymous communication charging a young wife with the indiscretion of flying into a rage and publicly pounding and scratching her young husband until he looked as though he had been run through a corn shredder. The communication states that the young husband showed his Christian fortitude by offering no resistance, indicating that he would have turned the other cheek if he had been given time and she had not turned it for him. Christian or not, deserving of punishment or not, he was an unusually weak saphead to submit to physical violence without protest. At least he should have insisted on being taken to the veiled precincts of his own home before having his skin taken off and his anatomy pommelled. But anonymous letters are always cowardly and unreliable and often pernicious. What such a letter contains may or may not be fact, may be partially true or wholly false. We have no respect for anonymous communications. One burning with something to say should have the courage to appear in the open or keep still.

Business. Sioux City Journal: Regardless of the crashes in the New York stock and Chicago grain markets, there is nothing to indicate a downturn in business activity. The wave of selling that swept over the New York market resulting in a $5,000,000,000 decrease in stock values had a depressing effect on Grain in Chicago, with wheat falling unreasonably. There is no excuse for wheat to drop 11 cents in one day, except that the Chicago market reacted in sympathy with the Wall street frenzy.

As a matter of fact, as Mr. Hoover has shown, the estimate is for a world shortage in wheat of some 500,000,000 bushels below the production for last year. There is bound to be a small carry over in this grain. Logical speculation would say that wheat was bound to advance in price instead of losing ground at this time. Recovery is as certain as anything could be and for the reason that the demand will be more even with supply, or vice versa, than in a long time.

President Hoover's statement that the production and consumption of commodities was the best evidence of prosperity was true. Buying power has not been diminished in the country generally as has been shown by the movement of goods. Money in circulation is plentiful as indicated by collections reported in the past month. There is no real cause for alarm anywhere.

ON BEING SKINNED. People who are not suspicious and who are too busy from day to day working out plans which they believe are constructive and of permanent value, are usually not on the lookout to avoid becoming victims of sharp practice. Shrewdness which sometimes borders on humbuggery, levies a tax on the unsuspecting individual who devotes his whole time and energy to his own row. It is a hardship to be ever awake to steer clear of losses. It is a task always to escape the craftily spread meshes of the conscienceless skinner who is on the alert for advantage without thought of adequate value for money received. Thus, the trustful wayfarer, following his accustomed groove, is often caught unawares and pays the price which napping in the presence of near-sharks exacts. So the fellow who keeps everlastingly at his job and who is correctly adjudged an easy mark, is likely to make no greater headway in accumulating material possessions than the one who works only enough to accomplish a beggarly hand-to-mouth existence. We would like to see human relationships established on such a plane that people would receive what they earn—no more, no less—with living conditions equal to merit, undisturbed by underserving mendicants on the one hand or by designing sharpers on the other. We would also welcome arrival of the millennium, but there seems to be no immediate prospect.

Slot Machine Culture. Omaha World-Herald: The dean of women at the University of Omaha finds an interesting contrast between the cultures of Europe and America in the use to which slot machines are put here and abroad. In Cologne she saw a vending machine from which one could obtain cheap copies of the great literary classics, while our own slot machines "offer us only gum which distorts our faces or candy which distorts our digestions."

The merchant mind, we suppose, is fundamentally the same everywhere. It finds out what the people want and then undertakes to supply that demand. Thus the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker or his equivalent, the electric light company, are universal caterers to the public. Offered the service of the silent salesman the German merchant asks himself, what can it sell most successfully. For what is there such a universal demand that this machine will insure a good profit on my investment? He considers the habits and customs of the people and decides that they will most readily bestow their marks and pennings on mental pabulum. So he gives them pocket editions of the classics.

The American merchant asks himself substantially the same questions. But what he observes in the people his silent salesman is to meet it that they are most likely to give up their nickels and dimes for sensual enjoyments. Therefore he gives them candy and gum and salted peanuts. Both, we presume, guessed rather shrewdly.

But perhaps the American merchant is overlooking a bet. Perhaps there is more call for dime culture than he supposes. Mr. Halleman-Julius of Girard, Kans., who is rather a different kind of merchant, conceived the idea that there might be a demand for small doses of good reading done up in cheap packages. He is reputed to have done very well with his little blue books. It might surprise him and the dean of women to find that slot machines could handle quite a volume of cultural trade which ordinary mail order merchandising methods fail to get.

City Council Proceedings. Wayne, Neb., Oct. 29, 1929. The regular meeting of the city council was held in the council rooms in the city hall with the following members present: Mayor Orr, Councilmen Bichel, Lewis, Miller, Wright, McClure and Strahan. Absent, none. Present, W. S. Bressler, clerk.

What a Record! York Republican: Seventyfive years ago, October 16, 1854, Francis Burt was sworn in as governor of the territory of Nebraska. The son of a proud southern family arrived at Bellevue, after a tiresome journey of twenty-six days by water, rail and stage, travel-worn and sick. Seven days after his arrival he took the oath of office and two days later he died. He did not issue a public order or sign a state paper.

Market Report. Furnished by Steele, Siman & Co., Sioux City Stock Yards. Bearishness ruled the markets for all classes of live stock on the opening day of the week but the general trend to most of the markets showed betterment after the initial session.

Stock Shipments Number Fourteen. Fourteen cars of stock were shipped into and out of Wayne the week beginning October 24. William Blecke shipped a car of cattle to Chicago, and Kenneth Graham shipped a car of cattle to Sioux City.

Markets, October 30, 1929. Cream 41c, Eggs 35c, Hens 15c and 18c, Springs 14c and 17c, Roosters 9c, Corn old, 75c and new, 65c, Oats 35c, Hogs $9 to $10.

Atwater Kent Battery Set Gains Popularity. Receives Havana, Cuba; Mexico City, California and New York.

In these days of chain programs a great deal of enjoyment may be had by tuning in different programs. An hour of Spanish music from Havana is not unusual with an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio.

We especially recommend the extra powerful Model 67 (7 tube) battery set. A completely new battery set with all the very latest proved improvements—Screen - Grid, Electro-Dynamic, Illuminated Dial. It has the leaping power to reach out across the map and bring in those far-off stations. It has the depth and richness of tone heretofore thought possible only in house current sets.

It's the modern battery set that you have been asking Atwater Kent to make. You can have it in the compact table model or in your choice of fine cabinets. And, best of all, you pay only a moderate price.

Select Cast For Junior Class Play To Be Given By Wayne High School

Change Is Made In "Grading of Work in Upper Classes" Other News of Week.

The eleventh grade English class is studying "Hamlet." The third book reports are due November 4. The French I class had a spelling-down in vocabulary. French customs and ways of living were discussed. Twenty pupils tried out for the junior class play. The name of the play is "The Mummy and the Mumps." The cast selected is the following: Sir Rector Fish, Evan Dennis; Francis Briscoe, Max Hendrickson; William Ladlaw, Walter Bressler; Perkins, the sheriff; Herbert Perry; Racher, John Kemp; Agatha Ladlaw, Zola Wilson; Dulcie Dumble, Mary Norton; Maude Mullin, Letha Porterfield; Phoebe Beibe, Laverne Erchen; Anna Hampton, Farnell Beckenhauer; stage director, Wilbur Porterfield. Play practice will be held every week night at 7:30 o'clock. W. A. Behl is director.

