Kiwanis Hears Gas Proposals

J. W. Densford Of Mid West Natural Gas Company Talks To Club.

Answers Questions Round Table Discussion Adds to Interest of Monday Noon Session of Group.

Since the production of coal has been at a standstill for the past 17 years, we know the time has come when the world must begin to look to some other source for its fuel...

To Develop Sources, Nebraska need have no fear that its own possible resources of natural gas will not be developed.

Kiwanians asked questions concerning the supply of gas available for use in this part of the United States, and it was in reply to these questions that Mr. Densford pointed out that a geological survey by the United States department of commerce has revealed a supply of natural gas in the Kansas and Texas fields which will last at least 50 years.

Gas Piped Rapidly. Gas which leaves the fields in Texas, Mr. Densford pointed out, reaches the Omaha territory in about two hours, so great is the speed with which it is sent.

Continuous hook-ups are planned in order that no town shall be left on a dead end of the line. In this way, there is no accident or obstruction along a line, disrupting the service, gas can be supplied along another route.

Statistics Report
Gross Farm Income

Gross farm income for Nebraska for the year ending June, 1930, slumped $32,000,000. This was less than expected, says the state and federal division of agricultural statistics. A somewhat higher price level during July to October 1929 and increased sales of livestock offset somewhat the effects of a lower average price for the period.

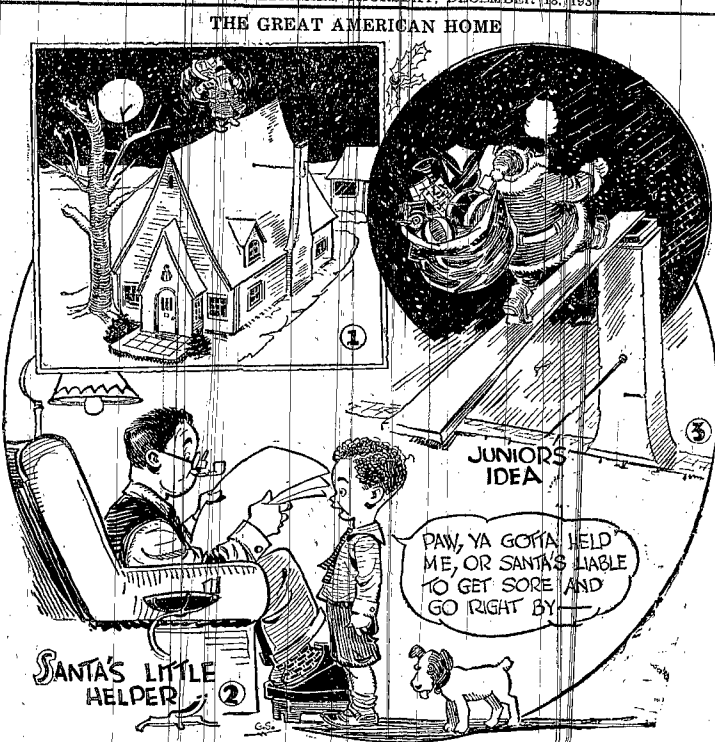

Gross farm income for the year ending June 30, 1930, was $468,760,000 as compared with $495,058,000 for the year ending June 30, 1929. Prices had reached the highest level during the early part of this drop year which somewhat offset the low price level during the last half of the period. Furthermore, sales of small grain crops were heavy during the early part of the period when prices were the best. Potato prices were good throughout the crop year.

The prices of livestock and its products were also better during the early months of this period. Except for cattle, the sales of livestock were not as large during the early part of the period, but a considerable increase in numbers sold held up the gross income somewhat on the sales of livestock. Butterfat was abnormally high during the first four months of the period.

Eggs and chickens brought satisfactory returns during the early part of the period.

Sales of cash crops brought $132,834,000 as compared with $140,631,000 the previous year, a reduction of approximately $7,800,000. The reduction of $15,000,000 from sales of corn was partly offset by an increase of $3,500,000 on potatoes and a slight increase in all of the other crops, excepting hay. While wheat sales were slightly less, the price averaged higher.

