The educational side providing information on selection, care and feeding. Occasional social times accompany the meetings, and picnics are held in the summer.

Wayne county had 148 young folks enrolled in club work last year, and the boys and girls received from prizes and sales the sum of $13,936.

Wayne county baby beavers sold at Sioux City loaning the county fair and the inter-state fair, brought $13,299.96 at the stock yards.

Thirty Wayne county calves took prize money at the Sioux City show. Frank Claycomb received third place in the Hereford class, and eight others from Wayne county placed in the first twenty head of Herefords.

Calf club work, which has been in operation in this county for several years, is made practical. Most of the members get their animals from shipped in herds.

Feeds grown in Wayne county are very suitable for fattening calves, and beef production thus is at a minimum cost under average conditions.

The sow and litter club, led by Walter Carlson, and the pig club, led by Joe Beckenhauer, realized good returns last year. The estimated valuation and sales of animals for the clubs total $2,000.

SUMMARY STATE'S AUTO ACCIDENTS FOR SIX MONTHS

ACCIDENT statistics for Nebraska compiled by the Nebraska Press association and the rehabilitation division of the state department of vocational education:

In Nebraska, during the six-month period ending November 5, 188 out of 2,001 motor vehicle accidents reported in Nebraska's papers resulted in 236 fatalities.

In the 188 fatal accidents approximately 76 autos were completely demolished. At an average value of $1,000.00 per car, the assumed property damage would be $76,000.00.

Assuming a damage of $50.00 apiece to the other 1,925 cars involved in accidents resulting in injury gives $96,250.00, a total automobile property damage of $182,250.00.

Assuming an average burial expense of $250.00 per person, the immediate cost of 236 deaths in Nebraska during six months from automobile accidents has been $59,000.00.

At the time of their deaths, the average age of these 236 persons was 33 years. Standard mortality tables place the life expectancy of a 33-year-old person at 33.21 years.

Of the 236 persons killed in auto accidents, 37 were fathers and 12 were mothers who left behind 93 orphaned and dependent children. Possibly the general public can figure the cost of this item as they may have the bill to pay.

In addition to the 236 persons killed, 79 have been totally and permanently disabled by auto accidents. As the cost of maintaining dependent persons is at least $400.00 per year, this presents another item of public expense amounting annually to more than $300,000.00.

Burn To Death When Car Turns Both Are Charred

Two Young Folks of Pilger Lose Their Lives Monday On Wisner Road.

Dr. G. H. Seavers and Mrs. Eunice Meyers Were on Way to Party at the Time.

Trapped in their overturned automobile and unconscious from the impact, Dr. G. H. Seavers, 35, and Miss Eunice Meyers, 25, both of Pilger, were burned to death Monday evening at 8 o'clock two miles west of Wisner when their car, which was evidently traveling at a high rate of speed, struck a twenty-foot guard fence which was on the south side of the road, carried the fence 100 feet down the road, overturned, struck an embankment and caught fire.

One post to which the guard fence was attached, was caught in the front wheel of the machine and this evidently caused the car to swerve and turn turtle. The bodies of both occupants were charred beyond recognition, being almost consumed by the flames.

Dr. Seavers was a veterinarian at Pilger, having lived there the past four years. He was a veteran of the World War. His father and sister live at Genoa. Miss Meyers was employed at a Pilger bakery the past two months, having gone there from Winside. She leaves her father, Geo. F. Meyers, of Winside, Iowa, three sisters, Mrs. William Boettger of Winside, Miss Irene Meyers of Norfolk, and Mabel of Huron, S. D.

Review Made Of The Past Year Shows Many Improvements In This Vicinity

New Dormitory At Teachers College Is Outstanding Building For The Period.

Reviewing the year of 1929 at its close this week, one finds it has been a period of success and prosperity in this vicinity. Many substantial improvements have been made and a number of others are in prospect. The year has been one of especially favorable weather and as a result farmers harvested some of the largest crops in the history of this section of the state.

Nearhart hall, new dormitory for girls at the Wayne State Teachers College, is one of the outstanding building improvements made in Wayne the past year. The main part of the building and one wing were completed last January, and the second wing is nearing completion. The entire structure was built at a cost of about $165,000 and will house 200 girls.

The new brick power plant at the college is another outstanding improvement of the past year. A new roof on science hall has also been added.

Remodeling of the State Bank of Wayne building, the former Citizens National bank building, is a building project of note and is nearing completion. The front is a duplicate of the state bank architecture. Part of the first floor room is connected with the bank for storage room, and the other part is to be used by the E. R. Love barber shop. Office rooms are above.

