DIESEL UNIT IS BEING PLACED IN CITY PLANT

Workmen Begin Task of Preparing Space for New Engine Unit.

Tear Out Old Wall

Changes Will Give City Best of Current Service to Supply Anticipated Needs.

IN preparation for the installation of a new Diesel unit at the city light and power plant, the interior is being remodeled, and some of the old equipment is being removed. Two old boilers, one installed in 1914, the other put in some years later, have been taken out, and the southwest wall of the plant will be removed to make space for the new equipment.

The two old boilers will be discarded and another one will be re-set in the place of one of the discarded boilers, making more floor space in the building. The floor space for the new engine will be especially prepared, with new concrete poured, and foundation supports laid before the machinery arrives.

"We do not expect the new Diesel to come before the first week in December," states S. A. Hempel, "but we want to have everything in readiness before it does arrive."

Comes from New York. The Diesel comes from Auburn, New York, its place of manufacture. When it comes, its place will be ready for it, and the transfer can be made smoothly. City officials feel that the addition of this new equipment will give the city a fine supply of dependable electric current.

Preliminary work on plant remodeling began some weeks ago. Six men are at work now, removing the bricks that will make the new wall opening and changing the boilers into their new situations.

Engineer Injured As Train Derails

E. J. Lynch, an engineer, suffered a severed artery on top of the head early Wednesday evening when a freight engine went off on the "Y" just west of Wayne. The engine was tipped at a 45 degree angle, and occupants were given severe jolt, which resulted in a head cut to the engineer. The other two occupants of the cab were unhurt. Mr. Lynch's injury was treated at once and was not considered serious. Help had to be summoned to get the train under way.

GARMENTS NEEDED FOR FAMILIES IN WAYNE TERRITORY

THE HERALD will be glad to aid as a medium between families in need of clothing and those who have outgrown and discarded garments and who wish to donate them. Many second-hand pieces of wearing apparel are going to waste because of lack of contact with persons who could make them over for their children. There are women in Wayne county who lack means to provide necessary clothing, but who are very capable in making garments and will do so if they have the material with which to work. Mrs. W. C. Fox who lives at 1014 Douglas street, and whose telephone number is 140J, is looking after welfare work for the county, the Red Cross and the W. C. T. U., and she needs active cooperation in carrying on the work. Mrs. Fox has been leading in worthy welfare work here for five years, and she is usually conversant with the needs of unfortunate families. She finds some difficulty, however, in making contact with needy families in the county outside of Wayne. Persons who need assistance in the way of clothing or who know of some who do need help, are asked to call Mrs. Fox. She reports need of more shoes, and she suggests that a way ought to be provided to resole shoes. Often shoes that are donated have such dilapidated soles that they are quite useless without repairs. Manifestly it would be practical economy for the Red Cross or the county to finance the repairing of shoes. Besides shoes, Mrs. Fox reports the need of rubbers and overshoes and underwear for children. Old quilts and other bedding will be acceptable. Last Saturday Mrs. Fox supplied twelve families, and needs will increase as the weather sharpens. Due to unusual conditions, large families in different sections of the county will suffer without help. Organized effort and closer cooperation are important. People who have garments to give, or those who are in need of aid, should make themselves known.

COUNCILMEN REJECT ALL BIDS SHOWN

Refunding of Intersection Bonds Is Discussed at Tuesday Meeting.

Plan Changes Here

Order Laying of Sidewalk and Abatement of Nuisance in City Improvements.

FIVE sealed bids on refunding $101,000 worth of Wayne intersection bonds were received Tuesday evening by councilmen in regular meeting at the city hall. After consideration of the bids, all were rejected as failing to meet the requirements of the city at this time. The council asked for bids on bonds coming due serially during the 20 year period, and also for bids on bonds optional at ten years, but mature at 20 years.

The council sat as a board of equalization Tuesday evening to discuss assessments in paving district number 10. Valuations were fixed, and the resolution on valuation was adopted.

Councilmen decided to draft the contract with the Diesel engine company to include the provisions concerning installation, liability, and other questions. The new engine has not been received as yet, but preparations are being made at the city plant to accommodate the machinery. It should arrive about the first of December.

