WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1931

VOLUME 51, NUMBER 16

Wayne's Fine Gardens and Unusual Plantings of Specimen Flowers, Trees and Shrubbery?

Roses that bear the names of queens, allies that look like orchids, lawns as velvet-smooth as those which stretched in front of the palace of the princess...

Lady Hildington is the name of Mrs. C. E. Carhart's favorite rose, a rich apricot yellow blossom which is truly outstanding in a collection of beautiful roses.

To keep the company of the lovely Lady Hildington are the Duchess of Wellington, a yellow rose, the petals of which are stained with a crimson flush.

American Beauties are to be found in the Cosecok, too, along with Silver Columbia, a silvery colored blossom, Camille de Rohan, a very crimson and maroon flower.

Delicately made, yet profuse with flowers during the blooming period are the small pink "day lilies" which Mrs. Grant Mears has been raising in pots at her home this summer.

A few days ago, Mrs. Mears brought some of the bulbs out of the dark cellar and placed them in the sun. Within three days, the newly planted roots had fully developed buds, although no leaves had shown as yet.

Early this spring, Mrs. Mears had between 300 and 400 tulips of various kinds. Most of them were of the Darwin variety, and were so prolific that in one spring day, 75 of the gay blossoms were flaunting against the new grass.

Another exotic plant which Mrs. Mears has succeeded in raising is the hibiscus, so often associated with tropical gardens.

Delphiniums are doing well in the Mears garden, their two shades of cool blue a refreshing blot of color during the hot days.

Approximating velvet smoothness is the lawn at the C. R. Chinn residence property. The lawn was started four years ago next month.

Permits to drive cars to and from school may be obtained by parents for children over 14 years of age, reports County Treasurer J. J. Steele.

Fair Board Has Fine Programs

Entertainment Features are Chosen for Four Day Celebration.

Smart new acts, gay entertainers and a full program are promised for the Wayne county fair which will be staged at the fair grounds September 16, 17, 18 and 19.

Miss Josephine, who is said to be no less daring than Carroll Brothers themselves, is presented in a startling loop the loop act designed to show off her acrobatic ability to the best advantage.

The Five Oyamas, Japanese stars, are scheduled to appear in a two-act performance which will include hand-balancing, pyramiding, ground acrobatics, high perch feats, and a slackwire number.

Will Morris, bicycle artist, just returned from his third consecutive European tour, will also perform at the fair grounds grandstand in an individual act.

A number of other features have been engaged, and the exhibit features are being stressed by the board. It is hoped that Wayne county producers will help in making the fair a real harvest festival by bringing in farm products for show during the four days.

The farm is occupied by the William Palmer family, and the building housed 600 bushels of grain, corn and oats, although no stock was being housed in it at the time.

National Report Tells Of Rains

Rainfall Average Normal In Some Sections This Year Observations Show.

Timely rains have fallen at various points in the United States all summer, it has been pointed out by J. B. Kincaid, chief of the division of agricultural meteorology in the national weather bureau.

In many places, it is believed, the season's rains would have been sufficient for the crop had the subsoil contained as much moisture as it usually does.

The national weather report says that the rainfall for the first half of 1931 was above the normal in the New England states, in New Mexico, and in Arizona.

July rains have been sadly missed from Kansas and Iowa northward, says the report. Locally, no heavy rains have fallen since the very heavy and refreshing all-day rain of the Fourth of July.

Scattered showers have been reported from several quarters in this section of the state, however, and several farms have had some rain since the first of the month.

Members of the troupe have reassembled in Wayne, and the company has been reorganized as it was when it started out last spring.

"We are anxious to get out on the road again," declared Mrs. Savidge, "although it has meant lots of hard work to get ready for the summer engagements."

The change in rate was made after careful investigation by the light committee and the council of the matter of similar rates in other towns.

Begin Preliminary Work for Construction of Gas Mains Here.

Natural gas will be piped into Wakefield from a point directly south of the town, along the east and west pipe line extending from Thurston county into Wayne.

The line which will serve Wayne is shown extending west from Winnebago from the already completed line which passes between Lincoln and Omaha, and Sioux City.

