RECORD-BREAKING REGISTRATION AT SCHOOL PROMISED

PRELIMINARY steps that have been taken by students indicate that the summer session of the State Teachers College which opens next week, will have the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. Registration will start Saturday and continue over Monday, and the school will be going under a full head of steam on Tuesday. Many of the students will be those who have taught during the year, and who are coming here to work for higher degrees and better preparation. Teachers are required to meet higher standards, and the college offers the way. The rule of courtesy on the part of the town to the visiting students will be fully maintained. As customary through the year, the Herald will supply the school with copies each week as a means of fashioning ties of friendship between the city and the student body.

DEAN HENZLIK IS COMMENCEMENT ORATOR TUESDAY

Thirtyseven Students In Group Which Completes Public School Work.

MACHINE AGE CHALLENGE

Modern youth is challenged constantly, said Dr. F. E. Henzlik, dean of the State Teachers College at Lincoln in his commencement address given to public school seniors at the Methodist church Tuesday evening. The great challenge named by the speaker was that of the machine age.

Dr. Henzlik began his talk with a discussion of the development of the machine age, telling first of the simple machines used by prehistoric man. The climb, he showed, has been from the caveman's simple application of the laws of mechanics to the very complex modern system now in use.

Social Life Complex. The complexities of modern social life, Dean Henzlik believes, have been aggravated by the development of the machine age. Modern machinery has created for modern man, he pointed out, a jungle as dangerous and as primitive as was the jungle to primitive man.

In primitive times, he went on, the caveman could go into the jungle for food and other necessities. Although he was able to get these things from the wilderness, he also ran the risk of being destroyed while on his trek. So it is, said the speaker, with modern man. He goes into the jungle of the modern machine-created world to get food, clothing, housing. But he, like his primitive ancestor, runs the risk of being destroyed by the jungle, in his case, a machine-made one.

Modern Men Slaves. In other words, Dr. Henzlik explained, machinery is man's slave, but man is also slave to the machine. Everything in modern existence is made or influenced by mechanics. The house in which we live, the clothing we wear, the food we eat, practically everything we contact is machine-made and machine distributed.

Most serious of all, the speaker argued, is the effect of the machine age on the permanent expressions of our civilization. Jazz music, he thinks, is a distinct expression of the machine age. Several modernistic types of art are similar outgrowths of the period. Even our government, our system of jurisprudence and our methods of meeting problems are typical of the machine age, stated Dr. Henzlik.

It is in correction of these evils, the dean told young people, that a special effort must be made to overcome the ill effects of mechanization. The many good effects of (Continued on Page Three)

CITY PARK WILL BE SUPERVISED DURING SUMMER

Place New Stop Signs In Strategic Points Over City Street System.

TALK OF IMPROVEMENTS

With June weather bursting on the community so pleasantly Wednesday morning, it was appropriate that the city council should have made arrangements Tuesday evening for the summer care of the park. The park committee recommended to councilmen that R. T. Whorlow should be appointed to look after the park during the summer months, and the council approved this proposal. Miss Helen Swanson and Miss Gladys Vath were named to supervise the children's play. Each supervisor will take the work for a period of 15 days, alternating during the summer season. Any child may come to the park to play, and is assured of wholesome entertainment under the direction of these two young women.

Place New Stop Signs. Motorists will have to stop more frequently than ever, city councilmen warn, for a series of stop signs has been added to the city equipment. The new markers are being placed in dangerous spots, and will protect entrances to streets on which traffic is especially heavy.

Two reports were heard by the council Tuesday evening. The first, the statement of the finance committee, was read by City Clerk Walter S. Bressler, and approved by the group. The second, the library report prepared by Mrs. Ida Blair, librarian, was also accepted.

The State National and First National Banks were named as depositories for the city funds, and the bonds of the two banks were accepted.

Talk of Incineration. Incinerator burning of trash was discussed at some length by members of the council. When trash is burned in the alleys, it was reported, the ashes and smoke create a nuisance. On the other hand, trash cannot be burned at the city dump successfully. Therefore, councilmen are investigating the possibility of building a city incinerator, or of requiring each group of merchants to construct simple burners in the down town alleys. The matter will be settled at a later meeting.

The appointment of Hans Sundahl as street commissioner was approved by the council Tuesday evening.

Must License Dogs. Dogs must be licensed, insist Wayne council members. Whereas a total of 70 dogs was reported to the tax assessor, only 22 persons have paid taxes on their dogs, and a large number remain untaxed. Last year, 64 persons paid dog taxes. One more warning is being given. If taxes are not paid on this warning, the dogs will be done away with.

A variety of possible improvements for the city was discussed at the meeting. The water committee has under consideration the construction of a water pipe line in the direction of property in the four grounds neighborhood. Lynn McClure and Ross Jacobs appeared before the body Tuesday evening to seek this provision.

Summer Period Will Open Soon

State College Attendance Will Be Large This Year It Is Estimated.

Wayne State Teachers College summer session opens next week and inquiries indicate that the enrollment will reach about 3,000, the number registered last summer. Twelve weeks of work will be offered. The second six-week period will be completed in five weeks by teaching Saturdays and taking no time for registration.

Students will begin registering Saturday morning at 10:30 and the enrolling will continue through Monday. Class work starts Tuesday.

Prof. A. F. Gulliver will instruct in the college education work for the 12 weeks. Miss Lettie Scott will teach the first six weeks. Prof. F. G. Dale who attends the state university in Lincoln the first period, will have charge of geography work for the second term. Mrs. H. D. Griffin will teach three classes in education. Myron Brockway of Glenwood Springs, Colo., will instruct in band.

Strickland Gillilan, humorist, speaks at the college Wednesday, June 8.

Young Folks Here Wed This Thursday

Miss Nellye Spahr Becomes Bride Of Richard Kyl In West Point.

Miss Nellye M. Spahr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spahr of Wayne, was united in marriage with Mr. Richard R. Kyl, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kyl, also of Wayne, on Thursday, June 2, this also being the wedding anniversary of the bride's parents and sister and husband. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed in West Point at the English Lutheran parsonage by Rev. W. A. Klink.

The bride wore a dress of queen blue flat crepe trimmed in eggshell color lace, with accessories to match. The bridegroom was attired in a suit of light grey.

After the ceremony the bridal couple left for a short wedding trip.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kyl are well-known young people here. The bride has grown to womanhood in Wayne county. Both have attended the Wayne State Teachers college and received their B. A. degrees there in 1931.

The bride has been a successful teacher of English and Latin in the Dixon high school for the past two years. Mr. Kyl has been an instructor of manual arts in the West Point public schools for the past two years. He will return to West Point in September, at which time he and Mrs. Kyl will be at home to their many friends.

Good Samaritans Assume Hospital

Chain Organization Takes Over The Management Of Institution Here.

The Good Samaritan society, organization which owns several hospitals and homes in the middle west, took over the Wayne hospital Wednesday and the local institution will now be known as the Good Samaritan hospital. With the change the society established in connection with the hospital the Good Samaritan old people's home with one person already enrolled and eight others having definitely made arrangements to enter.

When the number in the old people's home reaches 10, arrangements will be made to house members of the family in a home separate from the hospital.

The hospital will be run as an open staff institution and already several doctors from other towns have been here to make arrangements for bringing patients to Wayne. The hospital will be managed by graduate nurses only as soon as arrangements can be made to transfer the student nurses. Miss Minnie Arntz of Aberdeen, S. D. will be here within a few days to be superintendent of the institution. When patients express no preference for doctors or nurses, they will be selected by rotation, giving each equal opportunity.

A. H. Amundson who has been here conducting the campaign for funds for the institution, reports gifts coming in very well. The society expects the community to give $10,000 toward the fund for the purchase. An out-of-town woman has given the largest amount so far subscribed. Gifts of money or of furnishings and conveniences for the hospital are solicited.

F. L. Blair, chairman, William Beetenhauser and M. R. Linger, together with the publicity and public affairs committees of the Kiwanis club, are assisting Mr. Amundson with raising funds. The hospital has been well established through the efforts of Dr. S. A. Lutgen and the society feels that the work done will aid greatly in giving the new institution a good start. Rev. August Hoeger of Fargo, N. D. president and general superintendent of the Good Samaritan society, was here Saturday and Sunday conferring with Mr. Amundson in regard to progress.

