If murders would go on in Chicago, we would urge that they be kept well within the gangsters' circles.

If India and China feel they are over-populated and need war as a reducing process, we would suggest use of more automobiles as a means of reaching the same end without hostility.

When one discloses a plan for improved service and then later finds it has been captured and turned to advantage by others, he concludes that frankness, usually admirable, may sometimes betray damaging weakness.

People who are being persuaded or who are persuading themselves to enroll as candidates for office, will be required to file before the close of July 3. Filings are not numerous thus far, but they may be expected to multiply rapidly during the present month.

Governor Weaver's report shows the elimination of a lot of useless expense during his administration. He has cut down the list of employes, and has otherwise reduced the cost of operation. GRIEVANCES

Basis for grievance may be so feeble under the light of public survey that the aggrieved one often finds it necessary in reaching for sympathy to add other grounds, usually trivial, sometimes wholly imaginary. One has a purely selfish reason for being against another fellow and wanting to hurt him. The reason is so childish, so unworthy of an adult claiming average intelligence, that one hesitates to advance it as the sole cause for hateful antagonism. The object of complaint has said or done something, bought or sold something that—no matter how meritorious—is accepted as interfering with the selfish interests of the aggrieved, and so he becomes offended and resentful. Deep down in his soul he knows the ground is weak and untenable, that if pushed to the front it would excite public condemnation rather than favor, and that his vengeful desire to hurt would operate as a boomerang. Thus, he looks around for other reasons to warrant his spite. He grabs one thing after another on which to pin his complaint in the hope of popular justification. The real reason—to puerile and selfish to acknowledge—is hidden, while supplemental grounds, less selfish though usually not less trivial, are trotted to the fore to satisfy conscience and to appeal to the public for surferance if not for approval. It is intolerance of other's opinions, their rights, other's ambitions that flaring within a restricted vision magnifies grounds for hostility, puts virus into narrow prejudice and fires the spirit of revenge. The cure would be to lift the perspective above and beyond self and cultivate tolerance which seeks no more than it is willing and ready to give.

making wheel chairs and dishing up learned essays touching the destiny of man.

While alarm is expressed over excessive food production in this country, our surplus is needed to feed hungry millions in China and India. Putting food where it is needed, with adequate returns to producers, is a problem that should be given attention by members of congress when they are not thinking of easier ways to angle for votes.

Less was expected at old-time Fourth of July celebrations. A thirty-mile ride in a lumber wagon to see the goddess of liberty perched on a hayrack, and surrounded by a group of bashful and giggling states, led by the town's band as it played one of its two tunes, would be inconceivable in this day of convenience, luxury and varied and costly amusements.

As we understand, planting of the 1930 corn crop has been finished, and as people were beginning to ask for moisture to soften the surface and tickle seeds into healthy germination, rain came and did all it was expected to do. With an ample mixture of moisture and warm sunshine, delay in growth will be overcome, and barring any unfortunate calamity, crops of all kinds will march on to satisfactory triumph.

The editor of the Winside Tribune evidently thinks it will do Wayne's soul good to wait for gravel between Winside and Wayne in view of previous delay—soon to be ended—in getting gravel between Winside and Norfolk. Such pronounced preference for gravel to Norfolk rather than to Wayne is not explained by a paragraph in the same column protesting against business being carried off to Norfolk. Will gravel to Norfolk make Norfolk break wagons and other wagons kept waiting to Winside to do other business which the Tribune believes belongs to Winside? Consistency is more of a jewel than ever because it is rarer than ever.

Dr. A. L. Bixby appreciating the discord between spiritual value and human slaughter makes this observation of Mark Twain's prayer which is quoted: "Wartime prayers have ever been offered with inspiring fervor on either side of woman's land, and the grotesqueness of it has never been better set forth than in the prayer of Mark Twain: 'O Lord, our God, help us to teach the enemy to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the groans of the wounded, writhing in pain; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to smother the hearts of their unfeeling widows with our unrelenting grief; help us to turn them out homeless with their little children to wander untried through the waste of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of sun-flames of summer and the icy winds of winter, imploring thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes.'"

