

Natural Gas Is Turned Into Wayne City Mains Friday, November 13

Mayor W. M. Orr turned the valve which marks completion of a system bringing the new fuel to Wayne for distribution. Dr. J. G. W. Lewis addressed gas company and city officials and others briefly after the valve was opened. The People's Gas company was host to 20 men at noon luncheon in Hotel Stratton afterward.

"Dangerous Men" Is Junior Class Dramatic Production This Autumn

"Dangerous Men," the Junior class play, is a source of great interest just now to members of the class, the cast, and the high school in general. The play will be presented at the Gay theater Tuesday evening, November 24.

In the cast of the mystery play are the following: Jean Wright, a wealthy spinster, Armanda Tolson; Coletta Habbeck, her dominated sister; Nettie Lucille Surber, a female detective; Halie Storey; Graydon Mulvey, a young bride; Peggy Page; Pauline Asenheimer, the service maid; Esby; Elaine Yetum, a newspaper woman; Myrtle Heartsease; Elmer Kilburn, nephew of the Tildens; Neddy Page; Marion Jones; Ned's chum, Tommy Ross; James Davies, a deacon and member of a mission group; Brother Wheeler; William Studley; Tommy's father, Jonathan Ross; Everett Dennis, an Irish policeman; Tim O'Toole; Robert Ross, a stuttering janitor, Oscar.

Afternoon and evening rehearsals of the play have been held for the past three weeks under the direction of the Misses Helen and Verna Mae O'Neill. Intensive work was done the past week on individual scenes.

Acquire New Pictures. Fair award money earned at the county fair last fall was collected and spent for three new pictures which will be hung in the grade rooms soon. The studies purchased are "Pals" by Iverd; "Shepherd's Happiness" by Schweng, and "The Shepherd Boy" by Lenbach. All three of the pictures arrived this week.

Friday afternoon marks a high point in the football season when the local boys go to Laurel to meet their eleven. Special rallies may be held in advance of the game. Marvin Davis, formerly a student in the public school at Gurley, Neb., entered the ninth grade this week.

A meeting of the teachers was held after school Tuesday evening. Routine studies were under discussion.

Fate of a King
 THAT "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" is no joke or no mere empty saying is borne out by the unhappy experience of Alfonso, latest and recently deposed ruling monarch of Spain. Alfonso has just been convicted of high treason, and he has the disturbing prospect of being imprisoned for life and of seeing all of his property confiscated and sold, the cash proceeds to be distributed among those who were afflicted by his misdeeds. Also he and members of his family are to be stripped of all titles, and they will be expected to answer to abbreviated names, like Alf., without lifting their respective nasal appendages scornfully.

It appears from the report that the sentence was mercifully reduced to life imprisonment. With Alf. in prison and unable to earn a living if he could, members of his family will have to popularize the policy of work within the household, practice becoming frugality and, to make up any deficits, look to more fortunate relatives who are kindly disposed and easily worked.

The ex-king was charged with responsibility for disaster to Spanish arms in Morocco in 1921, and for upsetting constitutional government. Exactly all the things he did to violate Spanish orderliness are not made plain, but, anyway, he was deemed guilty of high treason and he is considered exceptionally lucky for a king in escaping a worse penalty than life-long durance behind stone walls. Why Alf. had to wait in suspense ten years for definite action against him is not explained.

We never felt any respect for the ex-king when he was a full-fledged monarch, bristling with vainglory and bursting with authority. We think more of him in his disgrace and captivity. The ups and downs in the realm of royalty are too great to make a king job desirable. Treading middle ground, usurping no power, exercising no unreasonable authority, behaving modestly, working diligently and living within one's means may not be brilliant—certainly not meteoric—but they do give greatest assurance of freedom from gnawing worry.

District Court
 DISTRICT court, now in session here, reminds us of the surpassing importance of such events in the social life of early-day communities. Criminal cases always excite more interest than civil actions, and in pioneer times more of the former and fewer of the latter appeared on court dockets. A session of court was one of the few outstanding attractions of the year. People came from all over the county as jurors or witnesses or to imbibe the spirit of uncertainty and excitement. If one had no good excuse to drive thirty or forty miles in a slow-going vehicle to hear a murder trial or some other criminal proceeding, he came anyway.

Lawyers used to don their best clothes, putting on clean collars and shining their shoes, when the time for district court arrived. If they were in the habit of flirting with Bacchus, they imbibed only enough to act as a stimulant—not enough to make them groggy, befuddled and incompetent. District court was the time of the lawyer's harvest, and he expected to gather in sufficient cash to answer crying demands and justify additional and prolonged extension of credit.

Now lawyers are well groomed all the time. They observe the Volstead act, meet obligations promptly, often growing rich beyond the needs of the flesh or the requirements of heirs. They have little time to loaf, and the recurrence of district court is merely an incident in their busy lives.

Proper Refusal
 THE offer of Gus Winkler to return $600,000 in bonds stolen from a Lincoln bank in exchange for his freedom from prosecution has excited considerable discussion. But County Attorney Max G. Towle of Lancaster county refuses to consider a trade even on the assumption that the prisoner may be innocent, and the people generally will approve the prosecutor's position.

It would be unthinkable, as the county attorney believes, to run the chance of allowing a guilty man to escape in order to restore assets to the bank. To do so would be a dangerous precedent. It would encourage criminals to employ stolen funds, if necessary, to secure immunity. It would be inimical to justice and popular security, and the county attorney of Lancaster county did exactly right in his emphatic refusal. If insufficient evidence is found to convict Winkler, he will be released, but if facts point to his guilt, he will be prosecuted to the limit as he should be. The authorities will just have to keep up the search for the stolen property.

College Training
 "DO NOT feel superior to persons who have not attended college," advises Dean Hawkes. If you do they won't lend you any money.—Life. But the fellow with or without college training will testify that such training, if thorough, gives as a rule assurance of best jobs and highest pay. The one with limited schooling suffers handicaps over which he must battle his way. He has to gain anything above average success.

cess. Adequate education means that one may go quickly and easier in the direction of his choosing. It has often happened that one has become rich with the aid of little preliminary schooling, but he cannot get so many fine things out of life nor put so many of them into life as he would with a disciplined and burnished mind. He thinks deeper and clearer if he has had the big advantages vouchsafed by American schools and colleges.

Corn THE Omaha Journal-Stockman calls attention to the indifference movement to hold corn for 60 cents per bushel, giving as a reason the fact that the grain is usually fed by growers rather than shipped to outside markets.

Touching the subject, the Journal-Stockman quotes this from the president of the Chamber of Commerce at McCook: "We think we have found the corner around which prosperity has turned. The man depending on wheat and corn alone will have a hard time, but one who has hogs and cattle will get along better."
 The Journal-Stockman also quotes from Congressman Shallenbaker, farmer and banker, as follows: "There is always a cash market for stock, and Nebraska has abundance of grass. Those who have good stock and feed them well are the ones who succeed. Farmers get 75 per cent of their income from live stock and only 25 per cent from grain."

An important discovery that may lead to the cure of insanity is reported from the National Academy of Science of Yale university. It is found mental disorder is caused by faulty connection between the nerves and brain cells, and different treatments have been found effective in different cases. For one poor brain connection, one remedy is used, and for another, another. Curing brain disturbances may in time become common and popular, and then those who try to dodge or deny just claims may, by submitting to treatment, become jewels in the credit system and ornaments to society.

Editor F. D. Stone of the Hartington Herald has again journeyed out to Arizona to spend a few months in the interest of his health. Arizona calls him at this time every year, and a season's sojourn there appears to safeguard his health and put him in fine trim for the rest of the year. Editor Stone will furnish interesting editorial installments for his newspaper each week, and while he likes Arizona climate as an occasional tonic, he does not prescribe it for anyone all the time.

The Presbyterian church is preparing due celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of its founding next month. A small group of earnest worshippers started the church a half century ago, and with the passing of years, it has become a strong and influential organization. Few of the original founders will be here to join the anniversary event, but those who survive and others now affiliated with the church, will relish review of its history.

Some one suggests that the wheat surplus in charge of the federal farm board be turned into boarding house biscuits and paving material. To treat hard, winter wheat and the soft, spring variety impartially, the former should be given exclusive rights in the field of concrete, while the latter functions in the noble role of subduing human appetites. Nothing more surely combats hunger or buoy the soul than warm biscuits.

Some rains and a few sharp twists in the weather during the past week were followed by ideal elements on the occasion of the special bargain festival yesterday. People came from far outside the usual trade area, and they were uniformly well pleased with the efforts of the business district to serve and satisfy. Treatment received may be accepted as an example of what may be expected here every day of the year.

Individuals and corporations sending propaganda to newspapers are careful to explain that no charge is made for use of the matter. This is doubtless designed to convey the impression that it contains enough news value to warrant its appearance without charge on the part of the publisher. But the road to the capacious wastebasket is short and easy.

Thanksgiving day will be here one week hence, and the Herald will issue Wednesday morning instead of Thursday morning in order to reach subscribers on time and to give members of the Herald's working force an opportunity to recount and classify their blessings.

Good health is one paramount prize to be considered with profound gratitude during this Thanksgiving season. Good health is priceless, and it costs little if one is careful.

Christmas will be along in five weeks, and we should approach the holiday in the proper spirit of generous good will.

Favorable for Feeding.
 Omaha Journal-Stockman: All accounts agree that this has been a most favorable season, so far, for live stock either in the field or the feed lot. The saving in feed has been considerable and the stock has done well, making good progress toward marketable condition. In short, the feeder has had little to complain of except that market conditions have not been as favorable as feeding conditions. That, however, is one of the chances every stock farmer has to take.