Assembly Notes. Mary Elizabeth Norton played the assembly march last week. A pep meeting was held in the assembly Friday before the game with Pierce. Speeches were given by Herbert Perry, captain of the team, Max Hendrickson and Mr. Behl. Report cards were distributed at noon Tuesday. The cards are different from preceding years. Grades are explained by means of letters. For instance A means that the work done is satisfactory. These letters extend to J inclusive. The cards are given to the pupils in the assembly by the teacher in charge and to the pupils in classrooms by their respective teachers. A slight change has been made in the bell system. Only two bells ring now, one to go to or from class and a tardy bell. This change has been made to save time and lengthen the class periods.

A county citizenship contest was held Saturday, October 26. The winner of the contest is eligible to enter the state contest at Omaha, November 5, 6 and 7.

Commercial News. The bookkeeping class has been working on the first model sets. Pupils have been doing very nice work. The Gregg speed study books have arrived for the shorthand class.

Students in English are permitted to type their lessons if they wish to do so. This gives them practice in typing.

Music Notes. The operetta for the glee clubs has arrived and it is entitled "Jerry of Jericho Road." The boys of the glee club are working on a new song. It is entitled "Honey," by Del Riego.

Athletics. The Wayne high school football team played the Pierce team Friday, October 18, at the college field. The score was 12-0 in favor of Wayne. The first touchdown was made in a pass from Perry to Rhoades, and the second one a run of sixty yards by Hendrickson.

Senior Notes. Dorothy Winterstein, Marjorie Noakes, William Von Seggern and James Morris received highest grades in a physics test last week. The physics class is studying about water pumps and buoyancy of gases. Force pumps, lift pumps and Cartesian divers were demonstrated Tuesday. The American history students are making a chart which is to give the origin and history of political parties. History students are having topical recitation this week. The English class had grammar review last week. Each member of the English class wrote a mystery story for the magazines which they are preparing. The French II class is reviewing the uses of the tenses of the indicative in preparation for the study of the subjunctive mood. The French class had practice in ordering a meal in French last week. The idea of this is to help their enunciation and to enlarge their vocabulary.

A Valued Tribute

A woman has just written us: "Words cannot describe how grateful I am to you for the many acts of helpful service you rendered during my recent great sorrow. I shall never forget them." In this instance, as in many others, we not only handled the various details with care and consideration, but we offered friendly counsel. This is all part of our service. Our foremost desire is to remove every possible burden from the minds of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Tenth Grade. Outside reports were given on modern topics pertaining to ancient history. The history method of study has been changed from outline method to topic method. A staircase of time which has recently been started, is being gradually filled in. The pupils are studying the different periods in history, by placing the date and name of the period on a step. The staircase is completed up to the time of Christ.

Ninth Grade. Latin I class is translating stories as a means for review of case and verb forms. The physiology class is making maps of the United States and the world. They are locating important cities and mountain ranges. Agriculture I class is finishing a study on soils. Monday pupils began their study of the different kinds of corn.

English I classes are making soap carvings of the characters of "Silas Marner." Floyd Bennett won in the airplane race that the boys were having. English II class is studying "The Merchant of Venice." The class is now having oral reports from magazines. Algebra I class is studying identities and equations of condition and transposition.

Honor List Names. In the honor list published last week for the high school the following names should have appeared: Jeanne Wright and Dorothy Winterstein, 90 percent or above in all subjects; Allan Sandahl, Gretchen Tekhaus, Donald Whitman, Zola Wilson and Lucile Wright, 85 percent or above in all subjects; and Franklin Victor, Marcella Weber and Faye Winegar, 80 or above in all subjects.

Eighth Grade. The hygiene class is studying cells and how they live. The students are also studying osmosis and are doing an experiment on osmosis. Two tests were given to the class, one in hygiene and one in English.

The members of the arithmetic class are making a study of interest. The English students are studying magazines and are learning to distinguish magazines which are suitable to read. The members of the class are also making a study of different newspapers so that they will know what a paper contains and where to find each part, such as the editorial page and what it contains. The history class is studying the Civil War.

Seventh Grade Notes. Wayne high school may yet have its own paper. The seventh grade has started the interesting study of newspaper work in its language classes and by the time the pupils reach high school they should be able to run a real paper. Last week the students studied city papers and found the value of interesting titles, introductions and conclusions. Original stories will be written and the best selected for the paper. A name will also be chosen. This paper will either be put on the bulletin board or mimeographed so each room may read it. The pupils of the room are starting their own reading table. Each brings his own magazines when he has read them. This increases the students' acquaintance with good magazines. The geography class is studying England and her commerce with other countries. Last week world maps were drawn showing where England's raw materials come from. Pencil sketches and silhouettes of India ink were made in art class last week. June Gale Jones brought a bouquet of fall flowers.

Sixth Grade Notes. The sixth grade is studying the British Isles. They have been studying London for the past week. Mrs. Thielman, Mrs. A. T. Cavanaugh and Mrs. Faye Strahan were visitors last week. Ja. Gildersleeve and Imogene Kilborn, earned the highest grade for spelling in the last six weeks. Their grades were 98 percent. The sixth grade history class is studying the period of discovery. Each pupil has special reports to make. The A class of the sixth grade is working on percentage in arithmetic.

Verba Beery, Frederick Elloch, H. C. Erchen, Imogene Kilborn, Tom Cavanaugh, Dorothy Honk, Marjorie Jones, Josephine Ley, Mary Ellen Pile, Lee Porter, Jane Randall, Frank Strahan and Peggy Strahan were not absent during the six-week period.

Fifth Grade. Velma Falson of Williston, N. D., visited on Tuesday and Wednesday with Ruth Heidenreich. The fifth grade art class has finished fall borders. The best are put on display above the blackboard. The reading class is studying Indian poems and stories. Indian relics have been brought by the students. The geography classes have been studying the fish industry in the New England states. New history books, "Pilot's and Pathfinder's," by Nida, have been received. The class is taking up the study of ancient Egyptian civilization on which ours is based. Ruth Horn has returned to school after an absence due to illness of her mother.

Fourth Grade. The fourth grade is having a milk bottle contest. Each member of the class has a milk bottle with his or her name on it. A milk man from each row goes up the row and finds out who drank milk that morning. A star is placed on the bottle of those who drank milk. This contest is to encourage students to drink morning milk and to teach more to drink it. The class is also making Halloween decorations, such as the owl, black cat and Halloween posters. The class has also taken up paper folding and free-hand cutting. A surprise birthday party was held for Leola Murray, who was 9 years old last Friday. Those absent last week were: Carlyle Horrell, Dorothy Liedtke and George Ahlvers. Katherine Fox moved to Neligh last week.

Third Grade. The pupils of the third grade have been drawing and coloring autumn leaves and making the drawings into a notebook for art work the past week. The reading class has just completed "The Sunbonnet Babies in Holland" and are now taking up the Booleen "Third Reader." The health work this week deals with the effect of fresh air. The pupils have been composing and telling health stories, the best ones being chosen to be told to other grades. Two members, Marion Vath and Jean Mines, were chosen. Phyllis Kilborn and Barbara Feiber were absent last week.