New low rates went into effect with the change of ownership. The Sterling, Colo., hospital recently built at a cost of $80,000, was recently donated by that city to the Good Samaritan society. Another at Jordan, Mont., was a gift.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED HERE WITH SERVICES

Rev. Harold Capsey Gives Address At Gay Theatre Monday Morning.

rites are at Cemetery

In giving the Memorial day address Monday morning at the Gay theatre, Rev. Harold C. Capsey, Methodist pastor and chaplain of the local Legion post, also former state chaplain, stated that observance of Memorial day originated in 1866 to honor memory of those who gave their lives in time of stress. The day has in late years come to mean more. It is the day on which all people honor memory of those not living. The G. A. R. should, Rev. Capsey said, have special honors as long as there remain any in their rank. There was the biggest job up to the Civil war time.

Memorial day should, Rev. Capsey said, lead persons not only to honor the dead but to give inspiration to the living. Dangers lie latent in national life. One should not seek out imaginary enemies but he should be alert to meet any dangers that are real. Communism which may be all right for Russia, is being instilled among some groups of young folks in this country. Among other things the propagandists teach disbelief in religion, disrespect for parents and for law. The country should not sit idly by and allow such ideas to be developed, the speaker said.

Attempts at world peace have been disappointing. Greatest progress toward world peace has been made in America. Legion men are not militaristic. They have seen war and all its horrors and do not want a recurrence of it. But this country cannot disarm and be unprepared, Rev. Capsey stated, while others are arming. Japan has 93 percent, Great Britain 92 percent and the United States 72 percent of the armament allowed at the London conference. Armament does not draw countries into war, the speaker asserted. Other causes start war. If all armaments were destroyed, the speaker believes, men would use clubs and stones as weapons when differences arose. There is no common sense in ignoring conditions as they are and preparing to meet them.

The Legion had its birth out of the battlefield. The major objective of the organization is helping comrades who were "broken" over there. The motto is "Service we gave and service we give." In this the Auxiliary aids by selling poppies which the disabled have made. The Legion also does great work in child welfare, scouting and true citizenship. There is no better help than the present to pledge to help in achieving international brotherhood and loyalty to one's country.

Pat Mines presided at the Memorial day program. Wayne municipal band played "America" to open the program and also played a medley of hymns. Rev. W. C. Heidenreich gave the invocation. James Davies recited the Gettysburg address. The program closed with "Star Spangled Banner" by the band.

War veterans attended in a group. A. J. Hyatt and R. P. Williams, Wayne's only Civil War veterans, had seats of honor on the platform.

The band and others went to Greenwood cemetery after the program and G. A. R. rites were conducted over the veterans' plot. Legion services were held over the grave of Carl A. W. Madsen.

Girls placed wreaths of poppies on graves of all veterans in the cemetery.

New Funeral Home Opens On Monday

Armand Hiscox To Open A Mortuary And Ambulance Service Here.

A new funeral home and ambulance service will be opened in Wayne next Monday by Armand Hiscox, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hiscox, who has been employed at Kansas City during the past two years.

Mr. Hiscox recently purchased the Dr. R. W. Casper residence at Fifth and Lincoln streets, which will be remodeled and converted into a modern mortuary, he announces.

Graduating from the Williams Institute of Embalming two years ago, Mr. Hiscox since that time has been employed by the George H. Long mortuary of Kansas City, where he obtained practical experience in his profession.

A formal opening of the new funeral home will be held as soon as remodeling is completed, the new owner stated.

AGRICULTURE IS RISING AS SOUND MEANS OF LIVING

NOTWITHSTANDING low price levels, our fundamental industry, agriculture, is attracting extraordinary favor as a desirable line of work. It is recognized that when a farmer raises a good crop, he is sure of a living even though economic conditions are terribly out of joint. Milling around in a cold-hearted city trying to find something to do to make expenses gives emphasis to the comparative independence of the fellow surrounded by growing crops and fat herds and flocks. While every venture is more or less a gamble, the need of agriculture shows off to advantage in contrast with much of the service offered but turned aside without a hearing in large centers. "So N. D. sang. The American Legion conducted a committee rites at Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. McNutt had not been well for several months. He developed quick consumption a few weeks ago and his condition grew worse rapidly. He was taken to the hospital more than a month ago. Mr. McNutt had been with her husband practically all during his illness.

Forrest Elmer McNutt was born June 8, 1890, at Lushton, Neb., and was thus aged almost 42 years. He came with his mother to Wayne in May, 1910, and had resided here since.

Deceased enlisted in the United States army May 27, 1918. He served at Camp Dodge and overseas with the 338th Field Artillery. He was honorably discharged Jan. 16, 1919, and returned to Wayne to follow his carpentry work.

Mr. McNutt married Miss Hattie L. Morton Feb. 16, 1926. Besides his wife, he leaves one daughter, Mariene June, 8 months old. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Carrie Norman, and more distant relatives.

TWO ARE HURT EARLY SUNDAY IN CAR WRECK

Ellis Miner, Jack Meister Hurt When Car Hits Concrete Culvert.

MACHINE BADLY WRECKED

When the light truck they were driving struck the abutment of a culvert five miles south of Wayne Sunday morning about 2:30, Ellis Miner and Jack Meister of Wayne, were injured, the former seriously. The car, which belonged to the Meyer & Bichel firm and which was driven by Meister, was wrecked.

Miner's injuries consist of deep cuts about the head and face, a fractured left leg, broken ribs, severe bruises and possible internal injuries. He is being cared for at the Wayne hospital where his condition is reported critical. Meister had one side bruised considerably and one knee skinned. His injuries are only minor ones and he was able to be about again after the accident.

Meister, who is employed at the Meyer & Bichel firm, took the company's light truck for a trip south of town Saturday night. Miner accompanied him. When they were returning, coming from the south, they struck the concrete post. So squarely in the center of the radiator did the crash come that the machine did not turn over. The engine and frame of the machine were wrecked.

Members of the Arthur Likes family who live near the scene of the accident and H. Koeller of Norfolk, cream truck driver, were first to arrive at the place and they brought the men into Wayne. Apparently Miner and Meister had been hurled from the car, the windshield being broken and the car door open. Meister was lying in the muddy creek bed. Miner was hanging by the back of his clothes to a barbed wire fence.

During the time the injured were being brought to Wayne and a wrecker was being sent to the scene to get the truck, three tires, the two hind ones and the spare, were taken off the truck.

School Year Closes With Special Events For Every Student

Wayne public school closed officially Wednesday when the cards were given to grade school people. High school reports are being mailed out today. Commencement, crowning event of the year for seniors, was held Tuesday evening at the Methodist church, where Dean Francis of the State Teachers College, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, was the speaker.

Rev. W. C. Heidenreich gave the baccalaureate address at the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Herbert Welch played the professional, and Rev. P. A. Davies delivered the invocation. The scripture was read by Rev. W. E. Braisted, and the girls' glee club, from the high school sang "Calm as the Night," by Behn. At the close of the service, the high school chorus sang Beethoven's "Glory of the Firmament." The benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. C. Capsey.

Grades Enjoy Picnic.
Grade school children went to the fair grounds Tuesday afternoon to enjoy the annual school picnic. Teachers in the first eight grades accompanied the children as chaperones. Games were played between 2 and 5 in the afternoon, and supper was served at the close of the afternoon.

Dismissal School Late.
Although the dismissal date was later this year than usual, the children were kept in school only long enough to satisfy the North Central Association requirement which states that member schools must have 180 days of school each year.

Three Success Rules.
Three rules for a successful life were given Sunday evening by Rev. Heidenreich as he talked to the young graduates. He chose three texts, which were as follows: Second Timothy, 1:8: "Sit in the gift of God that is within thee." Second Timothy, 2:5: "If a man also strive for mastery yet is he not crowned, he shall strive lawfully." Second Timothy 2:15: "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

These rules, said the speaker, endure the individual to know himself, to stir his gifts, and to make that kind of success which can have divine approval.

Hold Class Day.
Monday evening was given over to class day exercises at the school house. The program opened with a reading by Margaret Phillips, and a class history presented by Fern Crawford.

