County Fair in 1939. "Week-end ladies and gentlemen, taking the new ship to Mars, leaving this spot within one hour."

Spands far-fetched, and a bill, we grant, but that may be the bathyphos they'll have at the county fairs in the year 1939.

But even in 1939, we suspect, there will be small boys who get lost at the fair, and little girls who get tired and cross, and babies who wail because of the excessive noise, heat, dust and crowds.

Bonding Company Files Suit Here

Seeks Difference Between Deposit Assured And Bank Dividends.

Charging deposit of Wayne county money in the defunct Citizens National bank of Wayne in such manner as to breach his bond, the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Company, a corporation, filed suit in district court of Wayne county to recover $3,775.87 and costs from Treasurer James J. Steele, the amount being the difference between the deposit of $37,758.87 and the dividends of $33,982.80.

In the petition, filed by plaintiff's attorney, C. H. Hendrickson, August 31, defendant secured plaintiff as surety on his official bond. The petition charges that the sum of $37,758.67 of public money was unlawfully deposited in the Citizens National bank of Wayne and deposited in such a manner as to breach his bond. The bank failed and it was necessary for plaintiff to make good said bond to the extent of $37,758.87. The plaintiff, when making good the deposit, took an assignment of the claim against said bank. The bank is liquidated and all assets applied to its creditors. The company received final dividend September, 1929, the total being $33,982.80. Plaintiff claims loss of $3,775.87.

The county treasurer, James J. Steele, makes the following explanatory statement: "All banks in Wayne county, on date of closing of Citizens National Bank, carried an over-deposit of county money, owing to the fact that, according to law, we could legally deposit only $200,000.00, while we had $339,045.81 on hand the day of the bank's closing. The difference between the $200,000 and $339,000.00 was prorated to the banks according to their capital stock."

"The Nebraska statutes required that the county board of commissioners designate banks outside of the county as depositories when county funds were excessive. This had not been done."

Suit to replevin grain was filed in district court August 28 by Ed. and Emil Marotz against William Gosch.

Cornhusker Vacation Tour Is Found Interesting And Instructive To Five Wayne Persons Who Join State Group

Travelers Enjoy Sights In Big Cities As Well As In Mountains.

Enjoy National Park

Two of Group Are Initiated Into Indian Tribe in Glacier National Park.

The Cornhusker vacation tour to the north-west, in which Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reinhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Wayne joined about 100 others, was most enjoyable. Miss Johnson states, and the mountains especially fascinated her.

All of the group met at Omaha August 9 and left by special train that night for the Twin Cities. Upon arrival at St. Paul, the party was taken about the city to places of interest, seeing Henry Ford's assembly plant, power house and dam. From there the party crossed the river to Minneapolis where another tour was made to the university and other points.

The next stop was at Duluth, where the travelers found an interesting, especially around the shores of Lake Superior. Boats of all sizes were seen on the lake. The party saw large grain elevators and the second largest ski jump in the world.

In Winnipeg, third largest city in Canada, sightseeing buses took the party through the residence and business sections and to Assiniboine park which consists of 366 acres. In the park is a flower conservatory where specimens of the rarest types grow. The group visited the parliament building. Miss Johnson enjoyed view of this city from the roof of Ft. Garry hotel.

From Winnipeg the special train headed westward through the prairie sections with short stops at Saskatoon and Wainwright. In Saskatchewan the party saw the archipelago of London who had a special car on the Cornhusker train.

Jasper national park, Canada's largest and most magnificent playground, was next visited. On arrival at Jasper the group went to Mt. Edith Cavell and had an opportunity to walk on a real glacier, the Glacier of the Angels, so named because of its resemblance to an angel with outspread wings. The lodge, where the party had luncheon, and park were found of special beauty.

Leaving Jasper park, the train sped west, making a short stop at Mt. Robson, highest peak of the Canadian Rockies, which rises 12,972 feet above sea level. The Thompson and Fraser rivers were followed a long distance.

Vancouver seems to be an ideal place to live, Miss Johnson observed. The city has a temperate climate, fine business and residence sections and flowers which are more beautiful than words can describe. The party visited Chinatown and a Hindu district in the city.

At Vancouver the party boarded the ship, The Prince Robert, for a trip down the coast. The boat, an ocean going vessel, is 387 feet long, 57 feet wide and carries 1,500 day passengers and 2,000 night passengers. The dining room seats 230. The ship docked at Victoria and the party took an hour's drive about the city and then sailed for Seattle, the delightful boat ride ending too soon.