A brick building which is in prospect for the coming year will be built by Prof. E. J. Hunter on the site of the M. L. Ranger land office and the P. L. Mabbott barber shop.

Joe Baker is constructing a new brick garage on West First street and this is half completed now. Mr. Baker has also remodeled a frame structure next to the garage and this is occupied by the Gilstad laundry.

The new general exhibit hall at the Wayne county fair grounds was built last summer at a cost of $4,500. The Methodist church has been remodeled on the interior and a new Estey organ installed, the improvements costing about $10,000.

Front of the Robert C. Moore store was entirely rebuilt this fall. B. W. Wright has built a new garage for use of his buses on south Main street. This is a brick and tile structure, a duplicate of his other building.

New fronts of the Walter Savidge buildings and the S. J. Ickler blacksmith shop on south Main street were completed early last year.

The Fisher & Wright Lumber yard put in new coal bins, a new twenty-ton scale and other improvements at a cost of $2,500. All buildings in the yard were also painted.

A new ceiling has been placed in the city power plant building to make the building warmer. H. S. Scace and J. S. Horney built a new bungalow at Ninth and Nebraska streets this year at a cost of $5,000. Mr. Scace remodeled one of his residences on north Main street, and is starting construction of a new bungalow on east Tenth street, just south of the college campus.

County Pioneer Dies At Altona

Funeral Held on New Year's At Homesteaded Farm For John Greenwood

Here Half Century

Deceased Lived in Sod House on Place During Early Years on the Prairie.

One of Wayne county pioneers, John Greenwood, passed away at his farm two miles east and one mile north of Altona, the place he took as a homestead fifty-two years ago, Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, aged 89 years. Mr. Greenwood had been ill for some time but did not submit to an operation on account of his age. He was critically ill a couple weeks. Funeral services were held New Year's afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home with Rev. E. J. Moede in charge. Interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery.

The Greenwalds were among the earliest settlers in the southwest part of Wayne county, coming from Illinois in 1877. Deceased, and his wife arrived at Wisner, then the end of the railroad, and made the rest of the trip to their homestead by horse and wagon. They brought a small amount of livestock and meager farm tools. The prairie was unbroken and no buildings or trees were on the homestead.

The Greenwalds stayed at the Carl Exleben home where they built a sod shanty for shelter. The Exlebens had come from Illinois to a homestead in 1840, being among the first families to settle here. Philip Greenwald, brother of deceased who in last summer had come to the county a year before John Greenwood. The Gabier and Wieland families arrived shortly before the Greenwalds, also Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bastian.

Work of the pioneers is hard but interesting and Mr. Greenwood stayed on his homestead until his death, when he was living with his son, Philip. John Greenwood was born in Hessen, Germany, September 11, 1840. He came to the United States in 1860 and located in Illinois. In 1877 he and his wife came to Nebraska to live on their homestead in Wayne county. Mrs. Greenwood died five years ago.

Deceased leaves two sons, Philip Greenwald of Altona, and Louis Greenwald of Wisner, and three daughters, Pauline at Kearney, Neb., Elizabeth at Oakdale, Calif., and Mathilda, at Joplin, Mo. One daughter, Annie, and one son, John, died.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Kearney, the latter a daughter of deceased, came Monday to attend the funeral.

Man Is Injured As Gas Explodes

Chris Weible Has Side of Face Burned by Ignited Fumes Christmas Eve.

When gas from the radiator of his car exploded Christmas eve, Chris Weible of southwest of Wayne, had the left side of his face severely burned. Mr. Weible's face from his chin to his scalp was scorched. His left eye was not hurt. He received medical care immediately and no scars will result.

The Weible car was standing on south Main street in Wayne Christmas eve. Water and alcohol in the machine were hot because of a leak in the radiator or one of the connections. In order to see how much liquid was in the car, Mr. Weible unscrewed the radiator cap and struck a match. The alcohol fumes from the radiator were ignited by the match, and the explosion burned Mr. Weible's face.

Car Accident Fatal To Boy

Nephew Wayne Woman Passes in Hospital Monday From Injuries.

Is In Auto Collision

Lester Salzwedel of Norfolk, Does Not Regain Consciousness After Being Hurt.

Injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Stanton early Monday morning, proved fatal Monday afternoon to Lester Salzwedel of Norfolk, nephew of Mrs. Clara Henkel of Wayne. The young man, who was 16 years old, was found unconscious in his overturned car about 5 o'clock on Monday morning by a Norfolk traveling man. The youth was taken to Stanton and later to a Norfolk hospital, where he died that afternoon at 1:45. He did not regain consciousness.

As Salzwedel was alone in his machine details of the accident are not definite. From the fact that the front of his car was crushed and that the road where he turned over was torn up somewhat, it is believed that the lad's machine was struck by a hit-and-run driver. Salzwedel's car turned over twice and landed upside down in a ditch, the youth pinned beneath it.

The boy left his home in Norfolk early Monday morning to go to the Ray Chilcoat farm near Stanton to pick corn. Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Salzwedel, deceased leaves two sisters, Stella and Lola May, and three brothers, Marvin, John and Glenn.

Herman Salzwedel, father of the boy is a brother of Mrs. Clara Henkel, and the latter went to Norfolk Tuesday evening to attend the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Kearney, the latter a daughter of deceased, came Monday to attend the funeral.

Resurfacing of Highway No. 15 from Wayne to Altona in the southeast to the county line is progressing, there being but about three miles remaining to be finished. The road from Wayne northwest to the Cedar creek line was completed, solid, level and good. Gravel is laid on the ends of the road south and with favorable weather the layer of gravel soon be applied.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 39 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, January 2, 1930. Anyway, the Sunday school were filled up. You've got to give Christmas credit for that. Much valuable feed is lost and wasted in the snow and slush of winter and spring. A self-feeder will eliminate most of this loss. A customer informs us that his feeder pays for itself every year. Twenty-five bushel size $13.50 and up. We read in the paper that a girl can always tell when she is in love. And she generally does! The editor takes this opportunity to thank the many friends who wrote him cards and letters while he was in the hospital in Rochester. Mighty nice of you. The prisoner was about to be hanged but he was a golfer. Coal satisfaction is not so much in the price, although that is always to be considered, as in cleanliness, economy of operation and the comfortable temperature of the home. Our coals have been selected with the greatest care and as the result of years and years of experience in this line. May we serve you? This was mailed in: "So you aren't going to marry that school teacher?" "No, I couldn't show up one night and she wanted me to bring a written excuse signed by my parents." Christmas dinner is an important friend. You have good food of coal ready or them. Happy New Year! "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"

People who feel pious, should be consistent and convincing, reflect their piety in their attitude toward their fellow-men.

Farmers delayed in picking corn have been taking advantage of the prevailing mild weather. Speed in completing the job is suggested by climatic possibilities in this country.

On an examination of the status of prohibition, both the dry and wet forces in Washington City have announced their satisfaction—the one that prohibition is a success and the other that it is a failure. Thus, each entered the new year in a comfortable state of mind.

E. R. Purcell of Broken Bow, announces that with the beginning of the year he will issue his Custer County Chief, semi-weekly. He has been publishing an outstanding weekly newspaper, with a phenomenal circulation, made possible by quality in a big territory. Ordinarily we do not favor changing a weekly into a semi-weekly, but the Chief is situated in an extraordinary field, remote from large centers, and an unusual demand may justify the venture. We shall watch the experience with interest, hoping that expectations will be fully realized.

The record shows that in deaths, injured, property damage and destroyed earning power, due to automobile accidents, Nebraska lost approximately $10,000,000 during the last six months. In beginning the new year we should resolve to exercise more care and effort in behalf of safety and conservation of life and treasure. Long headway has been made in curbing disease and reducing fire losses, but we are not accomplishing much in preventing fatal automobile wrecks, usually due to careless driving. And it is just as effective and lasting to perish under the wheels of a car as it is to die from the effects of disease.

The city council has been discussing the problem of unpaid paving taxes. A total of $75,000 is past due, and authorities entrusted with the responsibility of collections have been considering ways to proceed. Paving taxes on some pieces of property have never been paid, and bonds looking to such property to meet a share of the obligation will in time become due. What will the council do? To enforce collection on some vacant lots might not realize enough to wipe out the debt. To bring action to satisfy the tax might cause hardship on owners who are unable to pay. But if the property assessed does not respond, the balance of the city will have to pay the bonds, those who have paid finally being required to pay for those who do not pay.

