Acceptance and Gratitude. Hon. Theodore W. Metcalfe, Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Chief of the Great Navy of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Thank you for the distinguished honor to which I give prompt and complete obedience, knowing as none other could, the superlative wisdom of your choice.

I am glad you have included tadpoles which, transmigrated into frogs, may be mobilized into a great kicking and fighting force.

One other thing, really of surpassing importance—when you send the admiral's suit, please see that it bears a full complement of gold braids.

Congratulating you upon your fine judgment in making the appointment and with assurance of my gratitude and esteem, I have the honor to remain yours humbly, obediently, etc.

For Refereendum. The school board's action in referring to a referendum the question of permitting certain farms to withdraw from the district will now be up for analysis and discussion.

Through some strange inadvertence, probably due to cooking school excitement, proof of the Larson dry goods advertisement appearing on page one of the evening edition was not corrected before publication, and therefore is reprinted on page six of the first section in correct form.

KIWANIS HEARS TALK OF TRAVEL IN ALL EUROPE

Mrs. H. G. Campbell Tells Clubmen of Interesting Foreign Cities.

REV. CAPSEY WILL SPEAK

Advance information for the spring attack of wanderlust was included in the address given Monday at the luncheon meeting of Kiwanis by Mrs. H. G. Campbell of Sioux City. Mrs. Campbell, who will make her sixteenth tour and her thirty-first ocean crossing this summer, discussed high lights in European travel, urging Kiwanians to see the importance of foreign travel as an education.

On a recent tour of 21 countries in five months, Mrs. Campbell made observations in differences between the American and the English ways of speaking, and quoted some of the more amusing of these differences in her Monday speech. Among phrases which she mentioned were the English substitutions of "luggage car" for "baggage car," and "localities" for "curiosities."

Mention Scotch Foresight. Scotch foresight in providing for the needs of citizens was mentioned by Mrs. Campbell as one of the most interesting signs of European progress. Because many of the old houses are made of stone, are hot modern, and are so inconvenient, it has been necessary for the city of Glasgow to provide public bath houses, and community laundry houses for the use of its people.

The community houses are equipped with magnificent electric equipment for the laundering, drying and ironing of clothes. For six cents an hour, the housewife can wash, dry and iron her clothes under the direction of an expert in charge. This service is paid for in part by the city, and the upkeep is about one half maintained by the sums paid by users of the laundries.

Also in Glasgow are marvelous public baths, stated Mrs. Campbell, each bath equipped for the convenience of the men, women and children of the city. Men must pay 15 cents for baths, women are charged 12 cents, and children under 15 years of age are charged about six cents, although certain hours of special days are reserved for children, who are then admitted free.
The city of Glasgow spends $300,000 for the upkeep of the baths. Each year the people of the city pay, in small sums, about $150,000 more, which goes to the care of the pools. Some of the pools and plunges, the speaker explained, are very simple, and may be rented for a small sum; others are elaborate and may be hired for large sums for plunging parties.

Admiral Foreign Systems. England has the fastest trains in the world. Mrs. Campbell stated, mentioning the 77 and 79-mile an hour trains, and the fast 400 mile non-stop run between Glasgow and London. She added that the English train systems are remarkable for their safety.

In passing, the speaker noted the English tax system, which allows cultivated land to go untaxed, but which places a 12 cent tax on gasoline, and a tax of at least $100 a year on cars like the Ford.

Italian improvements in the past few years were also observed by Mrs. Campbell. Most striking perhaps are the new electric railroad between Rome and Naples, the first new railroad stations with their parks, the current telephone poles and the improved use of water power for the creation of electricity. Last year, Mussolini succeeded in removing from the galleries the entrance fees, giving even the very poor an opportunity to visit the show places.

Mussolini as a Power. Mussolini, she pointed out, has also been responsible for such work as restoring Pisa, and the church at Pisa after 200 years of being lost.
Tourist travel in Italy is facilitated now, Mrs. Campbell says, by

Candidates

Here is Newton D. Baker, secretary of war during the administration of the late President Wilson, who has been mentioned prominently as a Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States. Baker has consistently denied his candidacy, but his supporters refuse to surrender hope that he will run.

The fact that the government owns and operates the railways, the telephone and telegraph systems, and maintains an interpretation service.

In closing, Mrs. Campbell mentioned prohibition, stating that she has observed an increasing trend toward its approval by Europeans.

Admit New Members. New members of the local Kiwanis club are the Rev. H. C. Capsey and C. L. Pickett. Rev. Capsey will address the club next Monday at its monthly meeting in Hotel Stratton. His topic for discussion will be "The United States' Policy of National Defense."

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 39 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, February 11, 1932 Vol. 6

The total distance between the average reformer's ears is one block.

The distance from your home to our coal bins is the distance from you to your telephone. Call 147.

In this campaign year it is well to remember that the American people have never been carried off their feet by common sense and reason, but they have sometimes been thrown off their balance by the wild talk of the agitator.

If you have the idea that some coals are more costly than you can afford, try our Economy furnace coal at $8.00 per ton.

"Mamma," said little Mary, "I never see any pictures of angels with whiskers. Do men go to heaven?" "Well," said mother thoughtfully, "some men go to heaven, but they get there by a close shave."

Whether you go to heaven or not, we'll make it hot for you while you're here. If you'll order our HOT lumps!

Within the past six years, the board of education has paid in an indebtedness in excess of $35,000; reduced taxes from $40,000 per annum to a possible $30,000; created a safety cash margin in the school treasury of $18,000 without reducing the efficiency of the school. That is a record other taxing bodies would do well to emulate.

If you desire to reduce your fuel expenses, order certified SAHARA coal. It'll do the trick.

Speaking of taxes, the county commissioners this year are reducing the county tax budget by $25,000; the school board $23,000 to $4,000. Now if the city dads will cut a few thousands from the city levy, the tax burden will be less onerous. It can be done.

While building costs are at the bottom, plan to build this year.

Last week a man was asphyxiated in Sioux City. That fact made the front page in the Sioux City Journal. A few weeks ago when a whole family was asphyxiated here in Wayne no mention was made of it in either paper. Query, "When is news news?"

We believe you'll get better results from soft coal if you "side bank" the fire. That is, pile the fuel up toward the fire door, and leave the grates nearly open at the back.

Makers are more valuable than breakers.

Cooking School Next to burnishing the soil and getting it ready for heaven, good cooking is probably the most important consideration in the world. Savoring cooking and other home attractions are essential in preserving peaceful family relations. Thus, cooking schools have been instituted to give people an opportunity to exchange ideas and learn some new and improved ways of gratifying the palate. An expert is on hand to give out the benefits of her years of training and experience. The school presents different means of preparing and handling foods, and altogether it is very interesting and informative. Not only does the school stimulate cooking ideas—it provides an opportunity to inspect latest home conveniences. In addition the social feature would seem to be eminently desirable.

A Good Plan "An excellent suggestion for furthering the anti-hoarding campaign comes from the North Nebraska Relief headquarters at Norfolk," says the Omaha World Herald. That newspaper explains:

"It is that civic, patriotic, fraternal and social societies of the state send checks for a part of their unneeded, unappropriated bank balances to the drouth relief committee. Most such organizations have a financial reserve which serves no immediate purpose. Pooled, those reserves would properly meet all the needs of the drouth area.

"If the suggestion is followed, the money will go into circulation in those parts of Nebraska where it is most needed. It will buy supplies from farmers who will spend it again in the stores, and it will start again in the endless channels of trade."

Flying Off The Handle

When people are struggling against heavy odds, their nerves are screwed up to a high tension, and they say and do things that they could easily suppress under normal conditions. Usually considered trivial contrarities cut into their souls and fire impetuous outbursts with little basis or reason. They see bogies and breathe condemnation on imaginary grounds. Flying into a rage and spilling anathemas usually reflect a disordered state of mind due to extraordinary pressure. Things seem to pull the wrong way, the governing belt slips, and the spirit of vengeance that intuitively turns to fasten itself on someone or something, often does injustice. When the hot temper cools and recoils, it suffers regret. Then people kick themselves for suspecting ugly motives that do not exist. The uphill pull calls for all possible poise and endurance.

While representatives of the powers are in session at Geneva, figuring out ways to reduce armaments and prevent armed conflicts, Japan which had signed all covenants and treaties looking to peace, is now hammering away at China and threatening the world with war. But the national administration may be depended on to employ every means to keep the United States out of trouble. "Let the world war and its consequences be a lesson to America," says the Ohio State Journal. "Until Japan deliberately and maliciously encroaches upon our rights, our place is at home where President Hoover and Secretary Stimson and the congress have kept us so faithfully."

The flu which is prevailing more extensively than usual, is offering nothing new. It is said to tackle the same group of bones and muscles with old-time violence, making the world look dark and dreary while the attack lasts. School attendance has been largely reduced of late by the disease, and often places in the ranks of employment are vacated for a few days while sufferers battle against the effects. If no other cause for the epidemic appears more reasonable it may be charged to the Hoover administration.

