FINALS TUESDAY AT WAYNE HOME FOR MRS. MASON

Early Resident Of County Passes Sunday After Long Illness.

CAME HERE IN EIGHTIES

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mason home in Wayne for Mrs. J. W. Mason, resident of Wayne nearly half a century, who passed away early Sunday morning, October 30, aged 88 years, 2 months and 22 days. She had been failing in health for ten months and her children who have served her faithfully, were with her at her passing. Rev. H. C. Caspey, Methodist pastor, had charge of rites. Mrs. Winifred Main and Mrs. E. S. Blair, long time friends of Mrs. Mason, sang "Abide With Me," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Mrs. J. T. Bressler played their accompaniment. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Miss Millie Elizabeth Dressler was born at Turbotville, Pa., August 8, 1844. She lived at the place of her birth until young womanhood when she went to Ashland, Ohio, where she made her home temporarily with her brother. She was then united in marriage to Jacob Willard Mason on April 18, 1867. To this union were born four children, all of whom are now living. Mrs. John S. Weaver of Ashland, Ohio; H. E. Mason of Meadow Grove, Neb.; Miss Mary A. Mason of Wayne and L. A. Mason of Wakefield. There is also one grandchild, D. L. Mason, of Neligh, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. Mason with their four children, moved in 1886 to Wayne county, where they developed a large farm six miles north-west of this place, moving to Wayne in 1892, which has been the family home continuously since. Mr. Mason departed this life June 18, 1922.

Mrs. Mason in her youth was confirmed in the English Lutheran church in her Pennsylvania home. At the age of 13 she was voted into the choir and for many years she used her musical talent gladly in every way possible. For a time the family lived at Savannah, Ohio, and there being no Lutheran church there she with her husband joined the Methodist church, of which organization she has since been a faithful and conscientious member. She, together with her husband and eldest daughter, united with the Methodist church of Wayne the day following her arrival here, thus establishing a church home before the family home, and she did much toward the development of the church in this place. Mrs. Mason was always unassuming and earnest; a fitting tribute to her would be the words of her Master, "She hath done what she could."

Besides Mrs. Weaver of Ashland, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mason of Meadow Grove, L. A. Mason of Wakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mason of Neligh, who were with Miss Mary Mason, others from out of town for the rites were: Ray Walsh and sister, Mrs. Helen Kingsbury of Sioux City, Mr. and Mrs. Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Worthing, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shellington of Wakefield, Mr. and Mrs. E. Persinger of Whiting, Iowa, Mrs. Ed. Snegg and Mrs. Millie Woolston of Magnolia.

Pallbearers were D. H. Cunningham, L. W. Roe, L. C. Gildersleeve, C. H. Fisher, James Pile and Harry Craven.

Rising Above Class.

We were disappointed in learning that Dr. Lewis Brown, English author and lecturer, who talked at the Teachers College here last week, conveyed the impression that persons were so closely bound within classes that the individual could entertain little or no hope of kicking off the shackles of a restricted environment or of rising above the social stratum which he inherited. Besides outstanding examples like Lincoln and Garfield and Hoover and many others, the United States abounds with persons who have swept aside the chains of lowly and impetuous grooves and attained places of large and useful responsibility. On the contrary, the fellow born with a silver spoon and coddled with the idea of caste, if he doesn't prod his talents and grab opportunities, likely to find himself drinking out of a gourd and performing the most menial tasks in trying to make ends meet. It has been provided times innumerable that humble parentage or lack of money is no barrier to big achievement or honorable distinction in this country.

Tooth Pulling As Leg Puller.

During the past week one titanic effort of convincing might sought employment on the plea that he wanted to earn money with which to have an aching tooth pulled. Everybody with this second teeth knows how a defective tooth acts, and sympathy is instantly aroused for one who needs relief. Households visited found employment for the traveler, and in addition set before him such easily masticated victuals as would not antagonize a rebellious molar. One kindly disposed gentleman told the sufferer he would go with him to a dentist and stand good for the extraction. The two agreed to meet at a specified point down town. The townsman was on hand at the appointed time, but the stranger did not show up, and he hasn't been seen since. In defense of the dental profession it should be said that no dentist in the world would refuse to pull an agonizing tooth even if he did not expect to be paid for the job.

Cent-A-Mile Rates.

The Northwestern railroad is making an experimental reduction in passenger rates on this division of one cent per mile, going into effect November 21. The new fare to Sioux City will be 53c one way, under the new ruling. A 10c rate to Wakefield will go into effect, and the fare to Norfolk will be 28c.

HALLOWE'EN NIGHT PRANKS ARE NOW OUT OF FASHION

HALLOWE'EN devilment was comparatively light in Wayne Monday night. Reports indicate that some towns hereabouts were not so well behaved. Time was when boys of a community considered themselves licensed to misplace pieces of property and animals and cause annoyance and often loss to owners. It has not been many years since a valuable cow was escorted to the high school, conducted up the stairs and into the assembly room where she was found the next morning. It was a hard experience for the cow, and afterwards it must have made the perpetrators feel like kicking themselves. But this year little disturbance has been reported with honors divided between the vigilance of officers and an advanced state of civilization calling for a more sensible line of amusement—less harmful outlet for steam. And it is just as unlawful to molest property on Halloween as at any other time of the year.

COUNTY LEGION BANQUETS SOON

Col. R. G. Douglas of Lincoln Gives Address Following Pheasant Dinner.

Wayne county Legion members plan a banquet Armistice evening at the Palace cafe. Men from Wayne, Winside and Carroll organizations as well as other former service men of the county are invited. Col. R. G. Douglas of Lincoln, secretary of the state relief commission of the Legion, will be present and speak. Henry Dudley, state adjutant, is also expected. Dr. W. M. Hawkins is chairman of the committee planning the program which follows pheasant dinner.

Col. Douglas gives an address in Wakefield Armistice morning. The local Legion post met last evening at the court house to install officers recently elected and to complete plans for Armistice day.

The Legion and Auxiliary members are invited by Rev. H. C. Caspey to attend special Armistice services at the Methodist church Sunday evening at 7:30.

Mrs. A. L. Jacobsen is chairman of the Auxiliary committee to consider plans for some entertainment for Auxiliary members on Armistice day.

Fall Term Opens In District Court

Jury is Chosen To Serve For Criminal Actions And Damages.

Regular fall term of district court opens in Wayne Monday, November 14, and the jury is called for the following Monday. Judge C. H. Stewart of Norfolk, will preside.

A few criminal and damage actions are on the docket for this term. Among the criminal actions are the suits against Louis Ehlers, charged with sale of liquor, and Will Evans, charged with hiring boys as accomplices. Several suits growing out of damage actions are also set for hearing.

Jury for term has been called as follows: William Loberg, Deer Creek; Wm. Dangberg, Brenna; Abram Gildersleeve, Plum Creek; Martin Rasmussen, Sherman; A. T. Cavanaugh, Wayne Third; Wm. McQuistan, Leslie; Ray Perdue, Strahan; Henry Walker, Hancock; Ed Weible, Hancock; John Keil, Brecht, Winside; Arnold Pfeil, Hoskins; John G. Grimm, Hunter; C. A. Kinyon, Logan; H. L. Atkins, Strahan; George Crossland, Wayne Second; John M. Petersen, Chapin; Lloyd Prince, Winside; Lou Eater, Plum Creek; H. C. Baresmann, Strahan; Allen Steltenberg, Deer Creek; Emil F. Meyer, Plum Creek; Curtis Foote, Hunter; Ward Williams, Chapin; and W. P. Canning, Wayne Second.

To Present Plays At College Today

Work on the second group of one-act plays to be presented by the dramatics class of Wayne State Teachers college on Thursday evening, November 3, in the college auditorium, is rapidly nearing completion. There is a wide difference in the character of each of these three plays. "Just Women" is a satirical play in a Mid-Western setting, with costumes in vogue at that time. "Jeremias" is a Jewish character study. "The Sire de Maletrou's Door" is adapted from the story by Robert Louis Stevenson, which will no doubt be familiar to many in the audience.

Kiwanians Hear Varied Program

One-Act Play Is Presented By D. A. R. Members Monday Noon.

Regular luncheon meeting of Kiwanis club was held at the Stratton hotel Monday noon, with Prof. E. J. Hunter presiding. Following luncheon, C. M. Craven and his program committee presented several varied and well-received numbers.

Erden Carhart contributed vocal solos, accompanied by Miss Francine Limes, and Rev. Garratt Jansen, representative of the Minerva cottages for homeless girls in Omaha, spoke on the work being carried on by his organization.

A one-act play, "Home Sweet Home," was given by a group of young women, all members of the local D. A. R. chapter. Mrs. Paul Siman, Mrs. D. S. Wightman, Mrs. E. O. Stratton and Mrs. Henry Ley made up the cast. Kiwanis members pronounced the play, with its old people's home setting, exceptionally well staged and presented.

Guests from Hartington.

Mrs. E. F. Moran and Lauren Moran of Hartington spent Wednesday here at M. C. Sorensen's.

AID IS GIVEN BY RED CROSS

Many Families Of County Receive Help During Past Year.

A number of families in Wayne county have received considerable aid during the past year, and the calls for individual help will, it is estimated, be fully as great as in the past. The relief agencies are organizing to give efficient but not extravagant help this year.

Through the Red Cross 458 families have received flour donations the past year. This was distributed as follows: Wayne and vicinity, 125 families; Carroll, 90; Hoskins, 107; Sholes, 82; and Winside, 53. A total of three carloads has been distributed to date. Further shipments will be received when present supplies are exhausted. The plan is to have flour on hand at all times to distribute to worthy needy in the county.

Farmers of Wayne county benefited considerably through the cracked wheat which was distributed by the Red Cross the past year. In all 16 cars were received in Wayne county and allotted to 350 farmers as follows: Carroll, six cars, 88 farmers; Hoskins, one car, 92 farmers; Sholes, six cars, 95 farmers; and Winside, three cars, 75 farmers.

Wayne county Red Cross has given considerable money in helping finance distribution of supplies. The chapter donated $500 which was used to purchase feed, particularly hay, which was sent to the drought-stricken area. A large amount of this went to Bloomfield and vicinity.

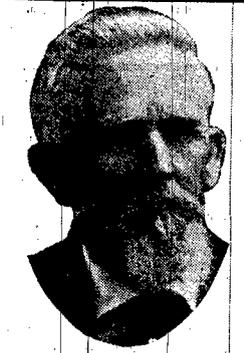

Mrs. W. C. Fox, welfare worker, reports that 40 families in the county were aided through the distribution of clothing. Some of this was new and was purchased by the Red Cross for this purpose while other garments were cleaned and reconditioned. In these 40 families are 155 children who received aid. The distribution may be summed up as follows: Garments, 1,600; shoes, 325; mattresses, 15; comforters, 37.

The local Red Cross received 150 week 50 yards of bird's eye, 150 yards of print and 150 yards of outing flannel, goods which will be used for relief work. The chapter will receive more later.

The above record speaks for itself relative to the good work being done. The Red Cross membership drive opens Saturday, November 12, and continues until Thanksgiving. Where could $1 be spent to bring greater results? Plan to join now. Supt. H. R. Best is county chairman of the roll call.

Many individuals have the erroneous idea that when the government donated 40 million bushels of wheat to be distributed for feed and flour that all expense was assumed by the government. This is not the case. The American Red Cross has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in taking over this duty at the request of the government. When one stops to consider the tremendous size of this task and the fact that the distribution is over the entire nation one can easily understand the cost through increased help and book work together with field representatives, etc.

In speaking with a representative from national headquarters, he states: "That basing their figures on past records that the amount of money the Red Cross has spent in this mid-west territory will exceed the income from this area in the next seven years." They are doing this work gladly and will continue the coming winter and as long as the need exists.

FINAL RITES FOR W. C. LOWRY AT WINSIDE MONDAY

Last Civil War Veteran Is Laid To Rest After A Lingering Illness.

CAME TO COUNTY IN 1892

William Conley Lowry, Winside's last Civil War veteran, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. R. Moss of near Winside, last Saturday and was laid to rest in Winside cemetery Monday afternoon. Short services were held at the Moss home with Rev. A. E. Fowler officiating, followed by services at the Methodist Episcopal church. Masons were in charge of brief services at the grave, and Legionnaires fired a last salute.

Mr. Lowry was born near Greensburg, Ind., October 14, 1843, being the youngest of a family of five sisters and one brother, all of whom preceded him in death. While still in his teens he moved with his mother, to Bloomington, Ill., where he enlisted, in 1863 in the Union army as a member of the 94th Illinois volunteer infantry, and served until end of the war.

