Most Of Precinct Reports Finished

Personal and Intangible Valuations All Show Big Decreases.

All but five reports have not been turned in by precinct assessors to County Assessor J. G. Bergt. Each so far shows considerable reduction in valuations. Sherman, Deer Creek, Hoskins, Wayne, and Hancock are the precincts not yet completed. Board of equalization meets June 9, 10 and 11 and all should be finished by that time.

Hunter precinct, reported by John Lutt, has personal property valuation this year of $337,235 as compared to $423,185 in 1930. The class A intangibles total $19,730 and last year they were $20,930. Class B intangibles are $1,618 and last year they were $4,380.

Plum Creek, listed by Frank Youngmeyer, has the highest valuation to date. The personal property totals $370,210 as compared with $544,430 last year. Class A intangibles are $93,190 and last year they were $112,055. Nothing is reported for class B intangibles this year, and last year this was $4,000. Garfield, assessed by M. I. Swinhart, has personal property valuation of $234,140. Last year it was $292,653. Intangibles are $8,700 and $3,470 this year as compared to $19,185 and $5,600 last year. William Pfitze reports personal property valuations of $265,425 in Chapin precinct this year. They were $308,030 last year. Class A intangibles are $14,990 as compared to $26,170 last year, and class B intangibles are $2,300 as compared to $3,600.

Heikes addition, assessed by F. O. Hilder in connection with Logan precinct, has personal property valuations of $5,850. Last year they were $6,335. Class A intangibles are $9,567 as compared to $10,000, and class B $9,850 compared to $13,815.

Hoover Sends Message Here

Commencement Address Is Given Here Friday by Dr. F. C. Smith.

Success Is Defined

Speaker Stresses New Formula for Profitable Conduct of Well-Filled Existence.

Congratulations and best wishes for the public school class of 1931, were sent by President Hoover secretary to Dean Winegar in reply to an announcement of the public school graduation which Dean had sent to the president early in the week. Dr. Frank C. Smith of the First Central Congregational church in Omaha, the speaker of the evening, read the presidential message at the beginning of the services.

"An Unfailing Formula for a Successful Life" was the subject which Dr. Smith chose, following an outline on the values of an education. "A formula, in a day of formulas," said Dr. Smith, "but one which will bring results if followed faithfully."

"Education," the speaker began, "should give the student knowledge of the physical universe, the history of the human race, the nature of the social structure and the nature of the individual. In short, education should make the individual at home in the universe, and able to make his contribution to progress."

Of some importance, also, is the technical aspect of an education, although Dr. Smith did not place so much emphasis on this phase, realizing that necessity forces the individual into learning his trade or his profession.

New ideas, changing concepts were, however, stressed by the speaker. He mentioned particularly the changes in the form of the modern system of education, using for an example the University of Chicago with its new rulings on requirements.

Tracing Race History. The individual who is to be able to feel his place in the scheme of things as a whole must know a great deal about the race, its past and present, he showed. Education of a cultural nature will show the pupil how the individual, in the history of the race, has yielded to the family, and how the family has given way to the clan. The clan, in its turn, gave way to the tribe, and the tribe was superseded by the petty kingdom. From petty kingdom to kingdom was the next step, and from kingdom to republic, with the democracy its highest form followed.

An interest in the whole world is necessary to the individual, the speaker maintained, but the individual must get the idea that his job is only a unit in the greater progress.

May takes a tip from the florist slogan. She says it with flowers.

There have been said a lot of things about the depression, but very little done about it, which seems to be the chief trouble. Everybody is waiting for the other fellow to do something.

A long hard winter is bound to be hard on the finish of the farm buildings. We're selling pure barn red paint right now at $1.15.

Down in Love's barber shop they're talking about the barber who sold a bald headed man a bottle of hair tonic, and then persuaded him to buy a comb and brush.

Youngster: "I wanna drink." Father: "So do I. Go to sleep."

Making any fence this spring? We have a large assortment of most all kinds, hog, chicken, stock and barbed wire as well, as all the latest styles in posts.

Henry Ford, having achieved quantity production of cars, should now try his hand at quantity production of parking space.

We think the roof Homer Scace put on the house he is building in the northeast part of town is worth looking at. The colors are a blend called Normandy Green.

Carl has been busy the past few weeks turning out special designs of lawn and garden trellises. Choose your pattern. We'll make it.

Just how soon it's going to rain again but it's on the way and right now is a good time to see us about fixing that roof.