We have long had a suspicion, strengthened by recent events in China, that while the Japs were largely endowed with qualities of skill and cunning, they were almost wholly overlooked by nature in the apportionment of conscience. Therefore, their conception of right lies in might, and they feel aggrieved if their victims will not hold still while they engage in perpetrating outrages.

The letter from Lynch, published in today's Herald, and expressing gratitude for the assistance given by Wayne to the drouth and grasshopper-stricken area is stimulating, and it should make every contributor feel high satisfaction over his part in the relief plan. It is hoped organized efforts and systematized distribution will prove effective in saving the foundation live stock in the suffering territory.

Alfred E. Smith, defeated for the presidency four years ago, has issued a statement expressing willingness to accept the democratic nomination again if the national convention feels so disposed. He has a substantial lead in Governor Franklin Roosevelt, and each will lend weakness to the other. The anxiety of democratic candidates will grow with much promise unless the times should turn for the better.

The weather has been up and down in temperature the past week, but with no additional installments of snow. If freezing and thawing are death-dealing influences on grasshoppers, results ought to be satisfactory, and prevent recurrence of the plague.

Some schools furnish milk for children in the lower grades at a proper juncture to safeguard against undernourishment, and to develop healthier bodies and better scholarship. Investigation might lead to the wisdom of such a course. Results might amply justify the cost.

Not Propheying This Year

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The annual Outlook Report of the Department of Agriculture is quite unlike those of recent years when price trends have been predicted. The government prophecy business is now under official ban, and so the department's economists can make "no public forecast of the probable course of the farm situation," but must content themselves with telling farmers that "they must look to increased activity in the automobile, iron, or steel and construction industries for first signs of general improvement in the domestic demand for farm products."

And probably the economists are not shedding any tears over that. For prediction would be more difficult and uncertain than usual under present conditions. It is never anything that can be banked on anyhow. Thus we recall the Outlook Report a year ago, which predicted that the worst of the depression would be over by the summer of 1931, and after that some improvement could naturally be looked for. How that prediction could possibly be worth a penny to taxpayers is just a little more than can be seen without the aid of a magnifying glass.

Why the government should ever engage in price prophecy, in any field, is difficult to understand. Yet there are some people who are seeking to have the present ban lifted. Perhaps they are either economists looking for a job, or professional speculators looking for a useful speculative factor in farm products.

Fraud Order

Omaha World-Herald: The United States government has finally invoked the postoffice fraud order against the lottery rackets worked in the United States through Mexican and Cuban radio stations.

With voices that reached into the heart of America these stations were delivering lottery sales talks that must have made some of the direct salesmen on the air turn green with envy. Lottery advertising through the mails or over the air is forbidden in America, but there was no way to suppress the impudent appeal these outsiders were making.

The government finds, however, that if it cannot choke-off this advertising it can at least render it ineffectual by refusing to certify money orders to the lottery agents or to forward mail to them.

This lottery selling constituted an intolerable nuisance, and the effort of the postoffice to nullify it is commendable.

Proposes Boycott

Lincoln Journal: Representative Hull's proposal for putting teeth in the Kellogg peace pact by authorizing the president to place a boycott on a belligerent violator of the treaty may provide the biting power that our present peace machinery lacks. Most observers are confident that a boycott against Japan declared when its intentions in Manchuria became manifest, would have brought that country to its knees quickly. The Japanese are extremely sensitive to boycott and could have been kept in line easily. Now that Manchuria has been acquired, however, the nation becomes more self-sustaining and more formidable as a world power. The boycott proposal is worth considering, even at this late date. There are nations without honor just as some men are without honor and the peace treaties fail when nations fail to keep their pledges.

Our Standards of Living

Lincoln Journal: It is going to be tough on a lot of fellows, but the idea that the world owes a man a living and is obligated to provide what he regards as a proper standard of such living has been pretty well shot to pieces in the last two years. The notion had its origin in the brain of some indolent and shallow philosopher, and its fatal weakness lies in the fact that it assumes that the world is some other fellow than one's self, whereas it is made up of all the other fellows and yourself. This brings it down, mathematically, to either person owing all the others a living or himself one. As the first proposition is absurd, the other one must govern. And there you are.

Good Moisture Supply

Nebraska Farmer: Present soil moisture conditions are favorable to this year's crop production over the greater part of Nebraska, according to the state and federal division of agricultural statistics. Sub-soil moisture supplies are still short in southwestern, western and parts of central Nebraska. Winter wheat acreage has been reduced considerably and the conditions of some western counties are such that further reduction may come as a result of winter killing. The condition of wheat in the state was placed at 84 percent in the January mid-month crop report. There is some apprehension that the packing and freezing of snow in eastern Nebraska will tend to smother some wheat.

WHAT NEXT?

Don't you wonder what is going to happen next? Don't you wonder if any extreme will ever be modified? When the weather is too cold, don't you wonder if it will ever warm up? When it's hot, don't you yearn for a breath from an Arctic iceberg? When it is too dry, don't you wonder if it will ever rain? When Aquarius turns loose and precipitates more moisture than a Baptist would deem advisable, don't you wonder if it will ever quit and allow resumption of a proper mean? When values of everybody employed, often at extravagant wages, didn't you wonder when the tension would be broken and conditions would slip back to normal? Didn't you wonder then how you could keep on earning more and more to keep on spending more and more? Haven't you wondered the last year when prices would ascend and the drouth drums would cease? We are now wondering when the prevailing extreme will be over and another extreme will set in. Haven't we been adequately punished for the extravagances which we indulged, the smugness with which we regarded our jobs and ourselves, the grandiloquent uppishness with which we surveyed the neighboring landscape and sniffed the circumambient air? Haven't we been cured enough or enough of us been cured to safeguard civilization, to save democracy for the world or the world for democracy, and thus to warrant banishment of drouths, grasshopper plagues, unemployment, prawning markets, and economic paralysis in general? Then let natural laws and a willing and resilient population cooperate with an anxious president and a timid and fearful but doubtless well meaning congress in the task of restoring normalcy.

handicapped. If a city or town school district should embrace agricultural land, where should the embracing begin or end? Why should one area suffer extra tax while another of equal proximity escapes? The only reason is that one happened to be caught, and so was compelled to struggle through the years, the burden growing more intolerable with shrinkage of agricultural earnings. Petitioners contend that endurance is flagging and that separation is imperative.

Neighboring farmers are vitally interested in Wayne and townspeople are just as vitally interested in the prosperity of outlying rural communities. Cooperation in the furtherance of equal justice should dominate the minds and determine the actions of all.

On this question placed in the hands of voters, we will be pleased to publish opinions which will aid doubters in arriving at conclusions. Let those who have opinions dump them into the hopper of popular discussion.

Incongruity.

Our attention has been called to the frequently appearing human streak which gives to those who have plenty and withholds from those who have little or nothing. How often the rich person who, sick and distressed, needs only cheering words, is made the recipient of worldly goods, whereas the indigent individual who, sick in purse as well as in body and mind, needs everything, is bolstered up niggardly and unwillingly! Rich and poor alike need the stimulus of friendly words, but the former is well protected in material aids, while the fellow who has fallen prey to drouth or some other calamity, needs a few physical props. And the poor man today may be rich enough to bestow help tomorrow.

Character Study.

Result of last week's personal delineations will be found on page four of the first section. Figure these out, the first most nearly correct.

SCOUT WEEK.

Scout week draws special attention to one of the most constructive movements among the youth of the country. The boy becomes a scout at a time in his development when he is the most impressionable, the most receptive. He is unfolding and fixing habits. Many lurking evils beset his path, and he may yield to them in the absence of counteracting influences. The scout organization offers its services at a critical juncture. Its policy of recreative and useful endeavors, with high ideals woven into every pledge, lifts the youth into an atmosphere of noblest purposes. Mind and body are employed wholesomely. The boy who lives up to the scout rules, establishes a sure foundation for worthy citizenship. He is the security of the social order, the assurance of a safeguarded and perpetuated democracy. Like the boys, the scout organization among girls is performing wonders in developing sensible and noble womanhood. The scout movement deserves every encouragement and support.

No. 1. Wayne man. Bears a rather portly physique with ease and dignity. Well posted, and drives close analysis of involved problems in business or politics. Thinks his home, enlivened by best in radio music and speeches, and enriched by good books and magazines, is the best place in the world. Sensitive and modest, reflecting real culture—and of only one thing does he ever boast—and that justly—his wife's cooking. At one time he attended the academy at Fairbault, (pronounced Faribo,) in Minnesota.

No. 2. Wayne woman. Blue eyes. Readily makes and holds friendships. Accomplished musician. As both singer and pianist she is in demand. Active club worker. Both talented and willing. No matter how much she already has to do, she cheerfully responds to every request to do more, proving a valuable asset to church and social circles.