An entertaining skit was presented by members of the senior class who imitated a faculty meeting. The first act was a faculty meeting of 1932, and the second act was a meeting of the same group ten years later.

The play cast was as follows: Mr. Best, Murray Powers; Miss Ann Giesler, Louise Boeckenhauer; Gayle Childs, Luther Einung; Miss Arline Urban, Margaret Phillips; W. A. Behl, Vernon Kay; Miss Mildred Clark, Irene Dammie; R. K. Holder, William Mellor; Miss Verna O'Neill, Charlene Brown; Miss Helen O'Neill, Truma Prescott.

Read Class Prophecy.
A prophecy concerning members of the class of 1932 was read by Lloyd Eckleben. Clayton Powers read the class will, in which various traits of members of the class were bequeathed to members of the "lower classes." The class key was presented to the high school by Stanley Davis, who also presided over the presenting of the class picture. Closing the program was music by the high school mixed quartet, which includes Charlene Brown, Isabel Hansen, Ronald Young and Lloyd Eckleben.

ATHLETES THROUGHOUT COUNTRY TRAINING FOR THE OLYMPIC GAMES

All over the country, in colleges and athletic clubs, American athletes are in training for the Olympic games to be held at Los Angeles during July and August. Probably many new records will be established.

WITH the coming of the Olympic Games in Los Angeles in July and August, more and more attention is being paid to diets by athletes and track and field trainers. Athletic coaches are pretty much agreed that increased knowledge about food values and improved training conditions has had much to do with the constant breaking of athletic records down through the years.

Take a look at one of the records to see how it has been bettered and time again. Back in 1876 H. Lambe, of the Argonaut Boat Club of Toronto, ran a mile in 4 min. 51.1-5 seconds. In those days that time was regarded as pretty good. But the time was bettered the year again in 1879 and in 1880. In 1887 E. C. Carter, of the New York Athletic Club, ran the distance in 4 minutes 30 seconds.

The time was bettered the very next year, and in the following thirty years it was lowered seven times. Then on August 23, 1923, Pavo Nurmi of Finland, competing in Sweden, ran a mile in 4 minutes 10 and 2-5 seconds. That time was accepted as a world's record.

But a few weeks ago in New York at Madison Square Garden, young Gene Venzke, of the New York Athletic Club, ran the mile in 4 minutes 10 seconds.

An athlete in training lives under special conditions. In daily practice and competition he expends an unusual and enormous amount of energy. This means, usually, a heavy protein diet—meat, eggs and beans, to give strength and to harden muscle. But often the excess of protein encourages constipation, and in time causes digestive disturbance with attendant boils and general incapacitation. Trainers and physical directors always had to face this possibility. Many of them are solving the problem by adding fresh yeast to their diet.

That fresh yeast is remarkably effective for certain common ailments, medicinal men have known for many years. In the case of athletes it has been found that a few yeast cakes, eaten regularly every day, supply the balance in diet they need. It keeps the intestinal tract clean, banishes constipation and aids digestion, preventing boils and skin disorders.

Twister Nearby Results In Loss

Buildings Are Wrecked In Vicinity Of Altona And At Other Points.

The storm which was general in Nebraska Wednesday evening last week, assumed proportions of a twister in some sections and did considerable damage. Losses are reported in Altona vicinity and some at Winside. Many trees were broken and some were uprooted in Pilger and Altona vicinities. Telephone lines were damaged considerably, a number of poles being taken down. Some large buildings collapsed on farms, and many chicken houses and other small buildings were blown over. Some windmills came down. Rain, which registered an inch and a third at Wayne, filled Logan creek south of here to overflowing Thursday morning and for a few hours the stream was about a quarter mile wide.

The wind seems to have vent its greatest fury in territory a few miles north of the Elkhorn. Damage is found north of Stanton and Pilger, the greatest losses being about four miles north of the latter place. Near Pilger the storm seemed to move north and east and raised a little east of Altona.

Two barns on the Ed Roggenbach farm southwest of Altona were demolished by the wind. The buildings were torn in pieces and were scattered about. Four milch cows which were in one of the barns were killed when the structure collapsed. Several head of hogs were also killed by the falling timbers. Trees were uprooted and other smaller damage done. The Roggenbachs carried no insurance to protect their loss. They do not plan to rebuild the barns at present.

On the farm of Peter Hansen, south of Altona, the wind also did considerable damage. A hog house, corn crib and machine shed were torn down and pieces of timber scattered for a long distance. A few windows in the residence were blown in. One barn door was blown with great force against the house. Parts of the hog house and corn crib were found north of their former location, and the machine shed was blown east. Mr. Hansen lost no stock.

Half of the roof was torn from the Leo Reinhold barn which is southwest of Altona. All other buildings on the farm excepting the garage were blown down. The windmill was turned over.

Besides the Reinhold farm, the places of Mrs. Herman Koehlmoss, George Daum and Mrs. Coney were in a section which suffered much from the storm. The barn was wrecked on the Koehlmoss farm, and smaller buildings on the Coney place. Similar damage was done on the Daum farm.

The roof was taken off the hog house at the Paul Spitzberg farm near Altona. Trees were uprooted. Five big trees were taken down on the Frank Schultz farm near Altona. On the Henry Plueger farm a mile south of Altona a hog shed was blown down and the roof taken off the machine shed.

In the Carl Schermeier home six windows were broken. Shingles were torn off the house, and several small buildings were wrecked. Part of the loss was insured.

A framework for a new culvert south of Wayne a few miles was washed away, also the sand and cement which were to be used in the construction.

Farm Is Demolished.
Mr. and Mrs. Herminette Ritz of northwest of Pilger were victims of last week Wednesday evening's twister which tore their farm buildings to pieces, leaving only the house. The house, the oldest building on the farm, was scarcely touched by the wild wind, which took off only a porch and a chimney. The barn, which was fairly new, was demolished and will have to be rebuilt entirely. A tile con-

Bigger Rainfall Betters Outlook

Weather Observer Finds Rainy Weather Thought Encouraging Sign.

More rain and warmer weather have made May, 1932, a better month than was May, 1931; states C. W. Long, weather observer at Wakefield. He adds that the outlook makes even the observer feel better about prospects in general.

Last summer began with the scant background of 1.98 inches of precipitation during the month of May. This summer is beginning with a May rainfall that totals a generous 4.27 inches of rain. The land seems to be in excellent condition, and even where pessimism was the fashion, people seem to be anticipating a good crop and better times.

For all that so much rain fell during May, 1932, there were only 2 really cloudy days and 11 that were partly clear. In May of last year, there were seven cloudy days and seven that were partly clear.

The complete weather report, as compiled by Mr. Long, is as follows:

May	1931	1932
Mean Maximum	74.39	77.30
Mean Minimum	44.03	49.38
Mean	59.21	63.34
Minimum	26	35
Maximum	92	93
Range	42	41
Precipitation	1.98	4.27
Greatest 24 hours	.70	2.03
No. days .01 or more	6	7
Total Jan 1 to June 1	5.18	7.97
Clear	17	18
Partly clear	7	11
Cloudy	7	2

Sale Of Poppies Here Is Success

Legion Auxiliary Realizes Substantial Sum To Be For Relief Work.

The significance of Poppy day touched the hearts of Wayne people again this year, and the sale of the little red poppies by the American Legion Auxiliary on last Saturday met with splendid response.

Streets of the city were filled with citizens wearing poppies in memory of America's martyred soldiers of the World War.

From the sale the American Legion Auxiliary secured a total of $121.76, and this money will be used for welfare work among disabled service men and for the relief of families of disabled and dead veterans.

Mrs. Eric Thielman, chairman for the sale, expressed gratification for the support given the sale by people of Wayne and also to the school girls who aided in selling the poppies.

On Sunday afternoon a group of Auxiliary women gathered at the Legion rooms in the court house and made wreaths with poppies left from last year's sale. Seventy wreaths were made and were placed on graves of veterans on Memorial day by little flower girls.

City Dads THE city council proposes a progressive step to take care of waste paper and other refuse in the business district in furtherance of cleanliness and safety. It has under consideration either the erection of an incinerator at the town dump outside the corporate limits, or asking business men to build an incinerator to accommodate each quarter block. Flyinginders are not only a nuisance but they offer possibilities in the way of spreading fire. Every business house will be insured against dirt and fire hazards by the action of the council.

