

IN AN AREA OF RICH RESOURCES AND HIGH CITIZENSHIP

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1931.

NUMBER TWENTY-NINE

What's New of Interest to Wayne Citizens as Well as World.

Warm dry weather and high winds during September matured the corn crop more rapidly than was good for it, states the report of the Nebraska division of agricultural statistics.

According to estimates made the first of October, the condition of corn in the state is 51 percent, with the 17 bushel average will fulfill.

Moisture is still short over most of the state, although autumn rains in some sections have helped to reduce the shortage encouragingly.

Lighting Progress Path. From tallow candles to electric lights is quite a span, but one which many persons can remember.

A reminder of the golden days of oratory was the Smoot-Hawley tariff debate held in Sioux City Saturday between Senator Pat Harrison democrat from Mississippi, and Senator L. J. Dickinson republican from Iowa.

The two speakers took up a discussion of the older tariff provisions, comparing them with the newer concessions, and enlivening the old democratic and republican versions of the question with amusing personal allusions.

Both men were excellent speakers. "Stated Mr. Kiernan, who believes the occasion was well worth the attention of the many politicians who came from a radius of 150 miles to hear the argument."

Almost a Tornado. Late in the season though it is, Monday's weather was an excellent imitation of the kind that usually precedes one of Nebraska's nastiest tornadoes.

At Season's End. With the close of the harvest season, farmers are checking up on the year's returns, and estimating local production.

Install Machine to Aid Dentistry. Dr. L. E. Young has installed an X-ray machine in his dental office in Wayne.

Sojourners In Alaska See Country's Rich Resources As Store Of Wealth

Alaska is the United States' treasure house thinks Mrs. Arnold Karo, the former Miss Lella Mitchell who is visiting here following a five months' sojourn in the possession. The importance of Alaska's great resources of furs, coal, minerals, fish, lumber, and other riches has never been realized, the Karos agree, although the time is coming when the United States will find it necessary to take cognizance of Alaska.

Seward, where the Karos were located, is a far smaller town than one would think unless he had been reading the atlas lately. Only about 800 inhabitants are located in Seward, and not more than half of the number are Americans. The remainder of the population includes Scandinavian fishermen, most of whom are immigrants from their native shores, and a great many uneducated native Indians.

The presence of Americans in Seward makes social life almost imperative. A number of clubs have been organized, and women spend their time much as they do in the smaller towns in this country. An excellent library is an attraction when other entertainments fail.

A Daily Newspaper.

The fact that Seward, a town of 800, has a daily newspaper is very striking and one which publishes of the Seward Gateway often mention. A wire service supplements the local news, and the paper comes out every day. Its plant, Mrs. Karo observed, is well-equipped and takes care of large quantities of job printing in the back country.

Seward is not dependent on her back country, however, for the city is faced on one side by a wide and attractive port, and on the other with formidable mountains. The back country is very rough and, as a consequence, is undeveloped. Only about 18 miles of highway are to be found in the vicinity of Seward, and all Alaska has only one great highway. Railroads fare a little better where mileage is concerned although tariffs are so high that automobile is still, and railroad prosperity is negligible.

National appropriations for roads will have to be made before Alaska can develop her resources as she should, all observers agree. In Seward there are no paved streets, only dirt roads, and gravel paths. A few of the paths have been supplemented by cement sidewalks, but this is an exception to the general rule.

Developing Country.

"Alaska is our last frontier," Mrs. Karo states, for she looks upon it as the last country into which pioneers may go and develop natural resources. Interest in Alaska is great in cities along the north coast, although the country as a whole has not yet become "Alaska-conscious."

Alaskans burn their own coal, but they are not able to eat their own vegetables because they are too expensive. This strange condition arises because the finest vegetables are raised in the very excellent gardens at Fairbanks, and the rail rates from Fairbanks to other cities are so high that the vegetables become prohibitively high priced. Therefore it is cheaper for Alaskans to eat vegetables shipped in from Seattle once a week. The boats come twice a week in open weather, and once when weather conditions are not so good.

Most foods are shipped in, with the exception of small fruits and berries which can be raised on the peninsula. Fish, of course, abound in Alaskan waters, and on Alaskan tables. Most common, Mrs. Karo states, are halibut and salmon which are canned and packed in Alaska and shipped to all parts of the world. Alaska black cod, which really is a fish with white meat, is also popular and very palatable. Crabs are plentiful and delicious, and several varieties of trout are found in inland streams.

