

FIFTY-SECOND YEAR

GRANT S. MEARS DIES MONDAY AT ROCHESTER

Was Postmaster And Served As State Representative Of Wayne County.

FUNERAL WILL BE FRIDAY

Postmaster Grant S. Mears, resident of Wayne county half a century, died Monday evening at 9 o'clock in a Rochester, Minn., hospital where he underwent last Friday an operation for stomach trouble.

Mr. Mears planned to wait for his operation until Mrs. Mears was well out of danger from the operation she underwent, but specialists found the condition so critical that it was thought best not to delay.

In Public Service. Besides being active for many years in helping build Wayne county, Mr. Mears served efficiently and faithfully in public office.

Grant S. Mears, youngest son of Peter Mears and Lydia Marshall Mears, was born October 2, 1865, near Grinnell, in Poweshiek county, Iowa.

Came in Schooner. In 1878, when deceased was 13 years of age, he came with his father and brother from Grinnell to look over land in northeast Nebraska.

Deer, ducks, geese and prairie chickens were plentiful in this vicinity when the Mears family arrived.

Each one of the five said he was glad he was alive, but not one, replying to the fifth query, expressed unqualified desire for survival of his personality.

"3. My greatest joys have been the good name my parents gave me and the possession of a good wife and good daughter. My worst suffering was the fear of hell."

SOME OF CAUSES OF SORRY WORLD AND HARD GOING

Message Sending Explained to Club

Clubmen View Stereopticon Pictures Of History Of Communication.

Although having the telephone ring sometime seems to be a great nuisance, it is a great deal more convenient to telephone than it used to be to light a fire on some hilltop or send a runner with your message.

Mr. Pickett told of the days when pre-historic men left signs for one another, sent relays of runners with their notes, or shipped their messages by rowboat. As he finished with the more primitive methods of communication, Mr. Pickett advanced to methods of telegraph and telephone communication which make modern life so much more comfortable than ancient life was.

Stereopticon slides from a collection of Mr. Pickett's were used in giving the talk. The pictures were shown on the daylight stereopticon machine which belongs to the public school.

Harry Langley, student at the State Teachers College, provided the special music which completed last Monday's program.

Attorney James E. Brittain will speak at the next Monday luncheon of the club. He is expected to talk on the subject of legal procedure in this state.

LOCAL MERCHANT TO BE HONORED IN CITY TODAY

Joe C. Nuss Is One Of Men In State To Be Named Master At Lincoln.

WORKED WAY TO TOP

The Nebraska Merchant, state trade paper at Lincoln, will name master merchants of Nebraska this evening at Hotel Cornhusker in Lincoln and Joe C. Nuss of Wayne, is one of those to be honored.

Awards are based on the following: Building and equipment, operations and methods, ability and character, home life and citizenship.

Start: Store Early

Mr. Nuss who is a native of Germany and who followed his trade as a baker in Pennsylvania after coming to this country, arrived in Wayne in 1908 with practically no funds. He opened a variety store in the building which is now the Orr grocery and had a stock which cost $500.

After saving a reserve he later bought the building on the present site of his store. This structure was 25 by 90 feet. The building became too small for the stock and growing business and Mr. Nuss replaced the structure with a new brick building, 25 by 150 feet, four years ago at a cost of $20,000.

MUNY PLANT TO EXHIBIT DIESEL AT OPEN HOUSE

Approve Treasurer's Report And Accept Estimate Of Expense For Year.

CHOOSE NEW DAY OFFICER

Spick and span as the inside of a ship, clicking with the measured precision of good machinery, ready for inspection is the Wayne Municipal Light plant, where you are invited to come and call any time Thursday, May 19. The mayor and city council, with light plant employees, are planning an opening day which will display the new Diesel engine recently installed, and give the public an opportunity to see plant changes.

There will be flowers and favors for all the women who visit the plant, and a number of electric dealers are planning to display their wares.

"People have always felt a little out of place visiting the plant," admitted Mayor Martin Ringer in discussing the plans, "for they feel that they may be in the way of the workmen. This opening day will give them a chance to visit the place and see what its workings really are."

Hear Treasurer's Report. The report of the city treasurer, A. T. Cavanaugh, was read and accepted by the council Tuesday evening. Chief items in the report were as follows: Balance, January 1, 1932, $49,248.62; receipts, $25,214.96; paid out, $49,585.46; balance, May 1, 1932, $24,878.12.

Also approved by the council was the finance committee report, which includes these items: Light plant, salaries, $12,000.00; coal, freight and oil, $18,000; repairs and extension of the plant, $30,000; water plant salaries, $3,000; water plant coal, freight and oil, $3,000; repairs and improvements, $5,000.

Parke, $2,000; city library, $3,000; for interest and sinking fund on bonds, $20,000; for sewer repair, $1,200; for streets and alleys, crossings, repairs, labor and materials, $6,500; fire department, $2,000; highways, $1,200; musical and amusement organization, $2,400; general fund, salaries, supplies, incidental and general expense, $129,300.

Discuss Plans For Year

The council discussed the necessity for building a new pump house over the new pump in the west well. It was recommended that a 10 by 12 or 12 by 12 house be constructed, and the matter was put into the hands of the water committee for action. The west well, it was reported, needs some repairs and perhaps a new pump. The water committee will investigate at once and check the efficiency of the old pump which is bringing water out of the west well.

Representatives of the gas company appeared to seek a release on the construction bond. On the recommendation of the street and alley committee, who approved the release after an investigation last Wednesday morning, the release was signed.

Wayne People Get Whiff Of Ammonia

Ammonia leaking from the cooling plant of the Denbeck meat market Monday afternoon was so strong that the odor could be detected for considerable distance from the store. The ammonia escaped through a broken gasket in the head of the circulating pump and the entire supply leaked out before workmen were able to repair the plant.

