

County, Should Share In Federal Road Building Fund - Satisfactory Checkup on Herald Advertising - Other Observations in Course of Week.

A Lincoln report, quotes Governor Bryan as saying that $2,500,000 will be received by Nebraska for road purposes from the recently adopted relief plan, and this amount will be increased to $5,000,000 by the gasoline tax and the customary federal appropriations for highway construction.

Checkup On Results. "We have checked up on results of advertising in the Herald," said a regular user of this newspaper this week, "and we find response eminently satisfactory. We find we can make complete coverage of the field in Herald advertising without using bills or other means, and thus the cost of keeping the public posted on buying news is very materially reduced. By exercise of such economy we can sell cheaper."

For Public Economy. A citizen mentions two things which he believes would be important contributors to public economy—the city manager plan and county consolidations. Both have been tried, and facts touching the experience could be easily ascertained.

Eight or even fifteen counties in northeast Nebraska could be consolidated without inconvenience to the public and with assurance of big savings in operating costs. Due to automobiles and hard-surfaced roads one may travel 50 or 100 miles as quickly and easily as he did ten or twelve miles in the old days when boundary lines were fixed.

Whiskers as a Fad. Some towns in the state have insisted on men growing crops of whiskers in order to give emphasis to old-time events in connection with celebrations. However ugly nature fashioned a man's looks, he is, with few exceptions, made to look worse under a mask of whiskers.

The Primary. Henry Field's success in winning the Iowa senatorial nomination away from Senator Brookhart is probably one of the faults of the primary. Quite likely also Brookhart would never have landed in the senate, if a convention had passed on his qualities of statesmanship.

Changes Being Made At School. Various improvements and minor alterations are being made this week in the classrooms and assembly hall at the high school building.

SEEK WORK ON WAYNE-PIERCE HIGHWAY SOON

Officials of Two Counties Will Send Petition To Governor Bryan. WOULD ELIMINATE HILLS. Officials and business men of Pierce and Wayne counties will cooperate in an effort to obtain a permanent grade and gravel on highway No. 113 between the towns of Pierce and Wayne.

Log Has Been Made. A log of the highway between the two towns was made several years ago by highway department crews.

Wayne county residents who met with the Pierce county delegation were Dr. U. S. Conn, B. W. Wright, Frank Eryleben, Commissioner, Rollic W. Ley, David Koch, J. A. Ahern and Charles Carhart.

Rapid Progress On College Field

Retaining Wall Completed. Will Have Quarter Mile Track. Workmen this week completed the construction of a concrete retaining wall around the north and west sides of the athletic field at the State Teachers College.

Finishing work on the new dormitory at the college will be completed this week. Equipment and furnishings probably will be placed in the new building in two weeks.

Kindergarten And Several Other Rooms Are Redeclared. Various improvements and minor alterations are being made this week in the classrooms and assembly hall at the high school building.

Heat and Fear. Every year from seed time in the spring until the last crop is gathered in the autumn everybody's anxiety is pitched high.

Sioux City Journal: With a short national and world wheat crop this year, the North Dakota plan to hold the grain for $1 as a minimum price would work if generally adopted. It is doubted that this one state, which produces approximately one-sixth of the wheat grown in the country, could accomplish its aim alone. North Dakota will need co-operation from other wheat producing states. Sponsors of the plan cannot expect full, complete co-operation from all wheat growers. There will be individuals too hard pressed for ready cash for that to develop. Some will have to sell, regardless of price, and they will let their grain go. Farmers, however, in North Dakota and other wheat producing states who can hold the grain for a better price, could achieve the re-sons desired. If two-thirds of the wheat is held for the higher price and those who hold it can hang on long enough, the battle will be won. Human beings must have bread. They want wheat. So there is a constant demand for the grain. Dollar wheat would not frighten anyone into abandoning bread. Millers in heed of what will pay the price demanded if that is required to loosen the grip of the framers who are holding it. After all this is the only proper step that can be taken for orderly marketing. Dumping wheat on the market at harvest time when prices are unsatisfactory is the worst thing that can be done. ## Philippine Islands Are Delightful Place To Live According to Karos

