

Threatens Live Stock in Drought Stricken Areas—Wayne Hastes to Give Relief—Character Delimitations Continued.

FIFTY-FIRST YEAR

IN AN AREA OF RICH RESOURCES AND HIGH CITIZENSHIP

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1932.

NUMBER FORTYONE

NEWER VIEWS OF DEPRESSION PERIOD GIVEN

Rev. W. E. Braisted Presents Review Of Events And Dr. Lewis Talks.

INTERESTS CLUB WOMEN

A new view of the depression was presented Monday evening by Rev. W. E. Braisted speaking to Business and Professional Women at the home of Mrs. Grace Dickson Keyser.

Wayne Charity Astir.

The prompt action of the Wayne group in ordering two cars of alfalfa hay for immediate shipment reflected the right spirit.

The Call for Help.

Wayne is under the very shadow of unfortunate sections of the state, and we do not know that this county will be forever free from the needs of charity.

The Weather.

The discomforts and frequent hardships entailed by heavy falls of snow are more than repaid by benefits to the soil and by the assurance of normal crops of which we never feel in greater need.

Character Delimitations.

Fitting local persons to character delimitations appearing in this department last week was shared by a considerable number.

Think These Over.

A year's subscription, new or renewal, to the one who first figures these out correctly, or who comes the nearest to doing so.

COOKING SCHOOL GOES TO FORMER CORYELL GARAGE

In order to be certain of sufficiently large quarters, the Herald has decided to hold its cooking school and home-makers institute in the former Coryell garage on south Main street instead of in the city hall as previously announced.

PLAN INSTITUTE FOR WOMEN OF THIS VICINITY

Herald Invites All To Attend Free Programs This February.

ARE ARRANGING EXHIBITS

Plans for the homemakers' institute and cooking school to be sponsored by the Wayne Herald Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 11, 12 and 13, are going forward and each day's developments promise to make the programs of added value and interest to women of northeast Nebraska.

The institute will be held in the former Coryell garage on south Main street. The city hall was first designated as the place for the programs but the garage has been chosen to allow more room for visitors and more space for exhibits.

Frank Decatur White of Kansas City, home economics expert, will give instruction each afternoon from 2 until 4 and his information will differ each time.

In a model kitchen Mr. White will present new methods of preparing foods and new recipes for use in every-day cooking.

A number of firms and individuals will have booths in the building and the exhibits will be educational and interesting.

Mr. White's object is not to give impractical ideas and information that increase the family budget. It is rather the opposite, to show how common foods can be prepared in more appetizing ways.

Mr. White is an expert in home appliances and conveniences and will give such information. He has information about dieting, beauty aids, etc.

Workmen Clear Streets Of Snow

Trucks Carry Away Excess Drifts Which Blocked City Curbs.

Half a dozen trucks, with at least six, sometimes more men to a truck were employed on the city streets Tuesday and Wednesday to perform the task of freeing the thoroughfare from snow.

Preparations for the Area gathering will be made this Friday evening when members of the local council will convene with Harry Head of Norfolk.

KIWANIS GIVES SUMS TOWARD DROUGHT RELIEF

Prof. K. N. Parke Speaks At Monday Luncheon of Club Men At Hotel.

CLUB DIRECTORS MEET

One hundred dollars is the sum which Kiwanians have voted to give toward the fund for relief of suffering in the drought-stricken areas of the state.

Each season Prof. Parke visits 100 or more high schools in this part of Nebraska and talks with the students concerning the desirability of Wayne State Teachers College as an institution of higher learning.

A spirit of enthusiasm for the college here is found in the state, the speaker pointed out, for the school meets the needs of many high school graduates who wish to specialize in teaching.

Wayne County Sends Relief To Starving Stock

Other Counties Are Helped By Emergency Call—Shipments of Grain and Hay Made Saturday and More Follow.

STARVING animals in counties north and west of Wayne are being sent grain and hay by emergency relief agencies organized here Saturday with Dr. U. S. Conn as leader.

Contributions to date here amount to about $1,282 and of the amount about $700 was spent for the hay and grain already sent.

A relief committee at Bloomfield, headed by Fred Mueller, has a list of 200 farmers in that vicinity who have immediate need for grain and hay for livestock.

Reports of the needs came to Dr. Conn's attention through students who live in counties north and west. A truck load of flour, canned goods and clothing was gathered by local business men Friday and taken to Niobrara, one of the objects of the trip being to investigate further the most pressing needs.

Students Show Need. Reports of the needs came to Dr. Conn's attention through students who live in counties north and west.

The relief fund received a $500 donation from the Wayne county Red Cross. William Baxter of St. Louis, mid-west chairman, when asked to sanction the gift, replied that Red Cross money was to be used for humans.

