SIGNS OF TIMES DISCUSSED HERE AT MEN'S CLUB

Rev. Braisted Cites Duty Of Thinking People In Present Day Needs

"Signposts on the Road" was the title chosen by Rev. W. E. Braisted for a Kiwanis club address delivered Monday noon at Hotel Stratton...

Rev. Braisted urged his listeners to take cognizance of the signs of the times in an effort to determine whence civilization is headed...

In the economic condition now existing Rev. Braisted finds some flaws. He suggests that an improved control of market, raw material, production and delivery methods would help...

The political situation brought to the speaker's attention the communistic, fascist and democratic developments of modern times...

"Political ranting," stated the speaker, "gets us nowhere. All these things are just signposts on the road, but they point their respective ways: none all bad, none all good; and we do well to think of where they are leading and where we are going..."

On the ways of education and social welfare, the luncheon speaker continued, there are other challenges. Scientific control of the world, war and its wastes, and the lack of correlation of effort, said Rev. Braisted, have made social welfare more or less of a confused problem...

In summing up the religious challenges, Rev. Braisted said: "Surely the indications, the signposts, point to a vital and vitalizing religion, practical and spiritual, ethical in itself, basically and progressively realizable in working together and with God, through nature and in human nature for the common welfare, 'salvation' for the whole life, for time and eternity..."

"We cannot dare not if we could, leave this to a few preachers, or religionists, so-called. It concerns every man and woman and youth, whether in the churches or not. Denial of responsibility but adds another charge of neglect to the guilty, with individual and social, economic and political, as well as intellectual and spiritual loss to the whole..."

James Brittain has been scheduled to speak on some phase of court procedure at the next meeting of the club. There will be a special patriotic observance at the Decoration day luncheon.

watch their youthful charges take kindergarten courses in the noble art of equitation. Outdoors the sparkling atmosphere and springy turf impel riders and their mounts to exultant gallop. To all who have known the exquisite rhythm of an early morning canter across the moor or heath King Horse still holds sovereign sway.

These are days when young hopefuls plead with father to let a groom put up the bars in some paddock where the falling off is soft. Does one ever forget the suspense and thrill of such first adventure? That first hurdle was probably three feet high, but it looked as high as a house to the aspiring tyro. As the horse extended itself into steady stride there was a momentary longing to be somewhere else. "What shall I do now?" the juvenile rider gasped as an irresistible force rushed him to an obstacle that seemed to soar ever skyward. "Just keep a leg each side of 'im, Master Robert," grinned an appraising groom. Proudly, albeit a bit surprised, the budding equestrian found himself on the far side of the jump still in the saddle, though stirrup leathers might be swinging free.

Vast vistas of enjoyment, though perhaps less strenuous, stretch out before the tyro of sedate age, to whom, perchance, opportunity and leisure to ride come only with later years. It may well be that smart riding schools and the perusal of quartos on the science of horsemanship fall short of giving him the seat and hands of Master Robert, whose chief manual was condensed in the laconic exordium of the aforesaid groom to "Keep your 'ands and your 'eels down and your 'ead and your 'eart up."

But he who rides joins an illustrious cavalcade. So the mature equestrian may, in fancy, ride with Sir Walter Scott's gay young Loch-invar who "stayed not for brake and he stopped not for stone," or in retrospection accompany a Theodore Roosevelt, equally adroit in writing a history or clearing a six-foot stone wall country with Lord Dun-sany, who is as much at home on the pigskin as on Mount Parnassus. All this he may do as he happily and contentedly ambles along with that gentle philosopher Montaigne, who found that, for a man of short stature, 'twas better to be mounted than to jostle with pedestrians.

Now, therefore, I, M. L. Ringer, mayor of the city of Wayne, do hereby proclaim, May 28, Poppy day. I urge that all citizens of Wayne observe this day by the wearing of a veteran-made American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary poppy.

I further urge that the citizens of our city, who gave so gallantly of their services and so liberally of their substance during the war, remember on this day those who were called upon to give the irreplaceable treasure, their health and strength, and when purchasing a poppy be as generous as their means will permit in order that the women of the Auxiliary may continue their work of mercy and relief during the coming year.

Signed, Martin L. Ringer, Mayor.

Big Return For Little

THOUGH all taxpayers in the city of Wayne contribute only $65.37 per year to the cost of building and maintaining the State Teachers College here, some local individuals who are directly or indirectly benefited inestimably by the institution, have been complaining because of the salaries paid. Salaries received at the school amount to $12,500 per month, and this money is largely spent in Wayne. Also the aggregate set into circulation for improvements and supplies from month to month and year to year amounts into many thousands. Additional thousands are brought to Wayne every year by students and sent through the arteries of local trade. Should all these expenditures be cut out in order to save a paltry $65.37 per year? Wayne also contributes $68.64 to the Kearney normal and $719.07 to the state university. Should we crush our own institution which is one leading reason why Wayne is a good town, while other school towns receive more from us than we are paying here?

Of course the knocking is done by captious individuals who have done little if any figuring on a basis of facts, and who have given little or no thought to the big values reaped from a trifling investment. So much is derived from so little that it would seem a Wayne citizen who is interested in his own neighborhood, would be the last fellow on earth to be mad at the state for investing money here. But we doubt if many here feel that way, or if many run so short of things to kick about that they find it necessary, in order to keep up practice, to kick to pieces their own premises—their own interests.

For the information of the public and to set at rest any misunderstandings, we will submit the following statement:

In view of the fact that every taxpayer is entitled to know just what use is made of the money he pays, to the county treasurer, the following figures assembled from the records in the county treasurer's office and from the general appropriation bills of the last legislature, may prove interesting.

The regular and special sessions of the legislature appropriated from taxes on real and personal property for the biennium beginning July 1, 1931, a total of $1,468,464, or an average of $7,231,732 for each year of the biennium.

Of the above amount for the year ending July 1, 1932, the following represent the largest items:

Board of control, $2,123,840;	State University, $2,176,500;
salaries state officers, $2,000,000 and salaries judges, $3,370;	State Capitol building, $341,225;
Four State Teachers Colleges, $747,780.

The Wayne State Teachers College receives $192,635 of the above amount.

The general state levy necessary to raise the foregoing amount of state taxes is 2.04 mills on the assessed valuation.

Of the total property tax collected by the state, 2.66 per cent is used for the support of the state teachers college at Wayne.

Wayne county taxes levied for 1931 are as follows:

Personal tax	$ 71,005.27
Real Estate Tax	325,024.76
Intangible Tax	6,143.70
Total	$478,083.73

Of the above total the state gets $77,628.67. Of the amount sent to the state treasurer, 2.66 per cent is spent at the Wayne State Teachers College or a total of $2,064.92. This means that the taxpayers of Wayne county contribute $2,064.92 to the support of the Wayne State Teachers College.

Wayne City taxes levied for 1931 are as follows:

Personal tax	$ 9,800.82
Real Estate tax	36,802.71
Intangible tax	892.56
Total	$46,986.09

The total tax in the city of Wayne is 39 mills; so each mill of tax produces $1204.77. The total state tax is 2.04 mills; therefore Wayne contributes to the state general fund and capitol levy $2,457.73. Of this amount as contributed 2.66 per cent is expended on support of the State Teachers College at Wayne. That is, the taxpayers of Wayne during the year 1931 paid $65.37 toward the support of the Wayne State Teachers College.

