

Good Outlook on Corn in Fall Harvest Although Small Grain Proves to Be Lighter Than Early Season Promised.

Wayne county farmers should have no reason to complain, states M. L. Taylor, whose work carries him into the country frequently. "Small grain crops were fair this summer, the alfalfa has been good, and the corn looks fine. No one can remember the corn looking any better at this season of the year than it does now. We have had plenty of rain, the color of the corn is good, and it has been growing fine."

With this opinion, a good many Wayne county farmers seem to agree. Frank Griffith, for instance, finds corn on his land in excellent condition, although rains will be needed soon to keep the crop up to its excellent beginnings. Over 100 acres of grain have been cut on the Griffith farm, and threshing will probably begin the last of this week. The yield is reported as lighter than usual, but "fair, considering weather conditions earlier in the season."

Alex Jeffrey found the early oats crop poor, and the late oats better this year; although both crops seem to have ripened about the same time, piling an unusual amount of work on the farmers. Hay is also ready for cutting, which makes the farm burden particularly heavy.

Walter J. Herman reports a light yield of oats which he attributes to the weather conditions of the growing season. He agrees that farmers in Wayne vicinity should not become alarmed over the few grasshoppers which might have made their appearance in the fields so far.

Early oats have been cut on the A. L. Ireland farm, but the men were still working in the 50 acre grain plot late Tuesday, preparing for threshing. The grain on the Ireland farm was also light this year. The condition of the corn, however, is pronounced as promising a fine crop if it gets sufficient rain and keeps free of various insect pests.

Albert Paulsen finished Wednesday cutting barley and oats on 55 acres of his land. Threshing will begin the last of the week, if possible. Grain is not considered as good as usual on the Paulsen land, although Mr. Paulsen says it had a good start. "We thought our small grain would make 40 bushels to the acre, early in the season," says Mrs. Paulsen, "but Mr. Paulsen says it is because of the hot winds that the crop is lighter than usual." Corn looks wonderful to the Paulsens, who are hoping that no devastation will ruin the excellent prospects.

G. W. Albert has 80 acres in oats this year, and producing what he describes as a "fair" yield. The grain will be threshed soon. Grasshoppers are noticeable, especially around the edges of the fields; although Mr. Albert believes that they did not wreak any real destruction in this vicinity. "If we get rain," believes the Alberts, "we will have a good corn crop." They add, however, that the corn is not in such desperate need of moisture at present as are the pastures and gardens, which have dried up very rapidly during the last week. Because of its long root systems, the corn is able to seek and get all the available ground moisture.

There is no grain on the Adolph Meyers place, but the corn is said to be in much better shape this summer than it was at this time last year. Prospects in the Meyers neighborhood are for an excellent crop of corn this fall.

Curtis Foote has just finished cutting grain on his farm south of Wayne, and he pronounces the yield as fairly good. A few grasshoppers have been noticed in the grain, although farmers everywhere expect to see a few of them during the harvest season, and have not felt alarmed. Corn south of Wayne is excellent.

WAYNE MERCHANTS GIVE ADVANTAGE AS WITNESS ADS

Wayne is gathering momentum as a trade center, and justification is found in the increased stocks and reduced prices as reflected in advertisements in this newspaper from week to week. Today's Herald contains a veritable feast of buying opportunities, and prudent buyers will study each advertisement carefully and thus serve economy as well as his personal satisfaction. Herald advertisers back up their invitations with clearly stated prices which will be found comparable with the lowest, in largest trade centers. On account of saving money or securing best qualities, there is no reason to go or send elsewhere. The convenience of coming to Wayne from a large surrounding area, with no advantage in journeying to remote points, is important and is so recognized more and more.

Bruse Pavilion Will Be Closed

Decision Given on Friday Here Will Be Carried To Supreme Court.

Schroeder Freed

Rulings of County Court Are Reversed by District Judge Clinton Chase.

OPERATING the Bruse pavilion at Hoskisks for public dances is prohibited for a year, according to ruling of District Judge Clinton Chase, of Stanton, in a session at Wayne Friday. The pavilion may be used for community meetings and for party and club dances in which personal invitations are issued. The case will be appealed to the supreme court with bond of $200 furnished.

Petition to close the pavilion was filed by the State of Nebraska upon the relation of A. W. Stephens, sheriff and citizen of Wayne county, against John Bruse following arrests on liquor charges a few weeks ago. County Attorney H. D. Addison appeared for the plaintiff and Hugh J. Boyle for the defense. Witnesses for the state were Erwin Strudthoff, A. W. Stephens, W. A. Stewart, S. J. Landberg, Frank Honheke, Alex Schwindt, H. Landberg, Alex Gaebler and Judge J. M. Cherry. Those who testified for the defense were Mr. and Mrs. John Bruse, Mr. Fletcher, Mrs. Ohlund, Frank W. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Behmer, Jasper Webb, William Voss, August Ziemer, George Drevsen, Arnold Pfel, Art Koller and Pete Brummels.

After hearing the evidence Judge Chase gave the following ruling: "Finding generally for the plaintiff and against the defendant. Defendant permanently enjoined from operating public dance hall either by himself, his agents, employees or lessees except with local invitations, party dances or club dances, for the period of one year." The case will be carried to the state high court.

Freed in Appeared Case. Ben Schroeder of Wisner, found guilty in county court June 15 on charges of transportation of liquor and of driving a car for transporting liquor, was freed in district court Friday. In county court Schroeder was assessed a fine of $100 on each count and a cost of $30.50. His car was declared a nuisance and was to be sold. Judge Chase "found defendant not guilty and his automobile was discharged."

Other Action Taken. In the case of Mabel Clark Wilhelm vs. Margaret E. Clark, suit on partition of the estate of Aaron B. Clark, motion to strike from plaintiff's petition paragraphs two and three was sustained. Paragraph two charges that the defendant knew deceased was the possessor of real estate valued at $500,000 before her marriage, to him and designed to secure this. Paragraph three charges that defendant knew Clark was elderly and promised marriage solely to secure property.

In the case of C. E. Carhart and A. B. Carhart of the Carhart Lumber company vs. Clyde A. Wilson, sale was confirmed and deeds ordered, also in cases of the city against Mary Frances Kemp, et al., and against Frank S. Morgan, et al. Remurrer was overruled and defendant given ten days to answer in the case of Carl Meyer vs. Herbert Robson, et al.

Funeral Is Friday

Deceased Had Been Very Active in Community Affairs for Number of Years.

MRS. James G. Miller, life-long resident of Wayne county, passed away in an Omaha hospital Tuesday evening, July 14, at 9:40, aged 52 years, 10 months and 2 days. Mrs. Miller went to Omaha Monday last week and on Wednesday underwent a major operation. Though her condition was serious several days, it was thought Tuesday afternoon that she was improving. Funeral services will be held Friday at 10:30 o'clock at the home in Wayne. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Miller, a woman of unusual ability, had been active in many phases of community life in Wayne. After being graduated from the Wayne high school deceased finished the music course at the Nebraska Normal college, developing her special talent in this line. Several years later she took a special pipe organ course in Chicago. Mrs. Miller had served as organist at the Presbyterian church for many years. She taught private music pupils and had given such instruction just a few days before going to the hospital. Mrs. Miller served as president of the Wayne Music association one year. She was at the time of her death a member of the city library board. Mrs. Miller was an active member of the Presbyterian church, Eastern Star lodge, P. E. O. and U. D. and Woman's clubs.

Tentative Plan For Dormitory

Dr. U. S. Conn of Local School Presents Arrangement To State Board.

