WORK STARTS ON NATURAL GAS FOR WAYNE BY APRIL

With a telephone conversation with J. W. Denford of the office of the Natural Gas Company at Lincoln Monday, we were informed that the work of connecting this city with the natural gas system would start not later than April 1 if the weather does not interfere. The late heavy snowfall in the southern part of the state has hindered outdoor work. Mr. Denford reports that Chicago headquarters lately figured out and ordered appropriations for the season's construction and that nothing but unfavorable weather could cause delay. The line is now completed to the Sioux City limits, and it is probable that on this line will come from Waltham. Some towns in the southern part of the state are anxious for early connections, but Mr. Denford says as long as the machinery is now in northeast Nebraska work will start here first. He adds that the plan is to have everything completed and the gas ready to turn in by July 1. The local job will require the employment of about 150 men.

ADVERTISING IS SURE CURE SAYS BUSINESS EXPERT

ROGER W. Babson, business expert, says advertising is the tool that can cut its way through sales' resistance and modify effects of depression. He emphasizes the fact that companies which made greatest profits last year were the ones that did the most advertising. Babson points out that the comparative ascendancy of luxury and semi-luxury businesses over old staple lines is due to persistent and consistent advertising, and that manufacturers and dealers in staples are just beginning to learn the value of advertising. He says commodity prices are down lower than at any time since 1915, but that people do not fully realize the bargains now being offered. More advertising, stressing the lower level of prices, would keep the buying public informed and stimulate more liberal buying. Babson gives large credit to advertising for the phenomenal development of this country and its industries and commerce. He says advertising is responsible for mass production and mass distribution. And it will be found that newspapers furnish the best advertising mediums at least cost.

Statistics reveal that food prices are now the lowest since 1917 and are 14.1-2 percent lower than they were a year ago. With prices of nearly everything working to a much lower basis, the war-time prices changed by some industries, because they are in a position to maintaining them, will have to be revised downward or other methods will be found to relieve the pressure.

Business Women In Session Here

Proclamation by Gov. Bryan Designates Week For Club Observance.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Morris, the Business and Professional Women's club of Wayne, observed National Business Women's week in Nebraska of March 8 to 14, as set aside by a proclamation issued by Governor Charles W. Bryan.

The proclamation in part is as follows: "It is always worthwhile for the general public to recognize and pay tribute to the aims and achievements of organized womanhood. The record which has been made by Business and Professional Women's clubs in promoting solidarity and cooperation among women in business and professional life, is one to be proud of as the achievement of individual women in their respective fields of endeavor and must also command our admiration."

The program for the evening as arranged by Mrs. A. L. Swan, chairman of the public relations committee, consisted of talks by Mrs. W. H. Phillips, representing the American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. E. W. Huse, representing the Wayne Women's club; and T. S. Hock, representing the Kiwanis club.

Mrs. Phillips spoke from the standpoint of local relations of the Business and Professional Women's club with the national and international local auxiliaries, and the benefits to be derived therefrom.

Need for Planning. With the growing need for individual thinking and planning Mrs. Huse brought out the idea that with the exchange of dollars, two people would still have the same amount of money, but with an exchange of ideas, each person would be benefited by an extra idea. She expressed the desire of the Women's club for cooperation with the Business women in building for the future.

Suggests Pan-Hellenic Council. Mr. Hock in his talk, suggested practical methods for bringing club representatives into closer contacts. A Pan-Hellenic council, representing all of the organizations of the town, reflecting the attitude of the people on any question of interest or discussion, was a plan sketched by Mr. Hock for better city organization. The speaker advocated city planning in an organized way for future building. As an illustration of what club members might do, Mr. Hock suggested a study and practice in vocational guidance for the youth of the town.

Have Business Session. Club members held a business session following the program with Mrs. Morris, president, in charge. An invitation from the Norfolk club members to join with them in a dinner given Monday evening, March 16, as their observance of National Business Women's week, was read.

THE WAYNE HERALD

E. W. Huse, Editor and Proprietor. The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County. Published Every Thursday.

The Federal Farm Board A LETTER received from New Orleans calls our attention to an editorial in the Herald of February 19 concerning the retirement of Alexander Legge from the federal farm board and wondering if we know the "tragic position of the American cotton producer resulting from the government's attempt to control the law of supply and demand."

It is a generally well known fact that the national administration approached the farm problem amidst a conflict of opinions. The measure proposed and pressed with great clamor by radicals contained the debenture clause which meant speculation in farm products on a large scale, arbitrarily fixing prices and requiring the government to guarantee the difference between the fixed price and the actual value.

The president recognized the disparity between values for farm products and manufactured goods, and invited congress to revise the tariff as a means to bring about fair equality. Then followed a stormy and protracted exhibition of legislative pulling and hauling that at no time approximated the goal of relief expected by the chief executive.

Instead of a too high tariff or a too low tariff, discreet readjustments that would develop foreign markets, seemed the wise course. Breaking down some of the tariff barriers, consistent with the possibilities of foreign trade, and without consulting party lines, seemed one good way to get rid of surplus products.

Too Much Paternalism

THE CHRISTIAN science Monitor warns against the increasing tendency of governments to paternalism—government interference in private affairs. Attention is called to two most outstanding experiments—Russia and Italy.

The United States has been the leading nation in the power of the individual. Here the rights of the individual have found untrammelled stimulus. Independence that does not do violence to the social order is safeguarded.

