THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 20 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, February 26, 1931.

Your dollar is worth more now than for many years. It's time to buy.

Now that we're approaching the first of the month, the office loafer suggests that the signs "Post No Bills" be transferred to the mail boxes.

This week we unloaded a car of PREMIUM white cedar posts. In the open market these posts cost three cents each more than the regular cedar post, but owing to our buying power coupled with the CASH we bought the posts at no more cost than ordinary posts.

While they last, therefore, we shall sell these strictly Premium posts at regular post prices. They must be seen to be appreciated. Extra large cut and live peeled.

The man who will make a profit on his hog operation this year will be the man who is equipped to take care of them properly. We are prepared to deliver A-type, four pen and six pen farrowing houses on instant notice. They are ready built. Order now.

Disillusionment comes to the bride when she discovers that a husband makes the same kind of noises when he is parting with money that Dad did.

"The best range coal I get anywhere, I get in those paper bags I buy of you," said a customer days ago. We say, "There ain't no better."

Most fortunes have been made by opportunists who bought from pessimists. There seems to be a golden opportunity for optimists just now in the agricultural districts. Within five years from now many will be looking back wishing they had bought this, that or the other thing when prices were cheap.

During the short coal snaps this spring, ring 147 for quick service on the coal you need.

We know Mrs. Otto Fler is proud of her new CURTIS kitchen cabinet as she has a right to be. We believe she will be glad to show her many friends this dandy cabinet. Just ask her.

When the horse balks, the balk is in his head, not in his legs. When business balks, it's the same way. The "depression" is about over. It's time to get going.

With lumber prices lower than they have been since before the war, the man who contemplates improvements will find this an opportune time to take advantage.

According to the thing that Mrs. Ina hasn't been to straighten out lately is the span of of low values, someone's coming full swing, prices are to be higher.

The trouble who knows what wants to build doesn't know how to go at it. They where we are to help. We may by draw the but we also accurate material bills for any kind building, be it small or large. This vice is free.

We are selling more and more Square lumber every week. It's your money. It's best material you can buy.

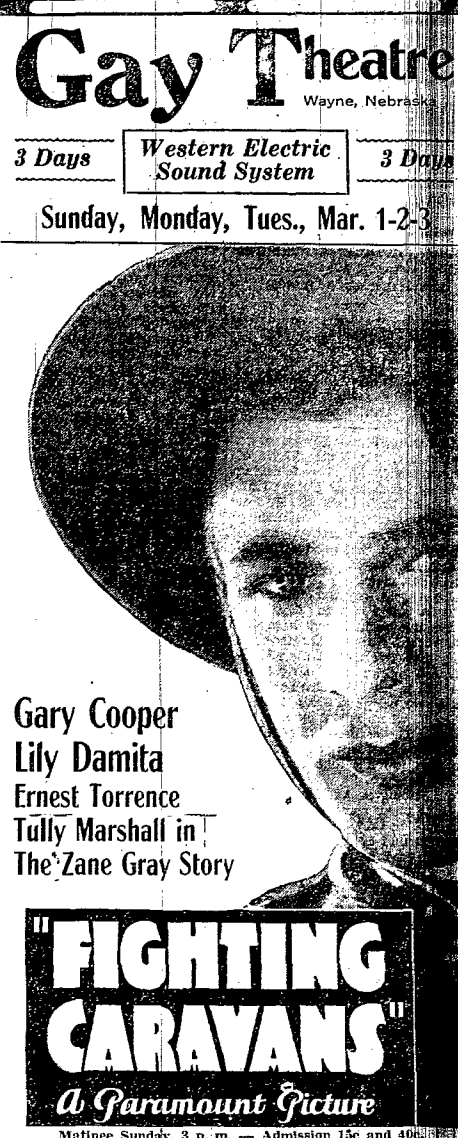

Let us remind you that Carl is the job ready to do the little odd jobs that regularly to a lumber That's part of service.

With fifty cedar shingles at or near price of good roofing, the man who lets any talk him into asphalt roofing is overlooking a better way before he lives in Wayne.

 This paper is representative for general advertising by The Nebraska Press Association.

The Wayne business district deserves its constantly enlarging trade territory as a regular study of the Herald's advertising columns will prove.

Continuance of mild weather puts the question of any severe winter up to March which will soon be installed. It will be like March to kick over the good reputation of the Nebraska weather this year, but it may agreeably surprise us and not do it.