Fly time is coming and if you are planning to keep them out of your house this summer now is the time to be fixing up those screens or ordering new ones. We make 'em to measure right here in our yard.

Put good buildings on a piece of land and it becomes a farm. Before it is improved it is just land.

his brother-in-law, W. S. Miller, until his death. In his business and home life he served others unselfishly and he will be remembered with highest esteem by the many who knew him. He was especially kind to elderly persons and children, and helped many in need. Mr. Strickland belonged to the Kiwanis club, whose members paid a silent tribute Monday to their highly respected associate. Mr. Strickland's interest in aviation began several years ago. He undertook learning to fly in April, 1929. In August, 1930, he bought his machine, which was a new two-passenger monoplane, and established his airport near Wayne. He had just finished 200 hours of flying and had been a licensed pilot for some time. The accident Sunday was the first trouble Mr. Strickland had experienced with his ship.

Rails and Waterways

Lincoln Journal: An item in the Morning Journal reported that Arthur J. Weaver, ex-governor, resident of Falls City and advocate of waterway development, will head a party of business men of that city who are to protest to President Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific against the removal of clerks from the Missouri Pacific headquarters there. This move would reduce the Falls City payroll $20,000 a year. The division superintendent had ordered the removal of these clerks to Kansas City headquarters, for "economic reasons." The railroads are hard put to make ends meet. They are fighting competition that comes from the highways, the waterways, the airways and from subterranean channels that carry fuel, once a big item of freight, from the gas fields direct to the furnaces of the consumers. It's a stiff fight they are making. Rail revenues are slipping, forces are being reduced, there have been reports of wages being cut here and there, and service has been cut, where possible, always over the protest of people the railroads would like to serve. Arthur Weaver is a pioneer in waterway development agitation. He has been at it for years. He would have the government put the rivers in condition to carry freight from the middle west to the seaboard. He makes an interesting showing of a saving to the producers and believes that prosperity of the Missouri valley, railroads included, is dependent on development of riverways. For this he has made an earnest fight. Developments of the future may be necessary to prove or disprove his contentions. The railroads have been trying to save money. Where they desire to cut services there is protest. Where they reduce forces there is protest. The suggestion of a wage reduction brings protest, not only from employees but from patrons and those who see in the continuation of present wage levels a better times ahead. It is protest, protest whenever a railroad undertakes to make a change for economical reasons. Because the railroads look with disfavor on the building up of a waterway competitor thru the use of taxpayers' money, President Baldwin may discuss waterways with Mr. Weaver, and because Nebraska's former governor believes river development will increase the volume of rail business he may desire to discuss waterways with Mr. Ballwin. They may wander far from the subject of the removal of twenty clerks from Missouri Pacific headquarters at Falls City before the parley ends. Wayne, and three sisters, Mrs. F. S. Morgan and Miss Nell Strickland of Wayne, and Mrs. G. C. Tillquist of Chicago. His father and another sister, Mrs. W. P. Canning, died within 18 months. Pallbearers at the service were L. B. McClure, D. H. Cunningham, Frank Wilson, Clarence Sorensen, Ralph Robertson of Oakland, and R. L. Larson. Among those here from a distance were the following: Mrs. G. C. Tillquist and baby of Chicago, J. E. Britton, Fred Britton, Glenn Britton and Charles Scree of Sanburn, Iowa, Ralph Robertson of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Funeral services for Wayne Putnam were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 in the Naper town hall, Rev. O. E. Richardson of the Methodist church of Butte having charge. Burial was in the Butte cemetery beside the body of a brother who died several years ago when the family lived in Butte. Fred A. Putnam and sons, Fred and Carlton, father and brothers of deceased, came to Wayne Sunday evening after hearing of the plane accident. The first named accompanied the body of his son to Naper Monday by train and the boys returned by car. Wayne H. Putnam, second youngest in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Putnam of Naper, was 21 years old in March. Besides his parents, he is survived by four brothers, Carlton, Fred, Gene and Ward, and two sisters, Dorothy and Mrs. Ruth Johnson. Earned Way Here. Deceased was finishing his second year at the college in Wayne.

The Poultry and Egg Item

The saying "A stitch in time saves nine" applies very well to the raising of chicks, as a proper brooder temperature, the house cleaned often and plenty of clean feed is a much more successful method of raising chicks than continually giving patent medicines to stop diseases.

Some people discontinue using their brooder stove after a few days of warm weather in this month but they usually learn too late that their chicks have piled up during the night and some have smothered while others have become chilled and are practically worthless.