MAN.
 Our remote antecedents including the pithcanthropus erectus and later specimens, did not have many desires, and they were often aroused to great physical endeavor, with little or no mental exertion, to supply the comparatively few things they needed and always had in mind. They ate fish and nuts and wild fruits satiated hunger, and the skins of animals provided sufficient raiment. From caves and sheltering rocks, our revered and ancient ancestors covered to crudely fashioned coverings of grass, tress and mud. They organized tribes, and leaders governed by force. In the course of evolution, rival tribes took possession of all the territory they could capture and hold. In due time nations developed, and the king business started. Kings elected themselves by use of implements of warfare, and their descendants hung on in the same way. From such raw beginnings, and after thousands of years of evolution, the present state of intelligence and achievement has been reached. Moving about on camels or behind open wind machines, available now. People are not satisfied with merely fighting hunger and cold, wearing long, tangled whiskers and living in unsanitary hovels. Luxuries have become necessities. People want hard-surfaced roads, automobiles, airplanes, radios, telephones and new and sundry ways of being amused, tickling appetites and gratifying whims. Depressions that come along at more or less regular periods pare down extravagant desires somewhat, but the modern human volage does not sink low enough to stay far down long, and a rising tide of prosperity sweeps the whole caboodle into a renewed race for more thrills and more pleasures.

Return Verdict Of Guilty Here

The suit grew out of an accident last summer. Mrs. Evans' husband was killed when the truck he was driving and the coupe Kai was driving collided south of Wakefield.

Four damage actions brought against Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith by W. W. Brown and others were settled out of court this week. The cases grew out of an accident in which the Smith car and one occupied by four Iowans collided over a year ago. Verdict was given in one case in last term of court but new trial was asked in this. Settlement has dismissed the actions which sought about $35,000.

Wednesday Event Attracts Large Crowd

Even the weather man cooperated yesterday in making a success of the merchants' bargain day. The morning dawned clear and crisp, cool enough to make buyers take real interest in the winter bargains on display. By mid-morning the streets began to be lined with cars from various sections of the trade territory, and buyers began to throng places of business. An air of holiday seemed to pervade the streets as the crowds gathered.

W. A. Stewart, policeman on duty at the corner of Main street, said during the afternoon that he was pleased with the good behavior of the crowds. Careful observation of traffic rules obviated serious accidents.

Bargain day visitors to Wayne

SPECIAL FAVORS.

We have seen police officers blandly accept free admission into shows. We have seen other public officers receive special privileges. We have seen editors, reporters and printers accept passes into show houses and into other public places where others pay and furnish the wherewithal to meet operating cost and insure necessary profit. Police officers are paid for their services, and they are expected to act in behalf of order without extra reward. All public officers should receive adequate compensation without special concessions. A printer has no more reason to expect free admission into a public performance where others are required to pay, than any other artisan. The printer does not shape the policy of the newspaper with which he is employed, and there is no earthly reason why he should be the object of gratuities. If the editor who is the dominating force in a newspaper, accepts special favor, he trespasses on his freedom and weakens his policy. It is doubtful if even a reporter or a critic with a definite mission, should be granted free admission to public entertainments depending on gate receipts. Railroads used to give out free passes to persons believed to be influential, but finally laws stepped in and put a stop to the practice. A quietus on the abuse was doubtless as much of a relief to the railroads as it was to sound public policy.

came from long distances" as well as from sections closer to town. Mrs. J. C. Bergt of Altona community commented on the numbers of persons who came into Wayne Wednesday afternoon, frequenting the stores.

"We are well pleased with today's response," said Howard Hrabak of the results of bargain day. Like other shoppers, Mrs. Albert Nygren and Mrs. Bilger Pearson enjoyed the day in the stores, mingling with friends and taking advantage of the special offers made by merchants and business men.

School Children Visit.
 School children from district 58, near Concord, where Mrs. Robert Day is the teacher, came with their parents to visit places of interest in Wayne. Many of the children in the school spent the afternoon hours in town, some of them going with their teacher to make a tour of various places of business where interesting work is done.

Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Stone, who came from Concord for the afternoon, commented on the busy crowds in the stores, and the holiday spirit which pervaded. They found the day almost like a holiday for the feeling of good will and cooperation which backed it.

Even among the younger generation the spirit of the day made itself felt. The Misses Frieda and Ida Baier and Dorothy Winterstein, who live near Wayne, were impressed with the bargains and mentioned several which they had found on their trip through the shops.

Merchants Are Pleased.
 All the merchants were pleased with the day's successes. Mrs. Minnie Kagy reported a busy morning in her shop and the same was true of other stores. One restaurant fed about 125 persons at noon, and another served about the same number of luncheons over the mid day period. Small groups of diners were found in all the eating houses during the afternoon hours also.

Russell Larson commented on the crowds which came into the stores during the day, and seemed impressed with the results of the bargain day attraction.

Four shows were run at the Gay theatre, beginning at 11 o'clock in the morning. Each new show brought an interested new audience, keeping the house packed with complimentary visitors during the day.

C. W. Brown of the Golden Rule store, like others along the street, remarked that trade was brisk among the crowds that came into Wayne Wednesday. Free attractions interested Wednesday's crowd, but there were many buyers in Wayne that day, too.

"We were very well pleased with the results of bargain day," said J. J. Ahern late Wednesday afternoon in discussing the day's crowds and their purchases. J. C. Nuss voiced a like opinion of the day's business.

A large number of the shoppers carried lists of purchases which they hoped to make. One such list, including 23 items, named articles, prices and the stores at which purchases were to be made. Articles listed indicated that the buyer was interested in taking advantage of excellent trade opportunities in order to supply winter clothing demands, and to stock the pre-holiday larder.

All in all, business men and buyers alike felt, that the day was a success and an investment in good will, making an auspicious beginning for the winter season.

Chilcott Brothers Sell Hampshires

Chilcott brothers' sale of pure bred Hampshires Tuesday brought an average of $25. A good crowd attended the sale and weather was favorable.

The Washington Wash

By Strickland Gillian

Washington, D. C.—Right now is the time to try the courage of anybody and everybody conscientiously connected with government. The people of the world are madmen and infants, and have to be led steadily, and without any hope, on the part of the leaders, for thanks from anybody until far off in the future and the people awake to what they have been saved from. As the chosen leader of the greatest nation in its worst dilemma, Herbert Hoover is the patsy. If the world is not going to continue to have cumulatively bigger wars till time shall end the human race in one big dose of poison gas, the countries of the world must reduce their fighting plants and plans. Everybody agrees that ought to be done, but everybody also says: "Everything should be reduced except the thing that is fed by an industry or enterprise or speculation in which I am interested." Any attempt at general reduction brings the vicious enmity and bitter opposition of all these elements at once. The commercial covetousness back of the urge for bigger navies, for instance, is particularly strong and well-entrenched. Now, with industry in general crippled, the plan to stop any branch of it or slow it down is particularly effective—the finest demagoguery, the easiest to "make it stick," the world has ever seen. It is such things that a President of the United States true to his trust has to fight. Gares to have his job? Not unless you're crazy! And like as not, in one way or another, you too are a heel-yapper and maybe don't know it.

Talk about yapping, and getting at something lighter, the funniest thing about a big apartment hotel such as the one I live in, is the Peke Pals and Pom Paraders and Chums of the Chow pageant about eleven at night around the house. To see a grown man, who has his health, dodging from one bit of shrubbery to another, his hat pulled low over his eyes to try to escape identification of his fellow sufferers and others as he leads his "house on a string" for its mid-night exercise and general calisthenics, is something worth going miles for. A man weighing from 140 to 200 pounds, attached by a string (but in no other way except by marriage) to about a pound and a half of hair-upholstered dog meat—well, show me a more ludicrous sight! If you can manage to catch a glimpse of the face of such a martyr to domestic tyranny, you will read hereon the bitterness of despair. To see a man like that, on some sudden surge of self-respect, swinging it around and around his head and let it go for a record shot-put or hammer throw would never surprise me in the least. I am going to drink coffee and stay up till eleven every night for a long time and watch these peke puffers at their nightly herding task till some night my egerjeyes may be rewarded with such an outburst. The sight of a big brow-beaten, pom-pastered chap like that running amuck, going berserk, would be a sure sign of the return of manly dignity to its throne; the death knell of peke and petticoat domination.

Jack Garner is having the time of his young life. So far as events may eventually eventuate, he doesn't give a diminutive cuss. He is now the Speaker in the prophetic estimation of everybody of every party. He is enjoying everything connected with the Speakership except the gavel, the official automobile and the inevitable after. He will get those when as well as in prognostication. He will get a considerable quantity of car and a lot more of groceries. A man who is not grieving over the prospect of the Gardinerian Speakership, are many Republicans. The party would like to share its responsibility publicly with somebody. The administration has plenty of trouble and can divide with the Democrats without any sense of deprivation. In fact, it would hardly miss a few hundred assorted sorrows. The Republicans are hoping and praying that when and if the Democrats get themselves saddled with some responsibility, they will sober down a bit and not run so gorgeously amuck as they did in the last previous session. The Democratic leaders may feel this pooling has to stop. Constructive work must be done, even if we have to agree with a Republican President to do so.

You may have seen in the dispatches from Paris that the infant Alphonse d'Orleans (that is old Spanish custom for Prince Alphonso, son of the exiled or canned King of Spain) is thinking of coming to America to recoup his fortunes. This will have a big laugh to the boys in the breadline in New York and politics east and west. Coming here right now to recoup a fortune shows that the lad has a lot of nerve or a lot of ignorance or something. All we can say to him is what the backwoods countryman said to the groceryman who tried to talk to him about the war, in 1917.

"Is it a war?" asked the hermit.
 "Certainly there's a war! Germany is fighting England and France and Italy and everybody."
 "Uh, huh," agreed the recluse.
 "They got a nice day fer it, ain't they?"

And I would suggest, seeing that there is no competition outside, that the prince be sent here to Washington and take out a license to run a taxi.

Stories about the above-named Jack Garner are running riot, now. Adack Garner is a fitting successor to his old pal Nick Longworth in many ways—chiefly because he is a half-fellow-well-met. Also he is a good story-teller, and the outspokesy hombre you ever saw. He manages to make his meaning clear when he talks. Less pussyfooting per capita than anybody else. He will bring back, should he get the job, memories of Joe Cannon—more memories of Joe than of Nick.

One of the stories that popped up today about him was that one time he was conducting a Senate investigation and had been mighty outspoken to a witness whose credibility he seriously and confidently doubted. A reporter who was not present at the hearing, called Jack on the phone.

"Mr. Garner, is it true that you questioned this man's veracity?"
 "No, indeed."
 "Did you express doubt as to his truthfulness?"
 "I should say not."
 "Did you tell him you suspected him of falsifying?"
 "By no means. Say, boy, what you trying to get at anyway? I did call the fellow a liar, if that's what you mean."

