RURAL PATRONS ASK FOR CUTS

Decision Of Matter Will Be Given By State Railway Commission.

Rural telephone patrons, at a meeting in the city hall Saturday, asked the Northwestern Telephone company to cut yearly switching charge for each line to $4.20.

Patrons of each line had previously held meetings and had decided to ask a cut to $4.50 a month. In the meeting it was voted to ask for $4.20.

Petitions were presented to the effect that two-thirds would discontinue service if rates were not lowered. These petitions were given to the company by John Dunklau, Frank Griffith and Will Vahlkamp.

C. L. Pickett, manager of the Northwestern Telephone company in Wayne, explained that the company pays an average of $5.88 taxes for each telephone in the system so that the present fee leaves 72c a year for switching.

The matter will be decided by the state railway commission.

URGES AN INCOME TAX AS MEANS TO RELIEVE FARMERS

Dr. Myrick H. Sublette advanced the income tax as a substitute for the present system as a way to relieve farmers of one serious burden in a talk following the noonday luncheon of the Kiwanis club Monday.

This of course is proposed for all fields of activity, and it seems only fair that earnings be made the basis for chief contributions to the government. A farm or business or industrial institution may be dragging an anchor and still pay an excessive tax on the investment.

Property Tax Is Unjust. "The present land tax, based on taxation of land and investments erected on land, is now our principal source of local and state revenue," said the speaker.

CONTRASTING OLD WAYS WITH SOME MODERN COMFORTS

EVEN if times are not what they used to be or not what they ought to be, we have accumulated and enjoy comforts that were unknown in primitive mid-western settlements. Time was when we got up on a cold morning without prospect of heat until a wood fire was kindled and the temperature was raised. Everything able to freeze in the house was frozen. Home-Sweet-Home was not modern excepting in the matter of having four walls and a few doors and windows. Usually unintentional openings permitted unwelcome access of mice—sometimes rats. In the summer, absence of sufficient screening enabled flies to divide time between the family, ladder and neighboring slop piles. Introduction of the first base-burner was an event worth calling out the band, and the fellow who finally dared to put in a furnace was considered on the road to independent wealth. Without refrigeration and without pure food regulations, the early day settler was exposed to dangers not possible now. Modern comforts, with sanitation taking a prominent part, explain why longevity has become so great—usually postponing transition until infirmities by old age take hold and assert themselves.

TRAIN SCHEDULE CHANGES SUNDAY

New Time Plan In Effect On Northwestern Line Through Wayne.

A train schedule which will effect very little change on the Northwestern line which will save the St. P. M. & O. about $31,220 annually went into operation on Sunday.

The greatest change is on Sunday when there will be an east-bound train at 9 a. m., and a west-bound one at 6:20 p. m., these taking the place of the westbound in the morning and the eastbound in the afternoon on Sundays. The Bloomfield branch will have no Sunday train service.

The branch which arrives here daily, except Sundays, at 10:45 a. m. comes from Omaha to Norfolk and returns to Omaha in the afternoon, arriving at Wayne at 2:10. This enables those coming from Omaha in the morning or going to Omaha in the afternoon to make the trip without change at Emerson.

The branch will have no Sunday train but the schedule will remain as in the past on week days. The train runs from Emerson to Bloomfield each morning and back in the afternoon. The branch train goes west from Wayne at 11 a. m. and arrives here from Bloomfield in the afternoon at 5:30.

State's Solons The legislature is lumbering along, frequently prodded by some fretful member or by some irritated outsider who has lost patience waiting for official dignity to settle down and constructive action to start. The democratic legislator from Polk scored progress in securing reduction in automobile license plates by firing a broadside, asking members to quit fooling and begin doing something worth while. Thereby he secured consideration of his measure to lighten the burden on automobile owners. One overly pettish senate member who didn't propose to see partisan prerogatives questioned, shouted into the record this defiance to the presumption of a member of the opposing party: "I don't expect to retreat for any republican." Therefore, a thing is sound or weak, wise or foolish, according to the party label which must be consulted before the direction to take is determined. Now that members of both houses have provided for their salaries and arranged to have stationery printed for each one, they ought to be able to take up important public questions and make headway in arriving at conclusions. As they are creatures of the primary, they should by exercise of wise foresight and practical judgment do their best to justify the system.

As To Wise Economy TAKING its cue from the advice given by the state agricultural council of Kansas to the legislature of that state, the Lincoln Journal urges Nebraska's solons not to so far forget fundamentals as to injure the state, its institutions and its people by unwise economy. The demand for retrenchment means to hunt out and pare down unnecessary extravagance, not the crippling of valuable institutions that have required nearly a century to develop. "Not a question is entertained of the wisdom in the demand to reduce government cost," says the Journal. "That cost has grown and some have fattened and lived at the expense of the taxpayers without giving return for their keep. Expenses must be reduced, but in the reductions to be made the wisdom accumulated thru experience must be drawn upon. No necessary institution or function must be abandoned or crippled. The state must go on. It must care for its wards, educate its coming rulers, provide for the welfare and protection of its people."

