Paying personal taxes has been the major surgical operation performed in property holders' pocketbooks or bank accounts during the past few weeks.

Property valuations are not voluntarily placed high unless a feigning buyer instead of a prospective buyer is in view.

Sparking of improvements made during the heat of altitudinal values reminds us that many things thought when everybody was flying high have sunk under the wheels of the deflation juggernaut.

FIFTY-SECOND YEAR

DR. U. S. CONN SCORES LACK OF PATRIOTISM

Tells Kiwanis Members Of Communistic Threat To Government.

ENTERS RABBIT MEET

"If there is any one thing I would recommend as remedy for the present unrest and economic trouble, it is to have a competent, fact-finding commission of economic, statisticians and non-political statesmen to study the real facts and make recommendations to congress," stated Dr. U. S. Conn in his talk before Kiwanis club luncheon meeting Monday.

"We are as tired of the name 'depression' as we are of its effects," he remarked. "Volumes have been written on the subject, giving its causes and remedies. Much has been said from the speaking platform and in the business office, but no two persons agree on the causes. The war, European politics, President Hoover, President Wilson, the democratic party, the republican party, international banks and regional banks—all have been blamed for the present difficulties. It is a striking fact that the same difficulties have been encountered in all countries of South America and other parts of the world which did not take part in the World War. It is said the Zulus are the only people not affected by the present upset."

"On the effects about us all are agreed, for fully one-fifth of wage earners in the United States are out of work and dependent upon public charity for support. By taking away independence from working men we cause them to assume an attitude of pauper-mindedness and many who would have rejected assistance of any kind a year or two ago are now expecting assistance. The other four-fifths have greatly reduced incomes, and employers throughout the country, including manufacturers, merchants and transportation operators have greatly reduced earning power. Railroads, their securities formerly rated among the best, are now rated at one-tenth that amount, and scarcely a road in the country can pay dividends on its stock. We should remember that the American public has criticized and hampered the railroads for many years and in its zeal has paralleled them with surface highways, encouraged bus lines and divided up the transportation profits between the bus and railroad companies so that neither can make a profit."

"The fall in values of industrial securities was a blow to many others besides the industrialists," the speaker pointed out. "Endowed educational institutions deriving their incomes from industrial securities are much handicapped this year. Taxes have been reduced all over the country and further reductions will be made right along, but conditions resulting from the depression call for heavier funds, and the government has had to find new means for raising the funds needed to bolster up banks and make state and city loans."

"Whenever there is discontent and distress, there is always a group ready to encourage disorganization and sow seeds of discontent. No calamity has ever fallen upon our people but what the communists were ready to take advantage of it. They have been behind every recent disturbance—the hunger marchers who marched to Washington by truck when congress re-convened, the bonus expeditionary force, the farmers' and laborers' organizations—all with no specific problem to present to congress, with no measure to carry out, only determined to stir by means of force that there was discontent and that this country was on the verge of rebellion. Just how far can we go in healding our government officers and ridiculing our courts and not jeopardize our government?"

Pres. E. J. Hunterman was in the chair, and T. S. Hook, president, led the club in Christmas carols, with James Brittain at the piano. Announcement was made of a training school for new officers to be held at Fremont today. Mr. Hook and Fred L. Blair will attend. E. E. Galley and L. W. Vath were named to meet with two members from the young men's club.

Leaves For West. Mrs. L. M. Owen plans to leave this Thursday for Los Angeles, Calif., to visit her son, LeRoy D. Owen the rest of the winter. Her brother, H. J. Miner, took her to Wisner and she left by train from there. Mrs. Owen plans to be in the west until the last of April or first of May.

