THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 29 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, April 30, 1931. Vol 4

Believe it or not, the other day in the Palace Cafe we saw a fellow put tomato catsup on a piece of apple pie.

We could think of a hundred or two suggested uses for Portland cement, just off-hand, but you know what you need. So drop in and we'll tell you about how much it will cost.

Telephones are like whiskey and love—they make you say things you wouldn't say without them.

Business is good in our lime and plaster "department" these days. We're selling lots of it. When you need these items just remember that we have 'em for you and can deliver 'em quick.

A magazine here says women are beautiful and dumb—beautiful so that men will love them and dumb so that they will love men.

You can't make good concrete out of "just any kind of sand." Our gravel is carefully graded. We have the right kind for your purpose. Price of pit run gravel $2.00 per ton.

When friend wife gets a television apparatus in her home and another in hubby's office, she'll have the world by the neck and probably huffy.

Have you seen that fine new fence that Willie Hansen has put in out on his place? It's worth seeing. We are proud of it too, because we furnished 240 rods of American fencing and other supplies for it.

So many folks are not in the least disturbed by a flock of bills. It is so easy to drop the whole lot in the waste basket.

You're going to be needing some good, strong barbed wire for that new fence. This is just to let you know we have it.

Persons passing along the road to success are often hampered by too many blowouts.

Here's our proposition on Omega fence posts: If one of them breaks or bends, regardless of cause, you get another one to replace it. There's no limit to that guarantee.

If a modern girl pricks her finger with a needle, it's because some dancer bumps her while she's changing records.

We can show you Long-Bell crested posts set ten years ago and as good condition as they were then. And they still are as good ten years from now, and for probably thirty years after that.

The mystery is solved: Two can live as cheaply as one.

Dandelions are here, which means a change of greens without additional expense.

Twenty-fifth Season Begins With Engagement First Of June in Wayne.

Walter Savidge Amusement company opens its twenty-fifth season in Wayne the first of June. This is a few weeks later than the organization usually opens but Mr. Savidge has changed the time so that weather may be more settled and so that he may fill engagements at fairs in the fall.

Mr. Savidge, who has owned and managed the company a quarter of a century with headquarters in Wayne, will play but one engagement here this season, the one in June. He will go from Wayne to Norfolk and then to western Nebraska and South Dakota. The company will spend the week of the fourth of July at Gregory where a four-day celebration will be staged. Mr. Savidge has contracted to show at seven fairs beginning in August.

Dramatic players with the Savidge company will come the middle of May. Several of these are new and Miss Savidge has some of the highest class plays obtainable.

Several new sideshows and riding devices will also be found on the midway this year.

The Savidge troupe of 150 will travel by special train.

Some Spieler!

Whether you say "bonjour," "Wie geht's?" or "How do you do?" to three-year-old Kenneth Davis, he'll rattle off a file of answers for you. This remarkable young man, who speaks fluent French, German and English, is shown here as he arrived in this country from Honolulu.

History Teachers Meet In Lincoln

Dr. J. G. W. Lewis Presides At State Gathering Held Two Days.

Nebraska History Teachers association, which Dr. J. G. W. Lewis presided over at the university in Lincoln Friday and Saturday, and various parts of the state were well represented in spite of rain in southern Nebraska both days. Dr. and Mrs. Lewis, Miss Verna Elefson, Miss Clara Madsen, Miss Arlyn Nelson, Miss Virginia Sals of Concord, Miss Amy Chateaufaut, Hilbert Froseth and Roland Wachter, went from Wayne. Miss Chateaufaut also attended the modern language convention.

Dr. Howard C. Hill of the University of Chicago, was the principal speaker. "Trends and Problems in the Teaching of History" was the subject of one of his addresses. An objective, Dr. Hill stated, is the principal necessity in teaching history. Relating history to citizenship is very important. The study of history should be enriched, he stated, by relating it with other social sciences. Trend in history is away from the specific to the international viewpoint, and away from the past and ancient stages to the recent periods. Social and economic changes are being stressed above political and military.

Miss Ethel Lee Howie of Omaha was named president of the association for next year. Prof. V. E. Chetkoff of Iowa is vice president, and Miss Jennie Piper of Lincoln is secretary-treasurer.

Rare Stupidity.

Lincoln Journal: It is a little curious that at a time when the federal administration, economists and publicists are striving to prevent a reduction in wages because of the effect that it will have on buying power of labor, the Nebraska legislature seriously considers a proposal to reduce wages of state employees. But then it is more surprising that at a time

Lumber Workers Devise Clever Ways Of Constructing Objects of Wood

One finds the compartments for each family neatly divided off, and with a floor at the front of each square. Down the center, continuing through all the entire structure, is an air shaft which opens under the slope of the roof, giving an air space and extra ventilation. Small holes are drilled in the walls of each apartment to let the air through. The houses are finished in white paint, and covered with regular roofing in green and red, making a most attractive residence for even the most particular martins in bird land.

Describes Processes

"Here, for instance," he will say, "is the place we assemble brooder houses. The parts are stacked in order removed by hooks and dropped on the assembling table. The pieces are bolted as they lie, in order and the finished sides of the building are taken out of the working on hooks. Then they are nailed also in order, and being flat. When a customer wants to buy a building of this kind, the flat pieces may be loaded onto his truck, he takes them home, bolts them together, and has a hog or brooder house in no time."

Many ingenious devices have been arranged to facilitate the work at the yard shop. Saws are laid into a trough, covered with creosote, laid on a sort of drain board to dry, and kept in readiness for use. Cutting and sawing is reduced to exact, clean lines, achieved by precise saws, punches, groovers and specialized cutters. Nearly all the equipment is driven by electric motor.

Make Larger Buildings.

Larger buildings, such as hog pens, brooder houses and other farm buildings, are made in such a way that the farmer can bring them home from the yard, screw them together, and have a building in almost no time at all. The 9 by 12 brooder houses, for example, are fitted with half a dozen windows, which are completely weather stripped at the lower edge to prevent rain or late snows from dripping into the structure.

To Cut Grass with an Eclipse affords much satisfaction. A Child can operate one.