Good and Bad News.

York Republican: It is so often true that bad news travels by air-mail while good news goes by freight. Recently over the country people read about the storms and floods that struck Nebraska during the present month. They are feeling a sense of pity for the poor unfortunates who have to live in this desolated land and risk their lives and fortunes in terrific battles with the elements. Of course we have had some bad storms and some high water. But the effects of the tornadoes will pass under the brave spirit that dominates our people and right now as the flood water subsides there is the finest prospect for a bumper crop that ever greeted the residents of this section. The subsoil is full of reserve moisture, nature has donned her most prosperous mood, and prospects in Nebraska for a great year were never better. If only this piece of good news could travel by radio and get the front page of distant newspapers, some of the damage done by press reports might be repaired. As it is, the apology will have to wait until this fall when the returns go out for Nebraska's crop of the good year 1930.

Business.

Sioux City Journal: May reports to the commerce department by observers for the United States government in more than a score of countries indicate that the business depression here is shared elsewhere. In 25 other lands there is little activity as compared to former flush periods.

In Japan, Italy, Mexico, Canada and various other countries there is dullness in business. In Great Britain for years there has been a depression never before equaled in modern times. France is better off than Great Britain while Germany is slowly struggling to recover her economic position and is fighting against others. In only one country—and that an island possession of the United States, Porto Rico—was there an unmitigated business depression there is greatly encouraged.

These reports were given to the department in detail everywhere

THE TARIFF.

When President Hoover called congress together last year for the purpose of remedial legislation in behalf of farming communities, he suggested such revision of the tariff as would put agricultural interests on a par with those of manufacturing industries. The president suggested that industry had not been suffering. Farming was the thing that needed helpful legislation.

Then followed, despite the president's advice and in face of apparent need, a reconstruction of the tariff by congress along lines giving more strength to manufacturing than to agriculture. Contrary to the president's recommendations, members of congress set to work fighting for greater direct advantage to constituents and overlooking the broader basis which would prove mutually helpful. It is pointed out by the Christian Science Monitor that as the present bill stands, for every dollar given the farmer for what he has to sell, five dollars are added to the cost of what he has to buy. If true, this is of course unjust. It not only hurts the farmer, but indirectly hurts the manufacturer whose products would suffer decreased demand.

A too high tariff wall, favoring one industry above another, not only weakens purchasing power at home, but seriously weakens trade relationships with other countries. If members of congress would think less of snatching a little tariff concession for home folks as ground for reelection and think more of the general welfare to which every section must contribute and by which each must accordingly benefit, they would more nearly attain the rank of statesmen. A comprehensive policy, a broad plane of action, would more nearly intrude them in the hearts of constituents.

But we are beginning to think the average member of congress is hampered by chronic political stigmatism, and that he cannot see beyond what he often erroneously conceives as ground for neighborhood votes. The tariff has become rather a sectional than a partisan question, and as each section is dependent on every other section, and as the whole is dependent in considerable measure on foreign trade, it should be discreetly modified, made mutually advantageous, opening and developing larger trade reciprocity. The tariff problem should be lifted above the grabbing inclinations of populous centers.

The situation is about the same. Prevailing throughout the world is seen a lull in economic life. It is one of the most peculiar conditions observed in years, and the fact that the depression is worldwide is, indeed, impressive.

It could not be that the depression in the United States has been responsible for the inactivity elsewhere. Rather, it is believed to be the other way around. American export business has declined in scores of millions of dollars, chiefly because of the depression abroad. Peoples there are not prosperous are not contributing to foreign trade in normal amount. They are not buying so much, neither are their sales up to standard figures. Consequently all relationships in trade are seriously disturbed.

A condition of this kind may take years for recovery. The depression is so extensive that adjustments everywhere will have to be made before there is a chance for return to normal. Apparently, the world leaders face the responsibility of stimulating international trade in order to restore confidence and bring prosperity.