Another matter considered by the municipal body is the dog population. Simple facts are: Last year the city tax was paid on sixtyfour dogs, but so far this year it has been paid on only twentytwo. The assessor found seventy dogs that were considered worth assessing.

Authorities will feel duty-bound to destroy dogs on which the local tax is indefinitely postponed. There are good and bad dogs. A bad dog bearing a tax may bite or otherwise deport itself as a popular nuisance, whereas a good dog—the joy of some boy or girl—may be unable to trace ownership to any source that possesses the requisite tax money. We hope sufficient interest will be taken in children's harmless dogs by their elders to save them from slaughter. The hurried dispatch of a growling, snapping dog with no purpose beyond menacing society, would seem in order at any time. But the friendly dog—the faithful companion of childhood—the dog that will follow its master to his grave—should excite enough sympathetic consideration to have its tax paid.

Railroad Prospects EDWARD Grant Buckland, chairman of the board of the New Haven railroad, and president of the Railroad Credit corporation, is not discouraged over railroad prospects, according to a recent report. He says when general conditions right themselves in this country, the railroads, adjusted to meet new fields of competition, will be rewarded by sufficient revenues. Railroads still fill an important place, and they will come back when the country comes back.

As to the future of transportation systems, one Nebraska railroad man whose duties relate to development of traffic, thinks branch lines are a burden that ought to be wiped out. "Tear up every unproductive branch line," he says, "and the railroads will be better off." If the lines could be relieved of taxes and operating costs on branches, abandonment of rights-of-way and improvements would be justified, this railroad man thinks.

Railroad men are not slow to recognize the hopelessness of competing for passenger traffic with privately owned automobiles. The railroad's future assurance lies in long-distance travel and in freight tonnage. To these sources of revenue, it must look more and more.

A bill passed the national house last week providing for a billion-dollar bank deposit guaranty fund. The proposed measure would extend protection to state banks under certain requirements. It is generally recognized that bank failures have been painfully influential in shaking confidence and slowing up affairs, but how to proceed to establish greater insurance and greater trust, has inspired many differences of opinion. A system that absolutely safeguards deposits and at the same time prevents unnecessary multiplicity of banks, thus to insure greater strength, would seem a practical solution of one of the country's problems.

In a speech at Atlanta, Ga., recently, Governor Roosevelt, candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, says the country needs "bold experimentation," and adds: "It is common sense to take a method and try it; if it fails, admit it frankly, and try another. But above all, try something." Isn't that exactly what has been done? Isn't that one of the numerous things rival partisans have dragged forth in the hope of basis for opposition?

Touching the price of hogs, the Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman says the present low price level offers an exceptional opportunity to engage in raising pigs. "Present abnormal conditions are certain to pass, just how soon no one can say," observes that publication. "The thing to do is to take advantage of them, and the man who is looking for an opportunity to get into the live stock industry, while the getting is good, need hesitate no longer."

The great difficulty in the way of trying to balance the budget is selfish opposition to every suggestion offered. No tax proposed could fail to disturb some group. Compromise that distributes the burden and places it where it will cause the least oppression would be fair, and, if the budget is to be balanced, inevitable.

May was unseasonably cool and gratifyingly wet, and June 1 introduced weather er of a variety calculated to inspire poets. But the weather's ascent above par did not keep people from thinking about things below par. However, everything that goes above par will naturally influence other movements in the same direction, and in time everything will be above par and sailing along serenely and triumphantly. This is reasonable if not certain.

In shouting the needs of the country, the average politician deals in generalities to an extent that makes him feel safe. He doesn't really know what panacea to prescribe, and if his course is elaborately circumlocutory and perplexingly blusterly, he can bob up serenely no matter what happens.

With assurance of big crops, we have every reason to look forward to a successful county fair. Wayne county people will do well to keep the fair in mind and lend every possible assistance to make the series of events show off the county's resources to the best possible advantage.

Having Faith.

(Rear Seat, Sioux City Journal) No longer anywhere is a man's plain yes or no taken at its face value. It used to be that men could live in a community and build up faith of other men by their integrity. Today the best man in town can hardly get a dollar at a bank without putting up material securities. The banker knows all too well what a sad collapse there has been in the moral fiber of the people. So one cannot blame the banker for protecting himself.—The Observer in The Rear Seat in Sioux City Sunday Journal.

Having faith in the integrity of one's fellow man is a fine thing, but even that can be overdone. In these parts it was overdone in the late 1900s and succeeding years. Many a man was financially ruined by his banker's prodigal good nature. When he discovered all he had to do to get money was to sign his name to a note, he went into debt beyond reasonable depths. In many cases, long ago he gave up the struggle and sank to financial bottoms; in many other cases he is still puffing and spitting and flapping about in a desperate attempt to keep his head above water. As things have turned out, less faith on the part of bankers in the integrity of would-be borrowers would have been a godsend. The spirit of those times is illustrated by the story of the man who went to a bank to borrow some money and when the banker asked him how much he wanted replied, "How much have you got?" Today that same man approaches his banker with all the humility and obsequiousness of a street corner mendicant with a tin cup in his hand. And it may be just as well.

The Farmer's Mental State.

Lincoln Journal: Noting that the farmer is restive a Topeka banker, editor and expert on agriculture, writes the New York Times expressing the belief that there is danger of his being swayed by unsound financial theories. There is some basis for this belief. Restive people have been swayed by unsound theories of all kinds in the past. An uneasy and unhappy people is easily moved by alluring promises.

This Kansan labels statements regarding "a rising revolt in the farm states" as "mostly wild exaggerations." But he does say that there exists a real unrest "beneath which might be evolved a cheap money craze were it skillfully awakened."

The farmers of the middle west have, taken as a whole, been restrained. Their trial by low prices has gone on month after month with only blundering attempts at relief and small consideration from without. In spite of this ordeal the farmer has held his temper. Attempts to inflame him have failed, failed miserably. He has been busy making ends meet, balancing his personal budget, trying to meet his debts.

It is possible that the farmer will be led astray by rash and extravagant promises, by the advocates of unsound financial theories. But there is no indication of any general movement at this time. Spring work has opened up and the farmer is too busy with his fields to be bothered with talk of revolt.

And perhaps he has learned that he is just a pawn in the hands of the political agitator when he permits himself to be swayed by some wild scheme of finance.

Deflation Has Been General.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: It is nothing to brag over but it is perhaps illuminating, the official report from Wall Street, that so far this year stockholders of leading American corporations have lost an income of $1,178,735,930 in the way of decreased or omitted dividends.

There was a time when it looked as if agriculture was about the only major industry that was suffering from over-production or under-consumption but it must be clear to everyone by this time that the present depression is playing no favorites.

Since agriculture was first to feel the universal slump it is but logical to conclude that farmers and stock growers will be among the first to feel the upturn when it arrives.

Economy in Celebrating.

The Government will issue a special quarter to celebrate the Washington bicentennial. Who would have ever thought that this country would reach the point where it would celebrate anything with a quarter?—Atlanta Constitution.

Alimony is another war debt a lot of ex-husbands would like to see canceled.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

NEPOTISM.

Charges of nepotism have been lodged against enough members of the national house and senate to arouse a wave of adverse criticism. While the employment of relatives does not violate any federal statute, it does grind the sensibilities of voters to see the man elected to office lead the public payroll with members of his own family. Over in Iowa nepotism has become a campaign issue. Henry Field, proprietor of KFNH broadcasting station, and retailer of everything from spaghetti to automobile tires, is running against Senator Brookhart for the senatorial toga, and he charges that the present incumbent and his relatives—two sons, one daughter and two brothers—are on the federal payroll for $24,720 per year. Though legal, the nepotism practice is disturbing, especially so on the part of the Iowa senator who has shouted long and loud for reform. Henry Field is the father of eleven children, but if elected he says "I'll be the only Field on the payroll." With Field the senatorship will be a side line, because he can live and support his family from his supply plant. In the conflict, Senator Brookhart may decide to withdraw his relatives from the public crib for campaign purposes.