Tentative arrangements for building another brick dormitory for girls, similar to Neihardt hall, at the Wayne State Teachers College, were presented by Dr. U. S. Conn to the state normal board at its meeting in Lincoln Monday. Plan of financing and tentative sketch will be considered further by the board at a special meeting August 10.

The plan is to construct a dormitory similar to Neihardt in style and size on the site of Kingsbury hall which was recently wrecked. The new structure would extend farther north and east than did the old building.

A new law allows the state board of school lands and funds to loan money for such construction. Neihardt hall was financed under a trust fund loan. It is thought the state loan may be secured at lower rate of interest.

Action on how the state normal schools will retrofit to keep expenditures within the five-percent cut in appropriations made by the legislature was deferred until the August meeting. Dr. Conn states that some eliminations will have to be made and probably departments least patronized will be reduced, especially in the summer. The school will continue its twelve weeks of summer work.

Crews Advance Work On Road

New Improvements Are Seen In Construction of Winside Road.

Work On Bridge

Large Bridge Will Have Floor of Concrete on Cressed Wood Structure Says Plan.

WITH the arrival of new equipment and extra help, work on Winside-Wayne highway is now progressing rapidly, and the road is passable for some miles if the driver proceeds with care. The first mile out of Winside is still very rough, as work on this portion of the road is to be finished last.

Beginning with the second mile, however, the road is graded up several feet, is nicely leveled, and has been straightened. Unnecessary curves in the road have been eliminated, and the stretch is as straight and as smooth as possible.

The old bridge which was formerly situated near the railroad crossing at the Frank Wilson place has been eliminated entirely, and the road has been straightened considerably. Beyond the Wilson place, going east, is a new bridge, which should be completed soon.

Work on Bridge

Construction of cressed wood with a floor of concrete, the new bridge will be 108 feet long. It will require at least another fortnight or more to finish work on the structure.

It is now necessary to detour around the bridge structure through the Wilson pasture. Beyond the bridge, the old curve in the road has been widened until it gives the effect of an almost straight stretch.

A new crew of workers is beginning on the last stretch of the highway. Equipped with modern dump carts, an up-to-date scooping machine, and other tools, a very small crew is able to remove dirt, grade down the hills, and grade up the hills in short order. When the road has been leveled, it will be ready for gravel, which will be applied by a special crew.

RAILROADS MUST COMPETE AND LET THE WORLD KNOW

C. St. P. M. & O. railway officials who have been holding meetings at northeast Nebraska points in the interest of the railway business, tarried in Wayne for a brief time Thursday. They are trying to warm sentiment and develop reason in behalf of service that is acknowledgedly important. Reasonably, they are asking that the same restrictions which they are surrounded, be extended to other modes of transportation. All know the railroads were indispensable in pushing back the frontier. All know their value behind past and present growth. But sentiment rules no more in the transportation business than in other lines of industry. Railroads must regain business on a known basis of service and price. They are trying to show advantages guaranteed by use of the railroads. They must follow with increased convenience and decreased rather than increased rates. They must remove inequalities on rates, avoiding bestowal of advantage on one point above another, and we understand they intend to do so. We have been informed that steps are to be taken to remove discriminations that have existed and still exist on some commodities. Railroads must meet competition, and they should have the same liberties of operation permitted for others. Sentiment is a fine thing and it should be influential in determining action, but it is often wrapped up and carefully laid aside when it is thought cost and convenience interfere.

Council Plans Water Work

Changes May Be Made in System Outgrown by Recent Demands.

Repair Standpipes

Consider Changing Commercial Rate on Light and Power—Refer to Committee.

BETTER water service discussed by members of the council in regular meeting at city hall Tuesday evening. Repair will be ordered for the standpipe which was erected 15 years ago with a one-year guarantee. The repairs include a new saucer-pipe with an extension on the riser, meet the flatter plate. It is by experts that the flatter saucer plate on the pipe will give a larger expansion surface, thus eliminating the leakage which is the result of faulty expansion.

Councilmen also agreed on estimate of $2,500 as the cost of a new pump to be installed in the city wells. It was agreed also, for a committee to decide specifications for such a pump, to advertise for bids on the same. Nine years ago this fall pumps were purchased. The water demands have grown tremendously in that length of time and new pumps have become necessary, in order to handle heavy demand for water in dry weather.

Life In Native Africa Fascinates Miss Laura Thompson Who Serves In Medical Missionary Station

Bridal Dowries Consist Of Horses, Cattle or Goats Among Native Tribes.

Describes Customs

Missionaries Care For Hundreds at Hospital in Compound at Medical Work Post.

"Snakes? Oh, yes, we have a few cobras, puff adders and small snakes, and there are scorpions, too, but they don't bother us nearly so much as they do at some of the stations," commented Miss Laura Thompson in describing her situation in the mission field at Shinyanga, Tanganyika Territory, Africa.

At the mission station, ten miles from the village, there are not so many wild animals, there is no real jungle, and only a heavy brush surrounds the buildings.

One hundred miles from the mission, for example, is Lake Victoria, whose lush tropical setting and the beauty of tropical visitors from all over the world.

Entertains Visitors. It is Africa's very mystery, its aloofness, its strangeness, that attract visitors to the continent.

Medical work is emphasized at the post, where are located a large maternity hospital, a leper post, an out-patient clinic, and the Jewel hospital.

To conduct the hospital work, there is a staff including one white doctor and two white nurses. Ten black nurses are also included, part of them graduates of the three-year training course, and part of them still in the course of training.

Particularly in the maternity work does this mission post seem to serve well. During the month of March, 153 babies were born in the wards, most of them to native women, but some of them to the wives of Indian traders.

"At first it was hard to make contacts with these people," Miss Thompson admits, "but there has been a post here for 48 years, and the people are beginning to respond very well now."

Newly Married Farmer Suicides

Osmond, Neb., July 10—Married only a few months and with no apparent reason for the act, Ben Tannenber, about 30, a farmer living four miles north and two miles west of this town, committed suicide Thursday by hanging. His body was found in the barn by his wife.

Tannenber left his farm home early Thursday morning, telling his wife that he was going out to the field to harvest. When he didn't return she became worried and early in the evening found his body hanging in a barn as she went about her chores.

An investigation was begun immediately but no motive was found, it was said. Tannenber was married late this spring, was enjoying good health and had no financial troubles so far as known.

Enters Ames To Take Electrical Course

Henry F. Gulliver plans to study electrical engineering at Ames, Iowa, the coming year. He and his wife and daughter will move to Ames about July 25 and Mr. Gulliver will accept a position in the radio department of a hardware store. He will begin his course at the college at the holidays.

Nebraska Corn Prospects Good

Lincoln, July 9—Cooler weather and moderate rains in eastern and central portions of Nebraska during the seven-day period ending July 8 were beneficial, especially in some central counties where lack of moisture was becoming serious, the weekly summary of weather and crop conditions said today.

Hundreds of patients are reached in the out-patient clinic. Teach Many Students. In order to further the work, school sessions are conducted at the post morning and afternoon. In the morning between 30 and 40 younger children are taught, and in the afternoon the group includes about 80 adults and older children.

The missionaries live in a compound about 10 miles from the native village. In the village are about 20 white persons, attaches of the government post. This section of Africa is under a British mandate, having been transferred since the war from the control of Germany.

Leave Old Customs. "The blacks are leaving their old customs quite readily, and adopting the new ideas," Miss Thompson reports.

She describes the natives in this section of Africa as belonging to the Banyamwezi tribe, a particularly clean and intelligent race. The natives live in small round huts built of sticks and mud and thatched with grass.