Gross income from livestock and its products totaled $329,956,000 as compared with $355,377,000 the previous year, a decrease of $25,421,000. The prices of meat animals averaged lower but a larger number of head were sold. There was an increase of 72,000 head of beef cattle sold. The average price for the period was $9 below that of the previous year. There was an increase of 146,000 head of hogs sold and the price was $1 less per head. There was an increase of 52,000 head of sheep and lambs sold at a price less than half of the average price of the previous year. The sales of butterfat decreased slightly and the price averaged 9 cents less per pound. Prices of butterfat were good during the first four months of this period but were abnormally low during the remainder of the period. As a result the income slumped $5,000,000 or over 20 percent.

Propose Measures To Help Farmers

Lincoln, Neb., Dec 13—Prospects for agricultural interests to occupy a prominent place in the forthcoming session of the state legislature seem favorable, according to early indications around the state capital.

So far two projects, both of which are intended to help the farmer, are being planned. One is being prepared by a committee from the Nebraska Farmers union and consists of a new tax arrangement.

The other is being agitated for by western farmers and applies to exemption of gasoline tax on fuel used in tractors and other farm implements.

The first proposal seeks to equalize the tax burden, now said to be carried chiefly by the farmers. The plan is to impose an income tax, similar to the federal income tax or the present state intangible tax, but at the same time include some exemptions.

Another phase of the bill is expected to embody an increased percentage of tax in proportion to the increase of income, possibly 1 per cent on incomes up to $1,000 above the exemption totals to 5 per cent on incomes of $5,000 or more over the exemptions.

Outline Criticism. The chief criticism against the present situation is that not enough of the returns from the gasoline tax go to the western counties. This is because of the low registration number of automobiles in that section, the basis upon which the allotments are determined.

Most of the gas in that territory the proponents of the new measure intimate, is used for farm machinery in place of automobiles.

Farmers, however, do not have a clear majority in either branch. Yet it is generally believed that they will be able to muster enough votes to get their legislation through. Also, the backing of Governor-elect Bryan is expected.

Forty Are Farmers. Forty of the 100 house members are classified as farmers or livestock raisers, one calls himself an agriculturalist, and three are retired farmers.

The comparative farm strength in the senate will be less than in the house. Of the 32 senators, only have professed farming or ranching as their vocations, with one additional member labeling himself as a banker and farmer.

Organized Farm Meets To Be Held. Organized agriculture, the meetings to which hundreds of Nebraska farmers come each year in a receptive mood, to learn more about their business, will be held Jan. 5, 6, 7 and 8 at the college of agriculture.

A tentative program for the meetings lists such speakers as Duncan Marshall of Toronto, formerly head of Canada's agriculture department, a position similar to that held by the United States secretary of agriculture; Alexander Legge, former Nebraska and chairman of the federal farm board; Dr. Mary Swartz Rose of Columbia university, expert in home economics, and M. L. Wilson of the Montana college of agriculture at Hoopman.

Nominate Wayne Man to Office

Coming as a great honor to Wayne and to scouts in this region is the nomination at Fremont of J. H. Kemp for vice president of this scout area. Dr. W. E. Smith of Coleridge has been nominated as vice chairman of this district.

Wayne Hospital Notes. Richard Reimers, 12, of Laurel, suffered bruises on the head Tuesday evening when a car driven by V. A. Trook accidentally struck him.

Mrs. Alden Josiy and infant son of Gillette, Wyo., will leave the hospital next Saturday.

Mrs. S. W. Eides plans to go to her home near Carroll Saturday after recovering from broken bones which she suffered in an accident.

A daughter was born Monday, December 15 to Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Clasen of Wayne.

Fred Berry received medical care the last of the week.

Butter Price Falls To New Low Mark

Chicago. Future deliveries of butter sold below 26 cents a pound wholesale Monday for the first time in many years during the holiday season. Prices delved deeper into depths never before recorded on the Chicago mercantile exchange, and it taxes the memory of the oldest traders to recall when similar quotations were current within ten days of Christmas.

December butter closed at 25 1/2 cents a pound, off 3/4 cent; January at 25 1/2 cents, down 1 cent, and February at 25 1/2 cents, down 3/4 cent. December eggs finished at 14 1/2 cents a dozen and the January delivery at 13 cents.

Box Social. A box social and program will be given at Dist. 15 on Tuesday evening, Dec. 23, 4 miles north and 3/4 west of Wayne on graveled highway. Ladies please bring boxes. Lilla Lute, teacher.

