"Greatest Show on Earth" Isn't Circus; It's National Political Convention

SHOWS that out-Barnum Barnum, are the American nominating conventions. Indeed, the great showman's three-ring circus was a Sunday School picnic compared with the American political convention, with its one or more rings supplied by each of the states, plus unnumbered side-shows staged in 10,000 far-flung accents, primaries and local conventions.

Some idea of the bedlam which reigns at most national political conventions may be gained from the picture above. It shows part of the demonstration which took place just after the placing of the nomination of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover for presidency, at the 1928 G. O. P. convention at Kansas City.

This Sunday school will assemble at the usual hour of 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11 a. m. C. E. services at 6:30 p. m. The children of our Sunday school presented an exceptional service last Sunday morning at their Children's day program. Mrs. H. V. Moody and her helpers, who were in charge, are to be commended upon the entire service. There is no time of the year that we appreciate the exceptional work the Sunday school is doing better than at Children's day when the whole school is gathered for this service. We wish to commend and thank the goodly number of officers and teachers for their interest and loyalty to this great work of the church. The splendid offering amounted to $33. Last Sunday evening we enjoyed a special musical treat with musical numbers furnished by quartets from Oakland and Trenton, instrumental numbers by the Nelson brothers of Oakland and a fine number by our own evening choir. The message of the evening presented by Rev. Legters was out of the ordinary. Some were disappointed in that he had been announced to speak upon the subject, "The Indian" which is the subject of one of our Mission study books for next year. But it was a worth-while message. Monday afternoon the Ladies' Aid of the church very graciously came to the aid of the Board of Trustees in the financial shortage by voting them the use of $200. This is a year when the officers of the church would urge the payment of subscriptions weekly or at least monthly. Please do not leave it until the end of the year. en slippers and then coming down in wooden shoes," said Victor Hugo, and the history of the past few years has furnished many examples of the transitory character of wealth. Fortunately for the human race it has been decreed that while a man may amass a fortune he cannot be assured that this fortune will pass intact and undiminished to his heirs. In this rapid age it does not always take three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves. One generation has been sufficient in many cases. Samuel Insull began with nothing, picked up a fortune estimated at more than 100 million and a few days ago was forced to give it all up, now living on a pension. Instances of this kind have been all too common of late. Lincoln's favorite poem was one beginning "Oh why should the spirit of mortal be proud." Today we can understand better than ever before why Lincoln liked that poem. Agriculture Must Recover First. Omaha Journal-Stockman: Apparently many of our leaders in industry and captains in finance have come to the conclusion that Wall Street is not going to lead a procession in the direction of national prosperity. It was the debacle on the stock exchange in 1929 that started the country on the road to ruin but even the most optimistic dealers in stocks and bonds do not now believe that the road to recovery lies in the direction of Wall Street. On the contrary there are many evidences of the fact that the eastern money changers are looking westward with the hope that some signs of improvement in agriculture may be noted which will indicate that an uprising has started. "Recovery of the farmers' buying power," says the Wall Street Journal, "is a milestone that must be reached prior to a definite and lasting quickening of industrial activity." Right today no industrial leader has the confidence of the country more than Owen D. Young and Mr. Young is certain that there must be a marked recovery in agriculture before we can hope to see any improvement in the financial, industrial and commercial conditions of the nation. In his address to the graduating class the other day at the University of Notre Dame, Mr. Owen said: "No upward trend can take place unless we have sound and fair balance between all units in our economic body. In my opinion it was our unbalanced condition which caused our trouble. The living standards of our industrial population were lifted to a high level back of an impenetrable tariff wall. Our agricultural population, subjected to a world competition, could not normally be maintained at an equal level." Talk about this industry or that commodity leading the way out of the present depression seems but one thing that is apparent to all and that is that there can be no real revival of prosperity in this or any other country until there has come about a very decided revival of agriculture. Try a Wayne Herald Want Ad. Your Lifetime Meal. In the 50 years that the average American lives, present statistics compiled by the United States department of commerce show, he consumed 106,409 pounds of food -- enough to load to capacity several freight cars. On other dishes at this colossal feast there would be a half-ton block of butter and a 224-pound slice of cheese. The sugar bowl

PROF. A. V. TEED GIVES ADDRESS TO CLASS HERE

Eighth Graders Of County Get Diplomas Saturday At Exercises.