In 1866 he emigrated to Iowa, settling in Marion county near where the town of Tracy is now located. He was married there in 1867 to Miss Lovisa Kelsey, who died 21 years ago. He engaged in farming there until 1880, when he again moved farther west to Macedonia in Pottawattamie county, continuing there as a farmer until 1892, which year he emigrated to Wayne county to farm until retirement 20 years ago.

Deceased leaves one daughter, Mrs. H. R. Moss of Winside, and two sons, J. H. Lowry of Sioux City and W. I. Lowry of Elkton, all of whom, with their families, came for the funeral rites. Other out-of-town relatives were Mrs. Frank Amman of Sioux City, and Mrs. Glenn Woods of Hoskins, granddaughters, and Miss Eva Ethel Woods of Hoskins, great granddaughter. There are numerous nieces and nephews living in Iowa, Indiana and Kansas.

Mr. Lowry was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and of the Masonic lodge, and was one of the most highly respected and loved men in this locality. He made friends of all who came in contact with him. Mr. Lowry's death followed a long and painful illness, during which his children and other relatives made frequent visits to his bedside.

HOME COMING IS FEATURED HERE

Many Graduates Of College Attend Events At School Last Of Week.

A week-end of collegiate activities, culminating in a well-attended dance in the gymnasium Saturday night, welcomed back old "grads" who headed campus-ward for homecoming activities. Beginning with a float parade Friday afternoon, in which Northard hall and the Y. W. C. A. were judged the best entries by "W" club sponsors, alumni and students turned out on mass for a chilling, as well as thrilling, grid battle with Peru that evening, in which the visitors carried home victory.

The all-college dance in the gymnasium Saturday night brought a large crowd of home-comers and students. Orange and black, college colors, gave a festive tone to the affair. Chaperones were Mrs. Ida Holmes, Coach and Mrs. W. Ray Hickman and Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Dale.

Among returning alumni were Joyce Kuhler, now teaching in Sioux City; Miss Sarah Danielson, teacher at Laurel; Miss Louise Rickabaugh, teaching at Battle Creek; Elmer Lindberg, Dodge teacher; and Ira George, bandmaster at Osmond.

Returning alumni of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, were honored by a dinner at Stratton hotel Saturday evening, presided over by Richard L. Fenske, president. About 20 were present, including 17 alumni and special guests. Mr. Fenske, Miss Lenore F. Ramsey and Miss Florence M. Drake made short talks after dinner. It was voted to issue a directory of alumni, to be sent out to former members.

Mrs. Albert G. Carlson will give a piano recital in the college auditorium Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Carlson will be assisted in her program by Prof. Carlsson. Music from the classic and modern composers will be played. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sigma Tau Delta pledges of last June were initiated Saturday when the chapter held noon luncheon at Hotel Stratton, 24 active and alumni members being present. Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Conn and Prof. and Mrs. J. Q. Owen, sponsors of the fraternity, were also there. Irol Whitmore had charge of initiation for the pledges, Judith Stolpe, Harold Essert, Arlene Lageschult, Grace Weldon and Edythe Prescott.

Mochajava club met Monday evening to plan work for the year. Report on a new book is given at each meeting of this group. Prof. J. Q. Owen is sponsor and Mary Jane Morgan president.

Eighteen present and former members of the college Y. W. C. A. cabinet enjoyed a tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. W. Costerisan. Hostesses were Mrs. Costerisan, Miss Marie Hove and Miss Mildred Piper, sponsors.

Gold Standard Urged.

Dr. Myrick Sublette, instructor in economics, discussed the gold standard from an economist's point of view, at chapel Wednesday morning. Dr. Sublette was formerly personal stenographer to Postmaster General W. H. Hays. (Continued on Page Six)

JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS INVITING VOTERS

EVERY man and woman qualified to vote, should exercise the privilege at the election next Tuesday. You may not vote with the majority, or you may register a preference that subsequent events will prove to have been a mistake. But errors of judgment are made at almost every turn in the road, and it is better to err than fail to try. The complete ballot for Wayne county will be found in today's Herald. Study it over carefully, and at the appointed time go to the polls and vote according to your honest convictions. The junior chambers of commerce are making an active campaign in behalf of getting out the vote. It is pointed out that in 1928 only 69.9 per cent of the eligible voters of Nebraska participated in the balloting. Wayne county cast only 60.40 per cent of its possible votes. You have no reason to kick if you do not express yourself at the polls and help settle the fate of candidates and shape the course of public policies. The "Get Out the Vote Campaign" is being pushed forward by junior chambers of commerce in all parts of the country, and results should justify the effort.

INJURY FATAL TO YOUNG MAN IN CAR ACCIDENT

Henry Dorman Of Wakefield Dies And Companion Is Slightly Hurt.

AUTO STRIKES CULVERT

Henry Dorman, 33, Wakefield, was fatally injured, and Herbert Fredrickson, 30, sustained minor injuries Sunday evening about 6:30 when the Dorman coach, driven by Fredrickson, accidentally struck a concrete culvert two miles north and four miles east of Wayne. Passing motorists brought the young men to Good Samaritan hospital in Wayne and Dorman, who regained consciousness at times, died about 10:30. He sustained a fractured skull and possible internal injuries. His forehead was cut, Fredrickson had two ribs broken and sustained minor cuts. He was able to leave the hospital Monday.

The young men were enroute from Wakefield to Wayne. On a hill the driver lost control of the machine which crashed into the culvert post, wrecking the car.

Funeral services for Mr. Dorman were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 from the home five miles south and one and a half west of Wakefield and at 1:30 from the LaPorte Lutheran church, Rev. W. A. Gerdes in charge. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Deceased had lived his entire life at Wakefield. Besides his father, William Dorman, he leaves four sisters, Mrs. Emil Buehl of Wayne, Mrs. Will Steckeberg of Osmond, and Miss Maggie and Miss Alvina Dorman at home. His mother died about 20 years ago and a brother died about 25 years ago.

JEANNE WRIGHT IN STATE MEET

Wayne High School Student Is District Winner In Contests.

Miss Jeanne Wright, one of the Wayne students who placed first in the county young citizens' contests recently, took second honors among girls in the district contest. The honor entitled her to participate in the state contest at Omaha November 1. Jeanne and Mrs. Carl Wright went to Omaha Monday and the former took part in the state competition with 92 Tuesday. They planned to return late Wednesday.

Besides Miss Wright, the district winners were the following: Elizabeth Gaily, Laurel, first among girls; James Embick, Laurel, first among boys; Harmon Harvey, Lyons, second among boys. The four went to the state competition with the highest in the other districts of the state, there being 13.

In the Wayne county contest Jeanne Wright and Llewellyn Whitmore placed first; Lucille Wright and Allan Sandahl, second.

Jeanne Wright, senior in Wayne high school, maintains high scholarship and participates in several school activities. She has been a member of the debate team the past year and is in the group again this season. She is accomplished with the boys' glee club, and sings with the girls' glee club and mixed chorus. She is president of the girls' group.

Llewellyn Whitmore, senior at Wayne college high school, ranks high in scholarship. He is a member of the student council, chairman of the pep committee, athletic committee and entertainment committee. He sings with the glee club and plays in the band and orchestra. Scouting interests Llewellyn and he received two years ago the Nani Bazu honor, award for being best camper in the district. He is now leader for a cub scout troop.

Lucille Wright, Wayne high school senior, who placed second in the county contest, has maintained high scholarship. She is vice president of her class, has debated two years and is a member of the girls' glee club.

Allan Sandahl, second in the county contest, is a Wayne high school senior who has high scholarship. He is a member of the debate squad and glee club and has been active in football and declamation.

Each school of Wayne county was entitled to enter two boys and two girls in the county contest. Besides those placing first and second in each group, the awards were made as follows: James Davies, Wayne, and Virginia Troutman, Winside, third; Harvey Podol, Winside, and Gertrude Most, Winside, third; and Norris Webbe, Winside, and Irene Sals, Carroll, third. All who entered are students who have maintained records of high scholarship and activity in school affairs.

Work Is Under Way On Business Blocks

Remodeling of the Herman Midler business block began Tuesday. A new front will be placed and the interior will be improved. Walter Priess of Norfolk, will open a grocery store in the building soon.

O. S. Roberts who was in the Midler building, moved the first of the week to the corner location in the Sam Larson building at Fourth and Main streets.

Remodeling of the Larson building also started this week and the building will be made into several business locations. The McGarrugh-Briggs Motor company moved from the Larson block to the J. S. Horney garage property on south Main street. E. A. McGarrugh plans formal opening in the new location next Saturday.

District Meeting Is Held Monday

Ministers of the Norfolk district and their wives were here Monday morning for a special meeting at the Methodist church, five speakers being on the program. The group had dinner together at noon. Open meetings were held in the afternoon and evening. At the afternoon session, which was mainly for women, Mrs. Margaret Berkey of China, and Miss Eunice Britt of Kansas City, spoke. In the evening addresses were by Dr. C. G. Goman of Norfolk, and Rev. Mr. Blough of Bloomfield.

BUSINESS GROUP LISTENS TO PLAY

The young men's business club, recently organized, met last evening at Hotel Stratton. Following dinner a play, "Home, Sweet Home," was presented by Mrs. Henry E. Ley, Mrs. Paul Siman, Mrs. E. O. Stratton and Mrs. D. S. Wightman.

School Board Convenes

Wayne school board met Monday evening, November 7, in regular session at the school building.

Europe Proves Interesting Place To Miss Pearl Rutherford of Wayne

If your name is followed by "teacher of history" in the school catalogue, and, in addition, you find international intrigue and political "jutsus" a most absorbing hobby, where would you like to go most of all, and what would you want to see when you get there? The answer: Geneva, Switzerland. The disarmament conference, and the disarmament conference. Small wonder, then, that Miss Pearl Rutherford set off on her European tour last summer determined to visit that seething center of international disagreement, and to sit in on the disarmament sessions.

Upon reaching Geneva, Miss Rutherford found admittance to the conference hedged in with red tape. She called upon the American Express and was sent to the American committee of the international club which had available five tickets daily for sight-seeing Americans. But the five were gone. If she would sit and wait outside the conference hall, perhaps she might be admitted, said the officials. So afternoons found Miss Rutherford amid a hopeful group of countrymen, which group dwindled down as impatiently as Elizabeth was feted and which inspired the lines, "The splendor falls on castle walls," Windsor, residence of the king and queen; Hampton court; old Eton with its quaintly-garbed lads in silk top hats and "talled coats;" Stokes Poges, rich in tradition.

Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, and chairman of the American delegation, gave our report, stating that "The best defense of a nation is the good will of its neighbors," and pronouncing that the conference had reached "the maximum of agreement which could now be achieved." The ambassador favored one-third reduction of world armaments, in line with President Hoover's proposals. Throughout the conference there seemed a feeling of hopefulness, said Miss Rutherford. There was also a marked friendliness in spite of the many differences in demands, and there was a marked improvement in spirit at the end over the beginning sessions.

Miss Rutherford and a group of tourists under her charge, sailed from New York June 3 on the Aquitania, Cunard liner, landing at Southampton and proceeding to London by train. Followed a tour of the Shakespearean country—Stratford-on-Avon, birthplace of the dramatist where a skillful company now produces his plays; Warwick castle, ancient, historical seat of the present Duke of Warwick; old Kenilworth where Queen Elizabeth was feted and which inspired the lines, "The splendor falls on castle walls," Windsor, residence of the king and queen; Hampton court; old Eton with its quaintly-garbed lads in silk top hats and "talled coats;" Stokes Poges, rich in tradition.

Inter-Class Debate Enters Finals Next Week With Ten Remaining

Supt. H. R. Best was named vice president and W. A. Behl was elected secretary-treasurer of the Northeast Nebraska Declamation association, which convened during the N. S. T. A. meeting at Norfolk last week. Mr. Behl will serve as chairman of debate section next session of the teachers' association.

Debates To Finals

Finals in the inter-class debate will be held next Wednesday, according to Coach Behl, and the following teams have been victorious in their own classes, and will meet to decide the championships: Freshmen: Neva Jones and Pease Kingston; sophomores: Alice May Young and Dorothy Hook; Frank Gaur and Thomas Catmough; juniors: William Moore and Paul Bertson; seniors: Gwendolyn Mulvey and Robert Kingston. Because all winning teams were negative on the question, "Resolved: That Roosevelt should be our next president," a new question, that chosen by Nebraska high school debating league for the state question, will be used for the finals. It is, "Resolved: That at least 50 percent local revenue should come from sources other than general property tax."

Mrs. and Honore Langmack, juniors, have withdrawn from school and entered Wakefield high school, in which city they will make their home.

Juniors Plan Play

Junior class met Tuesday afternoon to discuss the coming class play, "Daddies," and to plan try-outs.