SEVERE WEATHER SHOTS MERCURY DOWN BELOW ZERO

An icy blast from the north caught this section in the grip of genuine winter during the past week. The climax in a series of cold days was reached early Monday when reports of the temperature in Wayne varied from fifteen to twenty below. Monday was a tough day to spend in doing outdoor chores, and it made the inhabitants feel that the elements were more severe at this time of year than best judgment would suggest. But out at Elko, Nevada, well along in the direction of sun-kissed southern California, the mercury dropped to 37 below. Still worse, figuring a state boundary as a softening influence, Donner Summit, Calif., reported 32 below. Traffic accidents, due to slippery highways, caused numerous deaths and injuries, thirteen losing their lives in Pennsylvania, nine in California and seven in the New England states. Temperatures moderated Tuesday and brought sweet relief to people who were caught without proper preparation of body or mind for an unexpected introduction of an Arctic variety.

The speaker pleaded for development of the cultural side of students' natures, interspersing his talk with humorous anecdotes.

Boys' glee club will sing before the luncheon meeting of Kiwanis club next Monday, directed by Mr. Stewart.

Mrs. Dinklage would have been 67 years old this Christmas day. She was born in Germany and was married there, coming to Pender, Neb., a year after her marriage. After six years at Pender the family moved to a farm in the southeast part of Wayne county and was here 32 years, moving into Wisner about two years ago.

ANNUAL STUNT NIGHT FEATURE TO BE FRIDAY

Pre-Christmas Activities To Occupy Organizations Until Vacation.

VACATION NEXT WEEK

Sixteen organizations are preparing stunts for annual stunt night at Wayne State Teachers college Friday evening, and its sophomore sponsors are anticipating a lively program. Ten-minute stunts will be presented in the following order: Freshman class, Home Economics club, a cappella group, Y. M. C. A., W. A. A., senior class, International Relations club, band and orchestra, Field ball, junior class, Nebraska hall, Newman club, Lambda Delta Lambda, Y. W. C. A., Physical Science club and Mochajava.

Some difficulty has been experienced in heating the college gymnasium and industrial building this winter, not because of the cold weather or an inadequate heating plant, but because when a new building is added it has a tendency to throw distribution of water out of balance. Hot water is pumped from the power house to all buildings on the campus. A new centrifugal pump to speed up distribution of water has been purchased and will be installed upon arrival. Pres. U. S. Conn points out that the present heating system has been very satisfactory.

Attend Science Meeting. Prof. I. H. Britell and Miss Louise Wendt went to Sioux City Saturday to attend a one-day session of the Sioux Valley Chemists' club. Prof. Britell is president of the group and Miss Wendt is secretary. About 10 colleges and universities from Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa were represented at the meeting.

Dr. Conn spoke at chapel Wednesday morning on the subject, "A Few Observations on the Passing Show" in which he pointed out the present trend toward radicalism in this country, and dangers to our government, and Pearl Luehagen, a young and Rev. Harold Essert of Dixon, college student, led the devotions. Miss Florence Drake's dramatic students will stage a play at chapel next Wednesday.

Woman Pleads Guilty In Court

Pleading guilty before District Judge C. H. Stewart at Norfolk Saturday to a charge of destroying property, Mrs. Laura Lueshen of Wisner, was paroled to Sheriff A. W. Stephens for three years.

A house insured for $6,000 and chicken house insured for $150 were destroyed by fire on the Lueshen farm about eight miles southwest of Wayne November 25. A clause in the insurance policy provided that insurance was payable to Mrs. Amelia Henney, who holds mortgage on the farm. In compliance with the policy the insurance money was paid after the fire to Mrs. Henney.

Plan Program For Christmas In College High

around Christmas the past two weeks. Fifth graders have written an original Indian play, "The Hunting Feast," as a part of their language work, and they will present it to the school on Friday.

Children of the fourth grade report with considerable satisfaction that they "made a song" and wrote the words for it. The words are: "The snow fell fast, the wind blew cold; the turkey strutted big and bold. Out of the house came Grandma dear, the turkey flew away in fear. But Susan Ann sped fast, and in the pen she ran at last. The children came Thanksgiving day and ate him all, Hurry!"