Other towns being served are listed as Auburn, Humboldt, Fairbury, Pawnee City, Sterling, Tecumseh, Bee, Clatonia, Cortland, Crete, David City, De Witt, Dorchester, Friend, Hallam, Milford, Osceola, Plymouth, Rising City, Seward, Staplehurst, Stromsburg, Shelby, Ulysses, Wilber, Arlington, Beatrice, Lincoln, Plattsmouth and Wahoo in southeastern Nebraska.

Enjoy Travel In Western Country

Return Sunday From Motor Trip to Estes Park and Into Black Hills.

A delightful two-weeks' motor trip through the Black Hills, Estes Park and other points was enjoyed by Miss Martha Victor, Miss Ethel Swanson and Miss Dora Hoefeld, who returned Sunday evening.

The party went first to the Black Hills where they enjoyed particularly the Needles drive, and the beauties of Crystal Cave, Wind Cave, which they visited after their trip through Crystal Cave, they found less interesting, although it is unique.

After a short stay in the Hills, the three went into Estes Park, Colorado, by way of the scenic Park road.

From Cheyenne, they came east across Nebraska, returning to Wayne. Dry weather was noticeable everywhere, with particularly bad effects from the drought at points in South Dakota.

Fewer tourists are abroad this year, the travelers reported, and many of the cabin camps were not filled this summer.

City To Purchase Large New Pump

Permit was given to W. C. Corvill to begin building operation on his new garage building, which will be located on the west 60 feet of lots 13-14 and 15, block 13, original town of Wayne.

Mental Twists THE other fellow's mind is often a puzzle, and to try to understand what is going on inside of it is bewilderingly uncertain.

Sometimes one drums up objections to doing the very thing that he wants to do. If he builds barriers higher and stronger than he intended, his inward calculations fail and he is prone to kick himself under the lash of regret.

Masks often hide real motives. Sometimes the mind flares up with vehemence that is not felt. It may be a disguise for impulses that one does not wish to betray.

Radio and Newspaper THE Omaha Journal-Stockman calls attention to the possibility of radio broadcasting's ever taking the place of newspapers in the field of news and advertising.

"Radio, even television, can never achieve the permanence of the printed page. It comes and goes with the speed of light. Hence its impression must be to some degree transitory and ephemeral.

"Psychologists tell us that men and women receive 80 per cent of their impressions through the eyes and only 20 through the ears and other media.

Pulling Uphill USUALLY things turn out better than expected. Of late people have been pulling uphill, and the going has been made harder by obstacles that have been thrown in the way.

But readjustments in world affairs are being made, and the pendulum is gradually swinging back to a level consistent with the general welfare.

Lieutenant Governor Theodore W. Metcalf found out that Governor Charles W. Bryan had journeyed out of the state without notifying him of his absence and thus without allowing him to act as substitute in looking after executive matters.

ocative's conscience or idea of duty. The lieutenant governor says politics exercises no influence in his public service—a state of mind or rule of conduct which the governor may find difficult to understand.

The railroads' request for increased freight rates is based on the need for greater revenues which have decreased under the force of increased competition. However necessary the railroads are to the country or however great may be their requirements in earnings, we cannot conceive as sound business their request for higher rates at this time.

Contributing to a current magazine, Lawrence H. Conrad, professor in the state college at Montclair, New Jersey, calls porch-climbers the numerous agents who appear at front doors and take the time and violate the patience of housewives to urge sales of books or wares of one sort or another.

With grasshoppers staging a march of destruction, entomologists are given an opportunity to put into practice what they know about insects. The scientists are figuring out ways to help the farmers fight the pests.

Wayne county corn is still holding up well despite the torrid days of the week. Corn thrives in heat—must have heat—but too much at a stretch without moisture is damaging.

After all, people are main considerations in the world, and therefore we should treat one another in a helpful, sympathetic way. Mountains and hills and valleys, vegetation and minerals are valuable contributions to life and enjoyment, but without human society and its relationships, a solitary individual would find existence intolerable and the prospect uninviting.

John R. Voorhis, president of the board of elections of New York City, was 102 years old Monday, and he laid off accustomed work long enough to receive congratulations and enjoy a big birthday cake presented by his associates.

An author recommends asking small favors to win and hold friendships. He does not mean that one should always have his hands extended for gifts, nor that he should hold himself aloof from favors.

