MANY VISITORS ATTEND OPENING PROGRAM FRIDAY

About 1,500 Persons Hear Tributes To J. M. Pile, Founder Of College.

EARLY GRADUATES SPEAK

A generous crowd of students, alumni and visitors, estimated at about 1,500, attended the informal dedication at Wayne State Teachers College at Pile Memorial Hall Friday afternoon.

James Aherm, alumnus of the old Nebraska Normal college, recalled classmates and incidents of campus life and thanked the president and normal board on behalf of the alumni for the tribute paid to Prof. and Mrs. Pile.

Miss Charlotte White, first woman graduate of the college, was next introduced by Dr. Conn, and she spoke of the founding and first few years of the normal.

Miss Agnes Wangstrom of Wausau, sang two solos, "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto," and "Carmena" by Wilson. Mrs. Harold Wenberg of Wausau, accompanied her.

Baskets of bright autumn flowers decorated the generous lounge, crystal bowls with trailing ivy brought formal balance to the beautiful marble mantle.

The new dormitory will be self-liquidating. Funds for its erection were borrowed from the state treasury, school land division, and reasonable state interest, and will be paid back from rent revenues. Neiharit hall was financed in this way.

Dramatics Class To Present Plays

First Performance Of Year Is Scheduled At College Next Thursday.

Students in the dramatics classes of Wayne State Teachers College are rehearsing for their first program of one-act plays to be given Thursday evening, October 13, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium.

The student directors and student producers are selected from the newly organized class in play directing and producing while the actors and committee members for production are chosen from the dramatics class.

"The Romance of the Willow Pattern," a comic tragedy in a prologue and seven fragments, done in the Chinese manner, is under the direction of Harry Ellis Fisher and has as its producer, Aurel Ann Dennis.

The second number on the program is "Overtones," a dual personality play in which is brought out the fact that, "although we may outwardly appear charming, we may shelter less graceful impulses." It is under the direction of Louise Reid with Elmer Mahler as student producer.

Richard Fenske as producing manager oversees the following committees: Louise Reid, electrician; Charlene Brown and Charles Berry, property managers; Loretta Cutler and Alice Berry, costumers, and Alice Berry, art director.

Advertising posters are being made by Viola Homan, Loretta Cutler and Ralph Higbee under the direction of Aurel Ann Dennis.

Prof. J. R. Keith has ordered some Chinese music for his twenty-five piece orchestra for special use with the first play. Prof. H. H. Hanscom is composing a melody for a bit of song incidental to the play.

COLLEGE WINS OVER WESLEYAN

Opening Home Game Goes To Wayne Teachers By Narrow Margin.

Pushing down the field for a last minute touchdown, Wayne State Teachers college gridsters snatched victory from under the very noses of the Wesleyan eleven Friday evening, and won their first home game of the 1932 season.

Gibbs, Wesleyan all-conference full back and all-around athlete, carried off individual honors by several spectacular runs which gave the visitors three touchdowns.

Wesleyan won the kick-off and sent the oval well over the goal line. It was Wayne's ball on the 20-yard line. Grubb went off tackle twice, and Copeland went around the end for the first down and again for 3 yards.

Wesleyan kicked off and Evans caught the oval on the goal line, coming back 30 yards. Copeland added about 14 yards. Falling to make sufficient gains, Wayne kicked and Wesleyan gained the oval on the 25-yard line.

Wayne kicked off and an opponent ran the ball back to the 30-yard line. Wesleyan gained several yards then kicked. Copeland was injured after carrying the ball a notable distance down the field.

WOMAN KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT NEAR WINSIDE

Former Norfolk Resident Is Victim Of Sunday Highway Wreck.

Mrs. C. F. Canarini, 22, of Sioux City, was killed instantly, her husband was seriously injured, and their infant child and two companions badly bruised when their light sports car turned over on the highway, one-half mile west of Winside Sunday about 4:30 p. m.

The party had been visiting Mrs. Canarini's grandmother at Norfolk and was on its way back to Sioux City when the accident occurred.

Red Erickson, who witnessed the tragedy from his pasture nearby, states that the Canarini car and another car came down the hill side by side and the second car cut in ahead of the Canarini's. The Sioux City car skidded and turned over.

George Farran brought word of the accident to Winside, and the body of Mrs. Canarini was taken to an undertaking parlor. Fanning motorists picked up the injured members and brought them for first aid treatment to Winside where it was found that Mr. Canarini had received serious head injuries.

