Wayne county's eighth annual fair, which closed here Saturday evening, attracted crowds totaling about 23,000 for the four-day session. Visitors came from practically every place in northeast Nebraska and many from more distant points. Thursday and Saturday drew the largest numbers, about 6,500 being on the grounds each of these days, equal to the largest the fair has ever had. Gate, grandstand and other proceeds amounted to $12,000. Though expenses for entertainment, premiums and prizes were heavy, the association expects to have a good balance to apply on improvements. Weather was favorable each day.

Plea Of Guilty On Two Counts

John N. Anderson Fined and Loses Car—Chelsea Thompson Is Out to Aid Family.

Charged with possession and transportation of liquor, John N. Anderson pleaded guilty in Wayne county court Monday to the two counts and was given a fine of $100 on each and costs of $8.35, a total of $208.35. He was lodged in the county jail until the sum is paid.

Chelsea Thompson, who started August 9 serving a ninety-day sentence on charges of intoxication, possession of liquor and mistreatment of his wife, was released by the court Tuesday, after serving thirty-seven days, in order that he might find work and support his family. Stipulations in his release are the following: He will procure work and support his family; he will abstain from use of liquor; he will treat his wife and family well; he will keep away from poor company; he will return to serve the remaining fifty-three days if he breaks parole; and he will pay costs of the action as soon as possible. The action does not shorten the sentence but gives Thompson an opportunity to help his family.

Mr. Nichol had been failing for three years but was very ill since last May. His last critical illness began Monday. Funeral arrangements are not yet definite. Burial will be held at the Beckenhauer parlor. The O. O. F. lodge of which he deceased was a long-time member, will have charge. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Nichol who had a fine pony was chased from near Sioux City in the early days by three Indians. Nichol warned Munson who was planning to seek safety but the latter did not and he was scalped. Nichol escaping, Mr. Nichol suffered the blizzard of 1888 and lost 1,000 cattle at that time. These and many other pioneer hardships he surmounted.

WEALTH OF SHOW AND GOOD SPIRIT DENY BAD TIMES

TO say that two million dollars worth of automobiles were employed to convey crowds to the Wayne county fair is no exaggeration. An average daily attendance of 6,000 people is a conservative estimate based on receipts. Attendance was the largest, exhibits the best, programs the most satisfactory and the general interest the liveliest in the history of the fair organization. No suggestion of gambling was permitted, and manifest good nature and good order prevailed. Everything in the entire experience was a sharp refutation of the claims of drought or depressed times.

Radio Address Tells Of Courts

National Judicial System Protects Every Person, F. S. Berry Shows.

Message On Radio

Gives Talk From Station KFAB In Observance Of National Constitution Week.

"Courts cannot save us from ourselves; the federal judiciary can only protect for us those rights which we retain and do not surrender," asserted F. S. Berry of Wayne, in an address on "The Judicial System Under the Federal Constitution," from radio station KFAB, Lincoln, Wednesday evening in observance of National Constitution week. "Every time we give to government by constitutional amendment power to dominate and regulate our lives we take just that much freedom from ourselves; and when asked for redress the court can only say to us, 'you voluntarily surrendered those rights to the government by constitutional amendment and the court can no longer protect you.'" Mr. Berry warned his listeners against hasty, ill-considered, frequent amendments to the constitution. He also gave warning against the tendency of government in recent years to attempt to prohibit, restrict, dominate and control everything. In the final analysis, stated Mr. Berry, the constitution and government reflect the people. He urged all to equip themselves intelligently and morally to meet the storms yet to come and thereby assure destiny.

Must Be Governed By State That It Is Obvious that Civilization cannot exist except by government of law."

It is equally apparent that government without means of administering the law, and hence courts developed. All are familiar with local justice of the peace court, municipal courts, county courts and district courts, where differences between individuals are tried, and most have knowledge of the state supreme court, whose word is final as to what is or is not the law of the state. Many have less contact with the United States courts and it is these Mr. Berry spoke of last evening.

Articles Are Weak, "One of the weaknesses of the Articles of Confederation which came into being during the Revolu- tionary war was the failure to establish a judicial system. The fathers were fully aware of this. They realized also that state courts would be improper tribunals in which to vest judicial authority of the nation, knew that local spirit and dependence upon popular will and partisan politics might easily disqualify at least some judges of the states from an impartial ex- ecution of the national law, and realized that under such a system any uniform construction of the provisions of the constitution of the United States and of laws passed by the congress would be impossible. And so the constitu- tion, which was completed and signed exactly 143 years ago to- day, provides that "the judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court and in such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time establish."

Speaking in general way," said Mr. Berry, "the federal courts have authority to hear and deter- mine cases arising under the con- stitution and laws of the United States, cases in which the United States is a party, those between two states of the union, cases be- tween citizens of different states and certain others. The constitu- tion itself establishes the super- ior court. This court sits at Washington and is beyond the power of government to abolish or destroy. It has authority to try cases affecting ambas- sadors, public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state is a party. In certain other causes it has appellate jurisdiction, i.e., authority to review on appeal cases tried in other courts involv- ing questions arising under the constitution and under national law. As to such matters its au- thority is final. Wisdom of the supreme court, continued Mr. Ber- ry, is construing and interpreting the constitution and impartial de- termination of all matters coming before the court are outstanding factors in progress of this nation.

Have Inferior Courts, Certain other federal courts, in- ferior to the supreme court, have been established by congress. Mr. Berry explained. These are creat- ures of legislation and can be in- creased, decreased or abolished by the same power which created them. Each state has federal dis- trict courts, known as trial courts, (Continued On Page Two.)

PRIZE BABY BEEF TO BE CENTER OF ATTRACTION HERE

D. H. CUNNINGHAM au- thorized to buy for the Herald one of Wayne county's prize baby beefs to be sold at auction in Sioux City today, and if there are no slips in the plan, the animal will be dressed and shipped to Wayne for a free feed Saturday, September 27. The public will be invited, and next week's Herald will give the hours and other de- tails. The beef will be roasted in the big ovens in the Johnson bakery, and accompanying buns, sweetly buttered, will be made with coffee of richest flavor. Rarest young beef, buns from the bakery, butter from the Wayne Creamery and cream from Fairview farm will all be Wayne county products. Roe & Crawford of the Central Market will receive the beef and put it in shape for the feast. Necessarily imported coffee will be used—such justly popular brands as are featured by local dealers. In the serv- ing it is expected to have am- ple assistance to avoid delay and congestion. We think the eminently worthy efforts of Wayne county's 4-H clubs, en- couraged by the Wayne county fair, deserve this recognition, and that people will enjoy the treat.

Suffers Injury As Horses Run

O. M. Scherer Of Pilger Has Ribs Torn Loose And Scalp Cut Here.

Two Animals Hurt

Wheel of Wagon Catches and Frightens Eight Prize Bel- gians at Wayne Fair.

When one wheel caught on the wagon to which O. M. Scherer, Pilger, had eight prize Belgian horses hitched at the Wayne fair grounds Saturday afternoon, the wagon turned over and caused a runaway of the team, Mr. Scherer suffering several broken ribs and a scalp wound and two of the horses being cut considerably. Mr. Scherer is improving satisfactorily at the Wayne hospital and it is thought no complications will develop.