Butter and Egg Market.

Even butter and eggs come up from Seattle, but while they lived in Seward, the Karos were able to get fine milk and cream from a local dairy. Aside from these special points, Alaskan diet last summer was similar to that elsewhere, Mrs. Karo found.

Whatever Alaska produces, the visitors noted, is superlative. Hardy flowers grow in Alaska, but they are larger than anywhere else in the world. The wild flowers are of the common varieties, but their size is magnified. Vegetables are as tender and as succulent as elsewhere, but sizes larger. Long sunny days during the summer months seem to be responsible for this phenomenon, although the richness of the untouched soil is also responsible, in a measure.

The Karos found the summer mild and pleasant, although the weather was not warm until June. Trees were beautiful, and added to the grace and charm of the gorgeous scenery. Birch and cottonwood trees are included among the leodious varieties, and all kinds of fir and pine trees are to be observed. High mountains, rugged canyons, and deep water contribute to the loveliness of northern scenery.

The Karos will be in the United States for some two months, visiting relatives here and at Lyons, where Mr. Karo's parents live. Mr. Karo's next appointment is in the Philippine Islands, where they will spend two years. The change from northern to tropical climate will be an intriguing one, and this traveled couple is anticipating the move with great interest.

Council Is In Usual Session

Councilors met at the city hall Tuesday evening to discuss current business and to allow bills for city expense. They talked over the work of the construction companies in installing the natural gas lines, and made recommendations to the construction men concerning the work.

A request to build sidewalks on lots 10, 11 and 12, block two of the John Lake addition was agreed upon, and the owner will be asked to put in a walk to correspond with sidewalk already ordered in.

The council adjourned to the next regular session after discussion of city improvements.

THE WAYNE HERALD

E. W. Huse, Editor and Proprietor. The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County. Published Every Thursday.

FOR GOVERNOR. Governor Chas. W. Bryan has filed as a candidate to succeed himself subject to wishes of democratic voters in the primaries next April.

The governor mentions his purpose to see that no person suffers in Nebraska as a result of ill winds of the past year and to avoid asking for outside aid—a position which has gained popular approval.

As to the future, the governor has in mind some way which he does not explain, to protect bank deposits, simultaneously promoting the welfare of depositors and helping the banking business.

At Sound WHEN the city's siren announces a fire during the nighttime and calls firemen to the task of subduing flames, the first thought of the fellow in bed is of his own property.

The fact that farming communities did not enjoy the high tide of prices and prosperity prevailing in industrial centers for a series of years prior to the late depression, as mentioned in the Herald last week and previously, is emphasized in the current edition of the Nebraska Farmer as follows:

When one makes a mistake or suffers an accident or fails to accomplish a purpose, he wants to shift the blame to other shoulders, and usually he tries to do it.

Some one suggests that the depression has been felt mainly in the direction of luxuries. The task to curb necessities is not so great as that which involves choking down things that gratify taste and fancy.

Golden ears are dropping into farm wagons these days, and while the quantity is somewhat below normal, the quality satisfies highest expectations.

Every son or daughter who shows fine character or unusual intelligence, returns rich reward to hopeful and admiring parents.

The best taste suggests every reasonable effort to conceal both poverty and riches. A parade of either assaults sensitive nerves.

Outlook for Wheat Is Improving. Omaha Journal—Stockman: While making due allowance for speculative enthusiasm, it may be said that the wheat market has given an excellent demonstration of returning confidence during the last three weeks.

Factors working for the better in the wheat trade are numerous, while the bearish influences are falling. Since the last harvest, and for months before, the immense stocks of the Farm Board, acquired by a little price stabilization effort, were the principal weight on the market.

Perhaps Mayor Walker so frequently absents himself in order to show that he can always come back—Weston Leader.

ence. They have been like the sympathizers with the poor preacher who lost his cow—each one thought it was too bad, but they failed to do anything about it.

In writing of his observations in Russia, J. N. Darling, the cartoonist, says the Russian people are not planning or thinking of outside conquest, but rather of their own welfare—of their ability to feed and clothe themselves, and to enjoy more of the comforts and some of the luxuries of life.

The sale of approximately $3,000,000 worth of gasoline in Nebraska in August, as reported by the Omaha-World-Herald, would mean an expenditure of $36,000,000 to keep automobiles, trucks and tractors going during the year if August may be accepted as an average month.