Nebraska's Winter

EDITOR F. D. STONE of the Hartington Herald, who returned recently from his winter's sojourn in Arizona, acknowledges the fair, mild elements that have prevailed in Nebraska during his absence, but he is not convinced that the days were as uniformly delightful here as they were in Arizona.

Mr. Stone reminds us that there is yet time for sharp teeth to be restored to the jaws of the weather, and he calls attention to threatening symptoms seen after his return. But these symptoms have passed, and so far March does not seem like its old self.

May the suggestion that raw winter is still ahead be a mistake. We want plenty of rain, but no snow or cold to mar the year's record.

Privilege Nears Doom

LATE in February Senator McNary of Oregon and Congressman French of Idaho, introduced in the senate and house respectively bills to surround the broadcasting business with the same restrictions carried by the newspapers of the country, but what progress was made by the two measures before adjournment, we have not learned.

The government would not intentionally permit greater rights to one publicity group above another. However, federal machinery moves like a slow freight, and it just hasn't got around to iron out contradictions and enforce a square deal.

The proposed semi-centennial celebration is arousing liveliest interest. Many former Wayne people will take advantage of the occasion to come back and see how things look in contrast with the old days.

T. S. Hook Suggests

IN THE COURSE of a speech before the Business and Professional Woman's club this week, T. S. Hook suggested that a Wayne group with one representative from each local club would make a strong, intelligent force behind any public movement.

We have reliable information that a new postoffice building for Wayne has been definitely settled. The only remaining question is whether an appropriation for the purpose has been made.

The better homes movement which is national in scope, is functioning in Wayne and is expected to show good results before the season has far advanced.

Wages should be kept up unless revision downward is found absolutely unavoidable. Wages mean buying power—important contribution to markets and business volume.

A speaker explains that thrift is not hoarding money. Thrift is the expenditure of one's earnings wisely, putting them into something that is needed, and of sufficient value.

AMBITIOUS young people stir conservative, aging roosters to make progress even if they do not always feel like it. The young man or young woman with high objectives and swiftly circulating blood, keeps a cerebral dynamo hot, turning out ideas for said aging roosters to translate into practice.

Tourney Draws Students Here Over Week-End

The playing of a tournament on college hill last week-end created quite a stir among college folks, but downtown people saw little of the players or out-of-town visitors unless they went to the gymnasium to see them in action.

The usual week-end crowds were in town, Mr. Parent of the Wayne Candy Kitchen agreed, but he, like Mr. Kremke, said that the presence of the tournament had made no special difference in business.

Although the tournament was played on the hill, and they could have attended every game, Prof. A. V. Teed and Dr. J. C. W. Lewis were not among those present.

This week a senate committee has been listening to arguments for and against a bill to put a 15-cent tax on butter substitutes. Representatives of the federation of labor complain that the tax would increase the cost of living for its members.

Legislature and Governor. York Republicans: The legislature has proceeded in a very agreeable manner so far to dispatch the public business. The contest, if there is to be one, will be precipitated when the large appropriation bills are presented.

CITIZENS OF WILBUR LIKE NATURAL GAS

From the Pierce County Call comes the following commentary on natural gas which the people of Pierce seem to be interested in getting for their town:

The subject of natural gas has been talked about by many of our citizens since the city council neglected to take up the proposition of the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power Co. to pipe natural gas to the residence lots of Pierce without charge—only asking the city council for a franchise.

"If you have a chance to get gas, don't let anybody talk you out of it. We have been using gas in our home for about three months for cooking and for our laundry stove. We are spending less for the two than we used to pay for coal oil for the cooking; We have not used it for heat in our home as yet but expect to do so next winter.

Eye Is Injured In Peculiar Way

Wisner, Neb.—Herbert Schula, a farmer living north of Wisner, was victim of an eye injury in a peculiar manner. The family had been quarantined for scarlet fever and after fumigating the house with formaldehyde, Mr. Schula threw the empty bottle into the heating stove. The bottle exploded, a particle of glass struck him in the eye, during the process.

Whether or not the eye will be affected, physicians have not yet determined.

Crosslands Enjoy Winter Spent In San Diego With Their Son

its proximity to Balboa park makes the new naval hospital one of the finest places of its kind in the United States. More than 600 patients are kept at the hospital most of the time, the place being equipped to take care of 1,000 patients, all members of the navy, or in some way connected with its service. The patients are given the best of care by the government, without cost, although the expense to the government amounts to more than $4 per day per patient.

Dr. Paul Crossland, son of the Crosslands, has served his internship at the hospital, but hopes to remain there for another two years of service and experience. Each physician in training is given an opportunity to learn something about each kind of work, and the young doctors take turns doing outpost duty in the city among relatives of the navy men.

In the navy hospital male nurses are employed, with the exception of 40 women who are employed as housekeepers to care on the sick and to act as housekeepers. Visit Balboa Park. Balboa park, 1400 acre playground, is a pleasant place for the convalescents to spend their days. Games of shuffleboard and checkers are popular, and the ambulatory patients can enjoy short walks among the flowers and shrubs in which the place abounds.