The eight Belgian horses, which Mr. Scherer drove each day before the grandstand, showed remark- able training in team work and control of the owner.

Mr. Scherer and his son were driving the horses two abreast Saturday and stopped at the west side of the track. When they started to turn to go east again before the grandstand the fifth wagon wheel caught. Mr. Scherer had his son jump from the wagon and he himself held to the lines to control the horses. The wagon dragged on one side and frightened the animals. Each time Mr. Scherer called, "Whoa," the horses stopped and then became frightened and ran on. Mr. Scherer was thrown between the wagon and two back horses. All the ribs on one side of his breast bone were torn loose and a deep gash was cut in his head. His chest, back and arms were bruised and scratched. The two horses next to the wagon had the lower part of their legs cut. The wounds on one mare are especially severe.

When Mr. Scherer felt exhausted on the track, the horses ran to the north gate and halted when the second pair of horses caught in some trees. A heavy fence at the edge of the track served as guard to the many onlookers who stood by to watch the fair per- formance.

Voters Petition For Open Season

Commissioners Pray Open Period On Pheasants for County's Hunters—No Report Yet.

Request seeking open season for this county on pheasants was filed Tuesday with the state department by members of the Wayne county board, meeting that day in regular session. A formal petition, signed by forty-two voters in the county, circulated last week, was submitted to Commissioners Frank Erbelein of Wayne, Henry Frankhvisch of Carroll, David Koch of Winslow.

The petition backed the request sent to the state department, and reinforced the wish expressed among the voters for an open sea- son.

There is no open season on pheasants in Nebraska. Counties may get open season by such application to the state. Applications this year were to have been in the department by September 15 in order to receive consideration.

Acceptance of the petition will open a short, restricted season on the birds in October. Commis- sioners expect to hear soon whether or not the petition reached favor- able consideration in Lincoln, although no action has been re- ported as this edition goes to press.

Has Knee Injured In Car Accident

Reo Mears of Wayne, sustained a cut on one knee which required several stitches to close Saturday night when the car which he was driving ran off an embankment on the highway west of Winslow. A broken spring gear caused young Mears to lose control of the car which plunged over the embankment and through a wire fence, into a field. Three companions who were with him were uninjured. Some damage was done to the car. A Winslow physician cared for the young man.

Annual Convention Of Farmers Union

Charles Schellenberg of Winslow, was chosen county delegate to the seventh district meeting which will be held soon in Norfolk. The next Wayne county meeting will be held in Wayne in December.

YIELDS OF CORN WILL VARY MUCH IN WAYNE COUNTY

ERNEST Bichel who is a close observer of crop conditions believes Frank Weber's corn on bottom land just south of town will yield fifty bushels to the acre. This is a careful esti- mate made as part of the crop was cut and put into a silo this week. But Mr. Weber's field is one of the exceptions to the rule this year. On account of the prolonged drought, corn on bottom lands will average more than on high ground. Also about three-fifths of the corn of Wayne have been increased by timely rains. Mr. Bichel thinks fields in those favored parts will average from thirtyfive to forty bushels to the acre. He believes corn west and north of here will run from twenty to twentyfive bushels to the acre. He adds that ears are usually well filled and sound and gen- erally beyond danger of dam- age by frost. He suggests that a light frost might prove benefi- cial.

where cases are heard before the court or before the court and a jury in much the same manner as cases are tried in district courts of the state. Cases between citizens of different states, where more than $3,000 is involved, are tried in these courts to do away with any possible disadvantage a non-resident might have.

Ten Circuit Courts.

In addition to the above mentioned courts, Mr. Berry added, congress has established ten different circuit courts of appeal which sit as appellate courts in various parts of the country. Any litigant who feels justice has not been done him in the federal district court may have his case heard on appeal in the circuit court.

Judges of federal courts are appointed for life and good behavior. They are removed from possible influence of popular will or partisan politics.

Anarchy and Tyranny.

"The men of a century and a half ago were students of history," Mr. Berry stated. "They knew the capacity of unrestrained liberty for anarchy and the torch of the mob, and that to form a government it was necessary for the people to surrender certain rights to the government in order to secure the benefits of liberty. But on the other hand they knew the capacity of the government for tyranny, and that throughout the ages armies had marched and counter-marched over hills white with bones of men and across valleys drenched with human blood fighting for liberty and against the oppression of government. Ancestors desired to and did give to the government in the constitution those things essential for a government to function efficiently, and at the same time retained for the people and kept safe from domination and encroachment of government the liberty and rights of the people which were justly theirs." Today no executive and no congress can take from the humblest citizen the liberty and rights of the people not surrendered to the government in the constitution. In the federal judiciary, described by the speaker, is vested the power which protects rights.

Rights To Persons.

The constitution gives to every person and to his home the right to be secure against unreasonable search and seizure, gives to the individual the right of freedom of speech, the right to worship God as he sees fit, the right to an accused of speedy trial, the right of trial by jury, the right to own property and not have it taken from him except for a public purpose and then only on payment of its value, and the right to live his own life in his own way so long as he does not transgress upon the rights of others. There is no distinction under the constitution of race, creed or condition of life. If by mere act of congress these rights could be taken away from the people it is self-evident that the constitution would not be "The supreme law of the land." If the courts had no authority over unconstitutional legislation congress could destroy the states and their governments, declare there should be no president and establish one church or prohibit worship entirely. "The fathers never intended," asserted Mr. Berry, "and we don't intend now to place our lives, our liberty, our property and the welfare of our country en-

Enjoy Rest At Minnesota Lake

A ten-day stay at Teepee Tonka lodge of Green Lake in Minnesota proved a real rest and vacation for Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Jones of Wayne who recently returned from there. The lodge which was, in the early days, a large farm, was turned into a resort because of the many visitors who camp each year to hunt and fish.

All who visit the lodge go to the hotel for meals. The cooking and serving are in country style. Sometimes 100 people are at the lodge and become a part of the "big family."

In the past few years the resort has become very popular for Lincoln, Omaha, Sioux City and Kansas City people. Hunting and fishing are sports in season. The lodge is situated in the heart of the lake region and there are many beautiful spots nearby. Alexandria is only a few miles distant and parties from the resort go there for amusement. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rusicka of Omaha, and the Wilbur Jones family, also of Omaha, were at the lodge at the time Mr. and Mrs. Jones were there. Wilbur Jones is a nephew of Mr. Jones.

Weather was ideal for an outing. The heat of the day was never felt near the lake and nights were very comfortable. Crops were spotted. The Joneses noted that Minnesota grew a great deal more corn than they were aware of. Some was good. Near the lake hall had taken an area of corn. Mr. and Mrs. Jones agreed that they had seen no country in their trip whose crops could compare with Wayne county.

While away Mr. and Mrs. Jones went to Minneapolis to visit Mr. Jones' aunt, Mrs. C. T. Moffet, and to attend the Minnesota state fair.

Westerner Stops In Wayne To Visit

Crops in North and South Dakota are fair, reports C. A. Grothe of Pomona, Calif., who arrived in Wayne Wednesday morning for a short visit with friends after spending a few weeks in those states. Mr. Grothe looked after land interests at Wauwata, N. D., and then came to Huxon, S. D., to see his son, Carl Grothe.

