Weather Shows All Good Signs
Greater Precipitation Is Recorded For January Of Present Year.
Prosperity is well on the way, according to some of the old-timers who have been observing the weather, and who believe this season's cold and damp days are the foundation for good growing weather later. The month of January, according to C. W. Long's weather report was much colder this year than last, which should sound the death knell for many grasshoppers. The past month also averaged a great deal more precipitation than the year before, which is excellent for the land.

Butter Production Less In Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb. — Nebraska fell below its normal creamery butter production in 1931, A. E. Anderson, state and federal crop statistician said.

The preliminary report of creamery butter manufactured in Nebraska last year shows a decrease of about 7 per cent. This follows a marked decrease in 1931 under the previous year. The record shows a little increase during January, February and March and a decrease beginning in April, which became very marked during May, June, July, August and September. The decrease was lighter during October but November and December registered large gains in the production of creamery butter in Nebraska.

Weed Seeds Are Part Of Troubles

Ames, Ia. — The primary cause of the weed problem in Iowa is the use of impure seed, and one way to remedy the situation is to use pure seed in future plantings.

The extension plant pathologist at the Iowa State college, addressing farm and home week students, said that it is not uncommon to find 450 weed seeds in each pound of seed oats. This may mean, he said, 43,200 weeds an acre or nearly one weed per square foot.

Mrs. Ella Perrin, 89 years old, is piecing a quilt at her home in Wayne and she plans to give the finished product to some worthy needy family.

The Opportunity

Omaha Journal-Stockman: There is an angle to the present situation of abnormally low live stock prices that is not receiving the attention that it should.

Prevaling low prices are of themselves a factor of potential strength, says a writer. When, or through what channel, this latent power becomes active remains to be developed, but it is not, within the bounds of precedent for it to continue quiescent much longer. The past few years proved that there was such a thing as getting prices too high, and subsequent developments will undoubtedly prove that they can be forced too low.

Most people with the slightest streak of compassion in them will agree that it would be treating evolution rather shabbily to close up shop with the job half done.

Give Her a Chance

Afford a Frigidaire?

Of course you can. That question answers itself when you consider that Frigidaire makes possible —

- 1 Lower cost of refrigeration.
2. Quantity buying.
3. Utilization of left-overs.
4. Taking advantage of bargain sales.

With a little planning every housewife can make her Frigidaire pay for itself. Let us demonstrate the Frigidaire and explain how easy it is to own one.

ECONOMICAL and wholesome

Artificial ice provides most economical refrigeration. And melting ice removes from your ice box impurities which cannot be eliminated any other way. Refrigeration in the winter saves foods from freezing.

See our exhibit at the Herald's Homemaker's Institute, February 11, 12 and 13.

FISH

Frozen Fish—Fresh shipments of halibut, salmon, pike, catfish, white fish, herring, cod and oysters received each week.