The annual Christmas drive in the school yielded almost as much as in former years, according to Dean L. E. Hahn. Amounts turned in were as follows: Grade one, $3.05; grade two, $2.14; grade three, $3.51; grade four, $3.97; grade five, $4.39; grade six, $2.87; grade seven, $2.75; high school, $1.84; total, $26.70.

Character education club of training school faculty members met last week to discuss the following subject: "How Classroom Procedure May Contribute to Character Education." Points emphasized were: Classroom procedure should not permit children to practice with satisfaction undesirable habits of tampering, feeling and acting; the "socialized" reputation may aid in developing self-direction, self-reliance and self-control; teachers should not accept slovenly work as inaccurate or inadequate; statements of facts in oral discussions should not permit plagiarism to go on without checking; pupils will do better work when they know how to do the work and get proper satisfaction for doing it honestly; in treating a problem child the first step is to isolate the cause of the conduct problem and then apply a specific remedy; this is not an inbred and unchangeable trait; teachers have character education in mind as a goal.

Grade School Activities. Classroom and extra-curricular activities in grade rooms centered dedicated to Wayne State Teachers college's distinguished alumnus, Dr. John G. Nelhardt. Mrs. R. R. Smith has received three essays from Dr. Nelhardt as contribution to the number which will be issued Monday, January 2.

Faculty Has Party. About 60 members of the college faculty club held a Christmas party Monday evening in the recreation room of Pile hall. Prof. A. F. Gulliver, president of the club, presided. Mrs. R. R. Smith, Miss Marie Hove, W. R. Hickman, Miss Alvina Liers and Miss Louise Wendt had charge of entertainment and luncheon. Pictures of faculty members when children were exhibited on a screen and Miss Mildred Piper named the largest number correctly. Carol songs were sung. Each brought gifts of non-perishable food and a large quantity was received for local distribution to needy at Christmas.

Students of German are planning a German party for Tuesday evening, December 20, in the cafeteria. Miss Margaret Schemel will sponsor the affair.

Fred Dale Again Honored. Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic association faculty, athletic representatives and coaches met at Lincoln Saturday and re-named Fred G. Dale as president. Championships in the three major sports for the 1932 season were awarded as follows: Football, Peru State Teachers college; basketball, Omaha university; track, Kearney State Teachers college. Wayne's 1932 football schedule was set as follows: September 29, Wesleyan at Lincoln; October 6, Western Union at LeMars, Iowa; October 13, Kearney at Wayne; October 20, Omaha Municipal at Omaha; October 27, Chadron at Wayne (homecoming); November 3, open; November 10, Southern Normal at Wayne; November 17, open; November 24, Peru at Peru.

Y. W. C. A. Adopts Family. Young Women's Christian association held a social service meeting Wednesday afternoon, in charge of the social service chairman, Miss Mary McInyre. The organization has adopted a family for Christmas, and plans a joint meeting with the Y. M. C. A. in which the offering for this philanthropy will be taken.

Miss Mildred Piper, Miss E. Marie Hove and Mrs. G. W. Costerian entertained members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet at tea in apartment of the first two at 416 Main street Tuesday evening.

International Relations club is planning a social evening for next Monday, centering around the Christmas theme.

Annual Christmas frolic will take place in the gymnasium Saturday night, with a committee from the various halls in charge of decorations. Chaperones for the affair will be Mrs. Iida Holmes, Dr. Amy Chateaufort, Coach W. Ray Hickman, Miss Louise Wendt, Miss Esther Dewitz and Miss Mildred Snyder.

Nelhardt hall girls are planning a Christmas party for next Tuesday evening. They are to assemble on third floor and march down the stairs bearing lighted tapers, and singing carols. The tree will be in place in the lounge and will hold a treat for each girl. Residents will exchange small gifts. A program will be given around the tree.

Police Dogs Are Intelligent As Shown By Deeds

A police dog with unusual intelligence is owned by Walter F. Brugger, who lives northwest of Winside. When one approaches the dog and sees a car tire suspended by a rope from a tree, he naturally thinks there are children in the family who play in the swing. This is not the case, however. The spring is there for the German police dog which the Bruggers call Fritz. When Mr. Brugger asks the dog in ordinary conversational tones, to jump through the tire, the dog does so. Mr. Brugger may say go through again and the dog obeys.