To Make Improvements. As a city improvement, property owners of lot 22, block 2, in College View addition to Wayne, are to be requested to lay sidewalk. The council acted in accord with precedent in making the request.

In order to abate the nuisance of having a building entryway obstruct tenth street, councilmen decided to order the removal of such an entryway from the cafe belonging to the Jones estate. It is charged that the entryway mentioned extends so far over the sidewalk as to make it impossible for pedestrians to use conveniently the walk at that point.

KIWANIANS HEAR SHORT TALK IN CLUB

Prof. O. R. Bowen Presents Program on Nation's First President.

Delegates Speak

Fremont Convention Is Described by Members Who Attended Session Last Week.

GEORGE Washington as man, soldier, statesman and immortal was eulogized briefly Monday noon by Prof. O. R. Bowen, who took charge of the Monday lunch program of Kiwanis club, held at Hotel Stratton. The program was given in observance of the Washington bi-centennial, which is being celebrated throughout the land, and for which a commission has been established in Washington, D. C. The commission has been charged with the task of bringing to light the more obscure facts in the life of the nation's first president, and giving the people of the land a better understanding of one of its great citizens.

In his address, Prof. Bowen outlined the life of Washington, describing the biographical background of a busy life, filled with the events of nations. Against this biographical background, he sketched his four points, dealing with Washington as an individual, as an army officer, as a leader of state, and as one remembered in history.

Delegates Report. Fred Blair and St. H. R. Best, both of whom attended the district convention of Kiwanis at Fremont last week, spoke briefly concerning the convention program. Between 400 and 450 Kiwanians from this section were registered at the gathering, and enjoyed the special plans which had been made in their honor.

Election of officers was held, with Clark Beems of Cedar Rapids elected as governor of the district. Charles Craven was elected lieutenant-governor for this district, which extends east and north of Omaha, to include a large number of clubs.

Mr. Craven has held other offices in the club here before, as he is past president of the Wayne club, and attended the Kiwanis international meeting held at Milwaukee three years ago. The Wayne club feels that it shares the honor in Mr. Craven's election.

Rev. W. C. Caspey, the new pastor of the Methodist church, has been invited to speak at the next luncheon meeting of the club. His subject has not been announced.

Folda sold 100 acres, unimproved, south of Howells, to George Pederman at $135 an acre; Dr. M. J. Dowd sold 100 acres near Schuyler to Joseph Kutz at $135 an acre; Anna Deichmann sold 160 acres near Leigh to Charles Jeddicks at $110 an acre. RAIN HINDERS WORK OF GAS LINE DIGGERS

Digging Crews Beginning to Ditch for Natural Gas System in Wayne.

Weld Pipe Lines

Officials Explain Pressure As It Operates in Town and in Country Pipe Lines.

RAIN has held up the hand digging of ditches for natural gas mains in Wayne, although the work has been started, and should progress rapidly, with favorable weather, reports C. K. Wright of the construction company. A hand crew of about 15 men had completed digging ditches in about three city blocks when rain began to fall Monday morning. One block of pipe line in the city had been welded. Rain stopped the work, which was suspended only until weather should become favorable. The city crew will number about 100 men when the work reaches its peak.

Thirteen miles of ditching have been completed east to the six-inch line in the country. Practically all of the welding has been finished on this stretch, also, insuring early completion of this part of the system. On the main line into Wayne, ditching is nearly done, and perhaps three or four more days of work will see the finish of this main line welding.

The take-off line from Wayne to Wakefield is practically finished, with the pipe strung and welded, and the ditches dug. Work in Wakefield proper will be finished in a couple of days, if the weather is favorable.

Work Advances Now. On the take-off line which is designed to serve Emerson, digging has been finished, and the work of welding will be done soon. The completion of various sectors of cross-country work will hasten the final completion date, which is set for the middle of November.

Pipes laid in the ditches are of various sizes, pipe line officials explain, in order to take care of varying quantities and pressures of fuel. All pipes used are tested for higher pressure than they will ever carry, simply as a safety measure. Pipe of the six-inch size, for example, can stand about 860 pounds of pressure.