Rev. Gerritt Jansson of Omaha spoke before the high school in assembly room early Tuesday morning. Rev. Jansson represents the Minnesota cottages for homeless girls.

School will be dismissed Thanksgiving day and the Friday following, according to Supt. Best, but work will be made up later during the school year.

Wayne high school eleven will meet the Wakefield squad at that city Armistice day.

Junior Hi Activities

Seventh graders are taking up the project, "Why is Germany a great industrial nation?" and Betty Strahan is leader. In art, they are making pictures of pilgrims in costume in connection with their study of "The Courtship of Miles Standish." One group is making a movie of the story, another scrap books, and the entire class has planned a play based on this book, to be presented Thanksgiving week.

Eighth grade students are working on the project, "What were conditions in the United States in the 1850's?" and the group on costumes and styles illustrated their study with a fashion show using old-fashioned clothing Wednesday morning.

Sixth graders are studying Greek history and several groups have constructed miniature Greek theatres for a project, and others are staging plays in the Greek language.

A week ago Wednesday, the Knight of Youth club, sixth grade, held a special meeting in recognition of Halloween, with President Richard Gildersleeve in charge. Margaret Jean Studley was chairman of the program committee, and had planned a little play, also songs and stories by the pupils.

Intermediate News

The October fifth grade spelling contest ended last week, with Yankees ahead, numbering 10,604 points, and Giants a close second with 10,256. Many interesting pictures and reports have been brought in in connection with the study of polar expeditions in geography class.

Fourth graders drew for sides in a spelling race last week, and voted to call themselves the Hoovers and the Roosevelts. For the first week, the second-named group is ahead. Miss Eva Gilmstad is correlating the study of milk in hygiene, language, geography and art classes.

To Entertain Mothers

Pupils in third grade have been held at work on a program built around their just-completed pioneer project, and will entertain their mothers in the kindergarten room Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The program follows: Song, "O Sassafras," by third graders; Prehistoric days by Myla June Thomas; Coronado, by Margie Fitch; Nebraska Indians, by Donald Denbeck; Indian song, sung by Paul Peterson and Buddy McCall; Mallet Brothers, by Jean Berry; blackbird, by LeRoy Bonawitz; Cunning Little Indian, sung by Myla June Thomas; Carol Jean Nicholson; Jean Berry and Shirley Powers; Indian dance, eight boys and girls; soul houses, by Betty Pile; making soap by Betty Ann Zepplin; drying apples, by Lawrence Lass; how we made a quilt, by Betty Sund; piano duet by Margie Fitch and Betty Jo Gildersleeve; grasshoppers, by Ruth Jean Phipps; covered wagon days, by Carol Jean Nicholson; Nebraska, a state, by John Eining; Mrs. Lutgen's Nebraska song, by third graders.

Children Plan Party

Miss Ruth Ross' second graders planned out their Halloween party as a project, with five committees handling the details, and every child on a committee. Third graders were asked a week ago Wednesday afternoon as guests, and pop corn balls, candy and apples were served.

First graders have turned in project number nine, a booklet showing all the combinations of yellow paper pumpkins which will make nine. Marilyn Stratton's was judged the neatest and most attractive.

First graders and kindergartners had a joint Halloween party a week ago Wednesday afternoon, the beginners making fudge and the first graders popping corn. After a jolly round of games in the kindergarten room, the youngsters marched in to first grade room for refreshments.

Have Pony Rides

Kindergartners took a walk on Tuesday to the Ray Gildersleeve home to see Royce's new shetland pony, and every child had a ride. Nettie Lou Reibold had a birthday October 25 and brought treats for the children. Tuesday, third graders presented the pretty blue-and-white quilt they had pieced and quilted for the kindergarten bed, to the small beginners. Carol Jean Nicholson's letter of presentation was judged best, so this accompanied the gift.

G. A. A. Masquerade

Junior high girls held a Halloween masquerade in the high school gymnasium Wednesday evening. Betty Blair's costume was judged the best, and Erna Meyer's was named second. Miss Louise Eggert and Miss Loula Avery, who chaperoned the affair, also served as judges. Following a program of games and stunts, pumpkin pie and whipped cream were served. Bethel Brown, president, was in general charge.

Guests at Whitmore's

Miss Lillian Whitmore who teaches at Alvo, Neb., and Miss Nyeulah Whitmore who teaches at Wynot, were week-end guests here in the S. E. Whitmore home. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wheeler of Lincoln, were visitors at Whitmore's also and left for home Tuesday. Mrs. Wheeler is a sister of Mr. Whitmore.

Bryan's Pledges

IT is charged that Governor Charley Bryan, despite promises of two years ago to reduce costs, has run a more expensive government than his predecessor. This is surprising in view of the generally lowered level of costs, and the great outcry the governor had made in behalf of economy.

A contributor to the Hastings Democrat calls attention not only to Bryan's 1930 pledge for tax reduction, but to his promise at that time to see that depositors in failed banks were paid promptly.

Dwight Griswold presents the following figures, dug out of the record of the state auditor's office, to show that Bryan has failed to reduce state expenditures notwithstanding the depression:

Total of State Expenditures.
1931 under Governor Bryan	$28,205,678
1929-1930 under Gov. Weaver	there was spent $48,274,406
yearly average	24,137,203
Increase by Governor Bryan	$4,068,475
The above expenditures include money coming from licenses, fees and the federal government, so let us take the figures on money coming solely from the taxpayers. They are as follows:
Expenditures of Tax Money.
In 1931 under G. V. Bryan, out of the general fund (property tax) and gasoline tax—expenditures	$16,963,484
In 1929-30 under Gov. Weaver, total expenditures from general fund (property tax) and gasoline tax—$31,497,554—an average for each year	15,746,777
Increase by Gov. Bryan	$1,214,707
Expenditures of General Fund.
Now let us confine our figures to the expenses of the state coming out of the general property tax in which Governor Bryan claims to have made a large reduction. They are as follows:
Property Tax Only.
In 1931 under Gov. Bryan, out of general fund (property tax)—expenditures	$ 7,324,825
In 1929-30 under Gov. Weaver, total expenditures out of general fund (property tax), $14,798,793, an average of	7,339,396
Decrease by Governor Bryan	$ 74,571

Hoover Speaks

PRESIDENT Hoover made another notable speech in defense of his public record before a cheering throng in New York City Monday night, and was listened to by means of the radio by many other thousands. He showed what had been accomplished to overcome the forces of depression and what would still be accomplished if plans were not upset and wild vagaries were not introduced.

After touching phenomenal national development in past years, the president referred to the economic earthquake that flattened out foreign nations and spread its paralyzing effect throughout the United States. But he says: "Thirty years of incomparable improvement in the scale of living, the advance of comfort and intellectual life, inspiration and ideals did not arise without right principles animating the American system which produced them. Shall that system be discarded because venge-seeking men appeal to distress and say that the machinery is all wrong and that it must be abandoned or tampered with? Is it not more sensible to realize the simple fact that some extraordinary force has been thrown into the mechanism, temporarily deranging its operation? Is it not wiser to believe that the difficulty is not with the principles upon which our American system is founded and designed through all these generations of inheritance? Should not our purpose be to restore the normal working of that system which has brought to us such immeasurable benefits, and not destroy it?"

To Rout Crime

BOTH the republican national and state platforms make strong declarations against organized crime. Racketeering has been a growing menace to business and social order in large centers, and relief through government agencies has become increasingly necessary. Racketeering should be stopped and criminal bands routed even if the aid of military force is required. Criminals have become bold and defiant with no respect for authority or for personal rights, and they must be squelched and have their power deflated to preserve orderly processes. The republican state platform denounces organized crime as an open challenge to organized government, and pledges every effort to "destroy, break down and eliminate the same." The growth of racketeering and gangster outlawry increases the demand for determined and effective action.

Harvey S. Firestone, chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, was heard over the radio this week in a talk on political conditions, and in referring to president he said among other things: "When I study the record of President Hoover in this world crisis, of which we have all been victims, I am amazed at the breadth of his activity and the intensity of his efforts." Mr. Firestone said in conclusion: "A change of administration always creates uncertainty and delay. We face a difficult situation. President Hoover has met and overcome conditions more serious than any since Abraham Lincoln, and he is entitled to our confidence and support to carry out his plans for relief and recovery. We do not need a change in administration. In place of despair, we need courage. In place of fear, we need confidence."

With earnings and values generally down, the matter of high taxes is certain to receive increased attention. As congressmen are largely responsible for the creation of government bureaus, chosen to function in accordance with different whims and often in behalf of no useful purpose, they have been questioned by the Federation of American Business to find out where they stand on the subject. The idea is to ascertain the disposition of congressmen in the way of government's encroachment on private business. In this connection the Omaha Journal-Stockman says: "Our enormous tax burden is very largely the consequence of bureaucratic officiousness; and the sooner we are freed from this crushing weight the sooner the whole country will be in a position to go ahead."

It is not believable that Governor Roosevelt and the men who would surround him could do more in speeding up prosperity than has President Hoover and the experienced men cooperating with his administration. If Roosevelt is elected, economic recovery will be delayed by any radical changes from the present course. And if recovery is put off or if conditions become worse, as may be reasonably expected to follow a change, increasing discontent may encourage acceptance of foreign policies of government that would prove still worse as a corrective of existing disorders.

We would like to see Wayne county men and women give Dwight Griswold, republican candidate for governor, the big vote that he deserves. Mr. Griswold is not a politician, and he makes no impossible promises. He has had experience in the legislature, and he understands the problems and needs of the state. He understands the importance of economy. He is old enough to be sound, and young enough to be progressive.

The Omaha World-Herald proposes a suitable cabinet for Governor Roosevelt on the assumption that he will be elected president. This is a good deal like dividing up a man's property before he has actually passed on. The suggestions are good ones, but if they had been withheld another week, the need, now only possible, might have been removed.

It is reported that a proposed debate between Senator Geo. W. Norris and Governor Chas. W. Bryan at Hastings before election has been turned down by the former on account of lack of time. We can't imagine any differences of political opinion between the two, and we wonder if a debate wouldn't merely show how closely they agree.

Registration of voters for the forthcoming election is far greater than the record total of four years ago, and rural communities that are not required to register in advance, should appear at the polls with equally strong representation. Every body entitled to vote should exercise the privilege.

Two Speeches.

Lincoln Journal: Candidate Roosevelt is taking his cue now from the more practical democratic campaigners. He is getting as far away as it is possible for him to do, from the gloom of the depression, but even that is not far. He is making promises to begin the day of his election to do something for the unemployed and to lift the republican pall that has settled over the country. He has been jockeyed into this position. Once in place he is making promises with an abandon that is sure to bring a rude awakening.

President Hoover pointed out in his New York speech, as republican campaigners have been pointing out all along, that in event of democratic success, the democratic candidate will not be inducted into office until March 4, next. Then he must await until the following December, more than a year from now, before congress can begin to help him. In the event of Hoover's re-election the forces now in action will be continued, there will be no break, no change of program and no halting of work under way. Mention of this fact, Mr. Roosevelt charges, is an effort to place fear in the hearts of the voters. Regardless of the charge it appears to be a statement of fact worth consideration.

President Hoover in his New York speech was at his best. He had enthusiastic audience. His appearance at Madison Square Garden brought with it proof that the president has many friends in the home of his opponent.

The president told what has happened, did not minimize conditions as they exist. He told what is being done to fight the depression and of the success which is being met. Looking not far into the future he could see normal conditions restored. The policy of the administration is to place every man in his own job, not in a government job at the taxpayers' expense. Mr. Roosevelt was more indefinite. He promised action but did not clearly indicate what that action may be. He emphasized low agricultural prices and inveighed against the tariff, promising indefinite reforms. He was repeating his campaign promises and charges, heard in many localities from the democratic candidate this campaign. The Hoover address is a mass of information worthy of study. The Roosevelt promises are so indefinite that it is difficult to tell just what he has in mind to do if he should be elected. The one thing certain is that he must be guided by the counsel of party leaders, many of whom in the recent congress proved their lack of judgment.

RECIPROCITY

One person buys less, and through force of example, another does the same. One person defers payment, and so another is prompted to delay, sometimes necessarily, sometimes through a spirit of resentment. Thus, a chain of restricted buying and retarded paying grows, with each link affected by every other link until, through a multiplicity of unsatisfied needs, arteries of exchange become sluggish. Economy is advisable, but it is often carried to excess by those who can afford to buy more liberally, and often too little practiced by those who are careless in creating obligations and equally careless in meeting them. If those who can buy, would buy, and those who can't pay, would pay, in normal fashion, would in time be able to do so, and forces operating for economic recovery would be very materially helped. There must be reciprocity to stimulate demand and get back where we belong.