Mrs. H. Arnold Karo Writes About Flowers And Sights In That Place

Mrs. H. Arnold Karo, formerly Miss Lola Mitchell of Wayne, whose husband with the United States coast and geodetic survey at Manila, Philippine Islands, writes June 28 to Mrs. William Beckenhauer and excerpts from her letter are as follows:
"We are having a marvelously interesting experience. After a perfect trip over, that lasted a few days less than a month and gave us times in Honolulu, Japan and China, we spent over two months in Manila. Life in Manila is delightful, very gay and carefree because everybody can afford servants. All the conveniences of modern life are found there and there is an endless number of entertaining things to do. Most of the bridge luncheons begin at 9 in the morning and end with an early luncheon. In the afternoons we swim or attend late teas, another favorite way to entertain. The dinner hour is late and dances seldom begin before 10. We play golf early in the morning, from 6 to 8 as a rule.
"We were sent for a summer's work to this province of Albay and here we really are getting close-up view of native life in the tropics. There are very few whites but those who are here are British and American people of culture and charm. They are teachers and missionaries. Standard oil men, people in charge of large industries and those of us in the coast survey, about 18 families in all. They are a very friendly and congenial group and we are entertained very often.
"This is a beautiful tropical country. Mayon, an active volcano, dominates the scene of luxuriant beauty. Delicious tropical fruits grow here, bananas, coconuts, papaya, mangoes, pineapples and a tiny tart fruit that we use in iced tea, the lemoncila. Betelnuts also grow on trees resembling date palms. The natives chew betelnuts and thereby get their teeth stained black. We took a trip inland one day not long ago and saw more interesting things than I can mention. The natives, outside the towns where whites live, seem contented, happy and lazy.
"I wish I could send you samples of the gorgeous flowers blooming here. I knew the names of some of them. Canna seem to thrive especially well, growing higher than our heads and brilliant yellow and red in color with every shade between the two. There are 300 varieties of hibiscus in these islands and we see many of them, some so delicate that they look like roses. A yellow cup of a flower called campanilla is lovely just now, as is also the pink crepe Myrtle whose native name is Melemdres. An odd flower is one that in size and structure is like our snowballs at home but in color is a rusty red. It is called santan or santella. Flowering trees are numerous, the most common right now being the poinciana, a beautiful sight, a huge tree simply covered with coral-colored blossoms. Not long ago the yellow acacia trees were gorgeous. Of course orchids grow here. I have forgotten how many varieties of orchids there are but I have seen some exquisite things from the size of thimbles on up to the usual size. Ferns grow profusely and there is a delicate flowering vine, the pink cadena d'armour (chain of love), that is used widely for table decorations. Gardenias grow and marigolds, but few if any flowers lend themselves to corsages, they are too large or too flamboyant."
Comes To County For Investigation
Grasshopper infestation in Wayne county is not likely, according to investigation made by L. N. Gates, state entomologist, who was sent here to see conditions last Thursday. Representative Frank Klotz had been in Lincoln the first of last week conferring with Dwight Felton, deputy secretary of the department of agriculture, and Felton sent Gates to this section to investigate. Mr. Gates says there are, as usual, a good many grasshoppers in grass along roads, but they have not entered the fields. If any farmers find the grasshoppers entering their fields, they are asked to write to Mr. Felton at Lincoln, and information about poisons and their application will be sent.
Has Arm Broken In Fall Off Pony
Merlin G. son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Finn, had both bones in his right forearm broken Tuesday evening when he fell from his pony. The lad was sitting on the animal and slipped off, falling onto the arm.
Off to the Black Hills.
Paul Harrington and family left this morning on a trip to the Black Hills.
Agriculture The Leader.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: Many people still regard steel as the leader in American industry and will be unable to see any signs of revival until the steel business picks up. Steel is referred to as the back log of industry. It may be that but there is no getting away from the fact that there must be a revival of agriculture before the back log can show much fire.
With steel production down to an eighth of capacity, it is said that replacement is not being maintained. Even a machine that merely stands idle deteriorates, and, of course, the process of rusting never stops. It is reported that something over two hundred thousand freight cars on class I roads are in need of immediate repair. Users of steel find that it is likely to take longer than usual to have orders filled, because stocks are low, and it is a big undertaking to get into operation for perhaps a small order of some special size or kind.
The situation with respect to steel is duplicated in other products. Stocks are generally low, and mills and factories have kept their inventories down. On this basis the prediction is to be heard that once the orders start rolling in, the stepping up process will show some speed. This does not necessarily mean profits, as prices have been cut practically to cost, and it will take some time and some substantial business to get them up. At the outset operation on a narrow margin will be preferred to the idleness that has been and still is the general lot. With labor again employed, the country will be in a much improved frame of mind, and once the wheels of industry start they ought to keep going.
Outside of Wall Street the leadership of steel in industry and business is being challenged by agriculture and a return to activity in steel production will be proof that agriculture is once more in a prosperous condition and farmers in a position to purchase the products of the steel mills.
The forgotten man will not forget.—Thomaston Times.