Old stories are recalled by new situations. Yesterday sitting around the argumentative breakfast table at the National Press Club (miss one of those sessions and you're far poorer for it) somebody called attention to the fact that the morning papers had said "the administration is encouraged." Some knocker said, with kindhearted cynicism, that administrations are always reported as being encouraged. In the midst of the worse mess the man in charge and carrying the responsibility always reports that things are coming along swimmingly or else that the prospect is improving. Then somebody had to cite an instance of as great optimism under difficulties as has ever been recorded, showing how the man in charge always has a bright side of the worst condition, to exhibit.

A young physician branching out for himself after long apprenticeship under an old practitioner, promised his former mentor he would report his experience on his first case. He did so and this is the report:
 "Case of child-birth. Have lost mother and baby, but have every hope of saving the old man and the dog."

Begin Excavation Of New Dormitory

Excavation for the new dormitory at Wayne State Teachers College will start this Thursday. Workmen were assembled Wednesday to receive instructions, the building will be on the site of former Kingsbury hall. The structure will cost $129,009.10 and will be completed next fall.

Stunt night program is being arranged at the Wayne Teachers College for next Monday evening. Each organization is planning a special feature for the occasion. Sophomores sponsor the program. Each of 19 groups will be represented and will be allowed 7 minutes.

Dramatics class presented three one-act plays Tuesday evening before a full house at the college. Miss Florence Drake was in charge.

Prof. Louis Gregory, violinist, and Prof. Albert G. Carlson, pianist, presented a program of music in chapel at Wayne Teachers College Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Schmoll's Rites In Iowa

Aged Woman Dies at Home Of Daughter After a Period of Illness.

Mrs. Mary Schmoll, 69, died at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred G. Miller, at Winside. Mrs. Schmoll had been seriously ill for the past three weeks, although her general health had been poor for a much longer period.

Members of the family who had gathered at the Miller home when their mother's condition became acute, left Wednesday for Hartley, Iowa, where rites will be held Friday. Mr. Miller remained in Winside until Thursday, making funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Schmoll was well-known in Winside, as she had made her home with the Millers since 1920. Before that time, her home was in Hartley.

Her children included George and Tom Schmoll of Hartley, Iowa, John Schmoll and William Schmoll of Virroqua, Wis., and Mrs. Fred Miller of Winside.

Nimrod Brings Down Largest Eagle In Years

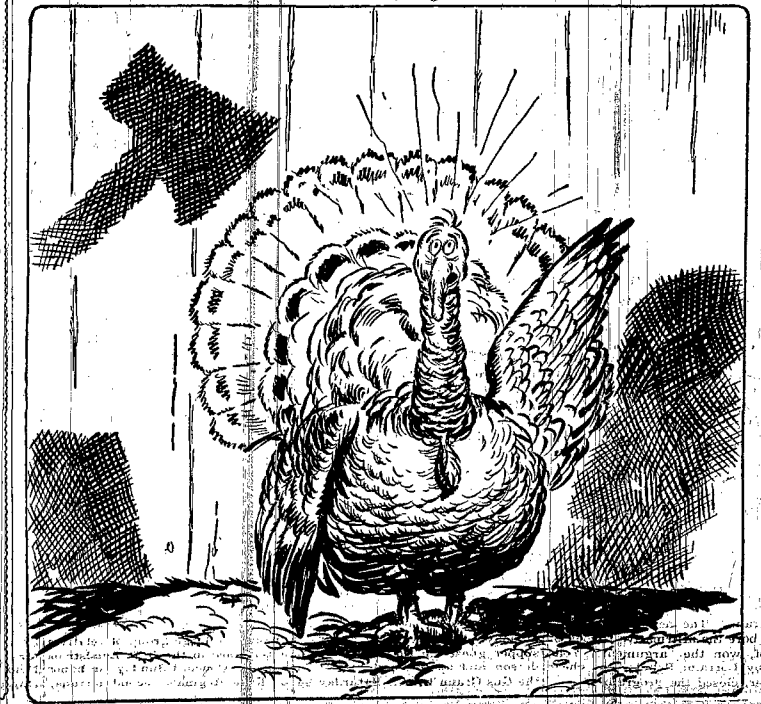

An eagle measuring eight feet from one majestic wing tip to another was shot Friday evening by Wilbur Bergerson, 14 year old boy who lives on a farm near Concord. A slight wound in one wing brought the bird to the ground, and Wilbur, in his enthusiasm to get his quarry, was clawed severely by the bird.

A Sioux City concern is mounting the bird, which Wilbur will consider one of his real treasures. The eagle is one of the largest seen in this vicinity for many years.

Honor Peter Brader On His Birthday

Peter Brader was 69 years old Friday and a group went to his home to help him observe the occasion. The guests served refreshments at the close of the time. The group included Mr. and Mrs. Otto Flier and son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wacker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flier and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wittler, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brader and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wittler and son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brader and son.

For Amanda Hollman, Twenty-five neighbors were guests of Mrs. W. H. Neely Tuesday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower complimentary to Miss Amanda Hollman whose marriage to Louie Meyers takes place soon. The time was spent in drinking tea towels for the bride-to-be. Pastel colors were used in decorations about the home and on the wagon in which Caroline McCutcheon, and John and Junior Neely brought gifts to Miss Hollman. Luncheon closed the afternoon.

Library Presents New Collection Of Choices For Winter Reading

Saturday for the first time, Wayne library will open a pay shelf on which new books will be displayed for five cents per day rental. The new books will be returned, regardless of the length of time they are borrowed. Money thus gained will be kept in a separate fund for the purchase of new books which will go on the pay shelf.

The following new books on the pay shelf will be available Saturday. "Sparks Fly Upward" by the newest book by Chiving LaFarge, who wrote the charming "Laughing Boy," and is one of the new pay shelf volumes. Others include "Hatter's Castle," by A. J. Cronin; and the following mystery stories: "The House Opposite," by John; "The Backstage Mystery," by Cohen; "The Murder at Hazelton," by Christie; "Susan Spray," by Sheila Kaye-Smith's newest book in the English author's usual vein, which will attract her admirers; "The Story of Judith" by Susan Ertz should prove popular and "Miss Mole," by E. H. Young, will have many readers.

Celebrated New Novel

"Half a Loaf," new novel by Grace Hegger Lewis, wife of Sinclair Lewis, will have its quota of readers. It deals with the problems of an author and his wife through a rather stormy but interesting marriage. The characters are it is easy to see, Mrs. Lewis and her celebrated former husband, Sinclair Lewis.

O. E. Roelvag's "Their Father's God," Susan Gaspell's "Ambrose and Family," and Edna Ferber's "American Beauty" are real additions to the list. Miss Ferber's book is considered by some to be the best she has written—it is, at any rate, a beautifully written book with a very sound plot.

"Goodbye Summer," by Fanny Heslip Lea, is a light and entertaining story for vacation reading. "Father," by Elizabeth has had its share of acclaim, and should find readers. Attractive in the extreme is M. Hill's simple little "New Russia's Primer," a volume designed originally for the school children of Russia. It tells the story of Russia's great enterprises in the five year plan, and makes fascinating reading for the American whether he agrees or disagrees with the new theories.

Not on the pay shelf but available soon, are the books reviewed in the remainder of this article.

By a Nebraskan.

O'Brien's 1931 collection of best short stories contains one story by a Nebraskan. The story is "White Man's Town," and the author is Lofry C. Wimberly of the University of Nebraska, where he was an instructor in English.

Another "best" collection is the 1930-31 group of plays chosen by Burns Mantle. In the collection are such outstanding numbers as "Elizabeth the Queen," "Five Star Final," the great newspaper drama, "Green Grow the Lilacs," "Alison's House," "Barretts of Wimpole Street" and others.

The new book list is long. It includes such readable material as "Old Masses People," by J. H. H. "The Road in Eighty Days," by Jules Verne; "Jackanapes and Other Tales," by J. H. Egan; "Blue Bonnet in Boston," by Jacobus Richard; "The Blazoned Drum," by Stewart Edwards; "Anne of Green Gables," by L. M. Montgomery; "What Katy Did at School," by Susan Coolidge; "Robin Hood," penned and pictured by Louis Rhead; and "Sunset Pass" by Zane Grey.

Some of the new volumes are reissues of old volumes and will appeal to persons who have never read some of the older books, or who wish to read them again. Also on the month's list are: "Nancy Rutledge," written and illustrated by Katherine Pyle; "Lost With Lieutenant Pike," by Edwin L. Sabin; "The Jungle Book" and "The Second Jungle Book" by Rudyard Kipling; "Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc," by Mark Twain; "Glenloch Girls Abroad," by Grace M. Kennick; "Glenloch Girls" by the same author; "The Ward in the Jungle," by Zane Grey; "The Odyssey for Boys and Girls," prepared by the Rev. A. J. Church; "The Blue Aunt," by Eliza Orne White; "The Wolf Hunters" by George Bird Grinnell; "Stories of the Great West," by Theodore Roosevelt.

For children is Harold Loeb's "Durandal," A Junior Literary Guild selection which children should enjoy is "Hail Columbia the Life of a Nation," by Marie A. Lawson.

Weird old tales from the land of Japan are included, in Lafcadio Hearn's artistic "Kwaidan." Hermann Hagedorn's book, "Roosevelt in the Bad Lands" is another volume which will have interested readers.

Particularly timely is the purchase of "The Harvest of the Years" by Thomas A. Edison, with Wilbur Hall. The story is that of Edison's life and work.

"Riata and Spurs," by Charles A. Siringo, is the story of cowboy life. The picturesque life of the scout, Kit Carson, is described in Stanley Vestal's book, which bears for a little the name of its hero. Another celebrity is dealt with by William Roscoe Thayer, whose book is "George Washington." This book will attract the attention of some who may be preparing programs to mark the bicentennial celebration of the year.

A Novel in Verse.

A novel in verse, and one which you will remember if you read it, is Alice Dyer Miller's "Forsaking All Others." It has attracted the attention of critics and less sophisticated readers alike. It is really one of the memorable books of the year.