Conditions are fair in California too, Mr. Grothe says. The tourist crop for the southwest is one which seems to be quite steady.

Mrs. Grothe is enjoying good health. Mrs. Maude Davis, daughter of the Grothes, lives at Redwood, Calif., and Marion Grothe, their son, resides in Upland, Calif.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 29 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, September 18, 1930. Vol. 4

The recent census in Wayne county developed a gain during the ten year period from 1920 to 1930, of 201 farms and 839 population. That does not look like agriculture is slipping into the big fellows in Wayne county.

It was a great pleasure to serve John Grimm with a big load of those excellent white cedar posts we have in stock. They're the best we've seen this year.

A few days ago a friend told us the following story: Sophomore. "You know I have a notion to quit school and go into the lumber business." Sweetie. "Well, you have a good head for it." We think our friend was rubbing it in a little, don't you?

The most effective form of farm relief is that provided on her abundant dinner table by the farmer's wife. The most effective way to keep hogs and other stock where you want them is American fence. Prices are very low at present.

It is said that a burned child dreads the fire; and a newly married man certainly avoids his old flames. You can avoid dissatisfaction and regret by burning Hot Lump coal.

There is no substitute for a gentleman. And as we have often remarked before, there is no substitute for American fence.

Coal is arriving daily. We have a wonderful furnace coal at $8.50 per ton.

A friend in need needs to save his money so he won't get that way again. You'll save money by using our coal.

English Prof.—"Tell me one or two things about John Milton." Student.—"Well, he got married and he wrote 'Paradise Lost.' Then his wife died and he wrote 'Paradise Regained.'"

A local philosopher says, "The only sure thing about the other fellow's game is that you're a sucker for biting at it."

When the year draws to a close, the only ungraveled highway between Norfolk and Sioux City will be that between Winnside and Wayne, and it is hoped this important stretch will come next in order.

This being constitution week it may be well for one to reflect that this great fundamental document was framed and adopted for the purpose of insuring equality of human rights, and as a friend of all, it deserves the loyal support of all.

Cool nights suggest frost and reappearance of logy boxelder bugs which park, unannounced, on exposed surfaces like the neck or face, preferably the nose. The cause for these boxelder bugs has never been made clear, but the way they sit on human bipeds, we presume they are entertaining the same question about us.

Gallantry - politeness should not be allowed to go out of fashion. Respect for women by men, or for the aged by the young should be emphasized in the course of culture and character development. Doing little, helpful things for women out of consideration for their sex makes one finer and stronger, and it is an old habit that should be kept up.

The York Republican rightly suggests that the best farm aid is the work of the 4-H clubs. Results from the endeavors of these clubs, as emphasized in exhibits at county fairs, show growing interest and mounting value. Methods for the production of better animals have been carefully inculcated and have been readily turned to advantage by the farm youth. From a small beginning some

PRISON CONTROL. A picture at the local theatre the first of the week emphasized the problem of prison control. It showed congested quarters and unwholesome contacts between hardened criminals and first offenders. It showed too little to think about and too little to do. It revealed deadly duplicity and coercion among prisoners - hard-boiled sinners crushing the spirit and blasting the hope of comparative innocence.

The problem of prison reform is an old one, and doubtless much improvement has been made in handling convicts. It is still a serious question with need of utmost wisdom to do the most good and the least harm. The idea should be to reform prisoners if possible and build into them elements of good citizenship. Many are professional criminals, and doubtless liberty means to them resumption of evil ways. Many others are comparatively free from criminal instincts and have yielded to temptation through bewildering necessity and temporary lapse of judgment.

Many equally guilty with first offenders have escaped detection and punishment, growing in strength to resist temptation and becoming worthy citizens. Why not give the fellow caught and incarcerated a chance to reform? The hardened criminal without conscience is a blighting influence on efforts for betterment.

Overcrowded prisons make segregation generally impossible, and the policy of reformation is given little chance in scheme of restraint and punishment.

In Wisconsin many convicts are taking advantage of education by correspondence, occupying much idle time in that way and preparing themselves for the future.

Morp room, more acres to cultivate, more careful discrimination in association and more effort to impart hope to wrecked or crippled humanity would seem desirable. The prison problem is one that needs most carefully exercised judgment.

years ago, the club work has been enlarged and extended with great promise of big and lasting benefits. Live interest in the different farm clubs is one of the most important services of county fairs.

An Omaha stock broker of long and wide experience, was asked what he thought was the matter with the times. "Suppose a fellow goes on a prolonged spree - breaks drunk six months," the broker answered, "could he recover in a day or a week? Who speculations were rife, obligations were created without due thought of payments, many lived beyond their means. Prices and prices soared. There has to be a reaction and a slowing down process. People had to learn to trim their sails according to prevailing winds. Lower levels reached, the upturn gathers substantial support, and the prospect becomes reassuring."

MR. HITCHCOCK. Publication of a letter from G. M. Hitchcock, former United States senator and present candidate for that high office, in response to an editorial which appeared in last week's Herald, is only fair to that gentleman. The editorial in question follows: "Former Senator G. M. Hitchcock's reference to the eight prosperous years prior to 1920 as due to democratic control reminds us that the World War took place during that period. If the democratic administration had been responsible for the war, it may claim credit for the sharp commodity demands and uniformly high prices which it caused. Allittudinal markets, followed by deflation, wrecked values and dematerialized credits were caused by the same war, and if it is reasonable to claim credit for the inevitable position during the world conflagration, it is just as reasonable to accept responsibility for the general smashup that followed. Mr. Hitchcock has fine qualities of mind and the breadth of a real statesman, but he should not feel called on to indulge in baseless criticisms in order to hold democrats in line or to win republican support which he must have to land behind the breastworks of victory in November. Republicans will not vote for him with a feeling against the president or against the general policies of the republican party. If they vote for him they will do so because they believe he is big enough to rise above partisan prejudice in giving public service, and because his opponent has sought at every opportunity to obstruct the policies of the party with which he is nominally affiliated."