One wonders whether a high tariff wall erected in this country can be maintained without a worse condition being created. Something has got to be done to improve conditions throughout the world. Buying and selling must be quickened. How that can be done when it is proposed to keep foreign goods out of the United States is a mystery.

Fairs Show Profit.

Lincoln, Neb.—Secretary Jackson of the state fair board, reported that 62 of the 79 county fairs in the state made profits last year. Their total profit was $54,925.

The report shows the fairs own a total of 2,488 acres of land, valued at $387,150. Value of lands and buildings is estimated at $1,244,734 with $62,925 spent for new buildings in 1929.

County appropriations to fair associations amounted to $183,706, and from cities in which fairs were held to $9,847. Total revenue from all sources was $659,261. Expenditures included $192,827 for premiums, $80,327 for speed events and $110,248 for acts.

Exercises Planned For County Pupils

Promotion exercises for the 146 pupils who finished the Wayne county eighth grade this year will be held Friday, June 13, at 2:30 in the Methodist church, Fred E. Cronin, Platte county superintendent, will give the address. Miss Pearl E. Sewell is arranging special music and other numbers for the occasion.

Annual Meeting Set For Monday

Business of County Rural School Districts Will Be Transacted Next Week.

Annual meeting in all the rural school districts will be held next Monday, June 9, and business matters in connection with operations of the schools will be transacted.

Census in districts should be taken within ten days previous to the annual meeting, Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent, advises. Anyone between the ages of 5 and 21 who claims residence in a district should be enumerated in the census. The name of each child omitted from the census list means a loss of $1.25 to the district through the state apportionment. Now is the time, too, Miss Sewell adds, for making up the transfer list. If a new family has moved to transferred land it is necessary to make out a new transfer. A change of tenants cancels a transfer. Anyone wishing to be transferred must live more than one and one-half miles from the school in his own district and nearer to the school in the adjoining district to which he wishes to transfer. Distances are measured by shortest routes on section lines or traveled roads open to the public. Application for transfers may be made until the second Monday in July. Parents or guardians of pupils or transfer have the right to vote in the district to which such pupils are transferred on all school matters except that of issuing bonds.

House Roll No. 391 passed last year, says that no parent or guardian of the pupils transferred from one district to another shall be eligible to hold office on the school board of the district to which the transfer was made.

Rural pupils who wish to have their tuition paid must make application for such before the first day of July each year. The ruling of the state superintendent's office is that a pupil who does not live in a district which furnishes high school instruction will not be entitled to have high school tuition paid elsewhere for more than four years even though for some reason or other he or she is not able to complete the high school course in his own time.

The new school library law passed last year says that the school board of every school district within the state shall set aside annually from the general funds collected for the use of the district the sum of $5 per teacher employed within the school district and that the amount so set aside shall be by the school board annually invested in books other than the regular text books, which books shall be suitable for the district school library. All except five of the rural districts of Wayne county purchased their $5 worth of books last year.

A new law, also passed in 1929, makes it unlawful for any peddler, agent or salesman to call upon or solicit orders and business from any classroom teacher while said classroom teacher is actively engaged in the pursuit of his or her work. It is designated that a teacher is actively engaged in pursuit of his work between 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. on all days of school he is teaching in session. The penalty for violation of this law is a fine of not to exceed $100 or imprisonment not to exceed ninety days in the county jail. In spite of the law and the warning notices to agents posted on doors of school houses some still solicit at the schools. This year some tried to make directors think that the purchase of their set of reference books would answer for the library law for several years. Reference books are text books other than those used in class work.