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1932.

NUMBER SIXTEEN

Wed In Stanton Tuesday Evening

Miss Crystal Dragon Is Bride Of Mr. Glenn H. Johnson Of Humphrey.

Miss Crystal A. Dragon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dragon of Wayne, and Mr. Glenn H. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Wayne, were married on Tuesday evening, July 19, at 8 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage in Stanton, Rev. F. H. Essert performing the ceremony.

The bride wore blue georgette with hat and other accessories to match. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Wayne, attended them.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson received their schooling in Wayne. Mr. Johnson has been employed in the theatre business in Wayne for 13 years, and Mrs. Johnson has been assisting in the theatre here six years.

Suggests Methods To Make On Hogs

Lincoln, Neb.—The recent upturn in cattle and hog market prices further proves or illustrates aspects of an unstable market, in the opinion of Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the College of Agriculture in Lincoln.

Prof. Gramlich says the market value of hogs and corned cattle are both high in the late summer and early fall months when the receipts are light. He mentions the possibility of farrowing pigs out of season in order to put them on the market when receipts are the lowest.

Five Plans Suggested

The college professor suggests five plans where the hogs may be put on the high market. They may be farrowed in September and carried through the winter and early spring on growing rations and then turned on grass in March or April and fattened later to finish for the July or August market.

Other plans call for farrowing in January, February or March so as to put the hogs on the high market. However, with all of the practices there are certain drawbacks and the pigs would have to be crowded for market.

While the prices of cattle and hogs are relatively high now, they are still below the average for the same period of other years. The decreased hog supply will probably tend to hold up the market late. Some farmers say they cannot afford to feed hogs of cattle in the summer months when the busy time is upon them, but Gramlich says at the present time and probably during the next year they may get more for their grain by marketing it through live stock and hence the plan may be a paying one.

The general public should not be scared away from eating meat even at increasing prices, Gramlich says. The upturn is only seasonal and should be expected. Meat at the present time is cheap in comparison to other foods and the consumption should not be decreased. It is highly nutritious and necessary in the well balanced diet.

RANDOLPH YOUTHS ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE NEBRASKA WINTERS

Seeking to "escape" Nebraska winters, three Randolph youths left their homes last Wednesday on a proposed hitch-hiking trip to Arkansas, which ended 24 hours later when they were picked up in Norfolk and returned to their parents.

Posessing $1.92 in cash and two gunny sacks filled with extra shirts and overalls, the boys, Baldwin Jones, 15, Kenneth Daws, 15, and Merl Daws, 13, left Randolph about 10:30 p. m. Wednesday and soon picked up a ride.

At Pierce they decided to stay all night. They picked grass to make their beds in the grandstand at the fair grounds. They did not eat supper. The next morning they bought rolls and bologna for their breakfast.

After breakfast, they continued their trip to Norfolk. At noon they stopped at a farm house for a drink and a kind woman provided them with dinner. At noon on Thursday the Norfolk radio station, WJAG, broadcast a message about the runaway boys and half an hour later they had been picked up by officers and were awaiting the arrival of relatives.

Asked the reason they wanted to leave their homes, the boys replied that they wanted to "get away from Nebraska winters." They expected to get jobs picking apples in Arkansas.

Want No Unfair Advantage

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Account of the active and persistent propaganda by professional political farmers and self constituted agricultural leaders the country has gained the impression that farmers are always seeking help from the government. Nothing could be farther from the truth. No class of people are more independent, self reliant and asking no favors than farmers.