Following is Mr. Hitchcock's letter: "Mr. E. W. Huse, editor the Wayne Herald, Wayne, Nebraska. Dear Sir: You have a strong editorial in the last week's Herald criticizing me for saying that the eight prosperous years, ending with 1920 were due to democratic policies, entirely ignoring the fact that during those years the war occurred. I realize the force of your criticism but I want to call your attention to the fact that the war did not begin until August, 1914 and that the first effects of it on the United States, for several months, were injurious. Also that the war closed in November, 1918 and that good times continued for more than two years thereafter. "With regard to the work of deflation I want to say this: Deflation was inevitable but it need not have been as disastrous and would not have been if it had not been the great mistake of the republican party in making it so precipitant. In June, 1920, Wilson, then still being president, the republican party in a convention assembly adopted a plank which denounced the democratic administration for an undue expansion of credit and currency. As a matter of fact this expansion of credit and currency was adopted as the only means of selling 26 billion dollars worth of bonds at a low rate of interest. This expansion which was gradually brought about as each issue of bonds was issued, should have been just as gradually and carefully reduced but on that June day in 1920 the republican convention pledged itself as follows: 'We pledge ourselves to an earnest and consistent attack upon the high cost of living by courageous and intelligent deflation of over expanded credit and currency.' On the day that that platform was adopted the prices of farm products were still good - in fact they were high. The market price of wheat that day in Omaha was $2.75 a bushel. In 9 months by a rapid collapse it had fallen to $1.40 and for the most of the period since that time it has been in the neighborhood of $1, until recently when it fell below a dollar. "Corn, on that June day in 1920, was selling in Omaha for $1.85 a bushel and most of the time since then it has sold for much less than one dollar. At that same time when the convention adopted that resolution the cattle were selling in Omaha at $15 a hundred pounds and hogs in proportion. You know what they have been since that time. "I have said that deflation was inevitable but it need not have been drastic, sudden and disastrous. It was just as though a man had been taken up, one story at a time, to the top of a building and he had been told to go down but instead of being permitted to go down one story at a time, he was thrown out of the seventh story window. I am merely writing this to you for my own vindication, to you from your own editorial comment that my criticism was not based on facts. It is true that the policy of the 22nd Amendment Reserve Board brought about deflation but the action of the republican senate in demanding the action of the republican CONDITIONS. Roger W. Babson, business expert, who is confident of a general swing to better times this fall, says the "depression has not been due to lack of money, but to lack of circulation of money. If expenses are reduced just as sure of improved conditions now as he was certain of industrial paralysis a year ago. Declining values always create slow times, and rising markets stimulate investments and business. The low level has been passed, and the business tide has changed, Mr. Babson thinks. He suggests as the way to speed up circulation of money to avoid discharging employees, maintain wages, buy improved equipment and quit thinking and talking gloom. Mr. Babson makes these concluding observations: "1. Reduce Overhead - Industry and merchandising are today handicapped by useless and unnecessary overhead expenses, which are a great drag in the present situation. "2. Give Better Measure - To stimulate consumption, it usually is necessary either to reduce the prices or to increase the value of the products. "3. Increase Research Work - We all know how many employees the automobile industry uses today and the various direct and indirect ways that it gives employment. "4. Advertise more - Now is the time to increase advertising appropriations. Newspaper advertising, magazine advertising and outdoor advertising can now perform a very patriotic service from which everyone may benefit. "Of the four above concrete suggestions, perhaps advertising is the most important factor of all. Certainly advertising should be hand in hand with the other three factors. Therefore, I wish to go on record today as definitely advising all clients to increase their advertising appropriations and to use newspapers, magazines and outdoor advertising in their respective campaigns and communities."

can convention in demanding it were largely responsible for what happened. Yours truly, G. M. Hitchcock. "We believe political parties take too much credit or are too often blamed for inevitable economic conditions. People should support the party with whose general principles they are most in accord. To expect any party to perform miracles or to stem the currents of human indiscretion in speculations or in handling private affairs is expecting the impossible. If the pendulum swings too far one way, it must necessarily swing too far the other way. "Mr. Hitchcock believes in the policies of the democratic party in whose councils he has long been an influential figure. He likes the party the same, as one likes his wife or learns to like his mother-in-law, and shortcomings are minimized or overlooked. While people may disagree with Mr. Hitchcock's analysis and diagnosis, and the important part which he attributes to party control in determining markets and other values, they may support him with the assurance that he is a man of unusual mentality, free from the spirit of small politics and always ready to lift his strong right arm in behalf of Nebraska and its institutions. While we do not agree with his idea of the weight of party platforms, we appreciate the value of his knowledge and experience along many lines in public service, and we think the much that he could contribute far overshadows any basis for party disagreement."

Business. Sioux City Journal: Economists generally agree that the most powerful factor of depression was overproduction. This created a surplus in merchandise that could not be absorbed, hence production was decreased all along the line. That meant smaller pay rolls, less money in circulation and a decreased buying power. Smaller pay rolls may have meant a saving in overhead expense for industry, but there is no escaping the fact that it also meant a slower process in absorption of the surpluses in various commodity lines. Today Roger W. Babson, recognized as an economist whose observations are dependable in a great degree, calls attention to a situation in the market that has resulted from reduced production. Little by little, surpluses have been absorbed. Meanwhile there is no piling up of commodities since manufacturers had decreased their output in compliance with the law of supply and demand. And the result, Mr. Babson insists, is a shortage of goods. "Mr. Babson is predicting a better fall business than has been seen at any time this year because of this condition. He writes: 'It is possible that there soon may be a stampede of orders and congestion of freight in certain lines and sections.' He goes on to explain that "in the last year consumption has fallen off only about 10 percent while production declined 20 percent, and transportation of goods has fallen 30 percent." This, he feels certain, signifies that the inventories of manufacturers, jobbers and retailers are becoming abnormally low. If these three declines had been in the same proportion, Mr. Babson explains, there might be no sound reason for a pickup in business this fall. It would be more encouraging if a stronger foundation for an upturn could be found. One might infer from this that as soon as the supply caught up with demand production again would slow down. Possibly, provided Mr. Babson's prediction comes true, business conditions could be stimulated if the public would exert more buying power and thus keep things moving. It seems consistent to say that actual buying power during this period of depression does not approach potential buying power and that because it doesn't recovery has been longer delayed."

Cool nights suggest frost and reappearance of logy boxelder bugs which park, unannounced, on exposed surfaces like the neck or face, preferably the nose. The cause for these boxelder bugs has never been made clear, but the way they sit on human bipeds, we presume they are entertaining the same question about us.

Gallantry - politeness should not be allowed to go out of fashion. Respect for women by men, or for the aged by the young should be emphasized in the course of culture and character development. Doing little, helpful things for women out of consideration for their sex makes one finer and stronger, and it is an old habit that should be kept up.

The York Republican rightly suggests that the best farm aid is the work of the 4-H clubs. Results from the endeavors of these clubs, as emphasized in exhibits at county fairs, show growing interest and mounting value. Methods for the production of better animals have been carefully inculcated and have been readily turned to advantage by the farm youth. From a small beginning some years ago, the club work has been enlarged and extended with great promise of big and lasting benefits. Live interest in the different farm clubs is one of the most important services of county fairs.

PRISON CONTROL. A picture at the local theatre the first of the week emphasized the problem of prison control. It showed congested quarters and unwholesome contacts between hardened criminals and first offenders. It showed too little to think about and too little to do. It revealed deadly duplicity and coercion among prisoners - hard-boiled sinners crushing the spirit and blasting the hope of comparative innocence.

The problem of prison reform is an old one, and doubtless much improvement has been made in handling convicts. It is still a serious question with need of utmost wisdom to do the most good and the least harm. The idea should be to reform prisoners if possible and build into them elements of good citizenship. Many are professional criminals, and doubtless liberty means to them resumption of evil ways. Many others are comparatively free from criminal instincts and have yielded to temptation through bewildering necessity and temporary lapse of judgment.

An Omaha stock broker of long and wide experience, was asked what he thought was the matter with the times. "Suppose a fellow goes on a prolonged spree - breaks drunk six months," the broker answered, "could he recover in a day or a week? Who speculations were rife, obligations were created without due thought of payments, many lived beyond their means. Prices and prices soared. There has to be a reaction and a slowing down process. People had to learn to trim their sails according to prevailing winds. Lower levels reached, the upturn gathers substantial support, and the prospect becomes reassuring."