For each $100 paid by any taxpayer in the city of Wayne to the county treasurer, the distribution of his money would be as follows:

To the State:
General fund	$4.948
Capitol fund	.282
Total	$5.230
To the County:
General fund	$2.256
Bridge fund	1.923
Road fund	2.410
Mothers' Pension	.038
Soldiers' Relief fund	.038
County Fair fund	.154
Total	$6.829

Wayne City fund:

General fund	$10.256
Street lighting	7.692
Maintenance sewers	.513
Maintenance parks	1.026
Maintenance fire department	1.026
Amusement fund (band)	2.564
City library	3.077
Street improvement bonds	3.589
Intersection paving bonds	20.512
Refunding paving bonds	5.134
Total	$55.382

The Wayne school district will be observed that of the $26.52 sent to the state treasurer out of this $100 there is expended at Wayne State Teachers College 2.66 per cent of $5.23 which is 13.9 cents. So the taxpayer who pays the county treasurer $100 contributes approximately 14 cents to the support of the Wayne State Teachers College. He pays about four times this amount to the support of sewer maintenance; twice this amount to build the state capitol; eight times this amount to support the city bond; seven times the amount to support city parks; fifty-five times the amount to light the street; and slightly more to support the county fair than to support the Teachers College.

In brief the city of Wayne each year contributes to the support of the state teachers college a total of $65.37 while the taxpayers of the state spend in the city a total of $128 of tax money besides about $90,000 of fees which is not derived from tax money, and to this is added the total which is expended in the city of Wayne by 1000 students.

All the foregoing information can easily be obtained and verified by the session laws of 1931, the county treasurer's office and the tax receipts. If taxpayers generally would inform themselves upon how their money is expended, many misunderstandings could be avoided.

Adversity's Compensations

A woman writing of her family's financial perplexities for a current magazine, explains that she is the daughter of a college professor, received a Master's degree from the University of Chicago and married a lawyer who was earning $8,000 a year. The couple bought a house for $15,000 and had enough debts and current expenses to absorb annual earnings. The depression came. The husband had to leave the law firm in which he was a junior partner, and he accepted a job at $200 a month. This did not last long, and he turned to the practice of law on his own hook which, however, yielded little. A precarious hand-to-mouth existence followed. Travel in high society ceased. Two children who were to have been reared amidst every advantage, were permitted under the necessity of poverty to climb trees and enjoy other liberties curtailed by those who were able to employ nurses and put on costly show. Though poverty gnawed and anxieties oppressed, the writer explains that she and her husband have been pulling together more pleasantly than ever and that the children who were pale and sickly, had become healthy and robust, bounding with animation under the restraint of material means which brought freedom from social exactions. Thus, as suggested, adversity has its compensations.

One man who brought his family to Wayne to trade Saturday, coming from a wayne that might belong to any one of

SMILING.

Amelia Earhart Putnam, lone flier of the Atlantic, charmed the British with a hearty smile and a pleasing vivacity. Without the smile her face would probably rank among the ordinary. And a natural smile is an important asset—not a smile put on and taken off like a pair of shoes—not a smile inserted like a punctuation mark—but a countenance radiant with an expression of kindly fellowship. The smile that seems to be taken out of a metallic container, carefully unfolded and put on as occasion suggested, and then folded up and put back as sober austerity appears permissible, is chillingly mechanical, and it is more evident and less beguiling than painted lips or penciled eyebrows. But the powerfully captivating smile is doubtless inherited like an ear for music, talent for mathematics or taste for spaghetti or raw onions, and it is a wonderfully handy and useful gift. It is an instant acknowledgment of friendly interest and is an effective way to break restraint and make people feel easy and comfortable. We do not venture to assay its cash value, but it would be considerable.

Memorial Occasion

RECURRENT of Memorial day finds a generally distraught world—due in large measure no doubt to the struggle back to economic balance following the last great war and its price inflations and deflations. But this day, hallowed by sacrifices in national conflict, finds the souls of people as responsive and devoted as ever, and the flowers and foliage of returned springtime as wonderful as ever. Fresh blossoms, enriching the silent city, and dedicated to precious memories, will partake of the heroism of the soldier dead and emphasize the cost of war in blood as well as in treasure. Tears for the departed and anxiety for the living mingle in unison for freedom from future wars—freedom from strife that feeds the flower of a nation to the god of Mars and brings a train of ills that decades cannot remove.

As we turn from flower-bedecked mounds on the hillside, let us be resolved to do our part in repairing the torn economic fabric and bringing old-time order out of confusion and contrarities. Restoration of a system of equal opportunities and fair rewards, of parity of values and ample employment must look for realization to the stability and courage of the masses, freed from the morass of fear and distrust and rival animosities. Let us hope that another Memorial day will find society pouring its memorial eulogies and blessings from buoyed and reassured hearts.

Pointing out the need of a check-up in industry to ascertain the requirements of changed conditions, the Omaha Journal-Stockman quotes this from E. A. Cudahy, Jr., speaking before the national meat dealers: "While I am somewhat disheartened by conditions as they exist, I am not, as I have said, in any sense discouraged. A return of confidence on the part of the people of this country is evident in a good many directions, and I think we are through with most of our troubles, and that better times are ahead. As George Lorimer once said: 'It is a good thing to have money and all the things that money can buy; but it is good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure to yourself that you have not lost the thing that money cannot buy, and that thing is faith in yourself and faith in the destiny of your country.'"

Capt. Robert Dollar, famous in the shipping industry, concluded a long and useful career when he passed away recently at his home in the southwest. He began to work in shipyards at the age of 14, and step by step he grew in his job, finally leading in a giant shipping business. Capt. Dollar is quoted as saying: "The world is a fine place for those who like to work." Of his service, an editor observes: "At many stages of his career, Capt. Dollar exemplified what small beginnings can produce when based on honesty, fortitude and foresight."

If northeast Nebraska had had normal crops last year, it is suspected its people would have felt the sting of low prices quite as much as they have with the combination of short crops and sagging values. Now the emphasis is placed on a big, normal crop, with assurance of plenty of feed, hoping that prices will ascend. But with flat markets and curtailed production, one was doubly out of luck, and the first idea in mind right now is to have something to sell or to convert into marketable value.

Perhaps for obvious reasons, nature carefully shielded the brain from X-ray exploration. But a specialist has discovered a way to picture the brain if results warrant an operation to replace fluid with air. This operation seems to make X-ray diagnosis possible. So, no one can slip up on a fellow and take a picture of his brain in order to satisfy curiosity or to discredit his capacity.

Fortytwo Years Is Record In Business

After 42 years in business in Wayne, J. G. Mines is retiring the first of June. He has sold his jewelry stock here to his son, Paul Mines, who has been with the firm for many years and who will maintain the same high standards established by his father.

