Resume Drilling On Albert Farm

Valuable Gases Are Found In Government Work Near Leigh.

Drilling operations on the farm of Ed. Albert of Leigh, brother of C. W. Albert of Wayne, are being pushed forward under direction of the government, Helium, oxide and ethelene gas have been located at a short distance below the surface, and drilling is continuing to determine whether layers of oil lie below the gas.

The gas, according to tests made, is two and a half percent helium. This is considered very valuable as the government sells helium gas to other countries for use in zeppelins. Government fields in Texas produce gas which is two percent helium.

Boring at the Albert farm is being done with an eight-inch drill. In case water and rock are struck casings will have to be made and a smaller drill used for deeper work.

An outfit of heavy machinery has been brought to the Albert place at Leigh for the work.

G. W. Albert planned to go to Leigh Wednesday this week to view the operations.

Has Limb Amputated. Pierce, Neb., July 19—John Boje, aged Pierce resident, who underwent an operation at a Norfolk hospital recently, for amputation of his limb, continues to improve at his home here.

One thing that always has puzzled us is why these trick remedies that "cure" dandruff, etc. etc. with "a single application," come in such large bottles.—Cedar Rapids Gazette.

Reminiscent tales of Indian life and experiences with members of that race were related by Dr. John G. Neihardt of Bronson, Mo., Nebraska poet-laureate, in a talk at a student assembly at the State Teachers college Tuesday.

Of especial interest to Dr. Neihardt during his rise to prominence in the field of poetry has been the life of Nebraska Indians. He has spent considerable time among the Indians near Pine Ridge and went there directly after his talk at the chapel here.

Dr. Neihardt is writing a poem entitled, "Messiah," in which he will treat the religious phase of Indian life. At the chapel program he read a part of his unfinished work and told of incidents he had experienced in obtaining data for the poem. All his spare time is being devoted to work on the "Messiah."

At Pine Ridge Dr. Neihardt expected to interview Black Elk, Indian chieftain, who provided him with a large part of the material for his work on Indian life, especially his book, "Black Elk Speaks."

Dr. Neihardt spoke to several classes at the college Tuesday. He was a guest over the weekend in the home of Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Conn. He was accompanied by his son, Sigurd.

Dr. Neihardt is on a speaking tour of the Nebraska State Teachers colleges. In the fall he will appear on the programs for three of the sectional meetings of the Nebraska State Teachers' association and will also appear on the program for the Minnesota State Teachers' association meeting.

Libel On The Air
THE decision of the supreme court of Nebraska to restrict radio by radio has received nation-wide attention and general approval.

Heretofore radio station managements have enjoyed a convenient refuge behind a clause of the Federal Radio Act of 1927 which says they "shall have no power of censorship over the material broadcast."

WAGE scales have been harrowing industry, and the problem of making adjustments that will enable industry to survive and workers to live is a difficult one for the employer to solve.

preliminary gesture, and no one responding, she blurted out with great feeling: "What man mentioned in the Bible ate grass like an ox?"

The World-Herald calls attention to the popular habit of buying on a rising rather than lowering market. When prices are slipping people are encouraged to delay buying in the belief that they will go still lower.

In regard to the recent disagreement between President Hoover and Speaker Garner over proposed relief legislation, Time says the former "had the facts," the latter "the impressions."

Aside from a few spots hurt by hail, the small grain harvest, now in progress in Wayne county, is much larger than usual.

Plans are being made for the annual county fair in September, and the premium list will be ready to issue by August 1.

Most people agree that the depression was necessary to make one think more seriously and work more earnestly, but they also agree that the punishment has been carried far enough to effect a cure.

Bressler park in Wayne is one of the beauty spots in the state, and it is growing more attractive from year to year.

Senate committees have been directed to investigate the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, the New York stock exchange, the reconstruction corporation and the farm board.

Lack of knowledge in baking is found a barrier in the way of distributing flour for relief. Many persons can't use it when they get it.

The early morning—between 5 and 6 o'clock—is the best time to ride into the country and see the great fields of growing corn.

It is reported that persons spending vacations at lake-sides or in the mountains are far less numerous than usual—a fact that will disappoint the attending armies of jiggers and mosquitoes.

Going Back To The Farm.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: It is not at all surprising to find that more of our people are now moving from the city to the country than from the country to the town.