Susan Gaspell's play, "Alison's House," is the 1930-31 Pulitzer prize play. It is included in a separate volume, although you will also find it in the Mantle collection. Completing the list this time is Bertram Atkey's "The Mystery of the Glass Bullet."

"Star American Farmer," Kansas City, Nov. 18—Tambark rivalry was held in check outside the American Royal. Live-stock and horse show arena last night while Glenn Farrow, a young agriculturist from the Ozark hills near Danville, Ark., received the 1931 award as the "Star American Farmer."

Standing in the midst of more than 2,000 other farm youths of the nation, Farrow was presented the title and a $1,000 check by Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture. Got a biggest amount of these to by The Kansas City Weekly Star. Farrow, managing his father's 240-acre estate, is credited with making an annual profit from the soil despite low prices and drought. In addition to his family of wife and one child, he is contributing to the support of his mother, sisters and one brother.

As the young farmers marched from the arena the nightly inning for horse fanciers began. The outstanding event—the stallion division of the $10,000 for five-gated saddle horses—was won by King Genus, a 7-year-old chestnut horse from the Dixiana Farms, Lexington, Ky. Woods Choice, from the Twin Woods stables, Lincoln, Neb., was second.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Obst and children of Carroll and Oscar Obst of Sholes, visited Sunday at the Orin Nelson home.

Gas Turned Into System

(Continued from Page One) week, and tests were made to demonstrate the efficiency of the hook-ups. Residences and public buildings were connected to the mains at the same time, and several were made ready to use the new fuel. Completion of the system throughout the town will be made soon, and every resident will be enabled to use natural gas, company officials promise.

Serving in the company offices are Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Gordon, as well as Miss Doris Judson. The first two are men who have had much experience in the work and are well qualified to shoulder the company's responsibilities in serving the community. Miss Judson has lived in Wayne most of her life and received her education in the high school and college. She has been efficient in office work in Wayne.

The new fuel comes into town from the cross-country line that comes from Whitebago to Wayne and Wakefield. The north and south line passes between Omaha and Sioux City, serving eastern Nebraska towns.

The first Wayne residence served with natural gas was that of A. T. Cavanaugh. A range was installed in the home last week and the Cavaughns prepared their noon meal Friday with use of gas.

In the lesson-sermon for Sunday, Nov. 22nd, subject "Soul and Body," there is given a part of Paul's great address to the Athenians which contains this statement of man's true being: "For in Him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also His offspring." (Acts 17:28) A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook reads: "The chief stones in the temple of Christian Science are to be found in the following postulates: that Life is God, good, and not evil; that Soul is sinless, and to be found in the body; that Spirit is not, and cannot be, materialized; that Life is not subject to death; that the spiritual real man has no birth, no matter, and no death." (Science and Health, p. 288.) The subject of the lesson sermon for the following week is: Ancient

Oak Troop Meeting.
Girls of the Oak scout troop met at Bressler park Friday afternoon and worked on knot tying and compass review for second class tests. R. R. Larson showed the group several variations in knot tying. Mrs. A. V. Teel was assisted Friday by Mrs. L. W. Ellis as Mrs. L. W. Vath was unable to attend the meeting. The patrol of which Laryhya Whitmore is leader planned a candy sale for Saturday.

Mrs. Carhart, Hostess.
Mrs. John C. Carhart was hostess Monday to members of the Forthright club and one guest, Mrs. H. Arnold Karo. Mrs. H. R. Best gave an interesting review of "The Green Pastures," interpreting parts with quotations. The club voted to provide Thanksgiving dinner for a needy family. The hostess served luncheon, using yellow pompon chrysanthemums and yellow tapers as table decorations. Husbands of club members entertain at dinner November 30 with H. R. Best, John Bressler, jr., and Ralph Beckenhauer as the committee.

Guests at Stanton.
Wayne P. E. O. women were invited to Stanton last Thursday to be guests of the chapter at that place in the home of Mrs. Schwink. Ten went from here. Mrs. O. R. Bowen, Mrs. R. W. Casper, Mrs. H. S. Ringland, Mrs. P. A. Davies, Mrs. E. S. Blair, Mrs. T. T. Jones, Mrs. C. T. Ingham, Mrs. Winifred Main, Miss Mary Mason and Mrs. H. W. Theobald, Madison was represented by 12 and Wisner by two. Mrs. Chilcott, who attended the supreme chapter meeting in Portland, gave a report. The rest of the time was spent socially. The women will leave cookies with Mrs. C. Shulthess this Friday or Saturday.

Wayne Women's Club.
About 60 members and guests attended the meeting of Wayne Woman's club Friday at the home of Mrs. R. W. Casper. Mrs. Ralph Crockett and Mrs. R. B. Judson assisted as hostesses. Mrs. Mary Brittain gave a report of the state convention held at Fremont October 20-22. The program was in observance of Book week and was in charge of Mrs. Paul Siman and Mrs. E. E. Galley. An original play, "Ladies of the Square Table, takeoff on 'Knights of the Round Table,'" written by Mrs. Paul Siman, was a feature which delighted the guests. In the play four Shakespearean characters sat about a bridge table and mixed conversation with Shakespeare's plays in their game. Mrs. R. F. Smith played the part of Portia; Mrs. H. R. Best was Lady Macbeth; Mrs. C. R. Chinn represented Juliet; and Mrs. H. S. Moses was Kate, the Shrew. The play was well written and well presented.

Mr. W. C. Hunter led group singing of "Nebraska, My Native Land." Mention was made of the Red Cross membership drive last Saturday and of the picture to be given this Friday by E. E. Galley at the Gay theatre for unemployment benefit. Both movements are nationwide. Mr. Galley will have two shows Friday afternoon and proceeds will go to relief fund locally. Other towns participating will receive their funds. The Nebraska Children's Home society of Omaha sent word of appreciation for jam and jelly sent by Wayne women a month ago. The local club plans to send cookies to the same home for Thanksgiving and of the evening. The chapter meets in December at the home of Mrs. P. A. Davies.

FUNERAL RITES HELD MONDAY FOR AGED LADY

Mrs. J. W. Landreth Passes Saturday at the Eddie Home in Carroll.
WAS IN THIS STATE EARLY
Funeral services were held at the James Eddie home in Carroll Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock and at the Methodist church in Belden at 2:30 for Mrs. J. W. Landreth, who passed away Saturday, November 14, at 3:30 in the Eddie home, aged 82 years, 9 months and 5 days. Rev. Mr. Steiner of Belden, and Rev. David Simpson of Carroll, had charge of rites. Interment was in the Belden cemetery.

Mrs. Landreth, whose maiden name was Miss Sarah Ann Doran, was born February 9, 1849, in Boone, Iowa. She was married there in 1867 to John W. Landreth. The family lived at Boone until 1870 when they moved to Missouri Valley, Iowa. In 1888 they moved to Carroll, Neb., three years later going to Concord. They lived at the latter place two years and then moved to a farm south of Belden where they resided 12 years. Since she made her home in Belden. Last May Mrs. Landreth suffered injuries in an automobile accident. She came here to be with her daughter, Mrs. Eddie, and on October 5 fell, sustaining a broken hip. She had grown weaker gradually since. During her illness, Mrs. Eddie was assisted by Mrs. Bruce, a nurse in caring for her. Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Landreth, five sons and two daughters. Besides her husband, two sons and one daughter

War Veteran Dies On Armistice Day

Vern O. Sellon Passes Away At Home Near Randolph Middle of Week.
Vern O. Sellon died Armistice day at his home six miles south of Randolph following several weeks' illness with throat infection, aged 38 years. One blood transfusion had been made and every assistance given. Funeral services were conducted from the Randolph Methodist church Saturday afternoon with Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Wilcox and Rev. E. W. Graham in charge. Interment was in the cemetery there.

Vern Orland Sellon was born on the Sellon farm which had always been his home on September 13, 1893. He was graduated from the Sholes school and attended the Wayne college two years. He enrolled in the U. S. army May 27, 1917, and served two years, being mustered out May 27, 1919. Deceased married Miss Alice Nelson May 27, 1920, and Mrs. Sellon died in September, 1921, leaving an infant daughter, Bessie Irene. Mr. Sellon married Miss Vena Warner of Randolph, Wayne college graduate, January 20, 1926.

Besides his wife and daughter, Mr. Sellon is survived by his father, C. O. Sellon, of Randolph, and seven brothers and two sisters as follows: Harry F. Sellon and Ora Sellon of Randolph, Roy, Ray and Arthur Sellon of Hugo, Colo., Gail Sellon of Concord, Mark Sellon of Sioux City, Mrs. Oscar Menden of Emerson and Miss Elsie Sellon of Randolph. His mother was killed in an automobile accident July 25, 1931.

American Legion, with 27 teams and 80 men husked by Sellon's 40 acres of corn Tuesday last week. The work was done in 2 hours.

College Student Wed At Newcastle

Miss Julia Pint of Pierce, graduate of the Wayne Teachers' College and Victor Knief of Newcastle, were married Tuesday last week at the Newcastle Catholic church. The bride has been teaching at Newcastle since her graduation from the school here. Mr. Knief farms near Newcastle.

PIONEER WRITES ABOUT ELECTION OF COUNTY SEAT

Frank M. Northrop Tells of Bringing Records Here From LaPorte.
ALL VOTES WERE LEGAL
Frank M. Northrop of Portland, Ore., pioneer of Wayne, writes the Herald about the county seat of the early days. Mr. Northrop plans at a later date to write facts concerning the history of bonds issued in Wayne county, in aid of the flour mill built on the river a short distance south of Wayne.