The sightseeing trip over the Columbia river highway to Crown Point, overlooking the Columbia river, and to Multnomah falls was delightful. Still more fascinating was the special train trip from Portland to Seaside where some bathing and waded in the ocean, which many saw for the first time.

Boarding the train again, the party went to Longview, Wash., and a visit was made to the Long Bell Lumber mills, the largest in the world. There the entire process of lumber manufacture was watched from the time the rough logs are pulled from the water until they are converted into boards and stored in cars. Members of the tour were taken onto the Longview bridge, the state line between Washington and Oregon, connecting the lower Columbia river highway with the Pacific highway between Rainier, Ore., and Longview, Wash. The bridge is 1.6 miles long and the center span of 1,200 feet is the longest cantilever span in the United States.

Another trip about Seattle ended with boat rides on Lakes Washington and Union and around Puget sound. The ship passed through the government lock, second to the Panama locks in size.

Leaving Seattle the party went to the marvelous Cascade mountains. The train, under electric power, went through the Cascade tunnel, largest railway tunnel on the western hemisphere. It took 20 minutes to pass through the tunnel which is eight miles in length. The train proceeded through the Wenatchee valley to Spokane, where the party drove on the Harding highway overlooking Chinese and Japanese gardens. Cannon hill and Manito parks which are famous for sunken gardens.

From Spokane the train headed towards Glacier national park on the crest of the continental divide. This part of the trip was made after sunset, and with the lights turned out the party viewed beautiful night scenery.

In Glacier national park it seems as though one mountain is piled upon another, rising to great heights and being of alternating colors. The crests are dotted with snow and waterfalls tumble down the slopes. After breakfast at the Glacier park hotel the party went by buses to St. Mary's lake for a launch ride up to Going-to-the-Sun chalet. Scenery along the lake the travelers found wonderful, most jagged peaks rising from the shores. A group of the young folks hiked to Baring Falls, a mile and a half away, and took pictures. On return to the hotel the party was entertained by the Blackfoot Indians who live in the park. Two members of the group were taken into the tribe. H. J. Gibbs of Norfolk was given the name of Mon-a-coppe-e-niam, meaning chief young man name. Mrs. A. D. Schief of Murray, was named Och-ber-pic-se-ah-ke, meaning water bird woman. The group also visited the U. S. fish hatchery in the park.

Leaving the park the train soon took the party out of the mountains. Stops were made at Minot and Fargo, N. D., and the group then came to Minneapolis. When the tour ended and parting was had. The two weeks were eventful too, bringing to each scene and events which will never be forgotten.

When you see a row of bright, orange colored steel posts along the highway, you may be sure they are American Banner posts and that somebody has thoroughly investigated steel post values. Visit our lumber yard and learn about post values. Another car load arrived this week.

Maybe we're old fashioned, but we still are not used to hearing a woman say, "Gosh, I need a hair-cut."

Our 18c post will last seven to ten years. Our 15c post will last five to eight years. They are bright, clean, straight and big values.

A few days ago a farmer friend was in buying more cedar posts. He said he has some of these

A customer to whom we had sold 4-Square was in yesterday paying his bill. He said, "When you told me how much time 4-Square dimension and drop siding would save me on my job, I couldn't believe it, but now I know that it saved me more than thirty dollars work on my job. I'll have nothing but 4-Square lumber hereafter."

Coal is your best heat producer. It has stood the test. It has contradicted the claims of other fuels, and has proved its economy over and over again.

It costs money to charge coal, keep accounts, pay for statement heads and postage, time and shoe leather running after the slow ones, not to mention the inevitable losses incurred from poor credits. It is in order to stop these losses that we are selling coal this fall and winter for the lowest and lowest prices! Do not ask us to charge your coal. It will be very embarrassing to both of us to have to say "no."

ROY E. Johnson, secretary of the Dixon county fair held at Concord August 27, expressed himself to be of the belief that the 1931 show of livestock excelled any ever had at the fair. There were 150 head of fine cattle, 400 swine and many beautiful horses. So much livestock was on show that a total of 100 new pens was built to house the extra hogs and cattle. A. M. Kansas Travelers.

Notice Crops Here

Fred Fischer and Emil Fischer of Hudson, Kansas, arrived by motor Thursday for a few days' visit in the home of the former's brother, Rev. William Fischer and family in Wayne. The visitors reported the land as generally dry between Kansas and this point in Nebraska, although fine strips of corn land were observed in the vicinity of Western and Wisner, Nebraska.

Fred Fischer, who is a retired farmer of experience, stated that he believed corn would be "made" in almost every farm community through which they passed; although most of the corn is damaged.