The loss included only the refilling of the cooling system at a cost of about $50.00.

Scout Changes To Be Made In Near Future

Various changes in Boy Scout organization are being made, announce R. R. Larson and A. W. Ahern, who went to Albion Thursday, May 5 to attend a Covered Wagon Area council meeting. CLOSING SCHOOL PROGRAMS START WITH THIS WEEK

The school year is drawing to a close, and many students will be awarded diplomas of graduation. Some schools will hold concluding exercises this week; others next week, and so on into early June. The unusual condition of the past year has led students to apply themselves more earnestly than ever to their work and the result should be uniformly higher scholarship and a more resolute purpose. Many high school graduates will turn to higher institutions of learning, and graduates of universities and colleges will be on the alert for employment. At this time of limited opportunities, the wise student will not balk at some, but will accept what he can get and demonstrate fitness regardless of unsatisfactory pay. Proof of ability and willingness to make good beyond expectations will furnish an excellent foundation for later advancement. School graduates are ambitious, or they would not be graduates, and with circumspection in initial demands, they will continue to progress and reflect credit on themselves and on the institutions from which they gained their knowledge and inspiration.

SIX INJURED AS PASSENGER TRAIN GOES OFF TRACK

Wednesday Afternoon Crash Occurs Between Winslow And County Seat.

ENGINE REMAINS ON RAILS

Six were injured, none seriously, about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when the eastbound passenger of the C. St. P. M. and O. railroad left the tracks three miles east of Winslow. The engine and the mail car stayed on the rails, but the baggage and the day coaches leaved the track, the day coach collapsing on its side.

The injured included Miss Madeline Kauffman of Wayne, who suffered minor cuts and bruises, and was treated at once on her arrival in the city. Taken to the Wayne hospital was Father William Siskis, who remained in a state of shock. He had a cut on the palm surface of his right hand, and another gash below the right knee. Others who went to the hospital were S. Muldoon, who had a sprained right ankle and a sprained third finger on the left hand and S. D. Kelley, whose right hand was cut and back was sprained.

Conductor F. A. Salmon had severe bruises of the right shoulder and the back, minor cuts around the face and head, and some cuts on the hands. He was taken to the hospital, but left shortly in order to make out reports to the railroad.

All of the injured were from Sioux City save Miss Kauffman of Wayne, Mr. Kelly, who was from Minneapolis, and Mr. Laughlin, the brakeman, who is from Norfolk. The brakeman suffered a sprained hip which was not considered serious.

Creates Great Stir. Bystanders were excited as the injured were brought into the railroad station and an account of the wreck was given. The engineer, Fred Riley, said the train simply left the tracks as the train was being brought from Winslow to Wayne. The fireman on the train was J. F. Passick and the brakeman was Dale Laughlin, neither of whom was badly injured.

Local persons assisted with getting the injured to the hospital and medical attention. Arrangements were made to bring in the mail, and to clear the tracks for other trains.

Division Superintendent E. C. Blundell of Omaha, who had been in the vicinity on business, went to the scene of the accident late Wednesday afternoon.

Poppy Day Plans Announced Here

The American Legion Auxiliary has announced May 28 as poppy day in Wayne. On that day the city will bloom with the beautiful red poppies made by disabled veterans in the government hospital at Lincoln.

Each year the Legion Auxiliary sets aside one day to pay tribute to the memory of the man who made the supreme sacrifice in the conflict. Citizens throughout the nation join with them in this observance and are glad to buy and wear the poppies.

This year more than ten million paper replicas of the poppy of Flanders fields will be offered by Auxiliary women and their helpers. Thousands of disabled veterans have been working for many weeks making the flowers for the sale.

The veterans are paid one cent each for making the poppies and one-fourth cent for attaching the Legion and Auxiliary sticker. The remainder of the money derived from the sale will go to the relief of the living victims of the war and the Auxiliary's relief activities among needy veterans and their families.

Some of the men making the poppies are so badly disabled that it is difficult for them to fashion perfect flowers at first, but they are so happy with the work that they soon develop surprising skill in making the poppies.

Electricity..

Your Biggest Bargain

People used to complain about light bills, when lighting was all the current used. Today the smart folks use electricity on all labor-saving devices. They wash and iron clothes, use the sweeper, toaster, waxer, electric percolator, radio and other appliances but no one complains about the light bill because our rates have dropped in price when other commodities were going up. AND SO ELECTRIC COOKING NOW IS VERY REASONABLE ON

$2.70

Per Hundred Kilowatts

One dollar buys three times as much current today as it did years ago. Yes, it costs less than other fuels and saves scouring dirty pans; eliminates smoke, ashes and soot. It affords the user a clean, cool kitchen at all times... is ABSOLUTELY SAFE, quick and dependable and gives less food shrinkage.

Wayne people are truly fortunate to be able to boast of having in their little city their own municipal light and power plant, which is second to none.

When you visit the light plant, May 19th, opening day for public inspection, ask questions about electric cooking. Get the "Low-Down" on rates and cost of operation. You will be agreeably surprised to learn how economically you can cook with electricity, included with your present light bill.

When you see our new MONARCH ELECTRIC RANGES with high speed units, heavy insulated ovens and latest improvements, then you will understand how electric cooking can be done for a few cents per day.

MONARCH ELECTRIC RANGES WILL BE ON DISPLAY AT THE CITY LIGHT PLANT ON "VISITORS' DAY," THURS., MAY 19

Perils of High Place
 THE assassination of President Doumer of France, emphasizes the dangers involved in holding places of executive leadership. The assassin was a Russian doctor, evidently a wild-eyed crank, belonging to the old regime of his government, and he explained that the rash deed was committed because the French government had not taken sides against the bolshevik. Therefore, the soviet group cannot be held responsible for the act.