Mr. Northrop's letter concerning the county seat election is as follows: "Inasmuch as there seems still to be some uncertainty in the minds of many Wayne people as to the circumstances connected with the county seat election, I have thought it worthwhile to write a detailed statement, as I am the only person having a full knowledge. "The question of the relocation of the county seat was submitted at a special election soon after the general election in November, 1882. There were at that time but three precincts, Leslie, Hoskins and Wayne. Wayne was successful by a substantial majority. Like all county seat removals, the contest was exceedingly bitter. "Shortly after the declaration of the results, an injunction was obtained in a case brought by Alexander Scott, then of Omaha, in which Alexander Scott was plaintiff and John McGuire and the other commissioners were enjoined from removing to the new location. The grounds for the suit were alleged misconduct of the election board in Wayne precinct, the casting of illegal votes, and bribery, in that Wayne offered to provide a court house for the period of ten years. "I was a member of the election board in Wayne. Soon after noon on election day, Jo Agler and a few other Leslie voters appeared and began challenging voters. The Wayne election board construed the statute providing for such challenges, as meaning, that the challenger must be a voter in the precinct wherein he sought to exercise that right, and therefore ignored the challenges. I do not know what the supreme court would have said as to this construction, but that was the law in Wayne precinct for that election, and every one voted that wanted to. I know of no illegal votes received; there may have been some color to the claim, from the fact that the railroad company furnished me with blank passes, with which I brought back to vote several persons that had been in Wayne all the summer before, bought land, and were only temporarily absent. These were all legal voters. "As to the charge of bribery, by offering to furnish a courthouse, it is interesting to note that within the last few years, the supreme court of Nebraska has declared that such an offer rendered an election void. "The statute fixed the time when the newly designated county seat should become the legal one and made it the duty of the county officers 'to forthwith remove their respective offices' to the new location, under a penalty of $1,000.00 and a conviction would work a forfeiture of the office. As soon as the time for removal had arrived, I entered an appearance in the injunction suit, and moved to dismiss upon the ground that an action in equity would not lie, inasmuch as there was an ample remedy at law, by contest as the statute provided. At the same time I began an action in mandamus against the county officers, (D. C. Patterson, relator), directing them at once to remove their office to Wayne. The two cases were heard before Judge Barnes at Ponca with no appearances on the part of the opposing parties. The injunction was dissolved, and writ of mandamus allowed. The next day I went to LaPorte and filed the papers in the suits. I found none of the officers about the court house but Enoch Hunter, county clerk. "Very shortly after my arrival John Lawrence came in sight with two drays, and probably one man with him (not more certainly) and located all the effects of the county treasurer's office. He then came into the clerk's office, and without a word to anyone (Hunter and I were the only ones in the office) began gathering up the records, etc. Hunter said, 'You are going to take them anyway, are you?' and hastily closed the safe. Hunter made no further objection, if that foregoing could be considered such. "Lawrence calmly proceeded with his work. When the county clerk's office was cleared, he got what was in the other offices with no objection from anyone. About the middle of the afternoon all con-

Boys And Fathers Banquet Together

Ladies' Aid Serves Meal To Group Gathering on Last Wednesday.
Fathers and sons gathered at the Phillips church between Wayne and Winsde to have a banquet last Wednesday evening. Women of the Ladies' Aid Society served the dinner, and a program was given between the courses. Asters were used for table decorations, and cerise was the color used in the appointments. "Parental Responsibility" was the subject of the chief address of the evening, which was given by the Rev. A. L. Bruggeman. Rev. A. A. Hoferer, pastor of the church, acted as toastmaster for the occasion. Toasts to the sons and fathers constituted the evening program. Speakers included the following: Fred Wittler, Florenz Niemann, Henry Bareman, Ernest Koch, John Reg, John Mann, Victor Kriehs, Oscar Mann, Erwin Vahlkamp, Fred Wacker, Fred Rees, Otto Gerleman, Ed Niemann, Henry Reg, Ed Panhorst and Henry Reer. Sons were presented during the evening by F. Peperkorn, Rufus Mann and Herman Schuetz. Another number was given by a quartet group in which Hugo Fischer, Rufus Mann, Herman Schuetz and Walter Ulrich sang. Group singing was also featured, and Alfred Frevert gave an accordion number.

Frank Bell Dies At Sister's Home

Frank Bell, 75, died at Pierce Sunday last week after a short illness. He had lived in Wayne, Pierce and Cedar counties the past 44 years. He was a painter and went to Pierce six years ago to live with a sister, Mrs. Cagle. He had never married and his sister is his closest surviving relative.

Red Cross To Aid Knox County Indians

Bloomfield, Neb., Nov. 13.—Word has been received here that the Indians on the reservation near here will be cared for this winter by the federal government. This has been done heretofore by the county. Indian Agent Hickman will direct the work from the agency. Agent Dunn of Niobrara will have charge of the work near here. The national representative of the Red Cross was here making a survey of the needs in Knox county before sending National Red Cross funds here.

College High Wins In Game at Wisner

Wayne college high school defeated Wisner at Wisner in football Friday afternoon with a score of 25 to 7. Harold Anderson, Hazin Bressler, Delmer Pich and Vincent Swanson each made one touchdown for Wayne, and Delmer and Vincent made the extra points. The team was accompanied to Wisner by some students. Wayne goes to Bancroft this Friday for the last game of the season.

Why the Credit Pool?

Lincoln Journal: The prediction is made by those conversant with the situation that before the time expires for making subscriptions to the half billion dollar credit pool suggested by President Hoover, more than 100 million dollars in excess of the needed amount will be available. The response of the banks is the surest guarantee that could be asked of the stability of the system as a whole. The plan has been criticized as a movement to help the bankers, the implication being that nobody else would be particularly benefited. If this were true, the objection would have little weight, because the banks are furnishing all the capital for the undertaking. It is not true, however. The benefits will be widespread because the one purpose of the pool is to provide a bank of rediscount to purchase paper that is not eligible at the federal reserve bank, altho sound, and thus widen credit. Evidence of the soundness of the banking system is supplied by the fact that altho 2,200 banks have been closed in a year, only 3.5 percent of the total deposits were affected and that large reserves available for use by banks have remained untouched. The federal reserve bank, on the basis of its present gold holdings, can issue two and a half billions more currency to its members. The latter have eight and a half billions of their own in government bonds and eligible paper. If it be asked why, under such conditions, there is any necessity for a credit pool corporation, the answer is that the latter is intended largely for the non-member banks, for rural banks that have an undue proportion of their assets tied up in paper, good in itself if time is given, but which is not now collectible. Federal reserve system stability depends upon the soundness of the paper it rediscounts. That is why certain forms of loans, such as real estate and loans on securities, subject to familiar even the remote hazards, are not purchasable. It is such loans the credit pool will handle. In the last six years loans on securities have increased in volume 40 percent and on real estate over 50 percent, while eligible loans have decreased 25 percent.

Finishes With Corn.
Fred Jensen who lives three miles north of Winsde, was in Wayne Friday. He finished "corn picking" Saturday and the yield averaged about 15 bushels to the acre. On his farm south of Winsde Mr. Jensen reports a better yield.

Fire Burns Cobs In Korn's Barn

Fire was discovered about midnight Thursday in the barn on the Adolph Korn place northeast of Wayne. Paul Peterson of Wakefield, who was passing the farm, observed the flames, and notified the C. K. Corbits of the blaze. The Corbits called the Korn family who notified the Wayne fire department. A pile of cobs in the barn burned, damaging the barn somewhat. This damage, however, is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Safe Closed Long Period Now Open

Safe in the city clerk's office at Osmond has been put into use again after being locked for 13 years. The city clerk was the only person knowing the combination 13 years ago and shortly before his death a child toyed with the combination and closed the safe. The clerk died and the safe has remained useless until this fall when A. R. Eberwein of Bloomfield, was employed to open the safe. The dial was pulled off the door and the pivot given inward, thus releasing the bars and permitting the doors to open.

Luncheons To Take To School

Suggestions for Meals Served in a Lunch Box At Noon.

The daily task of preparing a lunch box to be taken to school may be lightened somewhat by the suggestion of some approved menus. As everyone finds out by experience, having the proper equipment is a great help. Small covered dishes to contain salads or creamed dishes, oiled paper to wrap around the sandwiches, and a thermos bottle to contain the drink are all great aids to making the school luncheon palatable.

Milk is the approved drink to be included in the school lunch. Oranges, apples or bananas are fruits which may be included in the lunch box without taking up too much room or requiring special wrapping.

Sandwiches form the main part of the lunch box meal. With them should be included something fresh, tomatoes or celery in season, or the fresh fruit mentioned in the foregoing paragraph. Pickles and such condiments do not meet with the approval of dietitians who plan school lunches, although they may be included occasionally for that variety which lends interest to any meal.

Menus for a Week.

On Monday, for example, the school child might carry to school a luncheon something like this: One peanut butter and lettuce sandwich, one cold meat sandwich, one raw tomato to be sliced at noon and eaten with the sandwiches, one banana, oatmeal cookies, and milk in the thermos bottle.

Tuesday's luncheon could include two egg sandwiches made by chopping hard boiled eggs and mixing them with a little mayonnaise, spreading as a filling on buttered white bread. Short stalks of fresh celery, a large orange, and a piece of cake wrapped in waxed paper could complete the meal.

On Wednesday the sandwiches might contain a cheese filling, or one sandwich might be made of cheese and the other from left-over meat chopped and mixed with salad dressing and spread on dark bread. A custard, baked in a small ramekin, would make a good dessert for this meal. When the custard has cooled, a square of waxed paper should be laid over the top of the dish, and secured with a tiny rubber band. Custards may be varied in several ways, one of which is to flavor with chocolate syrup. Another favorite is the addition of granenuts to the custard mixture before baking. An apple and a glass of milk would complete the meal nicely.

To Have Variety.

Variety is the important factor in making a cold lunch appetizing. For Thursday noon, salmon or tuna fish sandwiches might be planned, with a fresh lettuce sandwich for contrast. Chocolate cornstarch pudding could be served in the covered dish in the lunch kit on Thursday, or plain cornstarch pudding might be well come. A gelatine dessert will keep nicely if the lunch box is stored in a cool place between morning arrival and the noon hour. A glass of milk is not omitted from this luncheon. A special touch would be few stuffed dates. Pit dates and stuff with peanut butter, chopped nuts, or coconut. Dust with powdered sugar and wrap in waxed paper.

Friday's luncheon could consist of a chicken, or cold meat sandwich, and one sandwich of chopped raisins on dark bread. A baked apple served in the pudding cup, and a glass of milk from the thermos bottle might be sufficient for this noonday meal. Hot cocoa or soup should be served in the thermos bottle when the days grow cold.

Tiny cup cakes or miniature pies should please the child who must eat his luncheon away from home. Such delicacies should add to the noonday delight of opening the lunch box and discovering what the meal will be.