Happy Chick News

Another fine rain. It seems that we sure can get things just as we need them this year. Why drive your neighbor's cows or pigs? Sagging wire is an invitation to your neighbor's livestock to take dinner on your property and at your expense. You can stop all this by using Royal American fence which has continuous stay wires running from bottom to top. Good fences make good neighbors. "Genius begins great works; labor, alone, finishes them." Chas. Meyer is getting another Kant-Sag gate. We have the irons and can make them for you any length that you want. "Have any of your childhood hopes been realized?" "Yes, when mother used to comb my hair. I wished I did not have any." Have been making lots of trollees during the past week. We make any design that you want. Just bring in the size and give us an idea of what you want it to look like. We will make it for you. We have lots of picture patterns for you to choose from. Lots of interest is being shown in the new self-feeder. One of our competitors, hearing people talk about it as smart, came over and looked it over. He said it looked "good to him." Billy (who has caught his father kissing the maid) "What ya doin', Dad, missing the maid?" Father: "Bring my glasses, son. I thought it was your mother." We have just installed a new machine for putting on screen wire. Bring in your old screens and have them rescreened or give us the order for that odd screen you need. "We are now passing the most famous brewery in Berlin," explained the guide. "We are not," replied the American tourist, as he hopped off the motor coach. You ought to see that salt feeder we made for Martin Lage for his cattle. Martin was so pleased with it that he had us make another right away. You can feed barrel salt right out in the field with this feeder and still keep it dry. Cop: "Hey, where are you going?" Drunk: (Crawling on stomach along sidewalk) "I'm going to climb this wall if it takes all night." Now is the time to repair those fences while we are having this rainy spell. A few posts now may save rebuilding a whole fence. How about those hay tools—do they need any new wood work? We can duplicate most any piece for them, and at a reasonable cost, too. We have mower and cultivator tongues, too. "To what do you attribute your great age?" asked the city visitor of Grandpa Eben Hoskins. "I really can't say yet," answered Grandpa cautiously, "they's several of these testimonial fellers dickerin' with me." Just unloaded a car of oak flooring this week. Also a car of Colotex. This is the Happy Chick Brooder House factory, Wayne, Nebraska, Station "E" W. E. signing off until next week.

About Nebraska and Nebraskans

Will M. Maupin. A recent Associated Press dispatch under a Lincoln date line said that only one grave among 20,000 along the old Oregon Trail across Nebraska is marked.

The Oregon Trail went north from Ogallala to the south side of the North Platte, then followed the stream, passing through or near the present sites of ridge-pole and Gering, through Mitchell Pass west of Gering, thence on still on the south side and on across the Wyoming line near Henry, Nebr.

The old Paxton was the scene of many stirring incidents. On its big stairway leading up from the lobby the son of a merchant prince was shot by a woman.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cronin of Hastings recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. They were married in Ireland and came to Nebraska in 1879.

Miss Hazel Schroll graduates from the Fairbury high school this spring with the record of never having been absent or tardy during the 12 years she attended school.

An interesting newspaper article was recorded in Nebraska last week, the Fairbury News passing from the hands of Lew Shelley & Son to those of Bryan P. Weekes.

Meridian township, in the extreme western edge of Jefferson county, is a historic spot overlooking the old Oregon Trail that should be properly marked.

When the old trail was abandoned and the sod of Nebraska was turned to make way for crops, every now and then human bones were plowed up.

Bryan P. Weekes is a son of the late W. H. Weekes, another pioneer newspaper man of Nebraska. At the time of his death some three years ago he was publisher of the Norfolk Press.

Perhaps a little personal story in connection with the recent election of Richard L. Metcalfe to be mayor of Omaha will be pardoned.

"Well, it's this way," said the man. "I'm a Smith man and the room up there is headquarters of the Jones club. I was thrown out. Now I'm going back up and you wait and count the Jones men as they drop from that window."

"That's one," shouted the spectators. "Wait a minute," said the recumbent man. "Don't begin counting yet. This is me again."

Workmen engaged in excavating for the Union Pacific section of the new union passenger station in Omaha turned up an old cap-and-ball pistol that had been buried presumably for more than 60 years.

Rebecca June Watson, 79, for more than 35 years a Methodist missionary in Japan, died in Lincoln on May 26. She retired from active service a few years ago.

Memorial Address Delivered Here By Rev. Braisted, Baptist Pastor

Honors, as Immortal Sacrifice of Families of Veterans in World Conflicts.