The Africans usually sleep on mats for skins, or sometimes on beds made of crude frames laced with rope.

Utensils used by the natives are made of clay which is baked in the sun to make it hard. Hoes and axes were formerly made in the villages, but, since the advent of the traders, such articles have been purchased.

Describes Marriage. A native African marriage, as described by Miss Thompson places the value of the bride at so many cattle or so many hoes! Strange as such an evaluation sounds to young women whose value is estimated in social grades, ability to wear smart clothes, and the number of years she has spent at a good school, it has its practical points in Africa.

The prospective fiance in Africa goes to the bride's father, making an agreement which is later submitted to the bride herself. When all arrangements have been made, and the dowry of 10 to 15 cattle, 3 or 4 goats, or a dozen hoes has been settled, a feast is enjoyed. After the acceptance of the dowry, another feast is held, and detailed ceremonies are consummated.

The hoes are important, for each native has his own small garden where he raises the necessities of life. Cultivation is accomplished with hoes, as the plots are small, and a crowd of natives can easily accomplish all that is necessary.

"Although the government has established good government roads, and there are some automobiles in the Territory, we get around on bicycles mostly," Miss Thompson explains. Particularly during the winter rainy season the roads are not very good, and bicycle travel seems to be the easiest.

Miss Thompson is making her first visit to the states in the five years she has been stationed in Africa. This furlough will permit her to remain for about a year, at the end of which time she will return to the field which she finds so interesting.

Nebraskans Like State Club Work

Lincoln: There are more Nebraska boys and girls enrolled in 4-H club work this year than ever before, according to L. I. Frisbie, state club leader. The 1931 enrollment goal was exceeded in June. There are 17,731 projects being carried which means there are nearly 15,000 club members in the state, Frisbie explains. The state club leader expressed himself as being pleased with the enrollment which breaks all-time records for Nebraska. Later reports from county extension agents over the state may make the total enrollment larger. The initial goal was set at 14,500 members and 16,000 projects.

Twenty-eight counties in the state have equalled or exceeded their 1931 goals. Several other counties are close to their goals and will probably exceed them by the middle of the month. Of the total enrolled, 16,024 projects are being carried in agent counties while the remaining projects are carried in non-agent counties.

Counties which have exceeded their goals as set last spring include Boone, Buffalo, Burt, Cass, Cedar, Cheyenne, Cuming, Dakota, Dawes, Dodge, Fillmore, Franklin, Frontier, Gage, Hamilton, Harlan, Holt, Johnson, Lancaster, Lincoln, Nuckolls, Otoe, Polk, Saunders, Scotts Bluff, Seward, Thayer and Washington.

Clothing has again proven to be the most popular project. Records show that 5,401 projects are being carried in the clothing enterprise. Cooking is second and wine third. Baby beef work shows an increase over 1929.

FORTY YEARS AGO.

Omaha World-Herald: It is forty years a long time or isn't it? The question is suggested by the death a few days ago of "Marsh" Elder, speaker of the Nebraska house of representatives in the celebrated populist legislature of 1891 and a participant in some of the most turbulent times of Nebraska's history.

To the present generation of Nebraskans it seems a long, long time ago that armed militiamen trod the corridors of their state house and stood guard with fixed bayonets before the door of a governor who refused to surrender the office to his successor, since the supreme court by judicial decision ordered a legislature to canvass the election returns and got away with it. The election had given the populists the legislature, and the democrats the governorship and the republicans most of the minor state offices together with the supreme court, elected the year before. The result was political hell popping every five minutes.

Some of the political giants of that day whose names are now but memories were J. Sterling Mott, then a foe of Grover Cleveland but later to become his secretary of agriculture, James E. Boyd, Dr. George E. Miller, John M. Thayer, Church Howe, George D. Meiklejohn, C. H. Van Wyck, John H. Power, William V. Allen, Chas. F. Manderson, Algernon S. Packard, Lorenzo Crouse, Euclid Martineau. The list could be stretched on and on. But there were some of the fighting figures of forty years ago who, if they are not still going strong, at least refuse to be laid on the shelf. Tom Majors, at the age of 90, president of the state normal board and dubbed "the grand old man of Nebraska," is lieutenant-governor that year; L. D. Richards of Fremont who heads the new republican club designed to elevate principle above personality was the unsuccessful republican candidate for governor. He ran third in that three-cornered race, but has outlived his rivals by many years.

There were young men in that day just getting a foothold in politics. One of them was a Lincoln lawyer named W. J. Bryan. His magnetic personality had just won him election to congress. It was that year that his younger brother, Charley, decided to come out and try his fortune in Nebraska too. Another young lawyer at Lincoln, regular but inclined toward liberalism, was getting some attention from republican leaders. His name was Charles C. Dawes. Out in Red Willow county George W. Norris was just getting a political start in the prosecuting attorney's office. Ashton C. Shallenberger and John H. Morehead were too busy establishing themselves in business to figure much in politics. Arthur Weaver, Adam McMullen and Sam McKelvie were still schoolboys.

Forty years—not so long ago, if you are old enough and your memory is good. But what a pace Nebraska and America and the world have gone since then. There was still unorganized territory in Nebraska forty years ago. There were no flying machines; no autos, no radio, no moving pictures, no farm telephones, no surfaced highways, precious little if any electric illumination. The veterans of the civil war were already being called "old soldiers" and yet the Spanish-American war was still several years in the future.

Comes From Illinois.

Eugene Dreher of Peoria, Ill., came last week on Wednesday for a visit in the Mrs. Catherine Weiland home, where he remained until Thursday when he went to Windsor for a visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Gabler. He returned to Peoria Saturday with Alex and John Gabler, and was Saturday a supper guest in the A. H. Brinkman home. Sunday he visited at the W. L. Weiland home, and also at the Phillip Greenwald home and the Louis Greenwald home in Wisner. Sunday evening he returned to the Weiland home, leaving Tuesday for Omaha by way of Wisner.

Langenburgs Have Anniversary Day

Hoskins Couple Celebrate Fifty Wedded Years At Home Farm.

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Langenburg, Hoskins, went to the farm where they spent most of the half century, and enjoyed a family reunion July 3. The old farm is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Langenburg, youngest son of the honored couple.

Members of the family gathered at the farm in the afternoon, and a wedding dinner was served at a long table, decorated with a large wedding cake, frosted in white and decorated in gold. Flowers were also used on the table. Following dinner, the Rev. A. Dumin gave a short talk, and there was an informal program of music by members of the family. Ice cream and cake were served at the close of the evening.

Present at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. William Langenburg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Langenburg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langenburg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Langenburg and son, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Phipps and family, Mrs. Herman Langenburg and Mrs. Fred Sonnenberg of Lincoln, Paul Sonnenberg of Kansas City, and Rev. and Mrs. A. Dumin and two sons, and Lena and Louise Langenburg.

Came Here Early. Mr. and Mrs. Langenburg were both born in Germany. Mr. Langenburg coming to this country at the age of 17, and Mrs. Langenburg coming here when she was 16.

They tell the story of their wedding day, July 3, 1881, when they went to the Fuhrman school house in Stanton county, where they were married by the Rev. Huelhoff of Yutan. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Puls, now deceased, entertained the bridal couple after the ceremony.

"There was no church of our denomination in the country-side in those days," relate Mr. and Mrs. Langenburg, "so we had to go to the school house to be married."

And of the hospitality of the Puls family, Mr. Langenburg says, kindly, "In those days we were all poor, and we were all friends."

