THE KNOT-HOLE

Don't all the stories look nice at this season of the year with all their Christmas decorations? Wayne is held to last at Christmas time, or any other time for that matter. A simple thing suggestion for a coat don't cover at the first with fresh coal. Always leave a part of the upper surface of the fire exposed. This will ignite the fuel gases escaping, thus you get more heat and less soot and smoke. Spots in caused, very largely, by a smouldering fire. Too much coal on the fire and sometimes put it out. You will have a cleaner furnace and much more heat if you feed your fire gradually until it gets well under way. This doesn't apply to hard coal, however. The real diplomat is the fellow who, around Christmas time, can get the job of what he wants over without saying it. There's this about the Christmas tree growers: they have to do their Christmas shopping early. We asked a school boy the other day what a virgin forest was. He replied that a virgin forest is a forest where the hand of man has never set foot. We mentioned it in the past, were mentioning it now, and we'll probably mention it again at intervals, but we feel that you need to know about SAHARA coal. Screen doors can be converted into storm doors very easily by the application of our non-tearing storm door paper. Remember when the base burner hard coal had a lot of sput in it? Some of it does yet, but the kind we have doesn't have a piece of slate in a car load. Just look at that girl dressed like a man. I think it's disgraceful! That, sir, is my daughter. I beg your pardon, I didn't know you were her father. I'm not. I'm her mother. Are your saws dull? Do they need setting? Leave them with us. We'll fix them and do it. We hope you have a Merry Christmas, a Happy New Year and plenty of alcohol in your radiator. "Better Lumber For Less"

Plans are under way to hold our semi-centennial jubilee on January 10. It is our hope to make it a day long remembered.

Methodist Episcopal Church.

(Rev. Harold C. Capewy, Minister) The Christmas pageant, "Lighting the Christmas Trees," written by Mrs. Grace Lutgen, is to be given by the church school Sunday evening at 7:30. This play is a beautiful presentation of the Christmas story and its true spirit. It tells the old story of Bethlehem and brings its spirit in practice in many lands and among different people. There will be special costumes and lighting effects that will help the beauty of the presentation. Everybody is invited. The special offering will be to help meet the present need of emergency in our other lands and in the hospitals and homes of this country.

Sunday morning the Christmas service will be held at 11. There will be special music and the pastor will preach on the topic "Tuning in on the Millennium." The Christmas will be richer for you if you have tuned your heart to its message at church on Sunday. The Epworth League will not meet next Sunday on account of the pageant.

The treat party for the boys and girls of the Sunday School is to be held on the afternoon of Christmas eve, instead of in the evening as in the past years. The programs will be arranged by the different departments. They will expect all of their members for a real Christmas party.

A fine gathering of men enjoyed the brotherhood meeting Monday and the address given by Dr. C. G. Goman of Norfolk. Dr. Goman spoke on the fallacy of trying to take "Short Cuts" in business, in general life and in the work of the church. The brotherhood is planning an active program and all out men should be in it.

The two splendid organ numbers played last Sunday morning by Mrs. J. T. Bissell, Jr., were much appreciated. Good hints in appreciation of good music you will find it here with a worshipful spirit and a hand of welcome. Get the habit of attending church regularly and you will find it a real enjoyment and help.

Christmas Cheer for All Children
Is Hope of Charity Groups Here—New Diesel Will Be At Work Soon.

From the college hill section of Main street Wayne's busiest thoroughfare looks like a jeweled canopy of Christmas lights. Strung from one side of the street to the other, the gay bulbs lend color and Christmas cheer to all who behold, expressing the spirit of the season which should bring particular joy to everyone.

Christmas lights take plenty of electricity, as officials at the municipal plant can testify. Between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening, when everyone wants a cheery lamp lighted, the peak load is reached at the plant. That means a total of 400 KW/H for a 600 HP load during those hours. There is a variance from 80 KW/H to 400 during the 24 hour period, which shows how much current a little extra light takes.

In addition to the plant is the new Diesel engine which will be ready for its test run about January 20, according to plans. Last week the generator and half the flywheel for the equipment were sent to Wayne and are being placed. When the great Diesel itself arrives, a specialist will come with it to see that its installation is properly effected.

An Exclusive Model.
Exclusive as a truck by DeLong or a custom car by Fiat is a Diesel engine, strange though the comparison may seem. The units are made in a factory at Auburn, New York, where new Diesels are created on order, and especially to fill the need for which they are purchased. There may be occasionally two or three models on the floor, but the company does not make a practice of keeping large numbers of the units on hand for sale.