Miss Erma Gilbert, nurse at a hospital in Sioux City, and James Stefani, also of Sioux City, were badly bruised, and the 15-months-old girl was bruised also. The dead woman, who had been driving the machine, was found to have a broken neck and badly crushed chest. The injured persons were taken on into Sioux City Sunday and the body laid at Winside pending arrangements.

Mrs. Canarini was born in Norfolk on May 5, 1910, and moved to Sioux City with her husband about four years ago. Her mother, Mrs. Annie Mullican, lives at Lincoln.

The James Griers of Wayne, were the first ones to stop and help the accident victims. The car which had crowded the Sioux City folks into loose gravel halted only momentarily, witnesses said.

Margaret Schemel To Address Club

Two Represent Wayne At District Convention In Ottumwa.

Norfolk Program Includes Several

Pep Rally Is Staged By Wayne High School Before Game

Several members of the Wayne high school faculty will take part in the program of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers Association which meets in annual convention at Norfolk October 27 and 28. Miss Marian Marsh, English teacher, will have charge of the English section; Leonard Good will be in charge of the commercial section; and Gayle Childs will take over the science discussions. W. A. Behl, history teacher and debate coach, will talk on "Debate Material for the 1932 Question."

A pep meeting was held in high school assembly room Thursday noon, prior to the Walthill game, and the pep club presented a skit. Elmer Kilborn led the student body in cheers and songs. About 150 students turned out for the football rally Wednesday night. A huge bonfire was lighted on the vacant lots east of Bressler park, and later the pigskin enthusiasts "snake-danced" around the college campus and through the main part of town. Miss Peggy Morris and Elmer Kilborn led the cheering, and Miss Jean Wright was chairman of the affair.

Instrumental instruction classes began last week, but several students were unable to start as their instruments had not arrived. Kenneth Stewart, music instructor, reports that 14 high school pupils are registered for violin class and these will be placed in a group by themselves. Glee club and chorus music has arrived and practices are well under way.

High school history students are taking up six-week projects. W. A. Behl reports, and several interesting ones are under way, including a model of ancient stone-throwing machine and a series of ancient agricultural implements.

Miss Marian Marsh has received new textbooks for eleventh grade English class, entitled "Good Reading for High Schools." American literature is being taught to sophomores this year for the first time. Book report lists for English classes are changed to include more modern fiction, and the new requirements are for 12 report credits during the semester, to be given whenever the book is finished, in place of stated times.

A civics club has been organized in eighth grade English class and regular discussions on city, county, state and national problems will be held. Dorothy Heidenreich has been chosen club president; Verma Hallock is vice-president; and Hazel Caspey, secretary. The program committee, composed of Wilma Baker, Frances Sydow, James Ahern and Robert Merchant, has arranged for five discussions. An informational program on the 1932 election will be held first meeting, and a debate will follow on the question, "Resolved: That Hoover will make a better president than Roosevelt."

In arithmetic class the eighth graders have been making a special study of taxation, and committees have interviewed officials at the court house on taxation questions.

Seventh grade English class will spend the next two months making story books which will be sent to a children's home for Christmas.

Lyle Seymour had a birthday a week ago Monday, and John Berry's birthday was last Friday, so both children brought treats to the fifth grade room. In history class the fifth graders are studying the capital city at Washington, how it was planned and how built, and later lantern slides will be shown. Several strange pets were brought in to fifth grade room last week. Catherine Cavanaugh brought a tarantula, and Marjorie Reuter, a clam.

Fourth graders were weighed and measured last week for the first time this semester. The children are just beginning to use pen and ink for their writing. No absences were reported for all last week. A new name was added to the fourth grade roll, when John Carroll transferred Monday from college training school.

Work on a third grade program is now under way, and the children are preparing little speeches and songs about pioneer life to give before their parents in a few weeks. Girls in the class have begun work on a blue and white quilt for the kindergarten bed.

The story, "Going to Market," has been read in second grade room, and the pupils have worked out a dramatization of it under direction of Jacqueline Haas. The large kindergarten blocks were borrowed last week to build a two-room play house. Bobby Jean Carroll entered the grade Monday, transferring from college training school. Music books were in use in second grade last week for the first time.

First graders were weighed and measured last week, and stood unusually well under the examinations. These will be given monthly in order to see that the children are gaining regularly.

Mrs. Homer Smith substituted in kindergarten room last Monday morning when Miss Minnie Will was ill. Miss Will returned for the afternoon session.

