The Farm Movement. REPORTS from lately organized groups to restrict the marketing of farm produce, show a determination not to hamper the movement by permitting the employment of violent picketing as evident around Sioux City and Council Bluffs.

Commenting on the farm strike, the Lincoln Journal says if the outcome "is the formation of an orderly marketing of farm products, it may have been worth all the trouble it cost."

The Herald's loyal readers may not only serve their own buying advantage by studying Herald advertisements and patronizing Herald advertisers, but they may in that way strengthen this newspaper and its service.

The Economic Conference. Literary Digest: Naturally there is a political side to an economic conference called by a President running for reelection in the midst of a campaign hinging largely on economic issues.

The Securities Market. Omaha Journal-Stockman: If a sharp advance in prices of stocks, bonds and other securities is an evidence of returning prosperity, then it can be said with safety that the country is on its way.

Miss Cunningham Married In West

Former Resident Becomes Bride of C. L. Youmell In Glendale.

Many Wayne friends will be interested in hearing of the wedding of Miss Virginia Louise Cunningham of Hollywood, Calif., to Mr. Clifford Lawrence Youmell on Sunday, August 21, at the Wee Kirk by the Heather in Glendale.

The bride was lovely in a gown of Jorgar crepe and Alecon lace fashioned along Empire lines, the delicate tea rose coloring being accentuated by hat and accessories in black.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham presided at a wedding dinner for the bridal party at the Arroyo Seco hotel in Pasadena the flowers and place cards carrying out the color motif of pink and blue.

Immediately after the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Youmell departed for Arroyo, famous beach resort and art colony near San Diego.

After being graduated from the Hollywood high school Mrs. Youmell attended the University of California at Los Angeles.

That advertising in newspapers pays in more than selling goods, the city of Philadelphia found recently.

With a cut of $22,500 in the city's budget, Lincoln city council, in order to lower street cleaning expense, is considering passing a law preventing distribution of handbills and other such forms of advertising.

"Marriage is what you make it," says William Lyon Phelps. This is true not only of marriage, but of education, business and many other relationships.

Selfish ends or satisfaction of the moment often lead one to do or say things which he regrets.

Rewards of immortality are always appealing to one with clear conscience. As responsibilities multiply in strenuous life these rewards seem ever sweeter.

In Mower Accident. Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 2—Emil Moldenbauer, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moldenbauer, farmers, was severely lacerated on the left shoulder, arm and hip in a mowing machine accident late Thursday.

He was adjusting the harness on a team of mules when the animals jumped and ran, throwing him to the ground in the path of the sickle.

Mrs. H. J. Miner left Saturday morning for Los Angeles, Calif., to spend about a month with her son, Ellis Miner, and family, also with other relatives and friends.

The Carl Berntsons Revisit Their Old Homes In Sweden

Just 22 years ago, Mrs. Carl Berntson left her Swedish birthland, the dear ones and friendly neighbor-folk at her girldoom, to start a new life in a strange land.

Answering the query, did she find Sweden different from her recollections of it, Mrs. Berntson said it was quite as beautiful, and quite as meticulously clean as in her girldoom, but that modern inventions had been adopted quite generally, and the newer homes were a great deal the same style as in this country.

After eight days on the water they reached Sweden and journeyed at once to Mr. Berntson's home, Varburg, where they visited a week with his mother, Mr. Berntson left Sweden 29 years ago and had not returned since he brought his wife here in 1910.

The people seemed in very good circumstances—there was little talk of financial difficulties. Farm prices were lower, of course, but most everyone raised part of his food and had enough to eat.

Perhaps the paramount impression Mrs. Berntson brings from Sweden is of its beauty. Lovely green woods, colorful rocks, picturesque mountains, and everywhere, an abundance of lovely flowers.

Travel in Sweden is largely by train or bus; electric trains are common and afford comfortable riding. Some coaches are American style, others like those of England, with side aisle and private sections.

Germany's Demand. Sioux City Journal: The demand made by the German government for revision of the treaty of Versailles, permitting it to enjoy equality in land and sea armaments with other countries of Europe, is one resulting from the long period of economic and political injustice suffered by the Germans under the autocratic domination of the continent by France.

Germany in formally requesting this equality in armament has forced the whole question of disarmament into the foreground where it cannot escape a searching examination by the whole civilized world.

Wallace M. Short, former Sioux City mayor, and William Berger of Dakota City, addressed a gathering of farmers at the court house lawn here Friday evening.

Remarkable Collection Of Specimens Occupies Morrill Hall At Lincoln

Adam Brede Elephants, Morrill Hall, University of Nebraska.