Quite in accord with the exclusive nature of the machinery, the manner in which new Diesels are made. S. A. Hemptle, who visited the factory at the time Wayne's unit was ordered, noted that a great deal of the work is "piece work," each man devoting his attention to the creation of one perfect part of the great and complicated whole.

Diesel makes other machinery, too. There are small Diesel locomotive outfits, and motors that go to sea in great ships. Something of the precision and power of a sea-going motor is incorporated into every piece of machinery which leaves the Auburn plant, a thought which points to the wonder of this machine age.

Good Cheer for All.
Christmas, always finds some families whose happiness is curtailed because of lack of funds. Where charity can give holiday cheer and increase comfort through the long and dismal winter days, it manages to express the good fellowship which Christmas means. With this spirit foremost, members of the American Legion have been collecting fruit, vegetables, clothing and even grain to be sent to the needy in sections of the state indicated by grasshoppers and troubled by excessive drought.

Clothing and shoes which have been hard to place here will be sent by Mrs. W. C. Fox to the drought-stricken areas when the shipment is made. Mrs. Fox, who does charity work for the county, the Red Cross and the W. C. T. U., holds in her hands happiness and comfort for those to whom she has been ministering. No matter what needs are brought to her attention, she tries to fill them, and her good work, she thankfully admits, is mightily helped by the people of the community.

During October alone, Mrs. Fox dispensed 261 garments and 25 pairs of shoes. In November, she gave out 265 pieces of clothing and 45 pairs of shoes. So far in the Christmas month, she has given out about 125 garments and 15 pairs of shoes. During the three-month period, she has also given 12 mattresses, five pillows and eight comforters to families which were in need.

That the shoes given to the needy may be warm and waterproof, she had the Red Cross providing a fund for half soles, and perhaps 20 pairs have been repaired in this way recently. Clothing is cleaned, mended and repaired, and all garments are conditioned before they are distributed.

Toys for Santa to Carry.
Santa Claus will have a full pack this year if Wayne county charity organizations are consulted. Mrs. Fox has a collection of about 80 good toys left over from last year, and these toys will be given to Santa Claus to distribute. Girl Scouts are helping to gather playthings as are members of the third, the seventh and eighth grades at the public school and of the Sunshine club. The toys will be placed in Santa's pack and sent around on Christmas eve so that every boy and girl may savor the meaning of the gay holiday greeting, "Merry Christmas."

If you have things to give at Christmas time, there are places for them to be used. Clothing that is outgrown or worn may be of use to someone, and it is unparagonable to allow any good and useful article to go to waste during this season. Mrs. Fox, in her work, needs for December distribution, winter underwear for children and men, overcoats and overcoats.

"A new need arises every day," she comments from the midst of her busy days. But there is always help, she finds, to meet the needs, help that comes from the well-meaning people of the community. To have the merriest Christmas yourself, and to spread the spirit of the age-old season, give some Christmas joy.

Beemer Bank Case Will Be Reheard

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 17.—The supreme court today ordered reargument before the full court at its January 4 session of a banking question which was argued before one of the two divisions of the court Thursday.

The case is the appeal of Mary Schlickbernd from a decision of the Cuming county district court denying her claim that three thousand dollars in Liberty bonds which she had left with the Beemer State bank and which had been converted to money by the bank, should be held to be a trust fund, which should be given preference over other claims against the bank.

She claimed that proceeds of the property left with the bank for safekeeping constitute trust funds which should be paid first from assets of the bank.

The state banking department, representing the receiver for the institution, claimed that the property never came into the receiver's hands but had been stolen by officials of the bank prior to the bank's collapse and that the receiver should not be held liable.

The Nebraska College Athletic Conference, including church schools, met in Lincoln Saturday and awarded 1931 championships as follows: Wesleyan, football; Midland of Fremont, basketball; Hastings, track; and Doarie, cross country. G. E. Hickman of Fremont, was relected vice president of this association.

WAYNE COUNTY CLERK YOUNGEST IN STATE

When Miss Bertha Berres was in Omaha last week attending the state convention of county officials, her picture taken on a graduate appeared in the Omaha Bee News with the following explanation:

"As the youngest county clerk in Nebraska, Miss Bertha Berres, 27, of Wayne, is showing women of the state how to make the grade in politics. Miss Berres was appointed two years ago to succeed the late Charles Reynolds in the Wayne county office and later she was elected to a four-year term. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Berres of Wayne."