Gas comes into homes, however, at a pressure of only a few pounds which is sufficient to give it fuel utility at the greatest efficiency. The reduction is effected at reducing stations at the edge of town, for example, where the high pressure is reduced to one or two pounds, which will carry through city mains. Some mains in the city, on the other hand, will carry high pressures to serve their neighborhoods, while other mains will be required to carry much lower pressures. Extra demands for pressure, however, are met, not only locally, so there can be no shortage of supply in a neighborhood, where the demand for pressure rises at certain hours during the day, company officials state.

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 23 Wayne, Nebr., Thursday, October 15, 1931 Vol. 5

Maybe you didn't know it but we found it a few weeks ago. There's such a thing as "hot fever" and it's just as bad as the "spring" variety.

We do not favor throwing ash on the fire to hold the heat. You might just as well throw in dirt. A better way, we think, is to use good slack coal. This will cook over and hold in the heat. In the morning, this crust is broken, the drafts are opened and a beautiful fire starts promptly.

Foresight is what a man gets credit for having when other people build a town around his weed patches.

The dance, called Black Bottom, is said to have originated by a college student who absent-mindedly stuck a lighted pipe in his hip pocket.

It's good business judgment to order coal now. The price is better and there is no rush. See us about this order early plan.

There are many different kinds of coal. They are graded on the basis of heat units. Some have more, some less. The prices vary according to the amount of heat the coal is capable of delivering to you. You get the grade you pay for.

The best comment we've heard lately on the lumber business was the man who said, "You have to run like a hare these days to stay where you're at."

This week we received another lot of these big, straight white cedar posts. Eighteen cents is a small price to pay for as big a post as we are selling.

We sometimes wonder if all the 98 senators talk as much around home as they do in congress.

You can't beat the old cedar shingles when it comes to wearing qualities.

Things are picking up in The Knot Hole saw. It's done on time for the first time since it took charge of us.

We have fencing for you — six feet or six thousand.

THE WAYNE HERALD

E. W. Huss, Editor and Proprietor. The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne, County. Published Every Thursday.

Breath of Fear AT HIS home in the Ozarks, W. H. Harvey, author of Coin's Financial School, whose doctrine of free and unlimited coinage of silver was put to rest following the presidential campaign in 1896, is building a memorial to what he believes is a dying civilization.

Harvey's one idea that civilization is to be wrecked on failure to adopt his free silver scheme proves the fallacy of his line of reasoning. The assumption that society is rocking perilously on a faulty monetary system is too thin to disturb or alarm.

The world over, many people had become recklessly extravagant. Many young persons whose idea of correct living was to fly high and avoid work, are getting down to business. Doubtless the human stock was becoming enfeebled through too much luxury and too little responsibility.

Hoover's New Plan JUST AS in time of war when groups of conflicting opinions are asked to lay aside differences and mobilize forces for national defense, now President Hoover has urged disarming political factions to get behind a movement to restore confidence and remove the pall of world depression.

The prolongation of the depression by the succession of events in Europe, affecting as they have both commodity and security prices, has produced in some to a hitherto unjustified in view of the thousandfold resources we have for meeting any demand.

On Being Happy ONE may not be supremely happy—probably shouldn't be for his own good. If happiness means bubbling ecstasy, one could not stand much of it without losing his poise and constructive qualities.

At last gravel has been spread over the entire length of the Wayne-Winside highway and the danger of encountering impassable mud on the line is over.

The strike of 3,000 Boston longshoremen suggests that times must be picking up in the east. The difference between the longshoremen and millions of other unemployed is that the former have retired voluntarily.

To counties like Wayne where more corn is fed than produced, the proposition to raise the price to 80 cents per bushel would be satisfactory if hog and cattle prices were raised accordingly.

Building activities in Wayne continue to excite the surprise of visitors from other parts of the country. Improvements are greater than those of the average year, and more numerous than those in any community of equal population in the state.

The bank that quit business at Holdrege followed a unique course. Its officers and directors decided that three banks were too many in the town and invited depositors to call and receive their money.

President Hoover's statement that he will not concede further financial relief to Europe until it reduces expenditures for military and naval purposes, reflects sound sense. Contributing relief to a country that is using large sums to build up a frowning war machine, despite the cost and horror of war, despite the popular feeling everywhere against war, is on a par with contributing money to charity while the beneficiary drives an automobile, goes to the circus, buys toy cannons for his kids and cusses the government.

The Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman points out that steel prices are still too high to correspond with other commodity prices. Thus, things employing steel do not drop harmoniously. In order to be fair to agriculture, prices for all commodities which the farmer buys should be brought down to a level with markets for products which he has to sell.

Moisture came Monday in accordance with the rule of one rain each week with the wet period moved up one day each time. Rain spoiled Friday of fair week. The next week it came Thursday, then Wednesday, then Tuesday and now Monday. Unless the plan is changed, the next rain will fall Sunday. Late moisture has soaked into the ground and is giving substance to the prospect.

The way Wayne business men are responding to the demands of the time by advertising reduced prices and inviting trade on grounds of economy as well as quality, as witness the Herald's advertising pages, eminently justifies this point as a trade center of growing popularity. Look to the Herald each week for valuable buying information.

Better Than Optimism. New York Times: There has been wondering and even bitter complaint of the present lack of the old American indomitable hopefulness. It is said that the despondency is universal. Not only business but the spirit of men is depressed. Efforts are frequently made to galvanize the people into something like cheerfulness. But they seem to make little impression. The daily press, like the casual talk of the multitude, is full of reports and statistics showing how DODGING BLAME. Rare indeed is the human bird who will accept responsibility for his own mistakes or follies. If he slips on the pavement and skins his knees and tears his pants, he blames the street cleaner or the city administration. If he has an automobile collision, the other fellow is at fault. If he invests unwisely and loses thereby he shifts responsibility to his wife if convenience suggests no one else. Poor business during a depression is charged primarily to the president because he is held responsible for the depression. Any business that lags behind the average for a hard-time period divides responsibility between the president and unfair competitors.

At last gravel has been spread over the entire length of the Wayne-Winside highway and the danger of encountering impassable mud on the line is over. Regraveling of stretches between Wayne and Wakefield and of some on the highway north and south of here is still to be realized this fall.

A pressing invitation to us to join the United States army is doubtless inspired by an understanding of our long experience in the newspaper business which is equivalent to experience in the army, most of the time in front line trenches.

The strike of 3,000 Boston longshoremen suggests that times must be picking up in the east. The difference between the longshoremen and millions of other unemployed is that the former have retired voluntarily.

To counties like Wayne where more corn is fed than produced, the proposition to raise the price to 80 cents per bushel would be satisfactory if hog and cattle prices were raised accordingly.

BEING BORN. Doubtless prompted by our strong partiality to Wayne a new-comer asks if we were born here. We know of no place where we would rather have been born than in Wayne. The town was not in existence at the time. However, when one is born is not so important as where he lives, buds and blooms, and residence by adoption, quite as loyal as residence by birth, in determining which latter the subject is not consulted and is permitted to exercise no judgment. We know of no town that one can commend with as little qualification as Wayne. One does not have to apologize and swallow two or three times in speaking well of Wayne or of Wayne county's farming communities. There are no weak spots to cover and no serious ground for complaint. If everything does not move along serenely and in accordance with expectations one may use a couple of extra brain cells in roasting some one believed to be throwing monkey wrenches, and hindering progress, but the cause for irritation soon passes and the two aforementioned brain cells are allowed to lapse back into quiescence. Similar experiences are had usually in more aggravated form in other and less civilized communities. Wayne has some faults, but usually other places have worse ones and more of them.

Favorable Signs. Speaking of hopeful prospects at home and abroad, the Nebraska Farmer makes this reference to turn for the better in this country: "Things have been taking place in our own country too. Farmers have suffered for ten years under the burden of an unequal exchange between their products and those of the factory. This could be traced to several causes not the least of which was that things entering into the cost of manufacture have been on too high a level. The principal of these items is labor which represents about 75 percent of the cost of manufactured articles. It was almost hopeless to expect a very great reduction in the price level of non-agricultural commodities until this condition was righted. The sun broke through the clouds when some of the largest industrial concerns announced wage reductions amounting to 10 percent and in some cases more. The reasonableness of these reductions is shown in the figures of the national industrial conference board which indicate that compared with 1923 the following reductions in cost of living have taken place: Clothing 21.8 per cent; food, 18.1 per cent; housing, 18.5 per cent; fuel and light, 10.4 per cent; sundries, 4.5 per cent.