On the back porch of the Brugger home is a chair for Fritz. To show how well Fritz minds, Mrs. Brugger placed a piece of buttered bread by the chair. The dog showed that he wanted it but he did not get off the chair to eat the bread until his master said, "You may have it."

Fritz carries wood to the house and does many other useful errands for the Bruggers. One who watches the dog is impressed with the fine training its owners have given it.

Another intelligent police dog is that of the David Jones farm in the same neighborhood. The dog shakes hands and performs several other tricks.

Omaha Journalist Visits Wayne School

Will M. Mauph, special correspondent for the Omaha World-Herald visited Wayne a few days ago and wrote the following which appeared in the December 12 issue of the city paper:

"What is now the Wayne State Teachers college was formerly a private school of considerable pretensions. The state bought it 22 years ago for a modest sum, and U. S. Conn was made president.

"He found a group of frame buildings. Today all of the frame buildings except two or three have given away to a group of brick, stone and steel buildings worth more than one million dollars, which have cost taxpayers of the state less than one-half of that sum.

"For instance, two fine dormitories for girls have been erected at a cost to the state of 30 thousand dollars, but which represent a total cost of more than 400 thousand dollars. All but the initial appropriation of 30 thousand dollars has been financed from the revenues of the two dormitories, plus moderate profits from a cafeteria.

"This school now has a faculty of 45 and a student body of about one thousand, including about 250 resident students who might be termed 'experimental material.' In other words they are younger students upon whom the future teachers of Nebraska practice, if that is the proper word to use. But they also get the services of expert educators and have golden opportunities for learning.

"A new steel and concrete stadium is under construction. The school pumps its own water, heats its own buildings and generates its own electricity."

County Officials Meeting In Omaha. County commissioners and county clerks of Nebraska are convening in Omaha December 12, 13 and 15. Plan Will Delay Wayne Building

President Recommends Cuts To Balance Federal Costs And Income.

Building of Wayne's new post office will be delayed a year or two if present plans for balancing the federal budget are followed.

Normally Nebraska receives about $1,000,000 a year from the national budget to build roads and buildings.

Emergency projects to help during the depression raised this sum to $2,500,000. President Hoover has recommended cuts in every state.

If congress adopts the budget, Nebraska will get no more federal aid for highways and will wait on four public buildings for a year or two.

The public buildings to be postponed, unless congress disregards the president's plan, include the $75,000 Wayne post office, the $60,000 addition to the Omaha post house, the $1,000 Kearney location, and the Grand Island extension, estimated at $95,000 but which is found will require $185,000.

Pointing out that the present authorization for federal aid to highways expires at the end of the current fiscal year next June 30, President Hoover said in his budget message to congress.

"I earnestly recommend to the congress that there be no further grant of legislative authority for appropriations for federal aid highways until the financial condition of the treasury justifies such action."

Altho the budget estimates $60,000,000 for public buildings, this will do little more than continue and complete projects already started in some way, either thru actual construction of the first steps toward the acquisition of sites of additional buildings.

Hoover said: "No provision is made for additional projects in the budget now transmitted, other than estimates aggregating $2,500,000 for miscellaneous projects not coming within the purview of the regular building program."

I do not deem further building at this time in the public interest." The Nebraska national guard will also get less for equipment and training, if congress accepts the president's recommendations.

But $62,850,000 will be spent building warships in the fiscal year 1934, beginning next July 1, according to the president's plans.

The fund for educating 400 Indian children at the Genoa boarding school will be $142,250 in 1934, a drop of $42,000 from the 1933 appropriation. However, money for conservation of Indian health in Nebraska will increase, going from $32,000 appropriated for the fiscal year 1933 to $36,000 estimated by the budget for 1934.

Uncle Sam will spend $428,000 in 1934 in fulfilling treaties with the Sioux of different tribes, including the Santee Sioux of Nebraska. The 1933 appropriation for this purpose was $445,000.