Mouse Saves Family. Meadow Grove, Neb. At the John Schlink home here Mrs. Schlink was awakened about 5 a. m. by a mouse running over her head, and after being driven away it returned. Mrs. Schlink could sleep no longer and arose to discover that the house was filling with gas. On examination, a leak was found in the refrigerator.

Property Destroyed By Fire Thursday

The home and household furnishings belonging to Curt Linke of near Clearwater were destroyed by fire last Thursday morning. The blaze had gained such headway when the family discovered it that nothing could be saved.

Gives Address To D. A. R. Group

Prof. I. H. Brittel addressed the Wayne D. A. R. chapter Saturday at the meeting with Mrs. Brittel, Mrs. Elva Brockway and Miss Anna McNeil in the Brittel home on "Physical and Chemical View of World Building." He explained the way the earth evolved from a burning gaseous mass. When it cooled layers of stone, marble, sand etc. were formed. The glacier period took minerals from the earth and the residue was mass. First signs of life were mosses from which coal beds were made.

A period of inhabitation by huge animals followed. Even in western Nebraska bones of hogs which were taller than man and which had large tusks have been found. The carna, hippopotamus, rhinoceros and such animals were also here and they were destroyed by glaciers.

When man appeared on the earth he differed from animals in having reasoning. The bible says God breathed into man the breath of life and made him higher than other creatures.

All life and nature show the presence of God. Time and change are dependent on each person's experiences and outlook.

Following the address, the hostesses served luncheon. The D. A. R. meets in January with Mrs. F. W. Hise, Mrs. D. S. Wightman and Mrs. Fred W. Nyberg.

Firemen responded promptly and with plenty of water the blaze was soon extinguished.

Nebraska May Get Road Fund

Omaha, World-Herald, Dec. 16: By shifting of funds from other states which cannot use the additional money, it may be possible to give Nebraska more than the $1,700,000 which would be available immediately in this state for highway work if the president's $1 billion dollar emergency relief bill is passed.

Federal Engineer Clifford Shoemaker told the World-Herald Monday: "The emergency funds for highway construction need not be matched by the states dollar for dollar, as must other federal aid appropriations. It is thought that, if the bill passes, Nebraska's share may amount to two million dollars or more."

Nebraska already has more than four million dollars of unused federal aid to its credit," said Mr.

GAS FRANCHISE ELECTION

Tuesday, December 30

The gas company asks for no guarantee. The City As A Whole And No Individual---is obligated to the company in any way. The gas will have to be sold to citizens of Wayne in competition with other fuels, as coal, oil, wood and corn cobs

Will Natural Gas Interfere With the Profitable Operation of the Municipal Light Plant? No!

Those who now have electric stoves will continue to use them. But less than ten per cent of the people buy electric stoves. The other ninety per cent can, and we think, will use natural gas. You can buy gas hot-plates and stoves from $5 to $100.

The gas company asks people of Wayne to pay for gas exactly the same the company is going to get from franchises already granted in the following towns: Wakefield, Emerson, Pender, Bancroft, West Point, Beemer, Wisner, Pilger, Stanton, Oakland, Lyons, Walthill, Winnebago, Homer, Craig, Tekamah, Rogers, North Bend, and about 80 other towns in Nebraska.

The average bill for domestic use, that is, cooking and water heating in Nebraska for the month of November was 1.87, and the average gas consumption for domestic use was 1182 cu. ft. THE BUSINESS OF THE COAL MAN AND THE FUEL-OIL WILL SUFFER SOME FROM THE COMPETITION OF NATURAL GAS, BUT THE REST OF THE CITIZENS OF WAYNE WILL PROFIT BY IT.

The gas company asks no more and no less from Wayne, and promises exactly the same for Wayne as it does in other cities in which it will operate. Is there any good reason why Wayne should be any different from the other towns? Natural gas will be sold to each individual customer on its merits after the distribution system has been put in. No one is obliged to buy it or to use it. The coming of natural gas to Nebraska has already reduced the freight rates on coal.