SCHOOL GETS NEW RADIO EQUIPMENT

Money earned in the high school carnival was used in the purchase of a seven tube electric radio to be used in work at the school house. Interesting and instructive programs can be heard over the radio, and incorporated into the work at the school. The Washington, D. C. program was heard over the radio on Armistice day.

High school students and teachers enjoyed a bunco party held at the school house Thursday evening, November 12.

Entertains on Thursday. Mrs. Cap Walker had guests at an informal quilting held in her home Thursday afternoon.

Has Guests at Home. Mrs. M. G. Braun entertained at a quilting in her home Monday and Tuesday afternoons of last week.

Entertains at Quilting. Mrs. Robert Tomplatt entertained a group of friends at a quilting in her home Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Ill at Home Here. Cyril Templin, Hoskins' oldest resident, and a veteran of the Civil war, is ill at his home here. Mr. Templin's malady is said to be due to his advanced years.

Visit in Tamora. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fetter and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gaines went to Tamora Friday to visit over Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wagner.

Missionary to Meet. Missionary Society of the Evangelical church meets Thursday with Mrs. Herman Marient. The women of the church are planning a bake sale to be held the day before Thanksgiving.

Week-End in Lincoln. Among Hoskins folk who spent last week-end in Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ruhlow, Mrs. William Ruhlow and Mrs. Howard Jones. They reported that Mr. Jones, who has been ill in the Veterans' Hospital there, is improving.

Trinity Lutheran Church. (Rev. Im. P. Frey, pastor) Sunday, November 22: Sunday school at 10 a. m. German services at 10:45 a. m. Bible class Tuesday at 8 p. m. On Thanksgiving day, November 26, a special Thanksgiving service will be held in the English language. Offering will be taken for widows and orphans. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all.

Hoskins Evangelical Church. (Rev. M. G. Braun, pastor) Sunday, November 22: Sunday school at 10 a. m. Prayer service at 11 a. m. Wednesday evening prayer service at 7:30 p. m. Choir practice the same evening at 8:30 p. m. The women of the church will give a thank offering program at the church on Thanksgiving day, according to plans being made now.

Blaming the President. Lincoln Journal: Storms delay air traffic, railway trains and ocean commerce. When the atmospheric disturbances are severe enough business and commerce ties up to await better conditions. The Panama canal has been tied up and ships held until the storm ceased. At the other side of the world, in the Philippines, at the same time, traffic was tied up and damage was done to shipping. So far the democratic national committee has not been heard to blame Hoover for these storms but he may well begin framing his defense.

Places Fifth Anyway. Omaha World Herald: Nebraska is suffering this year from the effect of last year's drought. The short corn crop, estimated at 166 million bushels, is probably due as much to the lack of reserve of moisture in the soil as to a failure of sufficient precipitation during the growing season. However, the crop for the state as a whole lacks so much of falling within the classification of failure that it ranks this year as the fifth corn producing state. This is doing pretty well for the close of a two-year period of excess temperature and deficient precipitation. Similar conditions in the earlier years would have meant almost total ruin of the crop. As it is only two restricted sections suffered severely, although the yield practically everywhere in the state is reduced. Better cultivation and probably the development of better drought resistance quality in the seed are factors which help to pull the corn crop through under such abnormal weather conditions as have prevailed for the past two years.

Hidden Bank Closes

Steady withdrawal of deposits and the serious illness of the bank's president, J. M. Kingery, were given as the reasons for the closure.

The bank had deposits of $190,000 and $30,000 capital stock. Receiver for the bank has not been named yet.

Circulation Mounts. Omaha Journal Stockman: Per capita circulation of money in the United States is now $4.23, according to the latest report of the treasury. This is nearly $5.00 per person more than a year ago, but unfortunately the secretary of the treasury has no way of knowing whether this money is "in circulation" or in the hiding. All of which goes to prove that it is not so much the available quantity of money that counts as the way the money is distributed and used.

Dies at Coleridge. Coleridge, Neb.—Gas from a light and power plant in the basement of his home on a farm near here is believed to have taken the life of Ivan Wait, 50, whose body was found in the basement by his son, Randall, when the latter returned home from school.

Tools were scattered about the body, which was sitting in a chair, and the plant bore evidence that Wait had been engaged in working on it. He was alone at the time, his wife being in Colorado, at the bedside of her sick mother. Besides the widow and son, Mr. Wait also is survived by a daughter.

Party on Thursday

Mrs. W. H. Neely went to Sioux City Thursday afternoon to be a guest at a party held in the Davidson tea room by Mrs. George Bushner, Mrs. Myron Tilgim and Mrs. Swett.

On Birthday Occasion. Mrs. Herbert Hinnerichs celebrated the anniversary of her birthday Monday evening of last week when the following were among guests: Mr. and Mrs. George Meyer and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wischoff and family, Mrs. Henry Hinnerichs and children, Henry Bush, Elwood and Thelma Sampson.

For Fritz Aevermann. Fritz Aevermann was the honoree Friday evening when a birthday party was held at his home. Guests enjoyed bunco and other card games during the evening, and served refreshments at a late hour. Prizes in the games were won by Miss Marjorie Monk, Miss Bernita Hinnerichs, Elmer Haber-

Government Railroad

Lincoln Journal: The proposal of the progressives that the government build a railroad of its own for the purpose of regulating the rates of privately owned carriers, seems to have fallen upon deaf ears. One reason, of course, is that with the economic situation as it is, there is no time to use tax monies for experimental purposes. Another is that the earnings of the railways under regulation have been so small with the rate schedules as they are now that there is no inducement or urge for the government to enter the field.

One commentator has taken occasion to cite the experience of Canada, where the government has invested more than two billion dollars in the Canadian National Railways, and where it was necessary to import a railroad genius from this country to straighten out its affairs. It does not parallel the Canadian Pacific, the big system of the dominion, and it does come in competition with it.

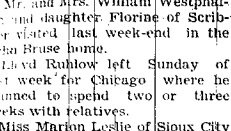

The proposal of the progressives is the establishment of a government railway system, supplementary to and competitive with the privately owned railroads "whereby the transportation service of the nation may be improved and whereby standards of services and rates may be established, which can be applied in the regulation of private utilities." It will be seen, therefore, that this plan does not involve abandonment of regulation as a policy.

At the end of 1929, the latest figures cited the Canadian government had slightly more than $7 billions invested, and the earnings available for a return on the investment for the year were $33,000,000. This did not include any allowance for depreciation, a heavy charge; when it is considered that the company operates 3,500 passenger cars, 106,000 freight cars and 2,696 locomotives, if 20 millions were charged for depreciation, regarded in accounting circles as a modest figure, this would leave 13 millions as earnings on a 2 billion investment, or less than 1 percent.

Thanksgiving Is Day For Treats

Wayne Cooks Contribute Special Recipes For Holiday Season.

Thanksgiving day, season of plentiful harvest and thankfulness therefor, is next week. Thought of the holiday calls up visions of roast turkey, hot mince pies, tables set in the best of the house affords, with reunited families happily gathered around them. Every cook in the land, whether her kitchen is elaborate or simple, has plans for the holiday. And good recipes will help her out.

Mrs. J. A. Ray of Wayne contributes the following recipe for nutbread, which is guaranteed to be delicious.

- 1 cup Graham flour
- 2 cups white flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 3-4 cup coarsely chopped nuts
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- Pinch of salt.

Mix and allow to rise for 30 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. The slow baking, Mrs. Ray explains, contributes to the goodness of the nutbread, so don't make the mistake of trying to hurry it.

For a Holiday Treat.

A holiday treat which might well be packed in the box you send to the folks away from home at Thanksgiving time is made by this recipe for Yummy Bars. Mrs. J. A. Ray of Wayne, who has tried the recipe, offers it.

- 1 pound of dates
- 1/2 cup of shortening
- 1 cup of brown sugar
- 1/2 cup of hot water
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1-2 teaspoon allspice
- 1-2 teaspoon cloves

Cook the foregoing ingredients together in a pan for five minutes. Cool and add the following ingredients, first sifting the dry ones together.

- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon lemon extract
- 1 cup broken nutmeats (pecans or English walnuts)
- 2 cups of flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon any baking powder

Bake in a buttered, paper-lined pan for 45 minutes. The oven temperature recommended is 350 degrees Fahrenheit, and the pan should be a nine by twelve size that would hold about two inches of batter. When the sheet of cake is baked, allow it to stand in the paper-lined pan for at least a day. Then cut into bars for serving. If the bars are to be sent away in a Thanksgiving box, they could be wrapped in colored cellophane paper, tied with gay ribbon or tinsel, and made to look like a very elaborate gift. And, even if they're not wrapped up in fancy paper, Yummy Bars are said to deserve their name!

Sandwich Loaf On Supper Menu

Feature Pineapple Cheese Filling For Special Occasion Meals.

Special occasion suppers that are served late in the evening following a trip to the theatre, an evening at a football game, are worthy of the cooks' most careful attention. The menus need not be elaborate, but the food should be plentiful and a bit out of the ordinary.

Sandwiches should be provided in variety as well as quantity. Fillings should be divided between sweet and salt, and the bread should be light and dark. Almost everyone likes pineapple-cheese salad; so sandwiches with pineapple and cheese filling should be equally popular. Creami cheese to a spreading consistency, and then combine with it bits of candied pineapple. If you have no candied pineapple on hand, chopped pineapple cooked in a sugar syrup and drained will serve just as well. Add chopped almonds or other salted nuts to the cheese and pineapple mixture, spread on very thin slices of buttered white bread, and you have a sandwich deluxe.

To Spread Sandwiches.

If you are spreading many sandwiches and wish to cream the butter quickly and effectively, try the following method, which will make your task much easier. Combine a cup of boiling water with each pound of butter, creaming the mixture until it is of the right consistency. The butter will go much farther, and the creaming can be accomplished much more quickly than by the old method.

For a delectable dark bread sandwich, try tuna fish flaked very fine, mixed with mayonnaise dressing, and seasoned with slices of stuffed olives. If you wish to make an open face sandwich from this formula, make the filling very dry, spread on rounds of buttered rye bread from which the crusts have been removed, and arrange the slices of stuffed olive in a pattern on top. Nothing ever takes the place of old-fashioned chicken sandwiches, or the familiar ham-mayonnaise and chopped pickle filling. Be sure to have some of this on hand if the crowd you're serving is large and hungry.