In a Memorial day address given here Friday Rev. William Ernest Braisted, pastor of the First Baptist church of Wayne, stressed the fact that memories move to a proper appreciation of all true and worthwhile service and sacrifice. Not only the sacrifice of soldiers, but that of fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, wives, children and sweethearts has been made immortal.

"Are we big enough today, to remember others, too? Can we think largely, think straight, and wisely and well?" the speaker asked.

"The blue and the gray can now mingle and love as they will. Can we now begin to think internationally, as Roosevelt said was necessary?"

"We are moved," said Rev. Braisted, "to think this Memorial day of the 10,000 gold star mothers in the United States, a few of whom have gone at last to the graves of their boys in France to weep over small white crosses. But let us not lose sight of the 10,000,000 other women of the world who have also lost their sons. Mothers of men are not first racial, national, friends or enemies, but mothers. If we are big enough today and true enough, we can at last pay in one universal love and mingle a world's tears and sorrow. The world of today needs sympathetic understanding to save it from the blight of selfish thinking that hardens all life and paralyzes all good.

Rev. Braisted showed that people of today were moved through a review of sites of famous struggles, such as Charlestown, Lexington and Concord, Long Island and Harlem Heights, Morristown, Trenton, Monmouth, Yorktown, Gettysburg and many others, to see the tragedies of the past. "We pay tribute to the Monument of Lexington Common, Grant's tomb, Washington's tomb, Gettysburg and Arlington cemeteries, and to the Lincoln Memorial, erected to the man who knew no North and no South. A Lincoln heart in every breast would revolutionize the world," he said.

The pastor declared that the need for thinking was imperative, or of what use were the terms "War of Peace," "War to End War" and "Make the World Safe for Democracy." These idealisms have led to disillusionment everywhere. He pointed out that military nations had not survived better than others and cited as examples, the Egyptian, Assyrian, Babylonian and Roman. He spoke of the downfall of great military leaders as Alexander of Greece, Philip of Macedonia, Napoleon of France and Bismarck of Germany. At heart today, Rev. Braisted said, all national leaders desire true peace. The debatable issue is on the methods and the means to use them. War is a cruel habit, at best, a moral decay at worst. War has caused a vast waste of accumulated treasure and brought a weight to bear on the posterity of the world. Seventy-two percent of federal taxes are now war charges; eight percent is used for government administration and only two and one-half percent for education, Rev. Braisted brought out. Our army and navy apportionment even now surpasses that of Great Britain, Japan or France.

"War," averred the speaker, "is a waste of life, of personality, of highest values of social fellowship, of good will. Cultural values are not only destroyed—youth who builds these values is destroyed also. War corrupts moral judgment by stimulating avarice, prejudice, hatred and bitterness. War at best, means only a victory of force of speed, and has no guarantee that right or justice shall be its issue."

Rev. Braisted recommended that people of today think largely on the solidarity of humankind, of the unparalleled intermingling of people in travel, in business, through the various modes of communication. The world thinks with each new discovery and the people on its surface must learn to live together. The speaker stated that in spite of this fact a new god of nationalism has been set up in all lands, as Nebuchadnezzar set up the image in the days of Daniel, or as in Rome, the state was incarnated in the Emperor who demanded worship as a deity. This worship of nationalism is world-wide whether in the term of Fascism, Socialism or in the easy name of Patriotism. The self-determination of the people has been made a part of it, however well intentioned as set out in the World War manifestos. Rev. Braisted believes, straight, fair, clear thinking is the only way the problem can be solved.

The speaker stated that world-determining issues depended on the answer to the problem of racial good-will or racial ill-will. This involves all the peoples of the world and indicates racial points of possible great danger, and immediate problems of challenging importance.

Another big problem of the day is the economic aggression of big business, this involving smaller problems of raw material and cheap labor. Entangling alliances are being formed the world around demanding military protection that involves trespassing on international good will, at least, and often on the clearly defined rights of national internal affairs and rights.