This movement countryward is not a bad thing for agriculture nor is it a bad thing for the people who are leaving the distractions of the cities for the simpler life in rural communities.

BARGAIN DAYS.

Some live local dealers are advertising a series of special trade days, and the bargains offered will justly attract many careful shoppers.

Farms Using More Electricity. Omaha Journal-Stockman: Evidence that electricity is coming to be accepted as a necessity on the farm is seen in the city.

Some 698,786 American farms now use electricity according to Dr. E. A. White, director of the national committee on relation of electricity to agriculture.

Each year sees new uses for electricity on the farm. From lighting homes, hen houses and barnyards to grinding feed, powering

The Real Issue. Nebraska Farmer: The political parties have had their conventions, written their platforms and nominated their candidates.

The important point is that voters should not permit themselves to be misled as to the real issues. Some will be influenced by highly prejudiced matters, but the large majority of people, we believe, will look things that are fundamentally important in securing economic recovery.

ONE-SIDED. Some persons are just recipients, while others are just donors. One person always has his hands out to get something for nothing—accepting but never giving.

stance, it is incongruous and impossible to promise tremendous tax reductions on one hand and greatly extend government activity on the other.

When a candidate or party promises the voters that the government will project itself into many new undertakings and enterprises it logically follows that taxes are going to be increased instead of reduced.

Millions For Farmers. Sioux City Journal: The most wonderful news of the day is the changed situation in the live stock markets, which has affected farmers of the country with an increase of hundreds of millions of dollars in their holdings of hogs and cattle.

Any ground gained in these times is to be treasured. None of it should be lost if it is humanly possible to hold it. A start forward has been made. The higher prices for hogs and cattle have strengthened the buying power of an element of society representing about 10,000,000 of the population.

Injured in Wreck.
 Neligh, Neb., July 20.—One man was severely injured and two other persons were cut and bruised, when the car in which they were riding failed to make a sharp turn on the Spencer-Oakdale highway north of Oakdale and overturned in the ditch early Monday evening.
 A. H. Seman, Spencer resident, who was riding between S. D. Wilhelm the driver, and Mrs. Seman, suffered a severe head wound which practically severed the scalp from its base and possibly a fractured skull and internal injuries. Mrs. Seman received a wrenched hip and Mr. Wilhelm was badly cut about the face and hands.
 It is believed Mr. Seman struck a bow in the top of the car as it overturned or went through the windshield. He was removed to a Neligh hospital and remained unconscious until late Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Hall of Neligh pronounced his condition as serious.
 The trio was enroute to Norfolk and had taken the Oakdale shortcut from their home in Spencer. Mrs. Seman and Mr. Wilhelm were also treated at the hospital. The auto was badly wrecked.

 and became suspicious of the men when he noticed that one of the three strangers wore bandages on one shoulder and had one arm in a sling. He immediately thought that perhaps this man was a participant in the shooting affray at Laurel early in the week.
Believe Bandit Hit.
 When the started to investigate, however, one of the two men who was out of the machine pulled out a pistol and began to shoot. Nettleman had his pistol ready, too, and returned the fire. He shot twice at the bandit who staggered as though struck both times but turned and ran, after the second shot. One of the two men who were on their feet ran east and the other ran west.
 Mrs. Nettleman drew her pistol and "covered" the third man, Willson, who had remained in the car, and Willson was the only one captured. The noise of the shooting had aroused a number of Wisner citizens who assisted Marshal Nettleman in searching for the pair but they could not be found.
 Several hours later, about 5 a. m., one of the escaped men is believed to have appeared near Beemer. At that hour while Otto Gladius of Beemer was fishing at Housshall lake near Beemer, a man suddenly jumped out of some underbrush, leaped into Gladius' automobile and drove rapidly away in it. Authorities believe he is the bandit who ran east from the scene of the shooting.
Sheriffs Arrive.
 Sheriff John J. Gallagher of Fremont and Sheriff Charles H. Sess of West Point were notified and both arrived here within a short time after the shooting. It was then learned that the Pontiac sedan had been stolen from a garage at Fremont about 11 p. m. Thursday and that the men who stole it had tied up a garage attendant and also a customer who had wandered into the place while they were at work.
 Willson has so far refused to talk much and Sheriff Gallagher intended to question him further after they arrived in Fremont.
 Marshal Nettleman and Mrs. Nettleman were in a shooting affair here several months ago under somewhat the same circumstances.
 Gladius' car later was recovered near Valley, where it had been abandoned.