The French president was made to suffer by reason of a fancied grievance against the government. President Doumer was giving highly meritorious public service, but like any outstanding figure shouldering great responsibilities, he was subject to the menacing imaginings of cracked brains. The masses are for their presidents and would help rather than hurt them. Selfish criticisms are sometimes made in the course of party activities, but they are not taken seriously by the rank and file. However, danger lies in firing a twisted and revengeful mind to an act of violence.

Farmers' Hazards
 SINCE grasshopper infestation of some northwest counties last year, we have had every variety of weather known to man, and it would seem that the country ought to be freed from the pest. Unlike grasshoppers, cut worms thrive in wet weather, and their appearance in some sections of the state has aroused measures in defense. Every line of endeavor has plenty of hazards, and agriculture has its full share. It may be too hot or too cold, too dry or too wet, drouth, floods, wind, hail or lightning, besides grasshoppers and cut worms and other things. But the battle is on, and at this writing it looks as though the farmers would be big winners in the matter of production. Then will come the question of rewards, and market values cannot be lower than present quotations. But it is hoped by the time the harvest is ready, prices will have taken a turn for the better which may reasonably be expected.

Keep Off Lawns
 A lady reader of the Herald who takes justifiable pride in making her lawn attractive and keeping it so, urges young people in their travels to keep off the tender grass and give it a chance to grow. Boys and girls should give heed and thus help residents beautify their places. Every well kept lawn, enriched by flowers and vines, helps the whole town.

The lady addresses her communication to Wayne business men as follows:
 "Would you please ask the boys who carry your handbills to please keep on the sidewalks? They mean no harm when they cut across lawns, jump over or walk through hedges, — it is just a short cut to them, — but it is very annoying to homeowners who spend many hours trying to beautify their homes. Bicycles are another nuisance, especially when the lawn is new and the ground soft after a rain."

Grant S. Mears
 THE passing of Grant S. Mears, Wayne postmaster, causes a feeling of profound regret. He was a Wayne county pioneer, well known, influential and highly respected, and his activity in politics led to his close acquaintance with many people. He was sheriff of the county for ten years, later served in the legislature, and was postmaster at the time of his death. He did not seek office with the idea of securing a comfortable berth. He accepted a public place as an important trust, and he did his utmost to fulfill that trust. As postmaster, his purpose was not to make doing business with the postal department as hard as possible, but rather as easy as rules and regulations would permit. He was therefore justly popular, and he will be greatly missed.

J. C. Nuss Honored
 THE Herald joins with friends of J. C. Nuss in congratulating him over the fact that he has been selected one of the ten master merchants in Nebraska this year. This is a deserved honor. Mr. Nuss ranks high in the essentials on which leadership is based. "Master Merchants are 'aces' in the business of home-making and training," says the report. Sound judgment and constructive policies, freedom from narrow and spiteful prejudices, contribute winning points, and Mr. Nuss towers high in these requirements, as those who know him will testify. The community has benefited by his achievements, and his standards are well worthy of emulation.

It is impossible to please many people all the time, or everybody any of the time. One may be too independent, or he may not be independent enough. He may be scorned as haughty, or scorned as hopelessly weak. In these times of unusual irritation, it is difficult to avoid appearance of one extreme or the other, and thus to escape barbed shafts of ill will.

One disturbing evidence found in answers to the questionnaire, touching life's values and desires, appearing in John W. Carey's department in the Sioux City Journal, is the satisfaction expressed over being alive and at the same time the indifference manifested over immortality with preserved identity. If one is satisfied with life here, why does he not want to keep on living?

The Omaha Journal-Stockman says one of the federal bureaus caught in the wave of economy, is the federal trade commission with its 493 employes and annual expenditure of $1,752,356. "And this is only one of many bureaus with headquarters in Washington and a big staff of high-salaried officials running around the country gathering tons and tons of useless information," concludes the Journal-Stockman.

Of the conscienceless wretches who have sought to cut in on the Lindbergh reward, Gaston B. Means who served time in the federal prison at Atlanta, seems to be the latest. He is under arrest on a fraud charge preferred by a Washington woman who trusted him with $100,000 on agreement to recover the stolen child.

We have heard of no sound argument in favor of tax free securities. Such investments are not engaged in developing the country or in motivating business. They are just put in a safe place to draw interest without increasing employment or doing a thing to help market values or stimulate arteries of trade.

Beef Prospects Bullish — Statistically
 Omaha Journal-Stockman: Men engaged in the cattle industry have been well aware of the fact that from a consumptive point of view the outlook for beef was rather discouraging, largely on account of prevailing unemployment and owing to the very low prices for pork and other meats.

From a supply point of view, however, the prospect is much more favorable and the National Provisioner, leading organ of the packing industry, points out some of the bullish factors in the situation as it stands:

"Federal inspected slaughter of cattle during the first three months of 1932 was slightly larger than in the same period of 1931, but the average dressed weight was a little less, making the total beef supply about the same.

"Proportion of steers slaughtered compared to the total slaughter in this period was extremely large, following an entire year when the steer slaughter was above average. The slaughter of cows and heifers, on the other hand, was the smallest for the period in years. This promises well for the future supply of beef cattle, but gives no indication of large supplies which may come in nearby months.

"Another factor indicating a decline in cattle supplies during the summer months is the small number of cattle returned to the country for further feed. So far this year shipment of stocker and feeder cattle from principal markets, back to the country was 40 per cent less than in the first quarter of 1931, and smallest for this period in 12 years.

"In fact, the supply of cattle for market during the coming three months, from both feedlot and range, promises to be smaller than that of a year ago and considerably smaller than for any other recent year. From the standpoint of total meat supplies this would appear to be a bullish factor, and to balance in large measure the probable increase in supplies of pork meats which may be expected during the season."