Court Of Honor Meeting Tuesday

Rites on Tuesday For Hoskins Man Frederick William Marotz Dies Friday After Long Period Of Illness. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran church in Hoskins for Frederick W. Marotz who died there Friday morning at 11 at the home of his mother, Mrs. Hannah Marotz, aged 30 years, 1 month and 12 days. Rev. Im. P. Frey had charge of rites and the Lutheran quartet sang. Interment was made in Hoskins cemetery. Deceased had been in ill health several years and his condition had grown steadily worse the past year. After spending some time in a Norfolk hospital this spring Mr. Marotz returned home but was in a weakened condition. In August he was again taken to a Norfolk hospital where he underwent an operation. About a month ago Mr. Marotz was brought to the home of his mother at Hoskins. Frederick William Marotz was born in Stanton county August 17, 1902, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marotz. He was baptized by Rev. R. Gruber of Trinity Lutheran church November 2, 1902, and confirmed by Rev. J. Harms at the same church June 1, 1919. Deceased married Miss Minnie Blattert, September 5, 1923, and they had made their home on a farm six miles southeast of Hoskins. Besides his wife, Mr. Marotz leaves four children, Florine, Deloris, Bernice and LaVerla, and an infant son, Donald. His mother, Mrs. Hannah Marotz and three sisters, Mrs. Martha Teal and Mrs. Henry Deck of Hoskins, and Mrs.

Split over the tariff issues involved in the Ottawa conference agreements, Great Britain's national government last week suffered heavy loss by the resignation of three of its important members, Philip Snowden, viscount of Ickorshaw, Home Secretary Sir Herbert Samuel and Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland. Prime Minister MacDonald immediately reorganized the cabinet. The split left only two labor members in the ministry. Lord Snowden on leaving remarked that "Britain has been reduced below the status of a dominion by the 'fury' tariffs." MacDonald declared the tariff essential to establish the country after the financial crisis. To Whom It May Concern: I have been criticized in the Winfield paper by its editor for not enforcing the liquor laws. I will say this to start with: I never have and I will protect bootleggers, no matter who they are. If you will look up the records I think you will find I have arrested and convicted about my share of them. Now if you fellows who are complaining have the evidence come in and sign a complaint or help us get evidence and we will do business. ## Hoover's Speech

President Hoover's speech at Des Moines Tuesday night was such a logical and convincing review of progress out of the morass of world depression that none could offer reasonable criticism. President Hoover was reared in poverty, and he remembers the depression which his father's family suffered on an Iowa farm during the depression in the seventies. He knows the nagging anxieties caused by mortgages, and he appreciates the hardships which have fallen on agriculture during the last few years.

President Hoover mentioned clearly and frankly the many problems that have caused distress and that have been handled in a way to modify severities. Speaking of the depression as lightened by relief measures, he said: "Let no man tell you it could not be worse. It could be so much worse that these days, now, distressing as they are, would look like veritable prosperity."

Speaking of efforts to relieve agriculture, he said: "I come to you with no economic patent medicine especially compounded for farmers. I refuse to offer counterfeit currency or false hopes. I will not make any pledge to you I cannot fulfill." He said his interest in the protection and advancement of agriculture is shown by the record.

"The republican administration," he says, "rejected every counsel of weakness and cowardice. The battalions and regiments and armies thus mobilized for this great battle turned the tide towards victory. The bills of credit are expanding. Men are daily being re-employed. If we calculate the value of this year's agricultural products compared with the low points, the farmers as a whole are, despite the heart breaking distress which still exists, a billion dollars better off. Prices have a long way to go before the farmer has an adequate return, but at least the turn is toward recovery."

Popular Feeling

IF the ovation that greeted President Hoover at Des Moines and the pronounced lack of enthusiasm for Governor Franklin Roosevelt at Omaha and Sioux City may be accepted as an indication of popular feeling, the calamity preached by democratic leaders will fail and the administration will win majority approval at the November election.

There was nothing in Roosevelt's speeches that would have awed his audiences at Omaha and Sioux City into silence. Therefore, lack of approving demonstrations must be attributed to indifference.

President Hoover is not a magnetic leader, but he is at the helm during a titanic struggle to preserve civilization and perpetuate popular forms of government, understands the country's perils and needs, and his resourceful leadership has prevented conditions from becoming worse.

Roosevelt has dealt in generalities with only vague ideas of what might best be done to improve conditions. Manifestly he does not know. He wants votes, and if he is elected, he will wrestle with problems of state as his limited experience and abridged understanding suggest.

Sharp contrast between the two party leaders—the definiteness of the one and the uncertain groping of the other—is understood by the masses as evidenced by the enthusiasm for the one and the apathy for the other. The election of Hoover would show that voters are more searching in their analyses—more carefully discriminating in their judgment—than ambitious politicians suppose.