If it is not possible to move the brooder house to clean ground you are apt to prevent your chicks from becoming infested with intestinal worms by plowing as much as possible around the house and sowing oats, wheat, or other small grain. A few sunflower seed planted now will also make useful shade for your chicks during the summer.

Egg production is very likely to become lower during this month and it is a good time to have those boarder hens culled and disposed of. Also the old roosters if you have not already done so. This is absolutely necessary to produce high quality eggs.

Memorial Observance NEXT Saturday comes the annual Memorial day when appropriate services will be held and the graves of departed soldiers will be decorated with floral tributes.

Other wars have come since the struggle in the early sixties, and they have left their dead and scarred. The Spanish-American war and the World War fired the nation to patriotic sacrifice.

The spirit of every Memorial day service will breathe a hope for peace—hope for settlement of all national and international disputes through arbitration.

STANDARDS

Maintaining high living standards which have steadily mounted during the last twenty years, is desirable as far as possible without creating obligations that cannot be paid or without resting on a foundation that is more than likely to collapse.

The high standard means less work and more play, more rich luxuries to enervate the individual and reduce his vitality, it will stand modifying.

GIRL SCOUT BETTY

"Snawki" snatched the injured swallow from the flight away his rescuer, for how could he know that Betty was a girl scout and consequently his friend?

"A Friend to Animals"

Under Betty's deft and kindly hand the little fluttering bird stayed quiet, while her Girl Scout class sat and bandaged his broken leg.

"A Friend to Animals"

Lert along, the swallow would soon be the prey of some hungry cat, so Betty turned a cage into a hospital and kept him supplied with food until he recuperated.

"A Friend to Animals"

When the broken leg was well again, Betty opened the cage. "Good-bye, swallow!" But he'll probably come back, for birds, too, learn to know their friends.

Christian Science

The subject of the lesson-sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, May 24, was "Soul and Body." The lesson sets forth that the Bible often refers to soul or spirit as God; that the popular sense of soul in the physical body is a belief in intelligent matter, and that the true spiritual sense of man are tributary to God alone and never contained in, or subordinate to matter. One of the citations read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 223) reads as follows: "Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in soul, in matter instead of in Spirit." One of the Biblical selections reads, "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit." Galatians 5:25.

Legion Auxiliary Funds Thank Public for Members Given on Saturday.
Poppy day receipts Saturday were $65.75 for Wayne, reports Mrs. Fontanelle Smith of the American Legion Auxiliary. Members of the organization took charge of the sales on the streets and of the canvassing in the residence districts in Wayne Saturday, giving the flowers in exchange for a small sum.
Last year, as in other years, the poppy day sale was aided with members of other organizations, boys and girls especially being delegated to take charge of some of the work. This year, however, the members decided to take care of the task themselves.
"We are more than pleased with the receipts this year," said Mrs. Smith in discussing the project. "For we felt that the depression might make some difference in the financial response. We wish to thank all the women who helped with the sales, and the people of who was enroute to Bloomfield to speak, accompanied the group and visited the chapter. Initiation and installation followed 1 o'clock luncheon at the Charles Randall home.

Woman's Club Luncheon.
Members of the Wayne Woman's club and guests, about 55 in all, met at Hotel Straton Friday. Three-course luncheon was served at 1 o'clock. A program followed. Dr. S. A. Lutgen addressed the group on "Public Health, Pioneering in Medicine and Surgery." He told of great scientists from the time of Moses to the present and showed what each had done to improve living conditions. He explained that smallpox and typhoid, so menacing in years gone by, were hardly known in the late World war. Pure food laws and better tenement houses Dr. Lutgen mentioned as good work which has been promoted by women. The speaker advised persons to take health examinations regularly.
J. E. Brittain who is compiling historical data about Wayne county for the jubilee celebration this summer, told the history of the court house, stating that ten men guaranteed to furnish the county Bess Gearhart Morrison of Lincoln, with a court house for a period of years if the county seat were located at Wayne instead of LaForte. The first structure, built on the site of the Beckenhauer funeral parlors, was destroyed by fire. A frame replaced it. Brown and Crawford agreed to give the county the present block for a court house if they would build within 20 years. Almost at the close of the period the county voted bonds and built the present structure.

Miss Mildred Moses and Miss Louise Rickabaugh sang; Miss Margaret Fenske and Franklin Phillips played piano selections; and Miss Marjorie Jo Theobald played a flute solo.
Mrs. Ellen Armstrong who has been unable to attend Woman's club meetings this winter on account of a broken ankle, was present Friday and walked without crutches.