If the irreconcilables of the world were not imprudently to reason they would submit to courts of arbitration, yield to sensible compromise and forever banish the possibility of war. The spirit of peace is not so firmly rooted and the world is not so "safe for democracy" as we had hoped it would be after the conflagration eleven years ago, as witness the huge sums appropriated for war in all countries. The budget for the United States army and navy had been increased $21,504,834 over last year, which causes the Baltimore Sun to suggest: "If preparation for war now costs nearly $850,000,000 a year, and the cost increases $20,000,000 a year, what would it have cost if we had not eleven years ago abandoned war, and one year ago renounced it?"

Speaking before the Kiwanis club, following the noonday luncheon Monday County Attorney C. H. Hendrickson suggested greater newspaper publicity of court proceedings and other public affairs. It is a fact that legal actions of public interest should be made known, regardless of the social or business standing of the people involved. However, it is not always necessary that a suit, or of insufficient consequence to warrant a full trial without which the defendant is likely to suffer serious injustice. It sometimes happens that by publication innocent people would be made to suffer more than the public interest would be served. These are questions which the editor must determine. But as a general rule, we believe the county attorney is right in asking for full publicity in matters wherein the public interest is concerned.

Nebraska Climate.

Writing from Porterville, Calif., to the Lincoln Journal, Dr. A. L. Bixby recalls the Nebraska climate in this way:

"Nebraska may not enjoy zero weather in midwinter but, when unaccompanied by drifting snow, it creates slight discomfort and no serious apprehension of dire results. Who cares for cold feet on the way down town when everywhere indoors is a dependable temperature of 72 degrees? The sturdy physical manhood of the temperate zone is due to the variety of climatic extremes that give to each of the seasons its peculiar attraction. The death of the flowers (and weeds) in autumn; the long nights of winter, with their suggestions of hibernation, with all sorts of home comforts and ample time for intellectual development in the reading of good books; and the Congressional Record. And then the spring, when the green comes back in the trees, the wild birds sing in an ecstasy of delight, and the squirrels flitting from limb to limb in much the same mental attitude. Then the plowing and planting, the musical hum of the lawn mower, with people romping about here and there doing their darndest to get rid of the dandelions. Come a little later the waving fields of grain, trees in full foliage, corn mazing to get ahead of the wild romping glories, everywhere the surface of the earth a living green. The rolling clouds, the refreshing rains, the glad sunlight and the bow of promise in the east, the happy faces of a contented people, and you have the suggestion of a picture difficult to paint in words. To know it you must live it, and the student of geography and history doesn't need to be told just where."

THE NEW YEAR.

The weather on New Year's day and for several days previous was like that of springtime or early fall, and 1930 was ushered in amidst unusual elements for this season in this climate. California addressing newcomers and having short memories, would call it usual. Church meetings, parties, and dances to see the old year out, were numerous, and good roads and mild weather did not hinder people from motoring considerable distances. Good order prevailed in rural communities, so far as we have learned, and nothing happened to mar the spirit of the occasion.

In large centers, New Year's eve is often accepted by many as license to imbibing alcoholic spirits and engage in wild hilarity. The idea seems to be that the year will not start off right without exciting nervous systems with liquid tangefest. But the amount of contraband liquor that did not reach the eastern coast recently doubtless defeated many expectations, causing less animation and subsequently fewer feverish brows and dull headaches.

The year begins auspiciously, we would say. There are many unsolved problems, much progress needed in material development, and spiritual evolution. While many things have been accomplished to make life easier, more constructive and more enjoyable, the future invites attention to many things that may be done. Whatever headway has been gained, we may, under the light of experience and the impetus of greater knowledge, do more and better. It is now important to profit by the past; and buckle down to tasks ahead.

Senator Norris.

Senator Geo. W. Norris is back in Nebraska, and, interviewed by the Omaha World-Herald, expressed the belief that he is a republican, that his record is open for inspection and that people may accept or reject it according to judgment. In the course of the interview, the senator mentioned the combined efforts of the "progressives" and "democrats" in the senate, thus allying himself with the opposing group in legislative action and as witness his flip to Smith—in political campaigns in which he is not a candidate. It would seem perfectly all right to be a democrat, perfectly all right to disagree with the republican party, but it would appear more consistent and more appealing to seek the nomination and favor of the party with which one is most nearly in accord. If the policies of the opposing party are more agreeable, with seldom, if ever, anything to commend or support in the party to which one belongs, it would seem he should back up all his baggage and leave over to the field of his preference and stay there.