Second Grade. Mrs. Lula Wait's second grade class is progressing rapidly in the making of their Halloween programs. Mrs. A. T. Cavanaugh read books to the children about their work. Scotty Thompson was absent two days on account of sickness. Vera Mae Miller was absent Monday. The class is making sketches of landscape drawings and geometrical designs. The pupils are cutting Halloween borders and autumn leaf borders. They have taken up the card project and find it satisfactory. The class is just finishing up old books preparatory to starting on new readers. The six weeks' grade reports were fair. No failures were listed. The second grade is planning a Halloween program and party. The pupils are making costumes and jack-o-lanterns. They expect to give a play for the other classes and are working energetically toward their goal.

First Grade. Mrs. Ben F. Ahlvers, Mrs. L. W. Powers and Norma and Mrs. Louis Sund were visitors of the first grade last week. Wednesday, Jean Mines, of the third grade told the story, "Jennie Pale Face," and "Fresh Air Heathful," during the hygiene period. The following children have become members of the good hand writing club, having finished satisfactorily the first project in their writing lessons: Frederick Ahlvers, Mildred Franzén, Wilma Heidenreich, Jean Rockwell, Arline Ulrich, Elaine Rhoades, Barbara Hook. Each received a green star. Ralph Hachmeier has been absent the past week on account of illness.

Kindergarten Notes. Mrs. C. E. Nicholaisen was a visitor in the kindergarten room last Friday. Mrs. Louis Sund visited Wednesday last week. It is nearing October 31, and the pupils in the kindergarten room have been making jack-o-lanterns and Halloween posters. The teacher reads Halloween stories to the class.

Mr. and Mrs. John McClain celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary October 22 at their home in Randolph. Miss Naoma Schwinck of Beemer, and Leo Lemmerman of Neligh, were married in Stanton Tuesday last week. Funeral services were held October 29 for Mrs. Andrew M. Peterson of Oakland, for many years a resident of Laurel. F. C. Paulson of Laurel, was quite badly burned when a pot of boiling coffee overturned, pouring the hot liquid over him. A 160-acre farm near Bloomfield, belonging to E. M. Jones, was sold at public auction, consideration being $90 per acre. G. B. Salter, father of Dr. F. G. Salter of Pierce and Dr. O. H. Salter of Norfolk, passed away at Norfolk October 19. He was 90 years old. A sleeper on the morning train going east was derailed near Beemer October 21. The coach plowed a distance of 300 feet. No one was injured. Work will start soon on a new building at Laurel. F. L. Dimick is putting up the building which will be used for trucking concerns, it is understood. John Sall of Stanton, arrived home last week after completing four years in naval service. He traveled 79,000 miles and visited many parts of the world. Alex Breeding, West Point pioneer, died at Chateau, Mont., October 20 at the advanced age of 87. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and five sons. The A. Capella choir of Midland college at Fremont, will travel a distance of 3,500 miles in six states in presenting concerts, according to the present program. The bi-county convention of the Royal Neighbor lodge was held at Coleridge October 17. About 200 delegates attended. Laurel was chosen as the next meeting place. The Taber Lutheran church at Wausau celebrated the four-hundredth anniversary of Martin Luther's catechism Sunday with programs in the afternoon and evening. Virginia Duf and Melvin Cizek of Pierce were winners from Pierce county in the young citizens' contest which is a part of the diamond jubilee program to be held in Omaha. A delegation of highway boosters met at Randolph Friday to revive work on Federal Highway No. 20. Delegates from towns between Sioux City and O'Neill were in attendance. August Schneider of near Martinsburg sustained injuries which resulted fatally August 19 when dragged by his car, which started suddenly after being cranked while it was still in gear. Mr. Schneider was 68 years old. Amy E. Clair, of South Sioux City, appeared before Judge Mark J. Ryan in district court at Dakota City, Neb., asking that she be granted a divorce from Rev. Howard G. Clair, a Presbyterian minister. Mrs. Clair charged her husband with cruelty. A corn husking contest was held at Walthill for Thurston county pickers and George Yunker of Pender, was first with twentyfour bushels of corn husked in the 80-minute period. Jasper Chambers of Pender, last year's winner, was last among the eleven contestants. A number of cases of petty thievery were reported in Emerson for the past week. Will Crouty lost about forty chickens. The office of the Jensen Lumber company was entered and a small amount of cash taken. The office of the Moseman Lumber company was also entered but nothing of value taken. The Henry Siemers garage was broken into and the padlock of the safe broken. Wm. Schindler lost some eggs from his cellar and August Spiel lost a small grindstone from his garage. An attempt was made to rob the Liever pharmacy but met with failure. Wendell P. Hill of Randolph, claims the distinction of having been born in the same room as Thomas A. Edison. In 1847, eighty-two years ago, Mr. Edison was born in an upstairs room of a two-story house in Milan, Ohio. Fifteen years later, in 1862, Mr. Hill was born in the same room. In 1916 Mr. Hill received permission from Mr. Edison, who now owns the old place, to visit his old home. John H. Rebensdorf of Pender, died October 17, aged 63 years. His wife, a son and a daughter survive. Among those who attended the funeral October 30 were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Gust Test, Mrs. Mary Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Will Test, Mr. and Mrs. John Test, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Test, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Test, Otto Test, Mr. and Mrs. August Brudigan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Longe, Mr. and Mrs. John Brudigan, Mr. and Mrs. Will Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Whipperman, all of Wakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Beckenhauer of Wayne. Removal of 500 acres of land from the corporate limits of South Sioux City is being sought by the owners at a trial in district court at Dakota City, Neb., which opened Tuesday last week. Judge Mark J. Ryan is presiding at the trial, which was brought by William Oehlerking and Stewart Gilman. The property involved in the litigation extends from a point half a mile east of the paved highway leading to the Nebraska approach of the combination bridge over the Missouri river, and extends east to the present corporate limits of the town of South Sioux City.

Holy Name Rally Held. West Point, Neb.—Six thousand persons of northeastern Nebraska, of which number 2,500 were members of the Holy Name society, gathered here to participate in a Holy Name rally October 20. Elgin Farmer Injured. Elgin, Neb.—Frank Kallhoff, young farmer, living east of Elgin, was severely wounded while hunting with a party of friends on Cedar creek. Kallhoff had his gun in his hand and reached in his car for something and in doing so the gun bumped the car, causing it to discharge. The shot entered his face below the left eye. Little hope is held for his recovery.

SATISFACTION is frequently expressed by farmers who buy McCormick-Deering machines or repairs, and this year has been no exception to the rule, customers being more numerous than ever and uniformly well pleased over results in speeding up work and cheapening production.

As one season succeeds another, we are able to meet prevailing needs without loss of time. We have everything required to facilitate farm operations, and we invite consultation over any problem involving farm machinery.

When you need a grinder, sheller, waterer or anything else suggested by the season, see us and we will serve you promptly.