"If the rain had come about a week earlier," Mr. Fischer stated, "the corn would have been all right, and as good as in any average year, although it is not badly damaged in such sections as that around Wisner."

Traveler Sees Many Changes

Mrs. Patterson Returns to Wakefield After Stay of Weeks Abroad.

That conditions in Sweden are better than in many other sections of the world at this time, is the opinion of Mrs. Ella Patterson, who returned to Wakefield Saturday following a three-months' sojourn in central Sweden. This state of affairs exists, Mrs. Patterson believes, because of the fact that the country is small, and it is easy for government officials to make thorough and frequent investigation of cases of need. When unemployed persons are found to be worthy of aid, the government has a system which permits the contribution of suitable assistance.

Work is often supplied by the Swedish government, too, Mrs. Patterson observed, for every nook and corner of the country is kept neat and tidy, and such activity requires the help of many men. New roads and public buildings are constantly appearing on the scene, and the government, in an attempt to absorb the unemployed element, is giving the work to persons who seem to need it most.

After Forty Years.

It is four decades since Mrs. Patterson left Sweden, and she had made no other visit to the homeland, she saw many changes which had been made in the interim.

"Changes were most noticeable," she commented, "in the city districts, for the country life remains about the same."

Particularly in the school systems did this traveler note important changes. Even in the rural schools, she found, the domestic arts, such as cooking and sewing, are taught, and country children are given almost exactly the same educational advantages as have children in the city schools. Discipline in Sweden schools is very strict, and examinations are rigorous. As a result, only the best complete the courses, and the profession receive only the best scholars from the ranks of the trained. Teacher's colleges, specialized universities, and the public school attract many of the young people, Mrs. Patterson stated.

She found young people very wholesome, and full of life interests in social work, in school and in religion. Every effort is made to give each student an opportunity to enter into outside interests.

Visits Farming Country.

Around Linkoping, where Mrs. Patterson visited with two sisters whom she had not seen in the four decades, farming is the chief industry. Although much of the country is wooded, and some of it is far too mountainous for agriculture, fine crops of rye, oats and wheat are raised each year.

Common vegetables flourish, as do fine fruits, including three or four varieties of cherries, gooseberries that reach the size of plums, all kinds of wild and cultivated berries, and large apples, pears and plums. A rather cold season had retarded crops around Linkoping this year.

Electricity is used very commonly in Sweden, to operate trains and to facilitate farming operations. Its use, as Mrs. Patterson saw it, was one of the striking advances made on the Swedish farm in the past few years.

Has Fine Crossings.

Mrs. Patterson was fortunate in having smooth and pleasant crossings on the Gipsbota in May and the Kungsholm in August. Both ships are of the Swedish-American line, and carry passengers directly to Gothenburg. Returning, Mrs. Patterson brought with her some fine Swedish linens and silver as gifts for members of her family.

The trip from Gothenburg to Wakefield consumed 11 days.

So charming did she find her visit that she was loath to leave the country, although at first, she confessed, it seemed like a strange land after such a long period spent in this country.

ceive perhaps 150 crowns per month and, with the value of a crown at about 3 1-3 cents, the amount does not make a very large total. School teachers fare somewhat better, receiving from 1800 to 2000 crowns per year, depending upon their locations, and having also a dependable pension to which they can turn in times of illness or disability.

The average employee in a Czech factory or shop is recognized, the workers say, as an individual. For instance, the employee who has a service record is given a celebration, a holiday and a sum of money. During the depression, however, even old employees had to be "let out" in Czech factories as well as here.

Many foreigners whose entrance into this county was not entirely legal have been transported back to their own countries this summer. United States government giving free passage. Many of these workers expressed themselves as being glad to go back to the individualism of their own countries, for, as they expressed it, they felt like "screws in a great machine," knowing that, when they wore out, the old screws would be thrown away.

Prague, one of the points visited by Miss Geisler and her niece, was a delightful experience. Among beautiful public buildings visited there were the group which houses the president, an 82-year old government expert, the consul, public works, and the great cathedral. The Moldau river, which winds its way through the city, is said to lend old world charm to the scene, for, on its banks are miles of parks and scenic plantings.

Breslau, Berlin and Prague were included in the homeward itinerary, the party stopping in Ireland briefly on the return. The two sailed August 10 on the steamship Washington, having a pleasant and interesting voyage.