One of the lady reporters on this home comfort says 'ergophile' is a new word just out of the incubator, and that it will appear in coming editions of the dictionary. She explains that the word means 'love for one's work, and if so, it may not find much use excepting in an advisory and admonitory way.

Rains varying from almost inconsequential thinness to an inch fell over the state Saturday night, and where winter was raised, much good was reported. This pruning of the rain belt of heaven doubtless foreshadows the moisture which will be needed in considerable quantities before long to mellow the soil and encourage renewed growth.

WORTH NOTING.

F. H. PRICE of the Newman Grove Reporter, concluded his term as president of the Nebraska Press association last week. Mr. Price made a very acceptable president, and he finished his official service by presiding over the recent convention of the organization at Lincoln. Mr. Price used to teach school, moving up the scale to the superintendent. Then he turned to newspaper work and bought the Newman Grove Reporter which he conducts with pronounced success.

With the above paragraph as a basis, we wish to stress some of the accomplishments of the Price family which are worth noting in this period of frequent indifference to fitness for an accepted task and of lack of readiness to make full discharge of responsibilities. In the Price family are the agitators and two sons—all intrepid operators, but one, an 8-year-old girl who, however, is already looking yearningly to newspaper work.

Two of the daughters are in the employ of the Herald, one part time while taking a course at the State Teachers' college. The two boys are employed as linotype operators, one at home. From a monetary standpoint the Price girl aged 20—regularly employed by the Herald, earns—we mean earns, not just draws—wages that would quite overshadow the spend of the average bank clerk. And the Price linotype operators are skilled and conscientious. They don't seem to think the world owes them a living. They don't figure on just getting by—getting as much as possible for as little as possible. By inheritance and training, they have developed the idea that worthy while service, cheerfully given, will win opportunities and adequate compensation. Therefore, they possess poise and confidence.

Greater than the presidency of the Nebraska Press association, the greater than the success of his newspaper venture, is Mr. Price's accomplishment in rearing a family, free from the tinsel of pretense, free from social sham, ready and able to give more than duty requires. And we have a suspicion that Mrs. Price who is also engaged in newspaper work has contributed liberally to the inheritance and training of the family by being. Any one who feels like trying down and giving up may well look to the Price group for inspiration.

living is down and incomes are comparatively light, the operation to relieve property taxes will not be severe. When living costs ascend, the income tax, not taking into account any advance in the price of food and wearables, might be a hardship.

The passing of Mark Murray, editor and publisher of the Pender Times for 41 years, removes a man of high standing in the newspaper (councils of northeast Nebraska. He was known by many in Wayne where he attended editors' conventions at different times. He was a man of fine character and enjoyed the confidence of the many who knew him. Publishers and others will remember him with esteem.

The bill in the senate designed to compel all able-bodied and otherwise qualified citizens to exercise the electoral franchise was defeated and laid to rest the first of the week. The measure aroused lively discussion. It was pointed out on one side that every citizen should be forced to share in the responsibility of government, and on the other side that an injection of ignorance and indifference might do more harm than good. Anyway, the bill was snuffed out.

Canada has taken the lead in trimming down the devices to advertise in broadcasting programs. Only five per cent of a program will be given over to advertising, and on Sunday no sales talks will be permitted, only the name, address and business being allowed on that day. American broadcasting authorities may be prompted to take similar action. Broadcasting needs a good deal of regulating to restrict its privileges in accordance with those of the newspapers, and this should and doubtless will be done.

With a car that looked like one of the originals and with an inexpensive shears and knife grinding apparatus in connection, an elderly individual went about his business of soliciting and executing orders here this week. He worked fast and well, and though his charge was small, results, due to volume, were satisfactory. The man's evident good nature aided his facility in accumulating orders. Many men wanting jobs could figure out things that need to be done and then take the initiative in getting permission to do them.

Whipping trees in a section of Mexico for failure to produce a good crop is on a par with sending up discarding noises to dump an eclipse of the sun. The dumb-bell batters warned the trees to do better this year, the latter making no response, as reports indicate. Doubtless they will yield abundantly if the weather is favorable and if they have not been injured by the foolish beating. If vitality of the trees were not impaired, no harm will result excepting in the betrayal of a state of mind little if any above that of the epileptic.