JASPER EILERTS IS ON GERMAN TOUR

So charmed was Jasper Eilerts with Germany, his fatherland, that he remained there for 10 months on his last visit, which terminated some weeks ago. Not content to remain in this country, Mr. Eilerts made arrangements for a return journey, and left Wayne Saturday on his way to New York City, where he will embark. He plans to sail December 16 for Germany on the Europa, spending some time with relatives on the other side.

Morningside Wins Basketball Game

Wayne College Quintet Loses First Contest Of This Season.

Wayne college basketball team went to Morningside Saturday for a game with the college of that place and Morningside won by 27 to 12. This was Wayne's first game of the season.

After gaining a 2 to 0 lead early in the game, Morningside increased its count to 14 to 7 at the half. Wayne rallied in the last half and came within 2 points of tying the score.

The Wayne lineup was as follows: Alexander, Andrews, Grubb, Baker, Smith, forwards; Sexton and Nanges, centers; and Paul, Lindamood and Perry, guards. Andrews made four field goals for Wayne. Andrews made two and Sexton and Paul each one free throw.

Shrimp Salad In Holiday Guise

Shrimp salad is a delicacy for which you may have to acquire a taste, but it won't be long until you'll be an enthusiast if you try this variety. The basic recipe will require a small can of shrimp and one large apple, with a tablespoon of lemon juice for seasoning, and enough mayonnaise to mix nicely. You may increase the proportions according to the number of servings you wish to prepare.

Break the shrimp in pieces, not too small, and remove from each one the black line which extends the length of the shrimp. Cut the apple fine, season with lemon juice and mix all together with mayonnaise. Strips of fresh red and green pepper may be added for color, in season.

For a holiday party, serve the salad on pineapple stars made by cutting points in sliced pineapple rounds. The pineapple should then be soaked in its own juice, which has been added red and green food coloring. No flavoring should be added. When you are ready to serve the salad, remove the pineapple from the juice, drain, and place the stars on individual plates. Heap the shrimp salad in the centers of the stars and serve. If you wish to have a particularly attractive table, serve both red and green star salads, alternating around the table with the two colors.

Fire Destroys Plane At Pender Field

Fire which is thought to have started from a short in the engine, destroyed the Lawrence Ensminger airplane piloted by Ervin Exler Monday night last week at Pender. The plane was left for the night at the Pender airport and was out of doors as there was no room in the hangars. No one was at the field when the blaze started and the fire had gained such headway when the department arrived that a plane could not be saved.

Learning And Teaching Carry Wayne Faculty Members To Many Sections

From school psychologists to students learn from the gamut of experience to which former instructors, at Wayne State Teachers College admit in material offered for the alumni register. Emmett A. Beils, once associated with the college here, has gone to Cleveland, Ohio, where, after taking advanced work, he has become school system psychologist and principal of the Lenard school. The position of psychologist for schools, public or private is a comparatively innovation, and one which educators are watching with interest.

Miss Jessie Boyce, a popular instructor in the college, is on leave at Minneapolis, where she is doing advanced work in mathematics, her specialty. "She writes," "My work is more strenuous but even more enjoyable than last year."

Enjoys Eastern Travel.
Floora Dunagy (Mrs. W. M. Gold) of Gullman, Mo., was at the college in Wayne from 1922 to 1925. She is now in Missouri, and writes of interesting summers in East Radford, Virginia. "I go to the state Teachers College for girls, which is located in East Radford. A few more than 500 are enrolled. I had many pleasant week-end trips to the following points of interest: Crockett Springs, Mountain Lake, over 4,000 feet above sea level, Washington, D. C., and other points."

Miss M. Hallock, dean of women, 1925-1926, is now dean of women in the College of Music at Cincinnati, Ohio, she says in her report. Miss Ruth L. Peterson, here in 1922-27 and 1928, is now dean of Women at Augustana College, which is located at Rock Island, Ill.

At Nebraska University.
Elsie Ford Piper, located here in 1910-1917 and 1918-1925, is now assistant dean of women at the University of Nebraska, where she works with Miss Amanda Heppner. Miss Piper comments in her letter on the pamphlet, "A Camera Trip to the Nebraska State Teachers College," which was sent to faculty members last spring.

"The folder is lovely, and the Wayne campus is beautiful," finds Miss Piper, who continues, "It is very different indeed from 1910. We have many excellent students from Wayne in the University this year. Right now we are all enthusiastic over our new dormitory."

Lackey Maters Studies.

