THE KNOT-HOLE No. 40 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, December 11, 1930. Teacher - "Johnny, can you tell me what a waffle is?" Johnny - "Yes'm, its a pancake with a non-skid tread." Everybody you meet thinks he's the busiest man in town. We're no exception. You just ought to see how hard we work. We've often been asked to try Henry Ford's coal, so we got a car last week. This coal is very low in ash and high in heat units. We have sold several loads and all have reported that they are well pleased. Another thing the ultimate consumer pays for is the salary of the bill collector. One of the office loafers made the remark that Sahara coal was "tightwad" coal. We don't agree with him. Sahara furnace coal is true economy coal and a lot of thrifty people are using it because it is a real bargain at $8.50 per ton. Household hint! If you make a mess of the Christmas dinner, just dump it on a lettuce leaf and call it salad. "Malignancy!" Wow! The Christmas shopping season does not help the coal or lumber merchant but we are pleased to note that large crowds are visiting Wayne every day. "EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING WITH"

President James Is Visitor Here

South Dakota University Head Addresses Groups in Wayne Last Week

President Herman G. James of the University of South Dakota was the distinguished guest of the Wayne State Teachers' College last week...

In place of seeking general culture, the students and their parents now seem to demand preparation for some specific line of endeavor...

At convocation Wednesday morning, President James discussed the general status of the teaching profession...

1. The lack of any standards of preparation for professors in colleges and universities comparable with those required of lawyers...

2. The teaching profession is singularly lacking in independence of thought and expression...

3. The over feminization of teaching seemed to the speaker one of the real menaces at the present time...

4. Recognition of teachers of superior powers of leadership by means of position and salary should be used to differentiate those who prepare themselves and keep themselves up-to-date...

5. A final need of the teaching profession is some scientific, adequate system of retirement which shall reward faithful service...

The honored Christmas tree is evidence in Wayne's business district, as it is in most Nebraska towns at this time. It emphasizes the Christmas season of generosity and good will.

Fair weather should speed up Christmas buying. Good roads and soft zephyrs make travel easy and pleasant and they should be turned to advantage by early shopping. There is no guarantee that warm elements will continue until Christmas.

We believe experience will show that granting the gas franchise will not threaten the sharp competition feared by some. If it helps build Wayne, it will bring more business to everybody. Competition with the publicly-owned electric plant will not be serious in a growing city.

The postmaster and his force are particularly rushed at this season taking care of an increased volume of business, and in their extra task they need and deserve the cooperation of the public. The carriers out of the Wayne office are prompt and careful through the year, and their efforts are appreciated.

The utter abandon with which racketeering has been carried on in this country has aroused the federal government to act in behalf of cities so afflicted. One newspaper says: "The lush times of prosperity, when the people were too busy making money and overlooking to care about what was going on, are over. Chastened by adversity, the country sets about purging itself of its sores and sicknesses."

The same spirit that built Sioux City is still alive as evidenced by the manner in which merchants of the city followed the bank crash of last Saturday. The merchants

NATURAL GAS.

Voters of Wayne are asked to go to the polls December 20 to express themselves on the question of granting a franchise for natural gas. Of course people should inform themselves on advantages as far as possible. The gas company only asks the privilege of entering the city and laying pipes, running its own lines of being able to sell its product. Gas would have to be disposed of in competition with other fuels. Reports from other towns where natural gas has been introduced, indicate that streets and alleys are left in perfect repair. The company would enter the field the same as a merchant and depend on service and low cost to survive. If the company builds to Wayne, as it is doing to many Nebraska towns, it will spend considerable in cost of construction and will have to pay taxes to the city, school district, county and state.

In the course of an explanation to people of Minden, the city engineer of that place said "it is practically impossible to make a comparison of costs between gas and other fuels." He called attention to the maximum rates fixed, and stressed the fact that the company would have to compete on merit, saying among other things: "It has not been proven to me that gas at the maximum price allowed by the franchise will be cheaper than coal or oil at the prices prevailing now. It is also impossible to make an accurate comparison by figuring the heat units contained in the various fuels. The heat units can be compared accurately enough, but in the use of any fuel some of the heat must be wasted due to imperfect combustion and some heat going up in smoke. There is so much difference in this waste in different fuels that I do not consider a comparison of the cost of fuels based on their content of heat units to be of much value."

did not lie down and whine. They were up on their toes and alert to the needs of the hour. The newspapers of the city with big advertisements and putting more momentum behind business. They do not interpret a shock as a defeat. They show the pluck that wins.

The closing of the First National and Sioux National banks at Sioux City, said due to frozen assets, is profoundly regretted. The two banks had total deposits of about $11,000,000. Suspension of the two institutions will be a temporary hardship on Sioux City, though additional cash in excess of $2,000,000 rolled into remaining banks at that point Sunday to meet any possible need. The effect on outlying territory would logically be only temporary.