J. G. Mines came to Wayne in 1890 and established himself in the jewelry business. He has gradually enlarged his stock until he now has one of the best in northeast Nebraska. Several years ago he built a new business block which now houses the store.

Very few Wayne business men have the record of continuous business activity which Mr. Mines holds. And Paul Mines has been in the store so long that he is well acquainted with the business.

To Reduce Tax.

Washington, May 25—The Senate finance committee today reduced the proposed 10 percent sales tax on automobile tires and taxes to 2 1/2 cents per pound on tires and 4 cents per pound on tubes.

Beauty, But No Brains.

(Omaha World-Herald)

While the battle has been raging between the dandelion diggers and non-diggers we have been waiting anxiously for a champion to appear, not in defense of dandelions. Is it possible the yellow weeds, if weeds they be, are without friends?

Hogs Due For a Come-Back.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Hogs have been selling this week at the lowest prices of the century, the lowest levels reached since 1896. The situation reflects the economic condition of the country as there is nothing in the present or prospective supply of hogs to warrant current quotations on the market. While demand for pork and pork products has been reduced by the world-wide depression the situation is rather bullish from a supply point of view.

"The size of the 1932 spring pig crop is as yet uncertain," says the department of agriculture survey. "Weather conditions in the corn belt this spring have been less favorable than either 1930 or 1931. It is unlikely, therefore, that the number of pigs saved per litter will be as large as in the last two years. The December pig survey indicated that if farmers carry out their intentions to about the usual extent the number of sows to farrow in the corn belt states this spring will be somewhat smaller than last spring. Recent reports indicate that the continued low level of hog prices and the unfavorable relation between hog and corn prices in the drought-affected rears of the corn belt may result in a sharper reduction in the spring pig crop in those areas than indicated in the December survey."

Hog growers have faced far more discouraging situations than the present as far as production figures are concerned. Should economic conditions show even moderate improvement it is reasonably certain that the increased demand for meat would quickly bring about a rise in hog price levels. The question is, When is the economic situation going to get better?

Legion Auxiliary Sponsors Drive To Sell Flowers Made By Veterans.

A poem worth fifty million dollars! It sounds unbelievable. Yet that is a conservative estimate of what one short poem, written on a World War battlefield, has been worth to the war disabled, their families and the families of the dead. Everyone knows this poem. It begins:

"In Flanders Fields the poppies blow,
 Between the crosses row on row—
 The picture of the poppies blooming above the battle graves, so perfectly painted in the poem, winged its way around the world and in its wake sprang up the custom of wearing a poppy in honor of the war dead.

"Poppy Day" will be observed in Wayne on Saturday and American Legion Auxiliary women and school children will sell the little red paper poppies.

The work of making the artificial flowers, replicas of the Flanders field poppies, was given very fittingly to the disabled veterans and the proceeds from their sale to veteran relief work.

In the thirteen years since the close of the war millions of persons in all parts of the world have worn the poppy annually in tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice and through the purchase of poppies have contributed to the welfare of the war's living victims. Mrs. Eric Whitman is chairman for Poppy day in Wayne. She is asking that any Auxiliary women who can give some time Saturday to selling poppies to come to the Wayne Shoppe, her headquarters, to obtain the flowers. Extra workers are needed and even an hour or so of time will be appreciated.

Children who will help are asked to meet their district chairman on Friday evening at 7 o'clock to get poppies and receive instructions.

Those who will sell west of Main street should meet with Mrs. E. W. Huse and those selling east of Main street should meet with Mrs. Wilbur Hall.

INCONSISTENT.

Cries to retrench and balance the budget and shouts to appropriate additional millions for public improvements are heard in Washington simultaneously, both propositions aimed in opposite directions, but each offered as a panacea for economic ills. But President Hoover was aroused to protest when Speaker Garner proposed a billion-dollar bond issue for a public building program and a senate committee proposed a half-billion dollars for public construction. The president's objections contain these points: "Balance the budget; avoid issuing further government securities; continue work of the reconstruction finance corporation; expand the credit through the federal reserve system; insure translation of these credits into actualities; soundly strengthen the foundation of agriculture; continue public works that do not place a strain on the taxpayer; continue national, community and individual efforts to relieve distress." Members of congress make so many guesses on what to do—usually in conflict with one another—that it would seem the right steps would sometimes be taken even while playing politics. But it is doubtful if congress could do much if anything of value aside from practicing economy and reducing the tax burden. The big thing would appear to be to abolish fear, reestablish confidence, repair the chain of buying and selling, and thus increase employment and strengthen values, and to this program all must contribute.

GIRL SCOUT BETTY "Bean Hole" Cooking—By Montfort Amory

Betty and her companions, on a hike in the country, seek the permission of a farmer to prepare dinner on his property. "We would like to dig a small hole here," Betty explains, "to build a bean hole." Having secured the permission of the genial man of the soil, the girls dug a hole and lined it with stones. A fire was started so as to heat the stones and form a good bed of coals. When the flames had died down, the girls put the pot on the hot stones, piling smoking coals around and on top of it. "What a pity to spend a nice day like this cooking!" said the farmer. "We won't," replied Betty, smiling, "because now we're going to complete our bean hole."

Girls' Athletic Association Picnic Breakfast Is Part Of Project

With vacation days just ahead, school folk are completing their projects and making plans for lazy summer days, although most of the teachers will spend their time in study. In the third grade, the big event of the week was the presentation of a puppet play, for which preparations have been made during several weeks. The stage was made from a large pickling box behind which the operator of the puppet actors could be stationed. The children have made furniture and decorations for the set, and dressed the actor dolls. First, second and fourth grade pupils were to be invited to see the puppet play.

Third grade people who have successfully learned the multiplication tables from the fours to the nines are Annabelle Jensen, Lila Westerahus, Jack Davis and Mildred Franzen. Division tables from six to nine have been mastered by Annabelle Jensen and Lila Westerahus.

True stories from their experience or fantasies from their imaginations were written last week by second grade folk. The stories were the first piece of written work which the children had done alone, and were quite successful. Members of the class criticized each other's work, and the mistakes were studied from blackboard copies of the stories.

Baseball and kickball have been diversion in second grade gymnasium period during the last days of school. Japanese exhibits were enjoyed in the third grade last week. Various members of the class brought fans, kimono, prints and other typical objects for the show. Lantern slides were given one day as a part of the lessons in geography.

Clinic Plans Are Nearly Complete

The parents of every crippled or physically handicapped child in Antelope, Boyd, Brown, Cedar, Cumming, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Kea Paha, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Rock, Stanton, and Wayne counties, are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity of having their child examined at the free clinic for crippled children which will be held at the Elks Club, Norfolk, Thursday, June 9, 1932.

The clinic will be conducted under the auspices of the medical men in the fifteen counties and the Norfolk Lodge of Elks, in cooperation with a program for the physical restoration and education of crippled children in Nebraska, which is being sponsored by the Nebraska State Elks Association and the civilian rehabilitation division of the State Department for Vocational Education

The Elks crippled children committee has charge of the housing and general clinic arrangements for the lodge. A committee composed entirely of women will receive and register all those who attend the clinic. Representatives from interested civic and fraternal groups have been invited to attend and assist the Elks in the program committee work.