Remember that "Good equipment makes a good farmer better."

Millions of Miles of Constant Testing
to maintain the outstanding quality and dependability of The Chevrolet Six
In spite of the fact that a million Chevrolet Sixes have already been placed in the hands of owners, and have proved their performance and stamina by billions of miles of service over every type of highway the nation affords—
—The Chevrolet Motor Company continues to take new Chevrolet Sixes from the assembly line at the factory and subject them to pitiless testing on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground! This passion for proof—this consistent refusal to accept any tests as final—is one of the fundamental reasons for the overwhelming popularity of Chevrolet cars. For in no other way is it possible to make the Chevrolet Six so sound in design and materials—so dependable in performance—and so economical to operate!
If you are considering the purchase of an automobile, come in and see the new Chevrolet. You will find that it is more than a Six in the price range of the four. In every way it is a finer car than you ever thought possible in the low-price field!

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

A reminder of the hectic days of the potato industry was the recent sale of one of the potato plants. It was located at Hoffman and the original cost was approximately a million dollars.

More than 50 years ago two brothers, then mere striplings, ventured as far west as Fremont and invested their small capital in a printing plant in which they printed job work and a little newspaper. It wasn't just accident that they made money and created a tremendous business.

Maupin's. If history repeated itself out loud a lot of presumptuous politicians and reformers would take to the tall timber.

Nature makes some grave mistakes. For instance, putting a light on the tail of the offensive fly that nobody wants to catch, and failing to put a tail light on a certain bug that every housewife abhors.

Mr. and Mrs. John Guild of Omaha have just celebrated their golden wedding. Thirteen years before Mr. and Mrs. Guild were married Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Clayton of Beatrice were married, and on Oct. 10 they celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

On Oct. 26 the little village of Bellevue celebrated the 75th anniversary of the inauguration of the first territorial governor of Nebraska. Among those present was Thomas J. Majors, 88, who was a member of the last territorial council and of the first legislature. Another was Simpson Morton, grandson of Thomas Morton, who set the type and ran the press of the first newspaper printed in Nebraska, at Bellevue, still another was J. Hyde Sweet, editor of the Nebraska News-Press, which succeeded that first newspaper and is now the oldest newspaper in Nebraska.

Louise Butler, 23, of Minden, recently secured a verdict for $25,000 damages against a Chicago restaurant. While walking along the street in front of the restaurant a sidewalk elevator rose suddenly and injured her. She had been on the concert stage and proved her injuries had permanently incapacitated her from following her profession.

Francisco Rocha, a worker in the western Nebraska beet fields, and later in the sugar factory at Grand Island, won the Atwater-Kent radio audition contest in Nebraska. Rocha is a Mexican who cannot speak English. He owes his big chance to Mrs. B. A. Harris of Grand Island, who heard him sing and secured employment for him in the Grand Island factory, enabling him to secure vocal training. He possesses a remarkable tenor voice.

Young People's Meeting.
Members of the Young People's Bible Study class met at the E. B. Young home Friday evening and finished the third chapter of St. John. Gerald Dahlquist of Concord, who leaves soon for the mission fields of Sudan, Africa, gave a personal message and farewell to the class. Miss Grizelle Thompson of the class has been accepted recently to do mission work in the Indian Sanitarium for Tuberculars at Dulce, New Mexico, also spoke. Special chorus numbers were enjoyed. A letter from Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Benschhof and Miss Olga Christensen who entered a Lutheran bible school in Minneapolis, told of the work they were doing and the wonderful times they were having. The Benschhofs have met a number of former members of the class who are now studying mission work in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Young have recently organized a similar class for young people of Osmond and go there every Monday evening to conduct the work. Interest displayed in the work there is very satisfactory.

J. W. Radman of Venezuela, spoke to both the adult and young folks' classes here last week Wednesday morning. He is engaged in a mission work under the Free Church in South America. Dr. Harry Strachan, who is now in this country on furlough from work in Porto Rico, is expected in Wayne soon to deliver an address on his work in the mission fields. Dr. Strachan is well known throughout this country for his work and his ability as a speaker.

The class will begin work in the fourth chapter of St. John at the next meeting.

Miss Buss was born in Wayne. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ella Buss, Arthur Laubsch of Norfolk, was best man.

Deans Of Women Meet In Lincoln

The Nebraska association of deans of women will convene at Lincoln Friday of this week with Miss Amanda Heppner, president, and Miss Elsie Ford Piper, secretary-treasurer, in charge. Miss Piper was formerly dean of women at Wayne.

Luther's Catechism.

This year the members of the Lutheran church throughout the world (about eighty millions) celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of a precious little book, which next to the Bible is nearest to their hearts, Dr. Martin Luther's small catechism.

The word catechism is of Greek origin; the verbal root means to sound, instruct by asking questions and receiving answers and offering explanations especially in regard to religious faith. The first Christian catechisms were written by Cyril and Cyprian and by Kerol of St. Gall and Otrifried of Weissemburg, and later on by the Waldenses and the Bohemian Brethren and Brenz. Naturally Luther also knew the catechisms written before his. But why did he write a new catechism?

The answer is this: the old ones were practically unknown or forgotten. When Luther with others took part in the Saxon Church Visitation (1528-29), he was horrified by the ignorance of both pastors and people. He writes in the preface of his small catechism: "The deplorable conditions which I discovered lately when I, too, was a visitor, had forced and urged me to prepare this catechism on church doctrine, in this small, plain, simple form. Mercy, good Lord, what manifold misery I beheld. The common people have no knowledge of Christian doctrine, and also many pastors are altogether incapable and incompetent to teach."

It was formerly believed that the large catechism (for ministers and teachers) was first published and then the small one. The fact is that while Luther was working in 1529 on his large catechism, for which his sermons of 1528 formed the basis, the idea of issuing a smaller book occurred to him, and he published it as his "Enchiridion" (hand book). It appeared in two series in the form of tables intended to be hung upon the wall for the instruction of children. The first table included the text and explanation of the ten commandments, the creed and the Lord's prayer. The second table treated of the sacraments of baptism and the Lord's supper. After Luther's death "The Office of the Keys" was added. This was placed before "Luther's instruction on Confession." May 16, 1529, Luther's small catechism appeared at Wittenburg in book form. The large catechism was also issued in 1529.

The small catechism soon became more famous than the large one. It was used in public schools, churches, and families. While the bible has been translated into 830 languages and dialects, Luther's small catechism experienced 135 translations. (John Eunyong's Pilgrim's Progress stands in the third place with 107 translations.) Luther's catechism was translated into 39 European, 32 Asiatic, 42 African, 9 American Indian, and in 10 languages of the South Sea islands.

Scotland's first catechism was a translation of Luther's; Arch Bishop Cranmer gave it to the English; Norway, Denmark, Sweden, and others took it to heart. Hans Egede brought it to the Esquimaux, Ziegenbalg to "India's Coral Strands," and the Swede, John Campanius, translated it in 1643 into the tongue of the American Indians.