Sometimes a mistake is made in thinking evil of people; sometimes a mistake is made in thinking well of them, but it is a wholesome mistake as it is better to err in the direction of charity rather than in the direction of injustice.

We are likely to think an obtrusive person—one who butts in with an extravagant tale of what he has done or can do—is crazy, and the evidence while not conclusive is powerfully suggestive.

A newspaper quotes this from Cyrus: "He is twice a conqueror who conquers himself in the moment of victory."

"Americans," says E. W. Howe, "brag in the constitution and the laws of things they do not believe in privately. I doubt if there is a white man anywhere who believes in absolute equality for the negro, but such equality is not only in the constitution, but we fought a long and expensive war to put it there."

FATAL LEISURE.

The death of A. G. Barnes, former circus owner, reminds us that retirement from a very active life, with nothing in particular to do, nothing to excite interest or effort, may soon prove fatal.

The Farm Board.

Lincoln Journal: S. R. McKelvie, former member of the federal farm board, in his address before the chamber of commerce, stressed several facts that should be borne in mind by persons desiring to fairly estimate the value and work of the organization.

The country banker, in the closing of many country banks during the last ten years the farming communities of the Middle West have undoubtedly been deprived of a stabilizing influence of inestimable value.

Stock farmers have always been close to their financial advisers and in most cases the country banker here in the Middle West has been a live stock grower and feeder as well as a custodian and disbursing officer.

Drinks Gasoline. Wisner, Neb., July 23.—Recently, while Anton Rayevich, a young farmer living just east of Wisner, was working in the grain field, instead of taking a drink out of a water jug, he drank by mistake from a jug that contained gasoline.

FOR PEACE.

The National Council for Prevention of War stresses the responsibility of the United States in the disarmament conference to be held next year. The folly of war and the importance of reducing war burdens are given renewed emphasis.

The Washington Wash

By Strickland Gillilan Washington, July 25.—Yes sir, the Bi-Centennial folk should have agreed to omit the Cornwallis surrender scene. Some cold-footed blob has asked that this be done.

The Country Banker.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: In the closing of many country banks during the last ten years the farming communities of the Middle West have undoubtedly been deprived of a stabilizing influence of inestimable value.

Since the teapot tempest over Mr. Hoover's swift and ex-temporaneous trek from the Rapidan camp, I have been wondering if Paul Revere appointed a committee to examine the liverystable hands and find out how his ride leaked; and who tipped the loose-mouthed poet off about that one-iffy-by-two-iffy-by-sea lantern code.

And now the bubbling fountain is in bad, at least in Washington. It was once believed, that the squirtsome fountain was the last word in absolute simon purity.

That word squirt is intrinsically a funny word, but you don't know how funny it really is till you hear a citizen of Gotham say it in New Yorkese.

A large cortege of friends attended last rites Monday afternoon for Elof Gunnarson, who died July 25 at the home of his brother, Carl Gunnarson. The services were conducted at the Evangelical Free Church at 2 in the afternoon, with the Rev. A. Stone officiating. Largest Tire In World Coming Here

You'll probably never need to buy a tire 12 feet high and four feet wide, but you ought to see the big Goodyear tire, weighing more than a half ton, with an inner tube weighing an additional 125 pounds, which will be in Wayne on Tuesday, August 4.

This tire is inflated to a pressure of three pounds for traveling light, but if it were carrying the 25 ton load for which it is built it would be inflated to six pounds pressure.

"I asked Goodyear to bring this tire to Wayne because it is such an unusual sight," says Mr. Miller, Goodyear dealer in Wayne. "The tread is three inches thick so there isn't much danger of puncture. About the only real evidence of wear and tear is the number of pieces of rubber cut off by souvenir hunters."

"Goodyear has built three of these tires. Two of them are on the road and the third one is at the Goodyear factory in Akron, Ohio, as a spare. This 12 foot tire ought to run several hundred thousand miles. Nobody knows for sure just how far it will run," says Mr. Miller.

"This tire isn't just a stunt; it is rather an engineering and experimental development looking years into the future. Some day huge airplanes may land on tires patterned after this one."