War Is Biggest Tax Burden.

Neb. Farmer: The world is groaning under tax burdens traceable directly to war costs. Aside from employment given to men and industries connected with military enterprises, war expenditures are largely non-productive. A look at the military expenses of our own country and of the world leads to the inevitable conclusion that war is not worth while under any circumstances.

For instance, more than half of the Federal appropriations for the next year is chargeable to war expenses in the form of army, navy and other national defense costs, interest on war debts, pensions, soldier bonuses, veterans' hospitals, and so forth. This is not an expense for one year only, but has been a tremendous item since the recent world war, and will continue to be for years to come. It is far greater than any one other major activity of the Federal government. No doubt it is a prime factor in the world economic depression through which we are passing.

According to President Hoover in his recent address to the International Chamber of Commerce, the world now spends nearly five billion dollars annually on all arms, "an increase of nearly seventy percent over the amount spent previous to the recent world war. In the face of this staggering burden and the destruction of lives and property by wars, we cannot commend too highly the urge of our President to the business men of the world to fight for ways to settle wars by pacific means.

The first step is through effective reduction in armament by world powers. Said President Hoover: "The world expenditures on all arms is nearly $5,000,000,000 yearly, an increase of about 70 percent over that previous to the great war. We stand today with near 5,500,000 men actively under arms and 20,000,000 more in reserve. These vast forces, greatly exceeding those of the prewar period, still are to be demobilized... because of fear and of inability of nations to cooperate in mutual reductions."

"This vast armament continues not only a burden upon the economic recuperation of the world, but, of more consequence, the constant threats and fears which arise from it are a serious contribution to all forms of instability, whether social, political or economic. "International confidence cannot be built upon fear—it must be built upon good will. The whole history of the world is filled with chapter after chapter of the failure to secure peace through either competitive arms or intimidation."

Another general disarmament conference is to be held next February. No greater forward step for world progress and, friendly relationship between nations can be accomplished than in an effective agreement that will result in a material decrease in money spent throughout the world for war.

Hope for Export Trade

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Now that hog prices have dropped to comparatively low levels, the lowest in fully twenty years, there is strong hope of reviving our export business in lard and pork products.

European countries have been making strong efforts since the war to stimulate the production of hogs and have succeeded to such an extent that it has been increasingly difficult, since the import duties have been advanced, to find a market anywhere across the water for American meats.

The whole of Lincoln's life is paraded on the screen, from the time of his birth to his assassination at Ford's theatre in Washington just as he had realized a successful conclusion to the Civil war.

in all its multiplicity of strange moods. The artistry with which this feat in characterization is accomplished is largely due to the superb acting of Walter Huston.

Huston makes Lincoln a human being who loves and reacts to disappointments as any other man might. Through his interpretation Lincoln becomes one of the best drawn character portraits shown on the screen.

The cast, which numbers over one hundred principal speaking players, was chosen wisely. Una Merkel, a newcomer to the screen, plays the role of "Ann Rutledge," Lincoln's boyhood sweetheart.

Kay Hammond plays the irra-

Building the Bank

The Herald for July 31, 1891 carries several items concerning the construction of the First National bank. Among them are the following: "Yes," said Tom Steele the other day in answer to a question about the bank building, "yes, we are going to work of the building again. You see we have been getting the title to some ritual land perfected. There were forty heirs interested and we have it fixed with all but nineteen of them. When we get it fixed up with them the iron ore will be mined, if the miners don't strike, and the mills and foundries will go right to work on our order for the iron work. When it comes we'll go to work."

Another item records more progress: "One of the fine boxelder trees at the First National corner had to be cut down to give the iron room to work." "Prairie chickens are not ripe yet, but they are turning," states an item quoted from the Stanton Register for the period. Engage New Teachers. Labor Situation Better In State

Lincoln, Neb.—With an extensive highway construction program expected to be under way in the next 60 days, and the preparation of land for sugar beets and other general farm work, employment is expected to show a marked increase, a general survey of Nebraska issued by the United States department of labor revealed.

Automobile accessories, public utilities, wholesale grocers, and railroads reported substantial gains over March, the customary spring influx of transient labor is evident. Department stores, hotels and restaurants reported slightly better employment than in March. Male and female factory and clerical workers were in somewhat better demand.