MR. HITCHCOCK. Publication of a letter from G. M. Hitchcock, former United States senator and present candidate for that high office, in response to an editorial which appeared in last week's Herald, is only fair to that gentleman. The editorial in question follows: "Former Senator G. M. Hitchcock's reference to the eight prosperous years prior to 1920 as due to democratic control reminds us that the World War took place during that period. If the democratic administration had been responsible for the war, it may claim credit for the sharp commodity demands and uniformly high prices which it caused. Allittudinal markets, followed by deflation, wrecked values and dematerialized credits were caused by the same war, and if it is reasonable to claim credit for the inevitable position during the world conflagration, it is just as reasonable to accept responsibility for the general smashup that followed. Mr. Hitchcock has fine qualities of mind and the breadth of a real statesman, but he should not feel called on to indulge in baseless criticisms in order to hold democrats in line or to win republican support which he must have to land behind the breastworks of victory in November. Republicans will not vote for him with a feeling against the president or against the general policies of the republican party. If they vote for him they will do so because they believe he is big enough to rise above partisan prejudice in giving public service, and because his opponent has sought at every opportunity to obstruct the policies of the party with which he is nominally affiliated."

Following is Mr. Hitchcock's letter: "Mr. E. W. Huse, editor the Wayne Herald, Wayne, Nebraska. Dear Sir: You have a strong editorial in the last week's Herald criticizing me for saying that the eight prosperous years, ending with 1920 were due to democratic policies, entirely ignoring the fact that during those years the war occurred. I realize the force of your criticism but I want to call your attention to the fact that the war did not begin until August, 1914 and that the first effects of it on the United States, for several months, were injurious. Also that the war closed in November, 1918 and that good times continued for more than two years thereafter. "With regard to the work of deflation I want to say this: Deflation was inevitable but it need not have been as disastrous and would not have been if it had not been the great mistake of the republican party in making it so precipitant. In June, 1920, Wilson, then still being president, the republican party in a convention assembly adopted a plank which denounced the democratic administration for an undue expansion of credit and currency. As a matter of fact this expansion of credit and currency was adopted as the only means of selling 26 billion dollars worth of bonds at a low rate of interest. This expansion which was gradually brought about as each issue of bonds was issued, should have been just as gradually and carefully reduced but on that June day in 1920 the republican convention pledged itself as follows: 'We pledge ourselves to an earnest and consistent attack upon the high cost of living by courageous and intelligent deflation of over expanded credit and currency.' On the day that that platform was adopted the prices of farm products were still good - in fact they were high. The market price of wheat that day in Omaha was $2.75 a bushel. In 9 months by a rapid collapse it had fallen to $1.40 and for the most of the period since that time it has been in the neighborhood of $1, until recently when it fell below a dollar. "Corn, on that June day in 1920, was selling in Omaha for $1.85 a bushel and most of the time since then it has sold for much less than one dollar. At that same time when the convention adopted that resolution the cattle were selling in Omaha at $15 a hundred pounds and hogs in proportion. You know what they have been since that time. "I have said that deflation was inevitable but it need not have been drastic, sudden and disastrous. It was just as though a man had been taken up, one story at a time, to the top of a building and he had been told to go down but instead of being permitted to go down one story at a time, he was thrown out of the seventh story window. I am merely writing this to you for my own vindication, to you from your own editorial comment that my criticism was not based on facts. It is true that the policy of the 22nd Amendment Reserve Board brought about deflation but the action of the republican senate in demanding the action of the republican declines had been in the same proportion, Mr. Babson explains, there might be no sound reason for a pickup in business this fall. It would be more encouraging if a stronger foundation for an upturn could be found. One might infer from this that as soon as the supply caught up with demand production again would slow down. Possibly, provided Mr. Babson's prediction comes true, business conditions could be stimulated if the public would exert more buying power and thus keep things moving. It seems consistent to say that actual buying power during this period of depression does not approach potential buying power and that because it doesn't recovery has been longer delayed."

Happy Chick News

The fair is over and we surely had a nice bunch of weather. It held off until the last act was done before it even sprinkled.

Talk about fairs! I believe Wayne fair is going to rank first in the state of county fairs both in exhibits and attendance.

Sold 5 one-pen farrowing houses to A. J. Podany of Clarkson. Mr. Podany raises purebred Hamp.

Any day now we expect the invention of a combination hip flask and cigarette lighter, the same liquid can be used for both.

There was quite an interesting shown in our post driving contest at the fair, Pete Jorgensen taking first place; A. N. Peterson, second; Alvin Vogel, third, each driving four six-foot Red Top steel posts.

Speaking of steel posts, we have something new, a steel post puller. This surely is a labor saver in moving fence.

Judge: "Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed upon you?"

Prisoner: "No, yer honor, the lawyer took me last dollar."

Ed. Sandahl has figured out what it takes to make a permanent fence, and that is pressure treated posts for yard fence. Red Top steel posts for field fences, using Royal American wire for both. Ed. was in Tuesday and hauled out a whole load of fence material.

Doctor: "It's most essential you should refrain from doing head work during the next few weeks."

Patient: "Yes, doctor, but it's my living!"

Doctor: "Oh, are you a scholar?"

Patient: "No, I'm a barber."

During the fair I sold a portable corncrib to George W. Sweigard, jr., of near Winside.

It looks like we are going to have more corn than was expected because there is quite a bit of interest shown in our portable crib.

We are unloading another car of lumber this week. It surely looks like good stuff. The car contains timbers, dimension and flooring.

Falling in love is like falling in molasses—sweet, but oh how gooey.

A sack of Jitney coal would be mighty fine these cool mornings, wouldn't it?

Is this spring or fall or what is it? I am unable to tell as I have a lilac and bridal wreath both of which are blooming again. I surely hope we don't have another hot summer ahead of us like the last.

Ambition is like hunger—it obeys no law but its appetite.

Sold another of those new self-feeders. I have added several improvements since I first got it out. It is developing into a real feeder. No question but it will feed all kinds of ground feed now.

Teacher: "It gives me great pleasure to mark you 90 on your examination." Harold: "Why not make it 100 and get a real kick out of it?"

This is the Happy Chick Brooder house factory, Wayne, Neb., Station PETE, signing off. Be with you again next week.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

THERE'S A MONOPOLY OF CUBS AND GIANTS IN THIS ALL-STAR NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM PICKED BY MARTIN—LOPEZ, ROBINS' ROOKIE, MAKES IT

BY PHILIP MARTIN

NEXT to telling a Brooklyn fan that his team is not quite so good as the Giants, the best way to start a baseball argument is give your opinion of an all-star baseball team.

In giving you my choices for the all-star team in the National League, and the reasons for them, I must admit I had no difficult time in coming to my decisions. Most of the talent was confined to the Giants and Cubs—a snap! Here's the lineup:

Bill Terry, Giants, first base. Frank Frisch, Cardinals, second base.

Travis Jackson, Giants, shortstop. Fred Lindstrom, Giants, third base.

Al Lopez, Robins, catcher. Gabby Hartnett, Cubs, catcher. Ray Kremer, Pirates, pitcher. Pat Malone, Cubs, pitcher. Bill Walker, Giants, pitcher.