The weather so far in this section has been mild and free from snow. It is comparatively easy on people generally, but it is rather hard on dealers who have stocked with cold weather needs. People often delay buying until actual warm presses, and then when cold elements whip down from the north, they hasten purchase of things required for comfort. Unless this climate has been taken over by the tropics, we will have loose teeth shaken by frigid weather before long, and we do not want to be found unprepared. Buy now.

A professor in the University of Chicago told one of his classes recently that he believed people in the cities were slipping in mind power because they have too much entertainment that requires no thinking and no conversation. Stimulus to mental action is necessary to keep the mind in gear. Running order of intelligent talking is important if one does not wish to forget how. Doubtless the cities are overfed on amusements that soothe, but do not arouse, as the professor suggests. The way to escape from brain daisy is to come into the country where thinking is still the rule.

Where do we go from here? Sages of the centuries have made no definite reply. The miracle of being born is just as great as the miracle of passing out and on we came with nothing and we will go with nothing, and if we were permitted to take some things along, we would not know whether to take a harp or an asbestos overcoat. While temporarily sojourning here, we strive for material gain, often cultivating ill will and casting envious glances at neighbors, quarreling over non-essential dogmas and giving little heed to important spiritual truths. All religious denominations are founded on the same wholesome principle, but they often fuss too much over trivialities that mean nothing to the scheme of eternity. It is quite likely that mere doliary grabbing and absorption in a clash of self-seeking constitute quite as serious damage to the soul as sin, whose long recognized forms of sin.

Business.
Sioux City Journal: "The business situation, taking the country as a whole, remains unchanged from former weeks. There is no perceptible improvement in general activity. Holiday buying is reported to be fair as to strength, but nowhere is it impressive. Obviously, the people have not yet recovered from their doubts as to the possibility of a return of prosperity until the period of depression has run a longer course. In this a mistake of judgment is being made. Prosperity cannot return even in the spring unless there is an awakening on the part of the people generally. There has got to be more buying. Retrenchment has got to be abandoned. The people themselves, make business good for the simple reason that they are consumers. If it is patent that if they do not consume in large amounts heavy sales of goods cannot be made. Demand is the key on which the whole thing depends. It has been weak, and it may become weaker during the winter.

In proof of the weak buying power of the American people at this time, freight car loadings for the week ending November 22 may be offered. The total was 779,757 cars. This was a reduction below the preceding week of 49,494 cars, and one under the same week last year of 169,959. It also was a reduction below the same week in 1928 of 249,480.

Goods in large volume are not being hauled by the railroads for the reason that the people are not demanding them in large volume. Supply is running along with demand, and that is logical. Merely while industrial production lowered when the demand is weak. And when industrial production is lowered pay rolls are reduced through increasing unemployment, and buying power is further weakened.

Federal activity holds public interest as congress swings into its short session with numerous bills offered in the hope that legislation may be enacted that will stimulate business. It is doubted that the federal government will be able to do more than help. This situation is one that calls upon all the people in all communities if it is to be controlled in the interest of a better economic condition. There must be cooperation on the part of the people in the economic crisis. The master.

A MISOGYNIST
William F. Fitzgerald, Jr., author of "Gentlemen All" says he is not a "misogynist"—hater of women—and adds that he is happily married, though he gives women an awfully black eye in the course of a recent interview. He says women do not fall in love, that they industrialize romance and consider husbands as mere cash registers to be looted at will. He says women are selfish and materialistic, overcharged with pride and do not show off. The author does himself an injustice if he does not believe what he says, but it is almost inconceivable for a man to feel as he expresses himself in that way in the face of his acknowledged matrimonial content.

It was perhaps the author's misfortune to find acquaintance among women of designing minds and superficial emotions. We think people will agree that such women are far in the minority. We think experience and observation will prove that women are quite as constant and sincere as men. The indictment is too sweeping. Women who try with love as means to material advantage, as charged, are few compared with the many who feel deeply and earnestly and who are loyal and dependable. Especially in this day when women are on an equal footing with men in business and professional service, there is more reason than ever why they are not prompted to become adventuresses.

The author's one-sided analysis and unfair conclusions may be a bid for notoriety. They may ring true only to certain small insulated groups in large centers. Certainly they do not reflect just appreciation of the bulwarks of the home, the school and the church.

Enforcement Efficiency.
Lincoln Journal: "A life of a prison sentence for life has been exacted for Iowa officers for every successful bank robbery in the state this year. One hand was killed another took his own life and seventeen have been given life sentences. This does not mean that every robbery has been solved but it does mean that if a man commits a bank robbery in Iowa the chances of his being punished are fairly good."

Nebraska has had somewhat similar success in the capture and punishment of criminals although the sentences have not been as severe. Several bank robbers have been apprehended. Trace of others has been gained, and many other criminals have been captured. In Lancaster county alone seven persons have been sentenced in the past two weeks to terms ranging from one to ten years.