Earl E. Lackey, who was at Wayne State Teachers College from 1911 to 1924, is located now at the University of Nebraska, where he has been doing interesting work in the field of geography text books. In his note to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Walford Carlson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hoegman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Barneim and family.

The time, Wednesday was enjoyed in games and cards, and luncheon was served from well-filled baskets. The hard-time costumes worn furnished merriment. Those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. William Harder and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Harder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hinnerichs and Ruby, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Knudsen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett and son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dranselka and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. Advice

There is no secret about the cost of our service. It is fixed by the same principles which govern the charges of any other reputable commercial organization.

Our patrons select the merchandise they desire. Prices are plainly marked, and there is no effort on our part to sell more expensive goods than the purchaser wants or can afford. The amount of service to be rendered is also subject to the patron's needs and wishes.

The cost of the funeral is merely the cost of the merchandise, with a reasonable profit, plus the charge for our services and the use of our equipment. Whether the funeral is simple or elaborate, we give dependable and reverent service at a fair price.

Personally, we believe that the disease is discussed, the better Broadcasting Co's experience reaches and pains will in no manner alleviate them and it produces degree of mental depression that in wholesome, to say the least.

Depressing Conversation.
Auburn Herald: All the depressing conversation one hears these days does not have to do with prices, panics and unemployment. There is another form of depressing conversation that is just as harmful. It is the tendency of people to discuss bodily ills and maladies. Whenever a group of people assemble, the conversation is likely to turn to sickness in various forms. One will complain of the tenacity of his cold, how it holds on and the sufferer is furnished or re-commended, and so on. Others will dwell upon the unusual amount of sickness in the community and the number of deaths, and so long as they remain together they will talk about diseases and operations, and their brief talk is enough to make a well man sick listening to them. One of our most common forms of which affords an instant opening salutation is: "How are you?" for a lot of unhealthy conversation.

A New Name.
Lincoln State Journal: One of the interesting statements made at the recent session of the National Academy of Sciences is that within a short time the standard electrical light found in most homes will be utilized for receiving radio broadcast programs. While the means and methods are not clear to laymen it is planned to use power lines, largely those of the telephone companies, for carrying the programs, with some sort of special installation necessary. If scientists are going to use the wireless messages, they will have to invent some new name that does not sound as ridiculous as that.

Fancy Touches In Holiday Dinners

Chestnut Stuffing and New-Crest Carrot Garnish Inspire All Good Cooks.

Christmas is a gay holiday, and one which should be enjoyed in some special way by everyone, rich or poor. The simplest meal may be graded with happiness and the plainest food served with hospitality, expressing the good will which the season exemplifies. Therefore it is not wise to overemphasize the Christmas dinner. Make it as pleasant and happy an occasion as you can, whether you serve it on the kitchen table or from the best china in the land.

Of course, something special to eat will delight everyone, and dishes, too, so we are publishing some special recipes which may be served to make your holiday dinner more delightful.

For Chestnut Stuffing.

Chestnut stuffing is a delicacy which may accompany any fowl. If you are not serving turkey, stuff a capon with chestnut dressing, roast, and serve on your biggest and best platter. To make the stuffing:

Shell one quart of large chestnuts, pour boiling water over them, and keep hot until the inner skins may be removed easily. Then boil the nuts until they become soft. Take out a few at a time, drain and sieve, finally mashing until fine. The nuts will mash more easily if they are hot.

Season the dressing with one tablespoon of butter, one teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, one teaspoon of parsley, and one teaspoon of onion (both the parsley and the onion should be chopped), one tablespoon finely chopped ham, two tablespoons of bread crumbs, two well beaten eggs. Take care not to make the dressing too moist, as it should be fairly dry.

To Garnish Fowl.

A garnish for the holiday fowl is suggested by Mrs. E. W. Huse, who contributed the chestnut stuffing recipe, also. Carrot cups, filled with creamed mushrooms or creamed peas, are to be placed around the edge of the turkey platter.

Scrape large carrots, cutting off the tops, and scraping out enough of the inside to shape a cup. Boil the carrots in salted water until tender, and scald to the desired thickness, shaping the cup. Make a cream filling as follows:

1-2 cup mushrooms
2 chopped hard-boiled eggs
1 cup bread crumbs
2 teaspoons each of lemon juice and melted butter
1-1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Milk or chicken stock to make of a creamy consistency
Fill the carrot cups with the mix-

CRANBERRY APPLES FOR WINTER MEALS

Some lazy winter morning when it's cozy in the house and stormy out of doors, try having baked apples, cranberry sausage, buttered toast and coffee for breakfast. It will put everyone into such an amiable frame of mind that no one will even think of quarreling over the morning paper!