"My interest arose from a serious study of the need, values and results of such a project as the public-owned supervised playground. It will take in all of the children, promote the community welfare and provide an all-year program for the children. The supervised playground provides a supervisor, shelters juniors and adolescents during an important period of their lives, and builds up character in observance of fair play, good sportsmanship, cooperation and thereby, law-abiding citizenship. Religion, morality, citizenship are hereby expressing themselves in individual, social and national living.

Seeks Playground For All Children

Rev. W. A. Mansur, pastor of the Methodist church at Winside, believes that supervised playgrounds for children are a necessity which American parents should provide during the summer months. He contributes the following article on the subject:

"One of the greatest needs in every community in the summer time is a public owned supervised playground. The greater the social contacts, the increase of leisure, the decrease of poverty, and the enlargement of the enlightenment, the greater will be the need for playgrounds for children in the communities of the nation.

"The necessity for supervised playgrounds will be made evident in the next days when thousands and millions of America's boys and girls will be turned out of the schools for their vacation. Our school system is spending thousands and millions of dollars for buildings, facilities, equipment, methods and instruction. I believe our educational provision is doing the best work and achieving the highest results in the world for the greatest number. Further, I believe the parents, the schools, the churches and the state are doing magnificent work for the children. And I believe the children and young people are as fine a generation as has yet come upon the scene. And yet I wonder, when vacation comes, if it is the best thing to turn loose the children into various sorts of play places with no one to guide them for the long summer vacation. Suddenly we turn them out to play, spend their time, with nothing to do, no program, no helpful interest, no one to guide them. The solution of America's summer problem for the children is public-owned, supervised playgrounds.

Seeks to Get Playgrounds. "I appeal to the public-spirited, civic-minded, and benevolent-hearted citizens to bring about public-owned and supervised playgrounds in their own communities. The children are being taught enough religion, they are being instructed in morality, and they are being instilled with high ideals. We have a partial program for the children for the school year. But the program for the children covers only a part of the year, leaving a gap in the summer months when there is no program. The public-owned, supervised playground would fill the gap of the summer months for the children of the community.

"I emphasize a need for 'supervised' playgrounds. No other sort of playgrounds will suffice. These supervised playgrounds are worth all they will cost. They will pay large dividends in helping to depopulate reformatories, lessen the number in penitentiaries, and assisting the family in management and happiness. They will keep the children off the streets, lots and alleys and provide them with healthful centers for body, soul and spirit.

Emphasizes Great Need. "My interest arose from a serious study of the need, values and results of such a project as the public-owned supervised playground. It will take in all of the children, promote the community welfare and provide an all-year program for the children. The supervised playground provides a supervisor, shelters juniors and adolescents during an important period of their lives, and builds up character in observance of fair play, good sportsmanship, cooperation and thereby, law-abiding citizenship. Religion, morality, citizenship are hereby expressing themselves in individual, social and national living.

"I appeal to school boards, village boards, civic clubs, women's clubs, church organizations, service clubs to interest themselves in this worthy project. The matter of having supervised playgrounds in every community is a matter of education, appreciation and organizations toward their achievement. I believe that eventually there will be a supervised playground in every community. If eventually, then why not now?"

"Any community can have a supervised playground with little or no cost. The school ground could be used for a playground instead of lying idle all summer. With a few playthings, the school outside equipment, and volunteer help, a pastor, teacher, clubwoman or club man, a public-owned supervised playground is an immediate possibility in practically any community."

SUICIDES. Many suicides have been reported the last week, among them, some due to ill health, others to financial difficulties. Some prominent and wealthy persons have grabbed self-destruction as a short cut to solution of earthly problems. The assumption that the depression has hit and harrowed only the poor is of course a mistake. Fortunes have gone to pieces, and the struggle to curtail losses has wrenched stoutest nerves almost to the breaking point. Some persons have gone down under the strain, but most people will survive, and they will count the experience just another one in life's series—more severe than the average, and requiring more courage and endurance than the average, but strengthening if finally surmounted, and far from reason to give up and seek relief and forgetfulness in an untimely grave. Life's ups and downs are many—downs at the bat now. As one must exercise care when things go up, so he must exercise fortitude when things go down. Life is short at most, and its sharp turns and sudden jerks should not be permitted to switch one off the track or cause him to lose his head. Like the brave sailor who, buffeted by a storm, retains his hold, the individual in the grip of economic ills, must battle to win and allow nothing to daunt firm resolution. The reward is greater in spirit than in dollars.

Individuality in the Sandhills. (Omaha World-Herald) Mr. Maupin in one of his articles says, "There is a too prevalent notion in eastern Nebraska that Cherry county is a vast expanse of sand hills, rather sparsely grassed and suitable only for grazing." Mr. Maupin having attended adequately to the error of that notion, we are minded to treat of another quite widely held notion which, of course, we understand, gives the native sandhiller a pain in the neck. That is the impression which the tyro in the hills gets that every hill looks just like every other hill.

That is a mistaken notion and yet the mistake is natural and therefore probably justifiable. To one unaccustomed to the forest the trees at first all look pretty much alike, although there are countless differences which the practical woodsman sees at a glance. After a while the greenhorn begins to note the most striking of these differences. Finally, if he puts his mind to it, some of the lesser distinctions become plain to him.

It is much the same with the sand hills. To the stranger as he first gazes across those endless billows of grass-covered sand, stretching away to the horizon, they are like as the waves of the sea. To the native who lives with them, daily they are full of individuality. He would no more mistake one for another than the woodsman would mistake an elm for a maple. Finally the stranger can begin to observe differences of size and of contour, but to know them really one has to live with them.

As To Diet. Dr. A. L. Bixby: Ten years ago Dr. Tilden of Denver, a pronounced food-faddist, gave me the once-over and this was his solemn prognostication: Young man, you are on the way to the bone-yard." It seemed I had been traveling toward the tomb for 66 years when the doctor made that startling discovery, and I told him I was conscious of moving in that general direction, but not particularly concerned about it, conscious of having good company trailing in the same direction. What I most desired was to learn his system of saving humanity. He was a regular physician but had learned in the hard school of experience that what one eats "is half his living." His table dietary was devoid of the flesh of animals, short of cereal foods, but long on vegetable growths, salsify, spinach, head lettuce, beets, carrots, parsnips, spuds, cabbage, cauliflower and brussels sprouts—the same conglomerate Nebuchadnezzar ate raw during the period of his mental decrepitude, and got so he could run like a scared rabbit.

LUTHERANS TO MEET AT MILWAUKEE, WIS.

TRIENNIAL CONVENTION, JUNE 15th-25th

MILLION MEMBERS TO BE REPRESENTED BY DELEGATES FROM ALL STATES AND FOREIGN COUNTRIES

MORE than a thousand delegates, representing 1,150,000 members of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other States, will assemble at Concordia College, Milwaukee, Wis., for the triennial convention from June 15th to 25th. Reports of activities during the past three years will be rendered and action taken on a large number of recommendations from conferences, officials and individual congregations, many overtures being of unusual interest and importance. Decisions vitally affecting educational and missionary endeavors must be made to meet economic conditions.

Elected delegates and pastors and members throughout the country are particularly interested in the report of the Survey Committee elected at the last convention to istry and more than a hundred prospective teachers in parochial schools a hold of labor. This will be the first time that Dr. Ludwig Fuerbringer of Concordia Seminary at St. Louis will represent this, the largest institution of its kind in America, as its president. The venerable Doctor was elected to this office during the past year upon the death of Dr. Francis Pieper, who occupied the position for forty-four years.

As is to be expected, opinions will differ greatly as to the appropriations to be voted the various endeavors of Synod, as to the future policies in the many activities of this large body, and as to the solution of the problems confronting the delegates, but the convention will be spared any difference of opinion as to doctrinal matters. The Missouri Synod with its 3,500 pastors and 4,500 congregations is unanimous in its adherence to the fundamental teachings of the Lutheran confessions and accept the Bible as God's inspired Word and the supreme and only source of all teaching. Nor will any resolution of a political nature emanate from the convention, as Synod is strongly opposed to the intrusion of the Church into the sphere of politics.

It believes that the sole duty of the Church is to preach the Gospel of man's sin and God's grace in Christ Jesus by every possible means and that the best service it can render the nation is to awaken and deepen Christian faith, consciousness and life in the individual.