WE ARE GOING TO TRY TO HAVE A MASS MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT THIS WEEK FOR A FREE AND OPEN DISCUSSION OF THE GAS PROPOSITION. A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE GAS COMPANY WILL BE THERE AND WILL ATTEMPT TO ANSWER ANY QUESTION THAT MAY BE PUT TO HIM. WE BELIEVE THAT WHEN YOU CITIZENS OF WAYNE KNOW ALL OF THE FACTS, YOU WILL BE FAVORABLE TO GRANTING THIS FRANCHISE. THE CITY HAS EVERYTHING TO GAIN AND NOTHING TO LOSE. THERE ARE NUMEROUS TOWNS, ESPECIALLY IN KANSAS, WHERE THEY HAVE BEEN USING NATURAL GAS FOR YEARS, WHERE THE OFFICIAL GOVERNING BODIES WILL SAY THAT NATURAL GAS HAS NOT IN ANY SENSE HURT THE MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANT, AND THAT THE CITY HAS BEEN MATERIALLY BENEFITED BY GRANTING A FRANCHISE AND ALLOWING THE GAS COMPANY TO BRING IN GAS.

We trust that every citizen will make a thorough and personal investigation before the election on December 30. We hope there will be no one who will act on a prejudice or the statements of someone who may be selfish. The interest of the city as a whole must outweigh the interests of a few individuals. A representative of the gas company will be at the Stratton hotel much of the time from now on until election day, ready and anxious to discuss the matter in detail with individuals or organizations that are seeking information. He will call at your office or at your home at your request.

Making Changes About Holy Land

Modernization Is Converting
Country Of Palestine
To New Condition.

Much Is Preserved

Mrs. J. D. Haskell of Wakefield,
Tells Of Country As Seen
At Two Times.

Though many traces of the time of Christ remain in Palestine, modernization is gradually but surely converting the Holy Land into a place different from that of nearly 2,000 years ago, according to Mrs. J. D. Haskell of Wakefield, who visited the country last year. Mrs. Haskell had, with the late Mr. Haskell, gone to the Holy Land 29 years ago and she thus had good opportunity for comparison. The country on her first visit looked much like it was in original times, it is said, for Turks who ruled the land for many years, excepted every cent above the people's living and thus no improvements or changes were made. English and French interests in recent years have started improvements that will make the country entirely different. The changes are advantageous for their bring cleanings and modern conveniences. The conversion started after the World War.

Land Is Fertile.

Palestine is a small country bordering on the sea. Some of it lies in very fertile and well-watered plains and other parts rise to steep mountains with deep gorges and cliffs. When cleared of stones the land in the valley is most productive. Only small brush and slight vegetation grow on the hillsides. When the land was cleared in years gone by the stones were used to make small walls around the fields, which are very small. Thus the land is still covered with these stone fences which surround circular, triangular and square plots.

Grains and Vegetables.

Grains and vegetables are raised on the fertile farm plots, each tiller going from the village to his land and note living outside the small towns. The ground is perfectly suited with crude instruments. Plows and yoke are carved from wood by the farmers. The plow has a single blade of wood, the back of which is covered with iron. Oxen, mules and people draw the plows. Grains and vegetables are raised. Two large, round stones, placed on top of each other, are used for grinding the grain. A stick in the top one serves for a handle which is pulled back and forth by two men who sit on the floor to grind the grain which is placed between the flat surfaces of the stones. Women make the grain into flat, round loaves of bread which they bake in the community oven, which is made of stone. This bread and dried fish furnish the principal diet of the people. Meat is too costly to eat, though lots of sheep and goats are raised on the hillsides. These animals can subsist on the scrub growth on the mountains where others cannot. Cattle are very few.

Homes of Adobe.

Homes of the natives in Palestine are mostly made of adobe. Blocks of clay are used to build the houses which are mostly one story and square. On hillsides they are built close together, one row just back of the other, with no space between. A person in the second row walks out into the roof of the house below. Streets in the original parts of the Palestine towns are narrow and buildings are not arranged always in line. When Mrs. Haskell visited the country the first time the streets were not clean and tourists wore rubbers when in the town. Recent changes have improved these conditions. Lepers and beggars who were so numerous a few years ago, are removed from the streets. Hospitals have been provided for the former and conditions have been improved to help the beggars maintain themselves.

Roads Improved.

When Mrs. Haskell visited the Holy Land a quarter century ago one good road led through the

SHOW ON CAPITOL TOWER IN LINCOLN IN NEED OF LAMP

If the artist who designed the figure that surmounts the tower of Nebraska's capitol had created a statue of liberty with a lighted torch in her hand, he would have received a rising vote of thanks from aircraft pilots who fly in the vicinity of Lincoln at night. For the Sower, standing motionless and sturdily there four hundred feet above the ground, is a peril to air travelers who are not aware of his location. The capitol commission has partially reduced the danger by issuing an order to have the upper part of the tower lighted at night. Later, when the building is completed, a series of flood lamps will light the tower and put the figure of the Sower in bold relief against the night sky. Then the airman can fly around Lincoln in better safety.