The disgruntled individual who contemplates a life of crime as a means of gaining easy money rapidly is not encouraged by these records. If he gives them any study, the Iowa statistics not only mean that on the average one member of every gang participating in a bank robbery is locked up for life, but due to the fact that the same gang may have committed several robberies if all the circumstances of each robbery were known it might develop that two or even three members of each gang, on an average, were spending the remainder of their lives in the penitentiary.

And the fact that a criminal escapes punishment in the state in which he committed a crime does not mean that he escapes jail forever. Some of these Nebraska and Iowa bank robbers, whose identity officers were unable to establish, may be serving sentences in other states already.

Few criminals consider the chances of ultimate punishment before embarking on a life of crime. If they do they are usually convinced enough to think that they can escape where others have failed. These figures will probably do little good in the way of preventing crimes, but they do bolster up the faith of the honest citizen in the efficiency of the processes of justice.

Now Is the Time.
Omaha World-Herald: State Engineer Roy Cochran hit the nail squarely on the head when he said, "Now is the ideal time for Nebraska to build roads." He could very well have added to his impressive list of reasons a statement that now is the time when Nebraska as a progressive state in the van of improvements must build permanent roads.

Engineer Cochran's striking resume included the following:
One mile of pavement costs 10 thousand dollars less than it cost six years ago.

Fifty per cent more grading can be done today with the same money expended six years ago.

Paving costs are about 40 per cent of what they were at the peak.

What once cost 50 thousand dollars per mile may now be laid for 20 to 22 thousand dollars per mile.

Whether by an increase in the gas tax, the voting of bonds or the financing from a program of increased tax for all vehicles, Mr. Cochran is right when he says that a big hard surfaced road program is imperative and should be provided at once. If there is one responsibility above all others in the way of constructive planning for the legislature this winter, it is the launching of an adequate and speedy movement for practical road building. It must be speedy, as the wise engineer concludes, in order to take advantage of the expense sharing offer of the federal government.

In addition to the many arguments so plainly within the vision of Roy Cochran whose zeal and judgment have been well tested during several administrations, there is the opportunity to afford practical employment. We believe that the people of this state now see, as never before, the desirability of all-weather, hard surfaced roads. We believe that forward looking men in the legislature will have the great power and approval of public opinion behind them if they lead this movement to success. On the contrary, it is apparent that temporizing and hesitant planning will meet with the same censure that opposition to the whole plan of progress and efficient government would encounter, in minds of all Nebraska.

Finish Light Cattle Better.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Every time it seems to be all settled that the consuming trade has turned permanently to young light weight beef, something comes along to upset everyone's calculations. In the past few months yearlings have commanded a decided premium right along, but now that a new season has opened with a lot of light, poor-killing warm-up yearlings on the lot, packed show signs of turning to the medium weight and heavy classes of steers in order to get better finish. This is no indication that light weights have gone out of favor, but merely a warning to feeders to put more finish on their calves and yearlings before sending them to the market. With feeds at their present low levels, the drop in prices on unfinished light stock should work no hardship on the feeders, most of whom buy young cattle with the expectation of carrying them for several months.

Health Champions.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Much has been written recently regarding the difficulty experienced by judges in picking the top animals at various fairs and shows, but little has been heard of the labors of those who choose health champions. The method of selecting the physically superior from such an upstanding lot as these 4-H boys and girls is something of a mystery to ordinary folk.

Just how the conclusion is arrived at that a boy or girl is 99.7 per cent in perfect health as Major Syndergaard of Iowa was recently judged is difficult to understand, and it is still harder for most of us to conceive how it would feel to be in that enviable state, but it is refreshing to know that boys and girls who can boast of that condition are growing up on our farms. Doubtless fresh air, sunlight, good food and wholesome exercise and recreation have something to do with it.

Physical health is many ways associated with mental health. No one ever thought of a health champion going about with his head hanging and with a discouraged, discouraged outlook on life. Someway these 4-Hers have discovered that life on the land is one of the greatest heritages which the world can bestow. No longer are they ashamed of being tillers of the soil or of the culture which this group has developed. They have found that all they have to do is to hold up their heads to be rewarded with the gasps of admiration of thousands. The admonition to "stand tall, think tall, act tall" is, rearing its reward, health is by no means the least of the 4-H's. It is something to be striven for and its contribution to happiness is great.

Should Retain Cochran.

Geneva Signal: Some alarm is felt in many parts of the state over the possibility that Governor Bryan may throw Roy Cochran out of the office of state engineer on the suspicion that he favored the re-election of Governor Weaver. Mr. Bryan selected Cochran for state engineer when he was governor and it was an appointment for which Mr. Bryan has always been commended. Mr. Cochran has always been a democrat like Warden Fenton, he has given service of such a high order that no governor has seriously thought of removing him. Several county boards have passed resolutions asking Mr. Bryan to reappoint Mr. Cochran but that very thing might influence Mr. Bryan to do the opposite.

The First to Suffer.