The Elks Club rooms will take on the general appearance of an emergency hospital in a stricken area, on the day of the clinic. The task of arranging the interior to provide adequate space for the various examinations is in the hands of the Elks committee. The committee stated that no detail which will contribute to the privacy and comfort of the patients has been overlooked. The clinic is so highly organized that there will be no confusion in accommodating the several hundred examiners, assistants, patients and lay committees required in a one day clinic of this kind.

Dr. Lucien Stark and Dr. A. C. Barry, chairman of the Medical Clinic Committee, composed of representatives from the medical groups in the fifteen counties, announced that all details covering the examinations were virtually complete. The services of approximately fifty physicians, surgeons and dentists and forty-two nurses will be required to handle the medical sections of the clinic during the day. The clinic will represent one of the largest gatherings of professional men and women ever assembled in this area in the interest of crippled humanity.

According to the plan of the clinic, children and parents will be received and registered by a special women's committee. The history of their case and all other information necessary for the examiners will be obtained by nurses. They will then receive heart, lung and abdominal examinations, which will be followed by dental, eye, ear, nose and throat examinations, and finally the orthopedic examination. Those requiring neuro examinations will be routed to this department.

After the examinations have been completed, the reports will be sent to a special medical committee, the members of which will reduce the reports to language which may be understood by the parents.

The reports will then go to the Program Committee, consisting of the cooperating lay groups. This committee is one of the most important sections of the clinic, for it gives the parents valuable advice regarding the recommendations of the examiners.

The medical clinic activities committee having charge of the medical organization of the clinic and the counties they represent are: Dr. Lucien Stark and Dr. A. C. Barry, chairmen; Madison: Dr. R. A. Frary, secretary; Stanton: Dr. A. J. Schwedhelm; Knox: Dr. John H. Calvert; Pierce: Dr. E. E. Curtis; Antelope: Dr. H. W. Francis; Cumming: Dr. Walter Benthack; Wayne: Dr. Stuart Cook; Cedar: Dr. A. A. Larsen; Dakota: Dr. J. D. Lutten; Cedar: Dr. J. C. Gramlich; Thurston.

Several representatives from the State Department of Vocational Education will be on hand to assist parents in working out an educational program for their child, should they desire it.

Marshal Forces To Fight Hoppers

Lincoln, May 24.—The Nebraska department of agriculture and the state extension service joined forces today to conduct upon a systematic and scientific basis, the fight to eradicate grasshoppers from northern Nebraska counties. After a conference between Prof. Myron Swenk, head of the University of Nebraska department of entomology; O. S. Bare, extension entomologist, and D. F. Felton, deputy secretary of the agriculture department, plans were announced whereby the campaign will be started tomorrow in the infested regions.

Swenk and Felton agreed, the latter said, that to effectively root out the pests the work must be supervised upon an intensive and systematic manner. Education work last year, Felton said, lost the maximum effectiveness in certain localities by lack of knowledge in the proper use of poison bran.

Seek Best Results. The two departments, therefore, with Bare and L. M. Gathes, state entomologist, in a field will direct the use of poison where information is needed to attain the best results.

Bare and Gathes, Felton said, will leave tomorrow for the drought areas where the hoppers again are threatening wholesale destruction of crops. They will survey the situation, with the cooperation of county commissioners and will advise the county officials as to the purchase of the bran mixture. According to a plan announced by Governor Bryan, the state will match each car of bran purchased in each county.

Felton is convinced that systematic work in the field at the present time will avert any extensive loss in crops.

If the counties match the $18,000 the state has made available, he said, it is confident that with quick action and efficient use of the poison we can definitely hit any further invasion.

Through Hitting Sought. Felton said it would be the object of the two departments to so

Indians Expect Big Things of Joe Vosmik, Who Made Phenomenal Debut in 1931 When Cleveland Bought Him From Bush Leagues for $300

BY PHILIP MARTIN AN outfielder whose cost represents the $300 of the Cleveland Indians' $80,300 outfield and who, in his first week, made one of the most remarkable debuts in all diamond history, is expected to prove one of the Indians' main batting reliances this year.

The Indians paid $50,000 for Earl Averill and $30,000 for Dick Porter, two high-class fielders and tremendous hitters. But Joe Vosmik came from the bush leagues to the Indians for a measly $300. And what an investment that proved to be!

Vosmik, a blond, husky Bohemian, 26 years of age from Cleveland, got off to a better batting start in the big leagues, they say, than any of that famed triumvirate, Cobb, Wagner and Ruth.

When Billy Evans, the Indians' general manager, dropped off at Frederick of the Blue Ridge League one day in 1929 to have a look at the Cleveland amateur he had sent there that spring, he should have been unimpressed at what he saw. Vosmik, knowing that Evans was watching, developed the jitters and fanned four times in a row. Evans, however, consoled him and told him to report at the New Orleans training camp.

When the 1931 season opened early in April, Vosmik's name was in the lineup. The general opinion of the fans was that the boy was just being given a taste of his time before being transferred to more experience and that nothing exceptional could be expected of him.

But in one week his name was everywhere. In streets, offices, stores and homes it was nothing but Vosmik. Vosmik. Whenever a group of people gathered, it was a cliché bet that the new diamond phenom was the subject of conversation.

AND why all this interest in the youngster? Merely a matter of six singles, five doubles, two triples and a home run in 22 times at bat. To say nothing of thrilling, astounding fielding plays which accompanied the magic .536 average!

Naturally, everybody hoped against hope, that this marvelous performance wasn't just a flash in the pan. That it wasn't just another case of a bull player playing way over his head, presently to slip back into mediocrity or worse. And they weren't disappointed. Joe didn't keep up his initial pace. That would have been impossible. But for the rest of the 1931 season he did establish a fast clip in his hitting and fielding. And this season he's starting out like a house on fire.

Here is Joe Vosmik, Cleveland outfielder, who achieved fame within one week after he entered the big leagues in 1931 by means of one of the most auspicious debuts in diamond history. Joe's unusual hitting ability is expected to be a big factor in the Indians' campaign this year.

Just the right size for a slugger—six feet, 185 pounds—Joe had attained some fame with the stick before entering the majors. He led the Blue Ridge loop in 1929, and hit .397 to lead the Three-Eye League in 1930. In the latter season he scored 100 runs, made 112 hits, including 28 doubles, 15 triples, 17 home runs, and drove in 115 runs.

To top it all, Vosmik's modesty and disposition have won him the regard of his fellow players. And despite his success, he still wears the same size derby.

Arrange Exercises For Eighth Grades

Exercises for graduates of Wayne county eighth graders will be held in June. Definite plans are not yet made. Miss Pearl Sewell is completing averages this week so that names of the students to be graduated will be available next week.

Call Out Firemen. Wayne firemen were called Wednesday morning to put out a fire in the Boyd Hotel kitchen. The blaze started from a hot water tank, and did little damage.

There will be no evening service on account of the high school baccalaureate services to which all the churches are invited.

Thursday next week the Women's Home Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Eli Laughlin with Mrs. L. E. Ellis and Mrs. W. C. Fox assisting hostesses.