No. 3. Wayne man. Celtic origin. Fine presence, keenly sympathetic. Wears as a builder and executive have not dulled his force. Years in educating students and shaping their destinies have not lessened the fire and determination of his purpose. An interminable train of problems appears for solution, and each receives earnest and wisest possible consideration.

No. 4. Wayne woman. Long time and highly esteemed in educational work. Alive and faithful to every detail of her service. Knows everybody, and everybody knows her. Devotion to aged parents an admirable quality.

No. 5. Wayne man. English extraction. Eminently generous and good hearted, sturly and courageous, meeting obstacles without faltering and without complaint. Advancing years do not seem to cool his zeal or slow up his energies. When he says he will or will not do a thing, he means exactly what he says. He is quick to applaud a thing he thinks is right and quick to condemn a thing he thinks is wrong. He employs no excuses, applies no palliatives in expressing an opinion. Upholds highest standards of honesty in word and deed.

No. 6. Wayne woman. Member of the oldest club in Wayne. Long and prominently identified with church and social activities. Remembered as talented singer. Service in public office and in home duties requisition most of her time. Mother of three children and grandmother of two.

No. 7. Farmer, northeast. Pioneer and community leader. Always active in politics. Looks and acts little older than he did thirty years ago. During the years he made and held many warm friendships. If any of his friends or relatives ever tried to talk him out of wearing a full beard, they did not succeed.

No. 8. Farmer, west. Always on the job, and if anyone in the neighborhood can raise good crops, he can. Knows live stock from A to Z, and he so diversifies productive possibilities, that he is certain to land on top. Mentioned as a suitable candidate for one of Nebraska's master farmers.

No. 9. Farmer, northeast. Rather short and stout. Bundle of nervous force that brooks no opposition from either weather or market ills. Specializes in horses, and knows all about them.

The Washington Wash

By Strickland Gillilan

Washington.—I was at dinner the other night with Vice-president Charley Curtis, the cussing Kaw, brother of the lady whose seating once held the spotlight and ranked the Shanghai news in the daily papers. Charley made a speech. In it he said what vice-presidents have to say. Anybody over nine years old could have written that speech. Not that he lacks ability, but because when we put a man into public life and give him a stereotyped job he has to say certain stereotyped things on certain stereotyped occasions. If anybody can think of a more stereotyped or uninteresting thing than what a vice-president is compelled to say at a Chamber of Commerce banquet, I'd hate to hear what that thing is. It has to be set and as close to the recipe as a marriage ceremony. And to hold a manuscript with one hand and make a violent gesture with the other while the eyes are glued to the words one's secretary has written—that's funnier yet. A southern dorky to whom a jocosse professor solemnly spoke in Italian, didn't answer. Asked why, the negro said he didn't understand. "Have you no brains?" "Yassuh. Ah got some brains, but dey ain't no use to me now." That's the case with a public official making a set speech on a formal occasion. He might as well be almost dumb as his speech sounds. A little impulsive lack of conventionality would help matters a lot right now.

Everybody depllores that submarine tragedy in Britain, but the careful reader of the mud-died news stories about it got many a puzzled feeling. In the same story I gathered these facts:

(a) The inventor of their safety device said they had every latest facility for rescuing themselves so it would be unwise to despair of them, while it would be the height of folly not to be gravely apprehensive.

(b) They had the very latest devices for self-rescue, but they would naturally wait till the very final and most desperate moment to employ these devices as their use involved considerable risk.

Try those two pieces on your heartstrings and see if they don't hurt and jangle and leave with you a feeling as if you ought to laugh at some underhead's absurd

THE SOLUTION.

Character delineations in last week's Herald were most nearly correct in Mrs. W. H. Brubaker's list. Though the descriptions seemed to fit several in some instances, the writer had the following in mind: 1. A. T. Claycomb; 2. Nels Johnson; 3. August Biermann; 4. Mrs. C. A. Chace; 5. Judge J. M. Cherry; 6. Mrs. F. S. Berry; 7. J. M. Pile; 8. Mrs. E. O. Stratton; and 9. D. H. Cunningham. Others named as fitting the delineations are: 1. E. J. Auker; 2. Frank Kloppe, T. J. Pryor, Geo. McEachen and J. M. Peterson; 3. Otto Fleer Ed. Perry, Theo. Larson and Ben Nissen; 4. Mrs. H. S. Seace and Mrs. U. S. Conn; 5. I. E. Ellis, J. T. Bressler and L. W. Roe; 6. Mrs. A. McEachen; 7. E. E. Fleetwood, Garfield Swanson, Walter Miller and William Perdue; 8. Mrs. L. A. Fanske, Mrs. R. H. Jacques, Mrs. P. A. Theobald and Mrs. Edw. Seymour, and 9. William Beckenhauer.

stupidity in stating a case, even while feeling deeply sympathetic with the tragic phase of the dispatch. The way some senders of dispatches can use words to conceal meaning is little short of genius. The absence of any facts and the demand for a lot of space-filling causes many a hemorrhage of undiluted nothing.

For sale, a slightly used league of nations, 1919 model, with good rubber and mechanically as good as new. Yes, indeed, it runs as well now as it ever did. Built for the purpose of preventing war it did so during the time when the world was gasping for breath between scimmages. The aim of the builders of this machine was to prevent war when the world tended toward same. On its trial trip it fountered. Seeing that there have to be intervals between wars so that we can catalogue them and tell one war from another, this league proved an admirable filler-in and in poor sport pending the beginning of new hostilities. A small down cash payment will get this for you, the rest of the pay not being expected. Or we would accept a properly indorsed and certified promissory for the entire amount. Either a guaranteed moratorium or two first-class and dependable reputations would be acceptable. This machine is the only one of its model ever built, and contains the widely celebrated 14-point suspension principle. If the above terms are not acceptable to purchaser, would accept a second-hand Leuger pistol or what have you.—Address Signatories, Geneva, Switzerland.

There are about three taxis "to each citizen in Washington just now. The business may be shut down at any time under the anti-lottery laws. The taxis gather by the hundred at union station and other focal points for moving humanity and when they see a passenger timidly approaching they fade out the galloping dominos and get each other for him. Before this sees the linyote operator, a fleet of 500 new taxis will probably have come into fill a long-felt want. The purveyors of petrol are not complaining, but their voice is about the only one missing from the grand chorus. A good many citizens are using the taxicabs because it is cheaper to do so than to wear out shoes or take their own cars out for an airing. On rainy days the super-thrifty pedestrian who wants to keep his feet dry and doesn't care to spend twenty cents, climbs to the top of the nearest cab, hoists his umbrella and walks from cab to cab to his destination.

A sailor on shore leave—a taxi man told me this—decided he would indulge in gasoline polo along with the rest of the boys. He got him a car, had a 20-cent sign painted and went hickling. The cheaper cabs not being permitted to go into Union Station taxi entrance without a passenger he would pick folks up within a radius of two blocks, give them a free ride to the station, so he could go and catch his incoming trade. He cleaned up.

People who think straight or think at all are rejoicing quietly over the fact that so many of the policemen in Washington accused of cruelty have been acquitted. To convict a policeman gives such unholy and drooling joy to the crooks, that I'd rather see two cruel but honest policemen acquitted than to see a doubtful one convicted. There is a certain element inside and outside the criminal world (or rather identified with, and as yet unidentified with, said world) that are so pleased to see any governmental thing go wrong; any established authority humiliated and discredited, I hate to come into contact with them after a bit of satisfaction of that sort has fallen to their lot. The worst policeman any force is preferable as a citizen to the dearest crook. His mere appearance in uniform means authority—the person who sports even that something in itself. The man who bears the outward stamp of righteousness, contemptible hypocrite though he be, does more good than the persons who spurn even any appearance of being decent. Imitation is sincere flattery. And the garb of righteousness is at least a compliment to, and an advertisement of, a worthy article.

Sneering at right things is easy and cheap but understandable as to cause. During the Community Chest drive a man came at me with a story older than the hills and falser than hell about that organization. When he had spilled his absurd tale of crookedness in administration, I said, "Yes, I know another fellow that didn't contribute either." That silenced him.

Colonial Balls Features Of Day

George Washington Will Be Remembered During His Bicentennial.

Many hundreds in honor of the two-hundredth birthday of George Washington are taking the form of pageants, plays, and costume balls.

Seemingly unable to wait for the actual birth-date, organizations from one end of the country to the other began celebrating early in January, with hundreds of events scheduled for the time before and after February 22.

According to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, many cities have already begun the festivities with Colonial balls, and others are making their plans. Important in these is the Beaux Arts ball in New York on January 22, which society leaders of all important cities attended.

The bicentennial ball at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C., sponsored by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, to be held on the night of February 22, will also be attended by prominent society leaders from every state in the Union. The All States Society will hold a ball that night in the Sherburne Hotel, and the New England State Society in the Willard Hotel, with dozens of other costume balls in other places in the national capital.

