Rationalism finds Greatest Good Lies in Pleasure of the Mind!

Since earliest times philosophers have been endeavoring to determine what is the "good."

The Greek thinker, Socrates, was the first to offer a positive solution for the ethical problem.

Psychologists early conceived the idea that success in attaining the end of action always brings pleasure and future causes pain.

One branch of Hedonists, the Cyrenaicists, taught that "since good is pleasure, since the past is gone and the future is uncertain, good consists in enjoyment of present pleasure."

Like Hedonism in being derived from teachings of Socrates is another school of thought, rationalism, which holds that "god is found in the exercise and development of reason."

Moderate rationalism seems to gain greatest favor among psychologists. Following such a conception one should be guided by high moral and spiritual ideals rather than by physical pleasures.

Things are beginning to look better, but just the same it isn't safe to sit around twiddling your thumbs on the assumption that it's your business is looking up.

Nebraska Has Background of Colorful History

Do you know your Nebraska? Is Nebraska simply a plot of ground to you, enclosed on three sides by a state line and bordered on the third by a jagged river bank?

Without doubt Prof. A. V. Teed of Wayne State Teachers college knows his Nebraska backwards and forwards for during his years in state educational work he traveled over the state continuously and absorbed much of our early history and natural attractions.

Heading back to catch highway No. 20, we follow west and soon spot the pine trees to the north and enjoy their fresh fragrance. At Long Pine we'll see the highest railroad bridge in Nebraska, which crosses Pine creek.

At Ainsworth we turn north, through Meadville to Springview, winding down from the high tableland to the Niobrara river, then, lugging hair-pin curves, climbing back again. Neering Valentine, we pause to visit the United States game preserve, the state fish hatchery, the power dam with its crystal sheet of waterfall, the state experiment station, then trace out the most obliterated parade grounds of old Fort Niobrara.

At Ainsworth we turn north, through Meadville to Springview, winding down from the high tableland to the Niobrara river, then, lugging hair-pin curves, climbing back again. Neering Valentine, we pause to visit the United States game preserve, the state fish hatchery, the power dam with its crystal sheet of waterfall, the state experiment station, then trace out the most obliterated parade grounds of old Fort Niobrara.

We're in the heart of the ranch country now, passing through Cody, Gordon and Hay Springs. Potatoes and cattle are the chief interests of these big-scale ranchers. Here is a country which knows territory. South of here lies the state experiment station, which makes a special study of dairying, and across the Platte river are the routes of the old Oregon trail and the Pony Express.

Few Nebraskans are informed about the United States military cemetery at Fort McPherson, so let's make a special detour to see this. All is peaceful, quiet, untouched by modern super-activity.

Near Kearney is the site of old Fort Kearney, famous in early day warfare. Nebraska's third city, Grand Island, is our next stop, then on to the capital city where we tour the university campus, spend several hours in Morrill hall among the unequalled prohibition collections, and make a basement-to-tower tour of the beautiful new 10-million dollar capitol building.

Then on to Nebraska City, home of a man of vision who saw that a treeless plain was not a happy place to live, and advocated the planting of trees over the entire state. Here, in beautiful Arbor lodge which was presented to the state by his heirs, is practically every tree which will grow in Nebraska soil.

When we near Alliance folks will be talking not in terms of quarter-sections and sections, but in tens of thousands of acres. Ranches containing 50,000 acres are not in the least uncommon. Nearby is Antioch, a ghost city, which sprang into being during the World War as a potash center. Workers, crowded in, buildings were hastily constructed and this became one of the heaviest freight loading centers in the state.

Let's head a bit westward to strike Slocum bluff, named for that early trapper who was left to die by his comrades and crawled 40 miles to this high bluff overlooking the river before he perished. Here is one of the largest irrigated valleys in this country.

And now we turn north to Omaha, re-living the days when the Union Pacific came to link Nebraska with the western lands, when the fur traders and trappers trapped across the frozen wastes where our cities now stand, and when Bellevue, old Fort Atkinson and Fort Calhoun were important frontier points.