The report also showed that while several hundred additional workers were given employment in Omaha by city departments, there still was a decided surplus of skilled and unskilled labor. A gradual improvement in general industrial conditions is looked forward to within the next 60 or 90 days. The buildings program still is insufficient to furnish employment to all available resident building trades men, and while some additional building is promised indications are that the resident supply will be adequate to meet the demands.

Normal forces are at work in most packing houses and little change is anticipated. Railroads added slightly to crews at work with expectations of further gains.

Plenty of Democrats are trying to take away Mr. Hasko's leadership, but still no one threatens to relieve him of the party debt.—Washington Post.

Memorial Day Plans Complete

Prof. O. R. Bowen Comes From Wayne to Speak at Park Saturday.

American Legion post Roy Reed, number 252, Winside, will celebrate Memorial day Saturday, May 30 with a program at the park at 9:30 in the morning. Prof. O. R. Bowen of Wayne State Teachers College will be the speaker of the day, and will be introduced by Attorney H. E. Siman. Music will be furnished by the Winside band, by the Ulrich-Strate quartet, and by Ollie Smith and Gene Boyd, who will sing. Rev. H. M. Hilpert will deliver the invocation and the benediction.

Legionnaires hope to make the day a fitting memorial to the soldier dead, and to pay special tribute to the one veteran of the Civil War, W. C. Lowry, who is 87 years old, and who has participated in the services each year.

Graves will be decorated at the cemetery and poppy wreaths will be made by women of the Legion Auxiliary for use Saturday.

Burning Film Is Fire Cause Here

Smoke from burning film overcame Art Erune late Sunday evening when trouble with the Brunada projecting machine, which he was operating, started a small blaze. Aside from slight burns on the fingers of one hand, he suffered no other injuries and soon recovered. Herbert Baune, who was assisting him, was uninjured.

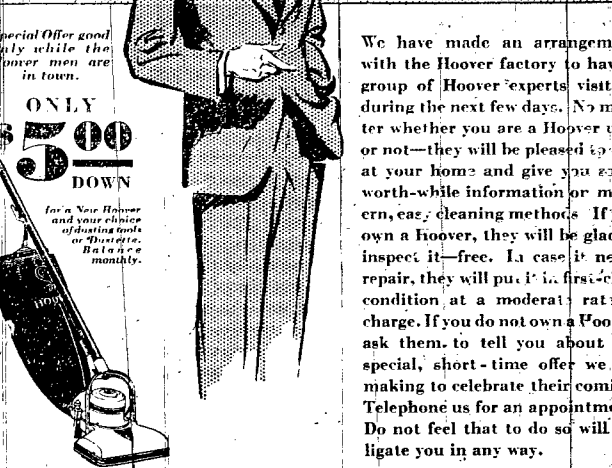

When the fire was discovered, during the last showing of the evening, the fire department was called, although the blaze was put out quickly with fire extinguishers.

Geneva Signal. Some months ago Charles S. Ryckman, editorial writer on the Fremont Tribune, published in that paper an editorial entitled, "The Gentleman from Nebraska," the reference being to Senator Norris. Recently the Pulitzer committee of New York, which annually makes awards for the best editorial, the best drama, the best news story and some best other things, best according to the judgment of the committee, announced that the best editorial award for 1930 had been given to Mr. Ryckman for his article about the Nebraska senator and his political ways.

Any heated article, which a political editorial is likely to be, is likely to be partly right and partly wrong. Partisans of Mr. Norris doubtless think the Ryckman description and comment all wrong, while the equally strong opponents of Mr. Norris are likely to agree that it is all right. The Signal has no intention to get heated about the matter, one way or another. Time enough to argue politics when there is a campaign in sight. The Signal is willing to give space to others still heated over last year's contest without itself getting heated.

The best editorial award carried with it each year a prize of $500 in cash. Mr. Ryckman has the money, also a dinner given him by citizens of Fremont, also much newspaper and magazine notoriety. The Pulitzer awards are eagerly sought and it is no trifling matter to win one, even if there is much disagreement as to the merit of any particular award, and there is usually a good deal of disagreement.

Mr. Norris' lacks a sense of humor or he would have laughed when he read the Ryckman article. The editor of the newspaper which he edits is willing to give space to criticism could make him angry. What could one expect his opponents to say about him? The sort of advertising Mr. Ryckman gave Mr. Norris has been of great profit to the senator for many years. Beyond some clever phrases, old wine in new bottles, there isn't much new in what Mr. Ryckman wrote.