It was in Balboa park that Mr. and Mrs. Crossland encountered J. H. Kate, former mayor of Wayne, who is living in San Diego, and who takes great pleasure in spending his time in this unusual place. See Submarines. Through the courtesy of officers who are associated with young Dr. Crossland, Mr. and Mrs. Crossland were permitted to visit a United States submarine and to go out to the ship Saratoga in the bay. The Saratoga is a ship's landing boat, and is capable of taking care of 125 airplanes, which can be stored away in the hold of the ship within an hour's time.

During their visit, too, the Crosslands watched the ships coming in to the harbor from far ports, and heard the salute of other vessels when British and French ships sailed in. Einstein was in San Diego at the time of the Crosslands' visit, and other celebrities came into the city at that time. See Points of Interest. La Jolla caves just north of San Diego, and many other points of similar interest were observed by the travelers during their stay. One of the most interesting sights near San Diego is the old light house at the end of Point Loma, a structure finished in November, 1855, and used until 1891. The first lighthouse on the point was an old Spanish lantern which hung on a tall stake, swinging in the wind to warn ships and sailors at sea that a dangerous rocky promontory extended into the ocean.

Tia Juana, Mexico, home of the 241 foot bar said to be the longest in the world, is one of the unique points which attracts much tourist trade. Not far from San Diego, and easily accessible, Tijuana gets much attention from Americans. The story is told that one young woman who had won $80,000 at the races, gave to the man who tipped her off to the winning a sum of $25,000 and her new automobile, before she flew away in an airplane—probably to spend the money. Before they returned home, Mr. and Mrs. Crossland spent some time in Los Angeles, saw the famous old roses in Pasadena, enjoyed looking at the graceful ruins of San Diego mission, founded in 1769 by the faithful Fra Junipero Serra, went to San Juan Capistrano with its rhythmic old arches, saw San Luis Rey, and many others of the old missions on the coast. Go To Salt Lake. From San Francisco the travelers went to Salt Lake, where they spent a day seeing the state capitol, the Mormon tabernacle, and other great public buildings. The state capitol of Utah is a magnificent place, and the interior is particularly impressive. The outside of the capitol is not so large or so impressive as the exterior of Nebraska's new building.

About Salt Lake, one of the most impressive sights to the Crosslands was the magnificent crossing on the 'cut-off'—102 miles long, 72 miles of the track laid on solid land and 30 miles of it placed over rock fills and solid trestle-work. They spent a day in Omaha before coming home to open their home after an absence of several months. Pleasant as the winter was, and interesting as were the various things they saw, Mr. and Mrs. Crossland were glad to be at home again, and to start spring activities.

Avocado raising is one of the most interesting and most profitable of the new industries which have been responsible for progress in southern California, during the past decade. The territory around Encinitas, north of San Diego, and along the coast, is ideal for the raising of this fruit, sometimes known as the alligator pear. Trees only five years old have been known to bear 100 pounds of the fruit in a season, and at so much per pound, that means a decided profit for the grower. Most of the avocado estates are small, and the cultivation of the trees is left to the owner himself. Hodges dam, marvelous structure in the back country above San Diego, waters the territory, and the salt winds from the sea bring in life and prosperity to the shinning groves that dot the coastal hills.

Avocados, as easterners know them, are an expensive fruit purchased at the market for the making of a very special 'compony' salad. The new industry has made them available for use in many other ways for the table, chief among the new uses being the making of avocado cream. The fruit is oily, and creams, jellies and other similar articles are made as by-products. Avocados stay on the tree, bear rather continuously, and never drop off and rot on the ground as other fruits do. Fascinating as the citrus industries are, the avocado industry has taken the favored district around Encinitas quite by storm, and many estates are growing up. It is said that the avocado being a particular fruit, will not grow in many localities in the United States, and the sections around Encinitas, and some points closer to Los Angeles are the best locations.

The subject of the Lesson—Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, March 8, was "Man." Citations from the Bible show that man in God's image and likeness is spiritual, and is not the material sense which mortals commonly call man. Also, they show that when the true spiritual sense of God and man is obtained and loved then disease and other disorders of the flesh are thereby overcome. One Biblical selection, quoting Jesus' words reads: "For whosoever is willing to say, Thy sin be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise and walk." From Mary Baker Eddy's definition of man as God knows him to be, as given in her book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 475) the following is a part of a citation read: "That which has no separate mind from God; that which possesses no life, intelligence, nor creative power of his own, but reflects spiritually all that belongs to his Maker."

Important Part Held By Woman
National Business Women: Women and big business are rapidly becoming close allies. Financial experts estimate that women have half the individual wealth of the world. Here are some of the indications of what they do with it.
Women own 54% of the stock of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. men own 39%.
Women own 52% of the stock of the Westinghouse Electric; men own 41%.
Women own 46% of Pullman stock; men 39%.
Women own 50% of National Biscuit; men 45%.
Women own 47% of General Electric; men 42%.
For other leading corporations the figures are as follows: American Sugar, women 47%, men 43%; Pennsylvania railroad, women 50%, men 47%; Norfolk Western, women, 48%, men 45%; Southern Pacific, women, 45%; men 44%.
Nor is it sheerly in stock holdings that women outclass men. In numbers, also, they are superior. At the close of the year 1929 the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. had 251,000 women stockholders and 173,000 men.

A 10 Per Cent Crop Loss Due to Inaccurate Planting

Means That Much Good Corn Land Wasted—Besides the Waste in Labor

If you have a 100-acre field capable of producing 60 bushels of corn per acre, an inaccurate planter could easily give you a 10-per cent crop loss amounting to 600 bushels.