Another Nebraska Indian fund provided for in the 1934 budget is the allotment of $9,000 to the Omaha Indians tribal funds to them for use in the coming fiscal year.

Operators of the North Platte irrigation and reclamation project in Nebraska and Wyoming may use $120,000 of their power revenues in 1934 to maintain the project's commercial system.

National forest region No. 2 which includes Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota and Oklahoma will get $686,217 for National forest administration in 1934. In 1933, it is getting $699,079.

Adam Reeg Recalls The Blizzards Of 1888 And Early Prairie Life

The first heavy snowfall of winter always brings to Adam Reeg recollections of another storm which was neither gentle nor friendly, but which wrapped the Nebraska out-of-doors in a whirling, biting fury, and took ruthless toll of human lives and animals.

For Adam Reeg arrived in this country just in time to experience the blizzard of 1888.

As a 16-year-old youth, Mr. Reeg left his native Hessen Darmstead in Germany and accompanied his neighbor, Miss Louise Greenwald and a friend, Miss Elizabeth Reibold (Mrs. Elizabeth Braunger) to the rapidly-settling pioneer republic.

Miss Greenwald, now Mrs. George Berres, was niece of two of Wayne county's very first settlers, John and Phillip Greenwald, and letters had come back to the home folks telling of life on the plains, firing the imagination of young Reeg.

The year 1887 found the trio arriving at Wayne county, then bare prairie land, treeless, fenceless, practically roadless, sparsely homesteaded.

A small colony of German emigrants had settled in northeast section of the county, and here the young Adam found work on Henry Hinrichs' farm. Wayne city was a one-street settlement with few houses, a few general stores and a depot.

A journey to town meant following a bumpy, grass-grubbed wagon road across the plains easting down into ditches as bridges were yet to come.

A seven-mile journey, for instance, called for a good one and one-half hours and a right good team. A loaded wagon required two or three hours to cover the distance.

The winter of '88 found Mr. Reeg helping on the Hinrichs farm. January 12, memorable day in Nebraska history, dawned clear and fairly warm, with the sun appearing at intervals and sending out warming rays.

Suddenly, without warning, the storm broke and all out-doors was white, thick snow driven by a satanic wind. Mr. Reeg and his employer hurried out after the cattle and found a few, but the majority of the 15 head were a mile away and in the strong wind it was impossible to drive them.

The snow caked on their faces so that they resembled ghost men, and it was impossible to see ahead. By following the cornstalks they felt their way back from the fields, winding up near a neighbor's house. Shouting and feeling their way about, suddenly the door opened right in front of them, and they went in to warmth and safety.

Next morning was clear but very cold, and the two men went out to round up the remaining cattle, finding some dead and others so stiff with cold that they couldn't walk and had to be hauled home on a bob sled.

When spring came, the leg muscles of these recovered cattle thawed out and rotted, letting them down, so it was necessary to kill them. Only three head lived through to summer.

Mr. Reeg recalls that Henry Pfleger started to the country school house for his children and couldn't see the building, making a complete circle three or four times and finally giving the horses their head and letting them take him home.

Mrs. Reeg was living near Talmage at that time, and her two brothers remained at the school house all night. Farmers over the country tied twine to their door knobs when going to barns in order to find their way back again.

No trees, no fences to break the wind, no fence posts for guidance—small wonder that several persons were not found until the spring thaw!

Life was very simple and very primitive in those days, says Mr. Reeg. There was little money, but then there was little need for money, for one had few expenses. Farm folks made a living from their chickens and cows, taking their produce to town to trade it out on groceries and clothing. Taxes were low; every farmer did a day's work on the road during the year of paid $3 road tax. In 1895, Mr. Reeg harvested 1,000 bushels of corn and sold it at 8c per bushel, realizing $80 for the whole lot and paying out a goodly share of this for pickers. The rate for picking was 2 1-2c a bushel—history repeats itself this year, for local farmers averaged 2 1-2c rate last harvest.