Other organizations and individuals will swell the amount. The cars of hay cost $100 each and the grain about $500, these shipments taking the above mentioned amounts.

Other donations in the local fund include contributions of individuals, the amounts ranging from $50 down.

In the truck sent to Niobrara Friday were clothing for women and children, canned goods and 15 sacks of flour.

Stay Away THE Omaha World-Herald explains how California had deluged the world with literature setting forth its glories of climate and urging people to hurry out there to help enjoy the same.

Editors WE know of no one who is discussed or cussed more than an editor. And we know of no one who has a higher sense of duty or who tries harder to discharge it in good faith.

Luxuries LUXURIES in moderation have become essential in keeping up morale and putting fire into ambition. One is not justified in spending beyond means for luxuries to eat, wear, see or hear, but neither is he warranted in going to the other extreme and cutting out all the things that gratify and thrill.

Georgia proposing $616,000,000 to build up the American navy seems inexhaustibly wasteful and foolish. Not many years ago good ships were destroyed to reduce naval armaments to an agreed parity with other nations.

The emergency demanding a special session of the legislature to appropriate funds to buy feed for Nebraska livestock threatened with starvation gives Governor Bryan his first real opportunity to measure up as a leader.

An author stresses the importance of being on the alert to give rather than on the alert to receive as a way to prosperity. Here is one paragraph: "Giving is the remedy for business depression."

January 17 was the 226th anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth, and he proved himself one of the leaders of the eighteenth century, second only to Washington.

Commenting on the need of prompt action by the state in meeting the consequences of drought and grasshoppers in stricken counties north and northwest of here, the Omaha Journal-Stockman concludes: "It would certainly seem the part of wisdom for the state authorities to take hold of the problem vigorously or have the legislature called together for the purpose."

The Nebraska Farmer sounds a note of alarm over the proceeding which recovered stolen bank funds and securities through immunity of a suspected character. "We are happy that our fellow citizens got their securities back," says the Farmer.

Applicants at these headquarters for the necessary introduction to free meals have become so numerous that we have been compelled to reduce donations per individual. But victuals are cheaper and less cash is required to mop out hunger.

ing it because I have watched Congress and know it is trying its best to do the job and leave politics out of its actions. There is plenty of political bledger going on, never fear, but in most instances it is vocal. The offensive partisanship is from the teeth out. The work that is being done to this this offensive partisan obligatio is constructive. patriotic work. To the Senators and Representatives a bit of praise will come like a bolt from the blue.

Giving Away Money. Omaha World-Herald: Giving away large sums of money in a sane and helpful fashion is extremely difficult. The man on the street, who never has an extra five spot in his jeans, wastes a good deal of time thinking about the good he would do and the fun he would have if he could only be prodigal with millions.

Julius Rosenwald of Chicago solved that problem in a singularly wise and enlightened way. He confronted problems of philanthropy with the same wisdom and business acumen that he used in contributing to the success of a great mail order house.

He evolved a method that equally warm-hearted, but less wise philanthropists are following in increasing numbers. Mr. Rosenwald conceived of his fortune as something in the nature of a public trust. He never shirked its responsibilities. He studied for ways of making his benevolences most helpful.

Mr. Rosenwald was interested. Among other things, in helping the Negroes of the south. Booker T. Washington had painted a picture of the unhappy plight of the colored children, born in poverty and bred in ignorance.

Now at Mr. Rosenwald's death it is revealed that there have been built over five thousand schools in nearly nine hundred counties of 15 southern states. The Rosenwald fund's part in the activity is almost ended. It has had a large part to play in reducing the illiteracy of the Negro in the south. It has inspired southern whites with a feeling of their own responsibility.

Principal and interest are to be expended by the Rosenwald funds, so that by the end of 25 years all shall have been spent. The giver shunned the vanity of perpetual benevolence bearing his name.

Newer Views Of Depression

smaller Nationalist group whose ideals are founded on those of the old Empire. What has happened in Germany, like what has happened in Russia, is of great significance to the whole world.

"Has education?" Rev. Braisted raised the question in discussing the world situation, "pushed mechanical development beyond social control?"

What Does Education Do?

Starting facts were mentioned by Rev. Braisted in connection with the new situation in the world. He mentioned the fact that the physical, mechanical equipment of the productive world is producing but a partial percent of its possible output. Time and efficiency are being wasted, and yet we have millions of unemployed. Added to the seriousness of that situation is the condition of billions of dollars of "frozen" money and credit, and the enormous international debts.

The United States the speaker showed is in a peculiar situation, for she borrows from her own people to lend to foreign powers. If foreign powers fail to repay the United States at all, she will be forced to tax her own people to pay back to them what she owes! Such a situation, becoming critical in the past year, began long ago, of course, as Rev. Braisted showed.