The Langenburgs lived on the George Langenburg land for many years. It was to this farm that they went home after the wedding, and it was here that their children were born and reared. Four years ago the Langenburgs came to live in their modern home in Hoskins.

First Estimates On College Hill Were Kept Low

When, in 1891, a building was to be constructed for the college on the hill, the business men of the town, and some of the women, too, gathered at the opera house to have a meeting concerning plans for the future. The Herald for September 24, 1891, carried an account of the dealings of those present, and reports that it was decided to sell the entire 600 lots rather than the 500 first to be sold. The women who were appointed as a committee to sell the lots were Mrs. H. Ley, Mrs. A. L. Tucker, Mrs. P. L. Miller, Mrs. A. J. Ferguson, Mrs. H. F. Wilson and Mrs. Frank Fuller.

Says the early paper: "It was shown by the executive committee that about 500 lots had been sold and nearly $16,000 collected. The sale of 600 lots will swell the sum to $21,000, which will completely equip the college and place it on a solid foundation at the beginning, besides constructing a larger building than first intended."

In the same edition was placed the following advertisement: Wanted: Architects to submit elevation plans for Normal College building of basement, to cost ten thousand dollars; subject to action of board of trustees. E. F. Olmsted, B. F. Swan and A. L. Tucker, committee.

They seem like strange beginnings for the structures that crown the hill above Wayne today.

Markets and Tariffs.

Lincoln Journal: Walter Lippman says that the one most certain fact in our economic existence is that the margin between prosperity and depression is in the area of our foreign trade. The present crisis has demonstrated that Mr. Lippman is merely telling us what everybody has figured out long ago, although he puts it concisely and understandingly. For a long time we have been studying statistics concerning foreign trade, going over the needs and ability to buy of other nations and have found that both needs and ability to buy have decreased. We would have known something was wrong from the fact that prices of what we have to offer the world have been going down for a long time. To be sure there has been some decrease in the home demand but that reflects largely the falling off in foreign requirements.

During and after the war this country went into the world markets and found eager buyers. It was easy to sell when this country only could supply what the world wanted. Prices went up and a new and higher standard of living was set, not only for the producer but also for the dealer in what the producer has to sell. So long as the world market was growing this country was sitting on top of the world. When the world market began to decline in demand we began sliding rapidly down the peak on which we had perched. Mr. Lippman may have touched a minor sore spot in placing the blame entirely on the tariff, but he minimizes the facts that the postwar readjustments are yet in process and that the depression has been world wide and really did not start here.

Right now any reduction in tariffs would be slow to affect foreign demands. Foreign nations lack the capacity to buy and that affects foreign markets. Falling off of exports lessens the amount of labor employed in manufacturing and the production of raw materials at home. Revision of the tariff can well be undertaken, if undertaken by a scientific, fact finding body, but a political machine like congress will not make a perfect tariff law, be it republican or democratic. Right now any change made would have little effect on prosperity the country over.

Important Publicity

TOUCHING the importance of due publicity in all affairs of general interest, we have the following contribution from Lincoln which is worth consideration:

"Precinct assessors have completed their rounds and made the best guess they can on the amount of taxable property in their bailiwicks. Schedules are now filed away in the court houses where no one will pay much attention to them except county assessors, although it is a matter of common knowledge that many inequalities exist, and a vast amount of property escapes taxation. The reason this is true is because of the difficulty of going through schedules and digging out information. If footings of schedules were published annually, where all can see, results would be immediately apparent. Property owners would be more careful about listing, and if someone did become careless it is quite likely some of his neighbors would call attention to the omission. One of the surest ways to reduce the tax rate is by making sure that all property is listed for taxation. Publication of the findings of assessors is one of the most certain means of getting all property.

"In a letter to the president of the National Editorial Association Governor Roosevelt of New York, regrets the fact that the general public is so poorly informed about governmental affairs. Then he went on to say that the country newspapers provide the best and most practical means for supplying such information. He is right in all his conclusions. He might have carried his statement further by saying that the chief obstacle in the way of supplying information is public officials. When the legislature is approached on the subject it gives more consideration to the cost of supplying the service than to benefits that will result. If it should appear to be favorably disposed there are public officials, men who spend very substantial sums of public money, who can be depended upon to oppose strenuously every effort to inform the public about their doings. Cases are reported where certain boards hold meetings in secret in order to avoid publication of news stories about proceedings, for which no charge is made. Other cases can be named where certain boards refuse pointblank to comply with laws requiring publication of proceedings, and financial statements. Such opposition, or refusal, is always done in the sacred name of economy. But what better means of economy can be found than letting the people know what is going on? If expenditures are wise and prudent the public mind will be satisfied. If unwise, public reaction will effect real economy by its protest. Secrecy breeds suspicion and distrust. Instead of opposing publicity every capable official should insist upon having it."

Extremes In Belief

EXTREMES in religion confuse the mind and obstruct spiritual growth. We have just read the report of a Nebraska evangelist who contends that the devil is a real personality and that he has a powerfully organized system of evil which he carries on ruthlessly everywhere. That many evils exist, there is no question, but that they are directed and aggravated by a personal satan is so untenable and inconceivable that the assumption often prevents acceptance of really important truths. To press a position that utterly contradicts reason hurts the whole religious fabric. Analysis that casts aside some foolish notion is likely to include religious essentials. The evangelist's assertion that in due time satan would be bound and cast into a bottomless pit where he would be kept for a thousand years—doubtless on short rations and evidently never touching shore—would be satisfactory, but it is so foolish that it discredits the pious man's entire line of thinking.

On the other hand, the Russians who were compelled to swallow the religious bigotry of the former czar, were, with the upsetting of the old system, swept to the contrary extreme—disbelief in immortality and antagonism to every spiritual consideration. They had been forced to accept tenets in conflict with reason, and, liberated, they flung themselves to the other equally hurtful extreme.

The masses are thinking more and more, and religious leadership must be clearly reasonable to be convincing and influential. Nothing is so important as spiritual development, and no organization is more important to civilization than the church which radiates highest spiritual truths untrammelled by material trappings or impossible dogmas.

Calamity In 1893

THE Omaha Journal-Stockman emphasizes the false belief held by many that the prevailing depression is worse than any experienced in the past. Every sweep of ill fortune seems without parallel. The Journal-Stockman calls attention to the general paralysis in 1893 and quotes the following from a calamity speech given by Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois in September of that year:

"We are at present in the midst of a great industrial and commercial depression.

Industry is nearly at a standstill all over the earth. The consumptive power, or rather the purchasing power of the world has been interfered with, producing not only a stoppage of production but preventing the proper distribution of what there is already created; so that we have the anomalous spectacle of abundant food products on the one hand and hungry men without bread on the other; abundant fabrics on the one hand and industrious frugal men going half clad on the other. Employer and employe are affected alike."

The Chief Executive

THE president of the United States needs giant endurance and nerve force to stand up under the weight of multiplying and changing responsibilities. To him causes for relief in this country and in every country are appealed. To his administration is charged every disorder or calamity—the error of man or the distemper of nature—and if he were not possessed of an iron constitution and powerful resistance he would fall before the incessant fire from every direction.

If the president's remedy for any trouble proves effectual, he is acclaimed an illustrious leader. If his remedy fails to cure conditions which no human agency could correct, he is made the object of ugly criticism, and those who understand least, or those who have selfish partisanship to serve, are the loudest and strongest in criticism. The president has a tough job at best, and a most terrible job when the whole world is awry.