In his interview Senator Norris attributed the diabolical cunning of the called power trust, the recent attack made on him by an old friend and townsman, editor of the McCook Gazette. It appears that the editor asked the senator to cooperate in securing an appropriation for flood control in Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado, building reservoirs to store water for use on semi-arid lands. The senator refused to warm up to the proposition, on the suggestion that it might interfere with his battle against the power trust, drew fire from the editor who urged the proposed reclamation movement as a practical aid to farmers in sections of doubtful rainfall. The editor does not believe the power trust should become such an obsession that the senator could not devote a share of effort to improvements that would help farming communities of southwestern Nebraska. So the senator finds himself out of harmony with home folks and erstwhile supporters.

Further in his interview, the senator expressed the belief that prohibition could not be a success as long as politics dictates the personnel of prohibition enforcement officers. However, he did make the surprising concession that prohibition had made some headway. The law is enforced, on

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Oman and Mr. and Mrs. Jason Gorst, the latter two of Worland, Wyo., entertained at dinner Tuesday evening, a turkey which the Gorsts raised being served. Entertain On Friday.

Miss Martha and Miss Emma were entertained eleven young women at the Carl Victor home, the farm relief law as inadequate, not taking care of surplus as proposed by the debenture attachment which he favored. He was reported unimpassioned over either the effects of prohibition or farm relief. If it seems advisable to arouse his enthusiasm over any law, it might be well to open and close it with a savage denunciation of the power trust.

Serving Term In This County

Two Soldiers Fleed Guilty Before District Judge and Are Given Sentences.

Lobby and Blanche Jurgens, found guilty in Wayne county court some time ago on liquor charges, started serving sixty-day sentences in the Wayne county jail Monday. Each will pay a fine of $400, also being released.

Leo Riddien and Everett Hamilton, soldiers on leave of absence from Fort Robinson, waived preliminary hearing in Wayne county court Monday on a charge of taking a car belonging to E. J. Randal of Columbus, from its parking in front of the Ed. Perry residence in Wayne Christmas evening. The two were bound over to district court by Judge J. M. Cherry. Both were taken to Norfolk Tuesday by Sheriff A. W. Stephens and pleaded guilty before District Judge Charles Stewart. Each was sentenced to serve a year in the reformatory at Lincoln. Sheriff Stephens brought them back to Wayne and will accompany them to Lincoln soon.

Leslie Follette, charged in Wayne county court December 27 with giving a $5 no-fund check, agreed to make restitution to the complaining witness and was paroled to William J. Rees for ten days. He will pay costs of $38.20.

Browning Warren, charged with receiving three checks, each for $260, for stock food, and not delivering the goods, appeared in Wayne county court December 23. Defendant asserted that it was not his intention to defraud and on returning the checks and paying costs of $43.70, action against him was dismissed.

A Pledge for 1930.

I resolve

That in 1930 I will remember the benefits that have come to me through living in a state of golden opportunity.

That I will be as loyal to Nebraska as she has been good to me. And I will show my gratitude in forgetting her little faults, which are few, and remembering her great virtues, which are many.

That I will tune my horn to concert pitch so that I may grace a seat in her great symphonic orchestra. For I want to assist in rendering the grand paean of praise that is born in Nebraska fields, whispered by Nebraska breezes, sung by Nebraska birds, loved by Nebraska cattle, clucked by Nebraska hens, hummed by Nebraska industries, and brought to its grand finale by the fervent amens of her grateful citizens.

I resolve, in short, that I will be a consistent, loyal Nebraskan, no matter the weather, in 1930.

All who make and keep this pledge will be awarded the noble title "First Citizen of Nebraska."

Decried at Lincoln in the closing days of 1929.

Appreciation.

The following letter, written by Mrs. E. M. Laughlin, is an expression of appreciation to all Wayne people who helped make the pre-Christmas festivities so successful:

"In behalf of many mothers who have expressed to me their appreciation for the unselfish manner in which the business and professional men of Wayne showed the spirit of peace and good will to the people of our vicinity during the pre-Christmas season, and in behalf of those who voiced a wish that some one would make their gratitude known to those responsible, I wish to thank those who gave so generously of their time and substance to make the Christmas season that has just passed the happiest one we have known.

"It is very hard for one who is not closely associated with children to realize what it means to little tots to be told that Santa has invited them to a party. To go to Santa's house and be told how he wants them to obey their parents, and to be kind and helpful to have Santa listen, while they tell him what they crave for Christmas and be told they shall have it because they have been good, are wonderful experiences. They will watch for a chance to be helpful, to open a door or carry a pall and then say, "That is the kind of child Santa likes," or "Is that what Santa likes, mama?"