Criticising Congress

IT has been many years since congress has been subjected to the criticism that has been visited upon it by publications of late. One magazine says members are too often of small caliber, incapable of earning anywhere the salaries received. Another publication suggests that Calvin Coolidge, Newton D. Baker, Al. Smith, John W. Davis, Nicholas Murray Butler, Charles G. Dawes and others of like fitness ought to be persuaded to serve in congress and thus help shape the affairs of government. Too many costly blunders are made, too much attention is paid to party strength and too little to the country's present and future welfare. The counsel of sound and broad-gauged statesmanship might solve a lot of congressional problems that are carelessly kicked around and finally left unsolved by partisans in both houses.

As a politician who believes in himself, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, has few if any equals. He has been running Louisiana politics without any fondling or coaxing, simply driving over opposition rough-shod, and yielding to no one inside or outside of his party. He named his successor as governor and named himself as United States senator. The report that while governor he raised the state's indebtedness from $11,000,000 to $100,000,000 has aroused a storm of opposition to his style. The magazine, Time, says: "Enemies of Huey Long vehemently declare that his tax program has definitely hurt Louisiana business, driven new industries from the state." Now Huey is out campaigning for Roosevelt, and it is suspected that he will be considered by the national committee more of a liability than an asset. Huey will be proof of how long or far a fellow can barnstorm his way in politics without stumbling and falling to the bottom.

That no earthly power could suddenly restore prosperity, as one would change his shirt, is suggested by the Omaha Journal-Stockman which mentions the many false ideas about the influence of Wall street forces and about the notion that one group suffers more than another. The Journal-Stockman concludes: "The cold fact is that the biggest business men in the country are as deeply in trouble as the rest of us and if they could bring about a change would gladly do so, not for the long suffering public but to save their own hides. Markets are peculiar. They can be manipulated temporarily sometimes but even the Farm Board with its millions of federal funds found that the law of supply and demand could not be set aside permanently."

Alfred E. Smith, former New York governor, and democratic candidate for the presidency four year ago, predicts in an article in the New Outlook that the democratic national ticket will win, but expresses the query as to what the party will do with its victory. Smith says conflicting elements exist in the party, "and with some of the elements and forces in the party," he says, "I am completely out of sympathy, not for personal reasons, but because I believe they are inimical to the best interests of the country."

Our sympathies at this writing are altogether with Princess Helen, divorced wife of King Carol of Rumania. Because of the kindly feeling of the British for Princess Helen, the king ordered Crown Prince Michael to cut short his visit with his mother in London and return to Rumania. How heroic and what a satisfaction to the world it would be if the crown prince would stick to his mother and let his interest in the crown business be junked!

If the condition of the times gives popularity to the idea of defeating present office holders, all equally reasonable, it would seem that Governor C. W. Bryan should, despite his powerful political machine, feel uneasy over the prospect, looking more to Roosevelt to pull him through than to himself to deliver the state to the democratic presidential candidate.

It would hasten the building of a gravelled highway between Wayne and Carroll if the two towns would get together and agree on the route to follow rather than to continue pulling in opposite directions. Lack of concerted action may be accepted by the state department as reasonable ground for delay.

W. H. Echtenkamp and daughters, Leona and Ida, Arthur Long and Ed Long were Sunday dinner guests in the Arthur Hagen home.

Mrs. Anna Kopp, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Kopp, Maurice and Calvin Kopp went to Pierce Sunday to spend the day in the Lee James home. The Luther Millikens of Randolph and Carl Swansons of Hartington, were also there.

Fred Korff who is here from Sioux City visiting his mother, Mrs. Alvina Korff, has been quite ill. He is improved now. Mrs. Korff and daughter are here with him. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Redene and family of Sioux City, visited the Fred Korffs here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Haller, Miss Charlotte Ziegler and F. X. Ziegler, the last of Port Byron, Ill., were Sunday dinner guests in the John Heeren home at Carroll. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wingett of Carroll were also there. That evening Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Krotcher called on the Hallers.

Armand Hiscoc went to Kansas City Friday and returned Monday. He was accompanied to Leavenworth, Kan., by Mr. and Mrs. George Brewster of Sheldon, Iowa.

who had visited a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Frank Korff. The Brewsters will go home after visiting a son in Kansas.