With corn selling at 60 cents a bushel, your money loss for the crop alone would amount to $360.

But that isn't all—

The ten acres of land is wasted, the labor you put in plowing, disking, harrowing, planting and cultivating those ten wasted acres is a total loss. And if you have used fertilizer, that is also wasted.

Be prepared this year to stop those leaks with a John Deere No. 999 Planter, the planter that is famous throughout the corn belt for its remarkable accuracy. Stop in and see the "999!"

Social Life Had An Early Beginning In Development of City of Wayne

Mrs. Mary Brittain Tells Of Organizing Club in New Settlement.

Tells Pioneer Tales

Early Settlers Made Occasions of Every Gathering When Distances Were Long.

"We early settlers, liked to see new people coming into our territory," Mrs. Mary Brittain reminisces as she tells her stories of the beginnings of settlement around Wayne. "Looking at the middlewestern complacency, of a solid main street, the finished, or still glaringly new buildings of the state teachers' college on the hill, it is hard to visualize the situation in which the lonely settlers found themselves.

A lack of entertainments, and a general feeling of good will toward others who were exiles from familiar things of a windy, grassy prairie, made pioneers a sociable type of people. Mrs. Brittain likes to linger on the wholesome gaiety of the early social events in La Partie and in Wayne.

Mrs. Brittain, with others, spent whole afternoons riding over the prairie on horseback, stopping at the farm homes most accessible for an afternoon's visit, a bit of lunch, and an exchange of ideas before it was time to ride over to sleeping plains home again.

Horseback Riding.

Horseback riding has come to be a sport in the class with yachting, polo, golf and other pursuits which take both time and money. When the midwestern pioneer was new country, however, everyone rode horseback because horses could be trusted to carry their passengers over the unmarked hills where there were no roads. Mrs. Brittain had her own riding horse, and her own smart habit and hat and fine jewelry ordered from a large department store in New York City.

Afternoons when the weather was fair she rode to the neighbors, or took a friend with her and rode for the sake of seeing new scenes and enjoying the bright sunshine which characterizes so many Nebraska days. When Wayne was founded, and Mrs. Brittain rode less often, she and her friends spent afternoons with one another in the gracious fashion of the day.

The coming of a new family into the territory meant a race to call and to extend the hand of welcome. It was thus the custom of calling on newcomers. Mrs. Brittain believes, which gave Wayne the name of being one of the most sociable of the small towns founded in the new area.

Naming the Town.

"We had rather a lot of difficulty over naming the new town," Mrs. Brittain recalls. "There were so many fancy names suggested. The women, particularly, wanted to attach to the town some romantic name like 'Spring Brook' or 'Meadow Bank' or many others, even less appropriate. Since the county was already named Wayne, however, it was James Brittain who upheld the contention that the town should bear the same name. So the new village became Wayne, in Wayne county, Nebraska.

With the new town dignified by a name, and the routing of the railroad arranged, social life in Wayne began to interest the women. Mrs. Brittain, who had been reading the Dentist magazine, published in New York City, began to be interested in the foundation of some organized social and club life.

The churches had their societies, which had regular meeting days, although they were not conducted along set lines. Later, there were literary societies in the country schools, but in the beginning, there was no social life for the women unless they organized it.

Organizing Social Life.

So it was that the Acme club was founded. Acme, Monday club, Minerva club, and a few other similar organizations are the backbone of social life in Wayne, for they were the first organizations for women. Study groups were started, similar to the Delphian work so popular today, and the women applied themselves to learning something of the new things. Social hours were planned, and parties were arranged.

"We had good times in those days," Mrs. Brittain recalls, "but we made them for ourselves." The pioneer spirit is expressed in the statement. Nothing seems to have been too difficult for pioneer women, or pioneer men, to undertake. Building a future was their business. And in building a future, the pioneers built for themselves a past which is a rich heritage to consider in their later days.

A library was established, books were contributed, and money was raised for the purchase of new ones from time to time. The intellectual life of the city began early. It seems that it started the day the first group of settlers came over the landless ground and decided to build homes along the Logan

They were the kind of pioneers whose mental horizons broadened as they pushed their way from the old, established east to the new, uncertain, and fascinating middlewestern prairies.

Some of the old stimulation is gone from the life of the middle-west that was once so exciting. Pioneers agree on it, and regret the passing of the life of the west. The cultivation of the hills, the planting of the rich soil, the building of strong houses, the plating of new towns and the surfacing of fine roads mark great gains. But no pioneer ever talks of the old days without a shade of regret. It seems that the opening of new things has brought a surfeit of contentment, a complacency that lacks the excitement of the new. Mrs. Brittain thinks, that made up for the actual hardships of the early days when men and women pioneered together to build the town of Wayne.

Former Resident Honored in City

William Johnson Is Named "Man of the Month" in Bank Publication.

The Bank Man, magazine published monthly by the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Banking, presents William Johnson, formerly of Wayne, as "the man of the month." The article says he "digs for the debaters," writes for the Bank Man and in the magazine talks about "The magazine work as follows:

"William Edward Johnson, of the Foreman State National Bank, has been selected as the man of the month for March. That is just because it happens to be March for Bill is on the job every month.

"He is of the industrious, intellectual type. Bill, as he is commonly known, loves to read books—any kind of books, finance, economics, history; the drier they are, the longer he will sit over. We often wonder when he sleeps.