1931 Beginners.
Lincoln Journal: Just now educators and newspaper and friends of graduates who are about to leave school to take their places in the world are, not stinting in advice given. It is easy to tell the young folks the results of experience and to give them the judgments formed by years of contact with the world in the struggle to wrestle from it the means of existence, and in the effort to acquire what each believes should be his share of this world's wealth. Much of the advice is good, is tendered in the hope that it will help the recipient, and some of it is received and duly weighed in a thankful spirit. Much of it, however, falls on bars attendant of other spurs. At the threshold of a career it has always been true. Ambitions and personal plans mean so much more than advice, no matter how good it may be, that advice is often ignored.

Graduating classes this year will step out into a world of business shrouded in gloom, beset by depression and unstable because of its own helplessness. In years of prosperity the arms of the professions and of industry are outstretched to the young people. Beckoning them on has had in too many instances the effect of exaggerating individual importance. It may not be so this year. Many who leave school must struggle to find employment. In the finding of that they may be compelled to accept much that they would, under other conditions, pass by. In such times almost any job should look good. It may be regarded as a mere makeshift, a convenient tiding over job that can be shunted aside when a better opportunity comes, but it answers a purpose now. The outlook is less cheery, because of conditions to graduate than it has been for a long time. Yet it may be made worth while to the stronger of the new workers turned away from the schools. Stress, adversity, difficult problems, lowly jobs, less than desirable situations in which individuals find themselves, are often turned to good use. Strength and solidity may be built and judgment matured, so that those schooled in difficult beginnings may become more securely fixed in the business world than those whose pathways have been less beset by danger and hardship.

Those who can leave school now and make their way to the top will deserve plaudits that those successful in better times might not be justly accorded.

McCormick-Deering Equipment

SPEED UP FARM WORK with McCORMICK-DEERING MACHINERY

THE McCORMICK-DEERING FARMALL and 4-row Farmall Cultivator in first cultivation cleans 35 to 50 acres a day — without horses. Cultivating without horses? Sure! Not only without horses but with twice as much speed. How? With a McCORMICK-Deering Farmall and Farmall Cultivator!

Make the most of the Bright days at haying time

Cut the Crop Quickly With a McCormick-Deering Mower

The McCormick-Deering High-Lift Mower will cut your crop quickly and do a clean job at haying time. You can make the most of the bright sun with this mower in your fields — there is no delay — the McCormick-Deering is the up-to-date, reliable, light-running mower.

McCormick-Deering Side Rake and Tedder

This two-in-one hay tool combines the best in a side delivery rake and a tedder. It forms a quick-curing windrow — turning the leaves inward to prevent shattering and the stems outward to get the quickest action from the sun and air.

McCormick-Deering Windrow Hay Loader

Loading is done speedily in windy weather with this hay loader. The adjustable carrier section is dropped to deliver the hay about three feet nearer the rack when starting the load.

McCormick-Deering Hay Stackers save much time and labor and reduce hay handling costs. They meet all requirements for stacking hay. McCormick-Deering Sweep Rakes are popular among hay growers.

what most people should do for themselves. In the case of the Nebraska legislature the extra session is not to bring prosperity but to do essential work for the well-being of the state that should have been done in regular session. In the case of congress the greatest benefit that could come to any class would be to the insurgent members who could continue to monopolize the front pages of the newspapers.

Unemployment in Hollywood. Omaha World-Herald: There is also an unemployment problem in Hollywood where the big picture factories are. It affects acutely that great body of nameless players who constitute Roman motes, villagers dancing about the May pole, people dining in restaurants, and who in other ways furnish background or atmosphere for a picture.

What Rogers might have been had he set out along the path that leads to an earned doctorate we cannot know, although we cannot believe that all the academic burrowing in the world could have taken the edge off his native wit. Most likely, we think, he would have been a scintillating star in the firmament of scholarship. As it is his charm lies in his perfect cadence. The reservoir of his wisdom is released not through the beautifully carved fountain in a garden of Versailles but through a crevice in the rock of the wild hillside.

In telling the colleges to save their degrees for those who earn them he again makes a hit, a very palpable hit.

What Rogers is a wit, deservedly celebrated. He occupies the unique position of court jester to the American people, having climbed there from cowhand by way of the vaudeville stage. He excites us to merriment, sometimes to thought. In his realm, an idea or an effect that he serves a purpose as excellent as that served by any bona fide actor of philosophy.

But the doctor's hood and gown would be for him an ill fitting garb. His natural liveliness is the cap and bells. With his usual clarity and candor he points out that difference to the college dons in pungent cowhand phraseology.