The six pen hog houses are equipped with two doors of full height, and four small doors for the pigs, making one outlet for each pen. At the top of the building there are four sloping windows of clear glass and situated lower on the angle of the roof are smaller windows glazed with a material which spreads the rays of light, throwing the sunlight in to each of the six roomy pens.

Class and Private Pupils In Program

Class and private pupils of Mrs. Albert G. Carlson gave a delightful recital at the college auditorium on Monday evening and an enthusiastic audience of 300 was present.

Special interest centered in the playing of class pupils. Piano class work is rather a new venture in piano teaching although it had proved very successful in many cities. The playing of these pupils showed definite results in good piano playing in solo and two-piano work. The private pupils played with care and assurance. All numbers were from memory.

Evelyn Wendt and Melvin Seymour, junior pupils of Prof. Albert G. Carlson, played solos and assisted with the piano quartet in the final number. Others taking part in the program were Virginia Lewis, Barbara Strahan, Arthur Gulliver, Herbert Welch, Leahyia Whitmore, Evelyn Naakes, Joyce Miller, Betty Wright, Verona Hahlbeck, Ruth Lundberg, Dolores McNatt, Quentin Whitmore, Robert Heylman, Mary Ellen Gulliver, Olivia Duffenbaugh, Peggy Morris and Jeanne Wright.

On Being Worked

IT IS PERHAPS similar in all lines of endeavor as in newspaper work. People are invited to give free service on one plea or another. Sometimes the ground is public-spirited, sometimes semi-selfish, sometimes altogether specious.

Propaganda pours into a newspaper office from every quarter of the country in the hope of publication. Stories come from everywhere to help out over some political scheme or to aid the success of some one who feels he has a mission to improve society. He may have figured out how to reform business or industry, and the first thing he does is to present his idea to the newspapers.

Brain, are at work everywhere in the hope of germinating something that will catch popular favor. Whatever is promoted, whether to prevent vivisection, build a memorial, send frying pans to the Hot-tentots or to set forth the achievements of a big industry, calls for earliest possible attention to flooding the newspapers with stories as convincingly written as possible. Often the stories are released with the suggestion that no charge is imposed and that they are of sufficient interest to warrant publication.

The editor is frequently asked if he is interested in relieving humanity, in advancing earthly welfare, or in saving souls, and the fact that he is so interested leads to requests for free publicity in as large doses as charity will permit. Since one is interested in all movements for human convenience and popular wellbeing, he is not expected to charge for his services. Many causes are freely supported within reasonable limitations. Many others offer propaganda or helpful hints that plainly speak to serve selfish interest above public interest.

This a capacious wastebasket is indispensable in all well regulated newspaper offices.

Would Impeach

THE TEXAS congressman who proposes to impeach Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, on the ground that he is interested in seagoing vessels, and in order to restore prosperity, reasons rather more feebly than the average member of the national house. The Texan charges that during consideration of the recent soldiers' ban legislation, Mellon advised that such an act would seriously impair the financial condition of the treasury. While there might be justification in impairing the treasury, it would seem the duty of the treasurer to express an opinion in connection with a department with which he is intimately conversant. Certainly he should not be fired out of office because he reveals the condition of his responsibility or expresses what he thinks about it.

The treasurer is also charged with contributing to the depression by withdrawing money from circulation. Didn't congress make ample provision for the circulation of money without the counsel or recommendation of the treasurer? Was the treasurer expected to circulate more money than ordered? With usual excess in appropriations, with the treasury facing unusual requirements, with a strain on the national pursestrings, how could the treasurer withdraw funds fast enough to meet new demands?

It would seem the Texas congressman wants to disturb an already burdened national leadership as much as possible, and his suggestion smacks more of small politics than sound judgment.

For Model Farms

TOLEDO SHERRY of South Sioux City, author of the Model Farm Plan of Education, has appealed to the boys and girls of America to start model farms. Mr. Sherry wishes to encourage the youth of the country in useful pursuits, and at the same time he proposes to inculcate principles of peace and good will.

Not long ago Mr. Sherry retired from the government Indian service in which he had charge of schools. He advanced to the pension age, but did not grow too old to keep up interest and activity. Now he proposes to do his best to lead boys into industrious and wholesome habits. He wants to see them become independent of job-holding—free from helpless vassalage that accompanies periods of unemployment, and he offers the model farm plan as a safeguard. Anyone interested may write him at South Sioux City and receive full particulars.

Writer As Tramp

A WRITER in a current magazine tells the story of his experience as a tramp for ten months, and how hopeless was the task of trying to find work, how he was suspected and spurned, how disheartened and abjectly miserable he became.

When he lost his job on a newspaper in New York, he was not seriously disturbed. He decided to "hit the road" and find something. He traveled through the south and west, and he found a steadily multiplying army of idlers, always moving, but going nowhere in particular and finding nothing more promising on arrival, at one point than had been left at the previous point.

Among other places, the writer visited a socialistic colony in the south, and he found it contained dreary and hopeless lives. He said many had sunk all their possessions in the colony, and were deeply depressed by the condition and prospect. He said the plain fare of rice, sweet potatoes, and gravy was so unvarying that school children named the three eatables as the chief products of the state.

The writer finally drifted back to New York, and he found a niche in which to gain a livelihood, and in which to give time to reflection. Many are habitual tramps, satisfied with trying to collect a living without work. Others leave moorings from unexpected necessity or from a spirit of adventure, not suspecting what the future holds, and then drifting helplessly and woefully. The writer learned the value of acquaintance as an asset.

Proposed Highway

PROVISION is in sight for finishing what is called the "Broadway of America," extending from Winnipeg, Canada, to Galveston, Texas, and logically Wayne is on the proposed line. The work of grading and graveling a stretch between Summerfield, Kas., and a point seven and one-half miles north of the Nebraska-Kansas line, has been approved by the governor and state engineering department with promise of completion this fall. The proposed highway will be a valuable one for all contiguous territory. With other points touched, Wayne will be properly benefited. It will also benefit the highway to run through a live town like Wayne.

