Kiwanis Hears Tax Discussion

Attorney C. H. Hendrickson Gives Review of History of Taxes to Present.

Gives New Plan

Taxes on Luxuries Would Yield Government an Abundance of Funds for All Purposes.

Various phases of the sales tax were discussed Monday at the luncheon meeting of Kiwanis club by Attorney C. H. Hendrickson when the group met at Hotel Stratton. Mr. Hendrickson opened his discussion with an account of the history of taxes, beginning with the time of Caesar.

Remedies for Tax State. Many remedies have been suggested for the present state of tax difficulties. The first remedy which occurs to the public mind, the speaker showed, is reduction of the present rates.

One of Attorney Hendrickson's illustrations hinges on the fact that, where once only property taxes were possible, now the ratio of business to property owning is about 1 to 500.

A tax, added in the same way as the present tax on gasoline, would raise, for example, a sum of over seven million dollars in a single year. Similar taxes on other goods and soft drinks would net the government the tidy sum of around 15 million dollars.

Plan Memorial Address. Rev. W. E. Braisted will give the Memorial day address at the next Monday luncheon of the club at Hotel Stratton.

Best will present the class, and C. E. Carhart will give diplomas to the graduates. Music will be provided by the girls' sextette, and a mixed chorus will give Liszt's "Liebesträum." Rev. W. C. Heidt will deliver the invocation. Baccalaureate services were held at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, when Rev. W. E. Braisted delivered the sermon. Class night was at the high school, Wednesday evening when members of the senior class arranged an entertainment.

New System Is In High School

This means the elimination of the idea of class. Would it be possible to provide more clear-cut violation of the principle of democracy than the selection of (not necessarily the highest student) but too often merely the individual who has collected the highest grades? Considers Importance of Grades. "It is the generally accepted thought that too often the interest of the child is centered upon the grade rather than the subject pursued. This has proven in the past and continues to be one of the weakest factors in our educational system. The selection of an honor student helps to perpetuate and more firmly entrench this evil. "Is it good psychology to select one child out of a group and proclaim to the child and the community in general that this is the best student? After all, is he in many cases? Granting, however, that he is the superior student or individual in the group, does this fact tend to make him a still better student or what is too often the case—an educational snob. We have too many of the latter. Why create more? The superior student will strive for knowledge for knowledge's sake regardless of the external or extrinsic incentive. This is the only true test of a student and scholar. Contest Always Close. "Usually there are three or four close contestants," he notes. "For the highest honor, the friends and relatives expect in each case for them to vie. Perhaps the winner has been chosen because of a superiority in his or her average of 1-4 to 1-2 a point. In making this choice we deny all the enjoyment of graduation to these, our highest students, with the exception of one. Why not allow them to all enjoy their graduation equally? "The question is often raised 'what is a grade?' The reply might be: merely the indication on the part of instructors of their idea of a pupil's attainment. Even teachers, 'mirabile dictu,' have the same human weaknesses and are as subject to error as other individuals. There is, therefore, nothing scientific in a grade. No basic criteria in fact are used in reaching a grade. Every teacher has her own basis and method of attaining her conclusion as to a pupil's worth, varying in many cases completely from each other. Grades themselves can be pernicious things as is too often the case. "In an enlightened age where scientific and rational thinking is encouraged as a basis for action and judgment, when one considers the inaccuracy of a grade which includes all the human elements in its derivation is it not ridiculous for us to approve and help perpetuate a custom whereby the winner is too often selected because of a fraction of a point difference in general grade averages. One is reminded of the horse race where two horses came down the home

Debate letters were awarded this week to Mary Jane Morgan, Dean Winegar, Max Hendrickson, Stanley Davis, Frank Claycomb and Mary Norton. H-Y members met Tuesday evening to plan the summer trip to Lake Andes, S. D., when a group will enjoy an outing together. stretch finishing neck and neck. Yet the one horse won because of a wart on the tip of his nose," illustrates Mr. Best's discussion of a subject interesting to students and their parents alike. "The highest award is only for the pupil who is endowed by nature with superior mental attainments, plus the will to work. How about the individual who has attended school with little natural ability but has ultra-high will to carry on and work? The result is that in all probability the latter individual makes the greater comparative growth in many instances. Yet again, because he began from a much lower level, he never becomes a serious contender for the highest Wayne high school this year."