Heading homeward, let's not miss the beautiful scenery along the Missouri in Thurston county, nor the Indian reservation. Then on to Wayne and home, marveling at the versatility and beauty of our native state.

Cheering Innovation. Real Estate Agent: "Well, what do you think of our little city?" Prospect: "I'll tell you, brother. This is the first cemetery I ever saw with lights."

Mrs. Fixit in Latin. Two college girls were having lunch together. "My dear," said one, "why do you always call your mother 'the mater'?" "Because," answered the other girl, "she managed to find husbands for all my seven sisters."

Plain Logic. A Scotsman, upon entering a saddler's, asked for a single spur. "What use is one spur?" asked the man. "Well," replied Sandy, "if I can get one side of the horse to go, the other one will have to come with it."

Last Resort. The squad of recruits had been taken out to the rifle range for their first try at marksmanship. They knelt at 250 yards and fired. Not a hit. They moved up to 200 yards. Not a hit. They tried it at 100. Not a hit. They tried it "Tenshun," bawled the sergeant. "Fix bayonets, charge! It's your only chance."

Early Days In Wayne County

Early days from the Wayne Herald for October 19, 1916: John A. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bennett of south of Wakefield, died October 16, 1916, from burns she sustained when she fell into a pan of scalding water.

John A. son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schmaecher of Bloomfield, started out alone without cap, coat or money to see the world. He boarded the train and came to Wayne where he was put in charge of Mrs. H. L. Harmer of Carroll, who saw that he was taken safely home.

Fifteen men will start work this month at the Radio Round Insulator company and by bringing 2,500 incubators will be ready for market. Cornerstone of the new physical training building at Wayne State Normal was laid October 19, 1916. Grand Master Viele of the A. F. & A. M. having charge. On account of a snow storm it was necessary to have the program in the auditorium.

Harold Boyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyce, has been chosen instructor of mathematics at the state agricultural college in Lincoln. A deep snow fell October 18 and 19, 1916. A railroad bridge burned between Neora and Emerson, delaying train service for a time. Miss Rose Barnes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barnes, was married October 18, 1916, to Levi Thompson at St. Mary's Catholic church. Miss Myrtle Subr and Edward Miles attended them.

Rev. J. H. Fetteroff went to Omaha to attend Lutheran synod meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kest mitted and daughter, Miss Helen, married in Wayne from Sioux City. Miss Iva Laase and W. R. From the Wayne Herald for October 23, 1932: The old Peabody building has been torn down. The delinquent tax list for Wayne county was much smaller than for any county in this section. The Wayne County Agricultural society has increased width of its race track to 60 feet. From the Wayne Herald for October 20, 1887: J. D. King bought half interest in the C. S. Hayes jewelry store. Edward Reynolds went to Emerson to take charge of the Peavey elevator. Patrick Coleman traded his interests in Platte county for land in Platte creek precinct. Jacob McNeill and Miss Elizabeth Mettlen were married October 11, 1887. J. H. Roman opened an elevator here. From the Ponca Journal for October 13, 1881: J. H. Pierce, well known in this county; was in Stanton on the night a cyclone struck the town. He was sleeping the sleep of the just when the storm came up, and when he awoke he found himself in the street, the hotel where he had been stopping scattered to the four winds of heaven. He is described as going about, rescued, suffering, bare-headed, barefooted and clad in the raiment in which he usually takes his naps, while the rain poured in one majestic river down his back.

Traditional Southern Recipes Are Secured By Miss Margaret Schemel

Miss Schemel made a southern tour between summer and fall sessions at Wayne State Teachers college, and visited the shrine where she made acquaintance of Mrs. Catherine Campbell, the hostess, who recently sent her these recipes:

Ginger Cookies.

- 3/4 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup dark molasses
- 3/4 cup hot water
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 4 cups flour after sifting
- 1-4 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1-2 teaspoon ginger
- 1 scant teaspoon salt

Pepper Hellish.