Page Boxer Suicide. Page, Nebraska, October 5.—Robert Vinker, 22, who was known over the state as a boxer, hanged himself Saturday afternoon in the barn at the home of his mother, Mrs. Blanche Vinker, four miles southeast of Page. The body was not found until 8:30 p. m. when he failed to appear for supper and his mother went to look for him. He had been dead several hours. Mrs. Vinker said her son had been in poor health lately and Friday afternoon had gone to O'Neill to consult a physician. He returned home about 6:30 that evening and seemed discouraged, but in Saturday morning seemed to feel and act as usual. Saturday noon he ate a hearty dinner then went to the barn. The county coroner pronounced it a case of suicide.

Girls Are Enjoying Their Scout Cabin. Girl scouts are enjoying their cabin southeast of Wayne this fall. On Friday 38 girls went to the grounds for their regular work and preparation of supper over campfire. Mrs. A. V. Teed, Mrs. George Berres, Miss Gladys Vath, Mrs. P. A. Theibald, Mrs. L. W. Ellis, Mrs. M. L. Ringer and Mrs. S. A. Lutgen accompanied them. To earn athletic credits at school the girls walked part way home and the women picked them up in cars for the rest of the trip.

Hit the Deck! The price of hairshirts seems to have come down, along with that of other male clothing. Anyone can have one for the asking. Also, as with Thanksgiving turkeys and other timely delicacies, hairshirts seem to be furnished the President free of cost, donated by the most approved hairshirt makers in this and other countries. Now and then he returns one with instructions to the maker to wear it himself, but most of the time, owing to a super-sensitive temperament and an unfortunate muddled grasp of psychology, he wears the darn things when sent him. He hates them, but he will wear them and go right on doing the best he can, even for the donors of said hairshirts, if they are regular American citizens. For that stern Huldah Hoover conscientiousness persists in spite of the fact (maybe largely because of the fact) that the President is not a politician. Hairshirt or no hairshirt, he is going to work at the job to the limit of his ability. He reminds one anew of the ancientest of stories—of the Maine citizen who, when asked where he was going, said, "I'm goin' down to Augustus to get drunk, an' gosh, how I dew dread it!" The Washington Wash. By Strickland Gillilan. Washington, D. C.—I am one of these hold-no-brief chaps who do no crusading what-the-heck-ever. If ever I crusaded it would be in a holy war against crusading. I have seen enough crusades go piff and fade to a fall, here in your and my national capital, to be off crusades forever. However, I have opinions. I not only have opinions, but I stand ready to be shown they are wrong, which proves, even if Who's Who didn't which it does, that I am getting a little age on me. And just the other day, reading one of the heel-yapping departments by a young squirt in one of the Washington papers, I found that it would be impossible for me to do that! Once I was young enough and ignorant enough to heel-yap, but now I can't. Glory be, I am threatened with having good sense!

out over any name for a long time. From a patriotic standpoint it assumed Olympian heights, and in clarity it yields to nothing I have seen. Those of us who knew in 1928 he meant he was not going to run, knew it this time before his statement, but I think heaven there were enough nit wits in the country to make it necessary for him to come out flatly and state his position. For thus we gained a statesman-like document we should not otherwise have had.

That statement is, to me, the litmus paper that tests people's gumption. I like to sit around and hear it discussed (and it IS still discussed, believe me) and get a line on people. Those who wag their heads and say "Oh yeah? But he didn't come right out, etc.," are listed by me with an o. e. g. represented by a double goose-egg. They are hopeless. Just because he said only twice in the article that he would not be a candidate and that he was in favor of the Hoover renomination, and didn't say it the third and fourth time, they are saying maybe he didn't mean it. Tch, tch, tch!

Senator Jimmy Davis of Pennsylvania, when asked to comment on the Coolidge article rose to heights of unexpected humor that will make Hoping Rogers, Cracking Cantor and Jittering Jolson jealous, by saying he was "not a politician." Oh, my soul and body! Stop Jim, you're making me crack my sore lip! If there is one super, nothing-else-but politician in the solar system, it is one James J. Davis, former secretary of labor in three cabinets and now a United States senator from Pennsylvania. It was super politics that put him at the head of the Moose and that enabled him to build a most magnificent and beneficent institution at Mooseheart, Ill., while simultaneously building up a lovely estate for himself, and at the same time to get and hold a public position of honor and dignity and go on and on holding office. Yet he won't comment on the Coolidge screed because he "isn't a politician." Jimmy, you great big cut-up you! You limbo! You scamp! You tease.