The Christian Science Monitor says the suggestion of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, that the president ought to follow his proposition for a debt holiday with correction of the tariff "is a perfectly obvious political maneuver." The Monitor points out that the tariff commission is authorized to make any needed changes in the law, but that the body which is a newly installed organization, must move cautiously and slowly, to avoid serious mistakes. It is better for a commission to make changes in the tariff than turn the involved subject over to congress whose members are too often governed more by partisan prejudice than by profound and impartial judgment of which latter they have as a rule very little to exercise. The Monitor says nobody desirous of seeing prosperity restored will advocate giving the tariff into the hands of congress.

Dangers lurk in the bridge game, and people should look out for it. It tends to knock out regularly, doing violence to the natural order. Not long ago a wife shot her husband as the result of a bridge game. Now comes a report from Pomona, Calif., stating that two men have exchanged wives following a series of bridge games. Divorces were secured and remarriages took place. Whether the two best and two poorest players matched in the new matrimonial venture is not stated. Children belonging to each couple probably were not consulted, and how they fared in the bargain is not made known.

The opening of prison doors on Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in President Harding's cabinet, is a grim warning to others who might misplace confidence and yield to felonies while in the public service. Fall seems not to have been big enough to resist temptation, and only big, courageous men should be trusted with responsibilities of office.

Electricity and the automobile promise electrical service in ridding the country of grasshoppers. An electrically equipped contraption is proving successful in gathering and destroying the hoppers. Wayne county is not within the afflicted area so far, but the pest is not far away and farmers should be on the alert to defend their crops if necessary.

Dr. A. L. Bixby, Lincoln Journal's poet-philosopher, has discovered that too many people have the "mulligrubs" and that they ought to declare a moratorium—ought to outlaw them for a year as a help in the restoration of confidence. Dr. Bixby concludes: "The trouble is we are waiting for the piffing politicians to do what we must do for ourselves."

The Omaha World-Herald calls attention to the disturbing position of Sir Arthur Keith, British anthropologist, who defends war as a necessary institution. In harmony with his idea, we would suggest that Sir Arthur be given conspicuous and responsible leadership in the first line trenches of the next war if his advice to have one is accepted.

The weather furnaces have been steamed up again this week, and developed a variety that is too hot for comfort, but doubtless about right for growing corn. Moisture has been threatened, but up to this time has failed to materialize. Showers may reasonably be expected to come in time to head off damage.

How much money could an individual possess to escape suspicion as a nut? The bearer of $52,000 in cash was taken before the authorities in Omaha recently and adjudged insane. It is so popular and in such good taste to have no money that it seems if the rule is varied much a fellow is likely to land in the bughouse.

Association with youth yields inspiration that postpones the decrepitude of old age. But the elderly individual must retain interest in affairs of youth, imbibing the ideas of youth, to make association bearable and mutually helpful.

ENCOURAGING.

Low levels reached in wages and commodity prices since the 1929 crash, with stimulation of stock markets following the Hoover moratorium proposal, lead Charles F. Speare, commercial expert, to view the future with optimism. Mr. Speare points out that securities have contracted between 60 and 65 per cent since 1929, eliminating largely fictitious values amounting at least to $45,000,000,000. Commodity prices have declined 27 per cent. More than 2,000 banking institutions have failed, and nearly 40,000 commercial insolvencies have occurred. Railroad earnings have decreased 35 per cent. From September, 1929, to January, 1930, factory pay rolls fell nearly 40 per cent. Mr. Speare thinks the worst is over, and like many other business economists, he sees clearly defined signs of improvement. With reduced prices for manufactured goods maintained, farming communities, rewarded with abundant crops, will do better, despite the low markets, than they were able to do in some periods of the past when prices for farm products and those for manufactured goods were altogether out of proportion. And if industries absorb more of the unemployed, the demand for farm products will be strengthened and naturally prices will be improved. Many indications give reason for encouragement.

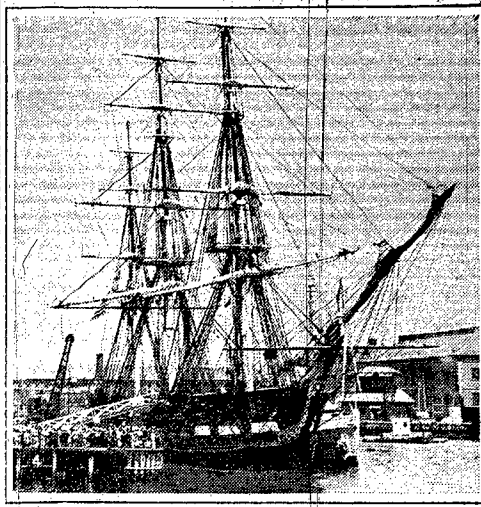

The railroad brotherhoods have refused to join with the bus drivers. About the only place they seem to get together is at the crossings.—Judge.

Considering that within two years the stock market has suffered from delusions of grandeur, nervous prostration, spotty fever, chills and fallen arches, the poor thing is doing quite as well as could be expected.—Boston Transcript.

CONSOLIDATIONS.

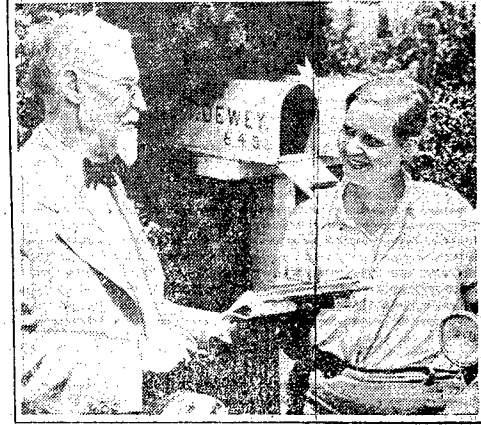

F. S. McCabe, general industrial agent of the M. & O. railroad, who was in Wayne last week with other officials of the line, suggested county consolidations as a way to eliminate unnecessary overhead and cause liberal reduction in taxes. It will be remembered that the Herald last year proposed larger county areas as an important step in the direction of economy, but no one became sufficiently excited over the subject to express an unsolicited opinion one way or another. As previously pointed out, automobiles and good roads have made distance unimportant and many county seats unnecessary. Throwing eight or ten counties into one would greatly lighten the burden of expense. We think farmers would, if given an opportunity, generally support such a change. County seat towns might look askance at it. The fact that politicians would usually be opposed would be in its favor. * * * Speaking of farm lands, Mr. McCabe thinks Nebraska is a wonderful country compared with Wisconsin where he used to live and with whose agriculture he is especially familiar. He says rocks abound and that the soil is comparatively thin. He thinks land here is the best in the world. * * * Mr. McCabe is of the opinion that big crops are better for a country even if prices are not what they should be. If farmers have plenty to feed, they do not have to curtail live stock production, and thus their incomes are not cut off on every hand. He believes generous yields from the soil and overflowing granaries usually mean greater prosperity.

Scouts Plan To Go Out Camping

A. F. Gulliver Describes Niobrara Encampment As Fine Location.

"Boy Scouts should attend camp in their own district," says A. F. Gulliver in discussing Highland camp at Niobrara. "for it is to this district camp that part of our Area dyes go."

Boy Scouts are invited to attend the camp between August 8 and 17 at $1 per day, staying for several days or for the whole time, as they choose. They are not compelled to remain for the whole term, Mr. Gulliver explains.

There is plenty of time, too, for enrolling in the camp, and boys need not enroll until it is convenient, even if the time of the encampment approaches. Arrangements are being made with the parents to transport the boys to camp, and it is believed that it will be possible to supply transportation by private car for most of the boys from this section.

Urge Big Attendance.