- 24 green peppers
- 15 large onions
- 2 red peppers
- 1 pint vinegar, 3 cups vinegar
- 1 pint water
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup white sugar
- 2 tablespoons salt

Remove seeds from green peppers. Pour boiling water over them and let stand five minutes. Grind with onions and red peppers; add one pint of vinegar and the pint of water. Let come to scald; add three cups vinegar, brown and white sugar, and salt. Let boil up well and bottle.

Veat or Be-I Croquettes.

- 2 cups finely chopped meat
- 2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon butter
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Grating of nutmeg
- Egg and bread crumbs

Pour milk into double boiler, add flour and butter and cook until thick. Remove from fire, add meat and seasoning. Spread on platter to cool; roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Quince Honey.

- 4 large quinces
- 4 pounds sugar
- 3 pints water

Peel and grind quinces in food chopper, dissolve sugar in water and let come to boil. Skim well and add quinces, cooking until consistency of jelly.

Spoon Bread.

- 1 cup meal
- 1 cup sweet milk
- 1-2 cups boiling water
- 1-2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs

Pour water over meal and salt, beat in eggs and add milk. Beat well and bake in well buttered pan.

Ambler Marmalade.

- 1 grape fruit
- 1 lemon
- 2 oranges
- Sugar and water

Grind in food chopper, measure and add 3 cups of water to each cup of the fruit and juice. Let stand overnight and boil hard 10 minutes in the morning. Let stand until cold; measure 1 cup of sugar to each cup of the juice, and cook until consistency of jelly.

Mint Patties.

- 2 cups sugar
- 3-4 cup boiling water
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon mint extract
- 1-4 teaspoon soda

Cook to soft ball status and drop on greased platter in small patties.

Nut Bread.

- 1 egg
- 1 cup sugar

New Library Books Received.

The following books have been received at the city library and will be ready for distribution in a few days: "Treehaven," Kathleen Norris' new novel; "A Princess in Exile," continuation of "Education of a Princess," by Marie, Grand Duchess of Russia; and "A Garden Bluebook of Annuals and Biennials," by Henry Stuart Orloff.

In the junior section, the following new books have arrived: "Long Hunt," by James Boyd; "Bouquet Hill," by Jane Abbott; "Mary Lou," by Faith Baldwin; "Doris Force at Locked Gates," and "Doris Force at Cloudy Cove," by Julia K. Duncan; illustrated "Child's Garden of Verses," by R. L. Stevenson; "The Chimney Patch," "House in Hidden Lane," "Brass Keys of Kenwick," all by Augusta Huiel Seaman; "Little Colonel Stories," by Annie Fellows Johnston; "Young Ravensels," by Elsie Singmaster; and "Phantom of Paradise Valley," by Covington Clark.

Rock-a-bye, at Low Speed!

Good news on cold nights! Here is a new invention which rocks baby's crib by electricity, and can be regulated to any speed one wishes.

Exit—Weak Coffee!

For those who like their coffee just-so, there's a new coffee container on the market which releases just the right amount of ground coffee for one cup, and automatically seals itself when closed.

One-way Visibility in Windows.

Now we have window panes which allow one to look outside without being seen, but prevent passers-by from looking in. From the exterior, these resemble mirrors.

Winter Bouquets And Gardens Will Add Cheer During "Stay-In" Months

With frosts threatening nightly to claim garden blossoms, it's time to consider winter bouquets with which to brighten up the house during the indoor season.

Of course, there are garden contributions, such as hydrangias, which can be picked, and enjoyed far into the winter months, and bitter-sweet is particularly abundant in this state, and gives a colorful and cheery touch to the dining room and living rooms. Brass and copper bowls are particularly attractive containers for littersweet because of the suggested repetition of color. Brown, tan or orange pottery vases are also effective. The sprigs should be used sparingly and allowed to trail over the side of bowl.