The larger of the two elephants stands about 10 feet high at the shoulders while the smaller one is about 8 feet high at the shoulders. They stand in the center of the famous "Elephant Hall," with the larger elephant facing the main entrance.

Entirely different from the old idea of mounting an animal by stuffing it with straw or some other substance, the Adam Brede elephants are mounted in the latest known processes. The combined thickness of the skin of these elephants bears about the same proportion to the total size of the animal as an eggshell does to that of an egg.

Besides the Adam Brede group of elephants there are two water buffalo and a rhinoceros donated by Mr. Brede on exhibition. A lioness and a giraffe will probably be added during the coming year.

Just A Little Care Means Healthy Hair

Especially at this season of the year, when women are seldom going hatless, and when hats are snug-fitting, cutting off all air and sunshine from the hair, it is most important to give the hair its "five-minutes-a-day."

Morning and night, the hair should be thoroughly brushed to cleanse it of dust, and distribute oil the length of the hairs. This will make the hair glossy and free from split ends. Fifty good strokes will do wonders to stimulate the blood in the scalp, and give the hair a live appearance.

Equally important is daily scalp massage, just before retiring. Begin at back of neck and work upward and forward, going over the entire scalp. Bend head well forward to throw circulation of blood toward scalp, using a firm, circular motion.

If you are puzzled over how often to wash your hair, follow this rule—shampoo whenever hair is oily or dull. Blondie hair should be washed in pure white soap. This should be dipped off in hot water and boiled up—a tin can be used for a permanent soap holder, and this set over a small flame to melt soap. A pinch of powdered borax will soften the water. A lemon or peroxide rinse will brighten blonde hair—use one tablespoon of each to a pint and half of tepid water. Leave on hair five minutes then rinse thoroughly.

For dark hair, the beaten yolks of two eggs, thinned with two tablespoons cold water and a teaspoon lemon juice, will make the hair fluffy and attractive. Only the purest soap should be used for dark hair as well as light.

ately in clean water to prevent a soapy taste.
Cleaning up kitchen—after the dishes are washed and dried, wash out dish pan and fill again with hot soapy water. Let dish towels soak in this while the kitchen is put in order and all dishes and pans put away. Then wash towels, rinse them and hang in air to dry. Wash dish cloth next. Clean sink with hot, soapy water. Steel knives may be scoured with damp cork or cloth dipped in a cleaning powder. Granite pans should be soaked well before removing burnt food as these chip easily. A soap shaker, rubber scraper, box of paper towels to swab out greasy dishes, brushes for coffee and teapot spouts, a long-handled dish mop, and fine steel wool are inexpensive conveniences which will prove useful. A fingernail brush and bottle of hand lotion on a shelf near the sink will be ready to repair-dishwashing damage.

Systematize Your Dishwashing-Save Time And Temper

Much of the drudgery of dishwashing can be eliminated by a little thought and systematization. Clean dishes and clean utensils mean clean food. Here are a few suggestions which will help speedily to transform a messy collection into a clean, shining stack.

Preparation for dishwashing.—Before the meal is served, the reservoir or tea kettle should be filled with water to heat for dishes. Wash cooking utensils as emptied. Leave pots and pans that need soaking out of way, on back of stove. Use cold water for vessels that hold milk, cream, eggs, flour mixtures or vegetables; use hot water for soaking dishes that held sugar or fat foods.

Refrigerator Baskets.
These new baskets are fashioned of heavy wire and come in varied sizes to hold eggs, oranges, and other fruits which needn't be covered. Truly space savers.

Are We "Pop" Addicts?
Over 11 billion bottles of non-alcoholic beverages were consumed by American last year, according to official statistics just released. This is an average of 91 bottles to every man, woman and child, or a bottle every four days!

Make a Dresden Negligee!
If you enjoy "piecing" quilt blocks, a "Dresden" negligee may interest you. The pattern is pieced in gay solid color and printed silks, and a motif applied on each, each shoulder, and in front, divided by front opening, of a black silk robe. The pattern may be outlined in contrasting color feather-stitching.

These Tongue Twisters!
When an actor, delivering a line to summon the aid of footmen in a recent film, shouted, "Get two footballs to carry her upstairs," brought forth recollections of famous similar mistakes.
For instance: "I leaped into the gallop and saddled away." "Never put a thrush across this foot-hold again," and the old classic of stock company days: "Horse, the gate is at the master's."