Local leaders are urging Wayne boys to attend the camp, for it is a large, clean, well-conducted camp where the boys will be given opportunities to learn many new things about scouting. Seven men are in charge of the camp, including Supt. L. Crow of Pender, who will direct camp activities.

Athletic Coach Cunningham of Lyons will be in charge of the water sports at the camp during the entire period, and it will interest the boys to know that Mr. Grovenor of Omaha, an expert cook, will be in charge of the cuisine.

Scouts will be given every opportunity to pass many of the scout tests, and to learn details concerning the work. The encampment will close with a picnic or rally of some kind at which scouts will be given an opportunity to show their prowess in a series of tests.

"All joyful scouts who possibly can do so," says Mr. Gulliver, "will plan to attend the camp at Niobrara."

Charge of writing a no-fund check brought by J. J. Ahern against Mrs. J. Harder, was heard in Wayne county court Wednesday and was continued a few days for more evidence. The case will probably be tried Saturday.

On May 16 the woman whom Sheriff A. W. Stephens brought here Tuesday from Burke, S. D., wrote checks at Ahern's, H. J. Delber's, Johnson's Bakery, D. Hall's and a few other places in Wayne. She signed them Mrs. J. Harder and beneath the signature placed J. Harder.

According to a letter written by A. W. Freeman of Burke, S. D., by whom the woman is employed as housekeeper, her name is Mrs. A. N. Den Herder.

The court is seeking more information to identify the woman who is about 40 years old.

Sun Hatches Eggs.

Plainview, Neb.—Sun on the Charles Seabury farm near here forsook her duty during the extreme heat of last week, but it made no difference to four of the chicks which hatched as scheduled, with old Sol as a stepmother. Two of the chicks died later but the remaining pair continued to thrive.

Mortgage Indebtedness.

The following shows the mortgage indebtedness record of Wayne County, Nebraska, for the month ending June 30, 1931:

10 farm mortgages filed, $91,250.00; 6 farm mortgages released, $64,662.25; 2 city mortgages filed, $7,500.00; 2 city mortgages released, $3,290.00; 222 retail mortgages filed, $314,865.50; 131 retail mortgages released, $217,579.37.

Invents 'Hopper' Device.

Cozad, Neb.—with a home-made device, Harry E. Ricketts has caught five bushels of grasshoppers in an hour. Ricketts said he did not intend to patent his trap, and that the world is free to use it.

Fourteen feet long and constructed of sheet steel built on a light wooden frame, the trap is attached to an automobile's front bumper. Grasshoppers striking the device's backstop fall into a pan of water and kerosene.

Townley Agrees.

York Republican—It is seen that must be about ten years ago that the Non-Partisan League threatened to become a pragmatic fire. It did sweep North Dakota, and there were evidences of a good start of the blaze in Nebraska.

Now the godfather of the movement, A. C. Townley, is making a speaking tour of Nebraska, proposing a remedy for hard times, and attempting as he did a decade ago, to fan discontent into a political movement.

But great political movements do not thrive on depression. They threaten to grow big and take the country by storm. But about the time of arrival conditions change and the need of the major operation is over.

Mr. Townley and his present supporters have a right to feel that they have not been well used. Farm prices are a tragedy. The farmer has suffered more than his share. But his delirance will not come about through a political upheaval. All the great minds of the nation are at work trying to bring back prosperity. Eventually it will return and will not be a group of voters together in a hurried by any movement to bind league of protest.

Train and Truck Transportation.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The recent installation of a delivery system by means of trucks to store doors along part of its route in central Nebraska, by a well-known transcontinental railroad company, doubtless is a move to compete with the motor transportation of merchandise. Just how this plan will work out is not yet known, but it promises the extension of the same service, by the railroads that is supplied by local truckmen. This plan has not been extended into the country as yet, but if it works well equitable rates soon may be made up for the delivery and acceptance of goods in the farmer's back yard.

We appear to have arrived at the point where there is a place for both the railroad and the truck in our transportation system. Farmers and businessmen demand the more convenient service of the truck, particularly in less than car-load lot shipments. The railroads continue their great usefulness in hauling large consignments of commodities great distances. Competition between these two agencies is bound to continue, but the use of such harsh measures as will eliminate either type of transportation should be prevented if possible.

Although the business of most railroads has been reduced by the advent of motor transportation, it is hardly conceivable as yet that they will be forced into discontinuance. A table prepared by the Baltimore Bureau of the Associated Press shows that revenue ton miles, which simply means merchandise transportation, business handled by railroads in the United States, increased from 1880 to 1900 85.8 per cent; from 1900 to 1910, 80.1 per cent; from 1910 to 1920, 62.2 per cent; and from 1920 to 1929, 5.8 per cent.

The sharp decline in the past decade has alarmed railroaders. Perhaps this new plan will eventually lead to some sort of combination of truck and rail service which will satisfy the farmers and allow both agencies to continue to live but to prosper while rendering an improved as well as an indispensable service.

Studio Shows Old Pictures of City

Of particular interest to old-timers are the pictures, which V. H. R. Hanson has on display in the studio window. One is a picture of the Farmers National Bank in the early days, and another shows Main street from the Howard corner over 45 years ago, when wooden front straggled a little way down the dirt road that was the main thoroughfare. The third photograph is one of the old J. D. Haskell residence on its present site, which is scarcely recognizable because of the slightness of the saplings which surrounded the house at that time. They present rather a different appearance from the fine trees of the present time, and in front of the house, typical of the time, stands a horse and buggy instead of a modern automobile.

Christian Science Society. 410 Main. July 19: Services at 11 a. m. Subject: "Life." Golden text: John 5:26. The public is cordially invited. The subject of the Lesson/Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, July 12, was "Sacrament." The citations read are intended to show that Jesus' use of bread and wine at the last supper, when considered consistently with all his other works and deeds, was a concession made for that occasion to indicate and emphasize the necessity for his followers here to live or partake of the life of Christ, thus experiencing the baptism of divine spirit, for which true spiritual purification there can be no symbolical substitute. One of the citations read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 4), reads in part: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow His example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done." A part of one Biblical selection is as follows: "If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye: for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you; on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified." (1 Peter 4:14).

Christian Science Society. 410 Main. July 19: Services at 11 a. m. Subject: "Life." Golden text: John 5:26. The public is cordially invited. The subject of the Lesson/Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, July 12, was "Sacrament." The citations read are intended to show that Jesus' use of bread and wine at the last supper, when considered consistently with all his other works and deeds, was a concession made for that occasion to indicate and emphasize the necessity for his followers here to live or partake of the life of Christ, thus experiencing the baptism of divine spirit, for which true spiritual purification there can be no symbolical substitute. One of the citations read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 4), reads in part: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow His example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done." A part of one Biblical selection is as follows: "If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye: for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you; on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified." (1 Peter 4:14).

Miss Herndon Is Wed On Tuesday
Miss Constance Herndon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Herndon, became the bride Tuesday evening, July 14, of Freeman E. Decker, son of Berne Decker of Arlington. Rev. Deines read the lines at the Methodist Episcopal church in Fremont at 8 o'clock in the evening, using the single ring ceremony.

Freeman Decker and Bride Plan Trip to Northern Lakes This Month.
Mrs. Wilbur Britton of Sioux City, sister of the bride, and Otis Decker of Arlington, brother of the bridegroom, were attendants of the bridal couple. Following the wedding, the party dined at Hotel Pathfinder.

Mr. Decker was graduated from the Iowa City high school, and attended Nebraska and Iowa state universities, receiving her bachelor's degree from the latter in 1929. She was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and was chosen, in 1928, as one of the seven Iowa Queens. Since her graduation, Mrs. Decker has been teaching mathematics in Carroll high school.