The giant of the highways will be on exhibition at the Central Garage on Tuesday, August 4 at 12:30 p. m. until 8 o'clock Wednesday.

Old Magazine Was Amusing

Early Copy of Delineator Contains Advice to All Who Seek Elegance.

Describes Games

Playing Charades or Knitting Some Fine Laces Mentioned As Entertainments.

On the days when women's chief interests lay in housekeeping, in rearing children, and in dressing elaborately, the reading material designed for the women of the period reflected the domestic nature of women's interests.

The edition for May, 1922, totaling 480,000 copies, clearly proving, according to an editorial on the subject, that the magazine had been growing in popularity for the three or four years just previous.

Elegance and restraint were advocated in the fashion columns of the magazine, but the illustrations of frocks, hats, lingerie and accessories are so elaborate as to make admonitions to simplicity of dress seem ridiculous.

For example, the fashion writer of the nineties describes a white Indian silk costume as follows: "The skirt is in bell style, the Watteau forming the back of the skirt; it overhangs a foundation skirt consisting of five bell gores and having a slight train. The front and sides of the skirt are adjusted with sheath-like closeness at the top, and the back edges of the skirt are joined to a Watteau, which falls in a round, graceful line.

On and on follows the description of the fullness comparable only to the yards and yards of material which military's gown would require.

For Ornament Only. The term "Watteau" used to describe a skirt in 1892 has come to be again in the millinery world for the last two seasons.

In speaking of hat-trimmings, this guide to style went on at length: "The lovely children of nature will play a prominent part in the adornment of the fashionable chapeau this season, but they will find some rivalry in beautiful feathers, which, on account of their decided becomingness, femininity is loth to put aside altogether. A compromise will often be made by combining flowers and feathers on the same hat, but the arrangement must be graceful or the effect will not be good."

Women were advised to trim their hats with great fluffy pom-poms, decorations made of three drooping tips and a stiff egret, golden wheat heads, large ruffled chrysanthemums and yards of silk or velvet ribbon.

To Occupy Time. Since feminine occupations had to be dainty, the magazines of that day advocated the making of baskets for teaspoons, the crocheting of fancy edgings and the tainting of insertions as suitable pastimes for the lady of leisure.

Angsters are said to be using a drug called marijuana, which kills all fear and pity in them. Why would it not be a good idea to use a little of it on some of the jurors who try them?—Louisville Times.

Railway Rates Are Explained

The following explanation in support of the request for freight rate increases by the railroads has been issued:

"The railroads have applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to increase their revenues by raising freight rates 15 percent. Losses of railway traffic have been so great in recent months that an emergency has arisen which not only threatens the continuance of efficient rail service, but also endangers the financial stability of the steam lines. The facts regarding the present railway situation are as follows:

"1. The return earned on railway property, value amounted to only 3 1/2 percent in 1930. In the first four months of 1931 the railroads were earning a return running at the annual rate of only 2 1/4 percent.

"2. Even these earnings were made possible only by the most drastic economy, including the postponement of maintenance work which must be made up in the future. Had it not been for this deferred maintenance, railway net returns would have been even lower than the figures shown above."

"3. These drastic economies, which the roads have been forced to make, have resulted in the furlough of many thousands of railway employees, with the consequent loss to agriculture and industry in general of the purchasing power of these men. These forced economies have also materially reduced railway purchases of materials and supplies, with a consequent decrease in employment in those industries which normally sell much of their output to the railroads.

"4. Present low earnings threaten to destroy the ability of the railroads to secure new capital for investment in their properties to increase efficiency and economy of operation.

"5. If the railroads were permitted to participate in periods of prosperity equally with other business they should make equal sacrifices in times of depression, but they are denied such participation by law. Even in periods of prosperity, the return earned on railway property has been small and inadequate.

"6. According to the Transportation Act of 1920 the railroads are entitled to a fair return upon the value of their transportation property. For the past nine years this fair return rate has been set at 5.3-4 per cent. In no year since the law was passed, however, have the railroads been allowed to earn this fair return, and their total shortage below this amount, in the period 1921-1930, was $2,575,000,000.