Joe Watson was found guilty on charges of assaulting E. H. Marley and of intoxication in county court, October 8. He was given 30 days sentence and was assessed the amount of $47.25, which he paid. He was paroled.

Harry Hillebaumer was found guilty in county court last Thursday to charge of not paying a board bill, the claim being filed by Hubert Tschauner of Wayne. Defendant was sentenced to serve 30 days with one cooked meal a day and to pay costs of $5.65. He is paroled to work and his wages will be handed by the court in payment of the bill.

Harold Hayes, charged by the railroad company with taking cigarettes valued at $17, was found guilty in county court Thursday. He was sentenced to 30 days and was paroled to work. His costs are $7.65.

Boys of troop No. 174 who passed for merit badges were as follows: Robert Cunningham, athletics, firemanship, life saving, personal health, animal industry and star badge for five merits; Kenyon Lewis, swimming; Milton Dawson, agriculture, wood carving, insect life, swimming and soils management; Jean Huntener, hammerfoot rank.

Boys of troop No. 175 passed as follows: Einar Barnstrom, first aid; Tom Cavanaugh, first aid, craft, first aid, life saving; Frank Strahan, firemanship and life saving; and Keith Cartwright, team tenderfoot to second class scout.

The scout troops held their regular meetings this week for work.

The Rub. Geneva Signal: The valley county farm bureau has adopted a resolution against joining in the movement to shove corn up to 60 cents because most Valley county farmers will have to buy corn with which to feed their own livestock, which gives the other side of the picture. All of us would be delighted to see corn go up to 60 cents if there were some possibility that the prices of hogs and cattle would advance correspondingly, but there's the rub.

The Rub. Geneva Signal: The valley county farm bureau has adopted a resolution against joining in the movement to shove corn up to 60 cents because most Valley county farmers will have to buy corn with which to feed their own livestock, which gives the other side of the picture. All of us would be delighted to see corn go up to 60 cents if there were some possibility that the prices of hogs and cattle would advance correspondingly, but there's the rub.

Gamble Stores Strike at Unemployment
Hire 165 New Men.
Gamble stores—operating Auto supply and radio stores in the northwest—have added 165 men to their personnel during the past week.
These men are to assist principally in the sale of new radio. This move is in line with Gamble's policy as announced last January of continuing their expansion and sales programs—at this time, when continued action of this kind will do much to help unemployment and better business conditions generally. As evidence of this policy, Gamble Stores have opened twenty-five new stores during 1931—increasing their personnel by 56 men.

CORYELL GARAGE IN NEW BUILDING

ALL DETAILS IN BUILDING HERE MODERN

W. C. Coryell Locates In New Structure After Several Years.

Plans For Opening

Staff Includes Several Who Have Been Employed In Wayne For Long Period.

LOCATED in its new brick and tile structure on east Second street, the Coryell Auto company welcomes visitors to inspect the building. As soon as possible W. C. Coryell, owner and manager, plans formal opening in the new quarters with a dance for the public.

The new garage is built and arranged according to needs which Mr. Coryell has observed in his many years of experience in the automobile business. The structure, 61 by 150 feet, is of brick and tile with steel beams and supports, making it as nearly fire proof as possible. The garage has a front entrance on Second street and openings at the side and back which make it accessible through paved alleys from any of the other three directions. Such arrangement makes driving into and out of the garage easy and convenient. The building gives commodious quarters for the service and storage departments. One corner of the work room is especially fitted with good light and drainage for greasing and washing of cars. Another portion is partitioned off for painting and rebuilding wrecked cars, a work on which the garage will place more emphasis.

Show room in the new structure is large enough to permit best display of cars. Two offices, adjacent the display room and are convenient and ample. The garage is steam heated, an oil burner furnishing heat. Convenient rest rooms are included.