The most important mission reports will be rendered by the Boards of Home Missions and Church Extension, whose sphere extends from Alaska to Mexico and includes work among Germans, Persians, Lithuanians, Polish, Lettish, Slovenes, Italians, Spaniards and Mexicans, the American Indians as well as among the deaf-mutes at 134 places and the blind. Foreign fields are in France, Germany, Finland, Estonia, Brazil, Argentina, China and India. Work among the negroes of the South and larger northern and western cities is carried on together with the affiliated Wisconsin, Norwegian and Slovak Synods.

EDMUND SEUEL, Twenty-five years General Manager of Concordia Publishing House, largest strictly denominational publishing house in the world. The plant is owned and operated by the Lutheran Missouri Synod. During Mr. Seuel's administration the publishing house has been able to turn back to Synod, more than four million dollars in dividends. Since 1914, Mr. Seuel has also been Treasurer of the Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other States.

It is expected that cognizance will be taken of the fact that Mr. Edmund Seuel has completed a quarter of a century as manager of Concordia Publishing House in St. Louis.

Jobs for Graduates. Sioux City Journal: On receiving his diploma from a college of university, the graduate's first interest is in finding work at which he can make his living. Employment really has been the main objective throughout the years he spent obtaining higher education. Sensing that intellectual preparation was considered necessary for success in life, the graduate kept on till he finished. But at commencement time he looks about him and wonders just where he may find the job that all along has been the goal toward which he struggled.

T. J. Thompson, executive dean of the University of Nebraska, recently was asked if he knew where there were nearly 1,000 jobs for the graduates that institution is turning out this year. He didn't. He wished he did. In that he was entirely sympathetic with the graduates. They, too, greatly desired to find the work for which they had prepared themselves through the years since they left high school.

This job shortage which college and university graduates are to feel this year is accentuated by the fact that there is a vast amount of unemployment affecting all classes of society. Hundreds of thousands of highly educated men and women are out of work just as are other millions who never got farther than the grades. This explains only in part, however, why thousands of university graduates this year are leaving school with nothing to do. Even if there was no depression and no heavy unemployment there still would be large numbers of discouraged and disappointed college and university graduates.

When normal conditions obtain again there will be graduates looking in vain for the kind of work they hope to find. Every professional field is crowded. Business lines, too. Graduates who shone on the football field or in track athletics are not eager to try their physical strength on manual labor. That line also is crowded in normal times. So the question, which may be regarded as a perpetual one, is, what are graduates going to do in this civilization we have built up here in America?

There seems to be no answer to it under the present economic system. It is an economic waste for capable men and women to be idle when they are ready and eager to work and become consumers and buyers in the market. Necessity seems to point the way to new adjustments, the sharing of available work and opportunities under a humane plan that will give all the people a chance to make a living and realize their proper destiny.

Ideal Weather. Sioux City Journal: Residents of this section of the country who go about their duties shivering because of a sudden drop in temperature should rejoice. They should be glad to shiver as they start their furnaces going again just as summer is about to begin. It is ideal weather, the finest that could come at this particular time in northwestern Iowa, northeastern Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and western Minnesota. It is just the kind of weather the entomologists and farmers in the grasshopper-infested regions have been praying for. For it kills grasshoppers in myriads.

The seven-inch fall of snow in central North Dakota was a godsend. For when snow falls to that depth it means low temperatures, and just now cold weather is what is needed. The grasshoppers are just hatching. They are frail and small. Wet, cold weather is fatal to them. It also is fatal to eggs on the point of hatching. If this weather lasted a week or so, the grasshopper scourge would be so weakened that it would not be heavily destructive.

Someone brought a glass jar of dirt into the Journal office a few days ago. It was from Leeds. It was filled with grasshopper eggs and young grasshoppers. When the lid was unscrewed the baby grasshoppers knew just what to do with their powerful legs. They hopped right out of the jar. They were about one-fourth of an inch long. That is the grasshopper which succumbs to this kind of weather.

One readily may understand how billions on billions of these insects can spring into existence within a few days in the warm spring and summer weather. Entomologists have found that packed within the space of one square foot of soil on an average when there is heavy infestation, are 15,000 grasshopper eggs. Multiply 15,000 by the number of square feet in an acre to discover that 653,400,000 grasshoppers could be hatched from eggs contained in such a space. In an area of thousands of square miles under favorable conditions notation becomes inadequate to express the numbers of the insects. Astronomical measurements would be needed.

Providence seems to have done what was required at a critical time for the farmers of a fertile agricultural area. The house of representatives was not impressed with the seriousness of the situation. It rejected an appropriation of $1,450,000 which with to purchase poison bait to kill grasshoppers. During the days preceding the convention the presidents of the twenty-nine districts of Synod, together with representatives of the theological seminaries at St. Louis, Mo., and Springfield, Ill., and the normal schools at River Forest, Ill. and Seward, Neb., will assemble to assign 180 candidates for the ministerial candidates for the ministry.

Nebraska Is High In Car Ownership

Lincoln, Neb.—Has Nebraska's basic industry, agriculture, produced for its citizens more of the modern facilities and diversion as judged by the prevalence of automobiles?

Figures indicate this may have been the case. The publication, American Highways, devoted to highway improvement and expansion, shows that while Nebraska is populated under a number of eastern and southern states, it is topped only by 18 states in the entire nation in the number of automobiles owned by its citizens.

Data for the year 1931, compiled by the publication showed 416,131 automobiles registered, including trucks. Gross receipts from the sale of licenses were $3,742,401, of which $1,088,282 was available for state highways, $2,539,325 for local roads, and $114,794 for administrative purposes.

The economic upheaval was reflected in Nebraska's motor vehicle registration, according to the periodical for the total registration was a decrease of 10,098 cars and trucks under 1930.

Many of the other 30 states with fewer automobiles than Nebraska produced a greater gross income through a higher license fee.

Providing Gardens for the Unemployed

(St. Louis Post Dispatch) The success of gardening activities in providing food for the unemployed last year leads the president's organization on unemployment relief to urge that the work be taken up again this spring, and on a larger scale. Here is a method that gives help where it is needed, and without the pauperization of outright donations. The unemployed get work, and the crops are a return from their labors, with a most wholesome effect on group morale. Vacant lots and idle tracts near the cities are put to a good social use by the plan.

Demand Hopper Aid Without Any Strings

O'Neill—State aid "without strings" for the fight against the grasshoppers was asked in a resolution signed here Tuesday by the supervisors from Antelope, Boyd, Brown, Keyapaha, Rock and Holt counties in northern Nebraska. They met with O. S. Bare, state expert, and made an appointment by telephone to present the resolution next Monday afternoon to Governor Bryan at Lincoln. Hoppers are present in devastating numbers, they asserted, and a large hatch will occur yet. All save the Antelope county supervisors said their resources had been exhausted and their tax levies raised to the legal limit. If state aid cannot be granted without county dollar matching, one of them said, 12 1-2 percent of Nebraska's territory will become a nontaxable area. Governor Bryan has announced an $18,000 state fund to be matched against the county money for purchase of the poison bran. Bare said grasshopper infestation originated from Valentine nearly to the Missouri river.

Places Near Pilger Damaged In Storm

The twister which developed in the storm Wednesday evening last week, made its most severe inroads in territory from Stanton to Pender. Three of the most severely damaged places are those of Mrs. Lulu Foote, Herman Ritze and Ed. Hasenkamp who live within half a mile of one another north of Pilger.

On the farm of Mrs. Foote, sister of Mrs. Walter Miller of Wayne, the horse barn, double corn crib, chicken house, garage and wash house were totally wrecked. The windmill was torn down and badly tangled. The roof was torn from the hog house, and the cattle barn was badly damaged. Windows were broken and screens torn off the house. The chimney was blown down and shingles taken off. A four-foot hole was torn in the south side of the house. One pig was killed and others injured. The family stayed in the house during the storm and they were about to go to the storm cave when the storm struck.