"7. The theory of the law is that the railroads represent private property devoted to public use. Because of this public use, they are required to forego chances for high profits in prosperous times in return for the supposed assurance of fair earnings. If, however, a fair return is never received even in the most prosperous years, and the railroads are then expected to stand heavy reductions in earnings in poor years, our railway system cannot be maintained. Funds will not be invested in an industry which suffers all the evil effects of hard times and enjoys none of the benefits of good times.

"In brief, the railroads must have higher revenues because their business has suffered such losses, both through the depression and through subsidized and unregulated competition on highways and waterways, that present earnings are not sufficient high to maintain efficient railway service and railway credit. A freight rate increase is the only way in which the existing emergency can be speedily met.

"The railroads are not now seeking to obtain the fair return to which they are legally entitled. Even with a 15 percent increase, in freight rates they would earn, under present traffic conditions, an annual return of less than 4 percent on the value of their properties. They are asking only for such an increase as is absolutely essential if they are to maintain their service and their credit. The 15 percent advance in freight rates now sought by the railroads is far less than the losses which the public will sustain, both now and in the future, if railway service breaks down and railway credit is destroyed."

Railroads Trying To Stop Hazards

New Safety Methods Are in Use Over Country Since Campaigns Began.

A concentrated drive to cut highway crossing accidents to a minimum an outstanding feature of which is the placing of red and white "Sam Brown" belts on crossing watchmen, has just been launched by the Chicago and North Western Railway under the direction of G. B. Vilas, general manager of the road.

"This new drive follows a program of safety education among the employees extending over a period of years that was so effective as to enable us to win the 1930 Safety Award in Class A of the Steam Railroads Accident prevention contest for low rate of casualties (killed and injured) among our employees, and to improve that record more than 60 percent during the first six months of this year. This work will go on with the same intensity, but in addition the effort has been extended to cut accidents at crossings and to trespassers by a series of forceful appeals for public cooperation," Mr. Vilas declares.

"Another step in our campaign for public cooperation is the posting in stations and prominent points on the line the National Safety Council's new and effective card, 'Dangerous—Walk not on Railroad Tracks,' which brings home in a graphic way the danger of children playing on railroad right-of-ways. The 'North Western' plans to drive home the thought that 'where there's a track, there may be a train' continually to the public in such a manner that people will constantly exercise that extra precaution that prevents so many deaths and injuries.

"These steps for safety will be followed up by other appeals for people to be careful at crossings; but in reducing this type of accident, all the cooperation possible from railroad employees will be futile unless we receive 100 percent cooperation from drivers of automobiles and from people who are in the habit of walking along the tracks.

Work On Highways Showing Progress

Grade Is Being Prepared On Winside-Wayne Road To Be Graveled.

Grading preparatory to graveling highway No. 35 between Winside and Wayne is progressing. The road bed is being prepared from Winside eight miles east to connect with No. 15 three miles south of Wayne. Surfacing will be added soon.

Gravel has been hauled the past week on highway No. 35 from Emerson east. Rain is needed to pack the material into the bed. The graveling on this highway will soon be completed from Emerson to Sioux City. The only gap will then be between Wakefield and Emerson. By using both No. 35 and No. 20 a surfaced road between Norfolk and Sioux City will be completed when the Wayne-Winside project is done.

Sixty men are now at work on paving the West Point-Winsler section of highway No. 8. About half of the paving between West Point and Beemer was completed last week. Materials are being hauled from Beemer and pouring of concrete is progressing toward that town from the east.

Direction of highway No. 20 between Jackson and South Sioux City, which is to be paved, is not yet definitely located. Two routes are being considered.

Contract for 9.3 miles of pavement between Fort Calhoun and Blair, joint state and federal project was let last week for $179,222. This was the last of the July 9 lettings on which decision was made.

Art Von Seggern Suffers Ill Luck

Art Von Seggern, a farmer living southeast of Winside, has been having an unusually hard run of luck recently.

His threshing rig burned Tuesday and on Wednesday morning his truck was wrecked near Hooper. While threshing at the Pyott Rhudy farm the separator of his threshing rig caught fire and burned. His truck enroute to Omaha was wrecked, one animal killed and the remaining cattle in the load were injured, when a truck carrying a load of newspapers and merchandise from Omaha crowded into the Von Seggern truck and wrecked it. The drivers of both trucks escaped with minor injuries.