In closing he outlined briefly some of the forces which have been at work for more than a decade, giving rise to the new forces made evident only in the last year. Certain other forces, he seems to believe, will culminate at last in giving relief to a critical condition.

Dr. J. G. W. Lewis, who spoke informally later in the evening, predicted "a better day in student life," a "new enthusiasm for learning," and the development of "education for citizenship." He noted also the seriousness of the condition in India, and the nature of England's judgments on those conditions.

The depression, Dr. Lewis views as a "challenge to capitalistic civilization." He mentioned other forces at work as challengers of this civilization, and admitted that, to him, the biggest event of the year just past was the intensification of this challenge to our civilization to fight itself from chaos!

Christian Groups To Have Meeting

X. M. C. A. and H-Y work purposes will be stressed in an address to be given for the public January 27 at 8 p. m. in the Presbyterian church. Charles A. Musselman, state traveling secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Glenn Griffith, student worker, and another leader will be here. The public is invited to attend.

Birds Need Feed During Heavy Snow

Heavy snows have made it difficult for birds to get feed, and Lucy Longnecker was in Wayne Wednesday asking persons to place out feed for them. Quail will be extinguished, Mr. Longnecker says, if they are not protected. Corn on the ear is the best food for them. Near Niobrara 300 birds perished in a December storm. Mr. Longnecker is circulating petitions asking that an 800-acre reserve be established near Niobrara for the birds.

State Accountant Commends College

State Accountant E. J. Avery of Lincoln, completed an audit of Wayne Teachers College, books for the period of December 2, 1929, to January 11, 1932, this Tuesday and commended the school highly on conduct of its affairs. Total income for the two-year period was given as $87,741. Total registration this year of 1932 is a substantial increase over a year ago.

Mr. Avery especially commended conduct of the cafeteria and dormitories at Wayne. The cafeteria is self-supporting and serves an average of 350 meals a day and board costs students each about $4 to $5 a week. Room rates in dormitories vary from $1.25 to $2.50 a week. Dormitory receipts are used to reduce cost of construction.

THE WAYNE HERALD COOKING SCHOOL

AND HOMEMAKERS' INSTITUTE

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 12 and 13

At Former Coryell Garage On South Main Street

Here This Nationally Known Food Demonstrator and Food Expert

It is not often the residents of this community have such an opportunity as is being offered in the Herald's Cooking School and institute. This newspaper is not sponsoring a Cooking School on the theory that the women of this community do not know how to cook. We realize most of the housewives of Wayne are adept at turning out real cookery. But, in cooking, as in farming, banking, store-keeping, or editing, there is always an opportunity to learn — to progress, to acquire new methods.

Frank Decatur White

Therefore, we decided to give the women of this community an opportunity to learn new, easy ways of doing things, new recipes for favorite dishes, shortcuts and labor saving ideas that, we are convinced, will be of value. Every housewife in this community can profit by the instruction to be given in the Herald's Cooking School. This newspaper never has sponsored a project that has such a far-reaching appeal. For cooking, in most cases, plays an important part in the happiness and contentment of families. Give a man a good meal and he is happy. Give a woman a convenient kitchen, excellent recipes, good ingredients, and a thorough knowledge of her business and she'll provide the good meal.

The Cooking School is being staged to aid women of this vicinity in a constructive way.

GAMBLE STORES REPORT INCREASED SALES FOR 1931
 Gamble Stores, operating 162 Auto, Supply, Radio and Sporting Goods stores in the nine North and Middle Western states report exceptional progress during the year of 1931. Dividend checks totaling $142,000 were mailed out on January 1st to over 1,000 stockholders who live in the communities served by Gamble stores.
 These dividends included the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 per share on Gamble's 7 per cent Preferred Stock—also a Common Stock dividend of $1.60 per share. This Common Stock dividend is in addition to $.50 per share paid last July bringing the total for the year to $2.10 per share, as against $1.40 per share paid in 1930.
 Radio sales especially have shown an exceptionally large increase, being many times greater than the preceding year. Sales in other lines of merchandise have also been carried out in the stores now in operation by adding many new lines of merchandise not carried heretofore. 22 new stores were opened during 1931. These stores are operating in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Michigan.

 In conjunction with these plans, Gamble Stores are opening a training school for new associates in Minneapolis. This training school will cover a period of two weeks. The course of study will acquaint these new men with Gamble Store's merchandise, their policies of operation, and store management. It is estimated that training of this kind is the equivalent of approximately 6 months actual store work.
 Officials of the company state that—this remarkable record is due to the aggressive sales campaign carried on during 1931—a strong newspaper advertising campaign—and a sincere effort to offer merchandise at the lowest possible prices—attracting a great many new customers.
 Plans for next year include a moderate expansion program depending upon the securing of satisfactory locations and properly trained personnel. This expansion