One of the interesting things about a sea voyage, as Miss Geisler pointed out, is the shipboard contacts. On the Evevelet, on which she crossed in June, Miss Geisler heard an informative lecture on the subject of Russia. The lecture was delivered by a southern minister who had spent the summer in Russia with a writer who was gathering material for a book on the five-year plan, so his material was first-hand, and very convincing. He pointed out, Miss Geisler stated, the success of the five-year plan, the fact that the advances have been made, but the requirements of the people for the new conditions which they believe will arise out of the present state.

"Great things are happening," Miss Geisler comments on her observations, "although conditions are hard on people in general."

Observer Says We Had a Cool August

August was a drier month this year than last, and it was cooler, according to figures gathered by C. W. Long, observer. In August 1930, the mercury dashed up to the 110 mark on thermometers equipped to record that temperature, probably bursting others designed for more equable climates. In August, 1931, the mercury was contented to reach 100, but was not ambitious enough to make a jump above the century point.

Rain last year totaled 2.34 inches in August. This year, 2.36 inches of rain fell. The following table gives the story of the weather completely.

Show Race Horses

Fanciers Praise Sleek Animals in Livestock Display at Dixon County Fair.

GATHERING of harvests, and a rich display of the handwork of the women and children of the various communities was the Dixon county fair held at Concord August 26, 27 and 28. Entertainment filled the afternoon and evening hours, and interested spectators spent many hours looking at the displays, which ranged from prize hogs and hogs to showings of the housewife's best crocheting and knitting. The stock show is said to be the best in a decade.

A. M. Daniels of Bancroft, who judged the horses, stated that the horse show was one of the best he had ever known of at a county fair. A total of 45 head of sleek, fine show horses was on the grounds, and 40 race horses performed in the ring. A real treat to those long denied the sight of well-bred horse flesh was the showing of the racers at the fair grounds each day.

There were 37 trucks involved in accidents. Of the accidents in which trucks participated 11 were caused by collisions; 4, by cars being struck in passing; 6, by striking pedestrians or bicycles; 5 by reckless driving.

The outstanding causes of accidents, namely: 39 collisions; 35 skids, 19 reckless driving; 18 lost control; 17 struck pedestrians; no light, blinding lights, passing signals, speed and intoxication 28; speak volumes about our needs for highway control legislation and its enforcement by an adequate patrol system.

State Fair Opens at Lincoln Friday

Lincoln, Neb.: The opening gong will ring on the best state fair ever held in Nebraska September 4. There is a strong statement for Nebraska has had some record breaking fairs. But from the inquiries made, entries offered, space taken and interest shown officials of the fair think the 1931 exhibition will be the greatest of all.

An outstanding feature of the fair this year will be the dedication of the new 4-H club building, which occurs on Sunday, Sept. 6. The fine new building of immense capacity, costing $150,000, is the only building of its kind in the world so far as fair officials know. No other fair in this or any other country has taken such an active interest in 4-H club work and built so well for its future development. The Nebraska building was built from no other model, since it is first of its kind, and will likely be the genesis of a new order of fair architecture as other states catch the spirit that has taken Nebraska in developing club work. The new building was erected on a site adjoining the old frame building. The two are joined by a passage way. The old building will contain stalls for baby beves, calves and pigs and obviate the necessity of using tents for protecting live stock. Together the two buildings

New Building At State Fair

Four-H Club Workers Have Display Place for Big Exhibit of Year.

Four-H club work has grown in popularity with the children of Nebraska and their parents until at last the state fair has provided the clubs with a new building, which will be dedicated Sunday, September 6. The building houses 132,000 square feet of space on the fair grounds, and has a judging arena which will seat 2,000 persons. No dark corners have been left in the building, which makes it ideal for the display of exhibits at any time.

Since the state fair at Lincoln has developed into such an attraction for the people of the state, it is expected that large crowds will visit the new 4-H club building, among others, on fair days, September 4 to 11.

Among anticipated exhibits will be 1,000 head of calves, 400 pigs as well as the sheep and poultry raised by members of the 4-H clubs over the state. According to state reports, over 15,000 boys and girls are entered in 4-H club work in Nebraska this year.

offer an immense space in which to hold 4-H club demonstrations, exhibits and sales, the sales and judging pavilion, being one of the finest in the country. Very interesting exercises will dedicate the building on Sunday afternoon. Live stock entries and agricultural exhibits are up to the usual quality and number. Nebraska's show window will be seen in full flower this year, notwithstanding dry weather, grasshoppers and other annoying things. The entertainment program is to be especially good. Five days of good harness and saddle races and three days of auto races. Good circus and vaudeville acts will be given in front of the grandstand. The evening program will be given by Thavut's singers and players of 62 people, accompanied by his great concert band. A musical revue will be presented with elaborate scenic effects and by skillful performers. To conclude the evening performance a great fireworks display will be shown.