Fairbury News: Of the first thirty-five men to register for work at the free employment bureau in this city, thirty had failed to attend school past the eighth grade, only two had reached the twelfth grade. One 65 year old man, with seven dependents, had not attended school past the fourth grade.

We have heard so many addresses and read so many editorials about the value of education that such a subject might be considered a bore. However in times of unemployment the value of an education and special training becomes very marked.

All men in this nation are born free and equal, and government provides us with public schools to help maintain that equality.

It is regrettable that working conditions are so uncertain at this time of the year. With many men out of employment it is natural that some of the older boys feel that they should be looking for work. However once a boy stops it is hard to start back to school when his former companions are in the higher classes.

The old frontier days, when the leading man was the strongest man, are gone. In this stage of civilization the leading man is the man with the best trained mind and brain. Our schools are maintained to develop the mentality of our children so that they will be able to hold their own in the future struggle for existence.

The children will forget many of the school lessons and historical dates but they won't be able to lose their ability to concentrate and think. They will know how and where to find information. They still will be able to do manual labor and in addition will be qualified for bigger and better positions.

All parents want their children to have an easier life than they have been forced to live. They want their children to be well educated, to have better jobs and live in better homes. They are making great sacrifices for their children. Often times the boys and girls fail to appreciate the sacrifice made by the parents.

Our readers have often heard men say how much they regretted that they did not finish their school work, but you seldom hear anyone complain because they graduated from high school or a university. There isn't a boy in Fairbury (unless he has dependents) who cannot finish his high school work. Surveys in a number of our leading universities show that more than thirty per cent of the boys are working their way through college.

We know from experience what those boys do and are willing to do. They take furnaces, wait on tables, work in cafes, mow grass, wash automobiles, deliver newspapers, and a hundred and one other jobs. Those boys want to qualify themselves for the best. They know what their education is costing them and they realize that they must take advantage of their class work or they are wasting their time.

The fact that they are working their way through school does not insure their success in business life. They may fail later in business or professional circles but they have put up the best fight they had. Even though they might fail they can still come home and be as well off as the majority of their friends who remained and loafed around town. Some day when opportunity beckons they can step forward with the feeling that they are qualified to do the top.

A good education is the greatest inheritance the finest heritage that you can leave your child. The money and property which they inherit are material things they cannot be destroyed or lost but a good education is an inheritance that is imperishable.

And it seems more so these days.

Station J.C.N.
Hello! Everybody!

Here we are on the air again, talking from Santa Claus' Headquarters, located at the
J. C. NUSS 5c to $5.00 STORE in Wayne, Neb.

Last week we told the children all about the toys and dolls and games Santa Claus left at our store. Santa must like the children living in and around Wayne very much for he has stored away in our basement loads of the nice things to give away on Christmas eve.

Now while Christmas is primarily a feast for the children, we, the grown-ups, do not want to be left out. We may try and make believe that we do not care a rap whether we get a present or not, but we would be sorely disappointed if there was no stocking left for us on Christmas morning.

This store never had such a variety of articles appropriate for Gift purposes as just now.

Take, for instance, our hosiery line for Ladies. Silk and Wool Hose at 48c a pair, delustered Rayon Hose at 48c, the best full fashioned Silk Hose at $1.00. Every pair would make a dandy present. For men we have fancy cashmere hose at 3 pair for $1.00, also silk and cotton hose, packed 3 pairs in a gift box, for 95c.

And there are Mufflers and Neckties, Garters and Armbands, Scarfs and Fancy Pillows, Towel and Bungalow Sets, Shaving and Smoking articles, Toilet and Manicure Sets, Boxed Writing Papers and Fountain Pens, Glass and Chinaware, Electric Appliances for House and Kitchen, and so many, many other practical gifts, and all of them priced so low that it will be no hardship nor a strain on your pocketbook to remember all your friends.

Of course, we carry a big line of Handkerchiefs for every member of the family, in cotton or linen, from 5c to 25c each.

A gift, no matter of what nature, will bring with it more of the Christmas spirit if packed attractively. We have a full line of cords, wrapping papers, tissue papers, Christmas boxes, etc., for that purpose, on hand, and the cost is really insignificant.

Our time is limited to day and we are really too busy to talk very long. We invite, therefore, everyone to come to the store and look over the large assortment of articles of every description suitable for gift purposes. By the calendar and all the watch companies of the country it is now the highest time to make your Christmas purchases before they are picked over.

We will be on the air again next Thursday. Carl Nuss speaking.

THE "AYES" HAVE IT.

Happy Chick News

This is Station P-E-T-E again taking the air. We are about to broadcast our weekly review. We haven't any "Static Stompers" or "Amos and Andy," but will try and entertain you with a few jokes and happenings around the shop.

Teacher: "Johnny, if five sheep were in a field, and one jumped out, how many would be left?"

Johnny: "There wouldn't be any left. You might know arithmetic, but you sure don't know sheep."