It will pay you to see them before re-roofing your home. Another thing we've often wondered is where these "right handts" are able to hide their revolvers. Are you roofing for how or forever? Put on fifty year shingles and your roofing troubles will be over. Price is very low. "So Joe was the life of the party?" "Yeah. He was the only one who could talk louder than the radio." The biggest gamble we know is roofing bought of a stranger. If the roofing goes bad, what can you do about it? Tariff Revision
The recent biennial session of the International Chamber of Commerce encourages early revision of the tariff as a means to stimulate international trade and thus remove the prevailing world depression.

Resolutions of the International Chamber of Commerce urge all countries to adjust tariff inequalities and remove all unnecessary barriers to reciprocal trade relations.

Conditions have changed since the days when either a high tariff or no tariff held sway. Acceptability must now be based on adaptability—fairness to all sections and to all classes.

Some local merchants favor keeping places of business open for trade on Wednesday evening of each week during summer, the better to accommodate farmers in the surrounding territory.

And this, however difficult, is in its nature capable of solution, and offers the richest prizes, if we can solve it. If only we can so refashion our system as to use fully our productive capacity, to bring again into useful work those who now stand idle and ask for nothing better than to be usefully employed, there will be such a leap forward in prosperity as the world has never seen.

Holding Friendships
FRIENDSHIPS are precious assets, but if too carefully guarded or too complacently nursed, they may chill and silt.

Some obstacles in the way of continued personal regard are paradoxical and void of reason. If one is believed to be prosperous, he is an object of envy.

Thus, the one so constituted to be able to follow the middle course would seem to be the most fortunate. One must look to sense of duty and then trust to luck for a measure of approval.

Mental Disorder
IN AN ADDRESS before the Parent-Teacher Association at Norfolk recently, Dr. J. N. Nielsen, superintendent of the Norfolk State Hospital, said "the seed of mental disorder is sown in childhood."

FARM PROBLEMS.
A contributor to The Rear Seat, Sioux City Journal, says he was raised on an Iowa farm, and he takes issue with anyone who thinks the farmer's wife of earlier days had an easy time of it.

Parents need to know children, learn to treat their little problems earnestly, win and hold their confidence, and enter into their affairs on the plane of experience which they have reached.

Jiggers and mosquitoes are gathering at summer resorts in anticipation of the annual coming of tourists. Both jiggers and mosquitoes have long, dull spells, and they aim to make up for lost time when the vacation season opens.

Model Farming by Children Offers Hope for World Peace and Would Solve the Unemployment and Farm Relief Problems, Says South Sioux City Man

S. TOLEDO SHERRY, Author Model Farm Plan of Education.

These farms are to be cultivated, studied and improved for 12 successive years. They are miniature experimental stations among the environments where the children will very likely make their homes and their living. They are to be the future home life what the plans and specifications of the architect are to the builder.

Objectives
To supply practical character building chores for boys and girls. To cultivate the homing instinct and train a race of Home-makers and Home-keepers through their play activities.

How To Enlist.
Measure a plot of ground 33 feet square and put it into a personal state of cultivation. Divide it into 9 equal fields 11 feet square.

Plan of Education.
The Model Farm Plan of Education is especially applicable to rural and village schools but it can be taught in those of the largest cities by indoor models.

Using Initiative Sense.
The desire to handle things, make things in imitation of their elders and to be helpful in doing things worth while is common to all normal children.

Potato Experiment.
The potato field plant 16 hills three feet apart. In each hill of the first row plant one eye of the potato. In the second row plant two good eyes to the hill.

Trinity Church Plans Gathering Last of May

Radio Speaker Will Come to Give Address at Golden Jubilee to be May 31.

Prof. E. Scheer, and members of the congregation are planning several features which will help to make the day a memorable occasion.