Dangerous Risks.
 Lincoln Journal: If you were worth millions, had a real interest in the return of the Lindbergh baby, and some ex-convict like Gaston B. Means were to offer to return the child for $100,000, would you risk that amount of money on his word? Probably not. Yet that is just what Mrs. McLean, former wife of a millionaire Washington publisher did. Means has been arrested and he may be prosecuted, but prison has less terror for this man than it might have for others. He has no reputation to lose, nothing but his time to part with. If convicted and sent to prison for the comparatively short term such an offense would draw his loss would not be great. Then again conviction may not be so easy, as Mrs. McLean seems to have dealt with others and to have given Means directions which he claims he faithfully carried out, which claim may be fairly well substantiated by evidence. Mrs. McLean gambled that a former convict, known to have dealt crookedly with others, would play fair with her and she lost. That seems to be the explanation that covers the case. At that she does not seem to have been fooled more than Lindbergh or his agents were deceived when they paid $50,000 for the return of the baby and now cannot find out where the money went nor where the baby is held.

Old Time Conventions.
 Dr. A. L. Bixby: How many can remember the Chicago convention of 1880? At that convention Roscoe Conklin in a powerful speech placed General Grant in nomination for a third term; James A. Garfield spoke almost as eloquently for John Sherman, and a Mr. Joy spoke as eloquently as he knew how for James G. Blaine. On the thirtieth ballot the nomination went to Garfield who didn't pretend to be a candidate, but like Barkis was willin'. The number necessary for a choice was 378. On every ballot General Grant received no less than 302, and in the last paroxysm soared to 313, but to no avail. If the roll were called the men now living who attended that stormy convention would have to report the absence of a quorum.

MEMORY.
 Contributing to a current magazine, Odell Shepard shows that forgetting is quite as desirable as remembering. If one forgets quickly, he removes bad as well as good mental pictures, and if he is slow to recall, he is resourceful in creating new images. The person of retentive memory marshals something he has read or heard in response to any question or situation. He depends on his power to recall rather than on his genius to create, and therefore he sacrifices originality to reproduction. Memory is cultivated, and independent thinking is neglected. The fellow who has available for instant use a collection of facts, is likely to bring forth nothing new. He makes a better showing in college and perhaps in later life by readiness to throw recollections on the screen, but when he attempts to create something he becomes helpless. He is a rare bird who is strong in both originality and reproduction.

Telephone Official Speaks In Omaha
 S. P. Grace, vice president of the Bell Telephone laboratories, addressed representatives and friends of the company last evening in Omaha and a number from Wayne attended. Mr. Grace spoke in the Ak-Sar-Ben coliseum on latest electrical developments in the laboratory; and gave demonstrations. Among other things he explained "Play-o-Feen Crink-o-Nope," scrambled words, which are used in conversation across the ocean so that no others may understand the messages. This was demonstrated by Mr. Grace. Delayed speech, amplifier, portable new devices, etc., were also shown and explained. Those who went from Wayne were the following: Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pickett and Ned, Rev. H. C. Capsey and Harold, T. S. Hook, M. and Mrs. Shirley Pierce, D., and Mrs. C. T. Ingham, L. B. McClure, W. S. Breaster and S. A. Hemple.

Preston Cattle Are Crashed Into By Car
 Henry Preston's herd of 40 cattle met tragedy a week ago Sunday when they were being driven to pasture in the Clarence Preston neighborhood. The cattle were being driven slowly along a side road, but, at one of the hills, a car crashed into the group. The driver of the car, apparently, was unable to check his car soon enough to stop as he rounded the crest of the hill and saw the cattle. One of the animals suffered broken legs, another died soon after from severe head injuries, and a third and fourth were hurt by the impact of the car. Damages were paid to the Prestons.

BEWILDERING.
 If Hiram Percy Maxim's article in the Scientific American on space and objects scattered through the same doesn't make an individual on this planet—a mere speck in the cosmic magnificence—feel unimportant, he has a hopeless combination of ignorance and conceit. Maxim points out that our system—the Milky Way—with its sun, nine planets and thirty million stars is just one of many systems, and the earth is the only one known to be inhabited. Mars which has an atmosphere resembling that of the earth, is strongly suspected of having life—the kind of people, if any, is left to imagination. They may be more or less intelligent than inhabitants of the earth. How Martians look, act, subsist and communicate—if there are any—are questions of conjecture. The author suggests that with the development of radio, listening-in on other planets becomes increasingly possible. As emphasizing distance, he says radio waves, figuring the velocity of light at 186,000 miles per second, would reach Mars in about two minutes, but they would require 40,000 years to arrive at one of the stars of the remote Hercules cluster. It is calculated that the sun is losing weight at the rate of 360,000 million tons per day, without taking anti-fat dope, but considering the size of the orb, a million million years would have to pass before it would be snuffed out. So considering all things as far as telescopes can reach or imaginations comprehend, we are comparatively insignificant and should not take ourselves or our problems too seriously.

Pageant Depicts Life Of Leader

The rain was not quite so heavy at Wakefield, where 2.3 inches was recorded. Several farmers throughout the county told of damage to cornfields. Although few farmers had planted corn, those who had done so will have some replanting to do because of Thursday's storm. The replanting, however, will be done gladly, for the rain means that all the corn should grow with a will it cannot have in overly dry weather.

Although the flood waters backed into the nursery gardens of the Wayne greenhouses south of town, no damage was done, and the Halls reported that the ground was in excellent condition following the storm.

Floods were reported from many of the towns in northeast Nebraska. There was a spatter of hail almost everywhere that rain fell, although garden truck was not up far enough to be damaged, and trees were not hurt by the small stones. A twister at Lyons demolished an ice house storage plant, moved the dance pavilion, the band shell and some oil tanks, and tore down many trees. No one was injured.