One of the most attractive events to be scheduled for February 22 is the ball to be given in historic Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria, Virginia, reproducing the last birth night ball which General Washington attended in this very tavern. The guests attending the ball in 1789 will be represented on this occasion by their lieutenants, many in the actual costumes worn at that time.

Make Elaborate Plans.

Larchmont, New York, has elaborate plans under way for a grand colonial ball to be held at the Larchmont Shore Club, February 22, in which all the younger set will participate to make it one of the most successful social events of the year.

Committees drafted from the Ossining, New York, are arranging for a ball to be given on February 22, when the authentic costumes of the period in the possession of scores of residents of the town, will be brought out for the occasion.

In Brooklyn, New York, the Battle Pass Chapter of the D. A. R. gave a fashion show of the colonial period on January 15, when the participants represented such lights of the Revolutionary era as Martha Washington, Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Mrs. John Adams, and others.

"A Costume Ball of the Spirit of '76" will open festivities in Albany, New York on February 22. The ball will mark the conclusion of a day of celebrations by the State commission, and will be the most elaborate affair ever attempted in Albany. All guests will be costumed either in military or civilian dress of the Revolutionary period. Petite Dutch girls, direct descendants of the early settlers of Albany will serve a buffet luncheon at midnight. Various pageant episodes will mark the opening of the ball culminating in a final number of a grand march in which all guests will take part. This will evolve itself into general dancing depicting the first inaugural ball. During the period of intermission at midnight, a musical pageant with a chorus of 200 voices will stage an allegorical historical pageant in the nature of a surprise offering.

Regiment Holds Party.

The Tenth Regiment Armory in Albany, New York, will be the scene of a costume ball on February 22, when the musicians and attendants will appear in the Colonial livery.

St. James, New York, will enjoy a ball on February 20 in the Old Fire Hall which will be a costume affair with tableaux, songs, and stories depicting scenes from the life of Washington, with incidental music and dances of that period. The proceeds are to be devoted to the needy of St. James and Neversett.

The city committee in Syracuse, New York, is planning a colonial ball to be given sometime after Easter. Newport, Rhode Island, will also give a bicentennial ball after Easter. The Newport Lodge No. 104 Benevolent and Protective order of Elks will be hosts.

Ramsey, New Jersey, will give a pageant centered around the battle of Brandywine. This will be given by the Village Improvement Association. At the Symphony Pageant given January 10 at Symphony hall in Boston, the second part of the program was devoted to early American tableaux, taken from famous paintings.

Yankee Doodle Ball.

A Yankee Doodle Ball at the Hotel St. Regis, New York City, on January 22 was in keeping with the bicentennial spirit, the proceeds devoted to Stony Wold Sanitarium.

The Twelfth Night Ball given on January 6th at Berryville, Virginia, brought out an array of descendants of the pioneers of Clark county in the authentic historic costumes which are heirlooms in Clark county homes.

Washington and Lee University's annual fancy dress ball at Lexington, Virginia, took the form of a "Garden Party at Mount Vernon." French and British officers' uniforms mingled with the colonial uniforms and the quaint gowns of the ladies. The date was January 29.

Montgomery, Alabama, will see the socially elite of the state assembled at Montgomery on February 22. Birmingham, Mobile, Selma and other towns will receive their invitations delivered by a squadron of nine planes sent out to them by the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce.

Deland, Florida, will have a Washington tea at which Colonel Arthur Erwin Chapter D. A. R. will entertain at the Hotel Putman, on February 22.

Unveil New Plaque.

Columbus, Ohio, will mark February 22 with four celebrations. Church bells, chimes, and whistles will sound throughout the city, at 10 a. m., the hour that Washington was born. At 11 a. m. a national salute will be fired and a plaque marking the Refugee trail will be unveiled in the A. I. U. Building by the D. A. R. At upon the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolutions will hold a patriotic luncheon at the Deschler-Wallick Hotel. The climax of the day will be the re-enactment of the George Washington inaugural ball at Memorial Hall at 9 p. m. Authentic episodes in the life of Washington will be presented in tableaux during the evening.

In Santa Fe, New Mexico, the bicentennial celebration will be opened with a loan exhibition of Colonial portraits, silver, furniture, and samplers, at the new museum.

The Kansas City Bicentennial committee has been busy for months perfecting plans for an elaborate costume ball to be given on February 22. The famous convention hall of that city will be the scene of this ball which will follow a bicentennial dinner to be attended by the leaders of the city and state.

Times may be hard for poets, as that meeting of authors in New York seemed to indicate, but they'll probably pull through all right. At any rate, they've got lots of lines out.—Boston Herald.

Washington and the bicentennial celebration and revision of the tax burden. A list of ten sub-topics will be made out for each general topic, and from these the extempore speakers will draw their subjects.

Japan's Opportunity.

Christian Science Monitor: Designation of Admiral Kichiburo Nomura to displace Admiral Kouchi Shiozawa in charge of Japanese naval forces at Shanghai appears to have a deep and hopeful significance. In contrast to the commander whose impetuosity embroiled a host of international interests in the port on the Whang-poo, Admiral Nomura is acclaimed by Admiral William V. Pratt, United States chief of naval operations, as a man of "statesmanlike caliber."

That the Japanese Government should assign to the trouble zone an officer favorably known in Washington and one long associated with the liberal Baron Kato may connote an endeavor not only to pacify Shanghai, but also to bring Japanese military authority into a more tractable relation with the civil authority.

To follow the process of the military thought that precipitated the Shanghai crisis is comparatively easy. Japan's army in the popular impression, had been winning its spurs in Manchuria. The navy was anxious to get a place in the "show." An opportunity arose at Shanghai, where the Japanese already had decided to regard official encouragement of the boycott of Japanese goods as a warlike act. Always before when intervention had taken place in China the consent of the intervening power has been the person in supreme authority. At his request marines or blue-jackets are landed. At his request they depart. Admiral Shiozawa, however, apparently refused to accept the adjustment of the boycott reached by Consul-General Mural. There have been various accounts of why and how he entered Chapel and the International Settlement, but it seems clear that the naval forces were intent on going into action regardless of negotiations.

The announcement is the penalty that Japan has paid for allowing her military to assume a role which is not properly theirs. This has been a sore trial to international diplomacy since the start of the Sino-Japanese quarrel. Assurances from the Japanese Foreign Office as to the intentions of Japanese generals and admirals have often been falsified by events. Mr. Stimson obtained a promise from Ambassador Debuchi that Tsihsihar would not be taken. Several days later it was taken. A somewhat similar procedure is understood to have taken place in respect to Chinchow. And now there is the case of Shanghai.

What is the world to make out of such a serious discord between promise and performance? Only one thing. The military have been in control of high policy in Japan. When Premier Inukai formed his new Government in December, it was hoped that he would be able to regain for the Cabinet that control of events which had escaped his predecessor, Mr. Wakatsuki. That hope has received encouragement now in the recall of Admiral Shiozawa, but again is rendered doubtful by the placing of princes, who are exempt from domestic criticism, at the head of the army and navy staffs.

There can be no greater mistake, even from the standpoint of national expediency, than to allow the military to invade the political domain in times of great emergency. Hismark kept the reins of control in his hands in 1866 and again in 1870. To retain that control he had to fight the generals while they were fighting the Austrians and the French, respectively. During the World War the Entente maintained the supremacy of political considerations. But the German military transcended their role, and Germany paid dearly for it.

The Japanese people should waste no time in putting the military in their place. The change of naval commanders at Shanghai is a start in the right direction. It is an evident repudiation of Admiral Shiozawa if not a disavowal of his acts.

Until recently Japan had won many friends by the policy of conciliation toward China with which the name of Baron Shidehara was associated. Though Shidehara's policy toward China yielded apparent fruit, it made friends for Japan elsewhere. This the Japanese should not forget. They should recognize that to make their existence in the Far East more easy, they must keep their military in hand.

Committee Men Meet In Laurel Wednesday To Make Plans.

Young speakers on northeast Nebraska have been warned to groom their best abilities toward making a good showing in the speaking contests to be held in this section during the coming weeks. Plans were made Wednesday afternoon at Laurel, where the northeast Nebraska committee met, W. A. Behl of the Wayne public school, Supt. H. N. Rhodes of Laurel and Supt. R. A. Dawson of Randolph are on the committee.

The local contests, it was decided, must be over by March 11, and the elimination contests must close before March 25. This early closing of the preliminaries will give time for students to prepare for the sub-district contest April 15. The northeast Nebraska district meet will be held April 29. This meet is the final one for this section.

Judges invited to pass on speakers in the elimination contest include J. Arthur Nelson of Fremont high school who will be asked to judge the oratorical and extemporaneous division, and Attorney Brown of Sioux City, who will be invited to judge the humorous and dramatic sections.