President Of Bank Is Very Ill Here

John T. Bressler, jr., president of the First National Bank of Wayne, who was taken ill a few days ago, has been in critical condition at the Dr. Walter Bentback hospital. Dr. Dunn of Omaha, diagnostician, was here Tuesday in consultation, and Dr. Brown of Omaha, came Wednesday. The illness is pronounced catarrhal jaundice which has affected the digestive system. Last evening Mr. Bressler was resting comfortably. An operation was performed last night.

DEMOGOGUERY.

In the old days of limited educational privileges and comparatively slight means of communication, the partisan in a campaign could often make headway by spreading political buncombe. In the last two decades schools and colleges have poured a greatly increased number of informed and polished brains into the world—brains that know how to analyze questions and reach sound conclusions. More travel and more reading and radio listening have made people more cosmopolitan. The demagogue has less chance to palm off sophistries and convince people through fallacious reasoning. People see through inconsistencies—see when representations do not dovetail with apparent facts, when promises do not ring true or stand the test of logic. Increased means of communication, multiplied facilities for information and closer relationships generally have made the demagogue easy to detect and happy his role more difficult to follow.

GIVES ADDRESS AT CITY HALL

Former Gov. C. L. Sheldon Speaks Under Auspices Of Republicans.

The men and women of Nebraska will never help to elect any man president of the United States who will not tell where he stands on important questions—they wouldn't do this in their state election—why would they when electing a man to lead this entire nation? queried George L. Sheldon of Jackson, Miss., former governor of Nebraska, who spoke at city hall on Wednesday afternoon, under auspices of the republican national committee.

"We don't know where Roosevelt stands on any major or minor question but one—the liquor question—and he has talked much more than the president. He is simply relying on the sentiment of voters who want a change of some sort, to carry him into office. Hoover tells us where he stands always, even if by so doing he knows he will lose votes, as on the bonus demand. Things are indeed in a critical state and demand firm leadership. Hoover has a definite program which has helped already, and which will slowly bring us up to better days, if he is left in office to carry this program through. The president has been clear and explicit on every question in the campaign," said the speaker.

"W. J. Bryan, after his third defeat as presidential candidate, stood before a Lincoln audience and attributed his defeat to liquor interests pledging the remainder of his life to fighting their control. Could his spirit rest if he knew his brother was running for office on a platform dedicated to restoring liquor to the American people? The present democratic candidate has come out for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, and to encourage and help those who want intoxicating liquor sale legalized before the constitution permits. He promises to balance the budget with beer tax, but revenue from all fermented liquors manufactured in this country before the amendment went into effect, totalled less than $120,000,000 per year. To balance the budget, every man, woman and child in this country would have to consume five barrels of beer per year. The American people need bread, not beer!"

"In regard to farm relief, Roosevelt has no definite ideas to put forward—he simply erected a smoke screen around the agricultural question at Topeka. He favors abolishment of the tariff, but the farmer doesn't want American markets closed to him. Every shipload of boots or other merchandise which came into this country would mean more closed factories, more unemployment. Hoover would open the mills of America to American labor; Roosevelt would open American markets to foreign manufacturers, to enrich them."

Discussing the gold standard, Mr. Sheldon affirmed that it must be maintained if we are to emerge from this crisis—if it is not, we could expect another, and worse breakdown. Our national debts and long-term mortgages are all written in gold so that its abandonment would mean inflation and a chaotic financial situation. But we can't maintain our gold standard without a balanced budget, and any what of democratic plans for unnecessary post offices and other huge appropriations urged by the democratic house last session, asked the speaker.

Hoover had the courage to demand that the senate cut every federal employe one month's salary. On the other hand, the speaker pointed out, Roosevelt, with all his talk of governmental economy, vetoed the measure providing that New York state employes pay their own pension fund, amounting to $1,500,000 annually, and also asked $7,500 increase in funds for maintaining the executive mansion last legislature!

Hoover has carried us through all these world disturbances without riots or strikes, said the former governor. Every constructive measure which has been enacted has come out of the president's brain, and the president has stood firm as a rock against repeated democratic raids on the treasury, saving American credit, and attempting to save the American people from tremendous tax burdens.

Discussing the foreign debt question, Mr. Sheldon pointed out that Roosevelt had stated debtor countries couldn't pay now so advocated opening our markets to their goods, so that these nations could make money to pay us. Hoover, on the other hand, urges giving these countries time to rehabilitate and stabilize themselves. It would be far better to wait, and perhaps never collect these debts, than to paralyze ourselves to enrich other nations, said Mr. Sheldon.

"The tragedy of this campaign," the speaker noted, "was when Hiram Johnson stood up in California, Hoover's own state, and accused the president of being in alliance with international bankers and helping to sell the American people worthless securities. On the contrary, it was the democratic standard-bearer who, as an international banker, forced securities on our people, helping to promote a blot machine holding company which went up in smoke."

"Who would vote for a man without knowing if he intends to print money or stay on the gold standard, if he proposes to balance the budget, to loot the treasury or economize?" asked Mr. Sheldon. "Roosevelt has evaded every issue."

"The president is a man of vision, understanding and sympathy—he has given his life blood in our service—his hair has turned from black to grey from the worries of the past year," the speaker pointed out. "I fully believe there are enough democrats turning to the republican fold to swing the election to Herbert Hoover November 8," he prophesied in closing.

Mr. Sheldon was preceded by his daughter, Miss Julia Sheldon, who urged women voters to give serious consideration to the liquor question, and discussed farm problems and taxes. Burr Davis, chairman of the republican county committee, presided. The two Sheldon's spoke at West Point Wednesday evening and at Oakland, Tekamah and Blair today. They are traveling in a special campaigning car with powerful address system.

Winners In Essay Contest Are Named

In a contest conducted jointly by the Gay theatre and the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company in which entrants wrote on the subject, "Six Hours to Live," honors were announced as follows: Mrs. Minnie Berg, first; Geo. Anderson, second; Lionel Kabe, third; and Mrs. Donald DeWolf, fourth.

Mrs. Berg's offering, which placed first, was the following: "I am not certain what my reaction would be. I can only conjecture."

"I have no special mission to perform. I have no great wealth to bestow on anyone; mine is a simple and commonplace life filled with work, and my passing would create scarcely a ripple on the surface; therefore my last six hours would be purely a personal matter."

"I believe my first reaction would be physical fear, as the desire to live is strong within me. I would be overwhelmed, stunned, panic-stricken. Then my rigid upbringing, my self-discipline and philosophy of life gained in the hard school of experience would come to my aid and outwardly, at least, I would gain command of myself."

"I would endeavor to dispose of my earthly possessions justly and wisely and converse with my family, as one might speak who sets out upon a long and uncertain journey. This accomplished I would try to resign and await the passing of my soul."

"I would beseech God for mercy, but I believe we usually die as we live and six hours is too brief a time to rectify the sins and mistakes of a lifetime."

Another of the offerings was as follows: "With only six hours to live I would try to realize that it was too late for penitence or regret. My past actions would have to stand judgment. First I would telephone, as it is too far to go, to my mother and father, my brother at college, and my sister who teaches. I would like to hear their voices and find out how they are; but there would be no sad farewells. Then I would shut the door of our home, get some good music on the radio—I'd like to hear Brahms' Third Symphony again—and I'd try to make my husband understand that most contented hours of my life are those that we have spent together."

Another of the short essays on the subject is the following: "If I were convinced that only six hours of life remained, I am sure I would see things from a different angle after the first nightmare of panic had passed. It might be a relief to know that the struggle was so nearly over—it might even be a pleasure (if a gruesome one) to for once walk in to my clothes and say, 'Your best suit please, also tie, shirt and socks. (I won't need shoes.) What's the bill?'"

"If I had only six hours left, I might find courage to tell those friends who have helped me over the rough places just what fine fellows they really are and how I love them. I might even forget my social and business interests enough to face a few exclusives (there are only a few) and tell them how narrow and weak and bigoted they are in their 'big I' and 'little you' attitude."

"Then the fellow whom I have left alone I might be bold enough to explain why he seemed to fall short according to the social, business or moral yardstick. It might help him to succeed."

"I'd tell the preachers not to grow discouraged because they were the ones who showed me the way to live so that, while desiring to live, I am still not afraid to die. I am leaving all to divine justice."

"Then my loved ones—wife, daughter, sma'l son. What could I cramb into six hours that would make life dearer for them? The past would be stronger in memory than any present act. But when I am gone? Will they be amply protected? Will real estate values go still lower? What could I do in this short time to add to their security? More insurance? But what company's policy would become effective in that short time? I make inquiry and find just such a policy—that of the Northwestern Mutual. If physically fit and pass the medical examination and pay the initial fee my policy becomes effective. Very well, I shall spend a few more of my closely guarded dollars for such protection. That means no more than one hour's time and what a relief to know that my loved ones will get my pay check every month."

"So, having set my house in order spiritually, socially, financially, I would spend my last hours making my little home group so happy that the memory would remain with them always."

Practical Jokers
Barricade School
When Wakefield high school teachers reached the school house Tuesday morning, they found Halloween pranksters had most effectively blocked the front doorway with a heavy metal screen, someone's lawn swing, old lumber and with oil signs placed in formal arrangement on either side. An old buggy seat swung half-way up the flag pole.
Early risers must have wondered if they had awakened in story-teller's "Topsy-Turvy Town." But rationally-inspired pranksters had barricaded the length of main street, plains pyramids of wagons, barrels old machinery, huge water tanks, plaster bones and signs at each intersection, and interspersing these with empty bakana crates, old wheels, benches and oil cans.
The Elite Barber shop appeared in new guise bearing the sign torn from Farmers' National bank.

boat, Miss Rutherford and her fellow travelers visited The Hague, and then on to Amsterdam with its bicycle fleet; to lovely old Brussels and its war memories; Cologne, with the inimitable cathedral piercing the heavens. Aboard a Rhine steamer, the Americans traveled from Coblenz to Wiesbaden, then on to Dresden, home of the "Sistine Madonna."

By good luck, Miss Rutherford and her group reached Prague in time for the Sokol tournament, and found athletes gathered here from all nations, taking part in this important meet. The American delegation came over on the Aquitania with the Rutherford party, and trained vigorously on board ship.

Having visited the Mayo Clinic before sailing, Miss Rutherford was especially anxious to go through the Vienna Medical clinic upon which the Rochester one was patterned, and reports it well worth seeing.

July 4 found the travelers far away from firecrackers and orators on board train bound for Venice—auto-less, water-bound Venice, home of St. Mark's cathedral, haven of thousands of fluttering pigeons, famed for musical gondolas and "barber-polo" (tying posts. Then on to Florence, art haven, and Naples, gay, reckless Naples, playing and singing in defiance to grim old Vesuvius smoldering above, and threatening obliteration. After visiting the Pompeii ruins, the group made the famed Amalfi drive to Sorrento, then crossed the water to Capri and its mystic Blue Grotto; Rome—the Forum, Catacombs, St. Peter's cathedral, and the Vatican—topping all these an audience with the Pope!

This was one of the most wonderful experiences of the entire trip. Dressed in long sleeves and veil draping head, the pilgrims were ushered into a large room and instructed to kneel around the wall. The Pope was attired in white brocade and wore a large ring which each pilgrim kissed in turn. Miss Rutherford describes him as a very pleasant and benign person.

Visiting Genoa, Columbus' birthplace, the travelers went on to Nice, and to Monte Carlo in Monaco, that quiet, controlled gambling casino, very unlike the gambling houses of our early western period. Enroute to Geneva, the group passed through the French and Swiss Alps, witnessing a heavy snowstorm near the end of July. Next, Montreux, Lucerne, the lovely Paris, then by boat back to London. Here, Miss Rutherford and her charges boarded the famous Flying Scotsman, crack British train which makes the longest non-stop flight in the world, between London and Edinburgh. It has small engine and is built close to the ground; coaches are divided into compartments with large side aisle, in the manner of all continental trains.

At Edinburgh, Miss Rutherford attended the conference of International Federation of University Women, at which the United States had five voting delegates and about 200 non-voters. Sessions were in French, English and a few in German. The president was an English woman, Prof. Winifred Cullis of the University of London, and she was succeeded by Prof. Dr. Johanna Waterdyk of the University of Amsterdam. Next meeting will be in Germany in 1933.

Leaving Edinburgh, Miss Rutherford sailed on the "Cameronian," Anchor-Donaldson line, landing at New York City August 12.

Rutherford liked England the best, she says, perhaps because the people were more like home folks, and because she could talk with them more easily. In France, discussion of the World War brought out instant antagonism for that conflict is still fresh in their minds, and hatred burns on.

and has made a special study of monetary questions.