The dispute over the ownership of a meteor that fell on a farm near Herman has brought out information touching other meteors. J. H. Harrison of Ravenna, writes the Lincoln Journal that he has in his possession a meteor that fell on the family farm in Pawnee county in 1884. If meteors are coming into style, Mr. Harrison wonders if his find would not be a worthy addition to the state museum in Morrill Hall. If meteors attain popular favor and attractive market value, plenty could doubtless be found to meet the demand while it lasts. Perambulating over hills and through valleys in quest of meteors would seem as nourishing to the body as golf.

Wednesday the lower branch of the legislature voted against the conference report on an appropriation bill, and there were threats for prompt adjournment with nothing done to provide for state institutions. If adjournment is ordered ahead of due appropriations, an extra session will be necessary. The governor and legislators may get together on a sensible compromise, with some thought of the future, before the doors close on the regular session. It is hoped so. Aside from a useless expense, an extra session would likely be a resumption of the present blending of farce and tragedy.

It is reported that on April 28 and 29, 1931, a giant storm of sleet and snow swept the country, breaking down telephone and telegraph wires and burying the land under huge drifts. The mercury descended to fourteen below freezing. Vegetation was damaged, and the world looked like mid-winter. In contrast, we have had fairly satisfactory weather this week—28 years later—though rather cool, not cool enough to weaken patience or chill hope.

At Watertown, S. D., a man killed his wife and then killed himself as a result of a quarrel over a newspaper which each wanted to read first. This gives rise to the question whether a newspaper should be made of such commanding and absorbing interest that it will lead to murder. How far may a newspaper go in "pepping" up its columns without precipitating a fatal family quarrel?

Our attention has been called to the wisdom of publishing assessments again this year. Several years have passed since this was done in Wayne county. The law makes such publication optional with county boards. Other counties have been publishing assessment lists, and it is pointed out that publication gives taxpayers convenient access to knowledge to which they are entitled.

Lincoln auditors stopped in Wayne last week enroute home from Hartington where they checked and certified to the subscription list of the Herald of that place. The auditors found the Herald's list larger and healthier than expected. Cedar county people will be pleased to note the outstanding leadership of the Hartington Herald in circulation as well as in points of good newspaper work.

C. H. Gustafson, special agent of the federal farm board, is quoted as saying that the spread is still too great between what the farmer buys and what he sells. He explained that while in Denver recently when eggs were 10 cents per dozen, he was charged in a restaurant 15 cents for one cooked egg. But Mr. Gustafson adds that the farm board has already accomplished enough to justify its existence.

The fact that the worst of the depression has not been felt here may be accepted as compensation for the fact that this section did not experience the unusual period of prosperity said to have prevailed during 1928 and 1929. A country that steers between extremes would seem best off in the long run.

In this period of changing values, it is wise economy to keep posted and turn buying opportunities to advantage. The Herald's advertising columns furnish reliable guides and should be followed carefully.

THAT RICH MAN.

We had occasion to re-read the story of Lazarus and the rich man as told in St. Luke and we recall that in the old days of religious narrowness, the story was usually accepted literally. In years of analysis and accumulated understanding, people have generally come to consider the story allegorically. Lazarus was a beggar, and while he suffered hard going, doubtless his unhappy plight made him feel contrite and pious. Certainly it was not a crime to be rich; riches would not seem necessarily obstructive of spiritual growth, but it appears that this rich man allowed his excess of worldly possessions to benumb his conscience while he was in the heyday of acquisitiveness, and he never got over being selfish and oppressive. It seems he regarded Lazarus with undeserved contempt, and otherwise deported himself as a cold and supercilious tightwad. Books were carefully kept on the two. When Lazarus died, he passed into glory, leaving behind his large assortment of woes. In due time the rich man checked out, and he took the shortest route to hell, leaving his lands and gold to be grabbed by disagreeing and quarreling heirs. He was so sorely disturbed by lack of the comforts to which he had been accustomed that he soon started broadcasting his penitence. Asking for Lazarus to appear with means of relief, he was informed that Lazarus was busy enjoying himself and could not be spared to bolster up the feelings of a sinner too insatiate in the flesh to take warning. Then the rich man, with more self-sacrificing courage than could have been expected from one so steeped in sordid considerations, requested that Lazarus be excused from the joys of heaven long enough to journey back to the world to give his brethren some of the inside facts. But the rich man's request was politely denied on the ground that even an appearance from the dead would not be sufficient to stop the bone-headed brethren from landing in the abyss of the damned. As to the accuracy of this recital and elucidation, we submit to the judgment of F. D. Stone, editor and theologian of the Hartington Herald.

Made Fortune in Oil

Barnett used to be quite a wanderer in his younger days before oil was discovered on the Oklahoma Indian Reservation. He would close the flap of his tepee and wander off into the wilds for weeks at a time. There was no one to watch him then because the Indian knew those wide open spaces. In fact he often acted as a guide for surveying parties, lest they should become lost.

Then the oil came gushing in. Barnett became wealthy. Money poured in so fast he couldn't begin to spend it. He moved to Los Angeles to spend his remaining years. But his yearning for the open spaces never was satisfied. He still wants to roam around. So the government appointed a secret service man to watch over him to see that he doesn't get lost in the big city. The secret service agent also has to guard

Appropriation Bill Is Still Unsettled

Lincoln, Neb., April 29—The threat of a special legislative session loomed today as the Nebraska house of representatives voted 61 to 35 against a conference report on the revised general appropriations bill.

Speaker Max Kier said after announcing the vote he was not sure whether he would appoint a new conference committee or let the old one continue consideration of the bill, providing adjournment was not taken in the meantime. A movement was afoot to force immediate adjournment.

Back to House.

Within fifteen minutes after the legislative conference committee's report on the general appropriation bill was ruled in improper form by Speaker Max Kier and returned for revision, the committee today reported it back to the house of representatives. Several changes had been made in the committee's recommendations and the heading on the measure was corrected to conform to the house rule.

The report which now bears the proper heading was placed with measures now before the house for third reading and indications were that it would again come up for consideration today.

Increase Sorensen's Fund.

One change made by the conference committee recommends $29,000 for the attorney general's litigation fund. This had been an issue in the discussion of the appropriation bill. Governor Bryan and the house had set $29,000 for this fund. The senate, however, reduced the amount to $15,000. The conference committee previously had recommended that the fund proper be reduced to $9,000 but recommended $10,000 additional be appropriated as an emergency fund to be expended under

AGAINST WAR.