"Our Santa was especially good this year, I thought.

"I believe that even without a treat, a display could be made on Main street that would have a permanent effect upon each child's character. Let us show appreciation for and co-operate with those who are striving toward this ideal. Wayne has advanced a long step in her thinking since the time that fowls were dropped from high buildings to be seized by the few. We can arrange for our own tables, but we can only accept with grateful appreciation any influence for good in the lives of our children."

Couple Married At Wendel Home

Mr. Maxwell Green and Miss Amanda Wendel Are Wed Here On Tuesday Noon.

Miss Amanda Wendel, daughter of Olaf Wendel of Wakefield, and Mr. Maxwell Green of Scranton, Iowa, were married Tuesday, December 31, at noon at the home of the bride's father, Rev. John G. Every Kind of Sleeve Except Old-Time Leg-o'-Mutton Adorns Milady's Gown

BY HARRIET

THE bodice portion of costumes is receiving the larger part of Fashion's attention right now. Skirts, what with their longer lines, their swathed hips and their high waistlines completely concentrated attention on themselves this autumn and bodies were left severely plain.

Now that changes. There are many of the newer gowns that feature the long, irregular hemline and other chic style features of skirts—but put the most elaborate work on the picturesque sleeves and quaint necklines.

Fullness creeps into blouses, collars have extreme feminine softness and decorative sleeves are the order of the day. Unusual and very lovely things are happening to sleeves, as a matter of fact. It almost seems as if sleeves are of more importance than any one feature of new gowns. But of course sleeves and necklines bear an unmistakable relation. One can never be content quite apart from the other. Sometimes very elaborate sleeves call for a plain neckline to throw them into high relief and vice versa. But they are related to each other by bonds that are new styles break.

SLEEVES may be long, with fancy cuffs, Bishop cut, elbow sleeve, quaint high sleeve puffs in true Empire style, and flowing three-quarters length. I think the only sleeve that isn't seen in gingham gowns today is the old-fashioned leg-o'-mutton. It may return yet.

Collars that introduce a material not used in the frock elsewhere often use a bit of the goods of the frock to tie the two up. Such a style note is used on one of the new sweater blouses that uses scarlet flat crepe to emphasize scarlet and an ecrued seven material. It has a kind of the women material through which the soft scarf collar slips, with its ends hanging and swaying long and with bottom hem of ecrued, has in tight, long sleeves, flounced five times from the elbow to the wrist and these flounces are lined, respectively, with ecrued in graduated tones of ecrued.

An afternoon frock of black velvet, dotted in Nile green, has a chic little vestee in the Nile green crepe, modernistically decorated and programmed in a deeper green. The sleeves are close fitting, to below the elbow and then fall away in flaring, wide cuffs that are lined with the green, polka-dotted around the outer edge with coils of black velvet.

The ruffled sleeve is a newcomer. The long, tight sleeves of a capricious crepe frock has eight narrow ruffles of peat edged crepe, vanishing from the elbow to the cuff.

At other times of the day we will sell the merchandise in our Clearance Sale over the counter at January Clearance Sale Prices. Don't miss this great opportunity to buy good winter merchandise at your own prices.

The auction feature of our Clearance Sale is new with us but we see no reason why it should not be a great success. We, like every other store, always have a considerable amount of winter merchandise on hand at this time of the year that must be closed out to make room for spring goods. The quicker it can be sold the less the expense of selling. We think Mr. Cunningham can help us sell a lot of this merchandise in double-quick time. Anyway, we are going to try it once. At the auction you will have a chance to name the price that you are willing to pay for these goods—that ought to interest everyone—and bring a great number of buyers who will gladly clear out this merchandise in short order.

These are not old, out-of-date, defective goods we are offering. It is all good merchandise—most of it new within the past six months. It all carries our regular guarantee for quality. We have never heard of anyone taking back any goods that were sold at auction, but we will take back anything you buy at this auction which is not just exactly as Mr. Cunningham represents.

Come Friday at 2 o'clock when the auction starts and come every afternoon and evening while it lasts. You are sure to find merchandise that you are going to need and the savings will be well worth while. We list below some of the goods that will be offered.

Ladies' Fine Stylish Footwear at $2.95 - $3.95 - $4.95

On account of the difficulty in getting properly fitted, we believe it will not be practical to try and auction the Ladies' and Children's Footwear. So we have given all these shoes a good big mark-down that ought to interest everyone, and we will take time to fit them properly. You know we handle good dependable footwear with lots of style and these prices are very low for such shoes. There are over 60 of this season's newest styles to choose from at $2.95, $3.95 and $4.95.