In a recent address at Seward, Lieutenant Governor Metcalf condemned against party differences in the exercise of legislative prerogatives. After the polls are closed and results are announced he urged that party lines be laid aside in behalf of the general welfare. He advised that the functioning of Governor Charles Bryan should not be hampered by party interference, and that he should be given the reign to carry out his duties. We are not sure that it would be a mistake to give the governor full freedom for his peculiar notions. With an unlimited power he would likely either modify his wishes or make a record that would eliminate him from ever coming back. And the result might justify the sacrifice.

Veteran Editor of Pender Times Dies

The death Tuesday, February 24, of Mark Murray of Pender, editor of the Pender Times for 41 years, marks the passing of one of northeast Nebraska's pioneer journalists. Mr. Murray who had been ill since December 15, was aged 64 years at his death.

Mr. Murray was dear of newspaper men in northeast Nebraska and had always been active in political and civic affairs. The record of being in business in Pender longer than any other man was claimed by him. Deceased was past president of the Northeast Nebraska Press association. In 1898 and 1900 he was elected to the state legislature and in 1912 was a delegate to the national democratic convention which nominated Woodrow Wilson for presidency.

Deceased is survived by his wife, two daughters and one son. Funerals were held yesterday afternoon at the residence, and the body sent to Greenfield, Wis.

THE PRESIDENT.

NEARLY two years have passed since Herbert Hoover became president, and a writer reviews the experience of a man of business with no traits of a politician, at the head of the government. Under the Hoover leadership, it is pointed out, the government has been undergoing transition from politics to business.

Manifestly President Hoover is no theorist and does not seek the plaudits of politicians. It is said that even Washington democrats who hope for party control and for the election of one of their number to the place of chief executive, do not hesitate to commend President Hoover's ability and practical wisdom.

President Hoover has had a hard row to hoe. Politicians have demanded measures which they themselves would not adopt, wholly on their own responsibility. The president has been harrowed and obstructed by self-seekers who were willing to tear down worthy leadership in the hope of gaining personal prestige. The president has weighed problems carefully, and he has shaped his course according to sound business judgment uninfluenced by popular clamor. The farm board answered a general demand, but its workings were not authorizing beyond unbound lines, urged by visionaries. Its course is, at least practical and does not build up an unhealthy condition, later to cause him regret.

President Hoover shifted politics out of the way when the Wall street market collapse happened in October, 1929, and his move for economic defense has no doubt reduced disastrous consequences. The movement in behalf of uninterrupted industrial activities and in support of enlarged building plans enriches many communities. The president's administrative and executive reforms, though ignoring political considerations, may be little known or appreciated, but they promise to yield values of a permanent order. The president's public service promises to grow in popular estimation as people come to understand it.

George Fortner Tells Of Visit

Long Beach Plan For Care of Unemployed Persons Is Recommended

Visits Naval Base

Two Months' Visit Is Crowded With Interesting Trips to Beautiful Coast Cities

A sane solution to the unemployment problem in the opinion of G. W. Fortner, who returned Tuesday from the coast, is the Long Beach plan. The city of Long Beach, finding itself overburdened with unemployed early in the winter, has adopted the plan of doing outwork on the city water system. Unemployed are first listed, and, if they are worth it, two days of work are given each. Labor is done with pick and shovel, as old water mains are unearched and new ones are established in freshly dug ditches.

Unemployment on the coast is probably now worse than there is in other sections where there are large cities, Mr. Fortner believes. He sees the situation as serious, wherever it exists, however, and believes that salutary measures should be effected wherever possible. In Long Beach the floating population is not encouraged, and labor is offered only to those who are generally worthy, a provision which should be adopted more frequently.

Sees Many Points.
Leaving Wayne January 8, Mr. Fortner went to Long Beach, where he visited his son, George. Although he stopped at many other places along the coast, he concentrated on Long Beach and its territory. The city itself, he says, has developed a great deal since he visited it six years ago. One of the most interesting if the newer improvements is the construction of a new auditorium for the city, which provides labor for many carpenters and construction men.

Near the site of the old auditorium the new building will be larger and more complete than the former structure, and will have many features unthought of in the architecture of the days when the first one was built. Long Beach's new building will have a long amusement pier attached to the building and extending into the bay.

With his son, Mr. Fortner made a number of interesting trips to some southern California, visiting Los Angeles, San Diego, Riverside, San Francisco, Oakland, and other points. On Sunday of last week the Fortners made a trip to Riverside, spending the day in the sheltered valley where sunshine and high mountains combine to make a tropic spot, even in mid-winter.