The Methodist church at this time extends its congratulations and wishes for the future to those graduating from the high schools of our city and from the college. This church seeks to serve with a community spirit and desires and prays for the good of all our people, especially of the number of fine young people of which our community is justly proud.

May 29: Sunday school, 9:45 a. m. Services, 11 a. m. Subject: Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias, Mesmerism and Hypnotism. Denounced. Golden text: Prov. 14:22. Wednesday evening testimonial meeting June 1 at 8 o'clock. Services through KFAE at 12:30 to 12:45 noon, Monday and Thursday.

The public is cordially invited. The subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, May 29, is "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

The Golden Text is from Proverbs 14:22: "Do they not err that devise evil? but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from James 4:8, and reads: "Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners, and purify your hearts, ye double minded! Be single minded to the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, in the lesson-sermon reads: "As named in Christian Science, animal magnetism or hypnotism is the specific term for error, or mortal mind. It is the false belief that mind is in matter, and is both evil and good; that evil is as real as good and more powerful. This belief has not one quality of truth."

School Picnics And Open House At Power Plant Are Week's Events.

AUDITED LIST INTO 3,000 HOMES 15,000 READERS

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1932.

NUMBER SEVEN

LIGHT PLANT IS OF INTEREST TO WAYNE VISITOR

Special Displays Of Newest Current Using Apparatus Shown By Stores.

COMMENT ON EQUIPMENT

Interested and surprised in seeing the large amount of efficient equipment at the municipal light and power plant were the crowds which attended Thursday's reception. Visitors began coming in the morning, and their numbers increased as the day advanced.

To each woman who visited the registration desk was given a rose or a carnation, the gift of the city. Small favors were given by Theobald Lumber company.

Shining electrical equipment was shown by the Kugler Electric company, L. W. McNatt, Ernest Bichel, H. B. Craven and W. A. Hiscok and L. E. Peterson.

Eight plant employees and city officials were on hand during the day and evening to answer people's questions, and to give them an interesting trip through the plant.

All who visited the plant were impressed by the large new Diesel engine, which occupies the south side of the interior, and by the auxiliary equipment which makes the plant so efficient.

Merle Whorlow completed his teaching at Monarch, Mont., last Friday and he and his family came by car to spend the summer in the R. T. Whorlow and Mrs. Anne Kopp homes.

Joseph Polcar is dead. He leaves behind him 40 years of journalistic experience, and a group of young men whose names have an added luster because he trained them.

The cast is splendid, led by that charming actress, Barbara Stanwyck. Of the many supporting performance we're inclined to be partial to those of Earle Foxe, Alah Hale, Dorothy Peterson, Dick Winslow, Dickie Moore, Hardie Albright and George Brent.

Graduate of College Is Given Honor

Mr. Edith L. Johnson, 54, graduate of the Nebraska Normal college at Wayne in 1897, was honored last week at Brunswick for her completion of 10 years of teaching in the primary room of the school there.

Mrs. Johnson, who has been a grandmother for a decade, was formerly Edith Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp, who were Stanton county pioneers.

When Mr. Johnson's health failed, Mrs. Johnson began teaching and she has been in the school for ten years.

Edna Ferber Story Is Coming To Gay

After "Cimarron," that grand epic of the farm lands, given majestically to the talking screen by those who carried out Edna Ferber's awe-inspiring book to perfection, the new audible edition of Miss Ferber's "So Big" seems not quite as powerful as we formerly thought it was.

Director William Wellman has done his part well by the Strand's new picture. When the Warners decided to remake the film which had served Colleen Moore as a super-special, it was thought advisable to produce the talkie "So Big" merely as a regular program picture—not of roadshow length.

So, Director Wellman has unfolded his movie in a celluloid bolt which runs only eighty minutes. He has assembled his continuity so effectively that the film shifts from scene to scene, often by mere suggestion, rather than by continued action.

You know the story, don't you? The tale of the city-bred Selma Peake who goes to the cabbage-lands to become village school marm, and board with the Pooles.

And she rejoices in becoming a farmer's wife and in remaining on the farm after her husband has died. She grows asparagus so successfully that she grows rich, and sends her son Dirk (So Big) through college. When it would seem that he is turning snobbish, that he is ashamed of his background, something happens to make him see life differently. It's love.

And Director Wellman ends his film on a sweet note—Dirk's reunion with his mother, his sweetheart and with Roelf, the famous sculptor who had been inspired to success by the teachings of his country-school m'am.

The cast is splendid, led by that charming actress, Barbara Stanwyck. Of the many supporting performance we're inclined to be partial to those of Earle Foxe, Alah Hale, Dorothy Peterson, Dick Winslow, Dickie Moore, Hardie Albright and George Brent.

Mrs. Spencer Has Arm Broken Sunday

Mrs. M. E. Spencer, who was attending baccalaureate services at the State Teachers College Sunday evening, tripped on the steps in such a way as to fall and break the bones in her left wrist. She was going up the steps with a group of friends, and missed the step into the auditorium, throwing her forward. The break was attended at once. Mrs. Spencer had gone to the exercises as her son, Douglas, is one of the graduates from the college this year.

Will Leave In June To Visit Sweden

Miss Edna Swanson who has been employed at the Oscar L. Imm home in Silver Creek, Neb., plans to come home May 28 and she and her father, Louis Swanson of near Concord, will leave June 1 for Sweden for an indefinite stay. They will be accompanied by Mr. Youngdahl of Osceola, who will spend the summer in Sweden. The Swansons plan to stay longer. The party sails from New York June 4 on the Kungsholm.

Prof. and Mrs. J. Q. Owen and daughters and Miss Olga Klenderud went to Obert Thursday evening, Prof. Owen delivering the high school commencement to a large audience. Miss Klenderud, who finished high school at Obert in February and who is a student here now, was class valedictorian.

City Lights Up All Its Corners With Electricity

After glimpsing the electric light and power plant Thursday, Wayne citizens were impressed with the size of Wayne's municipal business. The clerk's report for this year states that the city has about 680 residence light consumers and 162 commercial users of electric light, making a total of 842 users.

There are 170 street lights within the city limits, and the white way illumination includes 74 electroliers, which make a twinkling path of light as one approaches the town from north or south.

Power consumers number 44 at the present time, and there are eight commercial users of heat. The city lights both the library and the city hall, the first at a cost of $59.80 per year and the latter at a cost of $184.65 per year.

Last year, the cost of illuminating the streets mounted to $5,321.11 for current, and $227.87 for bulbs, globes and miscellaneous supplies, bringing the entire cost to $5,548.98.

Home. Neb.—Vincent Nelson, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson, escaped death in flames when he leaped from the upper door of a barn to the ground when their barn burned. The lad was uninjured.

Eric Barnett, hired man, received injuries when he attempted to lead horses from the roaring furnace, in which three horses perished.

Fun and Work. Omaha Journal-Stockman: It's funny what a little good, old fashioned fun will do to make a fellow forget his troubles, including the depression.