Core apples and fill the centers with rather thick cranberry sauce. Sprinkle with sugar, and around the apples, in the pan, put a cup or more of the sauce. Bake the apples with the cranberry juice while they are baking. Good lunch serve.

Prepare country sausage and serve on a large platter, have the toaster in good working order, and serve the coffee piping hot. A breakfast to be remembered.

Candied Orange Peel.

Peeling of 2 oranges
1 cup sugar
1-2 cup water
Remove peel in quarters. Cook until tender in boiling water. Drain, using a spoon. Cut in thin strips, using scissors. Boil sugar and water until short hair forms. Cook strips in syrup until it will spin a long thread, drain and coat with fine granulated sugar.

"An attempt was made to wreck the Hartington train by placing a large boulder on the track five miles from Wakefield. The engineer saw it in time to stop the train."

"The fourth annual meeting of the North Nebraska Teachers' Association will be held in Norfolk December 26 and 27, 1931."

"Little fire, doors open and summer atmosphere were the record of Sunday, December 15, 1931."

Sea Foam Candy.

1-3 cup corn syrup
3 cups brown sugar
2-3 cup boiling water
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts
Few grains of salt
Boil the mixture until it reaches the soft ball stage, then pour very slowly on beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Drop on oiled paper.

Cherry Pudding.

(Mrs. Paul Husey, Springfield, O.)
4 tablespoons fat
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1-2 cup cherry juice
1 cup cherries
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1-8 teaspoon salt
Cream fat and sugar. Add eggs, juice, flour, baking powder, vanilla, nutmeg and salt. Beat two minutes and add two thirds of the cherries. Pour into a shallow pan fitted with waxed paper. Sprinkle the remainder of the cherries over the top of the batter. Bake 30 minutes in a moderately slow oven. Cut in squares and serve plain, with lemon sauce or with whipped cream.

Hands Off Education.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: If there is one sentiment that is universal in this country it is that the federal government pursue a hands-off policy in the matter of public educational affairs, leaving the various communities and states to handle their vital activity as conditions demand and circumstances permit.
In his annual report, submitted to congress just a few days ago, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur emphasized his conviction that the preservation of natural resources, care of dependent peoples, education of the young, and similar activities should best be managed "many hundred miles closer to the people than is the city of Washington."
The American passion for learning can be safely depended on to provide facilities for the education of our citizens free from the blighting influence of bureaucratic domination or the demoralization of political interference.

IT IS NOT the cost of the gift, but the thought that lies behind the giving that warms the cockles of the heart on Christmas morning.

Then, instead of some short-lived trinket, how much nicer to give something that will bring solace and delight for many days after the Christmas tree is gone; until the New Year is on its way.

For the cigarette smoker, man or woman, of course give Camels. A blend of choice Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos, they are kept fresh and prime by the Camel Humidor Pack, with their natural moisture unimpaired by parching or toasting.

In appropriate holiday wrapping, Camels come both in attractive Christmas cartons containing ten packages of twenty and in cartons containing four boxes of fifty each.

For the man who smokes a pipe, we suggest either a pound tin or one of those crystal glass humidors of good old PRINCE ALBERT. Here is a present that goes straight as a Christmas carol to a man's heart; P.A., the best loved pipe tobacco in the world, all dressed for the occasion in bright Christmas costume.

What gift can you think of that will be more welcome or give more genuine pleasure and satisfaction?

Don't you hope someone will think of such a friendly gift for you?

We wish you Merry Christmas!

Revise Banking Code. Lincoln Journal: The Wisconsin legislature, which convened a few days ago, has before it two bills dealing with the state control and supervision of banks. These were carefully prepared by a legislative committee that sat during the adjournment period and which made a comprehensive study of the situation developed toward considering banking legislation in ticklish times like these, but the governor is of the opinion and told the legislators that this was the best time to do something about a situation that needed attention since in that way the public confidence could be secured.

One of the bills proposes to weld all the state and national banks, into local clearing house associations which will have control of credit. No bank can stay out if it desires any of the privileges accorded and none can get in if more than 10 percent of its capital stock is owned by a holding company.

The other bill proposes a complete reorganization of the banking department, none having been attempted for a quarter of a century during which banking has changed in many respects. It is deemed on the theory that the state ought to have some other function than that of merely clearing a bank when it is in trouble. Provision is made for helping out in trouble over existing difficulties. Overbanking is one of the troubles in Wisconsin as it has been elsewhere. The automobile has changed the trading status of many small towns, and made unnecessary the number of banks that once functioned.