Glimpsing the 1932 Fall Millinery Mode

THE PETITE CHAPEAU dominates the fashion field... it is at its best with shallow crown and a pert feather, fashioned of soft velvet or felt... Note the forward tilt of the BOATER... incidentally this is our old sailor friend with narrowed brim and rounded crown... The TURBAN reappears in abbreviated style, with rakish bows and bright clips... sometimes it is swathed in soft, silky feathers... Emphasis is on the front... many brimmed model turn up sharply in back... Note the colors—deep ruby red, wine tones, reddish-ame-thyst tints, chocolate brown, dark green, fuchsia, plum, violet, and ever-popular black.

Regular Business Meetings.
President rises and says, "This Meeting will please come to order." President directs the secretary to read minutes of the last meeting. When minutes have been read, she asks, "Are there any corrections to the minutes?" If none are suggested she says, "There being none, the minutes stand approved as read." If corrections are suggested secretary makes them, unless there is opposition. If there is difference of opinion, some one moves to amend the minutes, or the chair, without waiting for a motion, may put the question on the amendment which has been suggested. When this has been settled, the president asks, "Are there any further corrections for amendments to the minutes?" If there is no response, she adds, "There being none, the minutes stand approved as corrected."

President then announces, "The next business in order is hearing the reports of the standing committees." She calls for each report in this manner: "I fix the committee on applications for membership any report to make?" The chairman of committee rises, addresses the chair (as "Madame President"), and when recognized, reads the report and hands it to the president or secretary.

The next business is hearing the reports of special committees, and this is handled in the same manner as the standing committees. (Special committees include all those appointed for some one event, or a service not functioning throughout the organization's year.)

The president next takes up unfinished business, including all discussions not closed at the last meeting, as well as matters postponed from previous meetings.

New business is next in order and includes all new matters members wish to bring up for consideration, as well as problems introduced by the officers.

(Proper procedure in voting on a motion is: Member addresses chair, and says, "I move that..." Another member seconds the motion. President then says, "It has been moved and seconded that..." Are you ready for the question?" The motion is now open to debate and after members have expressed their views, she says, "Are you ready for the question?" If no one rises, she continues, "As many as are in favor of the motion say aye." After ayes have been voted, she says, "As many as are opposed to the motion say no." She then announces, "The ayes have it," or "The motion is carried." If negative, "The no's have it."

(The minutes of the recording secretary should contain the following information: If regular or special meeting, name of group, date and place of meeting if not always the same, fact of presence of regular chairman and secretary or in their absence names of substitutes, whether minutes of previous meeting were approved, all the main motions excepting those withdrawn, including all motions lost, and name of person introducing motion. Generally minutes are signed by both president and treasurer.)

Save Old Umbrella Ribs!
When garden time comes around again, these umbrella ribs make excellent flower supports. A coat of green enamel makes them less conspicuous.

Tea-time Garnishes.
When you entertain at tea, garnishes such as the following will strike an individual note in your service: thin, lemon slices stuck with whole cloves, bits of candied ginger or candied fruit peel, half slices of orange topped with small geranium leaves, and marachino cherries filled with wee sprigs of garden mint.

Very Choosy, These Siamese!
To the natives of Siam each day of the week has its own color, and many dress themselves to match each day. The newspapers, not to be outdone, appear on yellow paper on Monday, green on Thursday, pink on Sunday, and content themselves with plain white the remaining days.

There's Been Injustice!
Thunder does not sour milk, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Just before a thunderstorm the atmosphere is unusually warm—the heat is ideal for bacteria, and sour milk results.

Where Do Old Tires Go?
Discarded American auto tires are not destroyed but are shipped abroad—50,000,000 pounds annually—to provide footwear for workers in other countries. Spanish peasants make a foot covering known as the "arabba" from the tires; and Chinese coolies cut them into soles to wear when pulling rickshaws. Portuguese shepherds use inner tubes for overshoes—at fairs there are often several stands selling old American tubes.

Mark the Spot.
When cleaning garments with naphtha or high-test gas, outline the spot with a basting thread in contrasting color and it will be easy to find when the garment is wet.

Teacher: "And why did Noah take two of each animal into the ark?"
Bright Boy: "I guess he didn't believe that story about the stork."
Hubby: "I locked the car up and now I have lost the key."
Wife (helpfully): "Never mind, dear! It's a nice night, we can ride home in the rumble seat."