The conviction of Al. Capone, notorious gang leader in Chicago, and the promise that he will be safely parked in penal servitude for some years, encourage the belief that authorities are beginning to function more effectively in behalf of the public security and popular welfare.

A change to colder this week was introduced here as a mark of respect to Montana and Wyoming which were covered under blankets of snow varying from three to eighteen inches deep.

The upward trend of the wheat market is an encouraging sign. While wheat is an unimportant crop in this section of Nebraska, advancing prices will help other markets in which we are directly interested.

When one makes a mistake or suffers an accident or fails to accomplish a purpose, he wants to shift the blame to other shoulders, and usually he tries to do it.

WOMEN. Preponderance of ownership means preponderance of control, and as pointed out by a magazine article, women are fast gaining such power. Women are fast moving out of the status of clinging vines, humble subjects of male masters, satisfied to travel in a circumscribed circle and accept as charity what belongs to them as rightful earnings.

The muckraker is with us again. This is a bad break for us. The muckraker is the worst product of the recent and continuous complaint epidemic. Incidentally, the muckraker has the easiest job in the world.

BUYING CIRCLE. The broken and attrited circle of buying is stressed by an observer. The observer goes on to sympathize with farming communities on account of diminished demand for their products and then he urges them to increase buying in order to repair the circle and stimulate market and trade activities.

The Washington Wash. By Strickland Gillilan. Washington, D. C.—When more tactless diplomats are, Henry M. Stimson will be all of them. His ideas are fine, but he should get somebody else to embody them in words for their pronouncement.

At the National Press Club is a "handout" table. It is a place, right at the entrance to the club, where correspondents many come and look over the principal "handouts" of the day.

The Omniscient Tax Question. Nebraska's constant discussion as a subject of former taxation have been about the same as Mark Twain said about the weather: "Everybody talks about it but nobody seems to do anything about it."

This whole question has been growing upon us without our being conscious of it, yet the greater part of the burden has been imposed upon us by ourselves. Income for the Federal government is raised largely from income taxes so we do not feel that so much unless we happen to have generous incomes.

The taxes we feel most keenly those that we give our own check for and upon investigation we find that between 1913 and 1925 state and local taxes increased more than 325 percent. If this tax bill were to be broken down into smaller units we would find that about 75 percent of these taxes are roosting on our own doorstep.

Utopias Have Their Uses.

Christian Science Monitor: Some modern Sir Thomas More, bent on writing a new "Utopia" to set forth his ideal of a perfect world order, might well choose economics as his theme, since the most burning public questions of today have to do with world industry and commerce. The goal of any economic Utopia unquestionably would be a world so ordered that every individual might work according to his talents and be justly rewarded.

to these proposals is encouraging, it gives little basis for expecting their immediate adoption. This is no cause for disturbance. Many of the "radical" reforms indirectly proposed by Sir Thomas in 1516, such as abolition of imprisonment for debt and of capital punishment for theft, were slow to come, but now are accepted practice. So there is basis for hope that industry will come to accept forms of cooperation that will correct obvious defects of uncontrolled competition. And it must be remembered that the rate of change has been greatly accelerated. The Utopias of today are often not many tomorrows away.

Must Support Family.

Madison, Nebraska—Statewide interest has been aroused in the suit filed by Madison county commissioners against August Bernstrauch, Norfolk, Neb., to recover $168 given by the county to aid Bernstrauch's dependent son and his family. Bernstrauch, when called on to reimburse the county, refused, and the suit was filed under an old law which compels second degree relatives to support pauper members of their family. Bernstrauch paid the $168 and court costs last week.

The case was the first attempt in Madison county to enforce the law compelling relatives to support pauper members of a family. Relatives in the second degree include parents, brothers, sisters and children, according to law.

Methodist Episcopal Church.
(Rev. Harold C. Caspey, Minister)
The church school provides teaching and ideals much needed in this day of ours. There are classes for all ages under competent teachers and a fine orchestra helps to make the opening service enjoyable. If you are not attending every Sunday morning you are missing something. Be on time at 10.

All are not attending elsewhere are cordially invited to the services of worship. We ought to go to church somewhere and if we make it a habit it will become one of the most important and enjoyable things of life. The morning sermon will be on the topic "Saints without a Halo." There is always good music by the vested choir under the leadership of Miss Bowman. Bright evening service at 7:30, sermon subject "What must I do to be saved?" Can you find the right answer to that question? You will find this service a good place to spend the Sunday evening.