"Hell's Angels," talking picture presented here the first of the week, is a powerfully convincing argument against war. That its purpose was to show up the infinite folly and injustice of armed conflict is quite likely. A leading character could not understand why he should want to murder or be murdered to gratify the blood lust of old-world war lords. He could not understand why he should be called "yellow" merely because he shrank from the idea of killing or being killed contrary to all the finest principles and teachings of civilization. With king riots in Europe generally dispersed of, and the people given more voice in shaping public affairs, military outrages would seem less likely. When the monarchy business was running strong, with the war machine prominent and threatening, a dispute fit only for arbitration called for mobilization, and many did not know what the fuss was about. Every life forfeited to settle a national difference is just as precious as that which sits in security and orders military activities. A defensive war places the burden of blame on the aggressor and may be inevitable, but nations pretending to practice the principles of civilization can find a way to settle every dispute without bloodshed. The winner in a war is a loser, and a nation that harbors thought of war or becomes an aggressor in one, is far lacking in the enlightenment of which the Christian world boasts.

Richest Indian Finds Traffic Job Next Best Thing to the Open Trail

MOST motorists who speed along Los Angeles' famed Wilshire boulevard think that the immaculately dressed Indian standing at the curb gesticulating at them in the manner of a traffic cop is a little strange, a little "buzzy," they do not know that he is Jackson Barnett, said by government men to be the wealthiest Indian in the United States, or that the palatial white mansion across the street from where he stands is his home. Nor do they even suspect that the younger man, always seen hovering nearby, is a secret service man appointed by the government to watch over the wealthy Indian.

Friendly Gestures, That's All

Neighbors say Barnett isn't a bit "off" and he isn't trying to imitate a traffic cop. He is merely trying to be friendly. With wealth enough to enjoy the lavish amusements of the rich, this genial Indian prefers to stand on the curb of a leading thoroughfare and smile at motorists. To him it is the next best thing to the open trail.

Down in Oklahoma where I come from I used to wave at everyone and they always waved back at me," Barnett explains. "I haven't any friends to greet here and there isn't much to occupy my time. So I just stand out here and wave to folks as they go home from work."

This is not the expression of an eccentric but the lament of a primitive American swallowed up in a civilization still strange to him.

Made Fortune in Oil

Barnett used to be quite a wanderer in his younger days before oil was discovered on the Oklahoma Indian Reservation. He would close the flap of his tepee and wander off into the wilds for weeks at a time. There was no one to watch him then because the Indian knew those wide open spaces. In fact he often acted as a guide for surveying parties, lest

He has wealth enough to cruise in a palatial yacht, but Jackson Barnett, above, America's richest Indian, would prefer to make friendly gestures like this at motorists. A portion of his sumptuous home is shown in the background.

They should become lost.

Then the oil came gushing in. Barnett became wealthy. Money poured in so fast he couldn't begin to spend it. He moved to Los Angeles to spend his remaining years. But his yearning for the open spaces never was satisfied. He still wants to roam around. So the government appointed a secret service man to watch over him to see that he doesn't get lost in the big city. The secret service agent also has to guard

Barnett from the "wolves" of the city because he still is of a trusting nature.

There aren't many places around Los Angeles that interest Barnett. So he spends most of his time standing on the curb waving to passing motorists. He takes his place there late every afternoon and stays until dusk, never missing a day. It is his only amusement. Golf, tennis, yachting and such pastimes are not for him.

The senate took no action yesterday on the conference report, apparently biding time to see what the house would do.

Instead the upper house passed the proposal to levy a tax on all gasoline and the one to create a state tax code commission, and a measure creating dairy bureau under the department of agriculture.

Compensation Bill Wins.

The house passed, by a vote of 53 to 27, the compensation court commission bill and sent it on to the senate.

Proponents of Missouri river navigation development won a skirmish in the senate late yesterday with the advancement to third reading of H. R. 432. The bill originally provided for $5,000 for cooperation in navigation development of the river, but it was amended to provide that such an appropriation could not be spent until a report had been received from experts showing that such development would be beneficial to Nebraska and particularly to irrigation.

Has Party Saturday.

Miss Helen Jones, entertained Saturday evening in honor of her birthday. The girls went to the Gay theatre and afterward to the Dr. T. T. Jones home for dancing and luncheon. Guests were Miss Jeanne Wright, Miss Catherine Craven, Miss Mirabel Blair, Miss Peggy Morris, Miss Mary Alice Strahan, Miss Gwendolyn Mulvey, Miss Charlene Brown, Miss Elaine Youcum and Miss Phyllis Brenner, the last named of Randolph.

Kansas dentist has closed his shop to drill for oil. If he strikes Mother Earth's nerve, it may mean another earthquake.—Toledo Blade.

The house labored long yesterday to make some headway with its finance revised program but going farther than a general discussion of the changes effected by the committees.

Legislators saw three possible actions on the measure—rejection of the report of the conference committee named to iron out differences between the senate and the house, and the appointment of a new conference committee; acceptance of the bill as changed by the committee, or passage of the measure carrying the budget recommendations of Governor Bryan.

Although legislators yesterday generally believed the failure of the modified bill to gain 60 votes in the house merely would send it to a new conference committee, Speaker Max Kier announced that if only fifty-one representatives vote for the measure it will pass with the amounts reverting to the totals recommended by Governor Bryan and consideration will cease.

Marshaling their forces, house Republicans planned to prevent passage of the bill by fifty-one votes if they find they cannot carry the bill with the three-fifths majority necessary to prevent a gubernatorial veto.

Plan Scout Menu For Mother's Day

Attention, girl scout cooks! Here is the menu for dinner on Mother's day, Sunday, May 3, get out your pencils and paper and copy the recipes planned especially for you.

Mrs. Ida Bailey Allen, president of the Radio Homemakers Club, is going to have this very menu prepared and served in the hotel kitchen of her broadcasting studio on Thursday morning, May 3, at ten o'clock. Her Mother's Day program for the girl scouts will go on the air at that time from station WABC, over a network of the Columbia broadcasting company. A group of girl scouts from Greater New York will be the guests of Mrs. Allen on the occasion, and they will help in the preparation of the following things to eat:—Tomato juice cocktail, broiled round steak, baked potatoes, spinach timbale, young radishes, bread and butter custard and coffee.

