THE WAYNE HERALD
E. W. Huse, Editor and Proprietor.
The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County.
Published Every Thursday.

As evidence of improved conditions, the Omaha Journal-Stockman suggests better railroad tonnage, increased steel orders, enlarged use of electric power and latest reappearance of traveling salesmen who have been sent out by wholesalers and jobbers at the instance of greater demand.

The governors who met in Sioux City to consider farm movements in support of better farm prices expressed sympathy for the demands of agriculture and showed eagerness to extend any possible aid, but frowned on forceful picketing or any violent interference with orderly marketing.

Largely increased enrollment at the State Teachers College shows the growing popularity of the school and a stimulated desire on the part of young people for higher education.

Some predict that many Wayne county fields of corn will yield fifty bushels to the acre. This quantity production will help make up for any deficiency in price.

Most people do many things they don't want to do and force themselves not to do many things that they want to do. This is probably salutary discipline.

The "Forgotten Man."

Dr. A. L. Bixby: What the people stand sorely in need of is education. In the midst of high schools, ward schools, academies and universities, many of the great common people, not a few who pass as high-brows and a liberal sprinkling of mental defectives are going about, talking a great deal and spreading confusion where the world cries out for enlightenment.

Government in Business.

Nebraska Farmer: History records that in times of economic chaos every group looks to the government for relief, and generally an attempt is made to grant it. For a decade previous to the enactment of the Agricultural Marketing Act, agriculture had been the victim of deflation and unprofitable prices.

Meanwhile, as the depression grew worse, many business groups found their own industry beset by problems beyond their ability to solve, and, lo and behold, we find them going to the government for financial aid.

This is not a criticism of those relief measures or of the groups benefiting from them. Congress was trying to improve conditions and satisfy the public which has acquired the questionable habit of going to the government when in distress.

As tersely caricatured by a well-known cartoonist, the government has supplied the business machine with fuel, oil, and everything except the spark to make it run. In view of this, one can scarcely withhold a smile over the inconsistency in the complaints against government competition with private business when they come from groups that have benefited by government aid or credit.

The Governors' Conference.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: That governors' conference has apparently not settled the farmers' holiday controversy and no one expected it to. The problem is an economic one and it is only a part of the greater problem of distribution.

RESISTANCE.

Young persons must develop powers of resistance to avoid numerous pitfalls that appear along the way. They cannot always be watched, advised and safeguarded.

Sense.

Habit of paying expenses this year. Short of necessary economy led many to cut out the annual cost of taking in the big show.

NEW BUILDING IS COMPLETED

Graham Plant To Hold Open House Friday, September 23.

Completion of the handsome new Graham building at Wayne will be marked by a formal opening Friday, September 23, by the two companies which are to occupy it—the Graham Ice Cream Company and Omaha Cold Storage Co. The latter will handle churning cream, poultry and eggs on a very large scale, and, according to H. B. Graham, will have a contract to supply his plant with a large quantity of sweet cream which will enable them to pay over and above the butterfat prices on the market. About ten persons will be employed by the two companies in Wayne.

The building was erected in just one month's time, entirely under the supervision of Mr. Graham, the owner. A large group of Wayne mechanics were on the job and the work was pushed forward rapidly, with a force of 35 men most of the time. Mr. Graham made five trips to Wayne to find suitable property to rent or buy, but concluded he must build his own plant to fill his particular requirements. The two lots at corner of First and Pearl streets were purchased, with a total footage of 100x150 feet.

The building is a one-story red brick, with fancy face brick front, very substantially built, and most attractive in design. Only the best materials were used, and many unusual features were introduced, such as all-steel window casements, fire-proof iron door on the boiler room protecting iron reinforcements on posts in driveway, and an overhead sliding automobile floor at front. Modernistic frosted lights give a formal note to the entrance. The exterior is trimmed in dark green and the interior is enameled in two tones of apple green.

The building is divided by a 12-foot driveway, the Graham company occupying the north half, and the Omaha Cold Storage the south. Glass-in offices at each side will be furnished with the latest equipment.