 "Truth" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, July 24.
 The Golden Text is from Isaiah 65:16: "He who bleaseth himself in the earth shall bless himself in the God of truth; and he that sweareth in the earth shall swear by the God of truth."
 A scriptural passage, quoted in the lesson-sermon, is from verses 2 and 3 of the 61st Psalm: "I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God in Him will I trust. He shall cover thee with His feathers and under His wings shalt thou trust: His truth shall be thy shield and buckler."
 A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Prayer cannot change the unalterable Truth, nor can prayer alone give us an understanding of Truth; but prayer, coupled with a fervent, habitual desire to know and do the will of God, will bring us into all Truth." (page 11).

Theatre Robber Shot In Chicago

Larry Hogan Is Fatally Wounded In Gun Battle This Wednesday.
 Larry Hogan, who is wanted in Madison county for robbery of the Granada theatre in Norfolk January 25, was, according to reports, fatally wounded in a gun battle in Chicago Wednesday.
 Hogan and Howard Ellenburg held up the Granada managers in January and took more than $1,200. After the holdup the two separated and Ellenburg came to a farm near Wayne where he was apprehended the following day. He confessed to the robbery and was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary, which he is now serving.
 Hogan had not been heard of by Madison county authorities until this week when they received word of the gun battle in which he was shot.
 With Hogan in the shooting were Donald Alexander and a girl, whose name was given as Freda Willett, who escaped. The shooting was a sequel to the attempted arrest of the trio for speeding. The men disarmed two officers, shot one in the back and escaped. The trio was sighted later by a running gun battle. Alexander was turned over to the highway police on charge of shooting the officer, but police said Hogan confessed the actual shooting.

Anti-Erosion Measures.

Blair, Neb.—Heavy spring rains this year in Washington county have made evident again the necessity of anti-erosion measures.

Washouts in stubble or hay meadows can be checked successfully, according to County Agent George Bates, with brush dams if the ditches are not more than five or six feet deep and the same distance across. For larger ditches, some permanent equipment such as concrete and tile must be installed.

A number of brush dams built in Washington county six years ago as a demonstration project have been successful in nearly every case. As soon as small grain has been threshed from stubble fields where the washouts occurred, the county agent will help farmers begin control measures.

Ruling Is Given In Supreme Court
Lincoln, Neb.—An order affirming the action of the Madison district court in admitting to probate a will of Samuel E. Lodge which a sister, Mrs. Annie Ploehn, offered, and which was contested by brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces, on the ground that Lodge did not execute the will and that by reason of age he was incompetent to make a will and that he was unduly influenced, has been entered.
Lodge was a bachelor farmer who left 400 acres of land and $18,000 in cash. Mrs. Ploehn had taken care of him for several years before his death. He willed her a life estate in the 240 acres on which he lived, the land to go to her children at her death.
Another sister, Mrs. Ida Walton, was bequeathed the remainder of the land under the same conditions. Equal shares of what remained went to all brothers and sisters and children of deceased brothers or sisters.
The supreme court held the contestants failed to make a case and that the signature of a testator may be affixed to his will by his holding a pen in his hand while another, at his request, holds and directs his hand. The court says it is clear he knew what he was doing and that the will represented his wishes.

Lincoln, Neb.—Assessed valuations of Nebraska personal properties have been cut by several hundred millions, as county boards try to meet demands of citizens for relief from tax burdens.

Intangible values are also being reduced.
In many counties these reductions will mean actual savings to taxpayers. Where levies already are at their legal peak there can be no increase in levy to offset the reduction in property valuations.

Chinese Picture To Be Shown Here

In the "Roar of the Dragon," to be featured Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Gay theatre, as an aftermath of an attack by the guerrilla Voronsky (C. Henry Gordon) and his gang of marauders, Captain Carson (Richard Dix) is forced to tie up his disabled river-boat at the little town of Yoo Lu, in the interior of Manchuria. There, in a Chinese hotel, a transformed Mandarin palace, Carson and his passengers take refuge, bringing ashore their small supply of food, arms and ammunition. Arrangements are made for the repair of the boat which will require two or three days.