Heavy Rain Falls In This Vicinity

High Water Overflows Bank Of Logan South Of City Around Noon Friday.
 Drouth seemed to have burned the heavens dry and Wayne county farmers were beginning to wonder if the gods of propitious harvest had deserted them when clouds gathered last Thursday evening and a torrent was loosed. In Wayne, the rain which fell before dawn amounted to around 2.10, and later showers brought the total toward 3 inches. At Norfolk, where the rain reached flood-like proportions, 3.12 inches of moisture fell. Weather bureau authorities in that section said the rain was the heaviest since 1908.

At Hoskins, the Wayne county town nearest Norfolk, rain damage was quite apparent, although no one complained, so welcome was the precipitation. About 1,000 feet of railroad track between Wayne and Norfolk, passing through Winside and Hoskins, was affected when rushing water softened the road bed. Fifty men were called to work on the road, and extra work trains went to the rescue. Train service was interrupted Friday and Saturday, but was resumed without further trouble the first of the week.

The Spring Branch bridge, built only a twelvemonth ago, was damaged in the deluge, which washed away the approach, and made it necessary to detour in order to enter the city of Norfolk.

Floods Some Houses.
 The houses of August Schulz and Herman Kleensang were flooded at Hoskins, and the Kleensang corncrib was washed from its foundation and carried to the railroad. In the flats near the railroad right of way, just south of the Hoskins dance pavilion, quantities of debris marked the site of a real flood. A large poster board was broken down by the weight of the water, although no serious damage was reported.

In Winside and Wayne, several homes reported that water leaked into the basements, although no flood damage was mentioned. The Wayne-Winside highway was under water Friday at several points, notably at the south bridge over the Logan creek, and on the flat land just east of the Frank Wilson farm.

The rain was not quite so heavy at Wakefield, where 2.3 inches was recorded. Several farmers throughout the county told of damage to cornfields. Although few farmers had planted corn, those who had done so will have some replanting to do because of Thursday's storm. The replanting, however, will be done gladly, for the rain means that all the corn should grow with a will it cannot have in overly dry weather.

Theory vs. Practice.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The theory most persistently put forward by some that if live stock could be marketed in an "orderly" manner, prices would be stabilized at profitable levels and producers' problems solved, is not held by men who have had actual experience in production or in any other branch of the live stock industry.

Orderly marketing is a very complex problem," the doctor pointed out. "Its complexity is increased tremendously by crop market conditions, including grass, hay and grain. Live stock cannot go to pasture until grass is available and must be moved when the grazing season is over.

Orderly marketing is a very complex problem," the doctor pointed out. "Its complexity is increased tremendously by crop market conditions, including grass, hay and grain. Live stock cannot go to pasture until grass is available and must be moved when the grazing season is over.

the present condition of unemployment, it was up to them to get us out of it.

But the machine refuses to be the scapegoat. John H. Van Deventer, writing in its behalf in the Iron Age, marshals United States census statistics to show the machine a creator of employment rather than a destroyer of it.

The record of the 40 years from 1889 to 1929 indicates that where the machine has replaced a man on one job it has created another to take its place. In 1889 out of every 1,000 of population 69.3 were employed in manufacturing industries.

The curve of industrial employment has its ups and downs, the maximum appearing in 1919, when industry was still geared to a war standard, and the minimum in 1921, the year of postwar deflation. But the general tendency has been upward.

Nor does the machine appear to have robbed men of employment in the broader field of general occupation. In 1900 there were 388 out of every thousand gainfully employed in all lines of industry, agriculture, business and professional, domestic and public service.

In 1930, when unemployment began to be marked, 398 were so employed. Still another test is presented. In the 10 years between 1920 and 1930 out of each thousand employed 16 left the farm, one left the mines and four left manufacturing, mechanical and construction industries.

But transportation absorbed seven of these, professional service seven and domestic service seven more. In addition employment was created for three new workers in trade, clerical and miscellaneous work and for one in public service.

According to these figures the problem of the depression is not then a problem of the competition between man and machine. It is rather the capable management of both man and machine. And capable management here refers not to that exercised by factory foremen, but that proceeding from board rooms, from the private offices of great bankers and particularly from the floor of stock exchanges, where productive capacity is capitalized and traded in as though it were a tangible commodity.

Capably managed the function of the machine is to make it possible for mankind to have more things and more time in which to enjoy them. To a considerable extent it has already shown its ability to function in that manner, but its directors have as yet not found the secret of maintaining it as a "going concern."

The schools have had brief programs, and the churches have planned observances and private instructors have scheduled special recitals and concerts to mark the period with rhythm and harmony.

Mrs. Albert G. Carlson is one of the instructors who was giving a number of recitals for her pupils last week. All of her programs were given in the college music room.

Hospital Veteran Writes To Herald

Milton G. Henry who is in the veterans' hospital at Lincoln, writes to home friends as follows: "It is eleven months ago Saturday since I arrived here at the hospital. I have gained eight pounds so it should not take many years to gain back my normal weight. When one has been here as long as I have they nickname us 'gild' bricks. There are only two patients who have been here longer than I.

Sunday was a record day for visitors. When they left the building it looked like church was out. My father, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fredrickson, Myron and Mrs. Elmer Henry were among the visitors, also Harry Swanson from the Lincoln General hospital. Harry looks fine but says he had a hard winter. Ernest Bahde and his brother were here Saturday. Pierce Bressler, who lives at Gordon, stopped for a visit Wednesday. He was here for examination. F. E. McNutt of Wayne, is just a few doors from me so I try to visit him once or twice a day. Saturday I saw Frank Thielman of Wayne. He reports that he is getting along well and expects to go home soon.

"We are all through making poppies now. We made them for the past three and a half months."

Mortgage Debt Is Lower In State

Omaha World-Herald: Nebraska's farm mortgage debt has shown a decline during the past few years, according to figures recently compiled by the department of agriculture, but the percentage of the national mortgage debt found in Nebraska has increased since 1910.