The entire building is insulated underneath roofing material and ceiling, insuring comfort the year around. The refrigeration and heating systems are being installed. Cement floors throughout the building have been laid six inches thick. The cooler, boiler room and storage spaces will occupy the space back of the Graham offices. On the other side will be the Omaha firm's offices, egg candling department and storage rooms. Produce will be received at the side door, with a heavy can-opy over the gravelled driveway, well lighted. Generous parking space is provided at the back for patrons.

Graham Company Making Growth

H. B. Graham Owns and Operates Business which Had Small Beginning.

The Graham Ice Cream company will hold open house in its handsome new brick building Friday, September 23, and extends a cordial invitation to everyone in this locality to inspect the new quarters. The building was completed August 23 in just one month's time, and was built under the personal supervision of H. B. Graham. The Wayne plant will carry a full line of the company's products for distribution. While the season is too advanced to install ice cream machinery for 1932, it will be put in during the winter, in readiness for spring.

The company is largely owned by Mr. Graham himself, the remainder of stock is practically all in his own family. Therefore, the firm is home-owned, home-controlled, and strictly a Nebraska proposition.

The business was started in 1898, when Mr. Graham began manufacturing ice cream in the basement of his drug store. In a short time this side-line outgrew the drug business, but he continued to manufacture cream in these quarters until 1904 when he joined Charles Harding and J. C. Eldridge in building the Harding Ice Cream Co. plant, and managed the ice cream department. In 1915, Mr. Graham organized the new Graham Ice Cream Co., and built a large modern four-story factory. The new company prospered, and a $200,000 plant at Norfolk was erected in 1921, followed by another up-to-date unit at Fremont six years later, which has its own ice plant. In 1931, the building and investment in the Norfolk plant were doubled by the addition of a complete bottling plant and cold storage department with 2,000 tons ice capacity.

The Omaha plant manufactures ice cream, confectionery and ice; the Norfolk unit makes ice cream, bottled beverages and ice, and has a large jobbing business in soda fountain supplies. The new Wayne plant is the fourth unit in the Graham Ice Cream company's program of expansion.

About 50 persons are now on the payroll of the company, and 35 trucks are in operation.

Gaynor and Farrell Featured In Film

That the romantic troubles of young love during the first year are mostly fleeting is the dramatic thesis of the latest Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell comedy drama, "The First Year" coming to the Gay theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Adapted from the Frank Craven stage play of the same name, it presents Janet and Charlie as two entirely understandable youngsters of the present day. As a result of this the Gaynor-Farrell team are said to contribute the crowning performance of their careers.

Miss Gaynor, as the charming, marriageable young daughter of average American parents in an average American town, is said to combine her characteristic wifeliness with a deep understanding of dramatic values. Charles Farrell is her lover again, but this time he marries her and starts an era of hilarious strife.

Events, taking the stars to two typical American cities in the Middle West and putting them through the usual difficulties of two young people madly in love with each other, quickly come to a climax. There is a matter of a going business given up for the sake of the young wife, a big real estate deal, a spat, a parting and a reconciliation. The adjustment of their differences is said to provide one of the most humorous episodes in Gaynor-Farrell screen history.

The cast in support of the two stars is a notable one, including as it does, Diana Gombell, Leola Bennett, Dudley Digges and others.

"What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Matt. 16:26. This is the world's greatest problem. And Christ is the only one to solve it. The whole world on one side—man's soul on the other. Which is the greater, the more valuable? Jesus answers emphatically, "The Soul!"

An yet, what is held cheaper than a human soul? Some like the heathen Romans and Greeks believed that only men like Cicero and Socrates had souls, but not the common people. But the Bible teaches that every man, woman, and child has a soul. Yes, even the maker of the cross and the woman taken in adultery.

But the Bible tells us more than this. It says that the soul of the thief and the harlot is worth saving, even at the tremendous cost of the life and death of the Son of God. The God of all mercy and grace sent Jesus into the world to save sinful mankind from eternal damnation. The blood of Jesus Christ shed on the accursed tree cleanses us from all sin. 1 John 1:7. In this Christ we have redemption thru His blood, the forgiveness of sins. His precious blood is the price paid for our souls' salvation. Hence "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Acts 16:31.