"He has been a member of the chapter for six years and has completed six classes in his spare time. Last year he got a diploma that really counted—The Standard Certificate.

"Bill was a member of the debate committee in 1929-30, and this year he is librarian of the debate society and chairman of the chapter library committee. In this capacity he, and the members of his committee, are spending their evenings cross-indexing the chapter library.

"Cross-indexing a library might seem to be plenty of a job for one year, but Bill is the official information gatherer for the debate teams. Then he reviews the new books for The Bank Man, writes the 'Believe It or Not' column, compiles the 'Significant Statements,' dig up a page or two of 'Banks and Bankers,' and perhaps dashes off a few editorials, or lead articles.

"He has missed few meetings of the classes on Evansston, where he makes his home—if he is ever home—and on occasion substitutes for the instructor. He is married to an extremely good looking wife, and has quite a flock of children—the latter all inherited, however, for Bill lost his father some years ago and cheerfully assumed the job of parent to his younger brothers and sisters. That is his way. He is always picking up jobs.

"In a debate between the Chicago and Milwaukee bankers' groups Mr. Johnson 'worked hardest' on the former's team.

NEBRASKA LANDS PRODUCE MILLION FOR STATE FUND

When Nebraska was organized as a state, congress passed an act which specified that sections 16 and 36 in every township should be set aside for school purposes. About 3,000,000 acres became the property of the schools in that manner. The law did not prohibit the sale of school lands where it was advantageous but it did require that the funds should be invested in interest-bearing securities that would produce a revenue for the schools. It was the plain intent of congress to preserve the lands or the proceeds from their sale to the public schools forever.

Nebraska now owns 1,592,792 acres of school land under lease which brought a rental of $385,478.60 in 1930. The proceeds of the million and a half acres which have been sold are invested in securities which bear interest from four and a half to seven per cent. Most of these investments are Nebraska bonds issued for paving, sewer, water and like improvements. There is one investment in bonds of the state of Massachusetts which is the only purchase of out-of-the-state securities.

The income from leases and interest accruing annually to the schools from the original federal land grant amounts to about one million dollars. It is distributed to the schools on warrants issued against the state treasury, each district's share being based on the number of pupils enrolled.

The wisdom of congress in providing a perpetual school endowment fund has borne rich fruit. Nebraska vies with its neighbor Iowa for the honor of having the smallest amount of illiteracy. Nebraska is committed to the policy of providing the best free education for its youth. It matches the million dollar fund provided by the government with thirty-two million derived from taxation, tuition, fines and licenses.

Snowball Cake.

(Miss Bernice May, Hoskins)

1 cup sugar

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup flour
heaping teaspoon baking powder

Mix the ingredients with a pinch of salt and flavoring to taste. This recipe makes a small cake.

German Coffee Cake.

(Mrs. Emma May, Hoskins)

1 yeast cake
1 small potato
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup lard
Salt
Nutmeg
Spread lard, sugar and cinnamon on top, and bake.

Sandwich Suggestions.

Put raisins through a food chopper and cream thoroughly with butter and peanut butter. If too stiff, a little cream may be added. Spread on thin slices of unbranded bread.

Cream tuna relish made with green tomatoes and spices with peanut butter and butter and spread on generously on unbranded bread.

Bread canned salmon very fine with a fork, add horseradish to taste and thin with mayonnaise. This filling is especially good on rye bread.

Cream one half pound of cream cheese with 1 teaspoon of salt, 1-8 teaspoon of pepper, 1-2 cup of crystallized ginger, and enough cream to make of a spreading consistency. Use on white bread.

Top cold chicken rather fine, moisten with mayonnaise, and add coarsely chopped almonds. Spread on buttered bread.

Add one cup of date pulp to 1/2 cup of nut meats and about a tablespoon of orange juice. Spread on buttered bread; dark bread is the best.

Frosted Caramel Cookies.

(Mr. H. B. Carver, Wayne)

1/2 cup of butter
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs well beaten
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

Cream butter and sugar together, add the well-beaten eggs, vanilla and the flour, with which have been sifted the salt and the baking powder. Spread the mixture about a fourth of an inch thick in a cookie pan. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup of chopped walnuts, and cover with the following frosting.

Beat the white of one egg, and fold into it 1 cup of light brown sugar. Flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla, and brush over the cookies.

Chili Casserole.

2 pounds lean beef of pork
4 tablespoons fat
2 onions chopped fine
1 carrot chopped fine
1 stalk of celery chopped
1 teaspoon flour
1 pint tomatoes, canned or fresh
6 whole cloves
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
2 teaspoons sugar
Seasonings of salt, pepper and paprika.

Cut the meat into half-inch cubes. Heat the fat in a saucepan and add to it the onions, carrot, celery and meat, cooking for three minutes. Add the tomatoes and the seasonings, which have been mixed with the flour, and place the mixture in a greased baking dish, cover, and bake in a moderate oven for about an hour.

Ed Ellis sold the Gene Root house to Mrs. Bert Surber for $1,000.

Plans were made for changing the boundaries of the Wayne city wards.

Lloyd Prince lost a finger when he encountered an angry animal while ringing hogs.

The building occupied by the Poca Journal was destroyed by fire. Trunks and other equipment were ruined.