Of the many excellencies of Luther's catechism we mention only three: First, it is free from all polemics. Second, it embodies the simple Christian faith and does not attempt to give a complete system of doctrine. Third, it avoids all scholastic language. If the theologians and expresses the biblical truths in the plainest language for the common people.

Of this little book the famous historian, Leopold von Ranke says: "The catechism, which Luther published in 1529 and which he, though being an old doctor, prayed continually is as simple as it is deep, as comprehensible as it is unorthodox, as plain as it is sublime. Blessed is the man who nourishes his soul by it and acknowledges in every momentable comfort in every momentable under the thin shell is the core of truth which satisfies the wisest of the wise."

The catechism is a means of instruction in the Lutheran church and is especially during the period preceding confirmation.—H. A. Teckhaus.

Style Footwear This Week At $5

Values Extraordinary during our Semi-Annual $5 Shoe Sale

Twice yearly we put on this Special Sale of Ladies' Stylish Footwear at $5. This is not a clean up sale of odds and ends. It is a special sale of the very newest and best styles in this season's footwear. We hold the sale as an Advertising Feature to bring special attention to our Fine Shoe Department. Many of the season's best up to $6.50 styles are sold special at $5 during this sale. Don't miss it!

Exceptional Values Blankets

We belong to a group of merchants who buy blankets together in great quantities at special discounts. We pass these exceptional values on to our customers at worth while savings to them.

For just one example: We are selling at $2.95 a $3.50 value in part wool—not wool nap—but real part wool—beautiful block plaid blankets, in seven attractive colors—full bed size—thick, fleecy nap—satinette bindings. These are the sort of blankets you will delight in owning.

Another exceptional value: Full bed-size, fleecy cotton priced blankets—regular $1.95 quality—priced at $1.58. This price is so low partly because these blankets are slight seconds—having a misprint in the borders.

We have many other just as exceptional values in first quality BLANKETS of BEAUTY for your best use and in BLANKET SECONDS where you just want warmth and are not so particular about the appearance.

"Clinic-on-Wheels" May Bring Medical Aid Direct to Rural Homes of Nation

THE medical clinic has gone to the country—and on wheels. Those who live in outlying sections of the United States, and other countries too isolated from the large cities where medical attention can so easily be obtained, may soon get the same efficient medical attention as their city brethren do—and right at their own home.

The "Healthmobile" has arrived. It is a clinic on wheels. And it has solved the problem of serving people, especially school children, whose homes are far away from densely populated sections.

The "Healthmobile" is the idea of Dr. Sven Lokrantz, medical director of city schools at Los Angeles. It has worked successfully at Los Angeles since 1925. It already has invaded Sweden, in that northern section where school children often are scores of miles away from dentists and doctors. And its use is spreading rapidly.

Dr. Lokrantz faced the problem of serving school children in outlying districts of Los Angeles with medical attention—and the "Healthmobile" was his solution.

The clinic on wheels is built on a trailer, and can be pulled easily by truck, or by tractor if the country is impassable by trucks.

It is completely equipped, an elaborate as clinics in cities. All dental equipment, facilities for nose and throat treatment, an optical setup, arranged through use of mirrors to gain greater distance for testing eyes—in fact, everything needed in clinical work.

The idea was an immediate success. The doctor little dreamed, however, that it would be grasped immediately by the medical profes-

The interior of a clinic-on-wheels is shown above. A physician and nurse from the health department of the Los Angeles city schools are demonstrating its facilities for medical inspection.

After a few weeks of use, it was acclaimed a success by the press and the medical world.

Sweden, its problem solved, plans to order two clinics on wheels.

And the success of the rolling clinic, already established at Los Angeles and in Sweden, has caused medical authorities in all sections to become interested, and it may not be long before Dr. Lokrantz's idea will spread to the most remote sections of the United States.

Sweden had long sought a solution to the problem, and when the "Healthmobile" was first conceived, the nation immediately hailed it as a method of safeguarding the health of school children.

Hold Dedication For Schoolhouse

Program Friday Evening in District 55 for New Building Recently Completed.

Dedication services were held Friday evening, October 25, for the modern school in district 55 near Hoskins, which was recently completed. The building is of the bungalow style, 30 by 34 feet, with a porch 8 by 10 feet. The building was erected at a cost of $4,325.

NEW SCHOOL IN DISTRICT 55

The school room is twenty-nine feet long, twenty-three and one-half feet wide and eleven feet high, inside measure. There are two cloak rooms, hall and library with book cases. There is a full basement with two fuel bins and a furnace.

There are twelve windows in the building, six on the north with two lights, each 28 by 36 inches, and six on the west with two lights each 14 by 28 inches. A cement sidewalk extends from the porch to the side door. There are two foot scrapers with hand rails attached to the sidewalk. The school room has a stage eight inches high and the floors are all in oak.

There are twenty lineal feet of slate black board. The walls are sand-finish plaster with two coats of paint. The building, also has two coats of paint on the outside. Woodwork on the inside is varnished in a natural finish. The building is also equipped with lightning rods and ventilators.

New adjustable single seats, new teachers' chair, desks, light colored window shades, set of wall maps, large dictionary and other improvements have also been added to the school property. It is expected that this school will be standardized very soon.

A program of songs, recitations and dialogues was given by the pupils. Rev. J. Bruce Wylie of Winslow, offered prayer. Prof. A. V. Teed and Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent, spoke. Louis Bendin sang two solos. Miss Carrie Stamm is the teacher of this district.

Lights were furnished by Kugler & Sears of Wayne. All visitors were treated to ice cream and cake after the program.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin.

Nebraska has less railroad mileage than it had 15 years ago, but more miles of track. With less railroad mileage it has more tons per mile hauled. With fewer trains running it sees more cars hauled.

Banner county is unique in several respects. It has but one incorporated town, Harrisburg, the county seat. It has but one newspaper and no barber shop; no railroad, but has one of the largest Knights of Pythias lodges in the state. It has more rugged and beautiful scenery than any other county, and also some of the largest wheat fields. It never furnished Nebraska a congressional candidate, but a former editor at Harrisburg moved to California many years ago and was elected to congress from that state.

Dan J. Cropsey, formerly of Fairbury but now of Lincoln, was 81 years old on Columbus Day. He lived in Nebraska 61 years, lived through two grasshopper invasions and a dozen Indian scares, and served the state as treasurer two terms.

The Kearney Daily Hub has entered upon its 42nd year and really gives some assurance of permanency now. Editor Brown admits that the first 40 years were the hardest.

Six years ago Hastings and Grand Island high schools severed athletic relations as a result of a near riot after a game in Grand Island. Last week the two schools met at Hastings and battled to a 7-7 tie, and after the game there was a glad reunion. Now there is nothing between the two schools but the Platte river.

The first monitor radio station in the world is now in process of construction at Grand Island and will be operated by the federal radio commission and owned by the government. It will be the "policeman of the air." Its mission will be to detect and punish radio stations that encroach upon the wave lengths of other stations. The first unit will cost about $500,000, and it is expected that a million will eventually be invested.