First of all there is Bill Terry, who hits .400 and fields better than any other first sacker in the major leagues. Charlie Grimm, fields almost as well but falls far short in hitting. Jim Bottomley hits a ball farther than Terry, but not nearly so often. Don Hurst and Gus Suhr are good young players, but not in Terry's class.

Rogers Hornsby at his best would be too good for Frankie Frisch at second base. But Rogers doesn't rate a nod this semester, so that's leaves us Frisch. Fritz is a good second baseman and a fine lead-off man, but his hitting is not of all-star caliber.

Travis Jackson, Woody English and Rabbit Maranville have all starred at shortstop this season. Jackson is a great leader and a much better hitter than either English or the Rabbit. English, however, is batting well above the .300 mark. But Jackson's average is near .315.

Lindstrom and Traynor stand out at third base. Either would play baseball of all-star caliber. Lindstrom's batting average of .300, compared with Traynor's .350, wins him the assignment.

You'll have to admit that I've named a hitting outfield, with Klein, Wilson and Cuyler. Wilson hardly can be kept off, for he's a home run champion. Cuyler must be replaced by a man able to hit a few points higher, but we'd sacrifice speed on the bases and in the field and a deadly throwing arm by ignoring him. Klein also is a deadly hitter and fast fielder.

Malone and Kremer are the best wjning pitchers this year among the right handers. There is no telling what kind of a record Kremer might have made with a pennant-contending team. Walker holds the edge on the southpaws.

In my mind there are only two outstanding catchers in the loop. Alfonso Lopez is a standout, and he's only a first year man. He's hitting .330 and handling those queer Brooklyn pitchers like a veteran. Hartnett has greater punch with the bat and more experience. But he is shaded a bit by Lopez.

Debate Questions To Occupy Two Full Teams During Season—Arrange Big Schedule.

Debate activity in the Wayne high school picks up with the interest in the newly-announced state question, "Resolved: That Nations Shall Disarm Except as Are Needed for Police Purposes."

Other class work went on in the usual way last week, with the usual periods shortened to meet the requirements of early closing for fair week.

Classes met Monday to organize for the year, and to elect officers. Sponsors for the classes were elected Friday at the meeting of the teachers.

Classes will be sponsored during the year as follows: Freshman class, R. K. Holder and Miss Anna Geisler; sophomore, Leonard Good and Miss Verna Mae O'Neill; junior, Walter Albert and Miss Ada Tollefson; senior, W. A. Behl and Miss Dorothy Felber.

Students Enjoy Convocation. Convocation was enjoyed Friday afternoon, September 5, by the students just before dismissal. Members of the Wheaton college quartet, presented that evening in a public program, sang for the assembled students.

A late entrant into the high school group is Miss Marjorie Laese, who was in Chicago at the time school opened. She entered the first of last week.

Begin Special Reports. Special book reports are being arranged by members of the seventh and eighth grade literature classes. A new text, Lyman and Hill's "Literature and Living" is being used for the first time in the department.

Spelling will be given special attention in the school this year. The work is being carried on in connection with the literature courses. Special spelling texts are being supplemented with lists of context words.

Another project in connection with the spelling and literature work is the Good English club organized recently. Members of the sixth grade are in the club. Mistake lists are kept, and the students try to avoid making again any error which has appeared once on a mistake list.

Announce Officers' Names. Officers in the Good English club are the following members: Dorothy Heidenreich, president; Dean Cook, vice-president; Wilma Baker, secretary. Good English posters are being made by Dolores McNatt and Ardath Johnson. In the grades, where the schedule was shortened during fair week, little time was devoted to extra projects. First graders now number thirty, according to Miss Coila Potras, instructor. Donald McPherson, Junior Cartwright and Bobby Dunn are new in the grade this year.

"The Silent Enemy," film which comes to the Gay theatre here on Friday and Saturday, is an epic of the American Indian, made in the Canadian wilds with an entire Indian cast. The picture is true historically and is recommended by the national Federation of Women's clubs as an educational film. It is of interest to children as well as grownups.

Everything pictured actually took place. The lion and bear seen fighting are grownup specimens of their species. The wolves and moose are real, and great difficulty was experienced in filming the animals.

There have been pictures galore giving the white man's version of Indian life, but "The Silent Enemy," is the first and only one of its kind to show the Indian as a human, just as he lived, worshipped, struggled against tremendous odds, made love and wrung a living from primitive nature.

As a living record of a dying race, "The Silent Enemy" is hailed as a great epic motion picture. And, more than that, it is a thrilling picture of nature, wild animals and wild people, in their native haunts. It is comparable only to such great films as "Chang" and "Grass." And yet, like "The Four Feathers," it has a romantic story, acted by the Indians themselves, descendants of American chiefs, which is as exciting as any studio-made motion picture could be.

Accident Report For Two Weeks

Safety Week Demonstrates That Many Mishaps Can Be Prevented With Effort.

Accident statistics for Nebraska as compiled by The Nebraska Press association and the rehabilitation division of the state department of vocational education for the two-week period ending Sept. 9, 1930, are as follows:

Table with columns: Motor accid., Other acci., Emp. agri., Emp. ind., Home acci., Total. Values: 165, 92, 28, 24, 36, 345.

During this two-week period, there were only 11 disabilities which bring the number of persons disabled in Nebraska since January 1, 1930, to a total of 300. Safety week has demonstrated that accidents can be prevented.

Continued organized publicity of accident facts will help to bring about results. Motor vehicle report ending Sept. 9, 1930:

In spite of traffic being heavier because of the state fair, motor vehicle casualties were lessened by 8 percent. Agricultural casualties dropped 60 percent, industrial accident casualties by 32 percent and home accident casualties by 53 percent.

Public accident casualties, due to 5 drownings; 3 trespassers; burning rides being killed by trains and 32 minor injuries at the state fair grounds increased 21 percent spilling an otherwise fine record for an accident prevention week.

Seventy weeks ago when The Nebraska Press association undertook to sell "Safety" to this speed crazy age, it looked like trying to jasso Halley's Comet with a kite string. But, the consistent, impersonal publication of the cold, sanguinary facts about Nebraska accidents by the combined press of the state has had a telling effect.

Speaking of Bosses

Geneva Signal: The Wayne Herald prefers the use of the word "leader" to the word "boss" when reference is made to one who directs a business enterprise, whether it be a printing office, farm or factory. Calling a roughneck a leader wouldn't make him a gentleman and calling a gentleman a boss wouldn't make him a roughneck.

Everybody knows just exactly what it means. The head boss, if the organization is large enough to require more than one, is the feller who sees to it that the bank cashes the weekly pay checks, a short way of saying what might be expanded into a volume if what he does to accomplish that result were enumerated in detail. If the other boss, and all of the other bosses are of the modern variety, possessed of patience, common sense, business acumen and a decent respect for the rights of others, they are all right and everybody knows they are leaders as well as a lot of other things.

Man Escapes Injury

Wisner, Neb.—Wisner's chief of police, Herman Nuttelman, narrowly escaped serious injury when the car he was driving ran into a herd of cattle on the highway north of Wisner.