The fair begins Friday, Sept. 4, and runs eight full days, closing Sept. 11th. There is no program the opening day.

Show Farm Products

Although dry weather has affected the products of farms this year, there are fine exhibits, the excellence of which has been a surprise to farmers and judges alike. Ivar Anderson, of the agricultural department, believes that most of the corn in this section is well out of danger from the first hazard, or will be before the first frost date. All corn, he finds, is much better than it was expected to be.

Nicely scrubbed potatoes, small in size, many of them, but perfect; silvery-shining onions; healthy-looking carrots, beets and turnips were on the display shelves at the fair, too.

Among unusual showings were those of acorns and butternuts, as well as home grown pears. Some of the watermelons were made outstanding by having the word "fair" lettered into their green skins.

Health Houses Made By Pupils In Rural Schools

Real houses of health are two which were on display at the Dixon county fair in Concord, August 26, 27 and 28. One, made by the children in district 13, Ponca, was a doll's house of fair size "stuccoed" on the outside with oatmeal, and bordered with a neat foundation of dried prunes. Around each window opening a border of dried radishes had been placed, and the roof was neatly "shingled" with tavy beans, which had been treated to a coat of paint. Even the chimney was realistically finished in red painted bricks, which might have been choice specimens of very miniature field stones.

Another such house was the one made by ambitious young architects in school district 43. The walls of the place had been covered with oatmeal, and the roof was made of very neat "shingles" that had their origin in graham crackers. This house was set on a cardboard lawn, neatly decorated with flower beds and a poster urging the hungry to "eat more vegetables."

Supplementing the health houses were numerous health booklets made by the school children as a part of the hygiene courses, now being offered in almost every curriculum. Many of the booklets contained posters, showing the nutriment to be gained from the eating of certain staple foods.

Fair In Session In Cedar County

Cedar county fair at Hartington opened Tuesday and continues through Saturday. Automobile races, ball games, exhibits, entertainment, features and stock parade are among the features. Wayne was one of the points visited Friday by the Hartington band and a group of others who were boosting the fair.

Early Days in Wayne County

Taken from the Herald files for Sept. 4, 1913.

The F. E. Strahan garage at the residence in the northeast part of Wayne was destroyed by fire. The building, which was a total loss, was valued at $800, and was insured for $500. Some blankets, curtains and a fur coat were also burned.

The Kohl Land Agency reported the sale of the Frank Derig quarter of Dixon county at $130 per acre. Dr. Derig then purchased the W. A. Williams quarter southeast of Wayne at $150 per acre.

Judge James Britton married the following couples September 3, 1913: Emil Anderson and Miss Carrie Olson of Sioux City; and Ora McIntyre and Miss Letha Fisher of Yankton, S. D.

Sales of Land.

Another land sale recorded in the Herald for the week was that of Mears, Fisher and Johnson, who sold the 80 acres of John Benning, located five miles northwest of Wayne, for $125 per acre. When Mr. Benning bought the land, he paid $2 an acre for it.

The Kohl Land Agency, says the Herald, "is arousing considerable interest in the Canadian Pacific lands in Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ash left for Alberta, Tuesday, with the intention of investing in land."

In the Old Days.

Arrests in the past were not always easy to make, as evidences the following item: "Marshal Geo. Miner has been off duty this week on account of injured ribs sustained while putting a man under arrest. Charles Riese has been taking his place as police officer; Geo. will soon be back on the job again."

Frank S. Morgan rented the entire room hitherto occupied by himself and Grant Mears, and prepared to improve the place to accommodate his increasing business.

Paul Mildner left for Sioux City where he entered the employment of a wholesale house.

Dr. S. A. Lutgen returned from a professional trip to Aberdeen, S. D.

Building New Depot

Walls of the new depot were going up fast. Says the Herald: "Not many days before the structure will be inclosed. Then it will not be long before the old depot will be dedicated to the exclusive use of freight and the splendid new building will give service to the traveling public."

Harry M. Branch of Columbus and Miss Lillian L. Hughes of Randolph were married at the Methodist parsonage September 3, 1913. The Rev. P. R. Giotflety officiating. They went to Columbus to make their home.

District court went into session. The following applications for naturalization papers were under consideration: Friedrich Harms, Theodore Johanson, William Bair, Henry Moeding, Gustav Hilkenian, Hans Madsen, Fred Larsen and Carl Gust.