An interesting fact about the tower was pointed out by one of the engineers. It is about five inches taller in the summer than in the winter. This variation is the result of contraction in cold weather and expansion in warm.

The variation in height may seem insignificant to the average person but it is of immense importance to the architects and builders who must make due allowance in their plans for shrinkage. Steel and stone do not expand and contract at the same ratio. To make allowance for this difference, a thin corrugated sheet of lead was placed between the layers of stone at the base of each of the twelve stories of the tower above the building proper. These sheets contract and expand under varying pressure and actually equalize the difference of contraction and expansion between the steel and the stone.

The steel structure of the west wing of the building is now being erected and work will be pushed through the winter as fast as the weather will permit.

The dirty stream and dusty vegetation do not make a pleasing picture. Another modern project was started on the Jordan the past year, the aim being to straighten the course of the river and harness its power by building of a dam. The Jordan will then furnish electric power for all of the northern Palestine and will be the first such power in the country.

Keep Carpenter Shop.
The old carpenter shop and the home of Mary and Joseph, said to be kept the same as in the time of Christ, is a treasured spot in Nazareth. The place is a crude little building similar to all of that country. Nazareth, Jerusalem, Damascus and Bethlehem have the original parts which the people have aimed to maintain as of two centuries ago. Only part of the original stone wall around the city of Jerusalem is, however, original. Other parts of the wall were rebuilt as needed. The wall still remains about the old city and new additions are built outside. The new homes and hotels on the outskirts of cities are modern and very nice. Bethlehem is now a suburb of Jerusalem, six miles distant, and is becoming more modern. The road to Jerusalem is a fine boulevard and one mile of this is lined with modern hotels and stores. The Church of the Nativity still stands in the heart of Bethlehem. The manger in which Christ was born is in this church and is guarded with steel fences. Oil-burning lamps are always lighted there. Gifts of great value are sent from all parts of the world to this church. Some of these gifts are gold lamps set with precious stones. Catholics, Greeks and Armenians worship in the church, each having a separate portion of the edifice. All go to the one manger. Soldiers stand guard at the manger continually to prevent any differences which might come between the sects.

Ceremony Each Year.
Once a year many persons gather at the Church of Nativity for the ceremony of washing the feet. This being significant of washing away sins. This is at the Christmas season. Fire is kept burning always in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. This fire, which is supplied by oil, is once a year taken to all homes of the country. Each family brings a ball of rags or something else that will absorb oil. This is saturated and lighted from the holy fire. Thus a part of the holy fire is taken from the sepulchre to each home.

Jewish Walling Place.
The part of the wall of Jerusalem which is the only original section standing is the Jewish walling place. Each Friday women gather at the wall and cry, waiting for the times of long ago. On account of there being no land which is the Jewish home, efforts were united in Europe and this country some months ago to raise funds to send unfortunate Jews back to Palestine to establish a home country for the people. Many Jewish people did return to Palestine since and they are making successful tillers of the soil.

Garden of Gethsemane.
The Garden of Gethsemane is walled and in it are many olive trees, some of which are said to have grown since Christ's time. Many potted plants have been placed in the garden and a mosque now stands at one end, changing the original garden plot considerably. Steel fences have also been built to separate the garden into numerous small plots.

A Garden Tomb.
A garden tomb, thought to be that of Jesus, has in recent years been unearthed. A wall rises back of the tomb. The door of the tomb, through which one must stoop to enter, and many other details answer the description given in the bible and it is thought very likely that this is the place of Jesus' burial.

The Tomb of Absalom.
The tomb of Absalom, a square stone structure, still stands on a rocky hillside. And the custom of throwing stones at the tomb is still followed.

Pools of Solomon.

The pools of Solomon, large square holes in the ground, lined with stone, still serve Jerusalem as reservoirs for water. Perpetual springs supply water for Nazareth. Women carry heavy earthen jars of this from the springs to their homes. No other water source is available. The jars, when filled with a couple gallons of water, are so heavy that a woman must have help in lifting one to her head. Recently square tiles are replacing the heavy jars.

Khans Are Used.