Mrs. Laura Brooks, aged 89 years, died at the home of her son, Everett Sherman, in Wayne, March 12, 1913.

William Ream, sr. once a resident of Wayne, died at the home of his son, William Ream, jr., at O'Neill, March 9, 1913.

Four girls from Sheridan county were assigned rooms at Terrace hall. The girls came 400 miles to attend Wayne Normal.

Mayor J. H. Kate, F. E. Strahan, C. A. Chace, W. M. Orr and S. R. Treubald were mentioned to fill the office of mayor of Wayne.

Wayne citizens were warned to burn trash and clean streets, alleys and yards well in advance of the windy spring season.

L. J. Bartlett and Miss Clara Glandt were married at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Nachtigall, Rev. C. E. Connell officiating.

It was agreed that an expenditure of $5,000, voted as bonds, for the purpose of buying a new boiler and building an extension to the standpipe would put the city plant into shape for ten years.

Otto Voget, sr., of Pleasant Valley, left for Germany, where he ex-mixture already in the pan. Bake 20 minutes in a slow oven, and cut in bars before cooling.

Cocanut Cream Pie.

This recipe and the one for cream puffs were given to the Herald by one of Wayne's excellent cooks, whose culinary reputation has been founded on recipes like these two.

1 pint of milk
2 tablespoons of cornstarch
1 cup of sugar
3 eggs

Heat the milk and sugar with the cornstarch in a double boiler, adding the yolks of the three eggs. Add the flavoring, vanilla is the best, and place in the baking shell. Use the egg whites to make a meringue, sprinkle with powdered sugar, and add a sprinkle of sugar on top of the custard to keep it on top as a garnish.

Cream Puffs.

2 cups water
1 cup butter

Heat the butter and water to the boiling point and add two cups of unsifted flour. Beat one minute and remove from the fire. When partly cooled, add four eggs, one at a time, and beat hard. Drop the mixture with a spoon on a greased tin. Bake 45 minutes. Do not open the oven for the first 15 minutes.

Sponge Cake Dessert.

This recipe makes an elaborate dessert, which is an excellent addition to the special dinner.

Soak 6 medium sized sponge cup cakes in a cupful of orange juice. Put the cakes rather closely together in a baking dish, spreading the tops with apricot jam, and pour over them a custard made with egg yolks, rather than whole eggs, and flavored with orange extract. Use about 1/2 cups of custard. Over the custard place a 3-egg meringue sweetened and flavored with a few drops of orange extract. Put the dessert into the oven to brown the meringue, and chill before serving.

CUMING COUNTY CASE HEARD IN HIGH COURT.

Lincoln, Neb. The supreme court directs that the lawsuit brought by Mrs. Susan L. Thompson of Cuming county, against J. T. Baughman and Herman Koch, West Point bankers, and the Nebraska State bank and West Point National Bank, of that city, be sent back to district court of Dodge county. The evidence is to be limited only to evidence as to the value of a Hereford bull, Ellen's Best, which Mrs. Thompson says, was worth $20,000, and which, she claims, was converted by the defendants.

This is the third time the case has been in supreme court. It arose out of the action of the bankers in including the bull with others that it listed under the provisions of

The case was tried in Dodge county because the bull was sent to Emil Suhr for keep. As to Suhr the suit is dismissed.

The court says the bankers persisted in taking property to which they had no color of rights; and that they must pay damages. She introduced testimony to show the animal was worth $18,000 to $20,000. The bankers sold it for beef and got $40 for it.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK means to Camel Smokers*

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing. Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point. We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment. It means, for instance, that evaporation is checked and that Salt Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco. If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference. The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker. As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended. But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat. If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means. But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store. Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

Six Artesian Wells Supply Hatchery

The section in the vicinity of Beaver Crossing is peculiarly favored by nature. Artesian wells are easily obtained. Earle Smiley uses six to produce water for his fish ponds. They supply a constant flow of fresh water at even temperature. The flow is so sure and steady there is no danger in the coldest weather of the ponds freezing over.

Thirteen kinds of gold fish are grown in the ponds. Many of the unusual varieties have been imported direct from Japan. The owner believes he will produce a half million young fish during the present season. Originally the place was devoted to the production of trout for the market. Trout are still spawned and grown for the market, but the owner has transferred the bulk of his interest to the production of "sport varieties of goldfish."

Twenty-seven ponds on the place, some devoted to fish and others to water lilies, make a place that draws a good many hundred visitors each summer. The sight of six artesian wells pouring forth their inexhaustible stream of pure cold water is a sight that astonishes many.

Over the state many fish hatcheries are being established. There is a steady demand for sport and market fish. The growth of interest in private ponds and pools has

The Beaver Crossing hatchery is a place of ravishing beauty in July and August when the water lilies are in their glory. Many strange and new varieties are grown these amid conditions that are ideal for propagation. Such places are compelling many doubting Nebraskans to believe that with intelligent human direction the soil and water and sunshine of Nebraska are capable of repeating most any natural beauty of any other section.

Telephone Lines Reach Over World

Important as telephone service is to the modern, most people do not realize how many telephone lines there are, or what their service is. The 1930 report of the American Telephone and Telegraph company points out that there was last year a growth of 12,000 telephones in the system over the United States.