Yesterday we made in our shop a handle for a flat iron. Now this just goes to show what we are prepared to make. Also have made a number of rockers for rocking chairs.

Time was when you could tell any man by his grip. Now only when it leaks can you be positive.

The woman who drives from the back seat is no more of a pest than the man who cooks from the breakfast table.

We have just finished making the doors for the new city garage. Also placed a new roof on the blacksmith shop on West First St.

An Irishman was busy working on the road with his coat off. There were two Englishmen laboring on the same road, so they decided to have a little joke with Pat. They painted a donkey's head on the back of Pat's coat and watched to see him put it on. Pat, of course, saw the donkey's head on his coat, and turning to the Englishman, said: "Which of you wiped your face on my coat?"

We sure are able to give service on deliveries now with Paul Zeppelin at the wheel of our truck. Just try him out and see if he can't please you with the way he puts your coal in the bin.

Pompous Physician to a mate pleading a defective wall. "The towel covers up a lot of mistakes—what?"

Workman: "Yes, governor and so do the spade."

Diamond Anthracite is sure getting lots of compliments here of late. Hardly a day goes by without customer coming in and saying either that it sure holds fire good, very little ash, nice to handle, or such like.

Some things to be thankful for:

That the ark didn't spring a leak.

That Columbus took a chance.

That Paul Revere wasn't the Prince of Wales.

That we didn't annex Mexico.

That airplanes aren't the only means of travel.

That corn isn't made into flour.

That Theobald Lumber Co. has good coal.

That Christmas comes but once a year.

We sure sell lots of Keep-You-Warm coal. It hardly pays you to pick up coals or cut wood when you can buy coal at $8.50 per ton.

This office of ours hasn't stopped shaking yet. Since Pat has returned from the Ozarks he has decided that he is going to shake it a little more. We are going to remodel it a little more.

Our engineers and chemists are working on a new fuel. I don't know how it will come out, but do know this much—that it will burn.

Ruth: "Who is that fellow with the long hair?"

Eddie: "He's a fellow from Yale."

Ruth: "Oh, I've often heard of those Yale locks."

We are having our annual kid's day at 2 p. m., Saturday, December 20. Santa Claus will be here in person. Come and bring the whole family. No age limit.

This is the Happy Chick Broomer House factory, Wayne, Neb., Station P-E-T-E, signing off until next Thursday.

Scout Men Meet Sunday Afternoon

R. R. Larson is Re-Elected to Office of Chairman in This District.

R. R. Larson was elected again to the position of chairman of the Logan Valley district of Boy Scouts at the meeting held in Coleridge Sunday afternoon. Mr. Larson was accompanied to the gathering by A. W. Ahern and A. F. Gulliver. They agreed that the meeting was the best ever held in this district, with a better record for attendance, and more interest, evidenced than usual.

Fourteen towns in the Logan Valley district were represented: Wayne, Emerson, Fonda, Maskell, Wynot, Coleridge, Beldon, Randolph, Sholes, Osmond, Plainview, Wausa, Bloomfield and Crofton. This number has been increased by the addition to the Logan Valley group of the following north central towns: Plainview, Osmond, Bloomfield, Wausa and Crofton. The change was made because the north central division had become too large.

Election of officers occupied a portion of the session, with the following elections made: Dr. W. E. Smith of Coleridge, vice-president; W. E. Bierweith of Randolph, commissioner; R. R. Larson of Wayne, chairman of the group and member of the state executive board.

Lay Year's Plans.

Plans were laid for scout work for 1931, and announcement was made of meetings to be held in the near future. Next quarterly meeting for the district will be held in Randolph during March.

Annual meeting of the council for this area will be held in Norfolk January 29, when there will be an election, and a national officer from New York City will speak. Dr. W. E. Smith of Coleridge has been nominated for vice president of the area, and his will be one of the names on which votes will be cast at the January gathering.

Postmaster Urges Mailing Of Goods

Christmas shoppers are beginning to fill the stores and streets, and everywhere the holiday mood is beginning to be manifested in a spirit of greater generosity. This generous attitude should be extended to the post office department, says Postmaster Mears, and persons who have packages to mail should facilitate good service by doing their share in obtaining it.

How to do one's share toward getting the maximum in postal service is explained by Mr. Mears as follows: Parcels should be wrapped securely in strong paper, stoutly tied with twine, and correctly addressed. Return addresses should go on all Christmas mail in order to insure the escape of the package from the dead letter office.

Between three and four million letters containing Christmas and New Year's greetings are received at the dead letter office during January, in addition to the normal receipts of undeliverable letters, according to the postmaster general. This is due primarily, he states, to failure in placing correct addresses on the envelopes.

Dead letters, the addresses on which are so illegible as not to be decipherable at all, are burned in a great furnace at the capitol city. If a return address is found, every effort is made to return the letter to the original, if carefree sender.