"One of the prettiest pictures you can imagine," Mr. Fortner describes Riverside valley. "All around trees were in bloom, all pink, the grass was fresh and green following the rains, and the high mountains were covered with snow."

Visits Naval Base.
At San Diego, Mr. Fortner had one of the most interesting experiences of the trip when he visited the United States naval base. He was escorted through the base by the Paul Crossland, stationed with the United States government at San Diego. Dr. Crossland says Mr. Fortner a real opportunity to observe the efficient workings of the government establishment.

The several fine buildings of the naval establishment have been constructed by the government on reclaimed land which has been filled in along the waterfront to make a safe foundation. A large, modern hospital, fully equipped to care for sick soldiers and sailors, several office buildings, and other structures complete the plant, which is one of the finest ever constructed by Uncle Sam.

"Dr. Crossland took me through from cellar to attic," says Mr. Fortner of the visit to the base.

Have Fine Rains.
California was looking her best during the months of Mr. Fortner's visit. Heavy rains have just fallen, the orange crop promises to be bigger than it has been in several years, and the hills have turned green again. The pleasant impressions of the coast continued throughout an interesting trip along the Feather river country and through the Rockies. Mr. Fortner was particularly impressed with the splendor of the deep gorges and exotic colorings of the Feather river canyons.

Nebraska was a welcome sight to Mr. Fortner, too, and he commented on the springlike atmosphere which is beginning to be noticeable at this season.

Saw Old Friends.
Among former Wayne county friends whom Mr. Fortner visited on the coast were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Neffachen at Huntington, a suburb of Los Angeles, who have a large family; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Miner, in Los Angeles; Mrs. Henry Lay at Eschmatta, and a number of others.

Councilmen Hear Report on Sewer
Plan for Caucus To Be Held Next Monday Evening for City of Wayne.

A proposal to lay 155 feet of storm sewer and 200 feet of sanitary sewer for the city of Wayne was brought before the city council Tuesday evening by a representative of the Cornhusker construction company. The additional length of sewers, he said, would be necessary to make the present outlets reach the proposed new course of the creek, which the company plans to straighten. The wide bend in the creek which is to be changed will obviate flooding, it is believed, but it will move the creek some distance, thus changing the present sewer outlet for the city. The council took the matter under consideration, and appointed James Brittain, city attorney, to investigate the matter.

Monday, March 2, is the date set for the next election caucus. Council members whose terms expire are: Walter S. Miller, first ward; E. J. Strahan, second ward; E. D. Eichel, third ward. There are two members of the school board whose terms expire: L. A. Fanske and A. T. Cavanaugh.

Discuss Business Affairs.
Business affairs which concern the city were also discussed. The determination of heirship on certain lots belonging at one time to a Paine family, but now divided and sold to O. T. Conger, D. H. Larson and others was discussed in the hope of clearing some minor technicalities.

The question of placing service wires and radio aerials came up for discussion. The city council also passed on some insurance.

Report was heard on the matter of steam heat which the city has been selling to citizens whose places of business are located near the city plant. Cost and value of the heat was investigated and laid before the body for consideration.

Councilmen were confronted with the problem of whether or not to purchase a new team for city use, since one of the horses has died, and the other has seen seven years of street-plodding service. The mind of the council seemed to be that the city of Wayne deserves a sprightly new team of horses to take the place of the inadequate equine equipment now in order. The horses are used most during the season of weeding-mowing; it was pointed out, and there are numerous odd jobs on which horses can be used.

We expect another car of Briquets in a few days. The customers sure like this fuel. You can't blame the much, at that, because it is easy to ignite, holds fire a long time, burns evenly and freely, makes an intensely hot fire, and burns up to a clean ash. Fine for cook stoves.

Just another twister: Bill had a billboard. Bill also had a board bill. The board bill bored Bill so that Bill sold the billboard to pay his board bill. So after Bill sold his billboard to pay his board bill, the board bill no longer bored Bill.

If you are a farmer, are you making the best possible bid for hog profits by providing your swine the best possible shelter and living conditions during the farrowing season?

HAPPY CHICK NEWS

The hardest part of this broadcasting business is getting the first paragraph. After that it is fairly easy, so kindly excuse the mistakes in this paragraph because it generally is all bunk anyway.