The number of local and long distance calls had increased over preceding years, and there were, at the end of the year, a total of 15,682,059 telephones owned by the Bell system in the United States. The lines connected, in addition, with 4,116,000 phones not owned by this system. The total of 35,300,000 telephones in the world can be reached, the company believes, by almost any one of the 322,000 in this country alone.

The Grip

Omaha World-Herald: To the editor of the World-Herald: There is an awful lot of the La Grippe going around. Could you kindly print symptoms and what to do about them? ANXIOUS.

We do not undertake to give medical advice. Frequently it is all we can do to take it. But there are a few general rules which, if carefully observed, should prevent such minor afflictions as grip, stone bruises, boils, falling arches, and nostalgia. We shall, in deference to our correspondent, touch only upon grip at this time. What, then, are the symptoms of grip? What, for that matter, are symptoms of anything? So far as that goes, what are symptoms? Just plain symptoms? Let us approach the subject symptomatically. Of course, as we say, we can't take the place of your family doctor. Nor would we wish to.

The family doctor has no easy time of it. The family doctor usually is not a specialist. He usually is what is known as a general practitioner, which means that generally, when he is called to some place, he, the doctor, doesn't know what he is going to find wrong or where. He only knows that he must start at the eyeballs, or slightly above, and take soundings clear down to the toes. It isn't as if he were a specialist, confining his examination to the (a) tonsils, (b) nostrils, (c) ear lobes or (d) upper interior adenoids. The whole homo sap is his legitimate territory, and to find the seat of the trouble in the average homo sap, especially if said homo sap thinks he is pretty sick, makes the proverbial needle in the equally proverbial haystack look like the Leviathan in dry dock.

Ask the patient, "Do you hurt here?" He will say yes. Feel him in a dozen other places and ask the same question and you will get the same answer. He hurts everywhere. You can't pin either the patient or the pain down to any particular spot. It puts the general practitioner in a bad hole. Say what you will. All he can do is play a long shot and hope it works. Or, as they used to do in the army, resort to the blanket diagnosis of "Give him a couple of CC pills and mark him dirty, sergeant."

A Congress Ends. Lincoln Journal: The seventy-first congress has been brought to an end after two years of almost continuous activity. Six senate investigating committees will continue with their work and a joint committee will hold some hearings but, as far as legislation is concerned, congress has adjourned in some ways this congress was a record breaker.

The peace time record for appropriations made by the seventy-first congress during the past two years will amount to more than ten billions. During the recent session alone some $5,180,000,000 was appropriated, more than $300,000,000 in excess of the amount appropriated at last winter's session. This enormous sum includes deficiency acts, as well as the annual appropriations and also includes expenditures of the postal service payable out of postal receipts. The principal works of the first session were the farm relief, census and reappropriation acts. The tariff act was framed during the special session. The recent regular session enacted drought relief, unemployment relief and bonus legislation. (The London) naval treaty was approved by the senate of the late congress. Congress passed a bill liberalizing Spanish war pensions. It shortened the working week for government employees. It passed an emergency construction bill appropriating more than a hundred million of river, harbor and highway construction. It made some changes in the prohibition enforcement machinery. And it investigated almost continuously.

A number of important bills met their death, or at least met indefinite postponement, at the hands of the late congress. The Muscle Shoals measure, the Capper-Kelly resale bill, the Philippines independence bill, the lame duck amendment, the copyright bill, all were lost. Prohibition was a subject of argument at every session but no progress was made toward a settlement of the dispute. At the last session congress had the Wickersham report to talk about. Previously the question arose without a starter.

The seventy-first congress put gray hair on the president's head and increased the weight of his years. It fought his nominations and caused him all kinds of grief. It, he, came out of the struggle, still holding the respect and admiration of a considerable portion of his supporters, it is because he has shown that he is able to think and act for himself.

Different Screen Film Is Coming

Just when the public begins wishing for screen entertainment with a new slant, some producer comes along and releases a picture that gets away from the beaten track and offers variation in theme, treatment and direction. This time Columbia Pictures has turned the trick, with "Ten Cents a Dozen" featuring Barbara Stanwyck and directed by Lionel Barrymore. The play is coming to the Gay, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, March 15, 16 and 17.

Eight Girls Escape Unhurt in Accident

Eight young women from Hartington escaped without a scratch and the sedan they were driving was not damaged Thursday when the machine skidded on slippery pavement on North Main street and turned over. The car hit the curb and landed on one side. Not even a glass was broken.

Business

Stouck City Journal: Industry is persistent in its effort to stimulate a general demand for goods so buying will become more liberal. This is done or attempted by lowering commodity price levels, in some instances below figures at which fair profits can be made. Various lines have seen this treatment pursued for several months. It is believed that it will persist for some time yet.

Motor cars, for example, are lower than ever in history. The medium priced automobile formerly was one that sold for around $1,500. But now the medium priced car is one that may be had, delivered to the customer, for $300 to $500 less. One thousand dollars will now buy the same merchandise in the automobile market that cost twice that figure 10 years ago. Prices will rapidly in the last six months, and it is not certain that the keen competition will permit them to remain where they are. Ultimately, however, prices of motor cars will advance. When the business recovery is in full swing, and unemployment has been reduced to a safe figure the demand will increase and prices will swing upward.

The same may be said of general commodity prices. The level is too low at this time for good business. There must be good wages, paid and fair profits collected for prosperity to be a fact. And the better the profits and wages, the happier the times. Naturally, the commodity price level has got to go up in time. It will be better for everybody, consumers included, when that happens. Price wars in an effort to stimulate trade do not make good business.