On the Herman Ritze place four and a half miles northwest of Pilger, some buildings were blown east and others west. A tile hen house was completely destroyed, a large barn twisted out of shape and the roof taken off the west side of this. The porch was torn from the residence and the chimney taken down. A large hog house was thrown off its foundation. The windmill tower was pushed out of plumb. Mrs. Ritze lost 300 young chickens when the brooder was wrecked. The Ritze radio was still working after the storm but their telephone was damaged. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

All buildings on the Hasenkamp farm were badly damaged except the house. The barn and hen house were totally lost. The storm put lights at the home out and the parents had difficulty in finding and keeping the children together during the twister. Some insurance was carried on the buildings.

System Of Fines Protect Property

To protect the large amount of equipment and books bought each year for the Wayne city school and to teach pupils proper regard for public property, the school management, as has been the custom for 15 years, collected this year the sum of $25.67 in fines which was turned over to the school treasurer, A. T. Cavanaugh.

Fines do not cover losses to property but they are assessed to prevent unnecessary hard usage and to save the tax payer as much as possible. Parents are urged to let the children pay the fines from their savings so that the pupils will learn to conserve public property just as they would protect their own belongings. Teachers do not like the method of fining but so far it has been the only feasible way of preventing undue damage and of teaching this sort of respect.

Nebraskan To Go To Hall Dedication

Lincoln, May 29—Dedication of Pershing hall, the great American Legion memorial building in Paris, on June 20, will find among those present in the Legion delegation that for occasion Floyd A. Atkins of Lincoln, radio chairman of the Nebraska department of the Legion.

Mr. Atkins will be one of the small party of Legion officials who will sail on the S. S. Paris on June 11 to take a leading part in the dedication ceremonies. The party will include National Commander Henry L. Stevens, jr.; Captain Philip B. Stapp, who has taken a prominent part in raising funds for the memorial; Mark T. McKee of New York, chairman of the Legion's national drive against unemployment; and possibly two government officials. It is possible that Paul McNutt of Indiana, past national commander of the Legion, will also be in the party. These men will be joined in Paris by General John J. Pershing, famous Nebraskan who led the A. E. F. during the World War and after whom the Legion memorial has been named, and Ned White of Connecticut, president of FIDAC, the international veterans' organization.

A business trip to Europe makes it possible for Mr. Atkins to become a member of this Legion party. He has been commissioned by Department Commander Robert D. Flory of Albion as the official representative of the Nebraska Department of the American Legion at all ceremonies in Europe, the party will take part in which giving Nebraska the honor of being the only Department which will have an official representative there.

Following the dedication of Pershing hall, the Legion party will fly to Belgium, where they will be given a reception by King Albert of that country. Another flying trip takes them to London for a reception by the king and queen of England. The Legionnaires will then fly to Italy for a reception by Mussolini and an audience with the Pope.

It is possible that an international broadcast of the dedication ceremonies or of some other event, the party will attend while abroad will be arranged by one of the great broadcasting companies of this country. If this broadcast is assured, Mr. Atkins has been requested by the company to be its announcer, as he has had much experience in that work here in Nebraska.

Pershing hall, the Legion memorial in Paris, was conceived in 1927, and the time since then has been spent in remodeling and furnishing the building. To Nebraska, home of General Pershing, fell the honor of furnishing the main salon of the building, which has been named the Nebraska-Pershing salon. Here will be placed a large portrait of General Pershing, and pictures of the 96 men who won the Congressional Medal of Honor during the world war.

A roster of the war dead from Nebraska will be placed in this room, as will a list of all Nebraskans who gave to the fund for furnishing the salon.

Many other rooms are contained in the building, which has been designed not only as a memorial, but also as a useful structure. Here is a school for American children living in Paris. Here also are many rooms to be used by various American societies, and the building will be a headquarters for Americans visiting in that city. FIDAC has its headquarters in Pershing hall.

4-H Club Work Is Found Instructive

Dr. Hawkins Reviews Past And Urges Continuance Of This Work.

(By Dr. W. M. Hawkins) Teaching good sportsmanship, fellowship, honesty and instructing specifically along the lines specialized in, 4-H club work is to the boys and girls of the country what scouting is to the youths of the towns and cities.

The beginning of this work in Wayne county was rather meagre, two small baby beef clubs at Carroll and Wayne and a pig club with five or six members under the leadership of Dr. J. C. Johnson, also at Wayne, being the nucleus of the organization that has grown to one of an impressive size.

About ten years ago 4-H club work was inaugurated at Carroll by the Carroll Community club and the following year the Wayne county fair was organized and I was appointed president of the club work with instructions to organize clubs in the county and to take charge of instruction in this endeavor.

The growth of club work since then has been steady and now we have several projects represented including poultry, sewing, cooking, sow and litter, baby beef and pig clubs. One year there was about $15,000 worth of live stock sold during and following the Wayne fair, that had been shown by the club members, and two other years there was almost as much.

Leaders have a great influence on the club members as it is through their direction that the club work is carried on and the success of the work depends largely upon the leaders, themselves. Thus far we have been very fortunate in having efficient leaders and they have, without exception, matured clubs that have been a credit to any community.

Looking back over the past years a number of the leaders of different activities are still engaged in club work while others are not. Mrs. John Gettman, Mrs. C. H. Morris and Mrs. Ivor Morris, all of Carroll; Miss Elsie Wagner, Miss Alice Wylie and Perry Anderson, all of Winside; Arthur Behmer of Hoskins; Mrs. Carl Surber, Mrs. W. E. Back, Joe Corbit, Dr. J. C. Johnson, Frank Wilson, Ralph Beckenhauer, Joe Beckenhauer, Walford Carlson, Allen Stamm and myself of Wayne, all have given liberally of our time in promoting the interests of the work.

Membership this year in the beef clubs is not up to normal due principally to the impassable condition of the roads at the time of organizing and to some extent to the depression period through which we are passing. But the quality of the calves, I believe, is above the average and perhaps what we lack in numbers will be made up in quality.

It has been thoroughly demonstrated that high priced calves, fed on cows, would not make money for the members; unless they be fortunate enough to make up the deficit with prize money and at each fair only one can win.

Sow and Litter, Strong. The sow and litter club this year under the leadership of Walford Carlson is an up-and-coming organization with a strong membership and all are confident of the future.

In the past, especially in the beef projects, it has always been our aim to work for profit, first and for prizes, second; to be more explicit, to feed good calves, but as near market price as possible, to feed them on hay and grains raised on home farms thus keeping the cost of production down to a minimum.

Observing the final records of each boy and girl, in the past, I am very happy to say there have been very few losses in the feed-

I know the club members of the county are appreciative of all the efforts put forth in their behalf and they will always try to make the best better.

We don't want our county to fall behind in 4-H club work this year. We always had a creditable showing and due to the conditions it is all the more essential to urge the boys and girls to do their best.

There still is time for cooking, canning, sewing and pig clubs to be organized, so let's get going and get behind the work. Pick out a leader and five members and you have all that is needed for a start.

WHEN you buy house paint, choose a strictly high grade product. You will find that it will really cost you less than the lower grade, cheaper priced paints. Why? Because an honestly made, first-class coating like actually covers more surface and consequently requires less gallons for a given job.

Another good reason for using this better quality paint is that it will wear so much longer. Reckoning the cost on the basis of years of service, it is certainly lower than the so-called cheap paints. Made in a factory of pleasing colors.

WAYNE COUNTY
4-H CLUB WORK
IN TENTH SEASON

Clubs Started Here and at Carroll in 1922 By the Present Leaders.
WINSIDE STARTED IN 1926

DR. WILLIAM HAWKINS

Under the leadership of J. M. Petersen, Wayne county's first 4-H club was organized in 1922 at Carroll with a membership of thirteen boys who succeeded in winning a number of prizes both at the Wayne county fair and at the interstate showing in their first year of work.

The charter members of the Carroll club included Fred Gemmel, Teddy Linn, Harvey and Clarence Dimm, Merritt Jones, Ervin Blicher, Morris Jenkins, Wayne Thomas, Teddy and Donald Morphy, Ervin Morris and Elmer Leisman.

Robert Pritchard, veteran hog raiser of this county and Fred Jarvis were active in assisting the boys in the selection of their pigs and getting them started in the new venture that proved entirely satisfactory.

Organize at Wayne.