"Paper money was first issued in this country in 1690, when Massachusetts issued payment for soldiers in the French and Indian wars," said the speaker. "The United States went off the gold standard in 1872, and paper of small denominations was issued, even for 1c and 25c. Prices fell after the Civil war, farmers, manufacturers and merchants suffering most, and these groups objected to retirement of government notes, which have never been retired to this day.

"Depreciated currency gives advantage to debtors—in fact, debtors often pursue their creditors and pay them off without mercy. Farmers suffer most during times of falling prices because some prices, namely farm products, fall faster than others.

"The Greenback party of 1876 demanded that more paper money be issued to relieve the economic tightness, and the populists came into being later, demanding curbing of silver in the ratio 16 to 1. In 1896, W. J. Bryan made his famous speech at democratic convention, urging free silver, with these much-quoted words: 'You shall not press down on the brow of labor this crown of thorns; you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold.' Today, there is still a demand for silver coinage from certain politicians.

"If the United States were to go off the gold standard now," the speaker predicted, "immediate results would be a rise in commodity prices, rise in price of common stocks, rise in exchange rates for this country, making imported products such as coffee more expensive.

BACKS FORD'S ACTION IN ADVISING VOTERS

E. F. Hutton, Business Leader, Says Other Employers Should Clarify Stand on Government Issues

Declaring that business men have as much right to free speech as laborers, Edward F. Hutton, prominent business man and philanthropist, has come out in defense of Henry Ford's action in telling his employes that he believed the welfare of the country called for the re-election of President Hoover.

"There seems to be a prevailing theory in this country that candidates for public office can say most anything they please up to the point of being slanderous, and be immune from criticism," declared Mr. Hutton, who like many other business leaders, is making his political campaign debut for the Republican forces.

Continuing Mr. Hutton said: "The role of the business man, who is vitally concerned with the welfare of his organization, the welfare of his employes, is supposed to be one of abject silence.

"No one questions the obligation of business leaders to discuss frankly with their Board of Directors and associates, problems affecting the welfare of their companies. But, let them stay on the word 'politics' and they have breached an unwritten law that lays them open to bitter attack.

"Recently Mr. Ford told his fellow workers that he believed that the welfare of the country would be best preserved by the continuation of President Hoover in office. Nobody questioned Mr. Ford's sincerity but they denied his right to express his opinion to the people whom he employs, in spite of the fact that every one of Mr. Ford's employes knows perfectly well that his job is not at stake, that the security of his job is in no way impaired, because he deems it advisable to vote contrary to Mr. Ford.

"It seems to me a perfectly open question whether there is not a duty on business management to put employes in possession of the same information they have on so vital an issue, and that the employing business leaders, by affecting the welfare of their companies. But, let them stay on the word 'politics' and they have breached an unwritten law that lays them open to bitter attack.

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, November 6. The Golden Text is from John 3:16: "That which is born of flesh is flesh; and that which is born of Spirit is spirit." A scriptural passage used in the lesson-sermon is from 1 Cor. 15:22, and reads: "For as in Adam, all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive." A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Christian Science separates error from Truth and breathes through the sacred pages the spiritual sense of life, substance, and intelligence. In this Science, we discover man in the image and likeness of God. We see that man has never lost his spiritual estate and his eternal harmony." (page 548.)

Former Governor Speaks For Hoover

Norfolk News: Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska, speaking in the interests of the republican national ticket from WJAC, Norfolk radio station, Tuesday noon, declared that "never has the Democrat party produced as artful a politician in making vague promises and inaccurate statements as Franklin D. Roosevelt." "His ill-founded appeal to classes based on his own record, was well illustrated in the statement he made in Nebraska that he had been farming for twenty-five years and never had made any money at it. This in itself should be sufficient to warn farmers against him for no self-respecting farmer would think of following a man who admits he has not made any money at the business of farming for a quarter of a century.

Need Lower Taxes.

"I have held, and I still contend, that however important it is that farmers should have better prices for their products, it is of immediate importance that they should have lower taxes as a means of making their dollars go farther in the payment of debts and the purchase of necessities. The dollar that is spent for taxes displaces the dollar that would be spent for materials, labor and constructive economic improvement. Therefore, the question of taxation is of prime importance as it relates to every unit of government from the national capital down to the smallest unit. "Let us examine the record of the two presidential candidates on the subject. President Hoover has served during a period when the most urgent demands have been made from all quarters that the government be generous in its expenditures for agriculture, public improvements and other extensive government activities. Yet, during the last congress, he prevented the expenditure by the government of $883,787,000 by vetoing appropriations. In addition to this he vetoed appropriations amounting to $1,310,000,000 that were passed over his veto. Total money legislation vetoed by the president amounted to $2,193,500,000. "The democratic house of representatives passed appropriation bills amounting to $3,700,000,000 that were killed in the senate through Republican leadership under President Hoover.

"During this same period Franklin D. Roosevelt has been governor of New York and in the last three years the expenses of New York state have increased one-third, or approximately $100,000,000. In addition to this the funded debt of the state has increased in almost the same amount. In no instance has Governor Roosevelt shown, or practiced, sound economy in governmental expenditures."

"On the west coast, Mr. Roosevelt cited Boulder dam, Muscle Shoals, the Columbia river basin and the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project as developments that might be made in the public interest. These improvements would entail billions of dollars in government outlay and by no stretch of the imagination could one penny of the benefit accrue to farmers, except by cheaper water transportation through the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence. On the other hand, they would bring millions of acres of land into production in competition with farmers who are now struggling with large surplus productions.

Wants More Postoffices.

"If Mr. Garner should become president (altogether) within the realm of possibility under the circumstances we would have a leader who proposed the most gigantic pork-barrel bill in recent times. Had he had his way, $1,200,000,000 would have been expended on mostly unnecessary public works, largely postoffices. I do not believe that the voters who recognize the imperative need for balanced budgets and reduced government expenses can look with complacency upon the prospect of democratic leadership under Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Garner.

Regional Conference Planned In Omaha

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 2.—More than 300 delegates to the regional conference of the American Federation of Lutheran Brotherhoods, covering Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and parts of Kansas and of Missouri, will gather in Omaha for a two-day meeting Wednesday and Thursday, November 9 and 10. There will be five main sessions, with headquarters at the Fontenelle hotel. Carl Lof of Omaha will be general chairman, and addresses will be given by leading representatives of the various Lutheran bodies which make up the brotherhood. This organization, grew out of the war and is striving to knit as many as possible of Lutheran organizations more closely together into a smooth-working body. Sessions will begin at 9:30 a. m., 2 p. m. and 6 p. m. on Wednesday, and at 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Thursday. The banquet will be held Wednesday evening, which will feature a "Father and Son," Judge Eskild Carlson of Des Moines, Iowa, will give the chief address.

At the opening session, J. A. Christiansen will bring greetings for the American Federation of Lutheran Brotherhoods. Responses will be made as follows for general Lutheran bodies: Dr. W. I. Guss, United Lutheran church; Dr. C. O. Gillean, Augustana; Dr. M. T. Jensen, Danish; Dr. H. E. Solum, Norwegian; Rev. J. H. Moehl, American Lutheran; and Rev. N. Peterson, Danish Evangelical Lutheran.

All Hallow's Eve Passes Leaving Usual Aftermath

Early risers looked upon a somewhat disarranged Wayne Tuesday morning, after Hallowe'en pranks had put in a busy evening. Windows "soapers" decorated downtown show windows and auto glasses liberally, and the usual exchanges of detachable furniture kept local folks busy hunting down their belongings and finding owners for unsolicited "gifts." Several oil signs and a lawn mower centered West First street near Main, and air and gas hoses on a nearby filling station were tied in elaborate and laborious knots. A stray gate found its way to the high school lawn, and odd wheels, a small bridge and a raking machine blocked the entrance to Graham's building. At Fifth and Logan streets, a green porch bench balanced precariously atop a blue coupe, and bed springs roosted on another car on Tenth street. Woe to the stranger who attempted to locate a street Tuesday morning, for street signs had made a quarter-turn, and "Stop" signs had completely turned their backs on themselves, assisted by eager and mischievous hands. No very destructive pranks were reported.

northern states of Mexico are seeking a market. The price in Mexico is about $2.50 per hundred. Across the line in the United States the price ranges around $4.50 per hundred. Tariff As a Help. "I just sold 157 head of registered Sporthorn cattle from my Cherry county ranch for an average of $30 a head. As low as this price is it would have been lost, or if it were not for the tariff barrier. Only a republican protective tariff for agriculture prevents those two million cattle from competing with our American farmers. Once that tariff wall is lowered those cattle will flood this country and the cattle breeder or feeder who thinks he is hard-pressed now will then have something real to worry about.

"Even on wheat, of which we have a large exportable surplus, and on which the tariff is least effective, with the exception of cotton, the tariff of 42 cents is partly effective. Ask any miller what the result would be if he were to export the wheat he is buying for milling purposes. He would tell you that he would lose from 15 to 20 cents a bushel. Ever since Mr. Hoover came into office and the agricultural marketing act and the Hawley-Smoot tariff were enacted, the price disparity between Liverpool and interior United States markets, taking into account the costs of export, has given the American farmer a substantial benefit.

"These benefits have not been apparent on account of low domestic prices, but the American farmer should realize that as low as his prices are and have been, they would have been considerably lower were it not for what the Republican administration and the Republican party have stood for and done to protect his interests. "Mr. Roosevelt, in his advocacy of a tariff, that would place the American farmer in competition with foreign farmers accepts, the viewpoint of our international bankers, who gladly would open our markets to the world in order that they might recover some of the billions in bad investments they have made in foreign countries. I do not believe the American farmer wants such bedfellows.

liston with another machine north of Mitchell, S. D. No one was hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haddock spent the week-end in Dakota and were returning. Twelve miles north of Mitchell they met a car driven by Roy Ford of Watertown, S. D., and the machines collided, the South Dakota auto tearing the fenders and running board on the Pratt car.

After the Pratts started on their homeward journey again Sunday evening they were followed for some miles by another car. Mr. Pratt stopped at a filling station; the other car passed and waited a distance ahead for the Wayne folks. Fearing some design, the Pratts turned into a farm house and the other car waited there until 3:30 Monday morning. After daylight Monday the Wayne folks continued their journey here.

Council Meets Tuesday

Wayne city council will meet in regular session at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, regardless of election activities. Mayor Martin Ringer expects the meeting to be brief.

Democracy, Mr. Good said, proposed a competitive tariff, which is an amount equal to the difference between cost of production in other nations and cost of production here. Roosevelt has never advocated a lower tariff on farm products, Mr. Good asserted.

To stimulate business, Mr. Good continued, it is important that foreign trade be reestablished, and to do this the United States must let foreign nations ship goods here in payment.

State police system for highways, an issue to be voted on at this election, is a point of difference between Attorney General C. A. Sorensen and Mr. Good, candidate for the office, the speaker pointed out and the two have had three open debates on the topic.

The proposed patrol of highways, Mr. Good thinks, would require additional expense and with a board of seven controlling it the organization would have no central head. Mr. Good charges that the bill would have to be amended by the state legislature and so the logical thing to do, in his opinion, is to let the legislature frame the bill.

Student Body Will Attend Pilger Game

Students at college training high school will be dismissed Friday afternoon in time to attend the Pilger-Training school grid tilt at Pilger. This is the only out-of-town game the student body will witness.

Feature of high school assembly Wednesday morning was a debate on relative qualifications of the two leading presidential candidates, Alvin Giese representing Hoover and Llewellyn Whitmore speaking for Roosevelt. Mary Guliver explained the intricacies of voting. Next Tuesday, a presidential vote will be taken in all high school class rooms, sponsored by American history class.

Faculty supervisors and teachers attended Norfolk session of the N. S. T. A. last Friday, and students throughout the grades, and high school were given a day's holiday.

Former Resident Of Wayne Passes

Ray Bell, former resident of Wayne and Carroll, died October 20, according to word received here this week by Mrs. Frank Davis. Mr. Bell was taken ill June 17 this year and his condition became critical October 7. Funeral services were held at Elgin, N. D., October 23.

Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell, was born at Wayne November 1, 1901, and was thus aged 30 years, 11 months and 12 days. The family moved to Wade, N. D., in 1911 and stayed there until 1913 when they went to Leith, N. D. In 1917 they located at Elgin, N. D., their home since. Deceased was employed by the government 10 years, two years in the Elgin post-office and the rest of the time as rural mail carrier.

Mr. Bell married Miss Esta Veller in 1926 and to this union were born three children, Betty Jane, 6, Esta, 4, and Floyd Ray, 3. Besides his wife and children he leaves his mother, Mrs. Ada Bell, his grandmother, Mrs. McVey, three sisters and four brothers.