Make School Change

A change in the school equipment was planned: "At the meeting of the board of education held at Lincoln, the plans prepared by Architect J. H. Craddock were adopted for a new central building at Wayne. Secretary Todley was authorized to advertise for bids and it was announced that the contract would be let December 9. The plans adopted are practically the same as those prepared by Professor Hartman, and presented for consideration when the board met in Wayne July 21. The building will be 82 by 130 feet, architecture to be along the same general lines as that of the library and science hall. The construction will be thoroughly fireproof, the exterior being of brick and stone. Work on the new structure will not begin before March at which time the old college building will be razed and the new central building erected on the original site. It will cost at least $85,000."

Miss Franc E. Hancock of Chicago was elected to teach domestic science at the college. She took the place left vacant by the resignation of Miss Mary Pettit. Miss Hancock's experience includes one year in charge of night school cookery at Hull House, under the direction of Miss Jane Addams. She had also taught in Pittsburg, Kas., and been assistant in domestic art at Lewis Institute in Chicago.

Concerning Frosts.

From the Ponca Journal for September 16, 1880, comes the following commentary on frost: "The diary of Mr. Gamble shows a record of the first frosts in the past six years, viz: In 1875, September 15; in 1876, September 29; in 1877, September 17; in 1878, September 10; in 1879, September 7; in 1880, September 8."

Also from this early Ponca paper comes this item concerning the railroads: "The engine of the St. Paul road, which was dumped into the river some weeks ago while crossing from Sioux City to Covington has at last been rescued from its watery grave, and now stands high and dry on the Iowa bank. The machinery has not been injured by the action of the water, but the trimmings and cab will need replating. After going back to the shops for repairs, the engine is to be used to draw the passenger line between Ponca and Covington."

Teachers in the Winslow schools when the autumn term opened in 1913 were: Prof. Cress, superintendent; Miss Anne Goodchild; Miss Ida Heyer, seventh and eighth grades; Miss Gertrude Bayes, fifth and sixth grades; Miss Josephine Carter, first and second grades; Miss Matilda Schmode of Norfolk, intermediate room.

In the Hoskins school the teachers in 1913 were: Miss Ruth Sterling, principal; Miss Wilcox, seventh and eighth grades; Miss Whaley, fourth, fifth and sixth grades; Miss Pawelski, first, second and third grades. School began the first Monday in September that year, with an enrollment of 92 pupils.

Home Tried Recipes

Serving Tea At Bridge Affairs

How Hostesses May Copy Elaborate Menus With Little Trouble.

With cooler weather, there is more interest in entertaining, and would-be hostesses are beginning to scurry around in search of new ideas for serving the refreshments that are an important part of any afternoon or evening's entertainment. For an afternoon bridge luncheon, an informal tea might be served at the close of the afternoon, using the following menu, or one of its many variations.

For serving the refreshments, provide service plates of glass or china, placing the viands on the plates and serving them thus. Linen and silver may be placed on the card tables first.

Pear Dessert.

To vary the ordinary pear sauce, try this dessert: Drain pear halves of most their juice, place two to a serving on a dessert plate, and cover with a rich chocolate sauce. The sauce may be purchased, or you may make your own.

Apple Pie Supreme.

For a real treat, try making little deep apple pies in individual pans. When the pies are done, cover the top crusts with thin slices of cheese, pop them into the oven and let the cheese melt until it is creamy, then serve, hot.

Pound Cake.

In the "good old days," this really was a "pound" cake, and the ingredients were weighed, not measured. However, the measurements in this recipe are not given in pounds, for who has room in a kitchenette for scales and a set of weights?

Making Good Salads.

For the salads, only small servings are allowed each person, so the total amounts need not be large. Cottage cheese salad is very savory if made with chopped green peppers, a hint of onion juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Egg salad is made by mixing the egg yolks with mayonnaise, mustard, salt and pepper as for deviled eggs. Combine this paste with the coarsely chopped whites of the eggs, and top each serving with a sprig of parsley. The best fruit salad for this season of the year may be made from unpeeled apples combined with nuts and dressing. The apples should be cut very fine, and the peeling left on for color.

Place the three servings of salad in three small mounds on the service plate. Between the mounds arrange the narrow sandwich strips, and a bit of garnish, parsley, pickled beets, or tiny pickled crabapples. Pass sandwiches if you like.