Local farmers averaged 2 1-2c rate last harvest. A man was well equipped to farm 150 acres if he acquired a walking plow, walking cultivator, a harrow and three head of cattle.

No special machinery, no tractors in those days. It meant long hours, muscle-developing labor, but always there was plenty to eat. Ample food to last through the winter was raised during summer months, and cellars were well stocked with vegetables. Meat, potatoes and bread were the main foods, with cake at Christmas time as a very special treat.

Farmers took their wheat to mill to be ground into flour, raised their own vegetables, butchered their own stock—in short, were as near complete independence as is possible for man to attain.

About 1891, Peter Reeg came to join his brother, Jacob came next, and John and Marie, the latter now Mrs. Adam Saul, followed in 1899. Fourteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Adam Reeg bought the J. M. Barrett farm southwest of Wayne, which is their home today.

Trinity Lutheran Church. (Rev. Jm. P. Frey, pastor) Sunday, December 18. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching service in the English language, 10:45 a. m.

A cordial invitation to attend the services of this church is extended, to all.

Annual business meeting of Hoskins Trinity Lutheran church was held on Tuesday afternoon, December 6, and attended by a large group of the voting members. Much important business was transacted in the four hour session. In keeping with the times, an effort was made to reduce the budget for the coming year to the lowest possible total without curtailing activities of the church, and as a result of new salary adjustments and other measures of economy, the budget for the coming year is about $1000 lower than last year.

Election of officers was held, with following results: President, Frank Miller; vice president, Herman Puls; elder, Henry Deck; trustee, Frank Buss; members of parochial school board, Herbert Mittelstad, Arthur Behmer, Venus Ruhlow. Heretofore the board of trustees served as school board, but it was felt that the interests of the school would best be served by election of a separate school board. The new officers will be formally installed at church service December 18. Those officers whose terms have not yet expired are: Elders, Herman Puls and Frank Miller; trustees, Fred Krause and Gustav Mitter; recording secretary, Henry Heberer; financial secretary, C. A. Finup; treasurer, Edwin Kolath.

Paul Deck, Arthur Marotz and Carl Wantoch were appointed to serve as a special Christmas committee, and Carl Fuhrman, Edwin Kolath, August Spengler, Carl Wantoch, Fred Krause and Arthur Behmer are to solicit pledges for the new year. A number of members volunteered to bring in wood to heat the church, replacing coal as an economy measure.

High Cost of Oxygen. "Did you take my advice and sleep with the window open to cure your cold?"

"Yes."

"Did you lose your cold?"

"No, I lost my watch and my pocketbook."

"We found out that night what a Telephone is worth"

An actual incident from a community served by this Company, showing how one telephone call may be worth more than telephone service costs in a lifetime.

Doors and windows of their home were tightly closed to keep out the icy gale of a cold night early in 1932. The fire in the heater was banked when the family retired for the night. About midnight the baby cried. Her mother awoke, fumes from the heater choked her.

She roused her husband . . . fell back unconscious. He was barely able to reach the telephone and call for a doctor before he was overcome. That call brought help in time to save their lives.

"Wanted" Gifts From Your Own Kitchen

Have you an invalid friend or lonely person on your gift list who requires a personal touch? Why not send a Christmas basket filled with one or more of these home-made delicacies, and brighten with cellophane and gay ribbons: Jams, jellies, jar of cider, salad dressing, cheese straws, peanut brittle, nut bread, assorted mints, chocolate fudge, bowl of hard sauce, fancy cookies, candied grapefruit shell filled with orange and lemon peel, fruit cake, tarlatan bag of nuts?

A small decorative wastebasket or decorated hat box may be filled with pop corn balls tied in red and green, cellophane, a work basket may be filled with small jars of jams and jellies, and a decorated plant jar might be heaped with home-made candies.

Familiar Spoolies.
Mother (to small daughter who wants the light left on): "But you sleep in the dark at home, darling."
Small daughter: "Yes, but it's my own dark at home, Mummy."