There's much talk of "depression gardens," but with the new wave of optimism which is just beginning to permeate the country, this seems a bit passe. Why not call these growing-coals "chemical gardens"? Here's the formula: Gather three or four lumps of soft coal, place in bowl and add two tablespoons salt, two tablespoons bluing and two tablespoons water. The second day add two tablespoons salt and as much as you coal begins to "grow," add salt and water again. Any kind of liquid coloring, mercurchrome or dyes may be poured over the coals as crystallization takes place, and the crystals will take on the richest colorings. As the coals begin to dry, add more water and salt. With proper care these will increase in size and make an interesting centerpiece or ornament resembling coral.

Children love dish gardens, and there's a wealth of ideas to carry out in fashioning these. Flat bowls or dishes are the best containers and may be filled with sand, pebbles or earth. For foliage, maiden-hair ferns, seedling evergreens, even the lowly but feathery carrot will add fresh greenness. There's a Japanese grass which grows quickly and abundantly in the house. Stones, real lakus with toy swans afloat, Japanese pagodas, temples and bridges and any small animals may be utilized. If one wishes to express some one theme, there are limitless possibilities, such as "solitude" with a few lumps of jagged coke bordering a lake of real water, and a curved cedar twig bending over the lake, or a desert isle with artificial palm trees, water and wee mermaids; or simulated mountains of rocks and sand, with tall cedar twigs jutting out from between the rocks. These dish gardens make welcome gifts to invalids or "stay-at-homes."

Fashions

Hats Do A "Forward March" Exposing Back Of Head To The Elements.

Borrowing from ultra-romantic periods of the past, fashion moulds a distinctly new model perfectly in keeping with modern needs and accessories. Lines are flattering, graceful and variable. Accessories often depend upon to give the needed color and vivacity to otherwise unobtrusive costumes. The one radical change in hats is the way they are worn, dipped sharply over the forehead. Agnes dips her hair straight down across the eyebrows, but other important designers concentrate on one eye and leave part of the forehead uncovered. None of the new hats pretend to cover the head—they either reveal all of one side of the hair or leave the back uncovered. A bit more trimming is used than last season, but it is inconspicuous, such as stitchings, cordings, tucks and bits of fur and feathers.

Belts are newly important in the winter mode and often match the hat in material and color. Picture Rose Valdois' costume of black Jersey turban with thick twist of green jersey, and matching green jersey belt on plain black wool frock. For dressy tailored modes, belts fashioned of black or colored velvet cords about the thickness of one's little finger, fastened together with a gold buckle, are striking. A similar belt of red Canton crepe cords would enliven a gray or black silk frock.

Muffs are making a re-appearance and accompany some of the smartest heavy-weight suits and dressy coats.

Shoulder capes are much in evidence both on winter coats and all-type frocks. On coats these are of fur or often of self-fabric edged in fur. The frock-capes are usually removable and may be fur-edged or trimmed with large buttons. Final waxes for the hair are staging a comeback and some of the French designers are showing flat black velvet leaves to encircle the hair, or velvet daisies in rich ruby shades to match one's formal frock.

Shades of Circus Days! Now comes news of a lemon tree at Eyrbanik, Calif., which produces lemons with pink flesh and juice. Perhaps the tree got the idea from a passing circus.

Has It Come To This? Does erasing fire you out? Then cheer up, for one of the newest inventions is an electric eraser which plugs in on your wall fixtures and very efficiently removes your trials and errors.

Wear Your Own Radio. A midget radio set has just been perfected which slips into a man's coat pocket, and the loudspeaker is worn in the hat. Good company on a hike. British police are using these to receive reports from central station.

Referred To Emily Post. Which reminds me of the fellow who stood in front of a dental display window. "I think I'll get a pair like that," he mused.

"Hush," said his companion, "don't you know it's impolite to pick your teeth in public."

Aluminum Window Shades. Exit balky rollers and soiled linen shades, say exponents of modern decoration who are introducing aluminum window shades for offices and public buildings. These are in narrow vertical panels which open and close by the pulling of a cord, and insure quiet and privacy.