Khans are still used in the country. These are enclosures of stone walls, at one end of which are rooms. Travelers stop at the khans and people stay over night in the rooms and let their animals and caravans stay in the enclosure. Gates to the khans are locked at night. It was at one of these

Condition Is Good For Construction

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 11. Nebraska's building situation is unusually favorable as contrasted with that of surrounding states, according to a survey of conditions made by the publication Architectural Record.

With every state bordering Nebraska reporting a decrease in building of from 27 to 64 per cent from the average maintained in 1925, the magazine stated Nebraska showed only an 8 per cent decrease, with a rank of seventh among the states of the nation in the maintenance of its building percentage.

Four Men Killed At Rail Crossing

Otis Sizemore, One of Victims,
Has Spent Considerable
Time About Wayne.

Three men were instantly killed and a fourth died a short time afterward from injuries Wednesday afternoon last week when the sedan in which they were riding was struck by a train at a crossing at Dakota City. The men were Earl Sizemore, 41, Otis Sizemore, 34, and J. F. Daniels, 35, all of Sioux City, and Leslie Holdomb of Fremont. Otis Sizemore has spent considerable time in Wayne county the past couple years, working on farms and doing odd jobs.

The car the men drove bore a Wayne county license. It was struck by the train as it neared the Dakota City station. The train was traveling northward and was scheduled to have reached South Sioux City, Neb., the end of its run at 5:30 p. m.

Car Is Demolished.
The automobile, buffed almost 75 feet, was demolished. All the men, except Carl Sizemore, the driver, were killed outright. He was still alive when several witnesses of the collision reached him. He was taken in an ambulance to Sioux City, but died a few minutes after his arrival at the hospital.

The four victims entered the employ of the Missouri Pipe Line company, which is laying a natural gas line through Nebraska, a short time before the accident occurred. Officials of the company said the men were enroute to Waltham, Neb., where headquarters of the company are located and where the men were to have undergone medical examinations.

An Open Crossing.
The crossing at which the tragedy occurred was an open one. They said it was their belief that the driver of the automobile failed to see the train approaching in the darkness.

All the bodies were severely mangled and identification was difficult. Complete identification was not obtained until several hours after the accident occurred.

The body of Daniels was taken to Elk Point, S. D., for funeral services and burial. The body of Holdomb was sent to Dunlap, Ia. for burial there Saturday.

Funeral for Otis and Earl Sizemore was in Decatur, Neb.

1/2 cup luke warm water
2 cups scalded milk
2-3 cups shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Flour to make a stiff dough
2 eggs
Dissolve yeast in luke warm water. Scald milk and add shortening, sugar, salt. When this mixture has cooled to luke warm add the dissolved yeast. Mix thoroughly and add just enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead thoroughly until smooth and pliable. Put into a greased bowl large enough to allow for rising. Cover with a clean cloth and set in a cold part of the refrigerator. When the rolls are wanted pinch off the dough, shape and let rise until double in bulk. (This requires 1 1/2 or 2 hours.) Bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. These are quickly and easily made and need only the one rising. The dough may be used immediately or at any time within a week.

Chill the cooked sauce and fold into it one cup of cooked apricots which have been run through a sieve. Last, put in two cups of beaten cream, and set the mousse away to chill and harden. Five or six hours will be required unless the mousse is placed in the refrigerator, when it will take only a short time to become firm. This quantity should serve six or eight persons.

Addresses Club On Pioneering

Rev. William E. Braisted speaks to Members and Guests at Gay Theatre Friday.

Rev. William E. Braisted addressed the Wayne Women's club and guests Friday at the Gay theatre on "Pioneering in Life's Widening Areas." He spoke as follows:
"Until one deliberately steps and goes to think rather carefully, few of us have any comprehension of how the horizon of life have widened out in comparatively recent times and how all this relates itself vitally to all human relationships. It may help a bit to feel this widened life if we try to take an air trip with the best of modern astronomers into the starry sky and note the revelations of vastness they report to us, compared with the days preceding the telescope and the work of Galileo and Copernicus. It will be equally interesting to hear what the physicists have to say about the composition of these stars, nebulae and spirals, and along with them try to grasp, a bit dimly, if we can something of the marvel, beauty, wonder of our own solar system, and our earth in particular. This may, perhaps, help us to grasp a bit more clearly some conceptions of human life and world relationships, today, as contrasted with say the Roman or the Greek, or the Hebrew conceptions of the world life. With this we shall try to face three aspects of human life while 'Pioneering in Life's Widening Areas.'"