With Mrs. Anna Kay. Members of the M. I. club and one guest, Mrs. L. W. McNatt, were entertained Wednesday by Mrs. Anna Kay. Mrs. J. C. Baker led the lesson on sandwich fillings and relishes. The rest of the time was spent in playing 500 and prizes went to Mrs. McNatt and Miss Tillie Wischoff. The hostess served. In two weeks Mrs. R. C. Hahlbeck entertains.

Hunting Season Opens. Waterfowl hunting season opened in Nebraska Saturday, October 1, and closes at sundown November 30. The daily bag limit is 15 ducks and four geese. The pheasant season opens October 22 and continues through October 31.

Spiders Are Found. Very large spiders, smaller than tarantulas, were found in crates of bananas here the last of the week. One was in a crate opened at the Larson grocery and the other at the Orr grocery.

Hobo Camp

At the southeast edge of town in a small area conveniently near the railroad tracks and somewhat sheltered by a bank of dirt, is hobo camp. There gather hobo men of the world who claim no homes and who have no special aims. Beyond fighting hunger and finding protection from the elements, they usually have no problems to solve. Every night many find lodging in the city jail. Every day dozens of the camp go out in search of food, returning to headquarters to cook and eat. The camp shows many human types, some doubtless reared in comfortable circumstances, some reflecting early training and considerable intelligence, some accepting popularity of unemployment as a relief and others wishing to engage in gainful toil and become self-supporting, but all bent for the time being on getting by from day to day and from week to week. Every day some leave for other towns and others come to take their places. The population constantly changes, and while the experience bears little or no responsibility, it is a state of mendacity from which average pride shrinks and causes a train of certain hardships from which the generality of mortals would recoil with horror.

Accredited School In Association

The graduates of an accredited high school are privileged to enter institutions of higher education within the north central states without entrance examinations, provided that they have credits in the high school subjects required by the college or university for admission. Since other accrediting agencies recognize schools accredited by the North Central Association, this privilege of entering institutions of higher education without examination is extended practically throughout the United States.

Superintendent Receives Word That Institution Is Recognized

H. R. Best, superintendent of the Wayne high school, has just been notified that this school has been accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for the period ending March 17, 1933. In explanation of the term of accrediting the local school authorities have been advised that it is the established policy of the Association to prepare each year a new list of approved secondary schools accredited this honor and that no school is accredited by the North Central Association for a period longer than one year. It might be of interest to the people of Wayne to know that their public school has been accredited continuously without a break since 1917.

JOURNALISM

George Anderson, editor of Democrat, spoke on journalism following the Monday luncheon of the Kiwanis club Monday. His talk pertaining mainly to observations in the metropolitan field. As revealed, rural journalism is more wholesome. To the rule in the city of publishing all printable news first is usually added in the country (the policy of doing the greatest good to the greatest number, judgment determined on a high plane, seldom influenced by whisperings of the cash register. The speaker mentioned threats to cancel advertising contracts in the city experience if certain news were not suppressed or if a certain course were not followed. We doubt if rural communities are ever guilty of such coarse presumption. It speaks well for the fine qualities of rural fields that in our many years among them we have not once been threatened with withdrawal of business if we did or did not publish any specific thing. But we have lost plenty of business on account of policies which we believed comprehended the general welfare, but which were accepted without notice or previous threats as coming into conflict with narrow selfishness or the selfish to stand exposure or discussion. As Mr. Anderson shows, the big city advertiser has more power, with the audacity to assert it, than is possible in rural communities more than is desirable as means to healthiest confidence between publisher and reader clientele. More and bigger problems in the city calling for quick decision and necessarily modifying human sympathies, doubtless accentuate the influence of the exchequer. We are glad we are serving in the country. We are glad no one has ever tempted us by way of threats to be craven and pusillanimous. We know where we would tell the tempter to go, and then we would share equally with him his feelings of littleness and self-contempt. We prefer the more thoughtful consideration which, piqued over a policy that fails to sacrifice popular interest for personal gain, cuts off his playthings and sulks in silence without display. It is less presumptuous if not more courageous. We were pleased to have some of the inside workings of the newspaper uncovered. It is probably the most involved and most carefully handled but least understood line of endeavor in the world. Every interest in the product, but little or none in the underlying motives, problems and forces

Proposed Project

Coming is one of 20 counties proposed to comprise a water power district in accordance with a movement launched last week at Columbus seeking to revive the Genoa-Columbus Loup river power canal project through funds available from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. An exhaustive survey was made in 1911 and the project was then thought feasible but was not pushed on account of the war outbreak. The project proposes to take water from the Loup river a few miles west of Genoa and carry it in a canal and carry it east along the bluff to a point near Columbus where a 100-foot fall would permit developing 64,000 horsepower.