Couple Celebrates Golden Wedding Day

Among honored guests at the golden wedding anniversary celebration of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dow of Meadow Grove, was Mrs. Clara Christiansen of Carroll, who, with her brothers and sisters spent the day in the Dow home. Mr. and Mrs. Dow were married 50 years ago at Dixon, Ill., by Rev. Mr. Lite. Mrs. Dow was the former Miss Sylvia Hawkins.

The Dows came to Meadow Grove in a covered wagon, four years after their marriage. Their son, Lindley, was born in a log cabin in that vicinity. The Dow children are: Emery, who lives in Oregon and the only child not present at the celebration; May, who lives with her parents; Muri and Lindley of Meadow Grove and Mrs. Clara Christiansen, Carroll, Neb.

Nebraska Sandhills Are Large Domain

The early travelers through Nebraska followed the Platte river across the state and did not encounter the sandhills, else the accounts of the Great American Desert would have been more forbidding than they were. Even the early settlers did not enter that section, but later the development of that section into cattle and hay ranches began and now the sandhills area is an important part of the state's immense domain.

About 20,000 square miles are contained in this region. Some small grain and feed crops, with some vegetables and fruits, are the agricultural contributions of that section. Grazing is the chief industry. Cheap land, an abundance of good water and a healthful climate have accomplished this. Very likely Cherry county which is 96 miles long and 63 miles wide, is the grazing cattle kingdom of the state. In 1929, 1,845 cars of feeder cattle were shipped out of that county. Its nearest rival is Grant county, joining it on the south which last year shipped 1,072 cars. The feeder stock sent to eastern feed lots to be finished for the fat cattle market.

Some very good streams and lakes in the sandhill region yield good fishing. In the fall, when the duck and geese are flying and the grouse season is open this section is hunters' paradise. A great number of lakes make nesting grounds for hundreds of thousands of ducks and wild fowl. Trapping is no small business. Muskrat are so plentiful in the lakes the owners lease trapping rights. Some lakes bring as high as $2,000 a year rental.

Unique Crow Goes On Exhibition Here

Of a decidedly blonde persuasion in comparison with the usual raven hue which a crow wears is the light-colored bird which Otto Sahn shot Monday on his farm nine miles northwest of Wayne. Mr. Sahn first noticed the bird about a fortnight ago, when it appeared with a flock of its darker brothers watering and feeding at the creek bank where Mr. Sahn daily breaks ice in order to allow his stock to drink. The bird of fun size, mingled freely with its fellows, who seemed not to notice the difference in color.

The light-colored crow appeared for the third time Monday morning, when Mr. Sahn brought it down with a rifle. Measuring it full 32 inches from wing tip to wing tip, it is of a delicate fawn color, tinged with a mauve cast which probably corresponds with the iridescence of feathers which is noted in the normal black bird. Wing feathers bear fine shadings, being much lighter at the tips, and of stronger construction than the other feathers, showing that the bird is normal.

Feet and legs of the bird are a rich chocolate brown in color, as is the beak, keeping the colors of the bird in perfect harmony, although at first sight it seems impossible that the light shades could belong to a crow. Mr. Sahn took the bird to the State Teachers College Wednesday morning, and college authorities accepted it for mounting. The state department at Lincoln will take care of the bird, it will be placed on display at the college here when it has been appropriately mounted.

Painting Is Hung At City Exhibit

A chrysanthemum composition painted by Miss Martha Pierce of Wayne has been selected by art judges for exhibition at the ninth annual display of work by Nebraska painters, held in Omaha this month. Of the 183 entries by 80 artists, 148, the work of 72 painters, were hung. The Omaha Art Institute sponsors the exhibit each year and places the best work of Nebraska people for consideration. The work at Omaha was judged by Booth Cameron of St. Paul, and Paul Trebilcock of Chicago.

Miss Pierce has had paintings on display at the Omaha exhibit previously. To have a picture chosen for this is a distinct recognition.

Recommendations from the Omaha exhibit are made for the five-state show in Kansas City in February. Miss Pierce has been invited to send a painting to Kansas City.

John Alfred Larson was born in Rumska, Sweden, on May 7, 1853. He was baptized there as an infant. He came to America at the age of fifteen years living at Andover, Ill., where on the 6th of June, 1869, he was confirmed in the Lutheran faith. On June 11, 1865, he was united in marriage to Miss Christina Johnson in Wakefield. Three sons were born: Arthur, Edgar and Clarence. Mrs. Larson passed away in November, 1922. Mr. Larson arrived in Wakefield in the spring of 1886 uniting then with the Salem Lutheran church where he has been a member since.

Mr. Larson was, physically, a very strong man having experienced little or no illness until the latter part of last week when it was discovered that he had a ruptured appendix. He was rushed to the hospital at Sioux City where he submitted to an operation but because of his age and the nature of the illness he did not recover and passed away on Tuesday, Dec. 2, at the age of 77 years, a mortal illness of 27 days.