Busy Number.
I suppose it is not irreverent to say that practically all candidates receive some help in preparing their public documents. In the case of a certain mayor of New York of several years ago it was necessary not only to write the speech, but to spell the longer words phonetically so that he could pronounce them. He was so dependent upon these prepared scripts that on one occasion at a patriotic banquet he astonished all listeners

Absent-Mindedness.
Four absent-minded college professors were out for a little jaunt in the motor. The driving was inferior—the road very bumpy. After a most terrific bump, during which all hands had to hold on, one of the professors in the rear seat leaned over and touched the driver on the arm.
"Pardon," he said, "but your wife is not with us."
"Good heavens!" said the driver. "Why, she must have gone out when we bumped."
He backed the car up for nearly a mile, but there was no sign of a living soul.
"Come to think of it," said one of the others, "are you sure your wife was with us?"
"To tell the truth, I don't believe she was," said the driver, doubtfully. "How stupid of me."
"But tell me," said the professor, who had not yet spoken, "I thought you got a divorce two or three years ago—didn't you?"
"Well of all things!" said the driver, laughing heartily. "Of course I did. I must be getting absent-minded."

Party Time Is Just Ahead And It Promises To Be An Eventful Season

Family parties, club parties, jolly little intimate affairs—from several days before Christmas to the New Year's dinner, the holiday season is replete with social activity, and brings a round of events unequalled at any other time of year. Here are just a few suggestions for entertainment:

If you entertain Christmas eve, have a roaring fire in the fireplace when guests arrive, have light low and make a real ceremony of dragging in the yule log, gaily decorated with sprigs of holly. After the men place it on the flames, the girls pelt it with sprays of holly, and the group sings old Christmas carols, such as "Noel," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "Good King Wenceslas." Just before the last holly burns out, everyone should be silent and make a wish for the coming year.

Why not play predictions? Hand each guest sheets of paper like daily leaves from a desk calendar, labeled December 24, 1942, one for each fellow guest. Ask each one to predict what others will be doing in ten years, writing name of person at top, and telling of their future in about 30 words. These are distributed to person whose name they bear and read aloud.

You might have a box-wrapping contest, leading your guests to a table heaped with old sized boxes sealed with red or green sealing wax, and accompanied by bright-colored tissues, ribbons, cords, stickers, plain paper for cut-outs and paste. A prize can be awarded to the most artistic wrapping made. Then let each guest draw a name and place this on the gift just wrapped. These can later be placed on a tree and will afford much merriment when unwrapped, as boys will be receiving powder puffs and girls, suspenders. By trading off, each will come out with a useful and inexpensive little gift.

Consequences is an old but a jolly one. Ask each guest to write his name at top of a piece of paper, fold it over once and pass it on. Then all write the thing they want most, fold it over, pass it, then write what they got, followed by what they did with it, and what they sent Aunt Emma, and what Uncle Joshua sent them. These are returned to person whose name is at top, and read aloud in turn.

The boys will enjoy ringing the candy cane. This is a crook-handed cane covered with red and white stripes of crepe paper, and the end is buried in a pot of earth. Small red wreathes are thrown, and each guest has five turns at ringing the cane, a prize being awarded to the high scorer.

Telegram writing is fun. Give each guest pencil and paper and read off ten letters of the alphabet, asking each to compose a Christmas message, using words beginning with the letters in order in which they were given.

(Mrs. H. L. Carpenter)
3-4 cup butter
2-3 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg yolk, beaten
Citron

Don't Chill Plants.
Cold water harms house plants, chilling the ground and checking growth. Tepid water is more likely to produce healthy plants.

For Cinnamon Toast Addicts.
There's a new cinnamon and sugar mixture now on the market which is just right proportion for cinnamon toast. It's good flavoring for apple pies, too.

Postmaster: "Is there any writing in this package?"
Rural Patron: "Well, not exactly that, but there's a can of alphabet soup in it."