Forty years ago this fall north-west Nebraska was worrying about the possibility of an Indian uprising and murderous forays from the Rosebud reservation. Sioux Indians were ghosts dancing in violation of the orders of the government and in protest against what they denounced as treaty violations. Early in December the state militia was called out by Gov. Thayer and with the exception of the Lincoln company sent to various points near the Nebraska-South Dakota border in the vicinity of Chadron, Rushville, Valentine and other towns near the border. The battle of Wounded Knee, which was in reality a massacre, ended the trouble.

It was not known until after Jan. 1 why Gov. Thayer did not send the Lincoln company to the front. He kept the company at home and ordered it to patrol the state house in an effort to prevent the governor-elect, James E. Boyd, from assuming the office. For several days martial law ruled at the state house, and Gov. Thayer barricaded himself in the executive chambers. Gov. Boyd opened an office in the office of the secretaries of the state railway commission and appointed Gen. Victor Viquain adjutant general. Viquain ignored Gov. Thayer's adjutant general, A. V. Cole and ordered the militia company to its arms to disband. The captain accepted the order. Later the steam was cut off from the offices occupied by Thayer, and he and his supporters were frozen out.

Boyd acted as governor but a few weeks, then the state supreme court issued a writ of ouster and Thayer again assumed the office, holding it for several months, when the supreme court of the United States in turn ousted him by declaring Boyd a naturalized citizen, Thayer having contended that Boyd, born in Ireland, had never been naturalized.

Just how far Nebraska has progressed in the 75 years that have elapsed since it became a territory may be had from the fact that the first territorial capital building, erected at Omaha was 33x75 feet in size, two stories high, and cost $3,000, while the present state capitol building, 400x400 feet, with a tower 400 feet high, will cost when completed $10,000,000. Nebraska's first capitol was erected by the Council Bluffs & Nebraska Ferry Co., an Iowa corporation. Iowa men claimed to be responsible for organizing the territory, and having erected the capitol "without cost to the government," claimed the right to locate the territorial capital. Governor Cuming, acknowledging the claim of the Iowa legislature to assemble in Omaha at 10 o'clock a. m., Jan. 16, 1855.

The first legislature consisted of a council of 13 and a house of 28 members, not one of whom was really a citizen of the territory. Five of them never lived in Nebraska. J. L. Sharp, president of the council, was ostensibly representing Richardson county, but his home was in Glenwood, Iowa, and he never maintained a residence in Nebraska. The youngest member of that legislature was Lafayette Nuckolls, who was 21 years old in May and elected in the following November. Nuckolls county was named in his honor, presumably.

Maupinons.

Those who plunge headlong into matrimony usually have an awful hard time swimming-out.

One trouble with the country is the presence of so many people who are living a silk hose life on a cotton stocking income.

The schoolmaster who called Thomas A. Edison a numbskull was as far wrong as the Nebraska merchant who thinks he can succeed in business without judicious advertising.

The word of a baldheaded barber who recommends a hair tonic is entitled to as much weight as the average Californian's boosting of that state's climate.

The man who went into a 5-and-10 store and asked for the furniture department was the man who bought a hydraulic ram in order to get a start in the wool business.

Our idea of implicit confidence is the man who believes the label on a bottle of "imported" liquor.

Most marital shipwrecks are caused by trying to steer the bark with a rudder at each end.

If every law on the statute books was rigidly enforced there would not be enough on the outside to carry sufficient food to the prisoners.

A lot of people who are forever howling for justice really ought to be thankful they are objects of mercy.

A nickel dropped into the church collection plate makes a louder noise than a dollar bill dropped in, but the sound does not carry nearly so far upward.

Many Song Hits In Coming Film

The screen has definitely proven itself the outstanding means of bringing a song to the public for the first time and to helping to plug it into "hit" proportions.

Numerous talking pictures have brought to the world catchy melodies that have proven to be extremely popular—many of them in the best seller class.

Ten brand new songs are introduced for the first time in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," the newest Warner Bros. and Vitaphone 100 percent natural color, singing, talking, dancing, special to be shown at the Gay theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, November 3, 4 and 5.

The songs in this comedy picture of Broadway's chorus girls on and off stage are presented by several of the most famous foot-light stars and embellished with surroundings in character with each number.

These ten new tunes are "Song of the Gold Diggers," "Mechanical Man," "And Still They Fall In Love," "Keeping the Wolf from the Door," "What Will I Do Without You," "The Poison Kiss of That Spaniard," "Go to Bed," "Painting the Clouds with Sunshine," "In a Kitchennette" and "Tiptoe Through the Tulips with Me."

Such well known stage stars sing these selections in the pictures as Nancy Welford, Ann Pennington, Winnie Lightner, and Nick Lucas. The tunes were composed especially for this comedy production by Al Dubin and Joe Burke, two of New York's best known song writers who are now under exclusive contract to Warner Bros.

Other principals in the all-star cast of "Gold Diggers of Broadway" are Conway Tearle, Lilyan Tashman, William Bakewell, Helen Foster, Albert Gran, Gertrude Short, Neely Edwards and others. Roy Del Ruth directed.

Nick Lucas, the famous "crooning troubadour," who makes his talking motion picture debut in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," has sung to millions he has never seen. For the past four years Lucas has been under contract to one of the leading phonograph record companies as an exclusive record artist accompanying himself on his familiar guitar. During that time over ten million of his records have been sold, while during 1928 alone three million records of Lucas' crooning voice were bought by an appreciative public.

Many Books Here At New Library

Many new books have recently been accessioned at the city library.

"They Stooped to Folly" is the story of three women, one who sinned mournfully in an earnest age, one who sinned lightly and went to Paris, and one who sinned naturally as though it were her own private concern. The author is Helen Glasgow.

"The Lady of Stainless Raiment" by Mathilde Elker, is the story of a man who married on the assumption that no man is worthy of a good woman.

"Annie," by Constance Fenimore Woolson, is a romance of the Great Lakes region.

"Mother," is a girl's story serving mainly to throw light on a big mother heart beating in the background. The author is Kathleen Norris.

"Scarlet Sister Mary," is the story of life of the Gullah negroes on the Great Blue Brook plantation, and of Mary, who becomes the wife of the wildest young buck on the plantation. Julia Peterkin is the author.

John Masfield gives another thrilling ocean story in "Lost Endeavor."

"The Red Badge of Courage," captures the true psychology of a man on the battle fields and is by Stephen Crane. The book is Crane's masterpiece.

"Buffalo Bill's Life Story," is an autobiography of the thrilling events in the life of this great scout.

"Paul Jones," is the life story of the great naval hero of the American Revolution told in the form of a story by Molly Elliot Seawell.

"Florence Nightingale," is the life of this interesting and beloved woman. "The Angel of the Crimea," told by Laura E. Richards.

"Your Money's Worth," by Stuart Chase and F. J. Schlink is a story of the waste of the consumers' dollar.

"The Merivales," by George Barr McCutcheon, is a tale of an old homestead in the Blue Ridge and the various people who inhabited it. "Blades" by the same author, relates how Blades travelled to a lonely section on the Canadian border in search of some property he had inherited, and of his finding a community of quaint, old-fashioned folk—and incidentally, Cynthia.

"Blair's Attic" by Joseph and Freeman Lincoln, is a tale of mystery connected with an old Cape Cod house.