About 60 Sacks Of Flour Given Needy

Applications for food and clothing have fallen off considerably the past week, according to Walter Bressler, in charge of the central clearing house for all welfare organizations. Only two candidates for the wood pile have put in an appearance at the city hall this week, but Paul Mines, who makes out food orders for the choppers, reports an average of four transient per day at work on the pile. Grocery orders for 15c are being issued now, but with cold weather, arrangements will be made to feed the workers at local restaurants.

Mr. Bressler has had applications for aid from two Winslow families, two Sholes families and several from Altona. About 60 sacks of flour have been distributed since the carload arrived last week.

GERMAN NATION IS GRATEFUL TO U. S. ---SACKETT

Ambassador Says President Saved Eight Million Starving Children.

ANCESTRY OF HOOVER

No man in history has done more for the people of Germany from the standpoint of the humanitarian than President Herbert Hoover.

The German people, who recognize President Hoover as the one man who prevented their nation from starvation following the world war, know how single-minded the president threw down the barrier around Germany set up by the allies and fed Germany with American war surpluses at a fair price.

Germany came out of the war a nation that was still a gigantic manufacturing plant in itself. But she had no money with which to buy raw materials from us or any other nation or pay her workers.

Here in the United States we had stepped up our production to war-time speed to turn out food that was calculated to supply the needs of the army and navy.

Mary Jane Johnson Plans Career As Aviatrix And Parachute Jumper

Life can be very thrilling when one is 20, and when an adventurous and pioneering field is beckoning.

Witness Mary Jane Johnson, whom Waynesites will remember as a lively, tireless youngster with long black curls, and who returned to Wayne last week with a 2,000-foot, trophy-winning parachute leap to her credit.

Becoming interested in aviation through pilot friends, Miss Johnson determined to learn to fly, and found employment at the Curtis-Wright field at Evanston, Ill., her home city.

It all came about this way. An organization of professional parachute jumpers called the "Knights of the Long Table," wanted a girl for their membership.

Miss Johnson is the only girl parachute jumper in her part of the country, and is the first girl to jump with triangle-shaped chute.

WILDCATS LOSE TO PERU FRIDAY

Visitors Carry Off Big End Of Score In Hard-Fought Homecoming Game.

Peru wrestled a 13 to 7 victory from her old rival, Wayne, Friday night in a hard-fought game against a strong prairie wind which played havoc with passes and punts.

The Wildcats menaced Peru's goal line twice to their opponents' single threat during first half, but the visitors were on Wayne's 5-yard line, headed for a touchdown, when the whistle blew for the half.

The line-up follows: Pike, Mahler; Pate, Paul; Tolly, Kramplen; Punches, Ambrose; Peck, Blumy; Dasher, Stedry; Carmichael, Owens; Hatcher, Kunkle; Miller, Hocket; Priefert, Smith; Games, Gast.

Substitutes: Peru, none; Wayne: Evans, Sexton, Grubb, Wenzel, Price, Hungerford, Ebersole, Jensen, and Cook.

First downs: Wayne 6; Peru, 6. Passes: Wayne, none completed out of 4; Peru, 3 completed out of 7.

Yards gained in scrimmage: Wayne, 121; Peru, 132. Referee, King, Norfolk; umpire, Long, Peru; head linesman, Strahan, Nebraska.

Leland Copeland, one of Wayne's star players, was unable to be in the game Friday because of a leg injury sustained in practice.

Youths Compete In Chicago Show

Chicago—Boys and girls of rural America are looking forward to the climax of their many sectional and state contests and demonstrations which occur in Chicago each year the week after Thanksgiving at the national boys and girls club congress.

Their congress will be held in connection with the world's largest live stock show, the International Live Stock Exposition, which will be in progress at the Chicago stock yards November 26 to December 3.

Exhibits from 45 States. A thousand 4-H boys and girls from 43 states will take part this year. Exhibits will be on view from 45 states.

Many of those taking part in the national club congress travel to Chicago on free trips donated by railroads and industrial concerns related to agriculture that realize the sound insurance of the future of American farming which these bright eyed, accomplished youngsters represent.

State Champions Meet. One of the most spectacular events of the exposition, featuring these young people, is the junior live stock feeding contest, occurring on the opening day of the show, November 26.

Winter Is Coming Let Us Get Your Car Ready Cold Weather NOW! One of the important things to be done is to have your transmission and differential grease changed to winter grades. It is just as important that the oil in these parts flow freely in the winter as that in your motor. On your motor you have an oil gauge to tell you whether your oil is working or not but there is nothing in the transmission or differential to tell you until a noise develops. There will be a big rush at our place one of these first cold wintery days, so bring your car in before the rush comes to get it ready for winter. We also have plenty of anti-freeze. From the Ponca Journal for November 10, 1881: "On Friday night another severe prairie fire swept over the southwestern part of the county, doing considerable damage to stocks and groves. David Lampher, living a few miles southwest from Martingsburg, lost 30 tons of hay and saved his house and stables with great difficulty. In the neighborhood of Logan grove the fire ran through a number of fine groves of timber and killed a great many valuable trees. On the Daily the large grove of George Bolton was nearly destroyed and numerous trees on the land of Mr. King were killed. Many hay and straw stacks and a few wheat stacks were burned in the region traversed by the fire. Taken altogether the damage done by the fire was considerable. The wind was blowing a gale and Mr. Martin who saw it, states that it traveled with the speed of a race horse."

Editorial of 1916, true today: "Whoever is elected president will have the loyal and undivided support of American citizens."

"Wayne has a few well established and prosperous factories, but needs more of them. A corn canner is in prospect, and should be encouraged and secured if possible. It would add to the revenues of the city and surrounding country. It would create employment during part of each year. Canneries exist elsewhere and one would pay here."

"Help times get better" SAYS HENRY FORD
"Every act of the President has been in the interest of employment... he has kept his head when others lost theirs... no act of his has been dictated by panic or politics. And the result is that we are now beginning to feel the lifting power of his well-thought-out program... President Hoover must be elected to prevent times from getting worse and to help them get better."
Charles A. Lindbergh says:
"The experience, courage and vision of Herbert Hoover are needed to pilot us safely out of the world-wide depression from which we are emerging."
Calvin Coolidge says:
"Before we decide that we want a change we ought to determine what the chances are of securing any improvement—the more this campaign has progressed, the more I am convinced that the public welfare requires that Hoover should be re-elected."

The United States was the last to suffer. It is the first to show definite signs of recovery. No other nation has met this tragic economic collapse so forcefully and successfully—no other nation has laid so broad a foundation for reconstruction—no other nation has accomplished as much as has our nation under the Republican leadership of Herbert Hoover.
Shall we now, at this critical time, experiment with political "patent medicines" and fantastic, unsound theories, or shall we continue a safe and sensible program that President Hoover has put into operation?
Democratic leaders seek to tear down, not build up. In their quest for Republican votes, they are not appealing to your common sense. They are fanning the flames of human distress.
When you hire a man you ask references as to character, ability, experience and loyalty to the job in hand. The Democratic candidate would remove our tariff. He proposes nothing helpful to agriculture. He discloses an amazing ignorance of national problems and how to combat them. He promises government jobs to ten millions of people—an astounding promise which no government could fulfill. As governor of New York the last three years he has increased the funded debt of his state nearly 100 millions of dollars!
Millions of citizens have begun to think seriously. They are NOT going to vote for a candidate whose election would stop the forces of reconstruction now in operation, frighten business and delay recovery. They will vote Republican.
X Vote for HERBERT HOOVER

WEEK'S REVIEW OF THE HERALD EXCHANGES

John Gerges, 80, Elgin business man, died last week. Mrs. Anna Kriz, 77, died at Bloomfield last week. Platview is installing a new Diesel engine at its power plant. Randolph staged a community Halloween hunt Monday evening. Knox county taxes have been reduced 24 percent, the net being $132,268. Miss Dora Volders and Lloyd Twibell of Pender, were married last week. Thomas, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton DeGroot of Madison, died suddenly last week. Fire damaged the South Sioux City Star-Mail office to the extent of about $1,000. Extra gravel will be laid on the highway west of Randolph in places that have worn thin. An additional mail carrier has been appointed at West Point to serve during winter months. Mrs. Henry Koopman, 37, died at Stanton Monday last week. Her husband and four sons survive. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welding of West Point, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last week. Twenty young folks from Cuming county took baby beavers to the Ak-Sar-Ben stock show in Omaha. Jackie, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Claussen of Pender, is recovering after drinking a quantity of kerosene. Howard Stark, 25, of Norfolk, and Miss Charlotte Byars, 18, of Valley, won the state Atwater Keri radio audition. Arnold Gray, 16, of Coleridge, suffered serious gunshot wounds under the left arm Wednesday last week in a hunting accident. Leonard Renner, 17, of Spauld Omaha, lost his right arm by accidental discharge of a gun while he was hunting at West Point. Mrs. E. Steffen, Cedar county pioneer, died at the age of 89 years. The Steffens homestead in a little log house near Fordyce 61 years ago. Charles Magnuson of Magneta, has requested withdrawal of his name from the socialist ticket as candidate for state senator. Names of Schneider and Frey remain. The marriage of Leonard Wehner and Miss Clara Hendricks of Pliger, and of Ervin Wehner and Miss Viola Doeschler of Beemer, took place last week. The men are brothers. Mrs. H. C. Haskell of Emerson Iowa, died Monday last week of burns sustained when she mistook gasoline for kerosene and used it in starting a fire at the home of her son, John, at Albion, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Burkhardt and daughter are moving from Norfolk to Lartington. Mr. Burkhardt to assist a bank receiver; Mrs. Burkhardt, formerly Miss Agnes Kell, used to live in Wayne. The Russian five-year plan is not successful and is doomed to fail, said Mrs. Cecil Means of Albion, in speaking to a Tekamah audience last week. Mrs. Means spent a year in Russia while her husband was an agricultural expert there. John Schula of Wisner, won the Cuming county corn husking contest at West Point last week, netting 28.53 bushels in 30 minutes. Albert Heilmann of West Point, was second with 26.7 bushels. Martin Westerhold of Wisner, was third with 26.21. W. H. Stageman of Randolph had 10 acres taken out of the section of school land he operates as a ranch, for highway purposes. The land is directly east of Center in Knox county. Appraisers fixed the damage to Mr. Stageman at $4,026, but the Department of Public Works thought this figure excessive and took the matter into court on appeal. A jury, after going over the ground, fixed the damage at $3,500. W. P. Frahm, 35, of Laurel, is suffering from serious burns on his face, hands and arms, received when a can of blasting powder exploded. Mr. Frahm was explaining to Ruben Krei, 12, that the powder, which is used for blasting tree stumps, does not explode easily in an open can. Mr. Frahm tossed a match into the can and the explosion followed. The Krei boy and Mrs. Dan Danielson, who were standing nearby, sustained minor burns. The Country's Dangers. William Allen White in Emporia Gazette: "No president since Grover Cleveland retired, has been so unfairly abused by the public as Herbert Hoover. He has done a great service to America—saved us from panic and the collapse of our financial system. In the nature of things, he could not explain the work he was doing, because to uncover the dangers he saw—dangers that were real and terrible—while he was working, would have made any rescue impossible. Yet faithful, tirelessly, bravely, with fine intelligence he has been at his task. "The other day The Gazette received a letter from an old friend who was stopping at the Rapidan camp one Saturday as the guest of the president. The president goes to the Rapidan camp every week-end for rest. The letter from his guest gives an account of one of the great crises in American history. It passed last summer but I realized it was threatening.