Last week the men who labor on the Omaha sheep market held a barbeque and fun fest down on the Platte river. They played ball, pitched horseshoes, "kidded" each other, and had a good time in general. After it was over, at least half a dozen of them declared that they had experienced the proverbial grand and glorious feeling for the first time in months.

Shop talk was taboo. Everyone was there to enjoy himself and no one cared to be serious.

All of which may mean nothing to the readers of this column unless it suggests that it would be good for them to once in a while forget that they are men and women and get out and romp occasionally as boys and girls.

Fortunately that prices are low, and a budget that needs balancing. Get out and mix with your fellowmen at every opportunity. If you do, we'll guarantee that when the fun is over, you'll have a greater zest for your work, and that your worries will be minimized. After all, it's strange how your problems will yield to an atmosphere of cheerfulness, and how a little fun will change your attitude to one of optimism.

Ethical Side of the Depression. Omaha Journal-Stockman: Some years ago the dollar-drunk people of this country merely snickered when Calvin Coolidge suggested that America's great need was spiritual renovation. He saw breakers ahead when materialism was permitted to dethrone religion. We were reminded of his warning when the following statement was read in a letter received from one of our farm women readers:

"I happened to be in a group of farmers recently who vied with each other in telling tales of the money they had lost last winter. They got a tremendous amount of fun out of the telling, which should be a healthy sign. At the same time, there have been two farmer suicides near here in the last two weeks; one in this community, one in an adjoining neighborhood. Sometimes it seems to be that the whole situation is a mental one. Granted there were serious causes which produced serious economic results, yet if the thing had been met with the right psychology at the right time, I doubt if conditions would have reached their present status. People have acted like scared sheep. Of course, there was plenty of cause for fear; but there ought to be a good shepherd somewhere in the offing. I'm no cvangelist, but I believe the spiritual factor is of far more importance than the financial; and more over, I wonder if a spiritual renaissance would not be followed by financial recovery."

If it is true that fear has no place in true religion, and we think it is, then her last statement has great significance. For the great trouble with us today is that practically everybody is scared of what the future holds. Certain it is that we can't throw away sound religious principles and expect to endure as a civilization worth the having.

So far, the efforts to sock government office holders seem to be bootless.—Arkansas Gazette.

Spring Menus To Tempt Appetites

Salads Combine With Piping Hot Dishes To Interest Diners In Food.

Now that the school year is over almost everywhere, spring house-cleaning is done, and summer has begun, the housewife's problems of tempting languid appetites are more serious than ever. The first warm days have a way of compelling a state of real distaste in boiled potatoes, pot roasts of beef and substantial bread puddings. Appetites become skittish, and must be lured to the table with delectable tribes.

When you gather your family around the table for an evening meal, get out the brightest linens, the coolest looking china and glass ware, and serve your meal as quickly and easily as possible. Plan to have something cool, at least one hot dish, and a frothy dessert. One such supper might begin with small glasses of chilled tomato juice, served with cheese crackers or plain soda crackers. The main dish of the meal could be a casserole of scalloped potatoes in which slices of smoked ham had been baked. Make scalloped potatoes in the usual way, alternating layers of the ham and potatoes, and covering all with cream or milk and butter. Bake and serve piping hot.

A spring salad of tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes, green onions and French dressing would be savory. Serve hot rolls, which can be purchased downtown and heated quickly in the oven at the last minute in order to spare the cook long hours of work.

With coffee, a sherbet and small cakes, the meal should be sufficient, for no one could ask for more.

Apricot Glaze.
1 cake cream cheese
1-2 cup quince or apple jelly
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon gelatine
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup whipped cream
Dissolve 1 tablespoon gelatine in 1-4 cup cold water, then place cup in hot water to melt gelatine. Rub a cake of cream cheese to a smooth consistency, add jelly and lemon juice. Season slightly with salt, fold in a cup of stiffly whipped cream, then the gelatine. Place in refrigerator until solid. Serve each person with three apricot halves filled with the mixture. Serves six to eight persons.

Fancy Sandwiches.
If you like fancy sandwiches, here are some fillings that seem to be adapted to the diamonds, hearts and triangles into which you will cut them to serve at your next party.

Mix one package of cream cheese, two tablespoons chopped nuts, two tablespoons drained crushed pineapple and a few grains of salt. Spread on thinly sliced buttered bread. Remove the crusts from the bread and cut the sandwiches into fancy shapes, using a special cutter.

For "different" chicken sandwiches, combine two cups of chopped cooked chicken with half a cup of mayonnaise dressing, two stalks of celery, chopped, 1-4 cup shelled walnuts and a hard boiled egg, chopped fine. Mix the ingredients well, using enough dressing to make a moist mixture, and spread between buttered slices of white bread.

Deviled sardine sandwiches will appeal to you if you like things highly seasoned. Use one can of sardines prepared in mustard sauce. Dip the sardines in Worcestershire sauce, cover with melted butter and place on slices of toast in a hot oven. Let heat through thoroughly and serve very hot.

Ham and pimento sandwiches are filling. To make them, use a cup of cooked ham which has been ground fine. Add to it the following ingredients: 1 tablespoon minced pimento, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, 1-4 teaspoon mustard and 2 tablespoons cream. Mix the ingredients well, season to taste, and spread on buttered rye bread with leaf lettuce between each slice.

Vegetable Salads.
The following combinations for tasty vegetable salads were worked out by the home economists at the University of Nebraska. Try some of these salads on the next warm evening when you "can't think what to serve for supper."
Spring salad: Combine sliced tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, quartered radishes and chopped green onions. French dressing.

Cabbage salad: Mix a cup of shredded cabbage with half a cup of diced celery, half a cup of cooked peas, one hard boiled egg, sliced. Season with a small slice of onion.
Tato salad: For this salad, use 1-2 cups of boiled potatoes cut in small cubes, and seasoned with half a cup of chopped celery, one hardboiled egg, a slice of onion or a teaspoon of finely minced parsley. Mix with any good dressing.

Cream Jelly With Strawberries.
1 tablespoon gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
2-4 cups coffee cream
1-3 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
Soak gelatine in cold water. Heat one cup of cream, sugar and salt until scalded. Dissolve gelatine in hot cream. Combine with remaining cream and vanilla. Set in ice box and stir occasionally to prevent the cream from rising to the top. When the mixture reaches a jellylike consistency, reach sweetened strawberries over it. This recipe will serve six persons.

Spaghetti, Tomato and Bacon.
1-2 cup diced onion
1-4 cup diced onion
1-4 teaspoon flour
1 pint tomatoes
1-4 teaspoon sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked spaghetti (one cup uncooked)
Saute bacon and onion until the fat is fried out of the bacon and the onion is tender but not brown. Add the flour, stir well, then add tomatoes and seasonings. Simmer a short time, combine with spaghetti and cook until the tomato is partially absorbed. This recipe will serve six persons.

Sponge Cakes with Strawberry Marshmallows.
1 pint stemmed strawberries
1 cup marshmallow mixture
4 individual sponge cakes baked in muffin tins
1-2 cups unsweetened whipped cream (3-4 cup unwhipped)
Cut the large berries in half lengthwise and combine with the marshmallow, the recipe for which is given below. Let stand in refrigerator at least an hour, stirring from time to time. Put the mixture between the cakes and on top, garnishing with whipped cream.