He leaves to mourn his passing his three sons: Arthur, Edgar and Clarence, all of Wakefield; also one grandchild, one brother, N. E. Larson of Wakefield, one sister, Mrs. John Isadson of Louise, Texas, one brother, Carl, and one sister, Emma, in Sweden, a number of other relatives and friends.

Christmas trees in Wakefield town square began the holiday season of perhaps 30 smaller trees which will stand along the business street through the season. Colored lights festoon trees and streets, and promises of free movies on the afternoon of Monday, December 22, when Santa Claus will appear, delight children and their parents.

Special decoration of shops and windows has begun, and holiday plans are well under way. Sale of Christmas health seals in the schools has been successful this year, and constitutes one of the more important activities of the season.

Arrangements are being made for the award to the Wakefield high school of the University of Nebraska. N. club placed of honor, which the school is to have this year for the second time. The award, which has been made to nine Nebraska schools having high letter men averages in comparison with the general school average, will probably be made by Coach F. G. Dale, of Wayne State Teachers College. N. club buttons to be presented to letter men will go to the following: Joel Lyman, Hosmer Henton, Marvin Nuernberger, George Larson and Kenneth Carnell.

The plaque and the buttons were sent the first of the week from Lincoln. Similar awards were made Monday afternoon in Winfield by Coach Schulte of the University of Nebraska.

Football season in Wakefield schools closed with the South Sioux 7-0 victory.

Basketball season will open, it is hoped, with a game at Pander January 13. Wayne and Wakefield will play January 16 in the new gymnasium here, if plans are not changed.

Many Attain Honors. Lists of students who have attained honors in the last six weeks' period include the following record:

The seniors on the honor roll are: Hosmer Henton, Charlotte Ekereth, Adeline Sar, Janet Mathewson, Barbara Wilson, George Larson, and Marvin Nuernberger. Frances Paul is the only junior whose average is above ninety.

The sophomores are: Rosa Hinrich, Nettie Ekereth, Dorothy Coe, Robert Anderson, Fern Brown, Anna Feldund, Margaret Swanson and Franklin Backstrom.

Muriel Hanson, Frances Davis, Margaret Schulz, and Helen Andersonberry are the freshmen whose grades place them on the honor roll.

Supt. Jackman attended the meeting in Omaha last Thursday of the legislative committee of the Nebraska State Teachers' association. He returned the same evening, having assisted in the preparation of the report.

Classes Have Parties. Seniors are planning to have a party Friday evening with Amelia Hanson, member of the class. Sophomores may entertain Friday evening, also. Teachers in the school will act as chaperones.

Pullets Profitable

To Raisers in State Lincoln, Neb.—Starting with 1,000 pullets on November 1, 1929, a good Nebraska poultryman could have realized a gross net of $2,716 and a profit of $1,237 in the past 12 months, J. H. Claybaugh, of the agricultural college, said. The $1,237 would not have been net profit. From this amount the poultryman would have had to pay interest and depreciation and take his own wages. Interest and depreciation probably would have amounted to about $260, leaving between $70 and $75 a month for the poultryman's wages. Poultry prices have been exceptionally low during the past 12 months, Mr. Claybaugh says, and profits are not as attractive as they have been during the past few years. Outlook for the future is not so rosy, either, Mr. Claybaugh believes. The supply of eggs in storage still is high and the supply of poultry in storage is a little below normal, but demand for both eggs and poultry is poor. Mr. Claybaugh arrived at the figures by averaging the receipts of many commercial poultrymen, who cooperate with the agricultural college extension service in keeping cost accounts on their poultry. According to the summary, 61 per cent of the total income came from the sale of eggs. Eggs sold on the market brought $1,535 and those sold for hatching, $473. Sale of young stock brought $289, sale of old stock $199 and miscellaneous receipts $15.50. Death loss in the 1,000-hen flock during the year amounted to 12 per cent, or 110 hens. Five hundred twenty-two hens were culled out and sold on the market. The flock averaged 147 eggs a hen in the year.

Economic Law Will Win.

Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman: Interference with fundamental economic laws either by legislation or agreement instead of helping agriculture to an equality with business, will only complicate matters and make the situation of the farmer worse than it has been. So says Dr. Freeman Pyle, dean of the college of business administration, Marquette university. "The farmer assumes full responsibility for his own success and ceases to look to others for assistance, there is hope that he will succeed in, developing effective methods of production and marketing. "Nothing will promote this movement, more effectively, and, in the end, more satisfactorily, than prices resulting from the unrestricted action of the economic law of supply and demand. Schemes of artificial and political control of prices and of production in the field of agriculture are more likely to prove a boomerang upon an alleviating agent."

Trapping Season Opens.

Lincoln, Neb.—The trapping season has opened in eastern Nebraska and fewer prosecutions for illegal trapping are expected by State Game Warden O'Connell. It opened December 1. The season will open in the western half of the state on January 1.

Much Wheat Fed.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman) Wheat fed to live stock this year will exceed 236,000,000 bushels, according to the Department of Agriculture as compared with about 90,000,000 bushels in 1929. There is no reason to doubt the government's figures and it will certainly help reduce the burden of surplus wheat. What the farmers of the Middle West are wondering is what effect it will have on corn.