Have Omaha Choir

Former Pastors Will Return for Observance of Anniversary in Altona Community.

Marking fifty years of help to the people of the parish, Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church at Altona will celebrate its anniversary Sunday, May 31, 1931, with a golden jubilee celebration to which the public is invited.

Rev. W. C. Rehwaldt of Norfolk will deliver the German sermon in the morning, former pastors who are living will give five minute speeches, and Dr. Walter A. Maier of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, prominent speaker over the Columbia new work Lutheran hour on Thursday evenings, will deliver the chief address of the afternoon.

St. Paul's choir from Omaha will sing under the direction of

Rev. C. Jahn, who was called to Trinity in 1887, was the first resident pastor. Rev. Jahn served La-Porte congregation, also. When, in 1892, Rev. Jahn accepted a charge at Watertown, Neb., the congregation secured Rev. J. Klinggling, who was in the community until 1896.

It was during the pastorate of Rev. Schulze, the next minister that the church was enlarged, and a parsonage was constructed. Rev. Schulze's death, after five years of service in Altona community, terminated his charge.

The longest term of service is that of Rev. F. G. Schaller of Renault, Ill., who came to the charge in 1901, and who served 27 years. The new church was built in 1911, and it was in it that Rev. Schaller preached his farewell sermon April 22, 1928.

For five months following, Rev. H. Hopman served the church, and September 23, 1928, he installed Rev. E. J. Moede, who came from Sheridan, Wyoming. Rev. Moede is now serving the church for the third year.

Establish Day School. W. Schmidt was established in 1911 as teacher in the Christian day school, a position which he filled for five years. Mr. Schmidt was followed by E. W. Meinke, who was in the school until 1923. While Mr. Meinke was in the community, a teacherage was constructed. This building is the one which is being used now for a parsonage.

C. E. Emerson, the present teacher, came in 1923. The house next to the school building has been modernized, and is now used as the teacherage, the minister living in the larger house next door to the church.

Trinity congregation plans to build a two room school this summer, and a second teacher, who will handle the lower grades, will be employed. The change is being made because the size and the needs of the school have continued to grow.

The history of the church in Altona community is rich in incidents which will be reviewed at the jubilee service. But it is, in their own words, the future instead of the past, that interests the people of Altona community.

Tests of Beauty In Scout Contest

A test of the adage dealing with the depth of beauty will be conducted by the American Girl, official girl scout magazine, which is sponsoring a "Good Looking Girl Contest," announced in the May issue.

In response to the editorial question "When is a girl good-looking?" it is suggested that "good looks depend on plentiful lustrous hair; bright eyes with no dark circles beneath; pink lips; pink finger nails; soft clear skin; firm strong muscles moving with the trained grace of a dancer; and head high on rounded shoulders."

How does a girl get that way? asks every girl in the world, and every girl scout knows the answer to that.

Every girl scout knows that to achieve the state of positive health which is the first step on the road to fundamental good looks, she must realize the importance of balanced living, proper food, sufficient rest, exercise, recreation and adequate amusements. That is one reason why girl scouts have the jump on other girls when it comes to keeping cheerful, interested and energetic in their leisure hours. Their scouting program offers well balanced schedules for work and play for growing girls.

Every reader is invited to send its answer to the "When is a Girl Good Looking Contest" in the American Girl. Helen Rawson Cades, Good Looks Editor of the Woman's Home Companion, will be the judge, and the prizes will be, for the best answer, a bureau set to match the color of the winner's own room, and a manicure set for the second best answer.

Letters must not be over three hundred words and they must be submitted before May 25 to be eligible.

Candling of Eggs To Be Explained

To acquaint Nebraska egg dealers with provisions of the new egg candling law, sponsored by Frank Klipping of Wayne county, Dwight Felton, secretary of agriculture, will call a meeting of merchants at Lincoln soon to explain the provisions.

Live Stock Most Valuable Crop. Omaha Journal-Stockman. In a radio address this week T. G. Lee, president of Armour and Co., presented facts and figures proving that, after all is said and done, live stock constitutes the most important as well as the most valuable crop produced by the American farmer.