The Ladies Aid Society meets Thursday afternoon this week at the home of Mrs. H. R. Best. The Sunday school board will meet at the church Monday evening at 7:30. All officers and teachers of the school should attend. The Brotherhood will meet at the church Tuesday. Supper will be had at the public supper served by the ladies and the meeting will follow. The regular announcements are printed in the church bulletin each week. Look for them there.

10:00 a. m., the church Bible school. The school is growing in numbers, interest and values. Welcome to all. Young People's group led by the pastor especially welcomes the college students.
11:00 a. m., the morning worship hour, with special music, communion service, and brief message, subject: "The Convent of The Heart-Life." This will be a deeply vital, helpful, interesting service. Try it.
6:30 p. m., the Young People's Fellowship and discussion hour. These are proving very worthwhile as each tries to share values of life and thought.
7:30 p. m., the evening hour for praise service in which all united by the chorus choir; fine cheerful fellowship, and vital and vitalizing messages, specially needed in times like these. "Repose the Vital Trust in a Dependable God." This will do us good: Steady life if applied.
7:30 p. m., Wednesday, Life enrichment hour. Prayer and studies in Luke. All are welcome and cordially invited. Bring Bible for the study.
There will be no choir meet this week.

Christian Science Society.
November 1:
Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.
Services at 11 a. m. Subject, "Everlasting Punishment." Golden text, Prov. 10.
Wednesday, Nov. 4, testimonial meeting at 8 p. m.
The public is cordially invited.
The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science services on Sunday, November 1, presents an occasion for studying an important point in religious philosophy. It is the teaching of Christian Science, based on a study of the scriptures and the words and deeds of Jesus, that sin inflicts its own punishment and that punishments must of necessity continue until sin is completely destroyed.
A passage from the Bible, which is a part of the lesson-sermon states the apostle's understanding that the harvest of life will be in accordance with the seed that is sown. It reads: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." (Galatians 6:7-8.) This passage is illuminated by a citation from the Christian Science text book: "The design of Love is to reform the sinner. If the sinner's punishment here has been insufficient to reform him, the good man's heaven would be a hell to the sinner. They, who know not purity and affection by experience, can never find bliss in the blessed company of Truth and Love simply through translation into another sphere." (Science and Health, p. 35.)
The subject for the lesson-sermon for Sunday, November 8, is "Adam and Fallen Man."

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. P. A. Davies, Pastor)
The young people's rally to be held at our church Thursday evening and Friday morning, promises to be one that will be long remembered. Delegates are coming from most of the active churches of Niobrara Presbytery. A letter this morning brings us the information that six are coming from Valentine, the farthest distant church of the Presbytery. The ladies of the Missionary society are preparing the banquet and we know that it will be good. A fine program has been arranged. Among those who will speak are Dr. Allison of Omaha, Mrs. Durie, young people's secretary of the Niobrara Presbytery, Miss Julius, missionary from the Pattie Stockdale school, West Virginia, and Dr. Dickey of Norfolk. We expect from 75 to 100 out of town guests. Those with about 50 of our own young people will give us a conference of some size. All in all we are looking for a great crowd and a very worth while time. All of our services will be held at the usual hours next Sunday. Sunday school, 10 a. m. Classes for all. We would especially call the attention of young married people that a class has lately been organized for them with T. S. Hook as teacher. Morning worship, 11. Evening choir, 6 p. m. C. E. services, 6:20 p. m. and morning service, 7:30 p. m.

If you can help with the entertainment of delegates to young people's conference and have not reported to committee, will you not call at once? The committee includes Mrs. Mae Young and Mrs. O. L. Randall. Entertainment will consist of lodging and breakfast.

Laurel Is Winner In Football Game

Take Contest With College High School Team Friday Afternoon There.

Wayne college high school and Laurel met at Laurel Friday in football and the opponents won by 25 to 6. Delmer Fitch made Wayne's touchdown.

Harold Anderson, Leonard and William Denlinger, Merle Beckner, Kenyon Lewis, Wayne Bornhoff, Hazen Bressler, Vincent Swanson, Keith Cartwright, William Ahern and Delmer Fitch comprised the Wayne team. A few substitutions were made.

Wayne played its only night football game of the season here Wednesday with Rosalia.