For the tomato juice cocktail the girl scouts under the direction of Mrs. Allen will combine a saucepan one large can of tomatoes, one chopped onion, the top of a bunch of celery, two bay leaves, four whole cloves, two teaspoons sugar, one level teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, and cook together for ten minutes. This will be strained and chilled and served in small glasses. The steak will be placed on a broiler, dotted with pieces of butter. It will be sprinkled with salt and pepper and broiled five inches below the flame for two minutes, turned and broiled on the other side for one minute longer. Ten minutes will be allowed for a grill done steak.

The spinach will be thoroughly washed, cooked until tender, seasoned with butter, pepper and salt and strained and chopped. The dessert planned will be made of three thick slices of buttered bread with the crust removed and cut into one inch cubes. The eggs beaten white and creamed, four teaspoons of sugar, one fourth teaspoon salt, one half teaspoon vanilla and three cups of milk will be poured over the cubes and they have been placed in buttered custard cups. The cups will be put in a pan of hot water and baked in a moderate oven until the custard is firm and golden brown. This says Mrs. Allen, should about twenty-five minutes.

In the Midst of Plenty.

Sioux City Journal: Dr. H. Elmer Barnes, writing in the York World-Telegram, says that hundreds of thousands of bread lines daily for hours get a crust of bread and watery soup or coffee." Then adds: "Yet we live in the midst of the greatest surfeit of food ducts ever known in our nation's history."

Prof. Colson E. Warner, of herst college, writing in La. News, has summarized the ernment's estimate of agricultural production for 1930. The figures follow:

Corn	2,081,000
Wheat	831,000
Oats	1,402,000
Barley	325,893
Rye	50,242
Rice	41,487
Potatoes	361,400
Apples	163,000

Alexander Legge, former chairman of the federal farm board, estimated a short time ago that the surplus carryover of wheat from the 1930 crop would be 275,000 bushels. And Dr. Barnes writes: "I have read most of the typical radical denunciations of the present capitalist system, but none as appears to me to be so striking a condemnation of its inability to prevent the hunger of millions in the midst of billions of bushels of food. It is a far worse indictment than a typical Communist famine in which millions starve because of an actual food shortage."

Dr. Barnes referred to the question saying that the necessity of keeping up wages to maintain consuming power is so thoroughly conceded by many capitalists, that even President Hoover has stirred himself in this matter recently. Then he declared: "A serious cut in wages will be followed by an even greater decline in demand for goods."

IS JOE VOSMIK, CLEVELAND'S BOY BOMBER, GOING TO BE ANOTHER RUTH OR COBB? HIS SENSATIONAL START. AT ANY RATE, HAS THE TOWN ALL AGOG

BY PHILIP MARTIN
JOE VOSMIK. His name is on every tongue in Cleveland. In crowded throngs you see papers folded over to the sports section and the chronicled deeds of the Bohemian slugger. On the streets you hear newsmongers cry "Vosmik's Triple Gives Indians Win." In the stores and offices grown-ups praise the young outfielder. In the schools youngsters jigger excitedly over his feats.

Joe Vosmik... will he surpass Ruth and Simmons?
And Al Simmons. The big Polish slugger of the world champion Athletics had only mediocre success in his first season. He batted .308 in his initial year. After that he terrorized American League pitchers with marks of .343, .392, .351, .365 and .381.

a better beginning than any of them. Vosmik is a Cleveland lad, a graduate of the Cleveland sandlots. That is in his favor; he has the entire city behind him and pulling for him to make good. Because he was one of the two best sandlot performers in Cleveland during 1928, the Indians gave him a trial. They put him in Frederick, Md., where he led the Blue Ridge League in batting in 1929, his first season in professional baseball. The following year his owners promoted him to the Terre Haute outfield. This time he batted .395 to win the hitting championship of the Three-Eye League. Late last fall he was picked up by the Indians at the close of the Three-Eye season.

An Old Subject.
"Live stock, farm equipment, merchandise, manufacturing plants and other investments employing help and otherwise contributing to the public are required to pay about four times as much as cash which is snugly loafing in hiding," Wayne Herald.

A citizen owns a vacant lot which returns him nothing unless it grows in value thru city growth. City growth comes thru construction of buildings and business development. The owner builds. Immediately his lot is improved, the tax rate on the property and the investment goes up, thru increased valuation. He must pay in the value of the lot, on the investment made on the lot, and again on the enhanced value of property in the neighborhood resulting from the improvements made. If the money remained in the bank, or if it were placed in tax free securities, much of the tax would be saved. The increase in value of the property in the neighborhood would be avoided and valuation should remain the same on the vacant lot.

Money put into property and business is heavily taxed. Industry is penalized by taxation. Those who struggle to save and acquire a competence are made to bear the cost of state maintenance. Those who do not accumulate, who do not strive to help the community by property improvement, escape much of the tax cost. The argument that they are taxed by paying increased prices on what they buy is not always true. In times of depression rentals come down and prices generally are affected. The property owner or business man, however, is in luck if taxes remain merely static. The trend in taxation at all times is up and depression seems to have little effect on the cost of maintaining the state.

Discussions of this sort, heard on every hand at a time when the assessor is listing property on which levies will be made, do much to make the idea of an income tax more popular. In times of depression, however, it might be necessary to increase the income tax rate to a point where the usual total for government expenses may be raised. The national government has recently done just that. — Lincoln Journal.

Poultry and Egg Bill Is Signed

House Roll No. 397, relating to the egg and poultry industry and introduced by Frank J. Klopching of Wayne county, has been signed by Governor C. W. Bryan. The bill defines candling of eggs, licensing dealers and operating incubators. It regulates production and sale of poultry improvement, and authorizes the state agricultural department to establish grades of eggs.

NEBRASKA LAKES HAVE MANY BIRDS GOING NORTHWARD

In most parts of the state where there is considerable open water there has been a great gathering of ducks and geese on their northward flight. All along the Missouri river where there is marshy ground the millions of feathered visitors have been feeding the past few weeks. The season is closed and all the excited hunter can do is to look at the wonderful sight through field glasses and try to curb his rising impulses.