To make the marshmallow, combine these ingredients:
1 teaspoon gelatine
1-2 cup cold water
2-3 cup sugar
1-2 cup white corn syrup
1-8 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup water
2 egg whites
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
Soak the gelatine in cold water. Boil the remaining ingredients, with the exception of the egg whites and vanilla, to 245 degrees F., or until the syrup forms a firm ball in cold water. Stir the gelatine into the syrup. Remove from fire. Add slowly at first to egg whites, beaten quite stiff, then in larger amounts. Add vanilla and beat until thoroughly combined. This mixture will not grain, will keep indefinitely, and makes one pint of marshmallow.

Amelia Earhart, who made a flight across the Atlantic successfully the other day, is the wife of George Putnam, New York publisher, and the mother of two children, one three years old and the other nine months. Her first act on landing in an Irish field was to seek a telephone and call her husband to say, "I did it!"

Early Days In Wayne County
(Taken from the Herald files for May 25, 1916)
Graduates of the 1916 graduating class at the Wayne high school were the following: Frederick L. Ash, Helena C. Baker, E. Harold Croghan, Irene M. Carpenter, Genevieve C. Dorsett, Nita E. Foster, Florence L. Gardner, Anna R. Graenquist, Julius H. Hurstad, Dorothy H. Muse, Olive M. Muse, Ralph S. Ingham, Ruth M. Ingham, Victoria Jenik, Elizabeth Mines, Grace I. Nettleton, Frances O. Oman, LeRoy D. Owen, Ward M. Randol, Albert W. Watson, Edith L. White, Minnie L. Will. A. R. Davis presented the diplomas on behalf of the school board, and Supt. O. R. Bowen talked.
Rain fell on Savidge's shows on their opening day in 1916. The aerial artists were not able to come to Wayne until the closing day of the engagement, and the ostriches were late in getting here, also. Ed Ellis was in charge of it.
All About Journalism.
From the Wayne Herald in 1916, before the days of Nebraska university journalists on the staff: "The editor of the Norfolk Daily News had recent opportunity of comparing the teaching of journalism in the University of Nebraska, with that in the University of Kansas, having been invited to talk on newspaper service to classes in both institutions, and returning home, he took a position in favor of more extended devotion to the subject by this state. He contends that the influence and power of the press warrant highest training on the part of those engaged in the work. Other states have well established and growing schools of journalism, and if efforts are justified by results elsewhere, it would seem Nebraska should not lag. If journalism has been found worth while in other states, it should be deemed of sufficient importance to command due consideration here. The Herald would like to see the Nebraska university give journalism the attention it needs and deserves."

From the Logan Valley Herald, May 18, 1883: "On May 8, a great council was held on the Indian reservation known as the Omaha agency. The chief men of the tribe finally signed a document agreeing to sell 50,000 acres of their reservation."
From the Ponca Journal for June 1, 1882: "The West Point Progress states that about two weeks before the death of the late celebrated and much lamented Jesse James, that genial murderer was at West Point with his brother, Frank James. They stayed for the day. From exchanges we learn that at about the same time (probably the same day) those noted citizens of Missouri were seen in different parts of the state. Thus, they were at Lincoln, at Central City, at Omaha and also at Sidney."
Wayne county farmers were given short paragraphs in the 1916 Herald. Those whose names appear following: L. S. Johnson, Charles Lessman, J. W. Jinsted, S. E. Soderberg, Elmer Boeckenhauer, Fred W. Meyer, Gus Hermann, L. Koogner, G. W. Packer, Peter Miller, Wallace Ring, J. A. Dahlgrun, T. M. Gustafson, Will A. Meyer, E. C. Gamble, Tom and Joseph Baird, C. E. Nelson, Lloyd Gilderseve, E. L. Jones, M. C. Lower, J. D. Luers, Fred Wrobel, William Malmberg and Peter Nelson.
A sample of the write-ups was the following which concerned M. C. Lower: "From a piece of raw prairie purchased in 1883 at $10 per acre to a well improved, highly cultivated farm is quite a transformation, but the same has been accomplished by M. C. Lower on the quarter section of land two and one-quarter miles east and one half mile south of Wayne. He is also the owner of 720 acres of South Dakota land. The improvements consist of a ten-room house, and barn 40x50 feet with a basement 20x40 feet and other necessary additions to house the live stock and machinery. An excellent grove completes the picture of a comfortable farm home. There are 50 acres in corn, 40 of oats, 16 in alfalfa, 24 acres in clover and timothy and 30 acres in pasture and grove. He has marketed 45 head of hogs and has had good luck with spring pigs. Grain and hogs are the main sources of income, but considerable attention has been devoted to the making of butter which is sold to special customers at 30 cents per pound the year through."

"So many gods, so many creeds, So many paths that wind and wind;
"When just the art of being kind, Is all this old earth needs."
These words by Ella Wheeler Wilcox contain more tons per letter than volumes and volumes of books. Without kindness life would become bereft of the beneficent influences which soothe the minds and hearts of men and women. Without kindness, human life would drift more quickly into selfishness. Without kindness, all religion would become nothing but ritual, beliefs and organization. Kindness is a form of love, and love fulfills the law of God, the second great commandment, the loving of our neighbor. Henry Drummond said, "The greatest thing a man can do for his heavenly Father is to be kind to some of his other children."
Reader of these lines, is there some one you can visit and comfort? Is there a sick person you can see? Is there a loved one you can write to? Is there a friend you can remember? Well, dear reader, now is the time to obey that fine impulse and do it today. Don't wait until it's too late. "I always wanted to call on her," is what I heard a lady say one day some years ago. "But it was too late," and the memory of that woman's statement is good to pass on. Do you agree? Let us write that letter, speak that word, make that visit, and do it today, today, I repeat, today.

Schwab, the Optimist.
Omaha World-Herald: This is the way Charles M. Schwab puts it: "I am still an optimist, even amid present conditions. I continue to have hope and belief in our future, because I have lived so long and have seen our people work their way out of so many trying situations. In this country we have great resources and a great heritage. We are all of pioneer blood, whether recently or generations back. The pioneer spirit is daring, devout, and industrious. Such a combination cannot be permanently downed. Not fearing the future, ready to face every issue, and determined to fight for what we believe, we are on the path toward equilibrium."
The strange thing about this is not that Schwab says it and believes it, but that there should be occasion for him or anyone else to say it, or that anyone should doubt it. That our country, its resources and its people, constitute "a combination that cannot permanently be downed" seems so obvious a truism that there should be no more reason for Schwab's proclaiming it, or President Hoover proclaiming it, than for their declaring that two and two make four.
Nevertheless there are too many who are dubious about its truth now, as there have been during various periods of stress in the past. Repeatedly faint hearts have lost faith. Repeatedly they have thought they saw the great republic and all its works headed for the dump heap. It was so when the nation was in its birth throes. It was so in its early youth, in its early maturity, and during and before and following the civil war. They could see no ray of hope in the sky. Chaos and the black eternal night were inevitable. Always they have been wrong, ridiculously wrong. And always the faint hearts have paid the price of their folly, while courage and energy and faith have been crowned with rich rewards.
"The only thing we learn from the past," some wise man has said,