Remember the Days—Friday and Saturday of this week—Monday and Tuesday of next week. It will pay you to come many miles because a lot of desirable merchandise is to be sold.

Dignity

The Price of Service

The modern funeral director has responded to the present-day demand for better service by assuming many new duties and responsibilities. He lifts many burdens from the shoulders of the bereaved family.

To do this requires thorough technical training, up-to-date equipment and the same ability and integrity that is expected of other professional and business men. And it is unfair to compare the cost of such service with prices which obtained in the old days when the undertaker furnished nothing but the casket.

Whether the cost of this service is included in the price of the casket or quoted as a separate service charge, it represents genuine value in keeping with modern ideals and standards of living.

In closing the books for the old year, we look back with satisfaction over the service we have been able to render and the patronage which we have received. In beginning 1930, we believe we have good reason to anticipate a prosperous year.

We shall continue to handle the famous International lines of farm machinery and repairs, and different supplemental lines.

Appreciation of our efforts to improve and extend our service is evidenced by the increasing number who have brought their needs to us and at this time we wish to renew our pledge to do our utmost for outlying farm districts.

Let us know your wants, and we will be prompt to respond. When you think of farm implements, think of us.

With confidence in 1930 and with best wishes to all,

Slander In Congress.

Chicago Tribune: We hope the house will adopt the resolution of Representative Fort of New Jersey for the creation of a committee whose duty it will be to review excesses of speech in that chamber and recommend secure ways they have been slanderous. This would be a measure of self-discipline entirely compatible with that august assembly's self-respect and would provide a restraint greatly conducive to its dignity and public credit. We are not singing out the popular chamber as specially at fault, for the senate is quite as much in need of such self-censorship and would do well to create a similar committee.

The majority of both houses do not offend, but there are, and always have been members of each chamber whom neither good manners nor a sense of justice nor a fitting concept of the decorum which should rule the high councils of great deliberative bodies restrains from reckless utterance. These few discredit the whole body and besides compromising the reputation congress ought to cherish do serious wrong to individuals. This wrong is the more intolerable as it is not subjected to the penalties of private abuse, and it is a clear duty of congress to provide the protection of which the immunities of legislative office deprive the individual.

Built Up His Entire System

"A year ago I began having trouble with my stomach. Starting with touches of indigestion, it got worse and worse, until everything I ate disagreed with me. I became unlearned, weak and rundown generally.

"On the advice of several friends, I decided to try the new Sargon treatment, and now my stomach couldn't be in better condition. My strength and energy have come back to me. Sargon has built up my whole system."

Wanted.

(Josiah Gilbert Holland.) God give us men! A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands; Men whom the lust of office does not kill; Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; Men who possess opinions and a will; Men who have honor—men who will not lie; Men who can stand before a demagogue; And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking!

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog; In public duty, and in private thinking; For, while the rabble, with their thumb-worn creeds, Their large professions and their little deeds—Mingle in selfish strife, for Freedom weeps, Wrong rules the land, and waiting Justice sleeps!

Another Reduction in Long Distance Rates

The reductions made the first of the year are, in brief, as follows:

- 1. Day station-to-station calls (when you ask to talk with anyone available) for which the former rates were from 50 cents to $1.50 were reduced 5 or 10 cents.
- 2. Overtime charges on person-to-person calls (when you ask to talk with a specified person) were reduced substantially for conversations of more than 10 minutes in length.
- 3. The report charge on most calls over distances of more than 88 miles was reduced all the way from 5 to 40 cents.
- 4. A few person-to-person rates which formerly were 70 cents to $1.00 and a few evening rates which formerly were 40 cents to $1.00 were reduced 5 cents.

Following are representative new and old rates for three-minute day station-to-station calls.

Close students of markets and market men who are one hundred percent informed as to the functions of the various agencies in the existing systems of open competitive primary live stock markets, are fast coming to the defense of the exceptionally advantageous method of establishing values.

Such persons, in possession of complete information as to the United States position in the live stock world, are likewise fully conversant with methods employed in other live stock producing countries. They are well advised that those countries, the best thought of their producers as well as their government agencies will seek to advance the welfare of live stock producers, have looked with longing eyes toward the day when they, too, might have established such methods and such a system determined the cash value of their live animals.