"The Listening Post," by Grace S. Richmond, is a warmly, human story of married life.

"The Guarded Halo," by Margaret Pedler, is a poignant tale of the price two lovers paid for an untarnished memory.

Elasco Ibenes gives another of his matchless stories in the book, "Three Musketeers."

"The Omnibus of Crime," by Dorothy L. Sayers, is a weird tale of crime, madness and finally, detection.

"Hide In The Dark," will keep you thoroughly amused and you will certainly enjoy the thrills of Mad March Hares of Lady Court. Frances Noyes Hart is the author.

"Swift Waters" by Emilie Lorenz, is the story of a girl who spends a winter in Garston and finds herself in an amazing whirlpool of events.

"A Preface To Morals" is by Walter Lippman, and is a story meant for those who do not believe in the religion of their fathers but who are not defiant or indifferent because of freedom.

"Adrift on an Ice Pan," by Wilfred T. Grenfell, is the story of Labrador people. "A Story of My Boyhood and Youth," by John Muir, is one of the new biographies added to the library.

Other books recently accessioned are: "The Road to Oregon" by W. J. Ghent; "Caleb West, Master Diver" by F. Hopkinton Smith; "Another Day" by Jeffrey Far- noe; "Tess of D'Urbervilles" by Thomas Hardy; "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" by A. Conan Doyle; "Master of Ballantrae" by R. L. Stevenson; "High Adventure" by James Norman Hall; "Cannibal Land" by Martin Johnson; "David Crockett" by John S. C. Scott; "Saint John by Bernard Shaw; "Far From the Madding Crowd" by Thomas Hardy; "Margaret Ogilvy" by her son, J. M. Barrie; "The Fortyfive Guardsmen" by Alexander Dumas; "The Egoist" by Owen Meredith; "Westward Ho" by Charles Kingsley; "Midshipman Easy" by Captain Marryat; "The Doll's House" by Henrik Ibsen; "Masks in a Pageant" by William Allen White; "The Life of the Bee" by Maurice Maeterlinck, and a series of stories for children.

A Prosperity Picture. Lincoln Journal: The October crop report of the state and federal departments of agriculture sets the estimate for Nebraska's 1929 corn crop at 221,137,000 bushels, nearly 10,000,000 more than last year. The drought of the late summer cut the crop in places but the state as a whole has made a remarkable gain. The estimated yield is seven million bushels greater than the five year average.

This increased corn production means additional dollars in Nebraska farmers' pockets. The price of corn this fall compares favorably with that of a year ago so that, barring an unexpected break in the market, the increase in the yield will give a comparable increase in the farm incomes of the state over last year. In other words the income this year, due to the corn alone, should be some eight or nine million dollars above that of last year.

Crop statistics for other Nebraska products make a good showing. The oats yield greatly exceeds the five year average, while the best crop, wheat crop and the alfalfa production are all somewhat above this average. The potato crop is less than the five year average but still of a considerable size, 8,272,000 bushels. The yield of oats was 82,544,000, of wheat 55,441,000, of beans, 1,093,000 tons and alfalfa hay, 2,717,000 tons.

Livestock and dairy products are bringing favorable prices and production is experiencing a steady growth. This combined with the favorable prices and large yields of the grain crops makes Nebraska's prospects look up. Anyone looking for a picture of prosperity can turn his eyes away from the stock market and look over Nebraska's golden fields.

Doctors Meet at Stanton. Stanton, Neb.—The monthly meeting of the Five-County Medical society was held in Stanton. The counties represented were: Madison, Antelope, Knox, Pierce and Stanton.

A dinner was served to about 34 persons, including doctors and their wives, by the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church. The business meeting was held in the city hall. Out of town speakers for the evening were: Dr. E. B. Davis, Omaha; Dr. H. B. Hamilton, Omaha, and Dr. Morris Wilson, of Blair. Dr. S. G. Allen and Dr. H. S. Tennant, Stanton, were the committee in charge.

Do It Today

Clothing of past seasons can be made to do good service for another year by bringing them to us. New linings and facings, cuffs and collars turned or made new, some new buttons, perhaps, with renewed buttonholes, will give the old duds a new lease on life, and add to your peace of mind. The cost is small. The service is prompt.

Blaze, Started by Defective Wire, Causes Loss in Harold Donelson Drug Store.

"Fire, thought to have originated from a defective wire in the basement, damaged the Donelson drug store in Wakefield Friday shortly after noon. The loss to the building and stock, owned by Harold Donelson, is estimated at about $5,000. Insurance will cover most of the loss.

The blaze broke out in the basement near the front of the store. Though it was noticed soon after it started, the smoke and gas made it difficult to locate the fire. The floor of the store was badly burned. Fixtures were also damaged by the heat, water and smoke. The loss to stock was also considerable.

Mr. Donelson will repair the structure as soon as insurance adjusters have inspected the damage.

Store Damaged By Fire Friday

Plan Homecoming At Luther College

Extensive plans have been made for the homecoming celebration to be held at Luther College, Wahoo, November 8-10. Besides the football game between Luther and Concordia colleges, which is scheduled for November 9, several appropriate secular and religious programs have been arranged. Since many alumni, former students, and friends of the school have already designated their intention of being present, large gatherings are expected at all of the festivities. Everyone interested in Luther is cordially invited to attend.

Hon. C. Petrus Peterson, '03, a prominent attorney of Lincoln, has been secured as the principal speaker at the Saturday evening program. Mr. Peterson has made an enviable record in both city and state legal work. He was the city attorney of Lincoln for twelve years and has been a member of the Nebraska legislature. At the

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

GLENNA COLLETT HAD GOLF FORCED ON HER, AND NOW SHE'S THE BEST OF AMERICAN WOMAN PLAYERS

BY PHILIP MARTIN

BECAUSE of a mother's desire for her to take up a game becoming a girl, Glenna Collett forsok baseball, her favorite sport up to the time she was 14 years old, to launch upon a career in golf.

Today, 12 years later, Miss Collett stands out as women's paragon mount golfer. She is the women's Bobby Jones of green and fairway.

They said Glenna had beginner's luck when she first addressed a golf ball, 12 years ago. Her father was among those who watched her drive that first ball straight and true down the fairway. Inwardly, he felt that her athletic training had something to do with the easy rhythm and power of her swing. Then followed lessons from able tutors.

Five years later, 1922 was the year, Glenna won the national championship, defeating Mrs. W. A. Gavin, a British player, 5 and 4 over the Country Club course at White Sulphur Springs, Va. In 1925, Miss Collett again was national champion, winning from Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser by the overwhelming margin of 9 and 8 at the St. Louis Country Club.

Miss Collett captured the national championship for the third time by downing Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago in the final at Hot Springs, Va. In defense of her crown this past season at Oakland Hills, Detroit, she was successful in turning back the challenges of Miss Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. Harley Higbie, Mrs. O. S. Hill, the women's western champion, and Miss Lesma, President, twice winner of the women's western title.

Miss Collett has won every golf title of note, except the British championship. She's 26 now, and there is plenty of time for her to win that, and many others.