Wisconsin, therefore proposes to lodge in the banking department the power of granting or denying a charter, with an appeal to the courts open to the dissatisfied. The department is to be placed under the civil service with an advisory council of bankers and representatives of economic interests in the state, a plan once proposed but rejected in Nebraska, but which was later revived in the form of the guaranty fund commission to take

Farmer Methods

Lincoln Journal: An important discovery has just been recorded in the northwest. In the language of one of its spokesmen the farmers of that section have "found out that no act of congress or pricefixing can ever restore the lost fertility to wheatsick soils, clean up weedy grain fields or raise sagging wheat fields one bushel. Good farming with good livestock is doing a better job than any political hokus pokus in raising farm incomes."

Wide diversification is doing for Minnesota agriculture what it has done for farmers in Nebraska, and is added proof of the wisdom of the teachings of the state college of agriculture. The butter production in Minnesota now exceeds the value of her iron output, a surprising situation. Need exists for more speeches like the one referred to. On every hand in this state is ample evidence that the morale of farmers is improving as they have turned away from the political soothsayers, and so is their financial status. Where they employ business methods, study their markets and reduce their costs, they are making profits, not very large, but enough to keep them out of the presence of the wolf.

While representatives of farm organizations are clamoring at the doors of congress that this, that or the other thing be done for the farmer, painting a dark picture of his present and a gloomier one of his future, thousands of farmers are busy solving their own problems in their own way. All of this talk of bankruptcy, actual or impending, has been one of the hardest blows from which agriculture has suffered, and one of the results is reflected in the low prices to which farm lands have been driven. The integrity of the farm mortgage has been shaken, in spite of the fact that the figures of life insurance companies and mortgage brokers indicate that no mortgages have been foreclosed or the land taken in since November, 1931. One point has been repeatedly stressed in discussion of the future of agriculture. That is that the single crop farmer cannot survive over a period of years, even on cheap lands. Most farmers found this out long ago. Many are still gambling on the possibilities, buoyed up by years when they made unusual profits. The sooner they change their methods the sooner will they get lasting results.

Quality Increases Demand

Omaha Journal-Stockman: One factor in the meat trade which many stockmen fail to appreciate is the important influence that quality has on meat consumption. Success of recent campaigns to increase the demand for lamb has been due as much to the fine quality of most of the lamb now available as to its cheapness in price, whose in charge of the movement believe.

That the same principle applies to consumption of other meats is illustrated by the fine consumer response which Omaha retailers have had recently to the offering of Ak-Sar-Ben 4-H club beef. Once their customers had a taste of this beef, the butchers say, they have come back in a day or two looking for more of the same kind of meat. Within the past week, for instance, the families of several members of the Journal-Stockman staff have lived almost exclusively on first quality beef furnished by some of the 4-H club cattle bought by a certain Omaha retailer.

Unfortunately beef of this quality is scarce and hard to get right now. That is the main reason why a few longed-for cattle are bringing $10.00 to $12.00 per hundred while the bulk of the shorted and warmed-up supply sells below the $8.00 mark. Ordinarily the spread is not this wide but at the same time well bred and well finished cattle always command a premium and in addition that they improve the feeding possibilities of the cattle feeding business by broadening the demand for the tender, juicy and highly palatable cuts that they furnish.

It should be hardly necessary to add that much of the beef now coming to market can only have an opposite effect on the consumer. Having been fed too short a time to lose its grass characteristics, it can hardly be expected to stimulate the beef appetite of those who eat it. According to the beef packers here, a large percentage of the so-called fed cattle that they are now buying are graded as westerners in the cooler. Small wonder, then, if consumers are easily switched to other meats and poultry at this time of year.

Controlling Production

Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman: Farm economists have reached a conclusion that may be fraught with dangerous consequences to the agricultural industry as well as to the whole country. In a recent address Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture said that of most vital importance to agriculture, that of controlling production. Without it many attempted price control, such as the export bounty and the equalization fee plan, must fail.

Controlling production of farm products by shot gun methods, as was attempted in the case of oil production in Oklahoma, or by night rider methods as in the case of the Kentucky tobacco growers, or even by legislation as in the southern cotton growing states, is repugnant to the first principles of a free government and hence cannot possibly be more than temporarily effective.