In a nation-wide study of the farm mortgage situation, the department ascertained that Nebraska's debt showed a decline of 3 per cent for the period 1925-1928, the latest for which complete figures are shown, as contrasted with a gain of 1.2 per cent for all states.

A marked credit reduction as shown in loan operations is attributed partly by the department to a smaller demand during the past few years, when prices of farms are lower and mortgage figures have been reduced correspondingly for new commitments.

Debt Decreases.

The Nebraska farm mortgage debt at the end of 1928 was $599,418,000, as against $617,930,000 in 1925, and $416,820,000 in 1920. The state's percentage of the national farm mortgage debt was 4.78 per cent in 1910, 5.30 per cent in 1920, 6.60 per cent in 1925, and 6.33 per cent in 1928.

"The great increase in long-term agricultural credit was brought about by a number of factors," the department's explanatory report states, "but chiefly by high prices of land. The average value of farm land in the United States rose from $39.60 in 1910 to $69.38 per acre in 1920. Large indebtedness per farm became the natural consequence of higher prices whenever a mortgage was used in settling land purchases, a practice employed in most land sales.

Transfers Stimulated.

"Larger numbers of transfers stimulated by rising prices increased the number of mortgages which reflected the higher values, shifting of credit from the form of short-term loans already made to the form of farm mortgages constituted a major part of the post-war adjustment of the farmer's finances."

The department reported that there were 9,092 outstanding loans from the federal land banks, totaling $47,728,999 in loans, for Nebraska at the end of 1929. This compares with 8,070 loans, totaling $41,965,000 in 1926, the year given for comparative purposes.

"Watchman, What Of The Day?" Ask Wayne People on Learning City Is Policed Part Time

Have you ever thought about police protection in Wayne? Do you know how the city is guarded—at what hours it has a watchman on duty, and when it does not? Wayne city council members are considering the matter recently, and have discussed the possibility of adding a man to the force, thus relieving W. A. Stewart of the sole responsibility of watching over the welfare of the town.

Wayne is an orderly city. Rarely have there been situations which called for drastic action on the part of the blue coats. But occasionally a thief rises out of the early morning shadows and robs a store, quite often someone breaks a traffic regulation, and now and then other laws are broken. It seems to be necessary to have an officer on hand at all hours of the day and night, in order to subdue the possible dangers which may arise.

One Officer Now.

W. A. Stewart, now taking charge of police duties in the city, has been in this field for about a dozen years. His work at present is very heavy, for he works several hours each afternoon, and goes back on the beat early in the evening, to remain on the streets until early dawn, about 4 o'clock in the summer time, when daylight comes early.

For the past four or five years, a second man has been employed to watch over the town during the day. There is no second man employed at present, but a number of Wayne people seem to feel that the town should have police protection every hour in the 24, and that a second man should be put on the job. This view in no way reflects on the work of the present night officer, whose duties would be lightened if another officer were employed.

The expense of the police department has not been exorbitant in the past few years. The present wage for night police is $140 per month. The city paid $125 for day police, when one was kept on the job. Gas and oil usually cost not more than $10 a month.

Approve Adding Officer.

Ex-mayor Wm. Orr, discussing the matter informally, admitted that Wayne is a pleasantly law-abiding city, although it is his opinion that the addition of a day man to the police force is really necessary.

"One never knows when a serious situation may arise," he explained, "and, since, one man cannot be everywhere at once, the second man could stay on the job while the night man slept."

Attorney H. E. Siman agrees that a second policeman on the job would be a good addition to the city force. The second man, he believes, would be a good investment in city safety. Not to hire enough policemen is a false economy, he thinks, for it leaves the town unprotected during hours when the services of a watchman are genuinely needed.

Need Two Blue Coats.

Two men are needed to handle the police work in Wayne, believes H. J. Felber, whose store was broken into some time ago when narcotics were stolen. A day officer, he believes, should go on the job as the night man leaves, thus keeping the town thoroughly policed at all hours.

C. C. Kilborn, whose cleaning establishment was broken into some time ago, also believes that two policemen could be kept on the job in Wayne. In that way, he noted, the work could be divided among two men instead of placing such a burden on the night man and leaving the town unprotected during the hours when he is resting.

Russell Larson agreed that a city of Wayne's size needs two policemen on the job, keeping the town under surveillance every hour of the 24. Although Wayne people agree that the town abides by its laws rather well, there are certain traffic and other regulations which require constant enforcement. Such enforcement cannot be effected when an officer is not on duty, as one man cannot be at all hours. Therefore a second man, many believe, should be added to the force for the purpose of protecting the town and enforcing its rules.

Wayne Youth Has Made Good Record

Lyle W. Mabbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Mabbott of Wayne, who won one of the highest scholarship ratings among the 1932 graduating class at the University of Nebraska, ranks among the high three per cent of the graduating seniors. Lyle will take his degree in civil engineering.

During his college career Lyle has been one of the outstanding men in the engineering college. This year he was president of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity whose membership includes only the highest ranking scholars and most active students in student affairs. He is also a member of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity. He has been a member of the staff of the engineering college publication, the Blue Print, and president of the Nebraska chapter of the student engineer's club. He is a member of Alpha Theta Chi social fraternity.

Other northeast Nebraska students at the university who ranked in the upper three percent are: Dorothy Clark of Elgin, Verma Mae Easton of Walthill, Howard Keck of Crofton and Helen Vogt of Thurston.

Board Of Education Organizes Monday

Organization for the coming year was completed at Monday evening's meeting of the Wayne board of education. D. H. Cunningham and C. E. Carhart, members chosen at the last election, took their places at this session.

C. E. Carhart was named president of the board; B. W. Wright, vice president; A. T. Cavanaugh, secretary.

No action has yet been taken on the release of the country school district south of town, but the official release will be effected as soon as Attorney F. S. Berry can meet with the board.