Pointing out that it was the meat animals raised on the farm that gave real value to the grains, grasses and other agricultural products that would otherwise be a drug on the market, Mr. Lee stressed the importance of the marketing, packing and selling system that kept the channels of distribution open at all times regardless of prices and conditions.

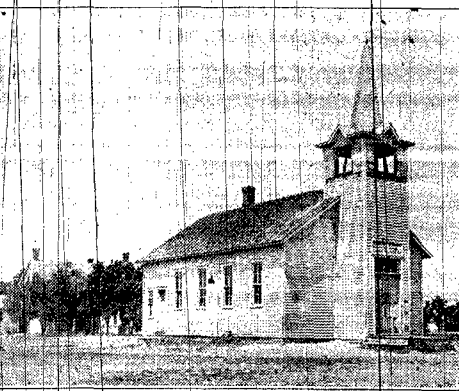

The entire meat industry has been all too modest in advertising its importance and vital necessity to the nation and Mr. Lee's address was a welcome contribution to popular information on the subject.

Railroad To Have Public Hearing

Officials Will Come Here Friday, May 22 for Meet At Wayne City Hall.

Friday, May 22, is the day set for the railway hearing of branch line service, announced E. C. Blundell, division superintendent from Omaha. Interested persons will meet at the city hall in Wayne at 10 in the morning for the hearing, when Commissioner Randall will preside.

Various courses of action will be discussed. On one of the branches three day service will be proposed. On some of these lines, service was once offered twice a day, but, with the increase of private automobile traffic, services three times a week may be enough, officials suggest.

To Discuss Freight. Freight and freight rates will also be discussed. Depression in the buying side of the market this winter, together with the betterment of roads and the facilitation of motor traffic, have caused a decline in even transcontinental business for the railroads. As railroad rates are fixed now, it is impossible to change them quickly, Mr. Blundell points out, and even if they were lower, changes in service would still be necessary.

Mail service is still the most important side of the railroad service, it has been pointed out repeatedly. Railroads will continue to serve, although officials are agreed that the sphere of service is changing, and that changes in the service must be made to meet changes in needs.

Crop of Chickens Is Thought Smaller

Lincoln, Neb.—The state and federal division of agriculture statistics declares that Nebraska commercial hatcheries, with a combined egg capacity of 1,451,692 eggs show a reduction of 16.3 percent in the number of eggs set, and a decrease of 12.7 percent in the number of salable chicks hatched for April or later delivery.

The number of eggs set during March by the 770 hatcheries covered by the report was 28 percent less than for the same month last year. The number of salable chicks hatched by these concerns was 31 percent less, and the number of young chicks booked for April or later delivery was 40.7 percent smaller than on April last year.

Farms Hatch More Chicks

Although farm hatching of chicks is reported to be larger than usual especially in the corn belt states, and is expected to partly offset the large decrease in commercial hatchery production, an increase is reported in the marketing of old hens from farms, especially where egg prices are extremely low and cash is needed, or where feed must be purchased to produce low priced eggs.

The increase in hatchery operations in March are not quite so pronounced as those reported for either January or February, but the difference was not sufficient to justify any expectation that the total output for 1931 will anywhere near approach that of the 1929 season.

Island Land Case In Supreme Court

Blair, Neb.—Another accretion land case, tried in district court, has been carried to the supreme court. The case concerns the ownership of 15 acres of land on an island in the Missouri river east of the village of Fort Calhoun, in Washington county. It was sold by Mrs. Emma Sillik to Chris Siert, she giving him a quit claim deed.

Arthur Wakefield, who owns land on the Nebraska side, claims the land saying that it is accretion land and a part of his farm.

Other residents of the island, which contains 3,000 acres, are much interested in the decision, since none of the land has ever been patented and they have only the right of possession, or "squatters rights," as one man calls it.

The island, which is said to have been formed on a sand bar in the river, has been occupied since 1912.

Nebraska legislature adjourned without passing an appropriation bill, or much of constructive legislation. Its failure to enact expected legislation might be explained and even beneficial from the viewpoint of those who believe we have a surplus of laws now, but adjournment without passing an appropriation bill is inexcusable.