Christmas Spirit Is In The Air

The time honored poinsettia plant centerpiece with its green paper dress has given way to many clever and original centerpieces for the Christmas dinner. These need not be expensive, but depend rather upon the ingenuity of the home-maker.

One family places a candle on the mantle for each member, sized according to that person's height and breadth, and tied with a colored ribbon. Every gift in the room tied with that color ribbon belongs to him or her. The colorful packaging equipment now on the market makes it simple to have distinctive and artistic wrappings. A sprig of holly caught in ribbon adds a bright touch. Just to be different, why not wrap your packages in newspapers this year and tie with colorful raffia?

For The Dinner Table.
A low silver bowl of red poinsettias, either real or artificial, is most effective with a heart of lights, made with Christmas tree lights or a soft bulb. Or, if you are clever-fingered, crepe paper poinsettias may be fashioned with red Christmas tree lights as centers, and silver foil leaves.

Santa Claus centerpieces are attractive. Use small round mirror or piece glass over blue paper, band with fine ground pine around edge and place six or eight tiny evergreen twig trees around it. A miniature Santa is sleigh crosses the lake with a wee gift for each person in the sled. Artificial snow is sprinkled over all.

If you're using silver candlesticks and bowls with crystal, why not make it all silver decorations, using the glistering clusters of silver grapes now available, add a silver-glass reindeer at each side, the latter costing only 10c. If you have ruby glass, now is the time to use it with your white china, and decorate with evergreens and wreathes. For a long narrow table, try two candle holders down the center, with a half-circle of holly at each end, topped with polished red apples, oranges and grape clusters.

For formal setting, make long, narrow rectangle of holly around center of table then intersperse with small electric light bulbs as used on the Christmas tree. Identical vases down the center, three or four in number, hold poinsettias, or else tall cornucopias are heaped with colorful fruits.

For a colorful table, use low, wide centerpiece of pine twigs, with pine cones pierced by sticks to make them fit in bouquet; balance this with holly in low brass bowls, and carry out the bright red and leaf green in pandies.

If there are children at table, why not decorate the table with small tree, loaded down with glistening ornaments and pop corn animals, made of small pop corn balls held together with tooth-pick joints, with cloves or raisins for eyes?

A clever mantle decoration can be fashioned of colored tree decorations. Use green wire and form the balls into grape clusters, using darkest shades at bottom, and bank those with silver and green leaves.

The children will enjoy a window transparency, made of crepe paper figures cut out and pasted on solid color backgrounds, or gummed stickers arranged in Christmas scene. The warm yellows and rich blues are very lovely with light shining through.

Decorating The Tree.
There's the family tree to be decorated, and the children will enjoy a part in this, stringing pop corn and cranberry ropes, and making paper chains and stars for ornaments. Little girls will enjoy sewing tarlatan socks to be filled with hard candy and nuts; walnuts may be gilded and strung on loops of thread, dressed-up lollipops, candy canes, and pop corn balls wrapped in green or red cellophane are inexpensive and gay.

Color in the Food.
In planning your menu for Christmas dinner, remember that vivid colorings are important, and that there are unlimited opportunities for color effects in the foods available.

England demands roast beef for Christmas dinner, Germany prefers goose, but turkey is the favored American bird. However, roast chicken, or roast duck with peanut stuffing and surrounded with mint apples is worthy of the most pretentious table. Cranberry or raspberry ice adds colors to the main course, and balls of vanilla ice cream resemble snow balls when served on a platter with rich chocolate sauce base.

An attractive dessert is made of layer of cherry sherbet topped with layer of mint ice cream, moulded, then served on platter at table.

Star salad, made of lemon-flavored and red-colored gelatine about half inch thick, cut with star cookie cutter and each star centered with rosette of whipped dressing salad dressing makes a decorative dish.

Small white frosted cakes with smooth white candles, each candle having a red ribbon bow or holly sticker, are pretty when carried in all-a-blaze.

Red or green fruit cocktails flavored with a bit of lemon juice are a tasty beginning to the holiday dinner.