After meeting a car near the top of a hill, Mr. Nuttelman almost collided with a man on horseback whom he had not seen back of the car. He swerved his car and applied the brakes but was unable to avoid hitting the cattle near the bottom of the hill. Several of the cattle were slightly injured. Nebraska Youths Travel To Russia
Thirty young men, five of whom are graduates of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture, sailed in August for Moscow, Russia. They were selected and employed by the Russian government to aid Russian farmers in adopting better methods of grain farming and stock raising. Their particular work will be breeding and raising of swine. They will direct the work on large farms that raise from 5,000 to 50,000 hogs each year. All the work is under government supervision. The American instructors will meet at headquarters once a month to compare experience and profit by each other's newly-acquired knowledge of raising hogs on Russian soil with Russian grain and forage. The work will not by any means be easy for the instructors must begin at the kindergarten of hog raising. They must impart their instruction through interpreters to the overseers who in turn will give the information to the actual workers. A new order has taken command in Russia and the national leaders are planning a rapid development of agriculture in that nation of vast land acreages. They are looking to the United States to supply the instruction for Russian farmers and to the United States manufacturers of farm machinery to supply the machines and implements that will increase production and reduce man-labor in that awakening nation. Clarence L. Fortna, Octavia; Cecil Means, Red Cloud; Albert Daniels, Bancroft; A. E. Stender, Columbus; and Irving McKinley, Ponca, are the Nebraska boys who will demonstrate to Russian farmers the completeness with which the University of Nebraska college of agriculture outfits its graduates.

We Are Optimistic!

Nebraska is "coming back." There can be no doubt of that. We, in the banking business, see evidences every day of better times ahead. Not exactly as we'd like to see it yet, of course, but improving gradually. Possibly the experiences of the past few years may be blessings in disguise. Perhaps we will all be better off for those experiences. Let's hope so, at least.

Huntmers Enjoy Stops At Unusual Points On Eastern Vacation Tour

Mennonite Colony in South Dakota Views for Interest With Iowa Trappist Monastery.

Visits to a number of out of the way places of interest were made by Prof. and Mrs. E. J. Huntmer and family on their 2,000 mile motor trip through the states of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, South Dakota and Nebraska. The Huntmers, who arrived home Friday evening, left Miss Marcella in Sinsinawa, Wis., where she will be this winter a student at St. Clara's academy. School opened at St. Clara's September 8.

"More interesting than many trips we have enjoyed," stated Prof. Huntmer, remarking on the visit paid to the birthplaces of his own and Mrs. Huntmer's fathers. Mr. Huntmer's father was born at Potasi, Wis., in a stone house now perhaps 75 years old. The building, which is standing, and remains in a state of preservation, was constructed by Mr. Huntmer's grandfather. It is made from native sandstone, the material being readily available in the stony country.

Mrs. Huntmer's father was born at Pontiac, Ill., and the place was visited by the family, although no one connected with the group is living in the house today.

See Unique Grotto.

One of the unique sights of the trip was the Grotto, at Dickeyville, Wis. This structure, which was begun in 1924, was completed in 1929 by a priest who has made it his particular work. Stones of every size, shape and color have been included in the building, some of them having been sent to the builder by friends from other parts of the world. The structure is occupied by members of the order to which the priest belongs. One of the most attractive parts of the place, stated Mrs. Huntmer, was the section devoted to a patriotic display.

Life-sized statues of Washington, Lincoln, and figures important in national life, have been created in marble, and stand in beautifully-decorated niches. Patriotism is the motif carried out in this part of the Grotto, which, although located in a very small town, attracts thousands of visitors.

Prof. and Mrs. Huntmer visited, while in Chicago, at the home of Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Serfling. Prof. Serfling, who was coach in the college here in 1920, will be remembered among his friends here, as will be Mrs. Serfling.

They visited at various other points with other friends, and with relatives of the family.

Visit Trappist Monastery.

One of the two Trappist monasteries in this country is the one located at New Melleray, Iowa, which the Huntmers visited. Another such monastery is located in Canada. The order, which is small, one in this country, has purchased a tract of 3,200 acres of rich farm land in Iowa. The land, which is of the best, is under intensive and profitable cultivation.

To go into the place, to see the men at work in the quiet peaceful atmosphere, Mrs. Huntmer re-

Blackface Comedians Coming To Theatre

Charles E. Mack, leader of the famous blackface team of Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, is an actor in a story he wrote himself. Several years ago Mack wrote the novel, "The Two Black Crows in the A. E. F." This story was filmized by Lloyd Corrigan and provided with added dialog by Walter Weems to make the current production, "Anybody's War." Mack and his partner, Moran, appear in blackface throughout the picture as Almos and Willie Crow, Tennessee dorkies who are whisked away into the World war and encounter a multitude of mirth-provoking adventures. "Anybody's War" is coming to the Gay theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, September 21, 22 and 23.

and enough water to cover. Add a handful of green grapes or horseradish leaves and a slightly rounding teaspoon of alum and simmer for two hours. Be sure and don't let them boil for that makes them soft. Pour off liquid and put pickles back in the stone jar. Heat three pints or six cups of vinegar and three pounds or six cups of sugar, one ounce whole allspice and one ounce stick cinnamon. Pour this over the pickles and let set overnight. Next morning pour off liquid and bring to a boil, and pour over the pickles again. The third morning pack the pickles in jars and add the vinegar mixture boiling hot and seal. These look and taste just like the boughten sweet pickles and are well worth the trouble.

Sour Cream Ginger Cake.

(By Mrs. Paul Mines, Wayne)
2 level cups of cake flour.
½ cup of sugar, brown or white.
½ cup molasses.
1 cup of sour cream.
1 teaspoon each of: Baking powder, soda, cinnamon and ginger.
½ teaspoon each of nutmeg and allspice.
Mix all dry ingredients, add eggs, molasses and sour cream, to which soda has been added. Beat vigorously for five minutes. Bake in a moderate oven.
One cup of sour milk and ten teaspoons of butter may be used in place of the sour cream.
This recipe may be used in a loaf or baked in rather thin sheets and covered with icing.

A Good Icing.

16 tablespoons of sugar.
16 tablespoons of cream (Milk may be used but not as much as the cream).
Butter the size of a walnut.
Cook the ingredients together slowly until the icing forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Allow to cool. Beat, and add vanilla.
Spread thinly on the ginger cake.
Tested.

Apple Dumplings.

(By Mrs. Paul Mines, Wayne)
Make a rich baking powder biscuit dough. Roll out on a bread board and cover with sliced apples mixed with sugar and cinnamon. Roll as in making cinnamon rolls and cut about the size of a cinnamon roll. Have boiling, in a rather shallow pan, a thin sugar syrup. Apples may be added to the syrup as it is hard to roll many apples in the dumpling dough. Lay the dumplings in this syrup and allow to come to a boil. Dot each dumpling with butter, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a hot oven until the apples are thoroughly cooked and the dumplings brown.
These are delicious. Once you try them, you will never make dumplings another way. Serve hot with cream. This is a tested recipe.

The New Idea Spreader

"NEW IDEA" has never been a "price" product. Quality in material—workmanship—design and service is worth far more than the few dollars additional involved in the cost of the machine.