HONORS ARE ANNOUNCED

"Signs at Cross Roads" was the subject of the address given Friday by Prof. A. V. Teed at the Gay theatre when 153 eighth grade graduates of Wayne county received their diplomas.

Some think education should be restricted, Prof. Teed said, during these days when economy is the watchword in all lines.

The speaker advised judicious expenditure of school money. A good teacher is the first requirement of a good school, he said.

Each community can help make a successful school by cooperating with the teacher and children.

In every achievement, Prof. Teed said, there must be a purpose or idea. Each person must try to be somebody.

Prof. Teed advised students to earn before they spend. He urged them to live within their means.

Miss Sewell announced honors. Opal Swanson of district 65, and Esther Matthes of Altona, tied for first place with averages of 94.5.

The class of 10 at Altona was the largest group of eighth grade graduates in the county.

Miss Eulalie Bruggen played the march as the 153 graduates entered the theatre.

New York Lawyer Featured In Film. Warren William, featured player in "The Mouthpiece," the Warner Bros. picture coming to the Gay theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is slated for stardom as a result of his work in this adaptation of play by Frank Collins based on actual incidents in the life of a notorious New York attorney. William, as a "mouthpiece," the term applied to lawyers who represent doubtful clients caught in the toils of the law, is said to deliver the best work of his stage or screen career. Originally an eager, zealous young prosecuting attorney, he plunges the depths in character and association as a result of an unfortunate case in which his prosecution brought an innocent youth to the electric chair. The progress and regress of "The Mouthpiece" form the basis of the story, the romantic angle very evident in the affairs carried on by William. William has been in Hollywood less than a year, but has had several roles leading up to the present very important one in "The Mouthpiece." He has been seen opposite such stars as Delores Costello, Bebe Daniels and Marian Marsh in both "Under Eighteen" and "Beauty and the Boss." Each succeeding role has increased his fan mail to flood tide proportions and has corroborated the producers' consideration to groom him for stardom. First fruits of two years of struggling near Brest, France, to wrest a fortune of five million dollars from the bottom of the sea were salvaged when divers from the Italian salvage ship Artiglio II rose above the surface with 45 thousand dollars from the hold of the sunken steamer Egypt. The gold is in bullion form. It represents a quest which cost 15 lives and two strong ships. The fight has been one of the most spectacular battles of man against the sea. The steamer Egypt was rammed and sunk off the French coast by a cargo steamer in 1922. In its hold was five million dollars in gold, safely locked in the strong room.

From the Ponca Journal, June 22, 1882: "We lately had the pleasure of passing a day or two in Wakefield, the new town in the southern part of this county. Wakefield, although less than a year old, has about 60 dwellings and business houses and 400 inhabitants, and is growing with a rapidity which will double its present size before winter. It is beautifully located in the center of a rich and well settled country, and commands a large trade. The business men of the town are not the least old-fashioned, but are liberal and progressive, and are united in their efforts to make Wakefield the best town in the Logan valley."
Parties from Norris, Cedar county, state that the town still keeps growing rapidly. — the creamery is doing a large business, — the new store is ready for occupancy, — land in the neighborhood is rising in price and rapidly changing hands, — and everything looks to a prosperous future.
"A. Reynolds of Emerson, was in town Monday. He has purchased for eastern parties 160 acres of land from Mr. Demme, which is to be laid out into a town site. Emerson will therefore soon be launched before the public as one of the new towns of the Logan valley. It will make a good point."
When War Called.
An editorial in the Wayne Herald for June 22, 1916 reflected the patriotism of the day: "The patriotic and earnest devotion to the stars and stripes manifested by the young men of Wayne and vicinity in their readiness to respond to the call to arms—a condition typifying active and sacrificing American loyalty everywhere—encourages the nation's feeling of safety. In the brains, muscle, skill and courage of young America, alert to duty, rests assurance of America's security and confidence. No act is more laudable nor more courageous than that of offering one's life, if necessary, to sustain the civilization and institutions of one's own country. The spectacle of America's young men, responding with glad hearts to the need of practical patriotism, should thrill every American with pride and praise."