Perhaps the fact that Nebraska had a good crop season last year, while other states in this area suffered a drought, has something to do with the great migration this spring. There is sufficient feed in the marshes and lakes and plenty of open water for the visitors.

Another factor in the increase of migrating birds in the state is the steadily increasing protection offered them by the game reserves in which they are safe from molestation. Nebraska seems to be on the direct line of flight between northern and southern waters. With multiplying places where birds may light to find rest and food, the number of them certainly increases. Canadian geese, some swan, mallards, teal and other varieties of ducks wing their flight twice a year and pause a longer period each year to enjoy the watered and timbered places reserved for them by the State Game, Forestation, and Parks Commission.

The great game reserve near Gering, known as the Wild Cat Hills game reserve, is not only a haven for migrating birds, some of whom are being tempted to become all year residents, but in the security of the hills and timber many species of animals are finding again the habitat they knew before Nebraska became a cultivated homeland for human beings.

Erect Buildings Here This Spring

H. S. Seace started erection of two new houses last week at Ninth and Window streets, just south of the college campus. Excavation for the south one, which is to be a bungalow and which is Mr. Seace's, was finished a few days ago, and excavation for the other, which is to be a two-story house belonging to Seace and J. S. Horney, is being done this week. Prof. H. H. Hanscom has rented the bungalow.

Replastering of the private room at the rear of the State National bank was finished last week. New paneling and doors in mahogany will be placed and the room will be decorated.

Mr. Seace just completed a double garage and concrete driveway at the Mrs. R. Craven residence in Wayne.

Plant Many Trees Near Clearwater

Clearwater, Neb., April 25—G. H. Nichols, with a crew of seven men planted over 8,000 trees at Goose lake the latter part of the week. Furrows were opened with a heavy plow drawn by a tractor and the trees planted in the bottom. The trees planted were set gain to the state as all were seedlings found growing at the water edge along the lake. As the lake is rising no doubt the trees would have soon died. Besides between four and five miles of furrows planted, one large peninsula and two islands were partially covered. Four hundred spruce trees from the Halsey nursery were also planted in clumps near the grove.

New Gravel Pit Near Coleridge

The recently discovered pit on the John Brockman farm between Hartington and Coleridge is estimated to contain 23,000,000 cubic yards of finest gravel. An Omaha firm has brought machinery to the farm to remove the product. The railroad has bought 32,000 yards to use as ballast.

When There's Health

The chiropractor claims when all parts of the spine are in proper alignment there is bound to be health. When these small bones are out of place, there is bound to be nerve pressure and, consequently, disease. The chiropractor locates the bones that are out of place and puts them in perfect alignment.

Chronicles Coon Creek Happenings

Correspondent for Herald In Lay Nineties Records Doings of Citizens.

More than one old-timer has stood and complained because the "good old days" are gone forever. And so they are, as a glance into the air at a passing air transport will prove. But the good old days we hear so much about must have been very days for the journalists who dared to speak out. From the Wayne Herald for July 31, 1890, comes this column of Coon Creek news, which is spicy, entertaining reading today.

"Several harvesters were compelled to run last Sunday.

"We understand that the dance at LaForte last Friday was a grand fizzle."

Getting Out the Law.
Even in 1890, threats to "get the law of 'em" were used. Witness the Coon Creek correspondent's reference to authority.

"There is a law to compel a man to bury dead horses we will try it before long if a certain horse is not buried."

"We understand that there will be a double wedding in the near future, and that one of our families will lose their hired girl."

"Chris Hanson had a runaway last Thursday and got one leg badly hurt and his hay rack broken. The team escaped without any damage."

The Marriage Question.
"P. C. Nelson made a trip to Pender last week. We understand to take out a marriage license, but he had forgotten the lady's age and the license was refused."

"A party of starved hounds came out last Sunday snipe hunting and killed a mess of owls and then returned home. Be careful, owl and chicken hunters, or you will get pulled next time."

"A young man who was trying to make a mash on a certain young lady ran around the house three or four times to get to speak to her. He became overdone and had to give up the chase."

By Way of Society.
"A birthday party was given to Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter last Monday, the twenty-first, and there were numerous presents. We noted the following: Perry set, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wade; cake stand, Mr. and Mrs. P. Dixon; fruit dish, Mr. and Mrs. J. Foley; berry set, Mr. and Mrs. G. Mayberry; jelly dish, Mr. and Mrs. T. McGinnis; pair towels, Mr. and Mrs. Nuernberger; silver spoons, Mr. and Mrs. Killian; apron, Mrs. D. McManigal; work basket, Mrs. R. Shawgo; cup and saucer, Mrs. F. Kay; apron, Mrs. A. J. Sumpter; tidy, Mrs. C. J. Peters; apron, Carrie Bloodhart; pair pillow shams, Etta Slaughter."

So ends one week's column from Coon Creek, a chatty account of a few of the doings of the busy people who were living in that community. (The correspondent had no idea, probably, that her copy would be taken from its nonpareil and resell for the entertainment of 1931 readers, but she managed to touch a responding chord in the hearts of all readers.)

DAIRY RECORDS ARE GIVEN OUT TO PUBLIC

West Point, Neb., April 25—Dairy cows in the Coaling, Wayne, Dixon D. H. L. association have a three-pound higher test for the month of March than for the month of February. The 261 cows on test in the association produced an average of 792 pounds of milk which tested 3 1/2 percent butter fat. The average cow averaged 28.1 pounds of butter fat for the month. H. D. Hansen of Oakland had the high cow for the month. She is a registered Holstein and produced 2,021 pounds of a 4 percent milk making eighty pounds of butter fat. The McGuire and Rees herd of Wisner was the high herd for the month. The forty cows in this herd averaged 35.3 pounds of butter fat per cow.

Farmers Are Urged To Push Pursuits

Lincoln, Neb.—There is no hope that American farmers can solve their present plight of surplus and depression by backing up in their efforts for efficient production, said Dean W. C. Coffey, of the University of Minnesota department of agriculture, in speaking to Nebraska farmers at Lincoln, Friday. The quest for efficiency will continue in industry and hence it must continue in agriculture. What really would help the farmer, Dean Coffey said, is to have a readjustment of our industrial and economic order so that masses would have the means to buy liberally of at least the necessities of life.