The recent session cost the taxpayers of Nebraska approximately $185,000 and the special session now necessary will add another $16,000 to $20,000 to the bill. Naturally the taxpayer is justified in asking who is to blame for the long session and failure to do the one specific job which the constitution directs must be done. The answer is—politicians and politicians.

At the start of the session the governor showed a short-sighted policy in recommending a budget which failed to provide funds for necessary functions of the state. This was in keeping with some impossible campaign promises for tax reduction which the governor probably knew were not sound, but which nevertheless would enable him to capitalize on the effort to force them across, though he expected the legislature would override him. His recommendations would be decidedly detrimental to the welfare of Nebraska. Had his budget gone through the result would have been a severe economic loss to the state which succeeding legislatures would have to remedy through increased appropriations. That is usually what happens when politics becomes

Cartoon Kid Is Picture Feature

A magic name is that of "Jack" in the cartoon, "Skippy." Paraphrasing the "Kiddie" cartoon of Peter Crosby beloved cartoon kid, which will be the Gay theatre's big attraction, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 24, 25 and 26. The part of Skippy is played by Jackie Cooper, six-year-old town head.

Soapy is played by Robert Coogan, whose older brother Jackie Coogan became the screen's leading child actor through "The Kid," made when he was of the same age that Robert now is.

Jackie Seal, of "Tom Sawyer" and "Ann and Hattie" fame, is seen as the boy next door to Skippy's house.

Jack Clifford, adult screen actor, is the dog catcher, the "deedle-dyed" villain in the lives of the juvenile characters.

Premier of Latvia Schooled in State

On the walls of the office of the premier in the capitol at Riga, Latvia, hangs a banner that seems to be out of place with its surroundings. It is a scarlet and gold emblem of the University of Nebraska and it is the key to the story of a man's life as absorbing in human interest as any tale concocted by the most imaginative fiction writer.

In 1909 Karl Ullman received the degree of bachelor of science from the Nebraska school of agriculture. He arrived in Nebraska some time before and applied to the school for assistance while he worked his way through. He was reticent about his background. But intimate friends learned that he had been a teacher in western Russia, and later edited a newspaper. When some of his editorial opinions ran counter to the nationalistic views he fled the country, wandered in Europe and at last came to America. On finishing his course at Lincoln he took a job with a dairy. A year later he went to Texas to engage in cheese making with money borrowed from two of his former instructors. After a year he dropped from sight and his two creditors decided they had made an unfortunate investment in humanity. But one day a few years ago one of them received an official-looking letter signed Karlis Ullmanis, and conveying the astonishing statement: "I am now president of Latvia." Latvia is a new republic that came into being in 1918 when as a result of the World war it threw off the Russian yoke and became an independent nation. The young man, exiled from his country, had returned with new visions, new purpose and new ideas to lead the peasant's party, and become the first president.

Ullmanis is now premier. He long ago repaid his borrowed money. He has more than justified the faith of his Nebraska backers by introducing modern dairy and agriculture methods in Latvia, building roads like he found in the United States and bestowing to his own people the fruit of his own varied and profitable experience.

Stanton Plans To Construct School

Stanton, Neb.: Following the raising of the old building by members of the congregation, work will be pushed rapidly on the new parochial school building belonging to St. John Lutheran church.

Fifty or more men of the church completed the job of tearing down the old building in one day, and the following morning started work on the excavation, most of that work being completed by evening.

The new school building is to be 30 by 60 by 12, with a 14 by 14 entrance and a full basement. The ground floor will consist of two school rooms, moderately equipped and lighted. The heating plant, a kitchen and an assembly hall, which will seat 200 people, and social and business session will occupy the basement. The building will be completed by fall.

The farmer is not unemployed. Just unpaid, that's all. An Arizona Producer.

The president didn't address the D. A. R. convention this year. One more arms limitation treaty, and he'll go on the black list. Virginia Pilot.