Mr. Coryell who is owner and active head of the firm, has been in Wayne twelve years. He was previously in the garage business in Sioux City. Since coming here he has operated an independent repair garage eight years, and the other four years has had Chevrolet sales and service also.

The Coryell garage staff consists of several persons who have served long periods of years in the business. Ralph Crockett, who is service room foreman, has spent his entire life in Wayne. He has been in mechanical work nearly 20 years and has been with Mr. Coryell five years.

William Thompson, who is well known to Wayne residents, has been with Mr. Coryell the entire 12 years he has been in Wayne. His service as a garage mechanic totals about 18 years.

John Groskurth, another mechanic, has been with Mr. Coryell during his twelve years here and has done mechanical work in Wayne about 17 years.

Carl Bernston has been doing mechanical work in the Coryell garage two years, but his experience in this work in Wayne totals about 18 years.

Fred Bilson, machinist for many years, has been employed in mechanical labor in the Coryell company three years.

Joe Haber, with Mr. Coryell the past three years and two years previously, has charge of painting and car washing.

Leb Joseph, who has been here a year and a half, is in charge of battery and electrical work. In the office force W. C. Fox has charge of parts. He has been with Mr. Coryell four years. Mrs. Mildred Conger, head bookkeeper, has been in the Coryell employ for eleven years. Miss Bernice Sylvanus has assisted in keeping books for two years. Otto Olson and Arthur Glaser are salesmen with the Coryell company. The former has been here a year and the latter three months. The new garage, which was built as nearly as possible by local labor, was in charge of G. August Johnson, contractor. Theobald Lumber company furnished building materials. H. B. Claven had the heating and plumbing contract.

To Be Fit For Winter Driving

With the coming of the wide temperature ranges experienced at this season of the year, the motorist will find it to his advantage to have the motor returned and adjusted, according to M. D. Douglas, general parts and service manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company. "One of the distinct advantages of the modern automobile over its early predecessors is found in the fact that the motor today can be adjusted to give maximum performance in all seasons. A motorist who drives through the winter with a car adjusted to summer weather conditions deprives himself of much of the car's capacity for performance, and needlessly it increases its operating expense," Mr. Douglas said.

The carburetor should be checked, and the valves should be adjusted to prevent loss of compression. The ignition system, especially the timing, should be cleaned thoroughly and checked for proper adjustment; the proper functioning of the ignition system is essential to easy starting on cold mornings.

Other suggestions made by Mr. Douglas include a thorough flushing out and cleaning of the cooling system; draining and flushing the crankcase and refilling with a good grade of oil. And, perhaps most important of all, the brakes should be adjusted, or, if necessary, relined.

Moving to New Quarters

LOCATED in our new garage on east Second street, we invite the public to call and inspect our building. After years of experience in the automobile selling and service business we have realized an ambition to have a garage designed to give the best possible display for cars and most convenience in servicing them. With these aims in view we have built according to teaching of our experience.

Ample In Size.

Our new structure is 61 by 150 and provides sufficient floor space for every need. The show room is large enough to allow those looking at cars to see them from every angle. Storage room will accommodate many cars and permits easy access for driving into and out of the garage. The service department is commodious and allows plenty of room for thorough work.

Building Fire Proof.

Brick and tile walls, concrete floor, steel beams and supports make the new garage practically fire proof.

Modern Throughout.

Every device to make the garage modern and up-to-date in every respect has been installed. Patrons are thus assured garage service they might expect only in large cities.

Chevrolet Sales Lead.

Chevrolet leads in the motor world for number sold, for its beauty, service and low price. Millions prefer Chevrolet. And this very fact enables Chevrolet to give better values for less each year. See the new models now on display in our show room.

We make liberal allowance on your old car in trade. And we have used cars that can be bought at bargain prices. Every used car has many miles of service in it.

Car Service.

We service Chevrolets and all other makes of cars. Our service department is completely equipped to do best work in every line. Skilled mechanics are in charge.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE
C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minnesota, will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method in WAYNE, TUESDAY, OCT. 27, at the Stratton Hotel from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Please come early.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says:
The "Perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Bring your children. According to statistics 95 per cent recover by our method.

ATTENTION: You cannot fit yourself successfully with appliances sent by mail. It requires personal attention by an expert to obtain lasting results.