Northeast Nebraska has been attracting attention again—this time with lakes and puddles where last year lay the dust of drought. Flat meadows became wide lakes, convincing, though shallow, and the whole Logan Valley steamed and misted in the heat of Friday afternoon's brief sunlight. One almost expected to see an ichthyosaur or an iguanodon to rise out of the silt and mud and announce that after all, the age of lake formation was not over. Not so, however, for the water subsided before even the most anxious small boys had their rafts built and were ready to sail to the seven seas via the swollen Logan creek.

Spring flowers are attractive and tempting everyone agrees. People who raise them are particularly partial to them, or they wouldn't be so willing to transplant, weed and water them. And they dislike having them snatched off, blossoms without stems, for the entertainment of people who pass by. If you really want a bouquet, tell someone who has flowers to give away, but don't go along snipping off the finest blossoms with such short stems that they could never grace a vase, but must be left to wilt and wither.

After making a good many comments about hobbies, we discover that people who have them are rather rare. We enumerate a few hobbies of Wayne people, hoping to hear about more of them. One woman we know has a splendid collection of scrapbooks containing pictures of the many interesting places which she has visited. Several women who are experts with their needles have a hobby of quilt-making. Another charming lady raises exquisite roses and has made rather an extensive study of their culture. Sports, including golf, baseball and tennis intrigue at least one young person in Wayne. We know of several individuals whose penchant is for the newest books turned off the printing presses, and of others whose attentions are directed entirely to classics. And, with most of the hobbyists, the recreational interest is distinctly tied up with the work of each day. All this hunting for people's hobbies is developing in us a hobby for finding out what other people are interested in.

Time, simple as it may seem to be, and all-surrounding, is the great mystery and the precious ingredient of life. Existence, when it is very busy, sometimes seems to become a treadmill chase after the golden moment in which we are going to accomplish the great, goal thing which we feel is our destiny. We page Mr. Einstein, who we hear, has changed his ideas about time and space. He must have been named on some committee of other!

William Holmes, University of Nebraska senior who apprenticed himself to the Herald during the two weeks' journalism experiment this spring, writes the staff that he enjoyed his visit in our city, and got a favorable impression of the actualities of journalism. And, like all who get the habit, he reads the Herald clear through each week.

We feel ordinarily brave. Of course we have never been let down to the bottom of the sea in a divers' bell or walked a tight rope over Niagara. Nor have we any intention of so doing. Watching like Lillian Letzel of Ringling Brothers' excellent show used to make the palms of our hands sweat. But Sunday, on watching workmen on the gas line over the river between Ponca, Nebraska, and Elk Point, South Dakota, we decided to stay among the unemployed if we had to ascend a cable line to get work. The gas line sways above the muddy waters of the Missouri, carefully supported by a series of cables attached to steel supporting towers on either side of the waterway. And, halfway between, above the churning, muddy waters, sat a man, unconcernedly painting the pipe line. Bad enough when the day is calm and fair, but what of the days when torngades prance from horizon to horizon?

Mothers' day is over. By this time, most of the flowers are wilted and most of the candy has been devoured. The sentiment to which we were adjured on every hand has burned out its tiny flame. But there should linger an affection that will withstand being asked to help wax the floors and carry the furnace ashes out of the basement.

WALLHIDE—the Vitolized Oil paint—now makes painting only a one-day job! Start painting any room in the morning, that evening you hang your pictures and curtains. One coat is usually all that is ever needed on walls that have been painted before. But even on new walls, two coats of Wallhide can be applied—and rooms settled the same day.

Wallhide is different from ordinary paints. It contains Vitolized Oil—called the greatest paint discovery of the century. That's why Wallhide gives you a better painting job and saves you time and money, too. Let us tell you all about this remarkable new Vitolized Oil wall paint.

were so large and heavy as to kill three small porkers. Some of the hailstones were measured, and said to be seven and a half to nine and a half inches around. Three windows in the R. G. Rohrk residence were broken.

Grant S. Meers filed as republican candidate for state representative in 1914. He had then served ten years as sheriff of Wayne county.

A team of horses driven by James Steele ran away on Main street one day in 1914, causing the wheels of three vehicles to be smashed.

Minnie Johanna Rellman, wife of Luther Milliken, died May 5, 1914. Her funeral took place at the German Lutheran church in Winslow vicinity.

In Graduating Class.
In the public school graduating class in 1914 were the following: Irven Sala, Hays McElroy, Main, Irwin Lewis Sears, Frank Lambert Roe, Clara Marie Liedtke, Henrietta E. Moller, Nelle Marie Gustafson, Earl H. Schorer, Gladys Mae Woods, Blodwin E. Davis, Hattie Marie Crockett, Olive Griffin, Ralph Ferne Oman, Gene L. Payne, Mabel C. Ehnert, William R. McEachen and Ensign Edward Young.

From the Ponca Journal, May 16, 1884: "Since mentioning that Prof. Perrigoe went up in a balloon, we understand that he has again appeared. It seems that his gasometer gave out, and he fell to the earth again, getting here with both feet, and has since been digging wells, the same as if he had not ascended."

"Mrs. Hunt, who resides about eight miles southwest from Ponca was burned to death on Wednesday while fighting a prairie fire. Mrs. Hunt was a widow and lived alone on her farm. On Wednesday she noticed that a prairie fire was coming, and for the purpose of protecting her buildings she went out to set a backfire. From this, her clothing took fire and she was burned shockingly."

City Girl—Country Girl.
"Should a Farmer Marry a City Girl?" was the topic of the Wayne Herald essay contest sponsored by the paper in 1914. Four essays were turned in, four by women and one by a man. The man was alone in recommending that farmers should marry only country girls. Mrs. Eli Laughlin's essay won first prize of $5.