According to Paul Willard Garrett, writing in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, management has enabled various corporations to show better profits in 1930 than they enjoyed in 1929. He insists that 16 per cent of all the large corporations that have reported for last year had this experience. The lines that enjoyed gains were the amusement, dairy products, fertilizer and tobacco groups. Losses in the apparel, motor, iron and steel, copper and textile products groups.

Some concerns fell 30 to 50 per cent below the figures for 1929 in net earnings, but there were exceptions in this somewhat general rule. Mr. Garrett suggests that better management gets the credit for this showing in a depression year when all the other trends was downward. Whatever the reason, the results are intensely interesting and worth close study by executives to whom the information is available.

Getting Out of Wheat

Omaha Daily Journal Stockman: A grant, and futile, experiment in government price stabilization, its price fixing, is probably approaching its last stages, and there are quite likely to be plenty of repercussions, in Congress and out, before "fins" is written. The Farm Board has at last started to unload its wheat. After days of rumor, the official announcement has been made that 35,000,000 bushels of its wheat is being offered abroad at world prices. That means, we take it, that world prices will be met, even at declines from the present level. Up to this time, outside of carrying charges, which on wheat alone are estimated to be piling up at the rate of a billion and a half a month, the board's losses have been paper losses, but with selling at the present price level they become actual losses, and Uncle Sam will have to dig down and foot the bill. If cashed at present prices the total losses on wheat and cotton would be in the neighborhood of $100,000,000.

All along, the only hope of the Farm Board has been crop failure, in this or other countries. That might let the board out, but it would mean disaster for farmers. A stabilized price is useless to the farmer who has nothing to sell. The weakness of the policy being followed is that the government discouragement to production in a fixed price. Thus the surplus piles up, that of one crop being added to the next, until the carrying agency—in this case the government—finds itself in a mess. That was foreseen by the Farm Board itself and was the reason for the statement some time back that there was no intention of carrying, stabilization over into the next crop year, beginning July 1. Congress is not likely to increase the $500,000 fund already provided, the total of which will be reduced by millions due to government stock market undertakings. And without the money, the continuation of stabilization will not be possible. Stabilization once started must be continued to the end of the crop year, and even then it is difficult to let go, as is being revealed right now. That the situation is a very serious one is admitted. Not only producers and the federal treasury are involved, but also the business structure of the entire country. If the government can get out of the wheat and cotton business without further demoralizing business this summer we can count ourselves lucky.

While it is true that the domestic price of wheat has been held above world levels, how much gain that has meant to individual farmers is not possible to say. We cannot forget that the board told farmers to sell when they should have sold, and that cost those who followed the board's advice a pretty penny. In any event it is not an unreasonable assumption that during the coming crop season, without stabilization but with a carry-over in government hands, producers will begin to pay the penalty of an artificially maintained price, a penalty that will be expressed in a lower price than would have otherwise prevailed. Obviously so long as it exists the government accumulation of wheat will be a drag on the market. The cost of that can be the excuse. So what farmers have gained in one place, admitting the argument that they have gained, they are certain eventually to lose in another. For in the long run supply and demand will determine the price, and not all the governments in the world can prevent that.

Humphrey Plans To Have Gas Installed

From the Humphrey Democrat comes the following commentary on the natural gas situation, which will be of interest to Wayne people.

The Mid-West Natural Gas company has been granted a franchise to enter Humphrey, a representative of the company having appeared before the board of trustees at their regular meeting held last Monday evening. Although the board did not pass the ordinance granting the franchise that evening, they expressed themselves as being in favor of doing so and adjourned their meeting until last evening to further discuss the matter.

Franchises have been granted to the company at Madison and also at Platte Center and numerous other towns in this section. According to the franchise the company promises to have the lines constructed into Humphrey by October 31, of this year and having everything in readiness for users at that time. The main line, which will run directly from Columbus to Norfolk will be located three miles east of here and a branch line run into this city, with another line running east from here.

In the village all the piping will run through the alleys and all the distributing pipes in town will be constructed without a cent of cost to the village. Citizens who wish to make use of the gas will pay for the piping from the distributing lines in the alley to their home. All connections to the residences are made by local plumbers under the supervision of one of the company's experts.

The building of the gas lines in this section will also be good news to those Humphrey men who are looking for labor as local labor will be employed for all the work that is to be done as far as possible. The company has pipe lines running throughout eastern Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas and its main supply is received from the Texas gas fields, with reserve supply fields in Kansas.

Slash Valuations Of Telephone Lines

Lincoln, March 6.—More than $100,000 was slashed by the state railway commission today from the estimated valuation of telephone company properties which the Continental Telephone company is purchasing. The order, said Commissioner Hugh Drake, will save persons paying telephone rates $6,000 annually. That represents earning of 6 per cent on the added valuation. Rates usually are set by the commission to allow such earnings.

The company which is purchasing all the property of the Monroe independent Telephone company, except the latter's Platte Center exchange, had asked authority to issue $411,400 worth of common stock to cover the purchase. The commission gave authority to issue $310,000 of stock.

The property includes exchanges at Albion, Loreta, Monroe, Lindsay, Genoa and Newmap Grove. The Continental Telephone company in making its estimated valuations in its application to the commission for stock issues, had placed the new value of the property at $420,212.