As examples of the sweeping advances industry has made in increasing output per man, Dean Coffey cited many striking facts, among which were the following: With the aid of machines one man in the textile industries now produces as much as 145,000 men did 160 years ago; in 1919 a man's daily output of electric bulbs was 75, whereas in 1920 an automatic machine was introduced and later improved so that it now turns out 146,000 bulbs; the use of electricity since 1900 has increased 66 times faster than population.

Farmers Directly Interested.
Power and machines have greatly increased the output of agricultural workers, also, Dean Coffey said. One man may now plant, grow and harvest 100 acres of corn or 2,500 acres of wheat. In the world in general, it requires the labor of two men to feed and clothe three in the United States one man can feed and clothe the seven.

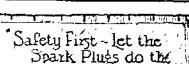

Referring to the distress now prevalent in both industry and agriculture, Dean Coffey declared he was unable to explain it. However, he indicated interest in the idea expressed by Glenn Frank that "in order to insure the solvency and success of our industrial system, some way must be found to shift a larger share of the national income into the pockets of the consuming millions and to increase their margin of leisure, so that the masses may have money with which to buy and leisure in which to enjoy the vast food of goods and services our magnificent machine economy is able to produce."

Agricultural Output Boosted.
"I can think of no other group that should be more interested in this question than the agricultural group," Dean Coffey continued. "Because of widespread drought conditions there was no increase in agricultural production last year. Therefore the existing low markets for agricultural products are not due so much to overproduction as to underconsumption. The farmer, more than anyone else, perhaps should be interested in an economic order which justly frees the masses from want with respect to food, clothing and shelter. Three families modestly fortified by income sufficient to guarantee three meals each day, adequate clothing and comfortable shelter are much more significant to him than three families, one abundantly supplied with luxuries as well as the necessities of life, but the other two reduced to incomes which do not provide adequately for necessities. "Whatever else may happen, there seems to be no prospect of retreating from the quest for efficiency so characteristic of our times," Dean Coffey declared. "It will continue in industrial fields and hence it must continue in agriculture. Those who maintain that the forces in agricultural education and research have made the farmer too efficient in production simply fail to comprehend how disastrous to agriculture it would have been if progress in efficient production had not been made."

Hoskins Couple Wed Last Week

Double Ceremony Performed For Childhood Friends at Sioux City on Sunday. One of the most interesting weddings of the spring season was the marriage in Sioux City Sunday of last week of Miss Estelita Behmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Behmer of Hoskins, to Walter Ohlund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ohlund, also of this place.

The ceremony was performed at 3 in the afternoon at the Congregational church in Sioux City, with the Rev. J. H. Andress, the pastor, officiating. Rev. Andress was formerly pastor of the Congregational church in Norfolk.

The interesting feature was the marriage at the same hour of Miss Bess Lund, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Lund of Stanton, to Leonard Robinson, also of Stanton. The two brides, who have been friends since childhood, chose the same hour for their weddings, in order to act as one another's attendants.

The double ring ceremony was used for both marriages. The brides were gowned alike, Mrs. Ohlund wearing a modish frock of pale green material, and Mrs. Robinson wearing a gown of pale blue, fashioned along the same lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will live at Stanton, where Mr. Robinson will establish himself. Mr. and Mrs. Ohlund plan to live in Hoskins. Mrs. Ohlund is a graduate of the Hoskins high school, class of 1924, and has been an employee of the telephone exchange here. Mr. Ohlund has attended school in Norfolk for two years, and at the University of Nebraska for two years. For the past three years he has been associated in business with his father and he will continue as a contractor with the older Mr. Ohlund.

Several affairs have been planned to honor the popular young couple, with a miscellaneous surprise shower for the bride Friday evening, planned by Miss Doris Ziemer. A second shower was set for Saturday evening, with the following hostesses, at the home of the bride's parents: Mrs. E. E. Potter, Mrs. R. G. Rhorke, Mrs. W. S. Meador.

Friends planned a charivari for the couple Wednesday evening of last week on their return from a honeymoon in Sioux City and Omaha. A charivari band was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ohlund at Bruce pavilion Wednesday evening of this week, with their friends as guests. Hoskins people are glad to have the young couple settling down in the home town.

Graduates Plan on Affairs For Class

Eight pupils will finish the eleventh grade at Hoskins high school this spring. Dr. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne State Teachers College will speak at the commencement exercises, which will be held at the Evangelical church May 21, and Rev. M. C. Business. Sioux City Journal: An improvement in the industrial status of the federal reserve board in its monthly summary of financial conditions. The report was based upon statistics gathered by the board's agents in March and April.

Industrial activity was stronger in March as compared to February than usually is the case. Ordinarily, according to the board, there is almost no advance in March over February but this year, it was markedly perceptible, and, of course, encouraging. It was taken that this indicated a general improvement was under way.

Factory employment was better in March than in February. Pay rolls also were increased. Building contracts awarded in March denoted a considerable growth in that line. Building material prices have not declined much, so this activity is somewhat more impressive than it would have been if the general recession in commodity costs had been included. Meanwhile the decline of wholesale prices continued to level in March and April. Obviously the bottom has not been reached in that respect, and, incidentally, a capture in prices right now would be an excellent thing for the whole country since existing contracts are agreed that index figures will have to go up if prosperity is to return.

The daily output of steel in March and April so far has been increased. In February short orders in steel and iron were seen as creating a somewhat pessimistic outlook. This may be accounted for in an extensive degree by an acceleration in automobile production, which is described as seasonal.

Throughout the corn and wheat belts of the middle west there is a brighter prospect for crops, thanks to precipitation over a wide area that definitely ended the long drawn out drought of last year. Heavy rains have put the soil in good condition for spring plowing and planting, particularly in the corn producing states. The moisture condition is reported to be satisfactory throughout the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri valleys. Pasturage is reported to be much improved.

Revenue freight car loadings for the week ending April 11 were put at 737,934. This was a gain over the preceding week of 9,423 cars but a reduction of 173,382 below the loadings for the same week last year and one of 235,218 below the corresponding week for 1929.