Home Tried Recipes

- Pineapple Dressing
(Mrs. Harold Smalley, Wayne)
1 cup pineapple juice
1 heaping tablespoon flour
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
Pinch salt
Beat the whites and the yolks of the eggs separately and mix with the flour, sugar and salt. Add to the heated pineapple juice, chill, combine with whipped cream, and serve over fruit salads.
- Creamed Ham
1 cup sliced white sauce
3-4 cup mushrooms
1 tablespoon pimento strips
Paprika
Celery salt
2 tablespoons green pepper
1 egg yolk
Add the diced ham, mushrooms which have been cooked in butter, the pimento strips, the minced green pepper, and the seasonings to the cream sauce. Heat well and just before serving stir in the lightly beaten egg yolk.
- "Orange Drop" Cookies
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
4 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cream together the grated orange rind, butter and sugar. Add the well-beaten eggs and the orange juice, and the sifted dry ingredients. Drop the batter by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet and bake about 10 minutes in a moderately hot oven.
- Stuffed Meat Patties
(Mrs. Henry Kay, Wayne)
3-4 pound beef
1-4 pound pork
1 egg
Seasonings of pepper and salt
Mix the meat, egg and seasonings and flatten into patties. Fill each patty with a dressing made of bread crumbs, onion, pepper and salt and one egg. Sage should be used for seasoning. Flatten out the patties, fill with dressing, and fold the meat over. Roll in flour and fry slowly.
- Vegetable Salad
(Mrs. Henry Kay, Wayne)
1 package lemon jello
2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup diced sweet pickles
1 cup diced celery
1 small can peas
- Meat Loaf
(Mrs. Cecil Gifford, Wayne)
1 pound hamburger
2 onions
1 can of kidney beans
1 can tomato soup
1 cup water
4 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
Slice the onions and fry them brown in butter. Form the hamburger into balls and fry brown in the butter and onions. Place a layer of kidney beans in the bottom of a baking dish, cover with a layer of the browned hamburger balls, alternating if desired. Over the layers pour the can of tomato soup and a cup of water, and bake. Make a whole meal in itself, and is very delicious.
- Supper Sandwiches
(Mrs. Cecil Gifford, Wayne)
For each sandwich take a slice of buttered rye bread, topped with a slice of corned beef, a slice of cream cheese, and a layer of cold, drained sauerkraut. Place another slice of buttered bread on top of the sandwich, skewer together and serve. These make excellent sandwiches to serve at the late supper.
- Snickerdoodle
(Mrs. I. H. Britell)
This is a Swedish cake and is good when served hot or cold.
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 1/2 cups flour, scant.
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup raisins or currants
Pinch of salt
Sift some sugar and cinnamon over top and bake about 40 minutes.

Advertising in the News.
Advertising in the early days was not what it is today. One of the more interesting advertisements found in the edition of the Herald for March 12, 1891 is the one run by the New York Press. If modern journalism believes in advertising, but fails to give itself a boost, such was not the case with the newspapers of 1891.

Says the Press of itself: "The Press, New York, the aggressive republican journal of the metropolitan district, a newspaper for the masses, founded December 1st, 1867, circulation over 100,000 copies daily. The Press is the organ of no factions, pulls no wires; has no noministic to avenge. The most remarkable newspaper success in New York, the Press is a national newspaper. Cheap news, vulgar sensations and trash find no place in the columns of the Press. The Press has the brightest editorial page in New York. It sparkles with points... and even more.

Danger.
Dangers seem to remain the same, generation after generation. Says the Herald in 1891: "The revolver still gets its work in every way, someone meeting death thereby. We do not see what they are manufactured for and believe that if a tax of about 95 cents on every dollar was instituted for the manufacture and sale thereof, less crime and casualty would occur, as they are of no practical benefit." What about Chicago?

Immigrant Arrive.
The arrival of new families in a pioneer community was an event, and the newspaper made a special note of it: "The following Welsh families with four carloads of immigrant goods, arrived yesterday, and will take up their residence in Garfield precinct, having purchased farms: Griffith Williams, William Jenkins, Mathias Jones, Owen Price, William Roberts and John Price (six families) the population of the county being increased fifteen. A number more will arrive next week."