President Hoover proposes a small, general sales tax to take care of the coming fiscal year's deficit, the same to include all commodities excepting food and cheap clothing. The president expressed disappointment over the failure of congress to reduce appropriations and indicated that present revenues would be insufficient to balance the budget, advising that funds from new sources would be required. If those democrats who favor a sales tax to meet an emergency, do not change their minds in view of the advice of a republican executive, the sales tax may be adopted. Otherwise, the country will have to wait for introduction of magic harmony on and after March 4.

Sunday's mild sunshine was an invitation from the great outdoors, and many persons accepted it with the relish that recollection of the season would inspire. But overnight the elements changed, changing the notion of any who planned on prolonged freedom from cold. Monday brought the mercury down with flurries of snow. Such an abrupt ending of tropical weather in California would have brought words of apology and explanation in an injured, chiding voice. So far this season the weather has behaved better than usual, giving stimulating variety without savagery extremes.

The Nebraska Farmer predicts that if the allotment plan which passed the house, is defeated by the senate or is vetoed by the president, it will be swept to a special session after March 4, and then will receive executive approval. As to the merits of the bill the farm publication reflects the attitude of many others by this comment: "We view the allotment plan with an open mind. It is admittedly a drastic departure from orthodox methods and economic theory. Even farmers are not agreed upon it."

Experience should have taught us that if we contemplate making improvements in the next decade we should if possible do so when conditions are sluggish and values are down. It is costly to invest when prices are soaring around the top. No gain, but possible loss faces the fellow who invests when the highest market altitude is reached. There is no chance to lose when values are flat. If one has the cash or credit, now is the time to improve and spread out. But this advice is too sound to be generally followed.

In proposing the secession of thirty-nine states, the North Dakota legislator hits a chord that will draw little or no sympathetic response. Bad as conditions have become, it is inconceivable that independence from New England states would help. The suggestion is sufficiently foolish to come appropriately from North Dakota—the hotbed of Townley's costly experiments a decade ago.

William Randolph Hearst is so well satisfied with the direct primary that he wants to extend it to the nomination of presidential candidates. That would enlarge possibilities for Nebraska's Liveryman Ross whose powerful feeling of impartiality has led him to offer himself either to the presidency or the governorship as the greater need suggested.

The record shows that in the last ten years an average of 260 students attended the Wayne State Teachers College from Wayne county, 119 from Cedar county and 120 from Dixon county. It is not difficult to figure the big benefits accruing to these northeast Nebraska counties from the institution in return for the comparatively small tax which they pay.

The person who can look pleasantly and speak kindly and hopefully deserves extra credit when markets and business are drifting around in the lowest stratum. Ill fortune tests courage. It brings sense of humor and finest philosophy to the rescue. It is easy to be cheerful when everything is moving along easily and triumphantly.

If this country ever finds itself in need of a dictator, a la Italy, Senator Huey Long would be available, willing and confident. He would take it without being invited, and hold it against every protest, feeling sure that he would be good for what ails the world.

We are pleased to see economy in government proposed by a measure in each Nebraska house to effect county consolidation. It is a big job to remodel the state into larger units, but it would be a tax reducer of huge proportions.

Montana's communist newspaper, published at Plentywood, Mont., flames with reports calculated to arouse class hatred and popular resentment. Its ambition to make reconstruction harder doubtless succeeds in a measure.

The only possible good that could come from Senator Huey Long's filibuster would be to cudgel the senate into grabbing and applying its closure rule—shutting off unlimited debate—the killing of time to block legislation.

The fact that no one finishes his task this side of the grave points strongly to continuity—presupposing that nature has fairly sound judgment and wants things completed.

Trying to close the spigot while leaving the bung hole open is the way one fellow-traveler refers to some of the economy practiced in handling public expenditures.

Neutrality in a crisis may amount to opposition. Water carried on both shoulders is likely to slop one way or the other.

AGITATORS.

Agitators are ever present, but more actively in evidence when the going is tough. Even when conditions seem to be moving forward serenely, with nothing demanding change, the agitator finds reason to keep himself in practice. He manages to stir up a measure of discontent when times are least perturbing. One group or one section has ever charged another with unfair advantage, and the agitator has always been on hand to lift an accusing voice and point a warning finger. During a depression agitators set out all their reserves, and call about agitating harder than ever. Out of the mass of conflicting demands sometimes comes a practical suggestion that is woven into the fabric of government. Out of a vast amount of worthless quartz an occasional nugget of gold appears. The rarely useful bit is what makes agitating tolerable and constructive. Thus, agitators, moved perhaps by hope for attention or for selfish gain, but, anyway, moved by a spirit that traces back to the beginning of time, are responsible for considerable worthy and substantial progress from time to time.