Asks Decision Reversed. Lincoln, Neb.—The Union National bank of Fremont has asked the supreme court to reverse the decision of the Cumbe district court which held against it in a lawsuit against the village of Beemer to recover $18,000 on 17 warrants issued to contractors for a sewer system. The village said it had paid into Paul Wupper's bank, the Beemer State bank, $19,410 to retire these warrants, and that it never had any notice that Wupper, who also was a trustee of the village, had sold the warrants to the Fremont bank. The district court held that the money was a special deposit which should be applied to the retirement of the warrants and allowed a setoff.

Asks for Damages. Madison, Neb.—Charging that the defendant deprived him of the love and companionship of his wife, John H. O'Bryan has filed suit in district court at Madison against Lyman A. McThompson for alienation of affections. He asks for $25,000 damages. O'Bryan claims that September 5, 1930, and on several occasions since then, McThompson and Mrs. O'Bryan were guilty of infidelities. The O'Bryans were married December 24, 1921. Both have been employed by McThompson, Mrs. O'Bryan as a bookkeeper and Mr. O'Bryan as a truck driver.

Discuss Plans To Construct Building

A meeting was held at Trinity church Sunday at 1:30 in the afternoon to discuss a motion to build a new school house on the site of the present parochial school. The frame building which is now in use was constructed about 47 years ago, and was first used as a church. Present needs of the school in Altona community make the construction of a new building almost essential, and members of the congregation also discussed the hiring of a second teacher to assist with the work in the lower grades.

Add New Improvements. New cement steps leading into the church and down to the highway are being completed this week at Trinity church. A cement retaining wall is also being constructed along the highway front, giving the place a neat, finished appearance. The work was done by the men of the congregation.

No gold, silver, lead or zinc of commercial value has been found in the state. Some coal has been found but not in such quantity or accessibility as to warrant commercial mining. No oil has been found though hopeful drillers are now working at several points in the state. The yield of the land, beside the fine crops that grow on its fertile surface, is stone, clay, sand, gravel, volcanic ash and potash. These have all been produced in profitable commercial quantities... Forty-three beds of limestone are exposed in the state. Quarries operate in the vicinity of Weeping Water, Louisville, Meadow and South Bend. Much of this stone is crushed and used for concrete in other building purposes. A considerable amount of Ewing limestone, which runs high in calcium carbonate, quarried near Weeping Water, is being ground and shipped east for use as filler in putty, paint, paper and asphalt paving. Unfortunately most of Nebraska stone is thickly covered, making quarrying difficult and production costs high. These conditions have led to the abandonment of many small quarries... Sand is widely distributed over the state, the largest deposits and the best quality being along the Platte. They are worked in open pits or by pumping and dredging; Nebraska sand and gravel are in great demand in this and other neighboring states for road building and construction purposes... The state has deposits of clay shale and silt suitable for the manufacture of brick and tile. While the number of plants engaged in making brick and tile has declined rapidly since the war, when building material was in high demand, a number of large plants have been built up at Hastings, Lincoln, Omaha, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Edinburg and other places... Two great factories at Superior and Louisville are manufacturing limestone into Portland cement and constitute a flourishing industry that gives employment to 400 to 600 men in the busy season... Wayne Will Enter Contest In Yankton... Wayne will be represented at the twenty-ninth annual invitation for an essay meet to be held May 8 at Yankton college in Yankton, S. D. Beyer, county assessor. He also reports that the schedules are going in good and all precinct assessing are preparing satisfactory returns... Cedar County Case In Supreme Court

Lincoln, Neb.—An appeal was made by school district No. 6, of Cedar county, from the finding of Judge Broady, of Lancaster district court, that State Superintendent Taylor was justified in withholding from it the share of the public school fund semi-annually distributed among district schools, and also denying its status as a free high school... The superintendent claimed, and was upheld in his contention by the court, that the school is conducted in most respects as a parochial school. All the students are of Catholic parentage... The case involves also the question of whether the state superintendent has anything more than mere ministerial powers. The district court held it was his duty to withhold public funds from schools not conducted in a statutory or constitutional way... So many Congressmen are slipping away to foreign shores, we begin to wonder if the long-hoped-for non-dripping valise hasn't been quietly put on the market.—Detroit News.

Egg and Poultry Prices To Improve

Lincoln, Neb.—Steady egg prices and poultry prices are probable during the 30 days beginning April 16 according to the monthly economic situation report as issued from the Agricultural College by Prof. Harold Hedges.

The report indicates that cash wheat prices may remain at present levels, corn prices will probably be steady or a little higher, while hog prices are likely to remain near present levels. Hedges says some further weakness in fat cattle prices and a little lower butter prices may prevail during the next period.

New crop prospects will largely determine the course of prices for new wheat crop futures, Hedges says. With remaining stocks of corn small, Nebraska farmers are told that steady or a little higher prices for the period are probable. The visible supply is the smallest in recent years, while present prices indicates corn is selling for from 19 to 20 cents under wheat in Omaha.

Until there is more evidence of improvements in industrial conditions and the bulk of the fall pigs have been marketed, chances for substantial advances in hog prices seem slight. Since late April, and May often finds an increase in fed cattle marketings, the fat cattle marketed during the period is likely to be weaker than at present.

In predicting probable butter price weakness, Hedges says only four times in the last 20 years has the May price for 92 score creamery butter in New York averaged higher than the April price. Though present low prices are stimulating consumption price improvement appears unlikely with the season of accumulation just ahead.

Judgment Affirmed By Supreme Court

Lincoln, Neb.—The supreme court affirmed the judgment entered in the Madison district court, foreclosing a mortgage of $8,381 against the property of Ida Belle Best. It was held by L. P. Asenwalk and Otto Burkhardt, assignees of the Norfolk National bank.

The defendant's husband, Leander Best, had signed notes for his two sons. At his death his wife renewed them, giving the mortgage as security.

Before Best's death he deeded the 400 acre of land and residence property in Norfolk to her. In her defense she sought to repudiate these transfers, claiming he was not of mental capacity to transact business. She took this position to avoid liability. She took the deed merely to satisfy his caprice, she said. The court says he did what many husbands do when facing death, and that it was only natural and just for him to do it.