Among the passengers are Johnson (Dudley Digges), the blustering portly owner of the line for which Carson works; Dr. Praust (William Aramond), a kindly German physician; Helen (Arlene Judge), a little American show-girl, remnant of a stranded theatrical troupe; and a gabby, timorous tourist (Zasu Pitts). They are registered at the hotel by Busby (Edward Everett Horton), a nervous, timid American, formerly a civil engineer, now turned clerk. Others at the hotel are Natascha (Gwili Andre), an aristocratic Russian woman of mystery, and Sholem, an old Jewish store-keeper.

Desperate Plea.
Natascha begs Carson to take her with him when the boat is repaired, offering to become his mistress if he will save her from the rage of Voronsky, who has been claiming her. Carson half promises his help.

As the gates guarding the hotel are being closed, an American woman who heads the local missionary enters the hotel, accompanied by a mysterious Chinaman who offers his services as cook. Helen assumes the care of the Chinese children.

The bandits renew their attack. Sholem is killed attempting to escape to his store in order to get the provisions he has there. Helen is wounded. This has a startling effect on Busby, who has fallen in love with her, and changes him into a blood-thirsty dare-devil.

Surprise Attack.
Voronsky sinks into the hotel and surprising Natascha, carries her out into the courtyard. Using her as a shield between himself and the stoked defenders' fire, Voronsky bargains with Carson for the surrender of the hotel guests. Carson, however, outwits the bandit chief and carries Natascha back to safety. In the midst of the attack, the mysterious Chinaman opens the gates and the bandits pour into the hotel foreyard. Busby and Carson wipe out the first invaders with a machine-gun, and the bandits retreat.

The Crisis.
The peril of the attack has proved to Natascha and Carson that they have fallen in love with one another and when Carson orders the others to escape under the cover of his machine gun fire, the Russian girl refuses to leave him. However, Carson orders her to retreat with the others telling them to signal when they are safely aboard.

Carson prepares to engage the bandits together with Busby who also remains behind. Again Voronsky steals into the hotel and fatally wounds Busby. Carson kills the bandit chieftain and is pouring his machine gun fire into the attacking bandits when he hears the boat's whistle blow. Then Carson safely gains the boat—and the girl.

Visitors Like Wayne.
O. M. and C. E. Everhart in The Orchard News.

The publishers of the News, together with the "Devil," Harold, grove over to Wayne, Friday, and talk about crops, if this part of the state isn't one mammoth garden spot, we never saw one. In many places small grain was being cut, and fields of corn were being laid by, and in some of the fields it was almost difficult to see the man and team, cultivating, owing to the height of the dark green corn. The hail storm at Randolph did very much damage, with the town area of Randolph in about the middle of the section visited by the destroying storm. Corn was stripped of all its blades, and left stocks about standing in the fields, and potatoes and gardens were beaten flat to the ground. The strip appeared to be about three or four miles long.

At Wayne, we visited the Whitmore family, and found they were doing a thriving business with their school supply store and cafeteria. Mr. Whitmore, graciously loaded up in his car and took us all over the city to see what a wonderfully nice town they really have down here. We visited the Wayne Herald newspaper office, and I believe it is one of the best country newspaper offices in the state with its automatic fed presses, and other up-to-date equipment including the new building. A person from Orchard feels very much at home in Wayne for the fact there are so many Orchard people there, attending summer school. We met Miss Deann Grove, who was very busy in the Whitmore store, she having been interested there since the business was started about eight years ago. Mrs. F. H. Krotcher, was at her home, while Mr. Krotcher was out in the country. Mrs. Wm. Conry and two sons were visited at the home of her parents, who live near the college campus. Mr. Conry was in the country for the day. They are living at Denver, Colorado, where Mr. Conry is teaching. The Conrys taught in Orchard a few years ago. Among the students attending college from here are: Eva Holliday, Marguerite Mumberson, Bernice Sherrer, John Blackmore, Anna Willats, Mildred Strope, Eleanor Meuret, Marie Mahood, Bernice and Leona Hill and Belva Lautenschlager.