A few months following the organization of the Carroll pig club a group of boys of the Wayne community formed the second club under the leadership of Dr. W. M. Hawkins, who has taken an active interest in the promotion of 4-H club work in the county since that time.

In the fall of the first season 21 animals were shown at the local fair and a number of the winners were also exhibited at the Interstate fair at Sioux City with gratifying results.

In 1926 a baby beef club was organized at Winside under the leadership of Frank Wilson. The club had an initial membership of eight boys and girls who fed eleven calves.

A club was also organized at Hoskins this same year with Arthur Behmer as leader. The club had nine members each of whom fed one calf.

Pig Club Started.

Wayne's first pig club was started in 1923 and was organized by Dr. J. C. Johnson. This club fed 12 purebred gilts which were exhibited at the county fair.

Much of the credit for the steady growth of 4-H club work in this county during the ten years since it was first started, is due to the co-operation of Dr. W. M. Hawkins who has given freely of his time each year in assisting the boys and girls in selection of animals and has aided them in every way possible.

This interest of Dr. Hawkins has saved taxpayers considerable expense as in many counties the clubs are sponsored by county agents who are paid regular salaries for this work.

Club work has forged ahead steadily since 1922, and now nearly a hundred beeves are fed each year as well as many pigs.

During the last few years Wayne county boys and girls have taken a very active interest in baby beef club work and during each of the past two years about 80 calves were exhibited at the local county fair. Winnings at this showing have been quite evenly distributed in all parts of the county.

Perhaps the most successful year for Wayne county 4-H club work was during the past season which was climaxed by Milton Auker's success at the Interstate fair in Sioux City, where he won the reserve championship with his junior-yearling Angus.

Many other prizes were won by the Wayne county boys and girls at the Sioux City show during recent years, but Milton's achievement ranks among the highest awards.

Auker's Angus copped the grand championship award at the Wayne fair last fall, previous to the Sioux City show and a Shorthorn calf owned and shown by Willard Blecke was awarded the reserve championship honors.

In 1930 the highest honors went to a Winside boy when Verne Troutman won the grand championship at the Wayne county fair with his Hereford calf. That year, William Ruhlow of Hoskins was awarded the reserve championship at the Wayne exhibition. Other baby beef winners at the Wayne fair for the past two years were as follows:

Bill Is Introduced To Aid Recovery

A bill seeking appropriation of $2,100,000.00 for relief of disemployment and expansion of employment was introduced in the house of representatives at Washington last week. In the bill are proposed the following allotments for Nebraska: Kearney postoffice (additional and only) $10,000; Lexington postoffice, $75,000; Superior postoffice, $75,000; Seward postoffice, $75,000; Wayne postoffice, $75,000; Omaha court house, $60,000; in all $370,000.

The bill would allot $90,000.00 in supplemental funds to be spent on projects including the David City postoffice, Grand Island postoffice, Omaha federal office building, and Sidney postoffice.

Allotments under the head of "public building projects costing approximately $100,000 apiece" would include Clay Center.

Projects approximating $70,000 apiece would include Ainsworth, Albion, Alma, Auburn, Bridgeport, Cozad, Crawford, Fullerton, Geneva, Gering, Gordon, Gothenburg, Hartington, Hebron, Kimball, Loup City, Madison, Minden, Mitchell, O'Neill, Ord, Pawnee City, Ravenna, Red Cloud, Saint Paul, Schuyler, Tecumseh, Tekamah, Valentine and West Point.

The $55,000 projects would include Ashland, Atkinson, Bayard, Beaver City, Benkelman, Bloomfield, Cambridge, Chappell, Creighton, Exeter, Franklin, Friend, Humboldt, Newman Grove, Oakland, Orleans, Osceola, Oxford, Pender, Plainview, Randolph, Rushville, Stanton, Sutton, Wilber, Wisner and Wymore.

Drowned at Lynch. Lynch, Neb.—Drowned as their home floated down a flooded creek, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John Chuch, aged Lynch, Neb., couple, were recovered Thursday. A five-inch deluge isolated the north part of Lynch so rapidly that rescuers could not reach the couple, who were 50 and 76 years old. The home was swept into Whiskey creek and then into Ponca creek.

Hopper Bait Formula Is Given By State

County farm bureaus, county officers, the state department of agriculture, and the University of Nebraska college of agriculture are all combining their resources to help farmers fight the grasshoppers immediately while control measures will be most effective.

The following contains the essential information regarding the poisoned bait which will be used. Home Mixed Grasshopper Bait. The poisoned bran mash bait formula recommended by the county farm bureaus, county officers, the University of Nebraska agricultural college, and the State Department of Agriculture is as follows:

- 100 lbs. coarse flaked wheat bran
 - 6 lbs. white arsenic (not lead arsenate)
 - 1 oz. amyl acetate
- Wheat enough to make a moist, crumbly mash.
- The bran and arsenic should be mixed dry. The amyl acetate should be added to about two gallons of water, and this stirred into the bran and arsenic mixture. Then more water should be added slowly and stirred in well until the brap is crumbly moist, but not sloppy wet.
- The bran mash bait will give greatest kills when spread in the morning when the temperature is between 65 and 85 degrees. This is usually between six and nine o'clock of a clear summer day.
- Five pounds of Paris green might be substituted for the white arsenic and the ground-up pulp and juice of two dozen oranges or lemons can be used instead of the amyl acetate, if the arsenic or the amyl acetate can not be obtained locally. Arsenate of lead is not satisfactory.
- The mixture given above should be enough to scatter over 10 to 12 acres of land. When well spread, there is practically no danger of poisoning live stock or birds. Even at retail prices, the cost for materials should not exceed 20 cents per acre. By buying in quantities cooperatively, or thru public spirited dealers, farmers have been able to cut the cost for materials down to 10 to 15 cents per acre. One hundred pounds of poisoned bait mixed and, scattered according to these directions, now will be as effective as 1000 pounds of the same bait next August. Hard rains might come to drown some of the small grasshoppers, but it is easier to scatter the bait than it is to make it rain.

Ready Mixed Bait. Several prepared bran baits are on the market, and require only the addition of water. These are very effective, if made according to the correct formula which should be 80 percent pure bran, 15 percent cane molasses, and 5 percent white arsenic or its equivalent in sodium arsenite.

Precautions. Before mixing or spreading the poison bait, grease your hands and arms to the elbows with inexpensive grease or heavy soap; immediately after finishing the job, wash your hands, arms and face well in warm, soapy water. If you have open cuts on your hands or face, take care not to allow the arsenic to get into them.

Scatter the bait thinly, make it impossible for birds, poultry or livestock to get enough of the poison bait to harm them.

Take every precaution to prevent birds, poultry, and livestock from eating the poisoned bran from the tubs or bags. Scatter all of the bait you mix, leave none of it lying around.

Drink Fox Head Products for Health.

The medicinal value of Waukesha Water has long been recognized by the medical profession.

The particular source of the water flowing through the Fox Head Springs is a well balanced, potable water. It is a mild, soft mineral water containing valuable mineral salts. It flows continually from an apparent unlimited source of supply, fresh and cold, and intact from organic matter.

This water is of unvarying quality and purity, eliminating at all times any necessity of outside processing to insure purity. Beverages brewed or made with a water of this kind are always superior to beverages which, unfortunately due to local conditions, have to be made with the local supply of water which at times, due to various impurities, must be treated; with the result that taste is imparted to the water, effecting the natural flavor of the beverages.

Waukesha Water from the Fox Head Springs naturally comes to us in the still form, and it is this water that is used in the brewing of Fox Head Brews, and in the making of all other of our Carbonated Beverages. The carbonization of all of our beverages is produced by a natural carbon-dioxide gas which we derive, direct from our own sources, from fermenting cereals. This carbonization begins with our natural mineral water, produces a beverage with an absolute purity not found in any other like product.

Fox Head Waukesha Water, besides used in the manufacture of our beverages, is also bottled in the still form for table use; and in an effervescent form for special purposes; and is particularly adapted for blending with fruit juices, syrups, in the making of lemonade and many other palatable drinks.

Fox Head Waukesha Water with Lithia added has been considered as a remedy for nervousness, gout, rheumatism, excessive uric acid in the blood, diabetes, kidney and liver diseases, and kindred ailments; and has been endorsed by medical authorities.