While the men and women out on the land are insisting that other interests be given no special favors by the government they are just as insistent that they be accorded a fair deal unhampered by regulation or supervision by government agencies.

"As a close-to-the-soil farmer who lives on the farm let me say positively that I do not believe that farmers as a class, and but few as individuals, want any subsidy," says W. P. Buchanan of Virginia. "Neither do they want organized interference, governmental or otherwise, with the natural flow of farm commodities in commerce. The farmer, more than anyone else, knows that nature will ultimately have her way; and he prefers that natural methods direct the course of his commodities after they have been produced.

"Most, if not all, of the major farm relief plans advanced up to this time involve a federal subsidy, indirectly though it be. In the production end it is well known that natural laws can not successfully be set aside; by now it is surely understood that such artificial barriers as holding a rapidly accumulating surplus, with no control over production, can have but one possible result. We now suffer from that result. Furthermore, the mere size of the present governmental operations in certain agricultural commodities intimidates the normal trader and deters him from normal operations.

"Certain of them are called gamblers, I believe. As a gambler who equals the farmer? But right here let's be honest with ourselves: If you had a thousand bushels of wheat for sale or a crop of cotton, or of corn, would you prefer one bidder or 10 bidders? Do not destroy natural markets.

We must get away from the idea of price fixing as a solution of our troubles. Let economic laws fix the price; it is then up to the individual farmer to produce at a cost to show a profit, lose money, or try some other crop or occupation. Exactly the same economic laws govern in agriculture as in banking or in other business. The utter fallacy of doctrines to the contrary has been abundantly demonstrated during the last two or three years."

Prices For Hogs Show Trend Up

Lincoln, Neb.—A steady firm trend in hog prices in the next 30 days seems probable unless recent advances attract too many unfinished hogs to the markets.

Prof. Harold Hedges, of the Nebraska College of Agriculture, indicates in his monthly economic situation report from the college. He adds, however, that it is difficult to anticipate what the effects of the recent price advance will be.

The economic situation also indicates that the course of wheat prices for the period will be influenced largely by progress of spring wheat in the northwest and Canada. Prospects for a large corn crop for 1932 will work against the usual seasonal strengthening of corn prices from July to August, while a firm market for finished steers seems probable for the next 30 days.

Butter prices should continue near present levels with the possibility of seasonal firmness developing toward the latter part of the period, while some seasonal advance in egg prices should occur.

Hedges says the recent estimates place the Canadian crop of wheat at from 450,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels, against 284,000 last year. Conditions have been unusually favorable for both United States and Canadian spring seedings. Any change is more likely toward less than more favorable prospects, with the hazard of rust still ahead.

The July 1 federal estimate for corn was a crop of 2,966,000,000 bushels, or 17 per cent larger than last year's crop and 14 per cent above the 5-year average. The indicated yield is but little above the 10 year average, but the acreage is the second largest ever planted.

Any firmness in corn prices during the 90 days, other than might come from adverse growing conditions, will probably be due to decreasing receipts and improved demand, the economic situation says.

Though a firm market for finished steers seems probable for the period, seasonal weakness will probably be in evidence for the lower grades of slaughter cattle. Supplies of fed cattle appear to be quite limited.

Reports on butter production indicate that it is past the seasonal peak and declining slowly. Hedges says in the report. If pasture conditions remain nearer normal than they did a year ago, when druth conditions prevailed over a large area, production should not drop off so rapidly as in 1931. Storage holdings of butter on July 1 were about 5 per cent under last year and the five-year average.

Not only are egg receipts at principal markets declining seasonably, but they are still running well under last year, the report says in indicating the possibility of seasonable advance in egg prices. Receipts at four principal markets for the first 14 days in July were 7 per cent under a year ago, while the cold storage holdings of eggs were very small on July 1, being nearly a third less than a year ago.

Telephone Ruling Affects Carroll

Lincoln, Neb.—The state railroad commission has authorized the waiving of collection of installation and connection charges from now until May 1, next year, by the Northeastern Telephone company, Union Telephone company of Carroll, Northern Telephone company of Creighton, Skeegee Telephone company, of St. Edward, and companies operating out of Belden, Blair, Meadow Grove and Arlington.