Relative Hard Times. Like everything else, is a relative term. For example:

"The gasoline tax collected in Nebraska during the month of September, on gasoline used in August, was approximately $950,000. That is an all-time high record.

Figuring the average price at 14 cents, the tax collections indicate that Nebraska, in a single month, paid more than $3,000,000 for gasoline.

A considerable portion of this was used for commercial and other purposes involving the expectancy of a profit. Making all due allowance for this, it is probable that from a million to two million dollars of this expenditure could have been saved by the simple method of keeping the passenger cars in their respective garages.

Two reasons may be given to account for the fact that it was not saved.

The people of Nebraska had the money to spend. And they preferred to spend it riding than to save it by walking—or to save half of it by riding in Mr. Shannahan's justly celebrated street cars.

So, as we have said, all things are relative, including hard times. The people of a state who paid the biggest gas tax in their history in August may have been hard up; a good many of them were, and are. But they are far from "broke," and still father removed from destitution.

Ten fashion designers worked three full weeks to create the original and daring costumes worn by ninety-four of Hoolywood's most beautiful girls in the Paris Four Arts Ball scenes of "The Common Law." This RKO Pathe picture, starring Constance Bennett, will appear at the Gay theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The designers faced a difficult assignment. They had to design costumes typical of those actually worn at the most Bohemian of all art colony festivals which would meet with the approval of the film censors. It took ingenuity and countless sketches to accomplish this task.

Joel McCrea plays Miss Bennett's leading man. With them in the cast are Lew Cody, Robert Williams, Hedda Hopper, Marion Shilling, and Paul Ellis.

John Farrow is responsible for the adaptation from Robert W. Chambers' novel. Paul L. Stein directed.

Wayne High Wins In Football Game

Team Defeats Emerson In Contest Last Friday—Meets Oakland.

Wayne high school won from Emerson by 41 to 0 in a football game played at Emerson last Friday. William Mellor and Dean Hughes each made two and Terry Zimmerman and Roland Young each one touchdown for Wayne.

Wayne boys played a much better game last Friday than the week before. Lineup was practically the same as in other games this season.

Wayne went to Oakland for a game this Wednesday.

Wife Beater To The Post

Sioux City Journal: In Baltimore a man who had beaten his wife for the last 15 years and been convicted of the offense was taken in hand by the sheriff and given five lashes on his bare back with a cat o' nine tails. The whipping at the post was administered in spite of the wife's pleas that her husband be spared this punishment.

Two Baltimore newspapers published editorials on page 1 describing the whipping post and urging its abolition. One newspaper published an interview with Mrs. Clara Walters, superintendent of the Oklahoma state reformatory, in which she condemned the whipping post as barbaric.

There is just one kind of husband who should not be punished for beating his wife and whipped at the post. One who is insane and is not responsible for his conduct should not be whipped. But any man who knows better but who takes advantage of his wife's physical weakness to impose beatings upon her merits the lash. If, like Maryland, more states had whipping posts for such offenders it would be better instead of worse.

In the Baltimore case it is difficult to see why any sympathy whatever should be extended to this victim of the lash. In fact he may have deserved a good deal more than he got.

Here Comes The Sun!

Omaha World-Herald: Somebody (it may have been we) once observed that the man (or woman, of course) who should discover a recipe for making everybody happy and keeping them happy would be the world's greatest hero. The observation thrills us to the depths of our vitamin B, as we believe we are that hero. When we say we, we refer to us, and our recipe. And we have the recipe. It won't strike the reader at first. There is nothing very glamorous about it, nothing highly dramatic. It does not lend itself to gaudy display. You might pass it a thousand times on the street and not recognize it, because it is not a recipe that one would turn to look at a second time. It is just a plain, old-fashioned recipe. (Voice in the audience: The recipe! The recipe!)

Well, here it is. A person brings practically all his troubles upon himself. We told you it might disappoint you at first. It really doesn't read like the ordinary recipe. And it is not an ordinary recipe. It is extraordinary. Get it down pat and it will render you happier than you have ever been before. It may not relieve you of all unhappiness, but it will most assuredly reduce your unhappiness to a minimum—and did you ever see a person whose unhappiness has been reduced to a minimum who is not pretty happy? In fact, a little unhappiness is vitally necessary to happiness. And there is where our recipe has it on any other recipe now on the market. It leaves just enough unhappiness to make the happiness stand out. It sets it off, gives it a certain verge and savoir faire, as the linguists say.