Efficient modern young journalists, with their careful college training and their nice economy of words, know nothing at all about how to write obituaries, at least in the style of 1891. One in the edition of the Herald for March 5 of that year is really a masterpiece of elaborate eulogy: "Notwithstanding the multitudinous cares of an active business life, he found time to think of the wants of the needy and deserving, and one of the virtues by which he will be longest and lovingly remembered, was his generosity, and open handedness. The number of obligations due him cancelled without payment will never appear upon the open records. Impatient as he might be at any attempt to defraud him, intolerant as he was of all ruffianisms and extravagance, yet, when a misfortune overtook his debtors, they had nothing to fear from him.

Pensions in the Nineties.
"A. C. Van Horn informs us that he has been fortunate enough to secure a pension of $12 a month. A. C. Horn of Wayne was his agent." Carroll Tribune.

As a measure of charity, there is this small item: "Anton Jorgensen collected from the Dames of this county $25 for the relief of western sufferers."

Reducing Menus.
Dieting seems a very modern craze, but in the nineties, they dieted too. "In a very judicious dietetic outline for reducing obesity," says the newspaper, "from 10 to 20 drops of liquor potassae are given in a glass of water three times a day, and the food is largely composed of uncooked local fruits, lemons, oranges, succulent salad vegetables, acid wines, lean meats, white blooded fish, game and poultry, lemonade, buttermilk, tea and toast." Which, after all, sounds no stranger to us than will the lamb chop and pineapple combination to the youngsters of the next generation.

Early Days in Wayne County

(Taken from the Herald files for March 5 and 12, 1891.)
The spirit of migration had not died out in 1891, and the railroads knew it. The Herald carried during March of that year the following ad for the Oregon, Washington and Pacific coast railroad companies: "The constant demand of the traveling public to the far west for a comfortable and at the same time an economical mode of traveling, has led to the establishment of what is known as Pullman Colonist Sleepers."
"These cars are built on the same general plan as the regular first-class Pullman sleeper, the only difference being that they are not upholstered."

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate his charge his unequalled method in WAYNE Monday, June 1 AT THE STRATTON HOTEL From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says: "The 'Perfect Retention' should hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weighty lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or deflection from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncurable. Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Bring your children. According to statistics 95 percent recover by our method.

America's leading business concerns have bought 27,605 Chevrolets

STANDARD COUPE, $535

OLD GOLD SEDAN DELIVERY, $575

LIGHT DELIVERY PANEL TRUCK, $555

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum of service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so, when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. Come in and learn what these advantages are—what they mean in terms of style, comfort, safety, reliability and value.

Story of Old Cemetery at LaPorte Reveals Hardihood of Pioneers In Early Days of Building on Prairie

Mrs. W. A. Hunter Recites Dramatic Story of First Death in LaPorte.

Memorials Are Built

Beginnings of Community Are Full of Excitement and Romance as Retold.

A memorial to the pioneers is the little cemetery at LaPorte, where the settlers made their first burials and held their first funeral services. Even the land on which the cemetery is situated was not given until after the first death in the new community had occurred.

"We early settlers had not thought about ground for a cemetery," says Mrs. W. A. Hunter in talking over the early days in LaPorte community. "Our concern was building something new. We had to gather our household goods together, get a shelter built for ourselves and for our animals, and start planting crops. We were not thinking of death."

It was the Durins, to whom the first death had come, who gave land for burying. Death, like changes in the seasons, was inevitable, and the pioneers were matter of fact about it. They knew they must provide for death just as they were obliged to provide for life.

Nebraska's Corn May Be In Demand

According to estimates from 200 county agricultural agents and bankers in ten corn belt states, Nebraska should be in a most favorable position with regard to the marketing of corn and hogs. The ten states considered by the livestock bureau of a prominent meat packing company in making some interesting compilations are: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The May to September marketings this year, however, are expected to be less than last year in nine of the ten states, Nebraska being the only exception. The Cornhusker state is expected to market 1 percent more hogs during the period than last year, while the other nine will sell from 1 to 12 percent fewer hogs than a year ago.