They belong to the E. C. Hunt group. Economic conditions have forced many subscribers to cancel service. With improved conditions, the companies plan a solicitation campaign for renewal of service and plan to offer free reinstallation as an inducement.

Relief Bill Signed

St. Louis City Journal: President Hoover has signed the relief bill, which means that the federal government will undertake to stimulate business activity by giving financial aid, through loans, to worthy enterprises and to prevent human distress in the country because of unemployment. This was the legislation over which there was so much wrangling in both houses of congress and which at last was adjusted in a way that made it acceptable to the chief executive.

The relief bill as passed by congress just before its adjournment and now signed by the president may have some objectionable features. There are few pieces of legislation that are perfect. Its administration also may develop some abuses. But the intent of the legislation is good. No doubt it will prove to be of great benefit to the country at large.

Of particular interest is the provision which allocates hundreds of millions of dollars for unemployment relief. This means that the federal government will aid states and communities that stand in need of financial help. It does not mean that Uncle Sam is willing to shoulder the whole burden. He could spend billions if he undertook to do that, and the plain fact is that he hasn't the billions to spend.

Plan New Projects On Roads Of State

Lincoln, Neb., July 21—Governor Bryan today announced Nebraska will receive $2,500,000 for road construction from the federal government under a new relief bill.

The United States bureau of roads advised the governor of Nebraska's share of the 132 million dollar appropriation for road construction.

The money, Bryan said, can be used to match federal aid funds already allotted to Nebraska, but which have not been used, making a total available for federal highway development in Nebraska, which must be spent before June 30, 1933, of five million dollars.

"This five million dollars together with the amount available in Nebraska from the gasoline tax and other sources for road construction, will enable us to construct many grading, graveling and paving, both cement and oil projects that could not have been done without the emergency relief fund," the governor said.

The state probably will be able now to construct various pieces of road development which were included in a tentative road program this year.

"This vastly increased road program for this year will be carried out under the same rules protecting labor that were put in force at the letting of road work three weeks ago, namely: There will be a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour; there will be a maximum number of hours for one shift of men of 10 hours; labor local will be used where the road is being developed excepting necessary skilled labor; hand and team labor will be used as far as practical; and Nebraska material including cement, structural steel, sand, gravel and lumber will be given the preference, everything also being equal.

It's Mr. Hoover who'll now have the job of trying to "stop Roosevelt."—Arkansas Gazette.

As To Feeding Corn Or Wheat

Lincoln, Neb.—The average Nebraska farmer will probably feed his corn rather than his wheat this coming year. While the work of the weather man still has a great deal to do in deciding on the 1932 crop, Prof. H. J. Gramlich, chairman of the animal husbandry department of the University of Nebraska, believes that corn rather than wheat should be fed. Many experiments at the state university have shown that it is profitable to feed wheat rather than the usual corn ration when the two grains are about the same price. Last year much wheat was fed to livestock due to the heavy wheat crop and the short corn crop. This year conditions will probably be reversed.

PROF. H. J. GRAMLICH

The top price during June for wheat in Omaha was 60 cents per bushel, while the top price for corn for the same month was 31 1/2 cents. On July 18 the top for wheat was 47 cents, with an average of 42 cents, and the top for corn was 32 cents. During July, 1931, the Omaha top for wheat was 54 cents and the Omaha top for corn was 56 cents. The July 1 estimate for Nebraska wheat was about 21,000,000 bushels, or about one-third of the 1931 crop, according to Professor Gramlich, while there will probably be a double corn crop. With the short wheat crop and heavy corn crop, corn will be the proper feed in most localities. In sections where the wheat crop is good and the corn crop poor, then it will pay to feed wheat rather than to buy corn.

It has been found that all wheat used in feeding should be ground. It has been further found in experimental work that the best results are secured by feeding the wheat dry. For hog feeding the "self-feeder" has been found to work very satisfactorily. Experimental work in wheat feeding has been carried on at the state university since 1901, when Chancellor E. A. Burnett, then a professor at the Agricultural college, conducted the first experiments. Additional work has progressed to the point where more data on wheat feeding may be found at the state university experiment station than at any other station in the country.