No Score Game Is Played By Team

The Jewell Killions were Sunday evening visitors in the G. A. Johnson home.

College High Met Coleridge Last Friday In Opening Game Of Season

A no-score game at Coleridge Friday opened the 1932 season for college high school gridsters. Although the Wayne players apparently had the edge on their opponents both in line-smashing and defensive work, they were unable to cross the Coleridge goal line. Practically the entire game was played in Coleridge territory.

Coach Don Ray will take his gridsters to Bloomfield tomorrow for the second game on the schedule.

Last year the team won five out of seven games, defeating Bloomfield, Coleridge, Pilger, Rosalie and Wisner, and losing to Laurel and Newcastle.

The team averages lighter than last year with William Denking, center, topping the list at 160 pounds. A. Martischang, W. Hughes, M. Dawson, Berry, W. Denking, M. Beckner, L. Denking, V. Swanson, H. Anderson, H. Bressler, D. Baker, L. Dotson, D. Hanks, R. Heylman and J. Morgan are others on the squad.

Concord Family Came To Settle In Pioneer Days

A true daughter of pioneers and a pioneer in her own right is Mrs. Charlotte L. Rice who has lived in the same house on the same farm east of Concord for 48 years.

With her husband, Mrs. Rice left the Pennsylvania town which had been her birthplace and headed Illinois-ward in 1885.

Mrs. Rice's two brothers and Mr. Rice's father accompanied them, and 15 days passed before the little caravan sighted Wakefield.

Mr. Rice hauled lumber from Wakefield and had to build a temporary bridge out of the lumber to cross the creek.

There was no Concord when the Rices arrived, and a man named Allen was homesteading on the site of the town which now bears that name.

Mrs. Rice's parents, the Lovells, had gone ahead into this Indian-infested flat-land in 1872, and had homesteaded east of Allen in 1873.

Former Resident Of Wayne Passes

Karl John Kautzman of Stanton, formerly of Wayne, died September 20 at Boulder, Colo., where he had been most of the time since 1928 on account of ill health, aged 34 years.

Mr. Kautzman was born at Stanton September 20, 1893. He assisted his father in the meat market until 1919 when he came to Wayne and was with Jack Donbeck in his market.

Best Conditions In This Country Travelers Find Russia Is No Place For Workers To Enjoy.

"Persons in poorest circumstances in the United States are in paradise in comparison with those of other countries of the world," remarked C. Gill who, with Mrs. Gill, arrived here Monday after traveling about the world and after visiting 38 states in this country.

Mr. Gill, who is a machinist, was sent to Russia by a New York firm to teach Russians the use of machinery. He and Mrs. Gill spent a year and eight months there and never want to return.

When they returned to Poland, Germany, they were told they had a day and a half stay there. They were violently misinformed for when they returned to board the steamer, it had sailed.

In Russia the Gills were in Leningrad, which was St. Petersburg before the war, later Petrograd and now Leningrad. The city, the largest in Russia, has a population of 3,500,000.

Every man in Russia begins work at the age of 12 years and is compelled to labor 6 hours a day, at least five days a week.

WEEK OF OCTOBER 5th to 12th

SAVE LIVES SAVE PROPERTY

NINE RULES OF FIRE PREVENTION

Make sure that your match is out before throwing it away.

Build your rubbish bonfire where there is no danger of spreading.

Keep your heating system and chimney in perfect working condition.

Extinguish the last spark of your cigar or cigarette before throwing it away.

Have your electrical wiring inspected regularly, and repaired when necessary.

Do not leave your forest camp fire before it is totally extinguished.

Take care lest dry waste or oily rags accumulate in some out-of-the-way corner of your house.

Avoid using kerosene, benzine or naphtha for cleaning purposes.

Keep matches beyond the reach of your children and your children out of reach of fire.

Former Resident Sends Recipes

Mrs. Charles S. Beebe of 1196 Each Ash street, Portland, Ore., formerly of Wayne, writes that she enjoys recipes appearing in the Herald and finds them helpful. She sends recipes for sauerkraut, pie, mince-meat cake and fried tomatoes and bacon which she recommends to local homekeepers. They are as follows:

- Sauerkraut Pie.
 1-2 quart sauerkraut
 1-2 pound chopped fresh pork
 1-2 pound chopped beef
 1-2 quart mashed potatoes
 In a deep baking dish place half the kraut, mix the meat, season with salt and pepper, and shape in small flat patties. Use half the meat to cover the first layer of kraut. Add a second layer of each. Top roughly with mashed potatoes that have been seasoned with butter, salt and pepper, but no milk. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one hour.
- This dish is a whole meal easily prepared.
- Mince-meat Cake.
 1-3 cup shortening
 3-4 cup sugar
 2 eggs
 1 cup mince-meat
 2 cups flour
 3-4 teaspoon soda
 1-2 teaspoon salt
 Cream shortening and sugar, add beaten eggs and mix well. Stir together the flour, soda and salt. Add to the first mixture alternately with the mince-meat. Mix thoroughly. This is a very stiff dough. Bake in a greased loaf pan, 50 minutes, at 325 to 350 degrees.
- Fried Tomatoes and Bacon.
 4 medium tomatoes, underripe
 2 cups milk
 1-2 teaspoon salt
 Toasted shredded wheat biscuit
 8 slices bacon
 1-2 cup flour
 Dash of pepper
 Lay slices of bacon in cold skillet. Heat slowly and turn once while cooking. Remove and keep hot. Cut tomatoes in half crosswise, dip in flour and brown quickly in the bacon fat. Season with salt and pepper. Remove tomatoes to toasted biscuits, add remaining flour to pan and stir until browning; add milk, stovily stirring to prevent lumps. Cook until smooth and thick. Season with additional salt and pepper, and serve over the tomatoes. Garnish with bacon strips.

Helen Pile Newton Finds A Greatly-Changed Wayne

"Wayne State Teachers College has been developed far beyond any expectations of our family," says Mrs. George R. Newton, daughter of the founder and first president of the former Nebraska Normal college, who came to Wayne last week from Rochester, N. Y., for the dedication at the college of the new J. M. Pile women's dormitory which bears her father's name. This is Mrs. Newton's first visit here since 1915, and she remembers a Wayne of unpaved streets and few of the attractive modern buildings which now line Main street. During her stay in this city she visited at the home of her brother, James Pile, and made the acquaintance of Mrs. Pile and their children.

When the late Prof. Pile came to Wayne to found this college the present campus was unbroken prairie with a tree to be seen in the sky-line. This was about 1889, Mrs. Newton believes. The original building stood on the site of the present administration hall, and Prof. Pile planted the trees which have now grown to such generous size.

The plan of students' trading farm produce for tuition is not so original in these parts as many people believe, for Mrs. Newton recalls that in the early '90's students brought loads of corn to college in place of tuition money, and the corn was dumped in the coal bins to heat the building through the winter. In the western part of the state where Mrs. Newton stopped a few days before coming to Wayne, she heard much talk of burning corn for fuel this winter, unless prices improve.

At Scottsbluff, Mrs. Newton visited Mrs. L. L. Raymond, formerly Miss Katherine Lewis of Wayne, and also met Archer Burnham, superintendent of schools in that city, who is a former Wayne resident.

Conditions are more prosperous appearing in this part of the country than in the east, the visitor reports. Factories closing down in Rochester has thrown thousands out of work, but now the clothing industry is picking up and many workers are called back.

En route to Scottsbluff, Mrs. Newton inspected the World's fair grounds at Chicago, and reports the ultra-modern architecture and electrical displays to be beyond description. One big auto factory will send an exhibit showing the entire process of manufacturing a car from the first step until the finished car is driven out of the building.

With the exception of James Pile, the Pile family is all located in Rochester now. Mrs. J. M. Pile makes her home with her son, Fred Pile, who has charge of one of the largest elementary schools in the city, with a teaching staff of about 56 men and women under his direction. This school is located in one of the foreign sections of Rochester and has many interesting problems of Americanization work.

GRAPES AVAILABLE FOR APPETIZING DISHES IN MENUS

Grapes are both plentiful and inexpensive on the market now, and blue Concord are unusually large and sweet. This is the housewife's opportunity to lay in a store of grape juice, grape jelly, grape butter and grape marmalade at small expense for all-winter use, as well as to serve appetizing grape pudding or pie at midday and evening meals. Nutritionists tell us that Concord grape skins are a good source of food iron, and the skins go into the making of grape juice, jellies and marmalades, thus supplying the much-needed iron.

Often grape juice is bottled and stored for use as a drink or for making jelly later on. By delaying the jelly making, the crystals which often form in the jelly and juice are avoided. When the juice is made into jelly at once, fewer crystals will form. If the juice is allowed to stand overnight. Next day, dip juice carefully away from crystals which have formed on bottom and sides of bowl, and strain through a fine cloth.

The pomace of skins and pulp that remains after juice is extracted may be utilized for grape butter. Add one half as much sugar as pomace, a little salt, spice to taste and cook it down until thick. Pack boiling hot in sterilized jars.