There will undoubtedly be cynics to deny the truth of the assertion that we bring our troubles upon ourselves. Our answer is that there were cynics who denied that the world is round, and Voliva still does. But she is round, friends, all the same. Good and round. Well, maybe not so good, always, but plenty round, and that's what the argument was about. Sit down and go over your list of troubles. How many of them are not the direct or indirect result of some fault of your own?

Some will say that this is nothing more than the stock argument of determinism. We would be surprised. It certainly could be used for that, as the Old Soak used to say. We don't know a great deal about determinism. Such words are too ponderous to fool with. They'll catch you up sooner or later. All we claim is that if you will sit down and go over your list of troubles, checking them and double checking them, you will find that most of them have been brought about directly or indirectly by yourself. Then it will be up to you. All you have to do from there on is control yourself.

That ought to be easy.

Enola Visitor Leaves.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Dotson drove to Enola Sunday last week to accompany home the latter's mother, Mrs. Fannie Martin, who was to visit here several days but who was called home by the illness of a granddaughter.

The depression a lot of us are in is a rut.—Thomaston (Ga.) Times.

Putting Money To Work.

Sioux City Journal: Someone said the purpose of the Hoover-Laval conference in Washington was to discover, if possible, a way to put hoarded billions to work. In this country is held about one-half of the world's monetary gold. France, whence Premier Laval comes, has about one-half of the remainder. Together, the two republics have about three-fourths of all the monetary gold in the world.

President Hoover and Premier Laval, it may be suggested, are the proper government heads to consider this question of releasing for use in business billions of dollars now lying idle in the two countries. This concentration of wealth by the two countries is largely responsible for depression suffered in other lands.

The point is that there are more people in the world today than ever and that there is just as much wealth as before. Likewise it is true that humanity's needs and desires are greater than at any time in history. There is a greater demand for the necessities of life and also for luxuries. That is to say there would be if people only could find a way to obtain funds with which to make purchases they need and require.

How then, can the magic of putting hoarded billions to work be performed? The answer here and everywhere else is simple enough. Put people to work first. Pay them from the hoarded billions and then let them go into the market and purchase what they want. All humanity needs to do is to get a start. After that a new prosperity is bound to come.

What Others Say. Lincoln Journal: The world cannot sit idly by and watch President Hindenburg and the republican government in Germany defend itself against the aggressive Hitler and his fascist followers any more than it can refrain from having a hand in the Sino-Japanese squabble.

on her feet and consumption will increase, money will flow, English factories will begin turning and American surpluses will be reduced. President Hoover is evidently sold on the proposition of rehabilitating the German republic. He alone has made the giant strides in that direction. He is still the moving force behind anything that may be done. The task he has shouldered is monumental. He has first to conquer opposition at home, then to conquer it abroad. But the reward is worth the effort. Success means improved economic conditions in Europe and the United States and the preservation of peace. He is trying to make it also mean that the burden of unproductive armaments may be lightened. The people did not hesitate to make sacrifices when urged to "make the world safe for democracy." Now they are asked to lend support in preserving the democracy established at such a huge sacrifice, and at the same time preserve the peace of the world.

The Face of Life. Sioux City Journal: Dr. Charles H. Mayo declared before the American College of Surgeons in New York that the pace of American life was entirely too fast for the mental health of the people. Every other hospital bed, he declared, was occupied by one mentally afflicted. The patients are insane, or idiotic, or feeble-minded, or senile. An enormous number, he said, were almost fit for the asylum. Dr. Mayo attributed this condition to the rapid development of our civilization. He was certain that it came because vast numbers were utterly unable to adapt themselves to the changes that constantly are being made. The tempo of life is ever moving more rapidly, and a good many persons simply cannot keep up with it. Too much is required of them, and their results in strain. Nerves go to pieces, and in a little while there are mental lapses. Men not yet old easily look back to a time that was much different from this age. Forty years ago the conditions were not what they are now. Those were the horse and buggy days. Men had not yet learned to fly. The motor car had not yet made its appearance. Travel was more leisurely, accidents were fewer. Responsibilities were not so heavy. Everybody had more time. People did not rush pell mell through life, working and playing at top speed. There was more leisure for living. But today we rush here, there and yonder. And then we don't take it easy when we get there. We are strenuous in everything we undertake. That burns up energy, wears out nerves and makes our heads whirl. But Dr. Mayo offered no remedy. Possibly he felt that was obvious, merely a slowing down of the tempo of life. But if he did think of that, it would have made no difference. He wouldn't suggest something he knew people wouldn't do.