Topics for the extemporaneous speeches will center around George

Washington and the bicentennial celebration and revision of the tax burden. A list of ten sub-topics will be made out for each general topic, and from these the extempore speakers will draw their subjects.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Launched by King Iphitos of Elis in 776 B. C., and Revived by Baron Pierre de Coubertin in 1892, Olympic Games Are Still Going Strong

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE Greeks had a word for it as early as 776 B. C. A diplomatic old Elean king, Iphitos by name, first staged it at the foot of Mt. Olympus, where dwelt Zeus among the gods. And thus it became the Olympic games.

The tenth in the modern series of Olympic games comes to Los Angeles this summer. But instead of only Greeks of unmixed blood, competitors will be drawn from all nations of the earth.

As Iphitos was the father of the ancient Greek contests, so is Baron Pierre de Coubertin, mustache and little Frenchman, the father of the modern revival. It was he who fostered the renewal of the games with lectures and writings. He began in 1892 and four years later at Athens saw his dream come true.

COROEBUS was the first of the Olympic champions. He won a race in the first set of games in 776 B. C. His reward was a garland from the sacred wild olive tree, placed upon his brow by Iphitos.

The ancient exhibitions were Spartan in character—endurance and strength tests with an especial view to war. To these were added discus-throwing, broad-jumping, chariot racing and combinations of events known as the pentathlon and pancration.

Besides religious sanctity and the victor's wreath of wild olive, there was lasting fame in the work of sculptor, painter and poet. The effect of the games on the fine arts of the day was tremendous. The sculptor and painter found their best models in the naked bodies of competitors. For the poet there were the praises of the winners to sing in triumphant returns to native cities.

There was overemphasis, though, even as we know the word, and the games were suppressed. For almost 14 centuries there were no

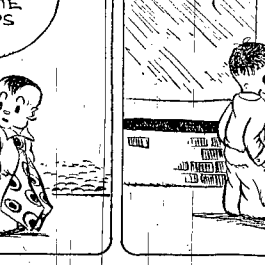

Olympic contests.

Baron de Coubertin, because of his efforts to revive the contests, was made president of the first international Olympic committee. In this capacity he served for more than 30 years. For the games of 1932 at Lake Placid and Los Angeles, Count Henry Baillet-Latour, a Belgian, is president, but Baron de Coubertin retains an honorary presidency for life.

AMERICAN supremacy in the modern Olympics has been marked. This year we are warned that invaders from Finland, from Germany, from many territories and dominions of the British empire, will end our reign.

The contests at Los Angeles will open late in July and continue for 16 days. There will be 135 events in 15 branches of athletics. There will be four or five thousand contestants. And there will be spectacular action morning, afternoon and night in nine or more stadiums, auditoriums and water courses.

William May Garland, left, is chairman of the organizing committee of the 1932 edition of the Olympic Games, revived in 1892 by Baron Pierre de Coubertin, right.

Choristers Should Be Unpaid, Colorfully Garbed, Comely, Choir Expert Believes

PAID church singers would be out of jobs if Dr. John Finley Williamson, dean and founder of Westminster Choir School, at Ithaca, N. Y., who is supposed to know more about ways of putting church music across than almost any man in America, had his say. They could sing if they wanted to. He hopes that they would. But they wouldn't be paid for chanting hymns of praise.

"I believe that music in a church should be made by the people in the church," he says. "It is better for a church to have a choir of children ranging in age from six to 11 than the finest professionals in the country."

Dr. John Finley Williamson, above, dean and founder of Westminster Choir School, at Ithaca, N. Y., has some extremely radical ideas about church choirs.

make the one who eats them more susceptible to colds, and colds and music don't work well together. Every church should have four choirs, if it can: a junior choir, a junior high school choir, a high school one, and an adult group. But the juvenile choir should come first, if there is only one.

Learning to lead church songs means more today than knowing where to pitch your voice. The future choristers must speak German, French, Italian, be able to coach dramatists, and have gained enough gracefulness in everythng to win the approval of their public. They must play some instrument, too, and be able to teach instrumental and vocal music.

Appearance, personality, character and musicianship are judged for entrance. Instead of mixing up the altos and sopranos, basses and tenors, as the untrained choirs do, the new choristers, who are full-time men, give private lessons, free, to the people singing under them, and then group them so as to achieve the best results.

County Continues To Aid In Relief

Wayne Leads Others In Gifts Of Grain And Hay To Stock Of Other Sections.

Wayne county's fund for relief of starving livestock in the drouth and grasshopper regions in Knox and adjoining counties is mounting steadily. Need is still urgent and those wishing to contribute may leave gifts at either Wayne bank or with F. L. Blair.

Four cars of grain and ten of hay are included in this county's gifts to date. Hay can be bought for $50 to $60 a car now, so the local organization plans to be able to send further help. Some hay has been contributed by farmers here and this will be shipped as soon as a larger supply is obtained. Those who have gifts of hay or grain and have no way of delivering these, are asked to notify Mr. Blair, M. L. Ringer or one of the banks and a truck will be sent for them.

Wayne's contributions lead all Nebraska counties to date. Itemized reports of receipts and expenditures of the relief fund in Wayne county will be made to each contributor.

CHARITY WORKER SEES MANY NEEDS IN LOCAL GROUP

Stockings, winter underwear and house dresses are the needs which Mrs. W. C. Fox, charity worker, listed this week in an interview concerning her work for Wayne county, the Red Cross and the W. C. T. U. Boys' clothing is always welcome, and supplies of it are exhausted quickly. She reported: Heavy underwear is still needed by people who live in houses not heated by furnaces, and other clothing is always welcome.

Shoes on hand were plentiful last week so Mrs. Fox collected 22 pairs to be sent to persons living in the drouth-stricken areas of the state. This contribution was made as a part of the usual charities, and plenty of shoes were left for satisfaction of immediate needs in this community. Overshoes and rubbers are particularly welcome at this season of the year, of course.

Anyone who has clothes to give away should get in touch with Mrs. Fox, who is able to place them usually. Persons in need of clothing, shoes or overshoes should also see her, and an effort will be made to fill the needs brought to the worker's attention.

Current Style Features Are Prophetic

THERE'S LITTLE MONOTONY IN NEW FASHIONS, WITH TRICKY SLEEVE, AND NECKLINE POINTING WAY FOR SPRING

BY HARRIET

SLEEVES and necklines are the focal points in the late winter fashions that forecast what will be what when spring comes 'round the corner.

There are several kinds of gifts to fate. A puff introduced on the outside of the sleeve; a slit with buttons and buttonholes and a contrasting color inside, seen through the slit; a diagonal ruffle or banding, depending on whether it's silk or wool that is being used; and various kinds of novelty tucks, pleats, bias bands and so on make elbows ten times more noticeable and intriguing than they used to be.

There is increased tendency to make the elbow the point of interest. A puff introduced on the outside of the sleeve; a slit with buttons and buttonholes and a contrasting color inside, seen through the slit; a diagonal ruffle or banding, depending on whether it's silk or wool that is being used; and various kinds of novelty tucks, pleats, bias bands and so on make elbows ten times more noticeable and intriguing than they used to be.

A NEW coat of soft brown, with threads of bright green, orange and beige flecking it, has its raglan sleeves ornamented at the elbow with two very wide tucks that stand up, instead of down. They are stitched with the three colors that the flecks bring out.

This coat has a very unusual neckline, too. With a double surplice scarf front, both sides buttoning over onto the opposite hip, the coat has no collar at all, but simply the coat's line, cut rather high, standing out from the neck. No coat to be worn when the winds are howling. But just the coat to greet spring in a little brown straw hat, with a green feather crown standing up on it, completes the picture.

Another kind of coat sleeve, one that focuses attention on the cuff, is illustrated by a novelty gray wool coat imported from France. It has a fitted cuff with fancy tucks in it that set up high on the sleeve almost to the elbow. This cuff buttons shut up the inside of the sleeve, making the cuff quite as tight as a well-tailored dress usually has its sleeve.

One of the new departures in sleeve design is shown above at the left in a novelty gray wool coat, which has a fitted cuff with fancy tucks set high on the sleeve. The cuff buttons shut on the sleeve's inside. Note the novelty scarf collar. The coat of soft brown, flecked with orange, green and beige, shown at right, has, in its raglan sleeves, two very wide tucks that point upward. It also has an unusual neckline, using a double surplice scarf front, giving a no-collar effect.

This coat also has a novelty scarf collar. It consists of a cunningly cut scarf that makes a little turn-down collar, like a sports shirt, and then has a triangular scarf down both the front and the back, fastening on the shoulder.

Churches Observe Day Of President

When America goes to church on the three days preceding George Washington's birthday this year, it will be open "unofficially" a celebration never paralleled in all history—a celebration in which those who participate will honor themselves in doing honor to a nation's founder.