White coal is going good. This coal is greater by means of a spraying process which covers the coal with a thin white film. The result is a clean, dustless fuel of a light grey color. Soot complaints are more prevalent in mild weather. A good time to order a load is now—then you can be safe from complaints of neighbors. Priced at $9.00.

"Why do you insist on telling me those horrible stories of ghosts and robbers while you are cutting my hair?" said a long suffering customer to a talkative barber. "I'm sorry," said the barber, "but you see, when I tell stories like that to my customers their hair stands on end, and it makes it ever so easy to cut."

You remember several weeks ago me telling you about selling six of our open farrowing houses to Clarence Corbit. Well, the other day Joe was in and reports that they had farrowed fifty seven pigs from six sows in these houses. Now I claim that is some average.

Life is a solo. Others may add harmony, but no one else can sing your part.

Speedy Relief for Sore Throat
This Doctor's Prescription Requires No Gargling
No longer is it necessary to gargle and choke with nasty tasting medicines to relieve sore throat. Now you can get almost instant relief with one swallow of a doctor's famous prescription. This prescription was refined so often that the druggist who originally filled it decided to put it up under the name "Thoxine" and make it available to everyone.
The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that it relieves almost instantly, yet contains nothing harmful. It is pleasant tasting, and safe for the whole family, and is guaranteed to relieve sore throat or coughs in 15 minutes or money back. Put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Sold by all druggists.

Mrs. Mary Britain Looks Back Over Fifty Years of Building in County

Pioneer Woman Views New Developments of Times With Real Interest.

Recounts Old Thrills

Tells of Early Work Started by Groups Looking Forward to Newer Social Life.

There are always new children growing up to build for the future, says Mrs. Mary Britain, early settler in Wayne county, as she reminisces. For years school children have passed her home on their way up the hill to the public school, and each year sees a new group scrambling along, chattering and laughing on their way to learning. It is a source of interest to this keen observer of affairs who came fifty years ago from the old home in Illinois, to be the mother of the future here.

Mrs. Britain, Mary, and James, her husband, came from Paw Paw, Illinois, in April of 1876. They traveled by rail from Rockford, arriving in Missouri Valley, Iowa, where it was necessary to take the ferry to Blair, where was waiting a train to take the party to Wisner, the end of the line. Mrs. Britain describes the crossing of the river as being an uncomfortable, rough voyage. Arriving in Wisner, the Britains stopped at the one hotel, and left the next day by wagon for La Porte, where they were guests of the Joe Algers. Mrs. Alger and Mrs. Britain were sisters.

Mentions Prairie Hills

"We came to the top of one sloping hill, only to look down on more of them," Mrs. Britain is amused now at thought of how steep and how dangerous the undulating hills looked to their unaccustomed eyes.

LaPorte was, in those early days, intended for a railroad town. The beginnings of the town were in sight as the party, two curious eastern strangers, and Mr. Miller, came over the last hill, and to the sight of Sol Bevans store, a partly finished house, the Agler dwelling, and the two-story court-house of brick, planted about with sapling trees. The school house had been finished, and there were settlers who had established their homes, near by. The beginnings were impressive for beginnings.

On the Agler homestead was a

Pictures First Home

This first home, as Mrs. Britain describes it, was made pleasant with articles brought from the east. There was a cottage organ on one side of the room, and a folding couch which could be made into a bed. This side of the room was the parlor. On the other side was the kitchen stove, a great packing box fitted with shelves for storage of equipment and supplies, the top serving for a table, and one of the old-fashioned "cates" for the storage of food. On the floor were strips of rag carpet.

When Mrs. Britain had earned a little more money by teaching school, the furnishings of the house were augmented by the purchase in Sioux City of a walnut bedstead and dresser, a drop-leaf table, and a set of dishes. The bed, which is of fine walnut in the style of the day, is still a treasured possession of its owner.

Mild First Winter

Instead of the blizzards which these settlers had anticipated, the first winter in Nebraska was mild, much like the past winter has been. Heavy rains fell toward spring, however, and Mrs. Britain recounts how the driving wind sent the rain pounding against the thin frame house, soaking through the siding into the plaster, collecting in puddles around the window and door frames.

It was a quarter of a mile across the prairie from the Brittain home to the school house. Each morning Mary Britain set out with a stick in hand, parting the grass before her in suspicion of snakes. And snakes there were, too. A long rattler lay sunning himself on the well-curb near the school house one day, only to meet death when Susie Hunter and Mrs. Brittain took pieces of board for clubs, pinned the reptile down, and flogged him to annihilation.