Lloyd Sexton, who had been in Wayne since the Fourth, accompanied us home, and when we were leaving the city, going south toward Norfolk, we passed a couple of tents at the side of the road, and Lloyd said they were some former Orchard folks, so we retraced our route and stopped in front of the tents, and out came Mr. and Mrs. Joe Newberry. (Joe still has that quick elastic step.) They seemed pleased to see some one from Orchard, and after visiting with them for about five minutes, we went on our way, stopped in Norfolk for a few hours with relatives and returned home in the middle of the night after spending a long hot day, but an enjoyable one.

Harvest Of Grain Making Progress

Cutting of small grain in this vicinity is finished and threshing crews are starting this week. Some wheat and barley were threshed at the Leonard Link farm the last of the week, this being about the ear- liest. The grain is most of it well filled out and the straw is quite heavy. The yield is expected to run higher than for several years.

Cutting and stacking of hay have occupied the attention most of last week also.

Corn is in excellent condition. Most of that struck by hail a couple weeks ago is starting new growth. Light showers Saturday and Sunday helped the corn, but more moisture will be needed soon.

Balance In State Is Somewhat Lower

Lincoln, July 5.—The balance in Nebraska's general fund on June 30, the end of the fiscal year, stood at $2,083,937, which is half a million dollars less than the amount on hand at the same time a year ago. The comparative figure on June 30, 1931, was $2,591,508.

Most of the decrease is accounted for by the decline of revenue from real estate taxes. This year the tax money has been coming in slowly and the number of delinquencies has increased. As a result, only $366,795 was taken in by the state general fund in June against $1,390,102 for the same month a year ago. Part of the difference, however, is due to a lower state levy this year.

Expenditures from the general fund were about the same $580,667 in June, 1932, compared with $688,822 in the same month last year.

The balance of over $2,000,000 now on hand will go down during the next few months, until 1932 personal and corporation tax payments start coming in December.

In the gasoline tax fund the shrinkage from last year is greater than the general fund shows. On June 30 the gas tax balance was $617,366, where a year ago the sum of $1,738,913 was on hand. The chief reason for the decline of more than 60 percent is that the revenue from gasoline tax during the first four months of 1932 had to be paid out for work done last year which left no accumulated funds to start the new season. Motor vehicle license money has decreased from $300,474 on June 30 last year to $144,554 on the same date this year.

The state university cash fund, derived from fees and miscellaneous earnings of the university, has $282,682 on hand now, compared with $212,685 a year ago. This is the only one of the principal funds to show an increase over June 30, 1931.

Altogether, the state had in all funds at the close of business last month, a combined cash balance of $5,075,155. A year ago the aggregate was $7,393,974.

Rooster Adopts Chicks. Wisner, Neb.—A bantam rooster on the Charles Pfueger farm, three miles north of Wisner, has adopted a brood of chicks deserted by the mother hen. During the day, he hunts and scratches for a livelihood for his brood.

Livestock Turns the Corner. Omaha Stock Journal.—Stockman: Standing in front of the market board in the Exchange lobby one day this week, an observant visitor called attention to the way in which the messages there brightened the eyes and brought smiles to the faces of the men who stopped to see what the market was doing. "It wasn't like this a few weeks ago," he recalled. "Men who stood here then were downcast and wore worried frowns. The change has been wonderful."

There, in a word, is the true picture of what the recent steady advance in cattle and hog prices has done for the agricultural Middle West. Not only has it meant more dollars for stock that is ready to sell now, but more important still, it has revived the faith and courage of a whole section of this country in what lies ahead.

Merchants, particularly in the agricultural towns or cities, are placing orders for new stocks of goods now with far more confidence than they did 60 or 90 days ago. Bankers have changed their attitude, too. Their deposits are increasing, they see debts being paid, and to keep this money working they are actively seeking sound loans.

Just a step beyond these present actualities, one may vision factory workers re-employed, builders returning to work to supply the needs of a reviving industry, railroads hauling more freight, stores increasing their forces of clerks in short, a whole endless chain of renewed activity coming back again to the farmer in the shape of increased demand for his products.

The depression began with agriculture and it is not surprising that it should end in the same place. Today, the farm offers one of the best and safest investments available. And by the same token farmers, who have long been shy on buying power, are about to become one of industry's best customers. At last we are turning that long-sought corner and the live stock farmer, whose faith and courage have never died, is leading the way.