This letter is well worth reading, he writes:

"At 8 o'clock on a Saturday night at the height of the depression, the president was called to phone at the largest Chicago bank told him that not a city bank would dare open its doors the following Monday unless given financial help. Had the Chicago banks failed at that critical time, it would have been only a question of days before the other banks of the country would have come down like a row of falling bricks. Efforts of Chicago bankers to obtain necessary help from banking circles in other cities had failed. Eighty million dollars was the amount needed. Only the Hoover relief measures were available. The president, undaunted, received the startling news, requested that representatives of the Chicago banks be immediately called together and await word from him. Then obtaining a wire to Washington, he asked the members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to be summoned. Next a wire was opened to New York and representative bankers and members of the federal reserve board were hurriedly called into conference. With an open circuit from Chicago to New York passing thru Washington and the Rapidan, the president sat at the telephone through the night directing the mobilization of banking credit and currency sufficient to save the impending catastrophe. At 8 o'clock the following night he hung up the phone, knowing the situation had been saved. Thirty million dollars of currency was delivered to the tottering bank before opening hour Monday morning. Fifty million dollars more soon followed. The greatest crisis of the depression had been successfully met. The recognized leaders of finance did not initiate and direct this stupendous achievement. In its entirety it was the accomplishment of a weary man who had gone to a mountain retreat for a brief, uninterrupted rest. "And yet when he had saved that bank from collapse he had saved every man, woman and child in this whole western Mississippi region, west of the Missouri, from a frightful calamity. If that bank had gone under, it would have taken other Chicago banks. Now in the Chicago banks, the Kansas City banks, the Nebraska banks, the banks of all the country from Texas to the Canadian border keep their reserve. "Such a vast run on the banks of the west would have occurred that not one would be open today and millions—probably billions—would be grinding thru receiverships while all of us would suffer. Yet after doing what he did—saving the financial integrity of this western country the president is hoisted at, booted and was made the subject of scorn and contumely such as has not been visited upon an American president, excepting Cleveland, since Lincoln's day when he was abused for continuing the war after '64. "Surely the calm, sober, sober sense of the American people will save the American government from falling into the hands of those who are not capable of handling the great problems before it today. Surely no sane person could blame Hoover for the panic! Surely no one but a bitter partisan could withhold praise for Hoover—for the wise, courageous work he has done and still must do, if America comes unscathed thru these trying times." A Soliloquy. Lincoln Journal: I am a machine, man, made, man praised and man cursed. I have lifted workers out of the ditch and placed them on dry clean ground, while I have gone down into the muck and mire to do their work. I have performed the tasks of weary men while they slept, by and directed my movements. I have brought better pay to men and have given them confidence and self respect. I have saved human lives. At times, thru misdirection or misuse, I have become a monster that takes human lives. I have increased the products of labor many fold while at the same time decreasing labor and the cost of production. I have supplied the hungry with cheaper food, with greater comforts, with the luxuries of life. I have put workmen in palaces and have exalted captains of industry. I have, clothed the naked, I have given the poor raiment such as the kings of the earth a few centuries back could not obtain. I have builded great fortunes for some and have brought to many confidence and competence. Yet, because inventive genius has concentrated on bringing about my perfection and has neglected matters relatively more important, I have taken bread from the mouths of children, have deprived men and women of a chance to work and have deprived of independence many who could not go along with me. I bring joy and happiness, contentment and leisure. I bring death and disaster when illly used. While I feed many I force thousands into the bread lines. While I think that I am saving tons of food and clothing from coast to coast, while I lift heavy burdens with ease and supply a substitute for bone and sinew that fabricates great structures of stone and steel, many walk the streets of the great cities I have built, in search of work and the reward of labor. When I am misused I become a curse. Where properly employed I prove a blessing. Mingling my melullie tones with the sound waves of despair I cry for help. I demand that genius find a way to place what I produce in the hands of those who would labor if employment were to be found. I call to the constructive forces of a resourceful nation to find a way out of the conditions that have been brought about thru my creation. Will they meet the need? The progress of civilization depends on what these forces can do.

False Report. (Lincoln Journal)

Several days ago the Kansas City Star published in its "Speaking the Public Mind" column a letter signed "Mrs. A. B. D.," in which she was concerned deeply over the report that around the Hoover ranch in California there were posted signs saying, "No American help wanted." An "editor's note" was appended to the communication in answer to "Mrs. A. B. D.'s" inquiry. It said there was no truth in the story of the signs and pointed out the very intensity of feeling over alien labor in California would have made such signs impossible. But the "Public Mind" editor has been showered since then with letters from other readers who insist the story is true. They quote relatives or friends "who saw the sign with their own eyes" and took the Star to task for misinforming Mrs. A. B. D. In order to determine the truth or falsity of the story, once and for all, the Star communicated with Dallas E. Wood, editor of the Palo Alto Times. Here is Mr. Wood's reply: "Palo Alto, California—To the Star: In spite of the persistence of the rumor by alleged witnesses, who profess to have seen such signs 'with my own eyes' there is not now and never has been a 'no American help' or 'no white help' or any other kind of 'help' sign at either the Hoover home in Palo Alto or at his ranch in Kern county. As a resident here since before the time of the building of the Hoover home, I can testify on my own knowledge to the absence of any such sign at Palo Alto. "In Kern county a committee of citizens issued a statement, saying: "The charge that a sign had been posted on the farm to the effect that white labor was not wanted, we find to be both untrue and malicious. No Japanese or Hindus ever have been employed on the farm. "A supplementary statement from the Kern county labor council reads: "We, the Kern county labor council, have looked further into labor conditions at the Hoover farm and have found conditions there favorable and have no objections or complaints to make with reference to classes of labor hired, living conditions or wages paid. "The origin of the myth is difficult to trace definitely. It has been said that a sign of such character once was posted by another farm in the vicinity of the Hoover ranch in Kern county. The transposition of the mythical sign to the Palo Alto residence is due undoubtedly to public confusion on geography. Palo Alto and the Kern county ranch are about 300 miles apart."

TAXPAYERS FORM COUNTY GROUP

Constitution and By-Laws Are Adopted Saturday By New Organization.

At a meeting of the Wayne County Taxpayers League held last Saturday afternoon at the city hall, the main business transacted was the adoption of a plan of permanent organization and the passing of a number of resolutions. The most important feature of the organization is that every taxpayer of the county is a member, if he cares to attend the meetings, and that the general management of the league is entrusted to a board of directors composed of one man from each voting precinct. It shall be the duty of the director to convey such grievance to the president and secretary, who shall in turn call together the board of directors for such action as the board of directors deems advisable. It shall be the duty of each director in his precinct to scrutinize carefully the expenditure of public money in his precinct, and from time to time report the same to the general board of directors with his recommendations. We recommend to the legislature a repeal of the intangible tax law. We recommend to the legislature that the legal rate of interest be reduced to six per cent and the contractual rate to eight per cent per annum. We recommend to the legislature that in the foreclosure of all mortgages in addition to the usual nine months stay, the court may grant such additional time as in the court's judgment seems advisable. We recommend to the legislature that the interest on delinquent taxes shall be reduced. We recommend that the legislature readjust the salary of state and county officials so that these salaries shall be in harmony with the economic situation of the present time. We recommend that as many county offices as possible be consolidated and that the employment of help for public purposes be based on public necessity rather than the needs of the individual. We are opposed to every form of nepotism, and recommend that no public officer be permitted to employ, directly or indirectly, a relative. We recommend to the county board that it shall use all care and caution in the expenditure of public money for road grading and dragging purposes, and that all unnecessary road dragging be eliminated, and that before any claim be allowed for such purposes, the claimant itemize his account and specifically set out the time and place of his work. We recommend to the county, the cities and the school districts, that there be a general reduction in public fees, salaries and wages. We recommend that in allowing fees and salaries to public officials such items as house rent, light, fuel and heat, etc., be taken into account, and that such official should account to the public therefor. We recommend that if any official resides in a public building, he should account and pay rent therefor. We recommend to the legislature that all state and county officials should be limited to two terms. If a claim is allowed and ordered paid out of public funds, and the board of directors deem such claim excessive, illegal or unlawful, it shall then be the duty of the president and secretary to perfect an appeal to the courts from the allowance of such claim. We condemn as unlawful the allowance of an expense account of any public official for any purpose whatsoever unless proper vouchers are attached to the account. We deplore the paid advertising of public enterprises and public institutions and consider the same an affront to the American people. We recommend that in the purchase of supplies, goods or materials for public use to be paid for out of public funds, the same shall be purchased at such place as will quote and furnish the same at the lowest price whether such market is in the state of Nebraska or any other state.

Car Loadings Show Turn In Business "The business of the country as measured by the best single standard, railway freight car loading, continues to improve at an accelerating rate," says the Railway Age in its current issue. "The number of cars loaded in September was 14 per cent greater than in June, when freight movement reached relatively its lowest level during the depression, and the increase during October has been relatively much greater than in September. Average loadings per week in June were only 491,589, while in the first three weeks of October they were 632,763, a gain of 141,174, or almost 29 percent. "This increase was absolutely as well as relatively greater than has been normal in years of prosperity. The average increase in loadings per week between June and October in the five years ending with 1929 was 129,050 cars, or less than 12 percent. In 1930 it was less than 23,000 cars, or 2.4 percent. In 1931 it was less than 20,000 cars, or 2.7 percent. The increase in car loadings between June and October, 1932, which was seven times as great as between the same months of 1930 and 1931, is the most conclusive answer that could be given to the question as to whether business at last has begun substantially to improve. "The most important, immediate problem of financial and business leaders of the nation is to cause the improvement not only to continue but to accelerate until the increased purchasing power and demand of the public generally for goods and services will restore normal production and consumption. "One of the principal projects for causing a continuance and increase of the improvement in business has been the organization of the national committee on industrial rehabilitation, of which A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, is chairman, and of which sub-committees are being organized in various territories and communities. This movement is not sponsored and led by government officials, but by financial and business executives. It is predicated upon a recognition of the fact that the greatest reduction of activity and employment have occurred in the "capital goods" industries, rather than in the industries that produce consumers' goods and services, and that therefore the principal requisite to a general revival of business is an increase of activity and employment in the capital goods industries."

Rabbi Browne Speaks

The Schoolma'am

Not Much Thinking Or Creative Work Done Dr. Lewis Browne Says

"Not much serious thinking is being done during this economic stress, nor is any great creative work being turned out," according to Dr. Lewis Browne, author and lecturer, who appeared on the Wayne State Teachers college lecture course last Thursday evening. "Only in times of great prosperity do we find cultural development, such as the Renaissance in Europe, the Elizabethan period in England, or Egypt at its height of power, when the finest art treasures of all ages came into being. People are disturbed now and are open to new ideas, but are not seeking new knowledge. Without doubt, their ideas have changed the past three years, becoming more and more liberal."

Dr. Browne is making an eight-weeks lecture tour on a strenuous schedule made possible only by night flying. Ten days ago he was in California; Monday he lectured at Illinois State College; Tuesday at St. Joseph; Wednesday in Milwaukee; Wayne on Thursday, making the trip to and from Omaha by car and catching the midnight plane to Chicago in order to fulfill a date in Indiana the next day. At the end of his tour, Dr. and Mrs. Browne will sail for Japan where he is to lecture at the University of Tokyo and also in Chinese and Indian universities. He plans to devote considerable time to archeological study in Arabia, and later will write a book on "This Happening to the World." His "This Happening World" has gone into many editions and been translated into several languages, and other books, "Stranger Than Fiction," "The Graphic Bible," "That Man Helme" and "Since Calvary" which have been widely read and discussed.

Rabbi Browne is a forceful speaker, enunciating concisely in true British style, and he has an odd controlled smile which enhances his stage presence. A deep thinker, an advanced thinker, he nevertheless put his thoughts in words which were closely followed by his collegiate audience. Announcing his subject as "Belief," Dr. Browne protested the old definition of belief as written creed, and called it something vaster and hugely important. "The only difference between a Baptist and a Methodist," he illustrated "is that one believes in full laundering and the other in dry cleaning."

There are three distinct types of belief, according to the speaker, that of primitive people in the jungle, that of ordinary people who make up the masses, and a thin layer of the intellectuals, or trained thinkers, who work out their own beliefs. Considering the first group, the speaker said that primitive man believes more than we do, for the world is more bewildering, nothing is understood and he must accept phenomena of nature without knowing their causes. When a strong wind which is merely air in a hurry, rustles the trees, the jungle man hears the sound but does not understand it. He has but one explanation—there is a threatening spirit in that tree which must be won over. Now when an old man of the tribe is angry and roars, only one thing will quiet him—a present. So he brings a present to the tree and dances around it, perhaps sacrificing an animal at its base and sprinkling the blood about for the spirit exists in the blood. If the wind subsides, then his belief is strengthened. If not, then he must make additional sacrifices until the spirit is won.

If a stream is rising and threatens primitive man's hut, he again tries magic, calling the medicine man to dance or perform some awesome rite. Perhaps he throws a girl child into the stream; if no results, even a male child must be sacrificed, and as a last resort, his wife. This most invariably works, not because the stream spirit covets his wife, but because later in the spring, streams are no longer rising. This magic may be expensive, but it's effective. Always the primitive man tries to win over evil spirits around him by magical means. If he is ill, the witch doctor says magic words, and if he recovers, he credits it to good magic. He has no conception of regularity—that seasons come and go, that spring always follows winter. To hasten springtime he has elaborate festivals to remind the gods it's time for warm weather.

Use Magic Today. We civilized people still cling to magic in many things—that's why most hotels and office buildings have no 13th floor and many persons won't sit 13 at table. After all, we're still second cousins to primitives of the jungle, the speaker reminded his audience. Our mechanical knocking on wood when we've been too optimistic goes back to the primitive who became friendly with a tree through making sacrifices to it, and considered it his good luck tree. When he moved away, he carried a piece of bark or wood and talked to it when he wanted some special favor. Sometimes it became a cane which he always carried with him and beseeched in time of danger.