"Weren't you afraid to get so close to a deadly snake?" she asked.

"Of course," was Mrs. Britain's stout reply, "but we couldn't have a thing like that around the school ground, could we?"

The beginnings of things in La Porte came to an abrupt ending when the railroad which had been promised for the little village was switched to another section. When LaPorte people heard of the change, a few of them came to Wayne site. Among them was James Britain, who, being forward-looking, purchased land and got settlers to come to the new territory. A town grew up soon, and there began the second era of building.

(This story is the first of several which will appear in the Herald. It is based on an interview graciously granted by Mrs. Mary Britain.)

Rules That Land Division Is Fair

Allotting land by dice is not gambling, the state supreme court ruled in entering a decree in the case of Ashford vs. Horak of Thurston county. Thomas Ashford, Joseph Horak and the State Bank of Winnebago were creditors of A. M. Armer, and came into possession of an encumbered quarter section of land. It was decided to throw dice and the low man should take the land and assume the debts. Horak said he refused to abide by this method of disposing of the land. The land finally was sold under a $1,900 mortgage and the action before the court was to recover from Horak money Ashford advanced to pay interest and taxes. This was in the nature of a deficiency judgment and the supreme court says it was properly entered against Horak.

Former Resident Wakefield Dies

Mrs. Robert B. Pierce, of Madison, former resident of Wakefield, Wisner and Stanton, died February 18 at the age of 38 years. Funeral services were conducted at Wisner Wednesday last week and interment was made in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Pierce's maiden name was Miss Dorothea Axen. She was born at Scriber August 9, 1892. She was married to Robert B. Pierce June 14, 1911. After their marriage the couple lived at Pilger nine years and then went to Wakefield where they lived six years. In 1925 they moved to Madison where they resided since.

Deceased leaves her husband and daughter, Luella Lee.

State Owes Much To Emancipator

When General Granville Dodge, builder of the Union Pacific, planned the route, he chose Council Bluffs, then Kanesville, as the eastern terminal. Tradition has it that Dodge owned property there. Part of his land fell into the hands of N. W. Judd, a Rock Island attorney, who plastered a $4,000 mortgage on it. The mortgage holder was an Illinois chap by the name of Abraham Lincoln. He came out from his Illinois home in 1859 to see if his security was good, and General Dodge convinced him that Union Pacific should start west from that point. On the first day of July, 1862, President Lincoln signed the bill which provided for the building of the Union Pacific.

Fire Causes Loss On Chicken Farm

Fire thought to have been started by a short circuit destroyed a building 20 by 24 feet and 1,000 laying hens at the Seever's poultry farm two miles west of Norfolk last Thursday morning. The blaze, which is thought to have started at 4 when the lights automatically turn on in the buildings to equalize daylight, was discovered when the fire caused a short circuit in the burglar alarm. Advantages of Live Stock

Omaha Journal Stockman.—In the agricultural depression of the past year or so, the most pitiable figure of all is that of the "grain" farmer, who must sell every bushel of what he produces because he has no live stock through which to market even a part of his crop. Consequently it is to his aid that the relief efforts of the nation have been most intensively directed.

Live stock producers have been hit, too, in the fall of prices, but not so vitally. They still have a home market for their grain, hay, pasture and starks and when these are converted into pounds of pork, beef or mutton they are in a form for which there is always a cash outlet. Furthermore, regardless of the current market prices of corn, wheat and hay, the value of these crops as measured by the pounds of grain they will produce when fed to hogs, cattle or sheep, remains virtually unchanged from year to year.

The only variation here is in the quality of the crop and the weather, and other conditions under which it is fed.

In both these respects live stock farmers have been especially blessed during this winter of 1930-31. Throughout most of the Middle West, crops last year were unusually high in feed value. On top of that, the section of the country where most of the live stock is raised and fattened has enjoyed an almost ideal winter for producing and feeding operations.

Most fortunate of all are the men who, besides raising hogs, are able to keep small herds of cows or flocks of ewes. Even with live stock prices averaging the lowest in some time, the farmers who both raise and feed their own stock have realized considerably better than prevailing market prices for the grain and hay they produced in 1930.

So if there is one lesson of permanent value which Corn Belt farmers may learn from this period of depression through which whole nation has been passing, it is the value of live stock in the production scheme. Occasionally we have a season when, temporarily at least, the grain farmer appears to have the best of things, but in any period of five years or longer, the advantage lies strongly on the stockman's side.