Mrs. Laughlin, in approving the marriage of city girls to country boys said: "Through the agencies of modern devices for lightening household work, courses of agriculture taught in our schools, and with the helpful suggestions and ready assistance of a husband to whom rural life is not new, the young wife need not find her ignorance an insurmountable barrier, nor her time so completely occupied with household work that she shall have no time for self-improvement."

"With a conveyance at her disposal, she need not be more of a shut-in than her city sister, who was not so fortunate as to marry a farmer."

Another very interesting letter tells this little story: "Shall I tell you that my dear old father-in-law was dead set against his son marrying a city girl, and a school marm at that? He would not look towards the little house where we lived, when he passed by, and we lived only a short distance from the old home. But I worked and sang, went to see the dear old mother-in-law as often as possible, spoke kindly to the father-in-law. Then I happened to meet him, and it was not long until he came to think that city girls were not half so bad as he expected and perhaps was a good addition to the family. One day I was surprised to meet him at my door with a kind look and extended hand, and the invitation to come and help eat the big watermelon he had raised, which I gladly did. So you see all is well that ends well."

The Wayne Herald was preparing to publish a souvenir edition in 1914. C. A. Gant prepared some of the write-ups and C. M. Craven took the pictures.

banks may borrow from the federal reconstruction corporation, E. H. Luikart, secretary of the state banking department, filed a test suit in the courts of Knox county Tuesday of last week. Luikart's several weeks ago applied to the corporation for a loan of $30,000 to aid in liquidating the affairs of the Nebraska State bank of Bloomfield. The application was deferred however, for lack of authority in Nebraska laws. The suit filed last week at Center, will be in the nature of a test case. The application to the court for authority to make the federal loan will be based on the theory the bank at Bloomfield cannot be immediately liquidated without great and serious loss to its depositors, creditors and to its stockholders.

Propaganda.
Lincoln Journal: A judge of the supreme court, addressing a Lincoln audience the other day, dropped the remark, to illustrate a point, that the newspapers are filled with propaganda. The judge had been guilty of indulging in propaganda, himself, propaganda in a good cause, wholesome and worth while. Some real and much manufactured enthusiasm was shown at the meeting he addressed, and the enthusiasm displayed was propaganda. It, too, was for a good cause and worth while.

What was said about the newspapers was true. They are filled with propaganda, much of it demanded by the best people of the community, much of it necessary for the best interests of society, much of it required to maintain what civilization has gained and is struggling to maintain. Occasionally propaganda of another sort creeps into the newspapers, into the speeches of those who profess to stand for all that is best and much that is to be desired. That is regrettable, of course.

Propaganda is found everywhere. It is encountered at the store counter where the high pressure salesman does his stunt; it is heard on the lecture platform and on the political stump. Party platforms are filled with it and the mouthings of politicians reek with it. It is a daily diet. The mere public appearance of some people is propaganda. We are moved by it. Our thoughts are directed by it. Our solemn judgments are affected and our actions are controlled.

The big problem is to sift the good from the bad, the acceptable and commendable from the selfish and vicious. Propaganda comes to us as the opinions of thinkers, as the conclusions of deliberative bodies, as the wool and warp of diplomacy. It is used to build organizations, to sell merchandise and property, to further

Faith
Quality Merchandise
We believe that the quality of the merchandise we sell is quite as important as any other detail of our service. It is as much a part of our duty to buy wisely as it is to serve efficiently.
For this reason, we have always refused to handle castles or other merchandise made by any except responsible, well-established manufacturers. We have a reputation to maintain, and we deal only with firms which have the same incentive to honest workmanship and fair dealing.
This does not mean that we handle only expensive merchandise. We offer a wide selection of goods at all price levels, but each item represents genuine value for the cost.

Tarzan Is Pictured In Play To Come

"Tarzan, the Ape Man," Edgar Rice Burroughs' widely-read African adventure novel, has been brought to the screen under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke of "Trader Horn" fame, and will be shown at the Gay theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Because the hero of this story is a white man who has been brought up in the jungle and lives like the apes in the tree-tops, making his way by swinging through them from limb to limb, difficulty was encountered in finding someone of sufficient athletic prowess to fill the exacting role.

Has Perfect Physique.
The problem was solved when Johnny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer and one of the finest examples of masculine physiques, was cast as Tarzan. Neil Hamilton and C. Aubrey Smith, as leaders of an English safari seeking ivory wealth, Maureen O'Sullivan as Smith's daughter, Doris Lloyd, Forrester Harvey and Ivory Williams fill the remaining principal roles.

Jungle thrills outdoor even those of the sensational "Trader Horn" are promised in the daring trek of the safari through the wilds of Africa in search of the curious "Elephant's Burial Ground" in the course of which the adventurers meet with terrifying obstacles. The wits of the white man are matched against those of beasts and savage pygmies with the primitive winning out in the end, while screen romance of a new order is entailed in the curious love affair of the Ape Man and English girl.

What are reported to be some of the film's most hair-raising episodes include an attack of lions by night upon the safari camp; the crossing of a river filled with hippopotami; a fight between Tarzan and a bull-ape; the rescue of a trapped elephant and the subsequent efforts of the grateful beast to aid his rescuers.

Captured by Pygmies.
There is also an amazing episode in which the heroine is carried through the trees by a herd of apes; the capture of the safari by the pygmy tribe; their subsequent escape from death in a gorilla pit and the spectacular charge of a huge herd of elephants through the pygmy village leaving devastation and terror in its wake.

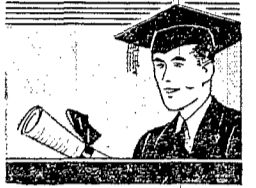

Settings of tremendous magnitude were required in giving the picture the authentic backgrounds of the original locales laid in the African region around Lake Albert and the Mountains of the Moon where herds of giant apes are found. Hundreds of savage jungle beasts were used in the production for the filming of some of the most unusual animal scenes ever photographed.