In the Hall of Fame. Sioux City Journal: The name of Thomas A. Edison, the world's most celebrated inventor of all time, cannot be offered as that of a candidate for the hall of fame until 1980. This, according to the rules of the hall as explained by Robert Underwood Johnson, director. So Mr. Edison, who died last Sunday, will not be eligible until 29 years after his death. Mr. Johnson explained that no candidate ever has been elected to the hall of fame without a dissenting vote. On hundred business and professional leaders cast ballots at the appointed time in the election to the hall of fame. George Washington was elected to the hall with a record vote of 96 for and 4 against. In Mr. Edison's case when he becomes eligible it is believed there cannot possibly be a dissenting vote. Mr. Johnson freely predicts he will be elected to the hall of fame by unanimous consent of the electors in 1980. The prediction is based upon the widespread fame of the great inventor and the scientist who in his long life had so enriched the world with his inventions and discoveries. At this time no one reasonably could expect anyone to follow the great Edison with inventions either greater in number or of more value.

County Board. Wayne, Nebraska, October 20, 1931. Board met as per adjournment. All members present. Minutes of meeting held October 6, 1931, read and approved. J. M. Cherry, county judge, orders the payment of a mother's pension to Lizzie Longnecker for $30.00 per month, for a period of 6 months beginning November 1, 1931, for the support of her minor children, Harold Longnecker, Hattie Longnecker, and Edna Longnecker, all of which is duly approved by the board and the county clerk is hereby ordered to draw such warrants. Report of A. W. Stephens, sheriff, showing amount of fees received by him for the quarter ending March 31, 1931, amounting to the sum of $149.55, and the payment of the same into the county treasury, was examined and on motion duly approved. Report of J. M. Cherry, county judge, showing amount of fees received by him for the quarter ending September 30, 1931, amounting to the sum of $834.50, and the payment of the same into the county treasury, was examined and on motion duly approved. The following claims were on motion audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown, warrants to be available and ready for delivery on Saturday, October 31, 1931.

Nebraska Soil. Norfolk News: Perhaps you are sick and tired of reading statements that show a labored effort on the part of the writer to spread an artificial optimism about the future. If you are you are like hundreds of others who require more substantial evidence than someone's say-so to cheer them up. But Arthur W. Thompson of Lincoln made a statement in a radio address the other day which might be read and remembered by every Nebraskan who is inclined to be in the dumps. We are reminded that this state, though among the youngest, stands about twelfth in per capita wealth and that all this wealth has come from Nebraska soil. Mr. Thompson goes on to say: "When the oil wells of America are dry holes, when the mines of America are hollow shafts, when the age of our fair state is numbered by thousands of years instead of three quarters of a century, remember the 'pay dirt' of Nebraska will still be producing the most essential thing to human life, that is foodstuffs. Through a given period of years the production of food from the soil yields a profit to the grower and with the profit comes a home, a living, and the environment that builds for better character, a fine citizenship and a peace and contentment that is so often lacking in other spheres of endeavor." Few states, it should be added, have less unemployment than Nebraska and not many of them can show a wider distribution of the conveniences that make life enjoyable. Over a term of years Nebraska farms will win.

Compare to Appreciate. Sioux City Journal: It is recognized generally throughout the world that as civilizations go, that of the United States is vastly superior to all others. Reference is made now to the material things of life, on which, in spite of the aesthetic's doubt, the happiness, comfort and prosperity of people depend in an extensive degree. American travelers abroad make comparisons between their own country and the lands they visit. They find powerful contrasts in favor of America. In England they are chilled because their quarters are not properly heated. In France they find the bath difficult if not impossible. In other countries transportation is tedious and sometimes hazardous, while standards of living are much lower than that of their own United States.

Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, youngest daughter of Count Leo Tolstoy, the celebrated Russian novelist, now dead, recently arrived in America from Japan to begin a lecture tour. She made the following statement immediately after she arrived: "Such conveniences everywhere—I can hardly believe it! Russia is hardly civilized yet. What pleasure to live in America!" It is doubted that Americans who have not gone abroad even begin to appreciate the kind of country they have. They have been a part of the intensive developments in every direction, but so many new things have come in their lifetime to add to their enjoyment, comfort, entertainment and well being that they may have forgotten conditions as they were. The rough road of a few years ago is but a vague recollection as one rolls over smooth highways today. The oil lamps that cast their flickering, sickly glow are obscure in memory now as electricity takes their place. Crude methods of living and working, still used throughout the world, have passed in America. We are moderns. We live modern lives. We have everything we want in normal times. Ours is a rich country. As Countess Tolstoy said, "such conveniences everywhere!" "What pleasure to live in America!"

One may wonder, however, whether the average American realizes the meaning of the things he possesses. Plenty of everything, food, shelter, clothing, fuel, motor cars, telephones, bathtubs, radios, highways, electric illumination and power, paved streets, fine schools, sanitation and public health supervision, and yet there are vast numbers who are not appreciative. As a general thing, when a young man is in love he thinks nothing is good enough for her except himself. —Dallas News.

Notice of Probate of Will. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss. At a County Court, held at the County Court Room, in and for said County of Wayne, on the 13th day of October, 1931. Present, J. M. Cherry, County Judge. In the matter of the estate of Margaret E. Barrett, deceased. On reading and filing the petition of Edith M. Barrett, praying that the instrument filed on the 9th day of September, 1931, and purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased, may be proved, approved, probated, allowed and recorded as the last Will and Testament of said Margaret E. Barrett, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to Rollie W. Ley as Executor. Ordered, that October 30, A. D. 1931, at 10 o'clock a. m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held in and for said County, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said County, three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing. (Seal) J. M. Cherry, County Judge.

Articles of Incorporation. Know all men by these presents: That we, the undersigned, Rollie W. Ley, Elva Brockway, Fred S. Berry, James J. Ahern and Charles M. Craven, have associated ourselves together for the purpose of forming and becoming a corporation under the laws of the State of Nebraska, and for that purpose do hereby adopt these Articles of Incorporation: Article I. Name. That the name of this Corporation shall be Wayne Teachers College Dormitory Corporation. Article II. Place of Business. The principal place of transaction of this Corporation shall be at the City of Wayne, in Wayne County, State of Nebraska. Article III. General Nature of Business. The general nature of the business to be transacted by this Corporation shall be for educational purposes, that is to say the construction of a dormitory on the campus of the State Teachers College at Wayne, Nebraska, to be paid for out of the rentals received for said dormitory. To carry out said purpose the corporation shall have power to hold, transfer, mortgage, lease and convey real and personal property, and to issue notes and bonds, negotiable and payable out of the rentals received from said dormitory to be constructed and to secure the payment of same by a mortgage of its real or personal property. No officer or member of this corporation shall be personally liable for any of its indebtedness, and no officer or member of this corporation shall ever receive any dividend or profit from property owned by it or affairs conducted by it. Article IV. Capital Stock. The amount of Authorized Capital Stock of this Corporation shall be none. Par value of each share—none. Article V. Commencement and Termination. The time of the commencement of this Corporation shall be when a copy of its articles of Incorporation is filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and its termination shall be thirty years from that date. Article VI. Amount of Liability. The highest amount of indebtedness to which this Corporation shall at any time subject itself shall be one hundred fifty thousand dollars. The Corporation shall incur no general indebtedness but it may contract indebtedness to be paid out of the rentals received for a dormitory to be constructed by it on leased ground on the campus of the State Normal School of Wayne, Nebraska, and may issue bonds or debentures as an evidence of such indebtedness and may secure the payment of same by mortgage or otherwise. Article VII. Board of Directors. This corporation shall be governed by a board consisting of five directors. Rollie W. Ley, Elva Brockway, Fred S. Berry, James J. Ahern, and Charles M. Craven, shall constitute the board of directors until their successors are elected and qualified. The board of directors shall elect a president, a secretary, and a treasurer from among their own number. The same person may be both secretary and treasurer. The treasurer shall give bond in such sum as shall be fixed by the board of directors, but in no event shall the amount of such bond be less than Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000). Article VIII. Officers. The board of directors may adopt rules and regulations that are not inconsistent with the laws of the state or these articles of incorporation. Article IX. Amendments. These Articles of Incorporation may be amended by the board of directors at any of its meetings at which at least four-fifths of the members are present by a majority vote of all members of the board.