Mr. Decker was graduated from Arlington high school, and received his bachelor's degree at Wayne State Teachers College in 1930. He was last year principal of the school at Carroll.

The Deckers will be at home in Carroll after September 1, when they will resume their teaching positions. After spending a few days in Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Decker plan to return to Wayne and to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Herndon on a fortnight's vacation at Detroit Lakes, Minn.

Suffers Injuries In Car Accident
Lee Cauwe sustained a gash on his head and was bruised somewhat Wednesday evening last week when he fell asleep while returning to Martinsburg from Sioux City and his car struck a culvert at Jackson. The car was damaged considerably.

Mr. Cauwe who is employed with the Elning company in graveling between Martinsburg and Allen, had gone to Sioux City on Wednesday. He was alone and fell asleep. His car struck a culvert at Jackson and then swerved across the street and struck a parked automobile. A Jackson doctor treated his injury. He was able to return to his work Friday.

Mrs. Peter Cauwe, Miss Barbara and Edwin Cauwe went to Martinsburg Friday to see Lee Cauwe and found the accident not so serious as was first reported. Mrs. Lee Cauwe and daughter were visiting in Neola, Iowa, when the accident occurred.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS
AT LEAST TEN YEARS LATE, BUZZ ARLETT ANSWERS OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK ON HIS DOOR AND STEPS INTO MAJOR LEAGUE STARDOM
BY PHILIP MARTIN
EACH year as the major league baseball seasons come and go, there comes a time to pass out the bouquets to the season's outstanding rookie performers. It might be appropriate now, then, to pin the slugging honors on the amply-honored Mr. Russell L. Arlett of Oakland, Calif., the gent who has been hitting a goodly share of those Phillies' home runs of late.

The big Californian started slowly, gained momentum as the season grew and right now is leaping step with the National League's star leaders, both in home runs, runs scored and runs driven in.

Joe Vosmik of the Cleveland Indians seemed well on the way to rookie stardom earlier this year. Then Joe slumped miserably. Only recently did he regain his batting eye. The end of the campaign may find him with a heavier batting average than Arlett, but Joe will have to drive in a run every time at bat for the next several games to have a chance in the runs-driven-in column with the 200-pound Phillies' star.

Buzz entered the senior circuit this spring with a record of 13 successful Class AA years in the Pacific Coast League. There were some who figured this 33-year-old hippo had outlived his usefulness to a major league team. In the training camp, Buzz didn't generate any excitement other than that caused by his large feet. The baseball correspondents in Dixie tagged him as through—just another $10,000 investment gone wrong.

But Arlett refused to fret at this caustic criticism. He gave one Philadelphia writer an interview in which he casually remarked: "I'll be in there when the bell rings—wait and see."

The bell rang shortly, and Buzz got in there. Manager Shotton sent him to right field and installed him as cleanup hitter in the batting lineup. The big guy started slowly, as I mentioned before, but in three weeks he had made an impression. I doubt now that Shotton would take $50,000 for him.

Arlett has become popular with the Phillies. They call him a ballplayer's player, which means that he is in there trying to win and is always capable in the pinches. He made the Quaker fans forget Letty O'Doul. He even has excited the blasé New York fans.

Buzz is big, yet he moves around the outfield with startling agility. He may not be as fast as Babe Ruth—but he's every bit as portly. And he used to be a pitcher, too, just as the Babe did.

Oakland won many games behind Arlett's pitching before he injured his arm in 1923. He then was converted into an outfielder for the Oaks. After the 1924 season, coast critics were calling him the perfect player, combining Ruth's hitting power, Speaker's fielding skill, Cobb's mobility on the paths and in the gardens and Menzel's throwing arm.

Buzz doesn't hit all of those things now—hardly, with 230 pounds to move. Yet he owns enough of that class to outshine any other freshman that came up this semester.

"Buzz" Arlett

Shooting the surf with catamarans is the latest water sport at Ocean Park, Calif., near Los Angeles, where several of the odd-looking boats have made their appearance. They consist of two boat-shaped pontoons connected with a platform, with oar-locks on waist-high rails, so that the rider rows from a standing position. The picture shows a group of Ocean Park girls demonstrating how it is done.

Wayne County Has Fine Production

Census Bulletin Shows Big Crop Records for Wayne County Especially.

Wayne county's 1929 corn acreage reached the total of 127,509 acres according to the last census bulletin. The corn reported was located on 1,437 farms in Wayne county, which may be a surprise to some, who have not given the number of farms a thought.

In Wayne county alone, 118,026 acres of land were harvested for grain, which gave a yield of 5,016,977 bushels. Only 1,422 acres were harvested for silage. The silage yield was 205 tons.

Wheat harvested in the county and threshed in 1929, totaled 109,193 bushels from 695 acres of land. Winter wheat on 421 acres brought in 8,211 bushels of grain. Other wheats were also included.

Has Much Hay.
Hay crops for Wayne county in 1929, rather surprisingly total 44,638 tons on 23,028 acres. Alfalfa on 12,859 acres produced 29,969 tons of produce for the Wayne county farmer.

Barley has shown an increase in popularity during the past few years, with the record for 1929 showing 264,836 bushels produced on 7,850 acres of Wayne county farm land.

Only 472 acres of Wayne county land were cut for small grain hay in 1929, and the yield was 554 tons, which is not surprising when the importance of the corn yield is considered.

Councilmen Extend Franchise on Gas

An extension of 180 days was granted the Midwest Natural Gas company at Wakefield council meeting last week Tuesday evening. A. P. Sprague of the company appeared before the council and asked for the extension in view of the fact that the franchise granted the company by the city of Wakefield expired May 22, 1931 when the company had not yet introduced gas. Mr. Sprague stated that he expected pipe line laying activities to begin within half the length of time extended.

Injured in Game.
Howard Webb, 12-year old West Point boy was hurt Tuesday last when his foot was crushed as he played baseball with a group of friends. An operation was performed on the foot at an Omaha hospital.

The contest will be conducted again the coming year and Stanley plans to compete for awards then in the senior division.

The coach Stanley made represented hours of work since the holidays. The models were judged on woodcraft, paintercraft, metalcraft and trimcraft.

McCormick-Deering Threshers Containing Four Big Features

- 1. All-Steel Construction 2. Ball-Bearing Cylinder 3. Four-Section Straw Rack 4. Roller-Bearing Stacker Fan

Famous for Four Features

Four Big Features of Construction have made McCormick-Deering Threshers Famous Among Users.

- 1. The machine is built almost entirely of steel except where wood parts better serve the purpose. This means freedom from depreciation due to decay and the strains which throw a wooden machine out of alignment. It is a protection against serious injury by fire, and the fact that practically all the siding is galvanized, protects the machine from rusting. 2. The advantages of the ball bearings on the cylinder are too well known to require extensive description. Experienced threshermen are glad to be relieved of the watchful care which plain-bearing cylinders require. The ball-bearings on McCormick-Deering threshing cylinders seldom, if ever, require adjustment and only occasional oiling. 3. The roller-bearing stacker fan, which was a new feature added last year, greatly reduces the power required to operate the machine, and, because of the high speed at which the stacker fan operates, does away with the necessity of frequent oiling and attention required by a plain bearing. 4. The four-section straw rack, which has been a feature of McCormick-Deering threshers ever since they have been manufactured, has been improved by the addition of shields between the sections and by an adjustable first riser which permits the handling of either long or short straw with greater efficiency.