When they reached the crossing on Aowa creek, near the present site of Ponca, they came to a sign which read, "No white man allowed across this creek." A white party had taken the land as claims. The Donlens turned west and took a claim south of the present site of Martinsburg. There the father farmed and trapped. Summer Promises Better Crops Here
Excellent crop prospects are forecast by the Omaha Journal-Stockman in an article printed on Tuesday, June 7. A survey of counties shows that Nebraska looks for a better year this season than last. There follows a reprint of the report on Wayne county:
"The law of averages is apparently working out in Wayne county this season. After last year's drought, that part of Nebraska now has every indication of abundant crops this season and is the 'garden spot' of the state in the opinion of E. J. Auker, who had his first crop of stock on this market in seven or eight years Monday.
"We have had plenty of rain lately and the stand of oats and corn is perfect," he reported. "Everyone is looking forward to a big harvest of all crops this year."
"Mr. Auker brought down 54 head of yearlings, averaging in the neighborhood of 900 pounds, that sold for $5.55 to $6.10. They will lose money, he said, due mainly to the fact that feeders in his locality had to ship in all of their corn last year.
"It cost us right around 20 cents a bushel more than it was actually worth, or than it would had we raised it ourselves. In most cases that 20 cents a bushel spelled the difference between profit and loss."
"Mr. Auker formerly raised purebred dairy cattle and hogs but reports demand for breeding stock of all kinds at low ebb now."

How the Polarine Jury writes recommendations
First: The committee on engine design and specifications reports on cylinder clearances, compression ratio, iron or aluminum pistons, type of lubrication system, location of oil pump, length, diameter and exposure of oil lines, normal operating heat of the motor, normal and maximum speed.
Second: The laboratory chemists report on the theoretical fitness of the oil for its work.
Third: The engineers in charge of test operation in the laboratories and on the road are heard—the power production with oils of different bodies, the consumption of oil at various engine speeds, operation of the motor in test rooms—at polar temperatures, and at midsummer temperatures.
Fourth: The control engineers bring in their figures on engine wear, oil consumption, carbon deposit and condition of each oil at the end of each test run.
This Polarine Jury with all the facts to guide them; then votes the Polarine specification.
That's why we say consult the chart for the correct grade of new Polarine to use. It is the surest, shortest road to safe lubrication—to expert lubrication—for truck, tractor and passenger car.
Thoroughly dewaxed new Polarine is free from tar that gums valves and carbons the motor. It clings to metal and assures all the protection against wear any oil can give—25¢ A QUART FOR EVERY GRADE.

Rains Are Heavy In This Vicinity

Downpour Thursday Morn Floods Buildings And Low Lanes Here.

About three inches of rain fell in Carroll shortly before noon last Thursday in a period of about half an hour. The rain gauge at the post office showed 2.65 inches but the rain came so fast that part of the precipitation failed to get into the gauge. The area of heavy rain extended about a mile west and about four miles east of Carroll. The cloud moved south and east and brought considerable moisture to the vicinity east of Winside. Rain early Monday morning registered .15 of an inch. Other showers have fallen at intervals the past week, the ground being well soaked.

Rain Thursday came so fast that it could not make its get-away without doing some flooding. Highways east and west of town were covered with water. The pavement at the north end of town was covered to a depth of several inches and the water ran into all three entrances of the Fullerton lumber yard. The lumber yard has been here 12 years and this was the first time water has reached such height. Several store and residence basements were flooded.

The basement at the H. C. Barelman place, occupied by the Elmer Phillips family, was filled twice the past week, water reaching the first floor level. The water swept out part of the south wall at one time and part of the west wall the other time. Planks which were in the basement floated out the windows. The family took up rugs but the water subsided before it came through the floor.

The noon train from Wayne was obliged to wait about an hour east of town on Thursday before coming over the tracks as water reached the bottom of the cars.

Telephone poles which were lying near the light plant were washed down onto the railroad tracks.

The Tuxley field west of town was badly flooded. Water washed fields somewhat. A light hail accompanied the rain but it was not sufficient to do any damage.

Methodist Church.

(Rev. W. A. Mansur, pastor)

Morning worship, 11:00 "The Power of Hope for Good in Every Man's Life." This is a timely subject. Interested in it? Think it over and come worship with us next Sunday.

Evening services, 8:00. "How God Guides Us in Every Day Living." Does God care? Can you know what God wants us to do? Can one have guidance from God to solve one's problems? Meet with us next Sunday evening.

Sunday school, 10:00. There is a class for all ages. Bring the children, send the children, see that the children go to Sunday school next Sunday. This is the period of life when Christian training can best be given to the children. Let's do our part.

Epworth League at 7:15. Remember the summer institute meets at Wayne June 22 to 29. We have a program for you. Get ready to go.