Examine every part—notice how accurate every part is made how accurately it fits. See the machine at work in the field notice how thoroughly it pulverizes—the nice wide even spread notice the light draft—the traction power—freedom from choking the five changes of feed they are accurate, not hot and miss! the high clearance—the long drive chain engaging eleven teeth—the double lift on chain—the non-cramping front axles—the non-skid short turn—the roller bearings everywhere—the low down—easy loading—clear top facilities—the large loading and spreading capacity and lots of other obvious features. Then think of the hundreds of unseen "quality" features—copper bearing steel—high carbon steel—semi-steel castings—hardened steel chain—extra clear lumber—all joints painted before assembly—all sprockets and cylinder bored machined closely and pressed on shafts—all ground wheels bored out to run true heavy duty wide tires—hundreds of other refinements that only New Idea can have.

Antique China Brought On Ship In Early Days

Brought from China some 150 years ago by the grandfather of Charles Martin, Wayne, is a delicate old cup and saucer shown last week at the county fair as one of the exhibits. The pieces, which are of a frail china, are of the oriental style, the cup a deep small bowl without handle, and the saucer up-curved sharply around the cup.

A conventional-looking pattern borders the pieces, and a fine pinkish luster-like band surrounds both cup and saucer. Treasured for years in the family, the pieces show no cracks or blemishes, and have quite as much charm as any exhibit in the department.

Raise in Rates Is Allowed Here

Telephone Company May Boost Charges After Complying With Improvement Plans.

The Union Telephone company of Carroll, owned by E. C. Hunt and operated by C. D. Harrah, was given authority Thursday by the state railway commission to increase its rates as soon as the exchange has been reconstructed to the commission's satisfaction. The new rates are: Business, individual, $3; residence, one party, $1.75; residence, two party, $1.60; rural, $1.75; and switching, 50c a month.

The Carroll exchange has 374 subscribers with 256 of these getting switching, 116 city and 2 farm service. The company proposes to invest $2,275 in making the service full metallic. This will make the total investment $7,401. Annual revenues under the new rates will be $5,287.91, and expenses will be $4,495.38.

Rates approved differ somewhat from those asked. "Proper spread had not been made, the commission thought, between business and residence rates and these were changed to $3 and $1.75 respectively. This cuts revenue $120" from the company's proposed schedule, and the commission says this should be deducted from salaries of officers. The average per station is $3.75 for these salaries, which is well above the average for other Hunt exchanges, where it is $1.71 per station.

"A comparison of other well managed companies indicates that their expenses for this item is less than half and as low as a sixth of the amount. In view of this the commission directs that officers' salaries be reduced $120 per year, which would still leave them above the average."

Indian Trophies Remind Pioneers Of Earlier Days

Reminiscent of the days before the prairies were made by pioneers into cornfields are the Indian objects shown at the county fair by Mrs. Pearl Hanika of Fender.

A pair of homemade dolls, about eight inches in height, would delight the heart of even a very modern small girl. The dolls are dressed in buckskin garments of the Indian fashion, and carefully beaded in red and white. The faces, which are interesting studies in Indian facial expression, are modeled from clay found on the reservation near Macy, Neb.

More interesting to the housewife who cannot get along today without her modern, colorful utensils and conveniences, is the great spoon, made from the horn of a Rocky Mountain goat. The bowl, a veritable "great horn spoon," would hold perhaps a pint of liquid in its depth. The handle, which follows the line of the horn, is curved. Polished rather highly, the thinner portions of the utensil reflect a golden, shell color when held up to the light.

Mrs. Hanika states that the spoon, which is perhaps 150 years old, is believed to have been made by Omaha Indians. It has been kept as an heirloom in the family of her husband, for the art of making spoons of this material is one which has died out among the Indians.

Graceful, and almost delicate is the shining bit of black pottery in this exhibit. The piece, which is a basket-shaped vase with loop handle, was found in an Indian grave. Five flat depressions on the outer surface of the bowl serve as the only decoration. The vase appears to have been fired in some way, for it carries rather a high glaze.

An Indian "comb," which looks, in reality, like a brush, is also a part of Mrs. Hanika's exhibit. The brush part is formed of wild needles of some devil's grass or other stiff weed stems. These stems are bound together in a buckskin top, beaded, and adorned with a thin thong for hanging or carrying. The whole is not more than six inches long.

Completing Mrs. Hanika's fair display of curios are a pair of birch bark canoe models, small and nicely executed, the work of a member of the family. There are also a pair of modernly decorated gourds, carrying gay colors and semi-conventionalized designs.

Fortyseven pounds of pumpkin, all in a single fruit, should produce many a Thanksgiving pie for someone. A pale yellow pumpkin of this weight, and measuring fiftyfive inches around, was shown in the champion class of vegetables at the fair last week. It was one of the exhibits of fine products from Wayne county gardens.

Several examples of large squash were on show. Remarkable for size and quality, these squashes were noticeable also for the fact that the words "Wayne County Fair" and the date were grown into the fruit in neatly raised letters. The legend, it was explained, was scratched or pricked into the skin when the squash was still quite young. As the wounds from the pricking healed, they left scars of a greenish color, outlining the letters and figures in a most unique fashion.

Gained Eight Pounds; Thanks Famed Konjola

MR. GEORGE GILLIAM

"For three years I suffered from stomach trouble, backaches and constipation," said Mr. George Gilliam, 612 St. George street, Green Bay, Wis. These ailments failed to yield to any medicine until I tried Konjola. The nature of my work requires good health and considerable strength. On several occasions I lost time from my work because of my ailments. I had pains in my back and the gas and bloating which afflicted me after every meal were terrible. I lost both weight and strength and soon found myself taxed to the limit to attend properly to my work.

"While taking the second bottle of Konjola, I felt myself getting stronger and more energetic. Up to this time I have taken four bottles and have gained eight pounds in weight. I suffer no more from those awful backaches and enjoy my meals because gas no longer forms. Because of the benefit it has brought me I know the sterling worth of Konjola and recommend it to everyone." The files of Konjola contain thousands upon thousands of such sincere endorsements. And what this amazing medicine has done for others it will do for you—for everyone. Konjola is sold in Wayne, Neb., at Feiber's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

THE GOLDEN RULE STORE
BROWN-EKBERG COMPANY
WAYNE, NEB.
We Carry Better Clothes Than Our $22.50 Golden Rule Special
Suits that are made by a high grade manufacturer who has cut out all publicity and selling expense and has put it all in his garments. Take time to look over our high grade hand tailored suits at $29.75
We can save you money on your clothes because of our different methods in buying. We buy our own wools and we have them made up to our own specifications. In these $29.75 suits we select worsteds and other suitings that are adaptable to our country. We specify exactly the quality of linings and trimmings and we know accurately the type of tailoring that is used. Often these suits have been ripped apart by competent tailors, and they have told us that there is more tailoring in this line of suits than in many of the nationally advertised lines. Let us use a little bit of your time to demonstrate our claims.
A SPECIAL TREAT FOR THE LADIES
Regular $3.00 Facial Treatment Given Without Charge to Prove Unusual Results of New System of Beauty Culture.
As a special courtesy to our customers we have obtained at considerable expense the services of Miss Lillian Walton, beauty expert and special representative of Dorothy Perkins, who will be at our store September 22 to 27. She will analyze your skin, advise you on your personal beauty problems, give you a complete facial treatment and show you how to give yourself the same treatment at home.
No charge for this service. (We will have a private booth in our store.)
Phone now for appointment.