Three Sizes

McCormick-Deering threshers are made in three convenient sizes to fit the power of tractors usually found on the farm. The 20x32 requires from 16 to 20 h. p. The 22x35 can be run to full capacity by means of the McCormick-Deering 10-20 tractor or its equivalent. The 28x46 is designed for operation by the McCormick-Deering 15-30 tractor or other tractor of equal power.

Home Tried Recipes

Escalloped Vegetables.
(Mrs. Paul Mines)
Take equal parts of onions and celery. Quarter the onions and parboil. Add diced celery and stew with seasoning until done. Make a medium white sauce. Drain vegetables well and add to sauce. Cover with a thick layer of buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in oven in casserole. Vegetables and dressing may also be placed in sweet green peppers and baked.

Blueberry Ice Cream.
Two cups of fresh blueberries which have stood in sugar should be added to a plain vanilla ice cream mixture which has been frozen partially. After the addition of the berries the mixture should be frozen hard. If fresh berries are unavailable stewed berries may be used if seasoned with a very little salt.

Cream Muffins.
(Mrs. H. S. Ringland, Wayne)
2 cups flour
1 level teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Blend 1/2 cup of butter into the flour and add two eggs, well-beaten, and 7-8 cups of thin cream. Bake about 12 minutes. This recipe makes 18 small muffins.

Imperial Salad.
(Mrs. H. S. Ringland, Wayne)
Put to soak 2 tablespoons of Knox Sparkling gelatine in 1 cup of cold water. Drain the juice from a can of pineapple and to it add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and enough water to make a pint. Heat the liquid to the boiling point and pour over the gelatine. Add sugar to taste, about 1/2 cup, depending on the sweetness of the pineapple juice. When the mixture begins to harden, add three slices of pineapple, cubed, 1/2 small can of pimentos cut fine, and 1 medium sized cucumber cut up and salted a little. Allow to harden, and serve with mayonnaise dressing. This recipe will serve 12 persons.

Gelatine Fruit Salad.
(Mrs. J. M. Strahan, Wayne)
1 envelope of Knox gelatine
1 large can of pineapple
1 small can of white cherries
1 small grapefruit
1 cup of mayonnaise dressing
1 cup of boiling water

1/4 cup of sugar (scant)
1/2 cup of blanched almonds
1 pint of cream, whipped
1. Dissolve the gelatine in the pineapple juice, add the sugar and the boiling water. When the mixture begins to congeal, add the rest of the ingredients, dicing the pineapple, cherries and grapefruit, and blending in the shredded almonds, the cream and the mayonnaise. Allow to harden in molds or in a sheet. Serve with a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing as garnish.

Individual Pies.
(Mrs. A. A. Welch, Wayne)
Line large muffin tins with pie crust and fill with the following:
1 cup raisins
1 cup sour cream
1 cup sugar
1 cup nuts
3 egg yolks well beaten
Bake slowly until the filling puffs up in the center. Remove from the oven and cap with meringue made of three egg whites and 4 tablespoons of confectioner's sugar. Top with a marachino cherry, if desired. This will make 12 pies.

Hot Syrup.
(Mrs. C. A. Chace, Wayne)
To make the syrup which Mrs. Chace served at the church breakfast recently, use 1/2 brown sugar to an equal 1/2 of white sugar, combined with enough water to make a syrup which will pour freely. Serve hot over pancakes or waffles.

Pie.
(Mrs. C. A. Chace, Wayne)
This filling may be used in a baked pie shell, or may be served in glasses as a pudding.
1 can Eagle brand milk
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup lemon juice
Stir all the ingredients together without cooking, put into pie shell (baked), and top with a meringue which has been cooked slowly. Serve.

Early Days in Wayne County
(Taken from the Herald files for July 17, 1913)
Wayne business men decided, in the summer of 1913, that they needed to perk up business during the hot weather. They had sales for three days, and in order to boost the event, 15 of the business men went to Wakefield, Wisnola, Laurel, Randolph, Carroll, Dixon, Belden, Concord and Sholes, to boost the sales days and the coming Chautauqua season.

Says the Herald: "Grant S. Mears, who returned Sunday from Minnesota, spoke of a big canning factory which he saw in operation in a city about the size of Wayne. Farmers raise peas by the acre, mow down the vines, and haul them to the factory where the peas are threshed out by machinery. Then the farmer hauls the vines back home and feeds them to the stock. Peas are among a number of other products canned. Mr. Mears thinks a canning factory could be operated with profit in Wayne."

How LaPorte Changed.
From the Ponca Journal for July 26, 1883: "The once pleasant and thriving village of LaPorte is now about played out. Everything that could be moved has been moved to Wayne or Wakefield, and only the courthouse remains, solitary and grim, to show where a county seat once was."

On July 22, 1880, the Ponca Journal carried the following story: "Harvest hands are commanding $2.50 a day around Jackson. The reigning price around here is $1.50 to $2. Harvest is well along, and the joyful shout of the reaper resounds from every quarter. The cool weather of the past few days is very favorable to the developing and ripening of wheat, and that is just what is wanted. To see the immense fields of corn and rising stacks of other grain on every hand, one would never think that only a few years ago this country was devastated by grasshoppers of which not one could be found now."

In the Winslow notes occurs this item: "Carl Nuernberg who came to this country 30 years ago, a poor boy, has by his energy, good management and honesty accumulated a good competency, and will enjoy some of the fruits of his labor by returning to his old home in Germany to visit his father and mother, and take a vacation of a month or six weeks."

Cannot Identify Man At Norfolk
Norfolk, Neb.—Archie Miller, former Norfolk resident, who is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Joe Wampler, says that he can shed no light on the identity of the body buried in the American Legion lot here last winter with full military honors as that of Miller.

About Christmas time the body of a man was found in a room in St. Louis and after it had been kept in a morgue for some time two men identified it as that of Archie Miller, formerly of Norfolk. Relatives of Miller later saw the body and agreed that it was Miller's.

The body was brought here for interment and was buried with military ceremonies. A few weeks later Miller was heard from and it developed that he was alive and well. Efforts of County Attorney Carl H. Peterson to identify the man buried here, through authorities at St. Louis, and the bureau of identification at Washington, proved to be fruitless. The Washington bureau confirmed the fact that the body was not Miller's, but could do nothing more.

The body still is in Prospect Hill cemetery.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!
Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants
"Reach for a LUCKY instead"
Everyone has an Adam's Apple—Every man—every woman has one. Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

"TOASTING" expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE—the modern cigarette. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" Process includes the use of Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret and exclusive heating process. It is this process that expels these harsh irritants. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

Until you have tried a Maytag, you cannot appreciate what such a feature as the auto-type shift lever means to you. It engages smoothly and quietly to start or stop the water action. It may be conveniently operated from any side of the tub. The action of the lever is so smooth that it is possible to move the lever from the "on" or "off" position by a light push of the fore-arm or with the back of the hand, when the hands are wet and soapy. This feature is typical of refinements throughout the Maytag.

Let's cut through this welter of words

WHEN you set out to buy tires, don't you really want the most miles and the utmost in safety at the lowest possible price. This fact expressed year after year by Goodyear's great leadership is concretely told again in the findings of an impartial investigation made by an unbiased dependable institution that asked 205,000 car owners this simple question: "Regardless of price, convenience, etc., what make of tire do you consider the BEST tire made?"

But if you try to puzzle through the welter of statistics on thicknesses, weights and diameters you lose the main issue and are as much at sea as ever. The one and only reliable guide for you to follow is the seasoned preference of the public. And that preference is overwhelmingly for Goodyear.

There's the only buying guide that means anything to you car owners.