Miss Reba Jones gave a recital in our church last Wednesday evening to a church full of people. The recital was an excellent one and was greatly enjoyed.

The bouquets of flowers by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wolff are appreciated.

Mrs. Harold Anderson and Miss Norma Wolff were our pianists the first at the morning service and the second at the evening service. We thank you.

A little girl was playing with her doll while her mother was writing. The girl stopped playing with her doll. Her mother called her. "I'm so glad, mother." "Why did you, darling?" her mother asked. "You and dolly were having a happy time together for a while." "I got tired of loving her," she answered. "Why?" her mother asked. "Oh, because she never loves back!" "And is that why you love me?" "Why, mother! Can't you guess?" Her eyes snapped brightly and earnestly. "It's because you loved me when I was so little to love back, that's why I love you so much."

I am believing more than ever that "the greatest thing in the world is love." A little love here, a little love there, and a little yonder by each and all will help make life sweeter, easier. Try it.

New National Taxes To Be In Effect Soon

Washington, June 8—Collection of the new 2-cent tax on checks, drafts and similar instruments which goes into effect on June 21 will cause no inconvenience to bank depositors of the country, but will be handled entirely by the banks.

The internal revenue bureau said today the banks would pay the tax to the treasury at the end of each month. During the period the banks will keep count of the number of checks drawn by each depositor and, at the end of the month enter the charge against his account and enclose a statement in the depositor's cancelled checks.

Counter checks which are cashed by the depositor at the bank are not taxed.

The new postal rates go into effect next month. The higher rates on second class mail become effective on July 1 while the 3-cent rate on first class mail is effective July 6.

Days Effective.
The revenue bureau announced the effective dates of the various revenue producing provisions of the revenue act of 1932 as follows:

Income tax act, January 1, 1932.
Additional estate taxes, June 6, 1932, after 5 p. m.

Gift taxes, June 6, 1932, after 5 p. m.

Manufacturers' excise taxes, June 21, 1932.

Miscellaneous taxes, June 21, 1932.

Tax on use of boats, July 1, 1932.

The manufacturer, producer or importer of the following articles are required to make returns and pay taxes under the new act:

Lubricating oil, brewer's wort, grape concentrate, automobile candy, chewing gum, toilet preparations, furs, jewelry, radios, refrigerators, sporting goods, firearms, cameras, matches, soft drinks, tires and tubes and gasoline.

The bureau announced that the following articles of services are also subject to the tax.

Telephone and telegraph messages, electric energy, bank checks, lease of safely deposit boxes, admission fees, transportation of oil by pipe lines, and the users of pleasure boats.

The consumers of electric power furnished by municipal, state or governmental agencies will pay the same tax as that by consumers of power furnished by private companies, officials said.

The tax of 3 per cent is levied upon the consumer and will be collected by the distributing company which must transmit it to the treasury once a month.

Nebraska's First Problem.

Omaha World-Herald: From Lincoln is announced the organization of the Nebraska Public Efficiency and Economy association.

Its object is to insure a general reduction in governmental expenses. It expects to carry its plans into every county in the state and to make careful taxation research with which to support the state campaign and the efforts of the various local units.

This is one of the encouraging signs of the day.

If it is not generally realized now it will be thoroughly understood by the time the next legislature meets that the most pressing and important public problem throughout Nebraska is that of taxation.

The only solution of that problem is not the shifting of taxes, or the imposition of new taxes, but the reduction of taxes.

And the only way taxes can be reduced is for government—state, county, city—to spend less money. To that end not tepid economy but drastic economy is essential.

The crushing tax burden threatens multitudes of Nebraskans with loss of their farms, their homes, their business, the jobs at which they are employed.

Too much government, extravagant government, poorly managed government, have piled up those taxes. Government restored to the scale of Jeffersonian simplicity and economy will reduce them.

There is no reason why a public business should carry on its payrolls twice as many employes as would be needed were it a private business.

There is no reason why any of those employes should be paid twice as much as a private business would pay.

There is no reason why essential public services should not be reduced to a basis of what is actually needed, or non-essential services should not be dispensed with.

These are not normal times in which we are living. They are abnormal times. And a tax emergency exists that threatens the taxpayers' solvency. It can only be dispelled by emergency methods that will leave government no richer, no less required to "do without," than the people who support it.