Fog Causes Accident.

Beemer, Neb., Dec. 9.—Mrs. Elizabeth Reudink, living north of here, was hurt Saturday evening when the car in which she was riding collided with another on the road north of town. Her son was driving and the heavy fog obscured his vision, the car crashing into the other auto, which was badly damaged. Mrs. Reudink was taken to the local hospital. She received a deep gash in her forehead and several body bruises.

Runs Over Coyote.

Homer, Neb.—Pursuing a coyote down the road at 50 miles an hour and killing it, was the experience of E. J. McKernan, rural mail carrier at Dakota City. West of the E. F. Ropte farm, Mr. McKernan saw the coyote walking down the road. When Mr. McKernan started in pursuit, the coyote merely quickened its speed, remaining in the road, with the result that the hunter was the installment on a new fur coat.

Gas SATISFACTORY to Aurora Users

Business Houses and Homes Find It Efficient and Clean

Cost Is Moderate

(Articles Taken From Aurora News of November 7th Issue)

Enough time has elapsed since the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power Company began the installation of natural gas service in Aurora to give the users a chance to judge its merits as a medium for heat, cooking and the many other purposes to which it is adapted. The coming of natural gas to Aurora last summer gave the people their first opportunity to actually test it in their own homes and places of business and determine for themselves its value and convenience. After a period of several months the verdict of the users seems to be for it, and many of them are actually enthusiastic over the results.

At the present time service installations number 265, covering practically every form of use from an incinerator to a typesetting machine. This number of installations include twentyfive converted furnaces and six new gas furnace jobs, making a total of thirtyone furnace heating plants. This has all been done in a

Mr. Murphy tells the News that the heat is the most satisfactory thing that has ever been installed in the home, and he adds that even though the cost be a little greater than the coal heated furnace he still regards it as a valuable change, because of the cleanliness, regular heat and added comfort that comes from using it. The October reading for the Murphy home was 4,900 cubic feet and the cost was $6.10. Mrs. O. H. Darling is another user of the gas in a converted furnace and she is really enthusiastic over the change and the added comforts that are realized.

At the C. C. Jessee bakery gas has been in use for some months and is giving excellent satisfaction. The service at the Jessee bakery was installed in June and the cost of operating has been lower than the coal cost before. A saving in expense of oper-

There are scores of others about the city who have the installations and who are realizing the same sort of service and at approximately the same cost, but all of these could not be interviewed. The News has endeavored in its survey to get the facts and figures on various kinds of service, in business houses and homes and a record of the cost for the several kinds of service. The Gale Studio is one of the latest places to install gas and has two heaters in operation today. The record shows that the aver-period of less than six months. The first installation made in Aurora for mercantile purposes was in the office of the Aurora News, when two of the typesetting machines were equipped to use the gas. At the present time the News office is operating its typesetting machines, casting machines and two heaters with gas. The cost thus far has been less than for coal and gasoline, and the heating system is far more satisfactory.

The News has made inquiries of homes and business houses using the gas and has also investigated the readings in many places. While the real cold weather test has not yet been made with the gas, the readings for cooking ranges, laundry stoves, incinerators, etc., for the past several months would be a fair basis for estimate, since these are used just about as much at one season as another. The James Murphy home was among the number that had a furnace conversion job installed several months ago, with other gas fixtures.

ations has thus been made and it is the intention to extend the service in the plant from time to time.

L. A. Pfost is among the number who have had the regular Heatrola gas heating system installed, and the members of that family are highly pleased with the fine results they are getting. Most of the users feel that the relief from handling coal, firing, carrying out ashes and clinkers and the absence of soot and smoke are items in themselves that are as much to be considered as the cost of the service.

At the Aurora city hospital the installations consist of a converted furnace, water heater, laundry stove, range and incinerator. The reading for October for the entire service was 10,000 cubic feet and the bill for the month was $9.68.

The P. J. Refshauge home is another that is completely equipped with gas. There is a regular gas furnace, water heater, laundry stove and incinerator. The readings for this service from September 12 to October 13 was 6,900 cubic feet and the bill was $7.34.

At the Dr. J. W. Newman home there is a gas range, water heater and a converted furnace. The October reading was 5,300 cubic feet and the bill was $6.38. The F. H. Green home on Thirteenth street is another place in which gas is giving highly satisfactory service. In the Green home is a range, laundry stove, water heater and fireplace insert. The October reading was 4,200 cubic feet and the bill was $5.40.

age cost in the homes about town for range, water heater and laundry stove is from $2.00 to $3.50 per month, depending, of course, upon the amount of time the ranges and laundry stoves are operated. In this survey the News has found no actual complaint concerning service or cost. On the contrary, people very generally express their entire satisfaction and also their belief that natural gas has solved several fuel problems and has come to stay.