Tractor Engine Held Up At Night

Ed Lorang of Laurel, tractor engineer for a Cedar county road grading crew, was shot in the left arm last Thursday morning when two men held him up about 1 o'clock at the crew shack. Mr. Lorang had been at Coleridge and when he reached the shack two men appeared and demanded at the point of guns to know where he kept the money. Lorang told them there was some in his overalls in the shack. The bandits searched his pockets and then went through the shack. Lorang had a wallet with $500 in his pocket when he came to the shack, but when he held up his hands he threw this beneath the shack and the bandits did not find it. Mr. Lorang's arm had a bullet wound through four inches of flesh.

BEST GRAIN MARKET IS IN LIVESTOCK

Blair, Neb.—Hogs and cattle will probably pay more for wheat than can Nebraska elevator operators, according to County Agent George Bates. He refers Washington county people to recent feed tests conducted at the Nebraska Agricultural college.

The tests showed that it takes 6 1/2 bushels of wheat, 24 pounds of tankage and sudan grass pasture to produce a hundred pounds of healthy hogs. Taking out 40 cents for pasture and 75 cents for tankage leaves $4.85 which $6 hogs would pay for 6 1/2 bushels of wheat, the work, and overhead expenses of raising the hogs. Five dollar hogs net on the farm, would pay $3.85, and $4 hogs would net $2.85.

CEDAR COUNTY STOCK LOST BY POISONING

Lincoln, Neb.—Three Cedar county commissioners called on Secretary of Agriculture Felton and Gov. Bryan Wednesday, reporting that the latest damage caused by grasshoppers is the death of cattle breaking into fields where poison has been spread.

George E. Frisel, Alfred Anderson and A. J. Theone said that the poison had been effective. More grasshoppers are hatching, they report and possible migratory movements are being watched, but none has been found to date. They move from field to field, but not long distances.

The men said they would not ask for more state funds to fight the pests.

Representative Stringfellow, of Antelope county, called on the governor to ask state aid, but was told his county must first exhaust its own funds.

The governor announced he had authorized an award for state aid to an area 10 miles square in Dixon county.

Coleridge Voters Favor New System

At a special election in Coleridge Tuesday last week voters favored construction of a sanitary sewer in that town; the vote being 134 for and 84 against the proposition. The village recently sold its power plant for $35,000 and this will be used for the new system. The estimated cost is $38,168.

Strange Animal Found on Farm Close to Wayne

A friendly little animal that is a mystery was found in Harvey Miller's oat field the middle of last week. The animal had two companions, one of which was killed, Friday morning. W. F. Horrell, curious to know whether the creature was a freak of some common species or a typical specimen of some variety not native to this section, brought the animal to Wayne. At the college no one could remember having seen such an animal, and various nature-lovers downtown had no better luck at classifying it.

About eight inches long, including his small fuzzy tail, the creature is a little four-footed one, with five toes on his back feet and four toes on his front ones. His feet are very clawlike, almost prehensile-looking.

The mysterious animal has a coat of rather soft, fuzzy fur, white at the tips, but darker underneath. That the creature is not an albino, however, is proved by the fact that his eyes are very dark instead of the typical albino pink.

Sharp, pointed ears, close to his pointed, small head, provide the creature with hearing faculties, which seem to be fairly acute. On his visit in the Herald office, the animal was properly silent, but Mr. Horrell says he whistles or shrieks very shrilly on occasion. But for all his shrieking, the mysterious creature does not say what he is, and no, one seems to know.

Miss Aletha Johnson To Go To Northwest

Miss Aletha Johnson of Wayne, is planning to see the scenic wonders of the Pacific northwest and the Canadian Rockies this summer as a member of the third annual Cornhusker vacation tour to that section. Instead of the torrid heat of mid-August, she will enjoy the cool breezes of mountain altitudes and seashore climates, enroute on this two weeks' trip over 6,000 miles in length.

This will be the third farm vacation tour of Nebraska people and their friends to that section of the country. On the preceding tours more than 400 people, traveling in all-Pullman, special trains, with observation and dining cars attached, took the trip, enjoying every convenience and luxury of first-class travel and returned wildly enthusiastic over the good times they had, the scenery they saw and the interesting places they had visited.