YOU'VE heard this expression in baseball dozens of times: "As Babe Ruth goes, so go the Yanks." A change here and there and the expression fits another sport: "As Bobby Jones goes, so go the major golf tournaments."

There can be no denial that golf of this country revolves about Robert Tyre Jones, the Atlanta rubber golfer, from Mississippi, who won the national amateur championship by defeating Dr. O. F. Willing in the final match.

less of the weather, for the fan knows that Jones does both the steady and the sensational. When he goes well, the course rings with cheers. On his bad days, and Bobby has them occasionally—grains follow his erring strokes.

Look back a few months to rock-strewn Pebble Beach, Calif. The stage was set for California's first national amateur championship, the rich event the Golden State had wanted for years. Every amateur of any talent at all made the trip west and California accepted them all with open arms. It gave Pacific coast golf enthusiasts an opportunity to watch Bobby Jones play, to cheer him on, they hoped, to his third straight national amateur championship.

Omaha sent out Johnny Goodman, a youth whose ability was his home section. He was elated over being drawn as Bobby Jones' opponent in the first round match, for it was an honor, indeed, to sacrifice one's self as a mere stepping stone for so great a person as the Atlantan.

The unbelievable happened: Jones lost to Goodman, who played a brave game to overcome the strain that seizes golfers who find themselves pitted against the master's game.

"As Jones goes, so goes the tournaments." Right there the bottom dropped out of things. Attendance and gate receipts dropped. All interest was lost. The idol was eliminated. Who cared about the outcome?

As a matter of information, Harrison Johnston, a mighty name among golfers from Mississippi, won the national amateur championship by defeating Dr. O. F. Willing in the final match.

Three Men.

Omaha World Herald: Beside the trout-river stream that is called the Rapidan two great men walk and talk. Along the shady borders of the purling stream two great men talk of peace. Two men. Two men who look about as other men; who eat a little, sleep a little, work a little and play a little as day follows day down through the years. They bend, as they walk, to avoid low hanging branches; little leafy twigs snap and crackle beneath their feet. One tosses a pebble into the stream and they watch together, engrossed, as the little ripples go scurrying out across the water—across the trout-filled Rapidan. Two men.

Yet the eyes of the world are following them. The attention of civilized society is focused hard upon them. World capitals pause to listen for some significant word. For the two men who are walking there and talking there are dreaming of and hoping for and believing in universal peace. And one of the two occupies the most powerful political position in the world, and the other the next most powerful. They are two men, only two men, yet how much more than that are they! One trips his toe on an unseen stump and smiles at his awkwardness. He is the president of the United States of America. The other smiles in ready sympathy—he, prime minister of ancient Britain.

And the world wishes these two men well. The world yearns now for peace. The world plans now to do its part, to support any magnanimous move these two may make. We, too, wish them well. We, too, believe, and have believed, Mayhap this is the hour, these the men—the two men—for whom advancing civilization has been waiting through the war-torn, bleeding centuries.

Yet over all the bright-hued picture lies one pathetic shadow, almost a bleeding thing. Out from the painting quivers the dim outline of a tragic face, bringing back memories that are very sad to many who gaze upon the canvases there by the Rapidan. The face of one who believed when we felt it folly to believe; of one who dared to hope when everything seemed hopeless; of one who sank into the gray-brown brook, because we did not believe, did not hope, and did not even care.

So many chances for self-improvement these days. Just got to thinking that Santa Claus might have spent the past summer quite profitably cultivating a quieter taste in neckties.—Leesburg Commercial.

A perfect mother doesn't let her cigarret ashes get into the baby's eyes.—Leesburg Commercial.

To Feed Many Sheep In State This Year

Lincoln, Neb., As many sheep may be fed in Nebraska this year as last, according to a survey by the state-federal statisticians.

A large early movement of lambs to feeding sections and the hesitancy to take on cattle for feeding are expected to stimulate the sheep business.

Incomplete July and August receipts of feeder lambs totaled 257 cars as against 205 for last year. Another set of records list 125,000 head shipped in this season as against 95,000 last.

With a larger supply of sugar beet tops and pulps than in 1928, western Nebraska expects to feed about the same number of sheep as last year. Though hay and corn crops are larger than those of the previous season, prices are higher.

Little change has been noted, likewise, in the national feeding situation. Lamb feeding may show a considerable increase in the eastern corn belt states except Michigan. Marked decreases are anticipated in Missouri and Kansas.

Complaint Is Filed

Pierce, Neb.—J. J. Flannagan, Omaha, was arrested by Sheriff E. A. Lambrecht on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The complaint against Flannagan was filed in Thurston county and charged him with selling groceries to farmers near Pender, Neb., taking money for the orders and neglecting to send them to the firm he said he represented. Flannagan was held by Sheriff Lambrecht until the arrival of Thurston county authorities, who took the accused to Pender.

The Daily Question

Why does my radio use so much battery?

Mister, your tubes are old and stiff. You have to turn the volume up full to get reception. When you turn on more current you use more battery, of course.

Tubes are cheap now, No. 201A at $1.25. Replace them with RCA Radiotrons. Cut down battery expense, save money and have better radio reception.

We sell RCA Radiolas, RCA Radiotrons, "B" Batteries, all sizes and prices.

Funeral services were held for Grant Swartz of Ottumwa, Iowa, who passed away at his home there as a result of a bullet wound which he sustained while out hunting with another lad. The boy was aged 15 years and was the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Swartz, former of Carroll.

There is great contrast between 1899 and four years ago, 1895, in a matter of labor. In 1895 a laboring man found it almost impossible to get work of any kind. Now carpenters, masons, painters, and all classes of laboring men are being rushed with work. Farmers are unable to get help enough to get their corn out. In 1895 wheat sold at 37 cents; now it is 47. Oats was then 10 cents and today it is 16 cents. Corn which was 15 cents then, is now 20 cents. Hogs sold for $3.25 and are now $3.40. Times have indeed improved.

things easy my health began to fail.

"I blame all my troubles on constipation, brought on by lack of my usual outdoor exercise. I had to take laxatives almost every night. Then my stomach got all out of fix and nearly everything I ate disagreed with me. I was bilious, felt no account and just had to force myself to keep going.

"Four bottles of Sargon put my stomach in fine shape and the Pills got rid of my constipation and biliousness entirely. I'm through taking laxatives now, but as I was working twelve hours when I was working twelve hours as a day on the farm, I've got a big appetite, everything agrees with me, and I'm so much stronger and better in every way. I feel like a new man."—John M. Duncan, 2109 S. 46th St., Omaha, Neb., Agents.

Restoring German

Geneva Signal: At the beginning of this school year German was restored to the public school course of study at Kearney. This is not an important event to the German language but it and many events of a similar character are calling attention to the fact that the people in this part of the world are again in a normal condition of mind on world war matters.

Newest Sports Wear Has Acquired Cut

THE new mode is by no means a flapper mode. Many of the new models have youth in their every line and feeling. Many of them are created for the young woman barely out of her teens. Yet even these have a subtle lady-quality about them that has nothing in common with the abrupt, sports wear atmosphere of the clothes of the fashion era from which we have just emerged.