Officially scheduled to open February 22, the nation-wide bicentennial celebration of George Washington's birth will nevertheless be inaugurated unofficially in religious services throughout the entire country during the three days just preceding that date.

Churches cooperate. As is pointed out by the United States George Washington bicentennial commission, which has been cooperating with and assisting the churches of the nation as well as all other groups in preparation for this great event, these religious services leading up to the official opening of the celebration are most appropriate.

are thinking, how they are working. The mill run of people are utterly powerless to glimpse the picture upon which Einsteinian eyes gaze with inexpressible rapture.

It is this dual difficulty which probably is going to keep the world from ever knowing what Prof. Einstein means by his theory. Dr. Paul S. Epstein, the noted theoretical physicist at the California Institute of Technology, has undertaken in a short newspaper article to tell "in words the layman can understand" just what it is Prof. Einstein is talking about.

The Grand Solitudes. Omaha World-Herald: Addressing a London meeting at which Prof. Albert Einstein was the guest of honor a few months ago, George Bernard Shaw referred to the "grand solitudes" in which men like the German scientist are forced to live and move and have their being. It is simply impossible, said Shaw, for individuals with the mentality of an Einstein to make their fellows understand, even vaguely, what such master minds

The barn, was partly covered by insurance, but Mrs. Sauler does not believe this included the contents. The fire was caused by an overturned lantern. John Sauler had returned from Tilden about 7:30 p. m., and after feeding the stock had hung his lantern, which was of the ordinary type on a peg and began milking the cows.

He had milked but one cow when the lantern was thrown down, young Sauler believes, by cows quarreling over their food. Instantly

Better Motor Prospects. Pittsburgh Post-Gazette: Eighty per cent of the automobiles examined in the first week of the present compulsory inspection period in Pennsylvania failed to meet the requirements. By no means is it to be understood that all of these cars or even a very large percentage of them will be unable eventually to get back into service.

The only consideration of the authorities and the first thought of all normally-minded persons in connection with this inspection is safety. It is a menace to human life to allow a defective car to use the highways; it would be a wrong against the owner himself, as well as to others in traffic.

In addition, however, there is an important factor from the economic standpoint in that high percentage of defective cars. The automobile dealers, who have all the trade statistics at hand, have long been telling us that the car replacement needs that have been accumulating in the depression would eventually compel an improvement in business for the motor industry.

This means, of course, not alone an improvement in the buying of new cars, but also a stimulus to the important trade in used cars.

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

Text: John 10:1-16

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 21.

THE GOOD SHEPHERD

THE figure of the shepherd is one that is for the most part lost from our modern life, especially in our large non-rural communities. We ought to be thankful for books like the New Testament which help to keep the soul of the world so near to pastoral life and experience in spiritual environment and sentiment, at least when the actual contact with pastoral life has been so largely lost.

The figure of the shepherd, particularly the Eastern shepherd, moves one deeply, more so than in our Western world where methods of dealing with sheep have been more rough and brusque. The Western shepherd herds or drives his sheep, and one who observed the process can well recall how willful and cantankerous sheep may be. But the Eastern shepherd leads his sheep, as our lesson so very beautifully puts it. They know his voice, and they follow, though they do not know the voice of a stranger, and they will not follow him.

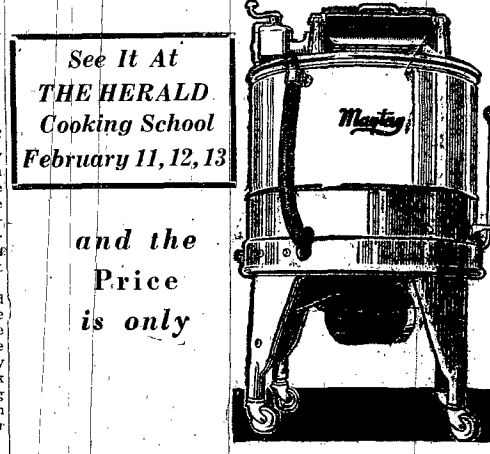

It is this figure of the shepherd in his ideal character that our Lord so beautifully, in this passage, applies to himself. He makes his religious authority rest not upon some outward badge or ornament, but upon his love and devotion. The claim that Jesus makes lies near to the records of the New Testament and to the records of the simplest and most vital Christian experience. That is what has been going on in history through the presence and influence of Jesus. He has brought his love into the lives of men and women, and they have responded to his love.

ere and courageous pastor, devoted intensely to his flock, and the man of pretense is well brought out. The shepherd will never desert his flock in the presence of danger, but the hireling cares for himself and escapes at the approach of peril, leaving the sheep to the mercy of the enemy.

It would have been well if in the Christian Church we could always have preserved the symbolism of the shepherd with all the emphasis upon the tenderness and guidance of the shepherd that Jesus has put into this parable. When one thinks of the bitterness of strife that men have waged in the name of the Good Shepherd, what a contrast there is between the Church as it has been and the Church as it might if it were solely and completely under the influence of the Good Shepherd and led by saints who, more than anything else, are concerned about manifesting the qualities of the Good Shepherd.

Here, too, it is a case of like shepherd, like sheep. An attitude of gentleness and confidence in the shepherd produces gentleness and confidence in the flock.

Railroads Seek Change In Rates

Lincoln, Nebraska, Feb. 9.—New rates for livestock shipments with lower minimum weights than have been permitted in the past were proposed to the state railway commission today by all railroads operating in Nebraska. The roads desire the rates in order to meet trucking competition.

The proposed rates per hundred pounds are higher than for the heavier shipments which now are authorized. It is the belief of the railroads, however, that they could divert some motor truck movement of stock by permitting shipments of lighter tonnage than in the past, even though a higher rate per unit is charged.

On cattle, the roads proposed to drop the 22,000 pound minimum weight now in force and to apply 120 percent on the western trunk line rates to shipments of 16,000 pound minimum, 130 percent to 12,000 pound minimum and 150 percent to 600 pound minimum shipments.

On hogs and calves, the 17,000 pound minimum would be dropped to permit 11,000, 8,500 and 6,000 pound minimum shipments at 120, 150 and 150 percent respectively of the western trunk line rates. The minimum for movements of sheep would be reduced from 12,000 to 6,000 pounds at 150 percent of the present rate scale.

Nebraska's interstate rates on livestock shipments are slightly lower than the western trunk line scale. The proposed rates would apply on shipments of 500 miles or less, with the rates based on a progression with mileage changes, as in the trunk scale. No date has been set for hearing of the application.

First Thaws Make Floods On Streets. More moisture than this section has seen in many months has been collecting in Wayne streets the past few days as the season's first thaws arrive. Storm sewers have been filled, and some of them have been clogged with the ice and slush sluiced away by volumes of water which have almost flooded the streets. Friday marked the very first thawing weather of any consequence since the holiday season. Saturday and Sunday continued the work of freeing the streets of the ice barrier, although Monday's colder weather retarded it again. Wednesday and Thursday were remarkable for warmer temperatures, which did much toward clearing the pavement, which has not been a familiar sight on most streets for almost two months.

Why Speeding Trains Fascinate

A Reporter's Glances at Spring Fashions in Weather, Writing and Clothes.

Days like Saturday make one think of getting out the lines and digging bait. Fishing, somehow, is a more philosophical sport than most for one can sit on the bank and think, and the worse the fishing, the better the thinking.

May the gods advise Old Sol to shine strongly on this section of the earth! Lincoln and Omaha residents announce that their perfectly good paving is being bulged, worn and ruined by the accumulation of snow which has been covering it. It seems that the unequal pressure of the trucks on the cleared lanes wears out expensive surfacing. Wrecked pavings, it seems are to be a by-product of a very moist winter. We expect to see the world steaming and even sprouting molds in the fashion of "The Lost World" if the dampness lasts long enough and the sun shines hard enough.

On Being Personal. You don't know what you've missed," say veteran editors and writers, "because you live in an era when the personal element in journalism is dead." But what could be more personal, not to say actually chimney, than the tune of "Now, dear boys and girls, there is really some shooting going on in the orient; but you know and I know that no state of war exists." Writing thus may be just the newspaper syndicate vogue of the moment. Akin, it seems, to the decorator's fancy for white carpets and furniture made of steel angles. The bond between Chipperdale lines and modern geometrics is quite as close as the tie that binds Christopher Morley's style to the rhythm of year favorite radio announcer as expressed in ink and newsprint. Maybe they're wrong, and Old Personal Element yet lives!

For the Hungry. Starvation must be farther away than it was in northeast Nebraska, for the state has responded richly to the call. In the State bank is a picture of the scene at Bloomfield where dozens of lumber wagons are gathered at the distribution station receiving feed for their hungry stock. The picture is dated January 26, and is accompanied by the following note: "Farmers getting their corn and hay donated by big-hearted men of Wayne, Neb." The interest expressed in sending the picture and the note exhales a spirit of thankfulness that should repay the givers.