Winnebago, Neb.—Word has been passed around among the Indians who will participate in the Winnebago pow-wow that they will be obliged to rest occasionally by order of the United States officials. The government does not want a repetition of other years when aged Indians died from exhaustion after dancing for many hours. On Friday and Saturday of last week many of the editors of north-east Nebraska gathered at Norfolk for the semi-annual meeting of the Press association.

The Sons of Herman have completed plans for their annual picnic to be held at Henry Meyer's grove Sunday. Savidge Brothers of Ewing, Neb., will play a game of polo in Ford cars at Wayne next Monday under the auspices of the Public Service club.

J. H. Ulman of Sac City, Ia., has taken over the management of the Gem cafe and plans many improvements, including decorations of ten foot palms.

The fire alarm was sounded late Friday and firemen were called to the residence of Alex Henneger. The flaming of an oil stove frightened Mrs. Henneger and she turned in the alarm, but a bucket of water put out the fire and no damage was done. The services of the firemen were not needed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mines and daughters and Mrs. Mines' mother left Wednesday for a month's outing at Lake Okoboji.

Mrs. Christian Kruger, 63, died at her home near Winside Sunday morning.

The sons, Carl and Fritz, and daughters, Lizzie and Mary, of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frevert of near Wayne visited at the homes respectively on Sunday of C. J. Fuhrman and E. O. Behmer at Hoskins.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beuthien and three daughters, who had spent some time visiting at the Ludwick

Tuesday to attend the assembly at Epworth Lake park. The ice cream social which was planned for Monday night at the Carl Wright home in Brenna was postponed on account of the two threshing machines in the vicinity. L. Walker, who represented the management of the event, was seen every in Hoskins, left for Madison Monday where he will visit the Nelson and Anderson teams of horses for the race track.

To say that the carnival of last Saturday at Carroll, which was managed by the Carroll band, drew a large crowd would be putting it mildly. It was a regular gala day and people flocked to town in the provincial Fourth of July style.

J. J. Chilcott of Leslie, passed away Sunday morning after a sickness of several months.

Twelve couples of venturesome young people participated in a "barrel" party Friday evening at Carroll. They began by hiking out of town through the alleys and side streets and then by wandering across country wherever fancy suggested. They ate lunch under a friendly hay stack.

Bee Crop Is Good.
Lincoln, Neb.—Though production may have been temporarily hindered by the recent hot and dry weather, prospects for a normal honey-crop from bees in Nebraska are reported to be good by O. S. Banc, extension entomologist at the college of agriculture.

Farmers Using More Horses.
Omaha Journal-Stockman—The horse will never occupy the same place in the economy of the farm that he did a generation ago but he is doing more farm work today than he did three years ago. Farm equipment dealers report that sales to mid-western farmers of harness, machinery repair parts and horse-drawn equipment attachments for the first five months of 1932 exceed those of any period in recent years.

"Manufacturers of the horse harness, such as halters, collars, hames and other items, have reported steadily mounting sales in recent months," says Wayne Dinmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America. He attributes this largely to the fact that in this period of abnormally low farm prices farmers find it much more economical to feed these crops to horses and mules than to purchase fuel for motor car and tractor consumption.

Sentiment cuts no great figure in the case. Farmers have learned that on some farms and under some conditions the use of horses reduces cost of production and that it what they are after. Power machinery can never entirely supersede the horse and experience is showing the wisdom of each farmer making the selection of power that suits his particular needs.

The Waterways and Omaha.
Omaha World-Herald: Signing of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty emphasizes again the importance of channel development of the Missouri river.
Within ten years, it now seems assured, ocean going steamers will be loading and unloading freight at Chicago and other midwestern harbors on the Great Lakes.

Long before that time the Chicago diversion canal will have completed the task of giving that city a water outlet to the Gulf of Mexico by way of the Chicago and Mississippi rivers.
Industries in the middle west will be able to compete, in freight rates, with those of seaports. Farmers of the middle west will get more per bushel for their grain, because freight charges will be less.

If Omaha is to share in the gains to come from these projects, Omaha must be a river port, with barge lines plying the Missouri to the Mississippi, and linking there with other lines reaching the sea.

The more quickly the upper Missouri is made navigable, the more quickly will Omaha and the other river towns and river states, and the farmers and industries of the middle west profit.