Nebraska is the only one of the ten states which has more corn on its farms and more feed of all kinds for hogs than was on hand at this time last year. This state has 17 percent more corn on the farms and 14 percent more feed of all varieties now than it did at this time last year.

here is greatly desired. By next winter doles in various communities may be expected. Cleveland, O., already has adopted that method of caring for poverty stricken unemployed.

Storage and Acreage

Lincoln Journal: Since the first of the year nine large elevators at Kansas City have announced that contracts have been let to increase grain storage capacity, and one new elevator with a capacity of two and a half million bushels is under construction. Grain markets generally are increasing storage capacity. The increase at Kansas City for this season is sixteen millions, making the total about sixty-two millions. The new storage room will be ready for use before the season's grain rush reaches its height.

Not many years ago grain was forced to ocean shipment soon after threshing because of lack of storage. Orderly marketing was made difficult. It may soon be true that the storage capacity for food stuffs in this country will be sufficient to supply the world with subsistence between crops.

Whit Nebraska reduced its wheat acreage Kansas did not. The largest wheat harvest, acreage considered with one single exception, will soon be a major activity in that state. Kansas did not increase its acreage but the acreage abandoned because of weather and soil conditions is less by 12 percent than the five year average making a saving of acreage going into harvest of one and one-half million. Discussing this the Topeka Capital says:

"No doubt Kansas wheat growers would have been better off if the acreage sowed last fall had been 10 percent less. Nevertheless they will get a return from 1 1/2 million acres which ordinarily would have produced nothing."

Nebraska accepted the advice of the federal farm board and Kansas did not. At prospective prices for wheat Nebraskans, as the Capital notes, may be better off, although in this state the acreage abandoned is estimated at 1 percent less than in Kansas, or a total of 1.5 percent, amounting to 49,000 acres. The five year average of abandonment in Nebraska is 7.5 percent. The increase in storage capacity at the grain centers may not even take care of the yield from the saving on abandoned acreage.

Living Standards Will Clank

Omaha Daily Journal Clank: The American people are always ready to listen respectfully to anything that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon may say. He does not talk a great deal so that many of his financial hints are well remembered even after it is too late to profit by heeding his warnings. For this reason his views on our standard of living are at least interesting. In a recent address he said:

"That standard of living here in the United States must be preserved at all costs and certainly the present is no time to undertake to break down the standard of living to which we have become accustomed."

Secretary Mellon's suggestion will be accepted by the country with reservations. The standard of living is higher here than anywhere else but this high standard is the result of better conditions than can be found anywhere else and our high standards both in financial ability to live up to those standards. Naturally no one wants to abandon fine living standards but it begins to look as if many would have to, not as a choice but of necessity.

Take the farmers, for instance. They have seen their revenues steadily decreasing for several years despite their best efforts. It does not stand to reason that they can now live as well as they used to and when they are forced to economize every other industry is affected more or less. Farmers are not the only people who will be compelled to practice economy and cut out a lot of the frills that go with our modern mode of living.

Farmers are doing a lot of thinking. Now that the bubble of inflated prices of farm products has burst there is an insistent demand for reduced prices on the part of the farmer has to buy. "It means," says the Lincoln Journal, "that there must be a reduced cost of production for manufacturing concerns. Follow through it means fewer high salaries for managers, wage reductions for the workers at the equal to the saving now possible living costs, reduced overhead, a greater demand for what the farmer offers the market."

"There is where the two schools of thought clash. Advocates maintaining present wage scales hold that to reduce wages this time would merely reduce purchasing power of the worker and bring about a reduced consumption on his part, because he could buy less, resulting in a lesser demand for what the farmer offers the market. Those who would reduce the cost of production argue that the farmer would buy more if prices were reduced, and he buys more a greater number of men would be put to work in the factories to produce what he demands. The greater number of men earning wages, even though at reduced rates, would increase consumption for articles produced on the farm."

One thing seems clear, we want it or not, there is going to be a radical re-adjustment of production and consumption in buying and selling, and there just as certain to be a considerable readjustment in our way of living.