Voluntary control of production is impossible except in limited areas and of special products since there is no organization capable of speaking and acting authoritatively for the millions of individual American farmers. There never has been such an organization in the history of mankind and the chances are there never will be such a nation-wide organization in this country.

The independent life the farmer has led in the past has bred an independence of thought and action, and the avalanche of criticism that descends upon every plan of relief proposed or enacted shows a strong spirit of revolt against control whether from farm organizations, government or anyone else. What guarantee is there," asks the Nebraska State Journal, "that the independent farmer would accept the dictum of any farm organization as to his plantings? Yet a greater measure of control is the only solution for farm price problems."

Effective control of farm production has never been possible and probably never will be. Even if millions of acres of land were withdrawn from cultivation it is certain that new machinery and new methods would prevent a corresponding decrease in production. Agriculture is no longer the occupation of drudges; it is a science, an industry and "big business" as well as a way of living.

Having some rather unfavorable experience during the past two years in an abortive attempt to control prices of farm products, the country is hardly in a mood to enter on a still more hazardous experiment of trying to control the production of those products. The inexorable law of supply and demand is certain to eventually take care of both production and prices and perhaps it may be just as well to let the law stand as it is.

Another Prize

Lincoln Journal: Once more a Nobel prize comes to the United States, this time the peace prize. The winners, two persons having been designated to share the award, are Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Jane Addams. The award for literature was captured by Sinclair Lewis not many months ago and former Secretary Kellogg was awarded the Nobel peace prize of quite recent date as a reward for his work in making the Pact of Paris or Kellogg treaty a reality.

Miss Addams has been active in work along the way toward the establishment of international peace. She is probably known first for her settlement work, but she has also been active along other lines. Now the Nobel committee has decided that her work merits at least a portion of the annual award.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, is one most active in the promotion of the idea of permanent world peace. As head of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace he is manager of the expenditure of considerable sums of money used in the dissemination of information on the subject. Newspapers are supplied with information bearing on world questions, information prepared by experts in all parts of the world, and by learned men of Europe and America, information which they may use if they desire.

During Doctor Butler's tenure of office the foundation has taken parties of editors to Europe and brought European editors here in an effort to encourage more cordial relations and better understanding.

Partly due to his position and partly to his boundless energy, Mr. Butler has started thousands upon thousands of people thinking about the world peace problem and keeps them thinking on the subject.

The United States seems destined to lead the world to peace. We attempt to avoid "foreign entanglements" but we cannot avoid the responsibility that falls on a leader.

Football Fatalities. Sioux City Journal: Twenty-five boys have been killed this year playing football and the season is not yet over. At least that number is reported. Possibly the gruesome list would be enlarged if every fatal accident in the country, high schools and smaller colleges all taken together, were known. In the meantime scores have been seriously injured, some of them permanently. Several otherwise strong young men are still living with broken necks as a result of this year's football play.

Spain and Mexico together would not lose 25 bullfighters in a year. Professional boxing and wrestling would not claim so many lives in five years. The hunting season may account for more deaths than does football, and swimming no doubt is responsible for more fatalities than are seen on the gridiron. But all the athletics together probably would not match football in the taking of human life.

What to do about it? Nothing, absolutely nothing. Football brings in too much money at the gate for a little thing like 25 promising young men being killed to make any difference. Football is a game that has America completely won to its support. No doubt it and its tragic results will go on so long as there are promising, husky young fellows willing to play it.

Waiting for a new model that may be out any minute is about all that keeps us from being sold on an Einstein theory.—Detroit News.

The Washington Wash

By Strickland Gillilan

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—They're at it. They are finding it something else again—the Democrats—to run things instead of standing on the sidelines and throwing stale eggs and yeh-yahing at the boys who are bungling the work. The people have said to them:

"Oh yeah? Let's see YOU do the job any better. Here's the authority. The buck is passed. It's up to you."

This has thrown the "party of Jefferson" into a stampede and it is milling. A few Democrats of intelligence and vision are trying to reduce the chaos to order, but are finding it heavy sledding. The smell of loot is in the nostrils of the long-starved party of inherited and professional minority, and some weird things are going to be done, some ghoulis things, before they get satiated and ready to listen to reason. It is going to be a man's size job to keep from cutting off the political fingers of slain Republicans to get the jewelry. It would have been true of any party that had been tightening its belt and making a hunger march for years and at last saw the promised land in sight.