"is that we learn nothing from the past." And the attested fact is no tribute to human wisdom. Each generation faces its troubles as if such troubles had never been known before, never endured and surmounted. There is something strange in this, that has to do with what the psychologists call the "mob mind." The units that make up an excited crowd may be, and are, capable of thinking, and reasoning, and of self-control a unit. But combined into a mob they can easily lose the qualities, and powers that distinguish them as individuals, become irresponsible, and be ruled by their fears and emotions rather than by thought and judgment.
The chief present need of the country is for the ascendancy of the rational and informed individual mind over the timid and fearful mob mind. Unless he whispers it is whispered to too much the average citizen realizes, as well as Charley Schwab realizes, that this nation is bigger than the depression that has made it sick, and that it isn't going to die of fever and ague. He knows that serious ailments its country has the strength and resources and reserves to overcome them. But he makes a common currency of his fears rather than of his reason and his faith, and by doing so retards the natural curative processes. He weakens, too, the efficacy of the strong measures government has invoked to hasten the recovery.
Yes, it is true Schwab has "always been an optimist." But he has the better of that argument. His optimism has proved itself. It gave him the faith and the courage that enabled him to rise from the bottom to the heights. Without a sane optimism no man ever gets anywhere or accomplishes anything.
The United States will be well on the way to a rapid recovery just as soon as the confidence that Schwab has in it and in its people is generally shared. For then the tight wads will open up. The hoarders will release their money to do useful work. The strong will put their shoulders to the wheel. The men of vision will give a fresh impetus to enterprise. And we shall all be working hard as before and wondering why on earth we didn't "come out of it" sooner.
Nero may have fiddled while Rome burned, but he didn't play peanut politics while his nation lost its markets.—Sherbrooke (Que.) Record.
It is stated by no less than Ogden Mills that capital in the hands of a few men is much more productive than in the hands of countless thousands. Our situation, therefore, is practically perfect.—The New Yorker.
A press dispatch states that at a convention of educators "no" was voted the most useful word in the language. We feel sure that there's a mistake somewhere. That must have been a convention of bankers.—Atlanta Constitution.
Among the things you can't do legally in New York, according to the U. P., is duel with swords or dance in public on a stretched wire. As regards this latter, Mayor Walker must be reminded that ignorance of the law is no excuse.—Detroit News.

War Debts.

(Lincoln Journal)

This country loaned billions to foreign countries during the war. The war ended. There was much discussion of debts. Finally agreement as to settlement was made, this country practically forgiving debtors if they would pay interest on the principal for a period of six decades or so. That looked like a settlement that would be approved by the debtor nations and one that should place in their good graces the creditor nation.

It didn't work out that way. Those who owed us wanted the interest forgiven as well as the principal. Because many on this side of the Atlantic opposed such a donation this country was named Uncle Shylock, was given the reputation of driving hard bargain with helpless peoples.

Our trade balances were affected. We began to lose foreign trade. Our agricultural products and our world demand. It was alleged that this country was draining the world of money and that our tariff laws discriminated against foreign made goods. We were told that unless we bought we could not sell. If we bought foreign products we sustained loss at home. Business declined. We have reached the present level of low prices for everything produced here that world markets might demand. Only the price of government has remained at anything like war levels.

Tariff walls have been raised against us and this country is now facing a serious economic war that has seemingly just begun. We are told that there are many ways out. Every statesman, every industrial and agricultural leader has one of his own, but not one of them seems adequate.

Now the demand is made that war debt be cancelled. We are told that this will aid economic recovery because war debts cannot be paid. They present serious obstacle to economic recovery. Many in this country advocate cancellation. We loaned money, gave credit and lost customers. So long as we insist that those who borrowed money from us must repay they will buy elsewhere. They will not trade with a nation that insists on collecting its loans. We seem to be in high disfavor. They might continue to buy elsewhere if war debts were cancelled.

People who go to Washington to agitate believe in doing their kicking at the seat of the Government. Judge.

"Some men earn large incomes by writing original stories for the screen," says a film critic. "The time may come when some of those stories will be used.—The Humorist.

Mussolini proposes that the world really disarm and that the United States cancel the war debts. He is probably 100 per cent sincere about the debts.—San Diego Union.

Al Capone is in Atlanta, Ralph Capone is on McNeill's Island, and Jack Gutzik, Frank Gzik, Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake are in Leavenworth. Doesn't it beat everything how the old gang eventually gets scattered?—Nashville Banner.

H. D. DONELSON
"Prescription Specialist"

Phone 40 Wakefield, Nebraska
Few people realize the splendid service rendered by their Druggist and the many hours of service available when your need is the greatest. Show your appreciation by trying your Druggist first. Donelson's drug store carries a complete stock of drugs and sundries, stationery and cigars, and all the other thousands of articles that you would expect to find in a first class drug store. Your druggist carries more individual items than any other mercantile establishment. While many articles carried by Mr. Donelson are very seldom used, he stocks these items so that you may have access to them at a time when your need is greatest. Few people really appreciate the long hours and untiring efforts and care that your druggist must put in, in order to give you adequate service. Mr. Donelson is equipped to give you prompt and efficient service, and prescription work is his specialty. Great care being taken with each individual prescription. Every prescription is compounded from the purest drugs the market affords. Why not try the drug store first? Patronage will be appreciated and prompt service rendered.
You will find that Mr. Donelson cooperates with your physician and dentist in every possible way and is at your service three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. Try this drug store when you are in Wakefield, and you will appreciate the clean, quick, courteous service rendered.

J. ANDREW JENSEN
SELECT GROCERIES AND MEATS
"Andrew Cuts The Price With Every Slice"
LAUREL, NEBRASKA

Andrew opened his store in Laurel in 1911, Jan. 1st, and did a thriving business until he sold out in 1919 and visited the land of his birth in August, 1920, and returned in February, and lived at Rock Rapids two years. He then located at Belden, where he has been actively engaged in business for nearly ten years. But he will open a fine up-to-date, grocery and meat market at Laurel in the building now occupied by the Sherman Bros., and he expects to be ready for business by June 15. A hearty welcome awaits old and new customers.
J. Andrew Jensen has served the people of Belden and Laurel and vicinity long and faithfully and has always given good values in merchandise.
Mr. Jensen believes the best is none too good for his customers in food. He always carries a high grade line of groceries, fruits and vegetables.
Jensen's customers inform us that he gives greater value than merchants in larger towns, who have a big overhead operating expense. He takes a personal interest in each customer, regardless of the sizes of the purchase. In fact, trading with him is just like a family affair. He is constantly on the lookout for the best values in quality groceries and general merchandise and his experience enables him to discriminate real values. Congratulations to Mr. Jensen. We predict a bright future to the Jensen Store of Laurel.
Possibly you know that you want to eat, but do you know where to buy your foodstuffs to the best advantage? Do you know where you can always get the best quality, the freshest and most wholesome food?