A delicious grape pie may be made of Concord grapes. Heat juice and pulp about five minutes, then rub through sieve and thicken with corn starch or flour. Add grape skins and a little lemon juice, pour into crust and bake in hot oven about half an hour.

Spiced Grape Jelly.
 6 pounds stemmed grapes
 1 cup vinegar
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon cloves
 5 pieces stick cinnamon 1 inch long
 Cook the grapes, vinegar, and spices together rapidly until the grape seeds show, and stir constantly. Strain through four or five thicknesses of cheesecloth. For each cup of juice add three-fourths of a cup of sugar, and boil rapidly until the test indicates the mixture will jell. Pour into hot sterilized glasses and cover with cheesecloth until set and cold. Cover with a light layer of melted paraffin, rotating the glass so that a high ring will be formed. Cover, label, and store in a cool place. This jelly is especially good when served with game and other meats.

Grape Conservé.
 4 pounds Concord grapes
 2 pounds sugar
 1-4 teaspoon salt
 1 cup seedless raisins
 1 orange
 1 cup finely chopped nuts
 Wash and drain the grapes, remove them from the stems, and slip off the skins and keep them separate. Cook the grape pulp for about ten minutes or until the seeds show. Press the grape pulp through a sieve to remove the seeds. To grape pulp add the sugar, salt, raisins, and orange, which has been chopped fine, rind and all, and very much, and the labor and expense of rescuing the party were not enormous.—Boston Globe.

New Tried Recipe For Orange Rolls

A new recipe for orange rolls is one which Mrs. J. J. Ahern has found most delicious. The rolls keep well also. It is as follows:
 2 cakes compressed yeast
 1 cup milk scalded and cooled
 1 cup lukewarm water
 7 cups sifted flour
 1 tablespoon sugar
 6 tablespoons crisco or butter
 1-2 cup sugar
 3 eggs
 1 teaspoon salt
 Dissolve yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar in lukewarm liquid. Add 3 cups flour and beat well. Add crisco and sugar thoroughly creamed. Beat again. Add eggs well beaten, remainder of flour or enough more to make moderately soft dough. Turn on board and knead lightly. Place in greased bowl, put in ice box over night. Cover and set aside to raise for 2 hours or more until double in bulk.

Roll out in 2 1/2 inch piece 1-4 inch thick. Spread with orange filling. Roll like cinnamon rolls and cut in 1 1/2 inch pieces. Place in muffin tins. Let stand and raise until double in bulk. Can be baked in dripping pans also.

Orange Fillings.
 4 tablespoons butter
 4 tablespoons orange juice
 5 tablespoons sugar
 6 tablespoons orange rind
 Cook slowly and stir until thick and smooth.

When rolls come out of oven spread with 2 tablespoons orange juice and grated rind mixed with powdered sugar to make a soft icing. Can be spread with pastry brush.

These rolls are very nice sliced and toasted.

Hittler would seize the reins as Mussolini did, only it is verboten. Dallas News.

Etta Kett's Weekly Quiz

1. What are the first requisites of good manners?
2. Have manners changed much in the past century?
3. Is it snobbish to adopt the manners and customs of other people?
4. Where do we get the term "gentlefolk"?
5. What should Americans do to teach themselves the best customs and manners?
6. What forms of demonstration are permissible in public?
7. In what ways do well-bred people have advantages over ill-bred?
8. How do social groupings differ today from past years?
9. What is important in making introductions?
10. Who should open the conversation when two people have just been introduced?

- Answers.
1. Consideration for others, sense of fair play, kindness and certain powers of observation.
  2. Outwardly, yes, but not fundamentally, for manners are more simple and direct now but are governed by the old traditions.
  3. No, not when accepting hospitality in a strange community.
  4. Formerly the word "gentle" stood for fitness of birth and environment. Land-owners, with the responsibility they carried towards those under their protection, disciplined themselves into that self-control which is characteristic of good breeding.
  5. Make intelligent study of the finer traditions of older civilizations, absorbing the best of these while avoiding pretense.
  6. When husbands and wives, or relatives greet after absences, naturally they exchange kisses, but these should be inconspicuous as possible in public places.
  7. More self-control over themselves, and naturally, over others also. They are more agreeable company and have better influence over companions.
  8. Formerly groups were drawn together because of birth and position, now similarity of tastes is responsible for groupings.
  9. To speak names distinctly and see that the conversation is started easily without undue awkwardness.
  10. The older person, or one of higher rank, should be allowed to start the conversation.