When you serve the tea, which should be boiling hot, but not too strong, pour it over whatever garnish the guest desires; a slice of lemon or orange, a bit of ginger, or a lump of sugar. If your guests still look hungry after the second cup of tea, serve tiny cakes or cookies. On the tables place small silver or glass dishes of salted nuts and bright candies to complete your copy of a tea served at one of the famous tearooms of the country.

weeks the liquid will be a rich and juicy which may be used as a beverage. The grapes are suitable for use in pies and other desserts.

Fruit Cocktail.

For a fruit cocktail that will make your guests hungry and be the perfect beginning of a perfect meal, use watermelon and cantaloupes balls, scooped out of fairly ripe fruit. Place the small balls in cocktail glasses, sprinkle with lemon juice and powdered sugar, and chill until very, very cold. Garnish with mint sprigs, maraschino cherry, or candied fruit peel.

Puff Shells.

A very special treat are puff shells filled with cream, but, if they are made without sweetening, they can be used to hold hot creamed mixtures, or lobster or chicken salads.

To make the shells: 1 cup of boiling water 1/2 cup butter 1/4 teaspoon salt 1 cup flour 4 eggs

Bring the water, salt and butter to a boil. Add the sifted flour and stir until the mixture forms a ball, and leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the fire, let cool two or three minutes, and add one unbeaten egg. Beat until completely blended, adding each egg in the same way. Beat the mixture until a knife drawn through comes out clean. Drop on floured sheet from tip of spoon and bake 40 minutes. Cool before using or storing.

Standard List Says To Plant

Many Seeds Will Bloom Next Spring If Put Into Ground Now.

Home gardeners who wish to make a success of their plantings next year may find the following standard planting list helpful. In July and August, say experienced gardeners, rockress should be planted for its white blooms, which will appear in March and April. The rockress comes in two varieties, arabis alpina, which is white, and arabis alpina rosea, which is pink.

Suitable for border plantings is goldentuft, which should be popped into ground without delay, in order to have them bloom a warm yellow next April, May and June. The goldentuft is a variety of alyssum, but has yellow flowers instead of the accustomed white blossoms.

Old-fashioned pinks have come into favor recently, and the deep and the pale pink May and June and June to November varieties should be in the ground before the first week in September.

Preparing for Spring.

Strange as it may seem to be talking of next summer's plantings when there are only a few leaves beginning to drop, the gardener understands the necessity of getting seeds started before the frost comes. The seeds progress, although they lie in the ground, and by spring, they are ready to grow and bloom.

The lovely blue flax called linum alpinus should be planted now, and the pale blue flowers will flourish all next summer, if they are cut. Sedums, in case you haven't made their acquaintance, are excellent in a rock garden. They have pink, yellow and orange blossoms, and the flowers should appear from June to the latter part of August, if they are given a chance.

For Summer Flowers.

Speedwell, either veronica rupestris and veronica incana, should go into the ground before the week is over. These plants will bear blue or violet blue flowers almost all summer. Viola Jersey Gem, if started now, will flower between May and very late autumn. Its bloom is a rich purple blue. Viola snowflake, which is a relative, will show pink flowers from June to October.

If you have a corner of your garden that could be spaded up and prepared for a flowered nook next summer, begin now, get the seeds tucked under the soil, see that they have just enough leaf cover when cold weather comes, and then wait for spring. And if you went on a trip this summer, and came home with the springs of your car sagged by the weight of the rocks you thought too handsome to leave where nature stored them, plant a rock garden, plant some sedums and start a few cacti. Rock gardens are still new enough to be entertaining, and you might as well have one, too!

Return From Trip to North and West

Mrs. Fontanelle Smith and nephew, Milford Wright, who went to the northwest for a month's trip, arrived here Wednesday last week with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Millen of Colorado Springs. The four traveled 6,000 miles and drove from Denver to Yellowstone park and then to Portland and Seattle. They took a boat trip to the navy yards at Bremerton, Wash. The party drove to Vancouver and then through Canada to Lake Louise, Banff and Winnipeg. They then came to St. Paul and to Wayne. The Millens have been spending several days here with Mrs. Miller's cousin, Mrs. J. H. Wright, and family before leaving for their home.

"Suppose you could live life over again" is a question people often discuss. Have you thought of it too? Yes, sir, men and women, most people, I believe, have thought this over. St. Paul says, "One thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Huckleberry Finn Is Coming to Gay

Paramount's new production of "Huckleberry Finn," which will show at the Gay theatre here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 6, 7 and 8, recalls the Paramount silent picturization of the illustrious Mark Twain story more than eleven years ago.