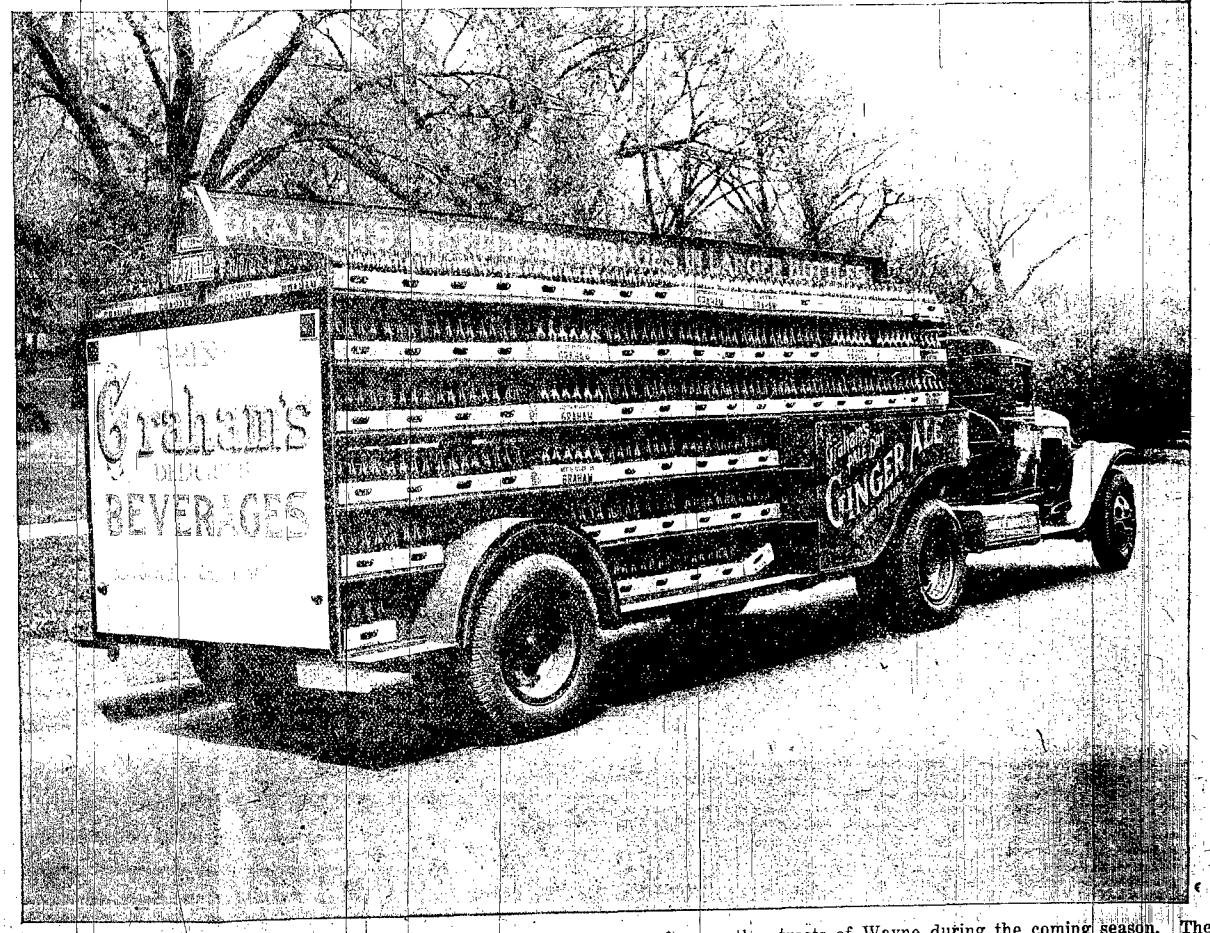

A bishop received the following note from the vicar of a village in his diocese:
"My Lord! I regret to inform you of the death of my wife. Can you possibly send me a substitute for the week-end?"

An old chap was crossing a busy corner when a huge police dog dashed into him and bowled him over. The next instant an Austin car skidded around the corner, bumped him, inflicting more bruises.
Bystanders assisted him to his feet and someone asked if the dog had hurt him.
"Not exactly," he replied. "It was the cap tied to his tail that did most of the damage."

Identified Gunman.
Fremont, Neb., Sept. 2.—R. A. Twiss, Pilger farmer, and Marshal Herman Nuttleman of Wisner today identified Harry Bottorff as the gunman who kidnaped Twiss and his son, Willard, after a battle recently with Nuttleman.
Bottorff is held here pending trial for robbing the Hahn garage. Officers say he was wounded by Nuttleman but escaped in an automobile with the Twisses who were forced to drive him to near Arlington.

We ought to be out of the depression. Lots of us are just about out of everything else.—Weston Leader.