A Hint to Farm Parents.

Omaha Journal Stockman.— "Daddy, I want to join a 4-H club." How much pride, how much joy, how much hope can be put into such a supplication, and how much youthful enthusiasm can be dashed by the answer. "H. m, maybe next year—can't be bothered with your running off to meetings just now. Probably you'd get tired of it and quit anyhow."

Give the kid a chance. If he hasn't got it in him to do, his parents proud, what kind of a boy is he?

The world is crying for leaders, and particularly in agriculture is this want keenly felt. Sit in a 4-H club meeting and see how this need is being filled. The gathering is called to order. Minutes are read. New business is taken up and disposed of. Old business is next in order. Many a meeting of grown-ups is less well managed. Listen to a 4-H club banquet program—talks, songs, skits, all well thought out and presented without the least hesitancy. Regardless of what other returns it may offer, club work trains leaders through contacts, through necessity and through practice.

Club work has experienced phenomenal growth, but considering its possibilities, it is still in its infancy. In the states where it is most highly organized not more than one-tenth of the eligible boys and girls are enrolled. If there is no club in your neighborhood, one can be organized. Entries for baby bees are practically closed for this year, but winter clubs are open until March 15 and other clubs can be organized almost any time.

The 4-H club is the only organization of youth that is founded on principles of wholesome farm life. Every rural boy and girl has a right to see more than drudgery and soullessness in agriculture as a profession. Club work has already proved to many that a freedom of thought and independence of action is available on a farm that is never attained the hurly-burly of business or in smoky towns.

Trees Suicide Specialist Says

Trees like human beings, commit suicide. So says Martin L. Davey, head of the Davey Institute of Tree Surgery, but he explains that self destruction in the world of trees is never intentional. The result, however, is just as effective.

Under certain conditions, new roots sprout and bind other roots, or the trunk of the tree. As the roots and trunk grow the pressure becomes greater until, in time, the

James arrived home Friday after visiting and touring Canada four months. She reports a most enjoyable time but is glad to be back. Leaving Carroll October 27 and going by Lake Crystal at St. Paul, Minn., where she visited friends. Mrs. James went November 10 to Winnipeg. She had crossed the border at Emerson, Manitoba. She spent a day sightseeing in Winnipeg and then went through Manitoba and Saskatchewan to Edmonton, capital of Alberta. She visited her niece and nephew, Miss Blodwen and J. J. Harper, at Ponoka, Alberta, also her brother-in-law, J. W. James, who died a few days after her arrival. Deceased and his family were early settlers in Wayne county. Mrs. James found the weather exceptionally fine for that country though farmers complained of low prices for their products. Stock was a fair price. Before leaving for the coast Mrs. James, in company with her niece, Miss Harper, visited the Alberta capital a few days. On December 22 Mrs. James left via Calgary for the Pacific coast. She went to Lake Louise which yearly attracts so many tourists and to Banff, where wild animals could be seen running at will. Buffalo, elk, moose, mountain goat and many others were there. Mrs. James traveled through the Rocky mountains and along the Thompson river where the scenery is wonderful. Along the Fraser river were to be seen fine dairies, poultry farms and orchards in the valley. Thirty hours ride brought Mrs. James to Vancouver, a city with a population of 243,029 at the last census. Besides there are 50,000 Japs and Chinese. Wide streets and fine buildings characterize the city. At Vancouver Mrs. James met her sister, Mrs. A. Harper, and brother-in-law, who were early settlers in Wayne county before the railroad was built to Carroll. In the fine harbor of Burrard one could see large vessels from all countries and large wheat elevators. Each day large amounts of wheat were loaded on ships to be sent mostly to Great Britain, China and Japan. The passenger boats which Mrs. James saw in the harbor were about 600 feet long and look like traveling villages. They ply between Hongkong, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand. Mrs. James says they contrast sharply to the prairie schooner in which she and her parents came to Nebraska from Iowa. Mrs. James enjoyed the beaches and the parks in Vancouver, fishing lots of swans, pelicans, wild geese and ducks, also wild animals. Red cedar trees 12 to 14 feet in diameter and about 200 feet tall are numerous. Leaving Vancouver February 16, Mrs. James went to Seattle and Spokane Wash., and then home through Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota. Mrs. James stopped a day in Wayne on her return, visiting her brother, Robert H. Jones, and wife.