Children First Is Keynote To Plan

Dr. W. H. Morton, professor of educational administration and principal of Teachers College high school at the University of Nebraska, writes on "Children First Pays Rich Dividends" the following:
In the period of the "hard times" during the nineties when school boards everywhere were reducing teachers' salaries and trying to run just as cheap a school as possible, there was one rural school board in Jefferson County, Nebraska, which had a vision of another kind.
This board composed of three farmers decided that there was no "hard times" in the educational needs of their community and proposed that they make their school the very best school in their county. They offered one of the best, if not the very best, salaries in the county and employed teachers of the highest type. No cheap teacher would suit them. For a period of four or five years when money was scarce, prices low, and crops almost a failure, the boys and girls of this school had three different men teachers. These men were well trained, had high ideals, and proved a genuine inspiration to the fifty or sixty pupils of this school.
"Children First" Tells Its Story.
It is now from 35 to 40 years since these boys and girls went to this rural school. They have gone out into life in many different activities. A casual check on what they are now doing may throw some light on the wisdom or folly of the vision of the school board of this out-of-the-way rural school. Here is the story showing what these boys and girls of the nineties have actually accomplished:
Eleven graduated from college. Three graduated from a conservatory of music.
Twelve or more taught school. Today two of them are on the faculty of one of the largest high schools in the middle west. Another is a professor of education in a state university.
One finished a law course and became an attorney for one of the railroads of the south. One completed the civil engineering course at the University of Nebraska and entered the employ of the Union Pacific railroad.
One entered the Department of Personnel of the Studebaker corporation and being a musician, was also a member of the musical organization of this company.
One who is now teaching is also a composer of band music. His compositions are sold everywhere.
One other, who is also teaching, is a musician of note, is often heard over the radio, has composed some music, and is an accomplished director of bands and orchestras.
One who holds his A. B. degree is a successful business man. He is at the head of one of the largest banks in western Nebraska and is a member of the Board of Education in his city. His son was the honor student of the local senior class of over 100 last year and is this year carrying off all freshman honors in the college from which his father graduated.
One is an accomplished artist, especially painting bird life. She is the joint author with her husband of "Birds of South Dakota." She is also the author of a supplementary reader.
One is a successful eye specialist practicing his profession in one of the cities of Kansas.
One is a barber.
Several of them are successful farmers, one of whom was given special recognition by the Nebraska College of Agriculture two years ago for having produced over 100 bushels of corn per acre.
Another of these farmers is not only successful in his business but his son, who is a student at the University of Nebraska, was given special recognition this spring for his high scholarship. This same recognition came to a daughter of one of those who is now teaching.
Some of the students from this rural school of forty years ago are Burdens of Business Leaders.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Depression has no doubt been a contributing factor in tragedies that have thinned the ranks of business leaders. Worry sets the stage for catastrophe, of major or minor proportions.
Why should the head of any great corporation give way to worry when his business is secure, and his personal comfort assured for as long as he may live? The answer is that if he is a conscientious, sensitive executive his worry may be entirely for others—for the thousands of employes depending on him for their daily bread, for the thousands of investors depending on his decisions for their capital returns without which they may be brought to the very brink of starvation. Yes, there are men in business concerned in just that way for the welfare of the many depending on them for work and bread. It is a responsibility that bears most sharply on the heads of great business concerns of national significance from the standpoint of human and economic well-being.
Many are struggling with that problem today. Can they keep their jobs employed? Can they pay their interests to bondholders and their dividends to stock owners? And for how long can they keep on employing and paying? Those to whom the contemplation of such questions is reflected in terms of human needs are put under a strain that the rest of us can do no more than imagine. It is to their credit that they do worry. It is evidence that business cannot squeeze the milk of human kindness out of a man's soul. Good will is not dead. It has perhaps Housewives. Some have moved away.

A Crystal-Clear Record.
So far as the writer is able to learn, not one of these boys and girls who were his former school mates has ever served a term in prison or been mixed up in crime of any sort.
The record of pupils from this rural school, as written by their lives forty years later, is a living testimony to the value of the leadership of strong teachers.
That school board which dared to increase taxes at a time when everyone was clamoring for lower costs was one of the real benefactors of their day. The few extra dollars required to hire superior teachers has long been forgotten but the results obtained in successful worthwhile lives of adult men and women of today can never be measured in dollars and cents.
There are today school boards in Nebraska who have visions of superior schools and who are brave enough to say the word that these visions may be a reality. Forty years from now successful men and women in all walks of life will stand as a living monument to their leadership.