As in the Biblical story which forms the basis of most of our smiles in real life, Moses will not share this land that he showed them from afar. The sons of the wild jackass are in the saddle and riding hard and rough. George told the truth, and the New Hampshirean is going to get whatever patently wackacking a new-rich political party can deliver. They are going to make him seek some Nebo among the White Mountains and get himself politically buried, if they can. But oh, the fun he has had with them first! And maybe he will have more! Yankees are proverbially resourceful.

As stated previously, I am glad the football season is over here and elsewhere. I note the fatalities this season amounted to between thirty and forty. That means that the bright and shining light from each of some thirty homes has been snuffed out. In almost every case the boy had been carefully brought up and in many cases sacrificed had been made by his parents to give him an education. With considerable struggle some of them got the necessary college entrance credits. Parents who could ill afford it spent money on tutors, and lent their moral support and urgency to get the boy started on an education that would enhance his chances for success and usefulness in life. Of course the vast majority of the youths playing football came through alive, but does that ease the bleeding and sacrificed hearts of the parents of the ones who didn't? Their only world is destroyed. That is the part that appeals to me. It takes more philosophy than most parents have to figure out that it is for the best that the game which killed their sons should go on. The whole thing may be right. Maybe I'm just too sympathetic. There's no place of perfect safety. He attended a fountain of knowledge; He fought like a fiend to win to win; The game; and he died for his college—

But where does his mother come in? I mustn't let Congress see this. Somebody would introduce a bill calling for an appropriation for an investigation.

I dreamed the other night that I was fooling around the Golden streets of the New Jerusalem, chinning St. Peter and trying to get a story out of him, between matters that called for his decision as gatekeeper. Finally, after he had been called again to the pearly portal, he ushered in with considerable respect a round-faced mortal—the round face graven with deeper lines that I had seen when the 1928 campaign was on and I visited 2315 Massachusetts avenue, the white at the temples was much more pronounced. I knew who it was before St. Peter called him by name.

In introducing the newcomer, St. Peter planned to send for some of the more distinguished historical characters, first submitting the list to the recently-arrived soul. "Who's that, did you say?" "Job."

Let's see—what was it he was famous for?" "His patience under afflictions."

"Oh, yes—and just how was it he was afflicted?" St. Peter went into the hectic details of the record of Job's afflictions, which had been highly regarded in that early day.

"Well," said Mr. Hoover, "I don't want to be disrespectful, so don't introduce me to Job. I'm afraid I'd laugh in his face."

Yep, they're going to vote on whether the country is to vote on whether it is to be dry or wet. Having determined, with such mathematical exactness, what the status was to be, the last previous time that question was put to vote, they are going to do it again.

This will cause a great deal of suffering among owners of split lips. Remembering how the country voted once, and watching earnestly for any evidence that the result of the voting had any bearing on subsequent conditions, one can laugh heartily. There will be many abdominal guffaws over the fact that we are going to determine whether we shall vote again as to whether we shall vote again to put it to a vote some more. The fellow who believes in the efficacy of this method (though there seems to be no other that promises any action at all) had better not, except through suicidal motives, undertake to hold his breath till the 18th amendment is repealed.

And if they have any luck in knocking the eternal daylight out of that one, they ought to spit on their hands and take a crack at the 17th. That one was the root of more government evil than any other one of the marriage's a silly proletariat has given to the sublime document built under the patient guardianship of George Washington, through a summer that must have been to him—out-door man and dirt farmer that he was—more torturesome than the Valley Forge cold snap.

The trouble with the present Congress is the same as the trouble with any other Congress. It is here for so many things besides what it draws its salary for. Every month every congressman gets a check for $833.33 or 34—it has to make up a total of ten thousand for the twelve months. For "them wages" a fellow ought to stick pretty close to the job for which he was hired. But do they? The trouble with the job is they can do so much polly-foxing while making a show of doing what they were hired for, that it is almost impossible for anybody who doesn't just naturally sleuth them and who isn't mean enough to be disagreeable right out in meeting, to know just to tell when they are off the reservation earnestly working at almost everything except what they draw this pretty fair salary for. And (don't let this get out) there are very few of them who could earn of get that much any other way without nitroglycerin and a jimmy, and that method also has its hazard and takes more courage than anybody in politics possesses.

There are a lot of people in both parties in the 72nd who are concerned (a) in their own chances for re-election, (b) the recapture of the power of government patronage-disposal, (c) how to do their work. The average congressman may not know this about himself. But if any congressman or congressman, (latter preferred), after taking conscientious stock of his own motives, will come to me and swear this is not the order in which his motives rank, I'll give him a year's subscription to this paper—a gift for the gods.