"First, we do well to think of this pioneering in its politico-civic aspects. This should interest all thinking women who have had, even here in the United States, equal franchise so short a time. The rest of the world is now facing the same question in their widening areas of life and its issues. What this pioneering in this widened area of life carries all our social, civic, economic, industrial life in the political realm alone should cause us most serious consideration. What women do in this land, in this pioneering, will affect every nation the world around for ages yet to be. Can it be made a world-wide value for higher, finer, cleaner, more sober government of men everywhere? That is the issue. And it is not yet settled. Even such splendid women as Mrs. Catt and Miss Jane Addams do not wholly agree on values so far gained; and while both are hopeful, neither claims over much as yet.

"Let us remember that pioneering is always perilous in the paths of progress. It has always been in discovery and conquest of continents, or these vast prairies, as the Oregon trail, which typifies all such marches of mankind to life's widening areas. "Second, we find ourselves as mankind has never before been forged, pioneering perilously in the widened areas of all economic and industrial human relationships. A few generations ago, even a small nation, often a few families, or even one family might go on living, contentedly, happily with little or no concern as to others. All that is changed until we can hardly imagine what it involves. Every phase of economic change and movement vitally touches to blast or bless every other human group on the earth. No man lives up to himself; never so to turn as today. And there is no turning back. This is indeed pioneering in life's widened areas, and the very life of millions quivers today the world over, in the perils of this pioneering.

"Food, clothing, education, health, all racial contacts for good or for ill, all this is tragically vital today. Raw material, manufacture, markets, the very necessities of our tables, travel, apparel, homes, all this is now as never before conditioned on world planes, and involves directly every man, woman and child on this earth. And pioneering is always perilous in the paths of progress. Have we mind, heart, will enough to find our way through these widened areas, with their perils that make even the Oregon trail seem, by contrast, like a lover's evening stroll?"

"Third, and this needs no apology this Christmas season, when we try to face another vital issue while pioneering in life's widening areas, what of the spiritual and ethical areas of world life today and tomorrow. The answer to this will, in measures not one of us can grasp now, throw its light or its blight back into all these areas through which we have been so superficially scouting for some trail, if trail there be anywhere. That ethical attitudes are more largely determined by all men irrespective of formal creeds or churches, than most of us ever really comprehend, is pretty generally agreed by careful students of all human relationships.
"Nothing less is necessary than a richer, deeper and more vitally spiritual religious faith in such a God as Jesus revealed, and in whom He lived and trusted, a personal God, in whom all moral values find their source and perfect realization, who looks upon all men and races and nations as potentially His beloved children, for whom He cares with all the fondest passion of the best father and mother the ages have known, with all the plus of His infinite goodness, truth, beauty, love, power. Such a faith that in thought attitudes, and all relationship, political, racial, social, domestic, economic, religious, alone will prove adequate to the crucial needs of men the world over in these tragic, thrilling, glorious days of a world pioneering in life's vastly widening areas. We cannot, if we would, turn back. Humanity faces forward, and must go on. It is perilous pioneering, always, but there is no other way to find and pursue the paths of progress, for our own safety and the common welfare, physical, mental, social, spiritual, of mankind everywhere. While eternity in spirit life beckons us moment by moment and none can turn back, here above all places, add every one of us heads out toward that great adventure, in fear or vital faith. For some of us that has all the lure and may have all the thrilling, challenging appeal of ten thousand Oregon Trails, the thrilling adventure of pioneering in the widened areas of God's eternal life."

Child Actors Dominate.
The kids get a break in films once again. This time three youngsters play the leads in one of the most famous stories ever translated to the screen, "The Sawyer," the immortal classic from the pen of Mark Twain, coming to the Gay, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, December 21, 22 and 23.
Jackie Coogan, whose fame has increased since the days of "The Kid," is seen in the title role. His partner in boyhood devilry, Hubberly Finn, is played by Junior Durkin, the lad who amazed Broadway by his work in Janet Beecher's "Courage" on the stage.
Becky Thatcher, Tom's flaxen-curlis sweetheart, is portrayed by little Mitzi Green, the nine-year-old marvel who has become one of screenland's idols in little less than a year's time.
The minor child characters are delineated by a carefully chosen group of Hollywood's most clever kid actors.