"People of America, of the United States, must learn to think more justly. Prosperity alone," continued the speaker, "has never saved a people. We must face the very life of our democracy and ask ourselves if it can live. It has never been proved. The repelling of lawlessness by law and order is a big means toward insuring the life of our government. Extreme nationalism, or Nordic pride, even in our own country must be controlled, or the whole nation must suffer."

Rev. Braisted stated that equal justice, even now seems far in the future, as judged by one of the sanest publicists and jurists, the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft. Real justice, for which the men of the G. A. R. fought, is far from a reality, still, in freedom, life-security and privilege.

In conclusion Rev. Braisted summed up the problems that must be faced, even as was faced but in an entirely different spirit. World issues must be studied dispassionately and unselfishly and with a recognition of the fact that all nations have equal rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of as much happiness as can be gained in mutual good-will and inter-dependence. "No nation can longer live unto itself, and hope to live long, happy or well."

In opening his address he gave a special greeting to veterans of the Civil and World wars. After the Memorial program, all went to Greenwood cemetery to decorate the graves of veterans of the G. A. R. and of the World War. Rites were held over the grave of the late Herbert A. Welch.

PRICE OF PORK IS DETERMINED BY PRODUCTION

The state and federal division of agricultural statistics has issued a chart which shows in a flash how pork production and the price of pork are inseparably related. The chart and its accompanying figures and statements are issued for the purpose of suggesting a method by which low prices for pork can be prevented at the place of control. Carefully gathered statistics prove that prices of pork rise and fall with methodical precision. What happens is just this: Rising prices for pork, due to a shortage in the pig crop, induce the breeding of more sows and the raising of more pigs. An over supply of pigs produces an oversupply of pork which brings down the price. Faced by a low market price and then the prices begin to rise.

To cure this preventable situation a pig survey is in progress over the state. One thousand and one hundred rural carriers are distributing 11,000 pig survey cards to farmers. In addition 8,000 cards are being addressed to farmers by post-masters. These cards, when filled out and returned to the division of agricultural statistics, will show the present pig situation and a digest of the situation will allow breeders to adjust their production to the prevailing demand.

The June pig survey will give farmers nation-wide information as to the size of the spring pig crop in comparison with past years, for the survey is a nation-wide undertaking. It will also give them information on the breeding intentions of the fall pig crop. A December survey will enable farmers to have a view of the fall pig crop. With such information at hand it will be possible for farmers to adjust their breeding to supply and demand.

Two Will Finish University Work

Crossland will remain in Minneapolis about a week before returning to Wayne.

Crop Conditions Good Over State

Lincoln, Neb., May 29—Farmers took advantage of the sunny weather of the past week to get in most of their corn, the weekly crop report issued by the weather bureau says.

"Dry and sunny weather," says the report, "prevailed most of the week with cool nights and moderately warm days. Local frosts occurred in some northern and western counties but without material damage. Corn planting made very good progress and is approximately two-thirds done. Not much corn is up yet and a moderate amount of replanting has been necessary because the previous cool and wet weather prevented germination. Winter wheat, rye and spring grains are in very good to excellent condition except that Hessian fly has caused considerable damage to winter wheat in the southwestern portion of the state, causing some fields to be plowed up. Winter wheat is jointing generally and some wheat and much rye is in the head. The alfalfa crop is excellent and cutting has begun in a few places."

The story is based on a play, "Pardon My Glove" by Zoe Akins, author of "Sarah and Son." Bancroft is seen as the structural steel worker who becomes a successful business man and tries to "crash the 400," with surprising results. Mary Astor, Fredric March, Stanley Fields, Ben Hendricks, Jr., David Durand and Freddie Burke Frederick support the star.

Boy Lands Catfish. Stanton, Neb.—White adult fishermen were spinning yarns about their "big catches," Lester Krueger, 15-year-old Pilger boy, landed a genuine fish. Young Krueger has landed several three and four-pound fish, but he topped his record by catching a 15-pounder. Catching a large fish is a task.

but landing them is still more of a problem, for just as the lad got the fish to shore the hook slipped from the side of its mouth, so the boy dived and landed the catfish with his hands. The fish, measuring 32 inches long and 19 inches around the head, was pulled from the Elkhorn river. Try a Wayne Herald Want Ad.