About Second Group. Speaking of the second group, the masses who simply exist but do not think, Rabbi Browne described their daily existence, getting up in a crowded one-room dwelling and "washing only approximately" so that "a good deal of yesterday is with them when they get up today." Nothing to cut them off from yesterday's living, no astringent things such as highly flavored tooth paste or tart orange or tomato juice. The very poor never have anything to look forward to, nor have they anything to look down upon, which is equally important, according to the lecturer. We of the more favored classes have that great token of democracy, the newspaper, to cheer us up, being full of news about other people. The morning mail is recognition of our existence as individuals. It gives us definite status, a sense of belonging, but the poor man seldom gets mail. He gets no excitement out of his children, unlike the middle class to whom children are a gamble—Johnny may be president of the United States, and Tom might go him one better and be president of the U. S. Steel corporation! The unskilled laborer, said the speaker, can't hope for his children to be any better off than he is, but only to grind away to keep above destitution. Watching representatives of these laborers at a certain gospel temple where they were recognized as the chosen of God, Dr. Browne noted a queer, exultant look in their eyes, like someone listening to glorious music and feeling light, powerful, all-important. As someone expressed it, they felt like eating a meal of the Hindustan elephants and picking their teeth with cathedral spires. These people want to believe in miracles, says the speaker, because there is no joy in their earthly life. And fully 99 percent of people today continue to believe in miracles, he charges.

Unthinking people are willing to believe that the Lord will provide; thinking people are also willing to believe it, but are ready to provide for themselves until He gets started, according to Dr. Browne.

Ordinary Beliefs. Ordinary man believes man is all-important in the universe, that the world was created in six days; that man was created first and woman as an afterthought; that they were sent to the garden and told to keep away from certain trees, with a moon created especially to make light at night, and a sun by day. He believes there was a depression and Satan was unemployed, so began selling apples on the street corner, and made a sale to Eve. Now intelligent man recognizes himself as an animal, called a higher animal because he himself does the calling, but related to lower forms. He knows ours is a poor little universe, with a wee sun and a tiny island of stars compared to the others. Einstein says the universe is not infinite, but is bounded, which Dr. Browne pronounced bad enough. If one thinks at all, says the speaker, he is impressed by the infinitesimal smallness of the human race. Every human being on this earth could be crowded into a box one-half mile square, taken to the Grand canyon and pushed off, completely destroying our race. The whole state of Nebraska could be obliterated and most people would never hear of it because majority of people have never heard of Nebraska, in spite of all our activities. Millions have never even heard of New York City. If any one of the floating things about our universe were to slip and hit the earth, we'd be "puffed" into space in a second's time. It takes a wise man to realize his own value, to stand outside the earth and measure the vast distances of stars—but it gives power and strength to the man who can comprehend it. He knows how much is to be done and his lowly scheme in its doing. Intelligent man believes in work, not miracles.

In sickness, the primitive is helpless, and always dies of disease, not old age. He is noted for strong, white teeth, which he gains by eating rough food, but he never lives long enough to lose these teeth. A woman is old at 20, a bag of bones at 31, an old crone at 35. Modern man has no fear of cholera, and such diseases, not because he has found good magic, but because he has found the cause and ridged himself of it.

Much To Learn. We have much to learn regarding distribution of our wealth, Rabbi Browne believes. Until recently years the great majority of people were hungry most of the time, and millions still starve in England and China. In this country enough food is raised for everyone because agricultural scientists learned how to grow better and more food. But we haven't learned how to distribute this evenly, says the Englishman, and again we must listen to scientists rather than to politicians.

Believing World. Of the three types of belief covered in his talk, Dr. Browne pronounced the first, magic, as accomplishing nothing, the belief in miracles as an opiate to deaden people to the pain which is their daily life, and the higher form, belief in power of man's spirit to go out into darkness and make it over, to labor to learn things, and to feel oneself a pioneer in a great advancement—this last belief makes life an adventure, exciting, thrilling, worth-while. This is truly a believing world, said the speaker in closing, with some people believing in magic, some in religion, but the great thinkers believing in the work of their brains as the only way forward.

Etta Kett's Weekly Quiz

1. What should a person remember when receiving a dinner invitation?
2. How long should a hostess wait dinner for a tardy guest?
3. Do all guests sit down together at a dinner table?
4. How should bread be eaten?
5. What is the correct way to eat sandwiches?
6. If you are seated next to a person to whom you haven't been introduced, what is correct procedure?
7. How should the napkin be handled?
8. How should the napkin be left at end of meal?
9. What should one remember about drinking at the table?
10. Should one cut more than one bite of food at a time?
11. How should the knife and fork be left at end of course?
12. What is the American and what is the European manner of handling the knife and fork?

Answers To Etta Kett.
1. To answer it promptly that the hostess may know how many guests to plan for.
2. Not over 15 minutes for an ordinary guest, and not over half an hour for the guest of honor.
3. A man may not sit down till all women are seated. He should pull out the chair for the woman on his right, and for the one on his left, too, if necessary.
4. Break it off in small pieces and butter and eat each piece before breaking the next. Bread should never be buttered in the hand, but always on the bread and butter or dinner plate.
5. Small dry sandwiches are eaten with the fingers; club sandwiches or those with very moist fillings, are best eaten with knife and fork.
6. Introduce yourself, and engage in conversation.
7. Unfold it only once, leaving the center fold as it is, and place napkin smoothly across the lap. Use it as unobtrusively as possible.
8. Lay napkin, folded as it is, across the plate.
9. Always wipe your lips carefully before drinking from glass, otherwise it will leave a smudge.
10. No, eat each bite before cutting off the next.
11. Across the plate diagonally so they won't slip off!
12. The American way is to cut with knife in right hand, and fork, times down, in left. Knife is laid on plate and fork shifted to right hand, and food conveyed to mouth on fork, times up. Europeans cut food in same manner but do not shift utensil, carrying food to mouth with fork, times pointed downward.

Bacon Muffins. 2 cupfuls white flour, 4 teaspoon baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoon sugar, 1-2 cupful crisp bacon, diced, 1 egg, 1 cupful milk, 1-4 cupful shortening. Sift the dry ingredients; add the bacon. Beat the egg; add the milk and the melted shortening. Stir the mixture quickly and lightly into the dry ingredients. Fill well-greased muffin pans 2-3 full. Bake in a hot oven for 20 to 30 minutes. Chopped ham or nut meats may be substituted for the bacon. Twelve large or 18 small muffins.

Marshmallow Gingerbread. 1-2 cup shortening, 1 cup molasses, 1 egg, About 2-3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2-3 teaspoon soda, 1 1-2-3 teaspoon ground ginger, 1 cup sour milk, Marshmallows. Melt the shortening and add to it the molasses, beaten egg and flour with which the salt, soda and ginger have been sifted. Add the milk, beat thoroughly and turn into a deep pan which has been well greased and floured. Bake twenty-five to thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from the pan, split and put a layer of marshmallows on the cut surface. Replace the top section of the gingerbread and return to the oven for about three minutes to soften the marshmallows slightly. Cut into squares and serve plain as a cake or with whipped cream as a dessert.

Orange Biscuits. 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoon baking powder, 2-3 teaspoon salt, 3 tablepoons shortening, 1 orange, Scant 2-3 cup milk, Cubes of cut sugar. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; work in the shortening and mix to a light soft dough with the milk. Roll or pat out on a floured board about two-thirds inch thick, place on a slightly greased baking pan, press into the center of each biscuit a cube of sugar which has been dipped into the orange juice. Bake about twelve minutes in a hot oven.

Peanut Muffins. 2 cupfuls graham flour, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 4 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1 1/4 cupfuls milk, 2 tablepoonsful melted shortening, 1 egg, 1-2 cupful salted peanuts, 1-2 teaspoonful salt. Chop the peanuts, sift the dry ingredients, and combine. Beat the egg, and blend with the milk and shortening. Combine the dry and liquid ingredients with not more than 20 swift strokes of your spoon. Fill a greased muffin pan 2-3 full and bake in an oven for 20 minutes.

Boston Brown Bread. 1 cup corn meal and 1 cup rye meal or 2 cups corn meal, 1 cup graham flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup molasses, 2 cups sour milk, and 1 1/2-2-3 cupfuls soda, or 2 cups sweet milk, 1-4 teaspoon soda and 4 tablepoons baking powder. Mix the dry ingredients and add the molasses and the milk. Beat the mixture thoroughly, and pour into greased molds until they are about three-fourths full. Cover loosely to keep out the moisture, and steam for 3 1/2 hours. Remove the covers and bake the bread in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes to dry it off. If the bread seems likely to crumble, loop a string around the loaf and cut slices by pulling the ends of the string.

Fruit Sandwich Bread. 1 1-2 cupfuls white flour, 6 tablepoons baking powder, 1 1-2-2-3 tablepoons salt, 1-2 cupful nut meats, 1 1-2-2-3 cupfuls graham flour, 1-2 cupful sugar, 1 cupful sliced, candied orange peel, 1 egg, 1 1-2 cupfuls milk. Sift the white flour, baking powder, and salt together. Add the Graham flour, sugar, nut meats, sliced peel, and pineapple. Mix with the fingertips. Beat the egg, add the milk, and stir the liquid into the dry ingredients. Pour the mixture into a well-greased loaf pan measuring 12 by 3 1/4 inches on the bottom and 3 inches deep. Bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

HOME TESTED RECIPE HELPS FOR THE COOK

Pineapple Cheese Salad. (Mrs. J. M. Strahan) Dissolve 1 envelope Knox gelatin in 1 cup cold water. Boil together for 5 minutes juice of one small can of pineapple, juice of one lemon, 1 cup sugar and 3-4 pint of cold water. Add gelatine and allow to set. When almost stiff add diced pineapple, 1-4 pound diced cheese and 1-2 pint of whipped cream.

Brine for Meat. 5 gallons water, 4 pounds salt, 2 pounds brown sugar, 1-2 quarts saltwater. Boil all together and let cool. Rub meat with fine salt and pack closely in a jar. Leave in brine 6 weeks, take out, drain and smoke. If meat is to be used for frying, leave in brine only 2 or 3 weeks.

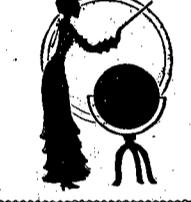

Beef Steak Roll. Take a piece of round steak and after pounding it a little, spread over it a dressing made as for turkey dressing. Place in a roasting pan with a little water and cover. When nearly done, remove cover and brown.

Date Biscuit. 2 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablepoons baking powder, 1 tablepoon butter, 3-4 cup cream or milk, Dates. Roll out and place dates on 1-2 of biscuit and fold over the other half. Pinch together. Bake 15 minutes.

Butter Pretzel. 1-2 pound butter, 1 pound coffee bread dough (well raised). After adding the butter, roll out thin, form into pretzels and bake at once.

Nut Bread. 1 egg, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 1-4 cups milk, 4 cups sifted flour, 4 tablepoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped English walnuts. Sift flour before measuring, then sift with salt and baking powder. Mix well and let rise 1-2 hour. Bake 1 hour in a moderate oven.

NEBRASKA HIGHWAYS

SWAT CRIME IN NEBRASKA!

Vote For Highway Patrol Bill

Will save money for taxpayers. The state now has three law enforcement agencies as follows: 1. The state sheriff's office for which there is appropriated every two years $75,000. 2. The state fire marshal's office for which there is appropriated $30,000. 3. A bureau in the department of public works for the enforcement of motor vehicle laws for which there is appropriated $50,000. These appropriations total $205,000 and the people do not now get that much in protection. Under the present plan the three departments mentioned have separate offices, separate sets of clerical help, separate sets of state automobiles and separate heads. It is obvious that consolidating would mean a saving for the taxpayers. Those who state that the proposed bill will increase taxes are either unfamiliar with the terms of the bill or are deliberately spreading a falsehood for political reasons. The proposed bill will not only lower the cost of law enforcement by the state, but will save money for the people in many other ways: 1. By bringing about a decrease in automobile deaths and injuries the rates for automobile liability insurance and accident insurance will be cut from 10 to 25 percent. 2. By stopping the bootlegging of gasoline in Nebraska the state will secure every two years from $600,000 to $800,000 additional revenue from gasoline taxes. 3. The saving to farmers, wage earners and business men from prevented robberies will run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars. 4. The saving in hospital, doctor and funeral bills from the decrease in deaths and injuries on the highways will amount to at least $1,000,000 a year.