Sandwich Loaves.

Sandwich loaves are the aristocrats of the sandwich world. Impressive as they are to look upon, and delicious as they prove to be, they are not hard to make. You will need a loaf of white bread, plenty of butter, a package of cream cheese and two kinds of sandwich filling.

Remove the crusts from the loaf of bread, and slice the loaf lengthwise twice, making three long slices of bread. Spread these thinly with butter and then put in the filling, one kind between each layer. A good combination is pimento cheese for one layer and peanut butter mixed with mayonnaise for the second layer. When the layers have been put together, much in the fashion of a layer cake, ice the outside of the loaf with creamed cheese and set away to harden.

The outside may be decorated with bits of pimento cut in fancy shapes, or with halves of salted nuts. When you are ready to serve the sandwich loaf, slice the bread in the usual fashion, and you will have sandwiches in layers. Fillings may vary. Minced ham in one layer and chicken filling in the second would combine nicely with the cheese "frosting," as would many other combinations which the original cook can concoct.

With your late supper you will want to serve salad, and one of the simplest is also one of the best. Serve lettuce hearts with chiffonade dressing, and you'll be right in style.

A New Dressing.

Chiffonade dressing is a glorification of the familiar French dressing. Add to the French dressing, either the home made kind or the variety you buy in bottles, the following ingredients:

- 1 canned pimento
- 2 tablespoons celery
- 1 teaspoon parsley
- 2 teaspoons onion, chopped
- 1 hard boiled egg

Mince all the ingredients finely and mix with the dressing. Then it is ready to pour over the lettuce, and your salad is ready to serve. Salad and sandwiches, with hot coffee, will make a late supper that anyone would enjoy. Serve with it the peppermint ice cream for which a recipe is printed in this column. Small cookies or wafers would be a good accompaniment to the ice cream.

A Cold Day Dish.

(Mrs. O. L. Randall, Wayne)

- 1 can kidney beans
- 1 can tomatoes
- 1 pound ground steak
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cook together 10 or 15 minutes, and the mixture is ready to serve. If it is too thin, thicken a little with flour. Serve this mixture over thin slices of crisp toast.

Delicious Sugar Cookies.

(Mrs. O. L. Randall, Wayne)

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup lard or butter
- 1 cup of sour cream
- 1 teaspoon of soda
- 1 teaspoon of baking powder

Use enough flour to make a soft dough, and flavor with equal portions of vanilla and lemon extracts. Add also a dash of nutmeg. This is a very old and reliable recipe for a large batch of delicious cookies.

Molded Cranberry Salad.

Bright to look at and tart to taste, cranberry salad is a treat that should be served with your Thanksgiving dinner. To make it: Cook one point of cranberries in water, add one cup sugar and cook five minutes more. Thoroughly dissolve one tablespoon gelatin in one half cup cold water and add to the hot cranberries. Cool. Chop one-half cup nuts, and dice one cup celery. Add this to the gelatin mixture when it is cooled. Pour into individual molds and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Apple Fritters.

- 1 cup sifted pastry flour
- 1 level teaspoon baking powder
- 1 level teaspoon powdered sugar
- 1-4 teaspoon salt

- 1 egg, beaten light
- 1-4 cup of milk
- 2 apples, pared and cut in small pieces
- Hot fat for deep frying

Sift the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt together three times. Add the milk, beaten egg and stir in the dry ingredients. Then stir in the bits of apple. Drop the batter into the hot fat by spoonfuls and fry like doughnuts until brown. Drain and serve with powdered sugar and jelly sauce. Other fruits may be substituted for the apples.

Peppermint Ice Cream.

An entirely "different" dessert which can be made in the refrigerator tray.

- 1 cup whole milk
- 1-tablespoon flour
- 4-tablespoons sugar
- 1-4 pound peppermint sticks
- 1-cup heavy cream
- 1-8 teaspoon salt

Cook the milk, flour and sugar in a double boiler for five minutes. Add the candy and cook until it is dissolved. Cool the sauce and add the cream which has been whipped stiff and seasoned with the salt. Freeze in the refrigerator. Serve this ice cream plain, or with a chocolate sauce. The chocolate sauce may be varied by the addition of salted pecans, making a real party menu.

Early Days in Wayne County

(Taken from the Herald files for Nov. 20, 1913)

At a land sale held in Wayne, John W. Banister paid $3,000 for five and one half acres of improved ground just east of Wayne city limits. The land belonged to O. P. DePew.

Fine granite from Vermont and from Minnesota was being shipped into Wayne for the use of the monument works.

Improvements suggested for Wayne included the extension of the sewer system and the construction of a new standpipe, both of which were said to be very much needed.

Meister and Bluechel sold their implement business in Wayne to Ernest Bichel and Bernhard Meyer, who lived southeast of Wayne.

Married in Wayne.

The marriage of Mr. John G. Meyer to Miss Johanne Grimm was solemnized, November 20, 1913 in the Salem Evangelical church south of Wayne. The bride was attended by Miss Clara Sievers and Miss Frieda Grimm. Carl Sievers and Julius Hurst attended Mr. Meyer. The young couple moved to the Grimm homestead nine miles southeast of Wayne.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. House entertained 30 football players at dinner in their home. Tracy Kohl acted as toastmaster at the affair, and the young women from the college served the meal. A flash-light picture of the group was taken during the course of the evening, which was spent socially.

T. W. Moran, station agent in Wayne for 30 years, was honored at the dedication of the new railway station in Wayne. The men of the Wayne Commercial club were in charge of program arrangements, and special talent from the college assisted with the program.

From Early Files.

From the Herald of November 22, 1894 came the item which stated that R. M. Goshorn, former editor of the Herald, was leaving for Kalspell, Mont., where he planned to engage in the newspaper business.

Low railroad fares were in force for a day in 1882. Read this item from the Ponca Journal for November 23, 1882, and wish that you were a mid-Victorian:

"On Tuesday, the railroad fare between Sioux City and Chicago was $1, and between Sioux City and St. Paul, 25 cents. This was occasioned by a war among the railroad companies. It was the item closed naively, 'a good thing for those who wished to travel.'"

Predicting the Weather.

It may help in determining what kind of a winter this one will be, so we reprint the item (quoted in the Ponca Journal for December 2, 1880, and dealing with the weather. These paragraphs came originally from the South and West, a journal which the Ponca paper said had a reputation for accurately forecasting the weather.

"We report," said the item, "what we have once or twice referred to, that there are signs abroad for a severe and cold winter, and perhaps an exceptional one in that line. These signs are a drought of long continuance, which has been no more than partially broken, and which if it were would not amount to that saturation of the soil, down to the lowest springs, that make a mild open winter possible. The thickness of the corn husks, the northern flight of wild fowl, the building of the beaver and muskrat are little to be counted upon in forecasting the winter season, in comparison with the simple fact that millions of square miles of surface half covered and fully saturated with warmish water, so heats all their surroundings that cold weather is impossible. In view of the great likelihood of a cold winter, we advise the readers of the South and West to be prepared for it, provide shelter for their cattle and especially to see to the condition of their cellars."

Mission Worker Tells Of Plans

Margaret Lough Berkey Teaches English in Chinese Schools.

Stories of her interesting occupation of teaching English to 600 boys in a school at Tientsin, China, were told by Mrs. Margaret Lough Berkey as she talked before the Foreign Missionary Society last Wednesday. The group met at the home of Mrs. William Beckenhauer for tea, and Mrs. Berkey gave the address of the day. Over 40 members and guests gathered for the afternoon.

Mrs. Berkey, who is on her second furlough from work in China, is a guest of her mother in Norfolk. Her small daughter, Betty Anne, is attending school in Norfolk this winter, but will accompany her mother back to China in the summer. Eight-year old Betty Anne was with her mother Wednesday, and joined in the conversation concerning China, which was her birthplace.

Betty Anne was born in China eight years ago. Seven months later Mr. Berkey died and Mrs. Berkey and her small daughter returned to America for a furlough. Since that time, the Berkeys have returned to China, where Mrs. Berkey has been working under the direction of the Board of Foreign Missions.

Describes New Education. The newer education that is being brought into China has met with success, according to Mrs. Berkey. The Chinese boys have learned the English language, and they have, as well, acquired a genuine love for higher education.

Novel though English may seem to the Chinese the older language has its charms for Americans, too. Small Betty Anne Berkey demonstrated the fact by singing, in Chinese, "Jesus Loves Me."

Interesting articles of Chinese make were exhibited by the speaker. Gay embroidered linens and silks, wearing apparel of various kinds, and small articles of interest were exhibited by Mrs. Berkey. Her talk was of very special interest to a number of her listeners. Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Capsey knew Mrs. Berkey as a young girl, and Mrs. Winifred Main met her on a visit in China five years ago.

Report is Given on Crops in State

Nebraska corn is averaging 16.5 bushels to the acre with an estimated production of 166,584,000 bushels, according to the November report of agricultural statistics. Corn is spotted, some sections having normal yield and others poor. The 1929-30 average for the state is 223,339,000 bushels.

Potatoes are averaging 58 bushels to the acre in the state and the crop is estimated to total 6,750,000 bushels as compared with a five-year average of 8,527,000 bushels. Sugar beet crop is exceeding expectations in Nebraska.

Winter wheat acreage is smaller in the state this year and part of the crop needs moisture.

The average weight per measured bushel of grain crops is low. The weights of wheat were good in eastern Nebraska, but were unusually low in western Nebraska. The drought and high temperatures ripened the oats and barley too rapidly and most of these crops are light. The average test weight of winter wheat is 58.5 pounds, spring wheat, 56.2 pounds, oats 30.2 pounds and barley, 44 pounds.

Wayne Team Wins Rapid City Game

Wayne Teachers College football team won from the School of Mines team at Rapid City, S. D., Armistice evening by a score of 33 to 0. A light snow fell at Rapid City that morning but the field was good for play by evening.

Copeland made two touchdowns for Wayne, and Sexton, Grubb and L. Andrews each made one. Copeland ran 65 yards on return of a punt but the touchdown was not allowed. On the next play he ran 56 yards for a counter. Rapid City school has 440 boys, but their team has suffered from the fact that several veteran players have received injuries this season.