Watch Your Step. The thawing and freezing season has arrived. One proceeds down the street innocently, thinking of what a nice day it is, and how great an institution is the human race, when suddenly the sidewalk gives way beneath his feet and rises up beneath his ears or shoulders. The streets run by day with rivers of water, and by night the rivulets become solidified syrupy concoctions of wonderful and marvellous slickness. Crossing the streets reminds one of encountering the early poisoners, for the surface crunches under the sturdy tread even as ground glass. But spring, dear pedestrians, is on the way! Watch your step!

Picnic Planned In Long Beach. Wayne County picnic in southern California will be held at Bixby park in Long Beach, March 5. It was voted last year that the Wayne county picnic be held the first Saturday after the Iowa picnic each year and the latter is regularly the first Saturday after Washington's birthday.

Musical Comedy Is Hit Of New York. The musical comedy, "Of Thee I Sing," which is making a wonderful run on Broadway in New York, was written by Morris Ryskind, whose wife was formerly Miss Mary House of Wayne, and another playwright. The music is by Gershwin. The play is a take-off on American government, and is pronounced very clever by those who have seen it. The theme song "Of Thee I Sing" is heard often now in radio programs. It was the opening showing of this comedy that Dr. and Mrs. J. T. House of Montgomery, W. Va., attended when the latter was taken ill and died in New York.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Postponed. The mother and daughter banquet announced elsewhere in this edition to be held at Carroll Methodist church February 28, has been postponed indefinitely. Bad roads and the large number of illnesses among the people of the community caused the change to be made.

NUMBER FORTYFOUR

Illness Causes Absences Among All Classes In Grades And High School

Severe attacks of influenza have caused many absences in the grades and public school, reducing the possibility for offering new work. With the recovery of present illnesses new work will begin, and old projects will be completed.

Eleven pupils were absent Tuesday from the first grade, almost one third of the number. Catherine S. Lerner, who had missed the work in the kindergarten for a fortnight, returned to school this week. In the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, absences numbered 26 out of 86, about one third of the number. The high school had absences of 45 persons on Monday and Tuesday, when large numbers were ill.

Celebrate on Birthdays. Jacqueline Haas of the first grade celebrated the seventh anniversary of her birthday on Monday, when she treated members of her class to candy. Harold McCluskey of the first grade celebrated his seventh birthday on Wednesday of last week. Valentine boxes are the order of the week, with the holiday arriving on Sunday. Most of the grades will have their parties on Friday afternoon. Original hearts have been made in the second grade, and the children themselves have decorated a box to contain them. Valentines were made in the kindergarten the past week as a part of the art work. In the fourth grade, Valentines will be exchanged Friday afternoon from a large heart covered box which the children have prepared.

Gerald Wright of the seventh grade has placed a Valentine border on the blackboard, using a small design which he enlarged, perforated, and applied with colored chalk. A Valentine picture was printed on the board in holiday colors by Wilma Baker and Helen Weston. Outstanding designs were created in the art class by Raymond Hogan, Ariene Peterson and Hazel Caspey. Work on Projects. In the eighth grade history, the new project is concerned with changes in the United States just after the Civil War. Elwayne Fleetwood is in charge of the work. Seventh grade geography pupils are working on the study of Central America, with Hazel Caspey as leader. Lantern slides were enjoyed on Wednesday, and Lois Thompson and Betty Wright reported on the Panama Canal.

Miss Mae Gillies, instructor in the grades, missed school Thursday and Friday of last week when she was ill. Mrs. L. F. Good substituted for her. Individual health projects in oral hygiene have been started in the second grade. Every child is asked to keep a chart on tooth brushing for this week. Projects in long division have begun for fourth grade students the past few days. In the fourth grade science project, the first row has proved to be the most quiet the past week. Osmosis was demonstrated in the hygiene classes for the grammar room the past week. Notes were taken on the experiment and drawings were made to illustrate it. The work will be made a part of the laboratory experiments which are to be correlated with the class work. Automobile insurance has been another interesting study in the grammar room the past few weeks. Students have learned the purposes and principles of the various kinds of insurance, and made a special study of them.

Making a Magazine. A magazine is being written and typed by the seventh grade. This week myths were written by members of the class, and soon other types of writing will be done. In the seventh history class, various children wrote and presented dramatizations of conversations between Tories and patriots last week. The dramatization succeeded in motivating the work. Dr. J. G. W. Lewis will speak in the high school assembly Friday afternoon. His subject will be Abraham Lincoln. Last week's speaker was Harry Heald of Norfolk who was in the city in the interest of the Boy Scout movement. Mrs. H. G. Campbell of Sioux City addressed the assembly Monday. She spoke concerning European travel. Last Friday afternoon a pep meeting was held in the assembly under the direction of Marcella Weber. The Misses Helen and Verna Mae O'Neill and Ariene Urban sang, and Supt. H. R. Rest spoke. Members of the basketball team also spoke. Debated Last Week. Wayne high school debaters won one debate and lost one with the Norfolk team here Thursday. James Davies, Lucille Wright and Jeanne Wright upheld the affirmative, and Lucille Wright and Jeanne Wright and Richard Moses spoke on the negative side. Wayne debaters will go to Fremont Thursday to attend the Mid-

Hartington School Case Lost In Court

Lincoln, Feb. 5.—School district No. 6 of Cedar county today lost its long legal fight to share in state school funds when the Nebraska supreme court affirmed a district court decree denying a writ of mandamus to compel payment of the funds. The controversy involved the use by the district of three rooms in a rural parochial school building near Fordyce belonging to the St.

Boniface parish. The rooms were leased in lieu of a district building. State Supt. C. V. Taylor was made defendant in the action years ago to include the district in his annual apportionment of state school funds. In defense of his position, Taylor held the district classes were being instructed by nuns of the Benedictine order; that religious symbols of the Catholic church adorned the school room walls; that mass was said and that the Catholic catechism was taught. The three instructors were employed by the parish priest at the instruction of the public school district. They were paid $120, or $40 each a month. In class rooms, the court found, they wore the customary garb of their order. In deciding the issue the court said: "To recognize the school as a common or public school entitled to apportionment of state funds would amount to an illegal diversion of public trust funds."

In addition the court quoted a constitutional provision to the effect that no "sectarian instruction shall be allowed in any school or institution supported in whole or in part by public funds." You and Your Job. Omaha World-Herald: The following remarks obviously do not apply to the several million unfortunate men and women who are the unwilling victims of a temporary sag in our industrial and economic synthesis. But the very fact that there are several millions of such victims makes what we are about to say doubly applicable to those for whom it is intended. And this is what we are about to say: We are about to say that there is anything easier of accomplishment in this world than to get "sick of it all," to wonder "what it's all about," to accuse life of having given us "a raw deal" to long for a "reshuffling of the cards," to kick and whine about "fate" and "destiny" and "the breaks, we have failed" to run across it. If most of us devoted only a fractional part of the time to doing our work as any work ought to be done and must be done if it is to have any worth or meaning whatever, that we devote to wishing we had gone in for some getting else or could find some way of getting by a little more easily, not only would we be considerably happier but we would much more nearly approximate something like justification for our presence in the world.

Life doesn't owe us a thing. Life is no alms giver. We get out of it what we put into it and nothing more. Without investment there can be no return. About the only thing most people have to invest is hard work. That's all they need. It is not only what life demands, but is about the only collateral that life will accept. The record confirms our words. History never yet enshrined in the heart of posterity the memory of such a man. To their high place in men's opinion, "Hamlet" didn't write itself. Do your work. Stick it out. Hit the ball. And if you think the advice is humdrum, try not following it for a while. We warn you now—it will take more than the end of a world depression to put you back on the pay roll.

Card of Thanks. We wish to express sincere thanks to the many friends who were so kind and helpful during our bereavement. We also thank all who sent floral tributes and especially the Royal Neighbor lodge, F. O. Martin, Ora Martin, Carlos Martin, F. A. Martin, Mrs. D. C. Nelson and Mrs. C. J. Boyce.

To Try Movies

Gwili Andre, above, who in the three years since she came to America from Denmark has achieved the reputation of being America's "best photographed" model, is in Hollywood to fulfill a screen contract. Although she is rated as the highest priced artist in the country, Miss Andre is accepting a lesser salary in the movies on the chance of developing into a star.

unfinished cattle and the lack of seasonal demand for feeders might lead one to believe that farmers have given up hope. Such, however, does not appear to be the case.

Reports from the country indicate that at least as many hogs will be produced in 1932 as a year ago. That would not be true if farmers were not still anticipating hog price improvement.

In the cattle trade, appearances again are misleading. Where some feeders are letting go of their stock, many others are holding and feeding in the confident expectation of more profitable returns later on. And while the feeder outlet may be narrow just now, inquiries which commission men and other buyers are receiving prove beyond a doubt that there is a potentially broad demand for thin cattle which awaits only more favorable weather conditions or an improved financial situation to become effective.