In the silent version, the role of Huck, which Junior Durkin portrayed in the new picture, was played by Lewis Sargent, and the part of Tom Sawyer, in which Jackie Coogan is cast, was characterized by Gordon Griffith.

It is interesting to note that the character of Sid Sawyer, played now by Jackie Searl, was not written into the 1920 film. "Huckleberry Finn," in talking form, gives youngster Searl another opportunity to match his performances in "Tom Sawyer" and "Skippy."

The part of Becky Thatcher, played by Mitzel Green, was in charge of Thelma Salter in the 1920 version. Clara Bladnick's character of Aunt Polly was then handled by Edythe Chappana.

William D. Taylor directed both "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer" for Paramount back in 1920. Norman Taugog directed the talking production of "Huckleberry Finn." Taugog has been giving much of his attention lately to the production of pictures with juvenile players. He directed "Skippy" and "Forbidden Adventure." Nearly two hundred young players were given roles and bit parts in the talking production of "Huckleberry Finn."

County Clubs Get Praise Of Judge

Sewing Groups Give Show of Dresses Made as a Part of Club Work.

What to wear and how to wear it as well as to make it was exemplified by members of the 4-H sewing clubs at the style show held in the main tent at Dixon county fair last Friday afternoon. About 50 girls, all members of Dixon or Wayne county clubs, paraded the dresses which they had made as required projects in the club work.

Margaret J. Doney of Ponca carried away high honors in the senior group, and Geraldine Sherman of Concord was high point girl in the junior group. Girls who scored the highest number of points for work during the club year were Laura Wilson of Dixon, senior class and Mildred Nelson of Dixon, junior class.

How the popularity of the 4-H club work has grown is shown by the fact that last year only three clubs exhibited work at Concord fair. This year there were 15 clubs showing.

Cooking and sewing and ropeties were shown by club members at the 4-H club tent. Two cooking demonstrations were held, one on Thursday by Concord and Dixon girls, who made muffins before an interested audience; and one Friday when Wakefield and Ponca girls demonstrated.

Plan for Work.
Mrs. Ed Nelson of Weston, Neb., who judged the fancywork and cooking and had charge of all the 4-H club work at the fair, spoke very highly of the effort made in Concord to produce 4-H club results. She encouraged members to go to the state fair at Lincoln if possible, availing themselves of the opportunity to visit the magnificent new 4-H club building which has just been completed.

In the interest of the work, although no county agent has been provided, a county organization was perfected for Dixon county. The leaders will be as follows: Mrs. Ralph Yeoman of Ponca, general chairman; Mrs. Joe Phillips of Dixon, secretary and treasurer. District chairmen were also appointed to take charge of the work.

Have Health Contest.
On Friday, the 4-H club had a health contest which was judged by Dr. Killian of Wakefield. Dr. Byers of Allen and Dr. Phillips of Dixon. Thelma Manz had the highest senior score, and would be eligible to go to the state fair.

Gerald Dahlquist Describes Africa

Written July 17, and received only last week, the letters of Gerald Dahlquist, missionary in Sudan, French West Africa, received no less a welcome for their long delay. The letters describe interesting details of the life a missionary must lead in the far countries, dwelling particularly on the food problem.

Last year seed corn was shipped to the Dahlquist mission group from Kansas City. This year the missionaries have been enjoying real American sweet corn on the cob, a delicacy which a middle-westerner is well equipped to appreciate.

In one of his letters, Mr. Dahlquist tells of the various dishes which the natives prepare in advance to the visits of the missionaries. To his surprise at first, some of the food was found to be exceptionally fine, although some of it unsuited to the American palate.

During the past few months, their particular section has been plentifully supplied with rain, Mr. Dahlquist reports. This season in the winter time, when heavy rains and generally inclement weather may be expected, although the mission group seems not to object, and to be highly interested in the work.

For August Roebber.
August Roebber was surprised at his home last week Wednesday evening when 40 relatives came in to celebrate his birthday anniversary with him. The evening was spent socially, and refreshments were served at a late hour.

Friday evening the young people will meet for a young people's society to be organized. We ask all interested to come.

The Young People's conference held at Polk, Neb., was no doubt the best attended and most successful conference ever held at camp, and we are indeed grateful to God for the blessings received.

We were pleased to see so many attend the conference at Polk from our church at Concord.

The evening services will be held in the respective churches from now on. We have greatly enjoyed the union services held at the band stand, and we will look forward for the time we can have them again. But in the meantime we urge our friends of Concord and vicinity to send their children regularly to the Sunday schools, and accompany them, as often as possible and enjoy some church services.