The 23 Wayne boys made the trip in cars with Coach W. R. Hickman and Assistant Coach Paul Anderson. They went by way of Mitchell and Chadron on their return, arriving home Friday. Snow at Lead Armistice day measured eight inches, but the fall did not interfere with the trip which the players declared the best they have had.

Wayne plays its last game of the season this Friday afternoon at Omaha with Omaha University. The latter team is strong this season and the contest, which will be a conference one, is expected to be one of the hardest of the year.

Turkeys Cheaper. Omaha Journal Stockman: Turkeys should be and probably will be several cents a pound cheaper during the coming holiday season, than they were a year ago as there are more birds and fewer buyers. Texas is already figuring on shipping 1,400 carloads of these noble birds to market and the growing of turkeys in the West has been steadily increasing in recent years.

Ask for Estimates. Norfolk—Estimates of construction costs for erection of three new school buildings and remodeling of a fourth have been requested by the Norfolk board of education of a number of local architects. All the proposed buildings would be used for six grades and kindergarten.

Plan District Meets. Thirteen district American Legion conventions are planned for this winter. The one closest Wayne is in West Point January 7.

District Offices of Gas Co., Located Here

The Peoples Natural Gas Company has announced that Wayne will be the headquarters of district composed of Wayne, Wakefield, Emerson and Bancroft.

Mr. J. R. Reynolds has been appointed District Superintendent and is now located in Wayne. Mr. Reynolds has had many years' experience in natural gas distribution, coming here from Fairbury, Nebraska where he had charge of that territory. Miss Doris Judson of Wayne has been selected as cashier. Mr. E. D. (Gene) Gordon is employed as sales representative.

The Jeffries building has been redecorated and newly equipped with office equipment making a very attractive office and sales room. This work was done by local men. In the front the latest type of gas appliances are on display while at the rear is the office where the details of the operation of the district are handled. The basement houses the stock of fittings and equipment.

The latest types of gas appliances are now on display including ranges, water heaters, furnace burners, circulators, and fireplace heaters. All sold on attractive terms and installed by the Company. For a limited time the purchaser of a major appliance which includes purchases from dealers as well as Company sales, will have installed free, the gas supply line from the street to the house, affording a considerable saving to the customer. Many are taking advantage of this offer, and from present indications a large number of Wayne homes will be using natural gas within the next few weeks.

INVESTIGATE NATURAL GAS

NATURAL GAS

If there are arguments against the use of natural gas, either as an industrial or a home fuel, they should be on the side of common-sense.

Declarations that the fuel is dangerous to handle or use, that it blows up houses without provocation and with evil design, and persistent statements that it is "too hot" for use in the kitchen or the heating plant are as silly as they are untrue. In addition, they do not speak well for the intelligence of those who make them.

Natural gas has been in use for a half century in populous American states. Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia, for instance, have not only depended upon the fuel for years, but they take it as a matter of course, just as we Nebraskans have burned wood and coal in our ranges and furnaces.

The great advantage of natural over artificial gas is in its almost doubled heat units per cubic foot, its cleanliness and economy. Economy, of course, depends on the rate to the consumer, but if rates submitted locally are accepted by the public, there will be no doubt as to the savings effected.

Where natural gas has gone into cities and towns, industry has profited, for the fuel has great advantages in manufacturing enterprises. If it were not economical and efficient thousands of manufacturers in this country would not buy it. If it did not make a "quick" fire in the kitchen, millions of housewives would not use it.

Natural gas is an accepted part of the daily lives of millions of Americans. It is no more "mysterious" than the artificial variety which has been supplied in Nebraska City for a half century. It is more efficient, cleaner and, what's more important, cheaper. Why be afraid to invite it into your home?

18 Franchises Granted

Eighteen franchises were granted to cities and towns along Northern Natural Gas lines during September. Eleven were granted in southern Minnesota, six in Iowa and one in Nebraska.

276,000 Now Being Served

A total of 276,000 people is now being served by the Northern Natural Gas company in the 74 communities in which natural gas is being distributed through its pipe lines. There are between 45,000 and 50,000 meters in these communities. Some of the customers include some of the largest industrial plants in Iowa and Nebraska.

The Company extends a most cordial invitation to everyone to visit the office and inspect the various lines of gas appliances now on display.

YOUR OLD FURNACE?

On Friday, November 13, Mayor Orr opened a valve releasing the new fuel into Wayne's distribution system to bring new comfort and convenience to the people of Wayne.

For the first time in its history the community will be served by gas and can offer to its citizens a service equal to that of any of the large cities. The added living comfort in gas served communities and the attractiveness to business and industry of a fuel as cheap and efficient as natural gas is well known.

The gas supply comes to Wayne through a six inch line taken from the large sixteen inch line of the Northern Natural Gas Company, serving Sioux City, Iowa, about fifty miles to the east and will be distributed locally by a division of the pipe line company, the Peoples Natural Gas Company, now serving a large number of communities in Nebraska.

The Northern Natural Gas Company is one of the largest natural gas companies in the country, with 1,397 miles of pipe line in operation and 458 miles under construction, serving a population of 291,000 in 85 municipalities. An ample supply of gas for years to come is assured by the extensive holdings of the company.

Three major fields, in Texas and Kansas, are tapped containing over

2,000,000 acres of proven gas land and a daily open flow of over 16,000,000,000 cubic feet. In these fields the Northern Natural Gas Company owns or controls over 400,000 proven acres with a daily open flow of 3,000,000 cubic feet.

(Statement From Gas Company)

District Superintendent Reynolds in charge of the Wayne District of the Peoples Natural Gas Company's system here, said that he was pleased with the number of people who have signified their desires to use gas. That his Company is making an effort to render the people of this community a real service by bringing this new fuel to them.

Natural Gas In Omaha

Omaha, the metropolis of Nebraska, will receive natural gas for the first time, probably late this month, through a contract recently signed by the American Smelting & Refining Company with Northern Natural Gas.

The smelter will be reached by a fourteen-inch pipe from the Council Bluffs branch line.

The smelter is one of the largest industries in Omaha, "the Gateway to the West." Other large Omaha industries are looking forward to the time when they can receive the benefits of natural gas.

The use of natural gas by the Omaha smelter will give relief to a part of the unemployment problem in Omaha, because it will enable the smelter to re-open after being inactive for several months, according to Simeon Jones, business manager. Mr. Jones says natural gas gives a decided advantage to smelter plants because it is the ideal fuel for the various processes entering into the refining and reduction of metals.

420 Miles of Line Under Construction in 5 States

Construction work on Northern Natural Gas pipe lines continues at a rapid rate of speed.

Construction crews are now at work on 420 miles of main and branch lines in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota.

The 16-inch line from Mason City to Owatonna, Minnesota, which is now under construction, has crossed the Iowa-Minnesota state line. Twenty-eight miles of the 65-mile line to serve southern Minnesota has been built already. The eighty-six miles of fourteen-inch line is under construction to Sioux Falls.

Gas is a clean, economical fuel that insures easily regulated temperature.

"Without loyalty to one's church, you cannot have much of a church," is a saying of truth and power. If you want your club to be a success you must be loyal to it. The same is true of your community, your lodge, yes and even your church. The writer has read somewhere that "the one essential qualification for the success of an organization is the individual loyalty of its members."

If you cannot go to church in the morning, you can go to the evening service at the Methodist church next Sunday at 7:30 p. m. But go to church somewhere.

Trusts and Combinations.
Omaha Journal Stockman: Only a few years ago statesmen were declaiming loudly against trusts and combinations of business. Newspapers denounced them and drastic laws were enacted against them. Now the government not only favors such combinations, it urges them, and in the case of the railroads, offers to assist in formulating and financing them. From all of which it would appear that the Goulds and Harrimans were "born thirty years too soon."

Where Is the Gold?
Lincoln Journal: Will gold producers answer the distress fares that are sent up from industry, agriculture and commerce? Will the demand born of the bitter post war financial experiences of nations bring out of the earth more gold? Will more scientific methods of mining and extracting gold from its enveloping dross increase the world's total output? These are questions world economists are asking now.

New gold fields of considerable producing capacity have not been discovered since 1911. The world's annual production of gold has remained practically stationary for eight years. In the year 1929 the world's production of gold amounted to a little more than 403 million dollars, more than a tenth of which was produced in North America. It is estimated that of the total amount 52 percent is used in the arts and crafts. That leaves 48 percent for the currency basis needs of the world.

It is assumed that the demand for gold the world over will lead to an attempt to increase the output of existing mines and fields and that it will stimulate effort to find new deposits. Such is the experience of the past. It has been urged that inventive genius will further improve the methods for extracting gold from its native surroundings so that many deposits now known to exist may be profitably worked. Nevertheless the call for new gold fields will remain strong as some of the older and best producing deposits known show signs of a decreasing output.

A greater output of gold is needed. Some progress has been made in its recovery from the debris piled up about the mouths of mines the world around, but the progress has not been rapid enough to supply a growing demand.

The world cries for gold. Will the output be speeded up to meet requirements, or will the failure to produce make necessary a change of financial systems by the commercial nations?

The Reason.
Lincoln Journal: "Nothing is more astonishing to us older physicians," a London doctor remarked recently, "than the complete disappearance in one generation of a disease which I, as medical student, saw extensively in hospital practice, namely, chlorosis of young girls. This was a serious form of anemia, which choked our patient departments with its frequency." The reason is well known. The disappearance of chlorosis came with the decline of the corset and the greater freedom of woman's dress. The absence of sport clothing and the greater comfort of all kinds of wearing apparel came with and encouraged a greater interest in outdoor activity. A generation ago, wearing one of the symptoms of chlorosis, was quite common. But the girl who hikes, rides, swims, plays tennis, rides horseback all day and dances all evening just doesn't have the time or inclination to go in for those old-fashioned indoor sports.

Fewer and Stronger Banks.
Omaha Journal Stockman: Some 475 banks in the United States closed their doors during the month of October and 16 failed banks resumed business, according to figures published in the American Banker. This on its face, does not look like a very creditable showing for the banks. The thinning out of the banks, however, may eventually prove a good thing for the country as the United States has long been notoriously over-banked. We do not need to have bank deposits guaranteed so much as we need closer scrutiny of bank charters as well as of chartered banks.