In the cities the situation is much the same. Manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and other business men of all degrees are confidently awaiting a change for the better which they feel cannot much longer be delayed. They have been compelled to seek more economical methods of operation. But wage cuts, which were delayed as long as possible, have finally been adopted in this economy program only with the thought that they are temporary rather than permanent.

New Business For Nebraska Merchants

A new class of business has been provided for Nebraska merchants during the past year.

It is the sale of natural gas appliances, stoves, furnaces, water heaters and other articles. They were displayed at the show held last week in the Omaha Auditorium by the Nebraska Hardware Dealers' Association.

In the 20 towns in which this company's distributing division, the People's Natural Gas Company, operates the natural gas system, 66 dealers are prepared to supply the customers with natural gas appliances.

Man Saves Family From Burning Home

Tekamah, Neb., Feb. 3.—Five Bryant saved his wife and children when their farm home a mile west of here was destroyed by fire at 2:30 a. m. Wednesday.

The crying of their small baby aroused Bryant, and he went downstairs to investigate. The flames spread so rapidly that before he could return upstairs the stairway was blocked and the rest of the family was trapped. Bryant wed a ladder against an upstairs window, and helped them from the building.

When the alarm was sounded the Tekamah fire department through some misunderstanding, went first to a Bryant farm home a mile east of town.

Americans Are Still Optimists. Omaha Journal-Stockman.—One of the most interesting facts about the current business depression is the continued optimism of a majority of the American people. Each new low in the prices of commodities and securities leaves us as confident as ever that the next turn of the wheel will be upward. After months of disappointment, we turn each corner in the hope that it will be the one around which prosperity is hiding.

Suicides At Tekamah.

Tekamah, Neb.—Leo Corbin, 44-year-old farmer living near here, ended his life late Friday afternoon by shooting himself in the head at his home. Authorities said that business reverses prompted Corbin to commit suicide.

Corbin's body was found in the basement of his home, with a bullet hole in the head. The body was dangling at the end of a rope.

The farmer first shaved himself and then went to the basement, officers said. To make death certain he stood on a box and tied the rope about his neck and to a rafter, the officers added. He then fired a bullet into his head.

The dead man is survived by his widow and two children.

February 14:

Services at 11 a. m.

The subject of the lesson-lesson in all churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, February 14, is "Soul."
The Golden Text is: "The Lord is good unto them that wait for Him, to the soul that seeketh Him. It is good that a man should both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of the Lord." (Lamentations 3:25, 26).

A passage from the Bible in the lesson sermon is from Psalms 68: 8, 9: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of His praise to be heard; which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "As a human thought changes from one stage to another of conscious pain and painlessness, sorrow and joy—from fear to hope and from faith to understanding—the visible manifestation will at last be man governed by Soul, not by material sense." (page 125).

Methodist Episcopal Church.
(Rev. Harold C. Caspey, minister)
Last Sunday morning during the public worship hour the installation of church school officers and teachers was held. Several were unable to be present on account of sickness but over 40 workers took part in the consecration of their time and talent to the work of religious education in the church school in an impressive service. Miss Arline Urban sang the consecration solo.

Next Sunday morning the two local troops of boy scouts will attend the church service at 11. This week is being observed all over the country as scout anniversary week. The pastor will preach on the subject, "Why the Twelfth Scout Law." We ought to fill the church to greet the scouts and make this a worthy worship service. The music is always worth while. At the evening service at 7:30 the sermon theme will be "A Basis for Trusting God." There is always a friendly welcome here.

Tuesday the big men's meeting of the brotherhood is to be held. Supper will be promptly at 6:30. A good meal is promised to be served by the ladies. Something different in the way of entertainment is arranged for and Rev. George Almond of Laurel will be the special speaker. All men should plan to be present. You will miss something if you miss this. Wednesday Ladies' circles number one and two meet in the afternoon and Thursday—the Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Caspey with a special speaker.

Friday at the Baptist church, the inter-church day of prayer, 10:00 a. m., first session. Each one will bring lunch, but coffee will be served at the church. 2:00 p. m., second session, an interesting, helpful program for every hour of the day. At 3:00 p. m., Dr. Robert McLean, a worker in Latin American lands, will bring a special message in genuine interest and value.
As previously announced, twice, Feb. 21, being Washington anniversary Sunday, several weeks ago, Prof. J. G. W. Lewis consented to give an address for that evening service at the First Baptist church. It will be worth hearing, hence this repeated announcement. There will be, also, special music.
Lincoln said: "I do the very best I know how; the very best I can, and I mean to keep doing that to the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference." What a splendid conviction!

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor)
Word comes from Dr. McLean that he will arrive on the morning train Friday. We plan to keep him very busy while he is in our city. His subject if he speaks at the school will be "How to Make a Million Dollars." In the afternoon at 4:00 at the Baptist church, he will speak at the program of the World's day of prayer for missions on the subject "The New Missionary Frontier." In the evening at the close of our covered dish luncheon, he will speak upon one of two subjects, either "Cutting Means Blood-Letting" or "Mexicans are People." Supper will be at 6:15 and the message will be at the

We are very happy to have Dr. McLean with us not only because he is a personal friend of seminary days but we know that he will bring an inspiring and helpful message. The committee on the supper for the week are as follows: Mrs. Clara Horsham, Mrs. A. A. Welch, Mrs. C. T. Ingham, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Baxter Boe and Mrs. Grace Keyser.
We believe that there will be many, who have not been attending the sessions of the school, who will want to attend this Friday evening. We would like very much to have you at the fellowship supper at 6:15. If you can come let the committee know. If you can not be at the supper come for the message at 7.
On account of the illness of many and the ice Sunday evening our congregations last Sunday were not the usual in number but we had two happy services. All services at the usual hours next Sunday.
We were happy to have the DeMolay boys with us Sunday morning. Come again.
The Missionary society held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. R. W. Casper Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Hobert Auker had charge of the lesson. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Nettie Call and Mrs. Clara Horsham and Mrs. H. H. Hanscom. At this meeting officers were elected for the coming year.

Cost of Growing Wheat. Omaha Journal-Stockman: It certainly must be news to thousands of Nebraska wheat growers to learn that the average cost of production is 92 cents a bushel. A great many substantial farmers believe they could get rich raising 92 cent wheat and in the western part of the state a lot of good farmers figured they were doing fairly well when their wheat netted 75 cents a bushel.

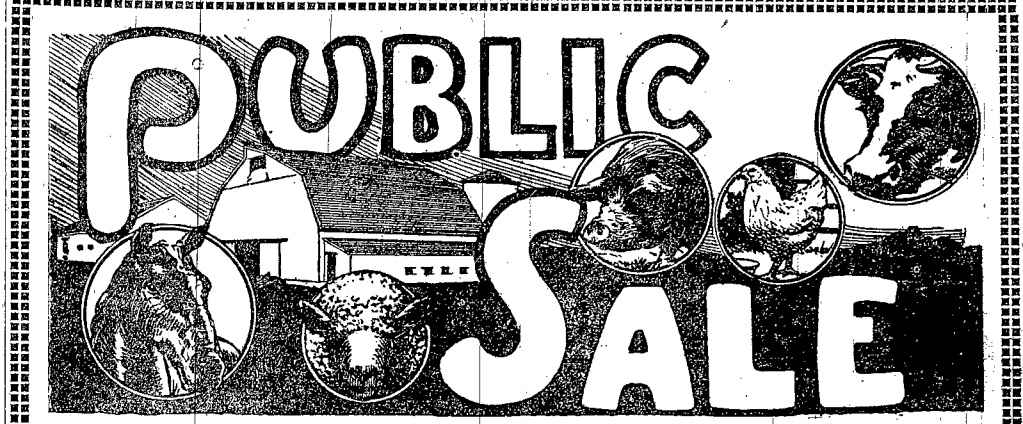

Department of agriculture figures it is pointed out take all factors into account including a reasonable interest on investments, the yield obtained, the value of the land and the farmers' own labor. For this reason farmers in some regions can continue production of crop and realize some cash for a number of years after their costs of production have risen above the market prices. The average cost of 92 cents a bushel of wheat in Nebraska was determined on an average yield per acre of 16 bushels, indicating a net cost of production per acre of $15.17.

The principal expenses incurred in producing an acre of wheat were shown as $3.17 for harvesting and $2.95 for preparation of the ground and planting. A further breakdown of an acre's production costs revealed average expenses of 77 cents for seedlings and manure, 78 cents for marketing, $1.29 for seed, and miscellaneous costs of $1.94.

From all of which it would appear that it will never pay to grow wheat in Nebraska in competition with the rest of the world. On the other hand there will always be some good farmers who will be foolish enough to believe that with cheap land and machinery they can still grow wheat at a profit. Costs vary so widely in different sections that perhaps the "average" cost is misleading.