There Are Two Kinds of Courtesy

There are two kinds of courtesy, as we see it. One is the kind business people practice because it is good business to do so. The other is the natural kind—the kind that is practiced for its own sake. Of the two, we choose the latter. We are sure you do too. We try to cultivate the same hospitable courtesy at this bank that you extend to your guests in your home.

Florence Oil Burning Water Heaters

A SIGN OF THE TIMES. It is hard to think of a thing that brings more comfort every day to every member of the family than a constant supply of hot water. That so many families everywhere now enjoy this comfort is a sign of the civilization of the times. And it is now possible—in fact, easy—for any home to have constant hot water whether one lives near the city gas mains or not.

Florence Water Heaters make this possible and furthermore they make it inexpensive, for they burn kerosene, one of the cheapest of all fuels.

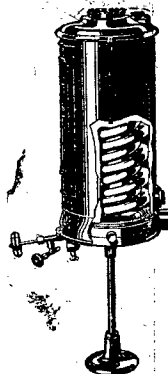

The cost of operating a Florence Water Heater is only a few cents a day and any plumber can easily install one.

There are different models to choose from, both automatic and otherwise, at prices that will be comfortable for different sizes of purses.

The automatic types operate under thermostatic control, with a pilot light, and require absolutely no attention on your part other than an occasional filling of the oil tank.

Each Florence heater is highly efficient, staunchly built and long-lasting. They make it possible for your family to revel in the civilized joy of constant hot water.

Running Hot Water When You Want It With the American Copper Coil Water Heater

Hot water in abundance! An inexhaustible supply of clean, pure, hot water for any purpose any time, day or night at the turn of a faucet. What luxurious comfort the American Copper Coil Water Heater provides for country homes as well as city homes located beyond the gas service limits. Hot water for washing, shaving or dish washing almost instantly; many gallons of steaming hot water for the bath or laundry in ten to fifteen minutes. The heater may be installed in the basement or kitchen with any type or size of water tank. It is easy to install, simple to operate and requires no attention after lighting.

A WONDER IN TRAFFIC

Oldsmobile's ease of handling and quick responsiveness make it a wonderful car in traffic. Every control operates so smoothly and effectively. Clutch, brakes, gear-shift, and steering—all work with delightful ease. A touch on the throttle, and the car flashes away as the signal light changes. And it pulls down to a smooth, silent stop immediately, when the signal's against you. As for parking, just try it yourself. Pick a restricted space at the curb—and see how easy it is to fit Oldsmobile into that space. Then, when you've tried these things, try Oldsmobile on the road. Its all-round performance will tell you why Oldsmobile is such a great car to own.

O. S. Spillman In Memorial Address

In his Memorial day address given here Friday, former Attorney General O. S. Spillman of Norfolk, stressed the fact that all citizens should vote as a duty they owe to themselves and to their country. Instead of becoming indifferent and bitter because of the outcome of certain issues they should cast their votes, remembering that every vote cast adds strength.

The speaker stated that people throughout the country would have a clearer idea of political affairs if they would read the body of newspaper articles instead of hurriedly scanning the headlines. Many times headlines are confusing and will cause one to misconstrue the trend of affairs of the day.

Mr. Spillman urged his listeners to carry on the work begun by the men who fought in the Civil war to preserve the union and by the men of the World war who fought to make democracy safer.

Probably the people who think the country will be made wiser by The Literary Digest, poll, are the same who thought it would be made dry by the Eighteenth Amendment.—Detroit News.

"I'll Praise It Long As I Live"

"I'll never get through praising Sargon as long as I live. For 15 years I was subject to attacks of rheumatic pains that nothing would relieve until I started this medicine. My right arm hurt so I could hardly raise it and if I tried to do a little sewing the pains would nearly drive me distracted. I suffered both with indigestion and chronic constipation. I have taken 8 bottles of Sargon and every ache and pain is gone. My stomach is in splendid condition and my appetite is fine.