It may be asserted, without fear of contradiction, that the methods employed in the United States have never been equalled in the history of man. It detracts not at all from the established fact, but is rather proof of the soundness of the rank and file of live stock producers in these public markets, that in the past few years, the lack and the offer of substitute methods, has detracted on the whole the support of less than fifteen per cent of the live stock producers of the country.

During fifty years of the growth and development of these public markets, the selling agencies in these markets, the commission men, have been under the control of the Live Stock Exchange. By reason of such organization, uniform charge for the service rendered the grower by these agencies has been maintained. On a second's thought is needed to force the conviction that such uniform charge for service is benefit to the grower, for the very good reason that the commission agency has thereby, by its inducement to offer for employment and service rendered to the grower.

That this service charge is most properly best indicated by a survey made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. This survey reported twenty thousand cars of live stock sold in 1928.

ten of the leading primary public markets of the United States. This group included the two largest markets; two of the smallest and six of the middle group in volume of business handled.

As a summary this governmental agency found that of the producer's dollar but Two Cents was absorbed by the market charge. This charge of two cents out of each gross dollar, covers all the stock yards charges, including yardage, feed, inspection and insurance and the service fee of the commission selling agency. It would be wholly unnecessary to declare therefore that the total paid for selling service is the least fee paid anywhere by anybody. It is likewise self evident that if this entire cost were eliminated the saving would not be considerable.

Under the existing system of selling live stock in the public markets, everything is offered in competition. The selling agency having only the service rendered as a bid for the further employment of the owner of live stock handled, must outsell his competitor commission man if possible. He must look alive all the time to secure the best bids possible and to give such general satisfaction as to please his employer—the owner of the stock. Otherwise he will not be employed to handle the next consignment made to the market by that individual owner.

We are in the midst of very great changes in the fields of business and economics. Time will afford proof that not all of this new development is in the long last to be beneficial to the whole public or profitable to those whose products are most involved.

It behooves us all then, where changes are proposed that will affect in a material way our individual interests and future welfare to study these proposed changes most thoroughly before lending our endorsement to them.

The best informed as to the existing system of open competitive primary live stock markets, are convinced that any elimination of this method of selling, the competitive bidding and the competition between selling agencies for employment by the grower, would without question prove to be most costly to the producer if it did not finally bring chaos to the industry as a whole.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: Figures revealing the business situation for the year now closing will not be available for some time, but it is believed that when the complete story is told 1929 will come close to a new record. In fact a record may be established. There was an excellent opportunity for that up to the beginning of the last quarter when the Wall street crash came. Business slowed down somewhat after that but the year still will show a gain over 1928. That means, of course, that business has gone ahead this year, so if the country has enjoyed any prosperity at all since the war it has done that this year.
Reports on the holiday trade have it that it was equal to if not ahead of the same season last year. There was heavy buying in 1928. It will be recalled that last year there was a decided pickup in the last quarter. Indeed 1928 would have made a poor showing except for the increased momentum in the last three months. Holiday trade in 1928 was brisk, and if it has been as good this year or a little better the situation is entirely satisfactory.
Looking back over 1929 it is possible to recall that the mid-winter, spring and summer seasons were remarkably active. Nineteen twenty-nine started with the advantage of an already strong impetus, and there was no letup throughout the first nine months. Trade was better both at home and abroad in volume and value. There was a strong demand in domestic business with an increased buying power, and in addition exports held their own months by month with trade balances in our favor.
Looking ahead into the new year it seems reasonable to say that American business has the opportunity to make good progress. There is nothing basically wrong with conditions, and on but that assumption business leaders are making plans for an active year. The winter months yet to come may be quiet, quieter than were January and February last, but that will not be discouraging necessarily. It takes time for a full return of confidence. The outlook therefore is hopeful and encouraging. Plans made by President Hoover for various industrial conferences ought to get our way and after the first show results.

Under heat 3 1/2 times as great—this oil retains its body

MODERN motors, operating at high speeds, at high temperatures, require a heat resisting oil. The new DIAMOND "SEVEN-SIXTY" Motor Oil is tested under a temperature of 760° F.—insuring a wide margin of safety for the working parts of the new high speed, high compression motors. Even at this heat—over 3 1/2 times greater than the temperature at which water boils—evaporation loss is negligible.

DIAMOND "SEVEN-SIXTY" offers you a new degree of safety, of economy, of motor performance. 100% paraffin base, of course. It is a distinctly new and better lubricant—the best of its type on the market. Try it!