Pioneer Picture Coming To Gay

"Fighting Caravans" the thrilling and spectacular drama of the battling pioneers who beat new trails across the continent, is the tremendous attraction which the Gay theatre will show Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, March 1, 2 and 3.

"Fighting Caravans" has been filmed on the same gigantic scale which made "The Covered Wagon" a never-to-be-forgotten screen presentation.

Into the intense atmosphere of the frontier-busting caravan is introduced a tender romance, between Gary Cooper, the swaggering, devil-may-care junior scout of the expedition, and Lily Damita, French girl immigrant whose father dies during the grueling march, leaving her alone, with a giant wagon and a valuable cargo, to carry on to the Land of Gold.

"Fighting Caravans" is Zane Grey's best-seller novel brought to the screen, made to live against the gorgeous natural backgrounds of the California High Sierras.

Pass Resolution To Aid Children

Dr. U. S. Conn who attended the National Educational association convention in Detroit last week, brings the following resolution which was adopted by the group in behalf of the nation's children: "The officers of the National Education association, speaking for the association's 220,000 members and in the name of the teaching profession of America, reaffirm the association's historic belief in the importance of education in American life. We regret and condemn shortsighted proposals, now current in certain communities, to cripple needlessly the effectiveness of the schools by indiscriminating and drastic reductions in the salary schedules of teachers. We condemn these proposals because they involve a grave injustice to the school and the teaching profession, because they attack American ideals and well-being at their source, and because they would rob the children of the nation of their just educational rights.

"Common sense demands that income reductions should not be exacted from those least able to bear the loss. Teaching has always been an undervalued profession. Increases in teachers' salaries have always been accompanied by higher standards of preparation, requiring large investments of time and money in professional education. The teacher today is paid only seventy percent as much as the average gainfully occupied person. The quality of teaching largely determines the future of childhood. Teaching is already at an economic disadvantage; to increase that disadvantage is to strike the schools at their most vulnerable point and to weaken the one institution which can contribute most to the recovery of prosperity.

"The welfare and stability of the nation depends on a continuously effective educational system. To cripple the schools, even for a year or two, means an irreparable loss in rational health, stability, culture, leadership and citizenship. We must not forget the lessons of the World War, the utter helplessness of the illiterate and untrained man to cooperate effectively with others, the tragic wastefulness of poor schools or no schools at all. As citizens and as educators we re-direct the attention of this country to these lessons. Temporary difficulties do not excuse the working of permanent harm. "Every child born in America has a right to an adequate education, a right guaranteed by the state constitutions and implied by democratic government. The failure of our own generation to face and solve the problem of economic depression should strengthen our determination that the new generation shall be better fitted to cope with these and other problems of modern life. We call upon the fathers and mothers of the nation to reaffirm the American faith in education and to resist firmly any attempt to handicap their children by driving the best teachers out of the profession. The rising generation must not be forced to pay the price of the present generation's failure and blunders. Such a sacrifice of childhood's opportunity is utterly unnecessary. Given equitable and proper methods of taxation, this country is wealthy enough to give every child its American birthright—a generous education under the direction of trained and competent teachers."

China Realizes Christianity Need

Communist propaganda, feared in this country because of many alien sympathizers, is considered a real menace in China, according to Hamilton Fish, chairman of the committee for investigation of communism in the United States. Dr. Ila Kahn who heads a Chinese hospital says, "Propaganda, like a sinister picture against a background of red, thrills us with horror. Agriculture, industry, commerce and education in China are feeling the strangling effects." Dr. Kahn fears the menace for she knows no "rotten" nation can live in this era of progress.

Out of Moscow, asserts Dr. Kahn, 3,000 youths are yearly being trained in principles of communism. Atheistic, pitiless, conscienceless, they drift into life of other countries. So subtle and insidious is their propaganda that no one will realize the damage to national character until it is too late. America, England and Germany are too busy, Dr. Kahn says, to counteract the evil. There is a way of helping China through the 3,000 youths from that country who study each year in America. Some of them will catch the spirit of Christ and take it back to their people. The mission hospital in China will also help solve the problem. About 20,000 Chinese are cared for each year in the hospitals. Christ's ideals are a great influence. Christianity is the only weapon that can fight against the propaganda. Dr. Kahn finds, and she urges its adoption to save China from communism.