The Best Policy. (Lincoln Journal) "I do not believe that people can be cured of their natural dishonesty," Ed Howe wrote recently, "but still have hope they can be taught honesty is the best policy, if we teach it as industriously as we have been teaching some of our untrue doctrines."

This comment brought a response from the head of a large bonding company, a company which makes its money by guaranteeing the honesty of employees of other companies, of public servants and the like and which is faced with the responsibility of making up the losses that occur when these persons fail in their duty.

"The experience of this company in paying dishonesty losses forty years convinces me that what is needed in this world is the teaching of honesty rather than preaching of it," this man writes Mr. Howe.

"Our preaching has resulted in honesty being regarded as a 'Goody-goody' doctrine. No real effort is made to impress young people with the practical benefit to be derived from honesty as an asset. If children were sufficiently taught honesty from the beginning, and continuously, it would not be so easy for men and women to depart from honest ways, and get into trouble dishonestly always brings."

This is an intensely practical age. This fact may be deplored but it remains regardless. If a man is convinced that honesty and the other virtues pay dividends he will be influenced. That is why this bonding executive has so much faith in education. He feels that education will teach the lesson that, in his estimation at least, preaching has failed to impress. The idea is worthy of consideration.

A Population Problem. Sioux City Journal: No doubt the answer to the question of why Japan invaded and made conquest of Manchuria is contained in an article by Yusuke Tsurumi in the Yale Review, which explains the need of expansion as a solution of the constantly increasing population problem. For Japan, heedless of the narrow confines of its territorial boundaries, has permitted population increases to an extent that makes expansion imperative. Not a bit of which possibly can be seen in the light of modern civilization thought as justified. A people that must impose upon another to satisfy its demands for growth simply has not recognized human rights nor sensed the fact of its own needs.

Mr. Tsurumi recalls that in 1868 Japan's population was 32,000,000, that it had doubled in 60 years, there being 64,450,000 according to the census of 1930. The present rate of increase is approximately 1,000,000 a year. By 1960 Japan proper would have a population of 100,000,000, and, as Mr. Tsurumi reminds, in a territory smaller than the state of California. This would be equivalent to packing all the people of the United States into California except those living in New England and New York.

measures of population control would be taken. One may doubt that Japan has been as progressive in thought as so frequently claimed in recent years.

A Tragedy of Fifty. Omaha World-Herald: The loyal wife speaks: "Even if he got a job, he wouldn't be in a condition to make good. Three years of worry and despondency cannot be tossed off lightly."

"He" had just attempted to take his own life. Three years of worry and despondency, three years mostly spent in fruitless seeking for the kind of work for which his training and experience best qualified him, had brought him to that pass. "It's no use," he had said, "Nobody wants a man 50 years old."

This isn't primarily a tragedy of the depression, although the depression may have been a contributing factor. Fundamentally it appears to have been a tragedy of corporate soullessness and the predicament of the man past 40. "He" was 47 with every reason apparently to believe that, within his groove of salesmanship, he was competent, able, successful and assured of the chance to win the bread for his family for an indefinite future period. But his corporate employer didn't think so. He became a victim of that prejudice, complained of long before the depression set in, against the man past 40. A younger man replaced him and there was no demand elsewhere for his training and experience.

One thing which we believe is being learned from this depression is that, if the corporation is to continue to be a dominating influence in our business life, it must become endowed with a soul. Corporation executives are finding it out, as one may judge from the public utterances of Owen D. Young and from the practices which he has been attempting to inaugurate in the corporation which he heads.

Corporations cannot deal with men as they deal with machinery, figuring depreciation on them for a term of years and then scrapping them as worn out or obsolete, to be replaced with new machines. Mankind will not endure it. Such tragedies as that of the man who decided at 50, after three years of hopeless struggle, that he was no longer wanted on the earth can be multiplied too often.

Not only humanity and common decency, but common sense as well demand better treatment of the man past 40. The world can offer too many examples of the extraordinary powers and the splendid service of men, not merely past 40, but past 50, 60 and even 70 to permit this foolish prejudice to attain respectability. Nobody wants a man 50 years old? Let the world try once to get along without the men of 50 and beyond and see what comes of it!