TO ONESELF.
You know little for sure, and nothing the others do not know better and more certainly. You are so simple and impressive in your honesty that sometimes you convey a suspicion of dishonesty. You are hurt because motives of generosity are misinterpreted. You practice restraint often unnecessarily in order that there may be no show of remissness in your role of absolute boss of yourself. You admire women who are comely and intelligent, and men whose brains have the polish and force of constructive leadership, but you conceal the facts through the foolish fear of becoming offensively obtrusive. Your lack of early schooling was not due so much to want of opportunities as to neglect born of indifference, but this delinquency inspires highest respect for girls and boys who are alert to the value of education as an investment and who have the pluck to acquire it in the face of numerous obstacles. Because of long delay in self-improvement—delay in application to worthwhile tasks, you will fall short of your expectations—not scaling heights that might otherwise have been within reach. Your tardiness in taking hold and going forward will cost much in the fulfillment of later ambition.

The Wayne Country club holds its annual meeting for election of officers and transaction of other business next Thursday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall following a dinner. J. W. Jones is president.

College Term Opens Monday

open to those majoring or minoring in mathematics or doing outstanding work in the department. Officers of the charter group are: President, Gladys Morgan; vice president, Edyth Prescott; secretary, Viola Haynes; treasurer, Melvin Seymour; secretary-sponsor, Miss Marie Hove. Charter members, besides the officers, are: Blanche Gildersleeve, Luella Danielson, Eleanor Jones, Muriel Clark, Pauline Hannan, Arline Lageschulte, Arthur McAuliffe, Lawrence Hanna, Roland Wachter, Donald Wilkens, Fred Lentz, Clarence Sorensen, Lester Jones, Robert Gulliver and Norman Harvey.

Prof. and Mrs. John R. Keith will go to Sioux City this evening to attend the Sioux City Symphony orchestra concert, as guests of Leo Kucinak, the conductor.

Dramatic Program Outlined.
Miss Florence Drake has completed dramatic plans for second semester, and will commence work on a more ambitious program than usual. The spring schedule calls for three long plays instead of two, because larger enrollment in dramatic classes is anticipated. "The Thirteenth Chair," mystery play by Bayard Veiller, with a cast of seven women and 10 men, will go into rehearsal at beginning of the semester, and at same time other students will start work on a one-act play to be presented before the Minerva club. This will be "Little Prison," by George Milton Savage. At the same time, another group will start work on costumes for the commencement play. In middle of the term, Miss Drake's dramatic class will take charge of production and scenery for the senior play at college high school.

Mid-term will bring a semi-tragic edy of three acts, "Children of the Moon," by Martin Flavin, which includes unusually heavy roles and is very dramatic in action. Last six weeks of the term will be devoted to preparation for "As You Like It," the first Shakespearean play to be produced by the college group in many years. This will be the commencement production and practically the entire senior class will take part. Most, if not all of the costumes, will be made by class members. Miss Drake's master's thesis was written on the subject, "Design of Costumes for Characters in Elizabethan Plays," so she has ample background for such a production.

English club will meet next Monday evening for a program dealing with modern poets and poetry.

Kearney basketball squad defeated the Wayne cagers in a close battle at Kearney last Friday evening, score being 33 to 20. The next day the Wildcats lost to Doane college at Crete, with Doane carrying off the large end of a 23 to 26 tally. Chadron normal cagers will play the Wildcats next.

Smith, Wayne guard who withdrew from college near end of the semester, ranked sixth place in individual scoring in the Nebraska Intercollegiate conference, totaling 13 points.

Miss Laura Louise Holmes, chairman of the social committee, will be in charge of a Y. W. C. A. party planned for next Wednesday evening.

Lambda Delta Lambda, honorary science fraternity, met at the science hall Monday last week and initiated Mrs. Ira George of Osmond, Miss Laura Louise Holmes of Wayne, Kenneth Seymour of Laurel, Miss Esther Spangler of Stanton and Miss Luella Danielson of Wausa. Prof. W. R. Hickman spoke at the meeting.

Economic Conditions Are Miserable In Germany According To Student

William Weiersheuser, who wrote an article last week for the Herald dealing with Germany's situation in connection with international affairs, writes another this week regarding conditions within Germany. It follows:

After the World War America was destined to play an important role in European affairs. She appeared on the European stage in the form of big finance. Since the war American money had been piling up, lying idle and eager for investment. The result was the framing of the Dawes plan and the beginning of a steady flow of American gold into Germany. Cities, states, villages, in fact everybody, held out their hands to catch some of the gold raining upon Germany. For the first time since the treaty of Versailles was framed, Germany's economic life loosened up. At last some ground was chiefly responsible: 1. Money lenders refused to advance new loans so as not to endanger investments previously made, the present world crisis was at Germany's door. In order to safeguard the investments and further reparations, the Young plan was devised. With it came the Rhineland evacuation in 1929. Conditions had already reached a grave point.

Another great calamity was in store for Germany and this was to shake every economic fibre in the economic crash of July, 1931. Everywhere factories were idle, men unemployed. So appalling was the situation that Chancellor Breuning in the fall of 1931 issued the statement, "We are facing the most severe and critical winter for more than a century." In the following year the condition was changed but little. Factories have shortened the working hours so as to furnish employment to the largest possible number of men. The government has undertaken the construction of various public improvements. The age limit for pensions has been reduced to make room for the young. In this, unemployment has slumped somewhat but it has bettered the economic condition very little because a standard of living has been imposed upon the German people, which for a civilized nation is unendurable. Wages and salaries are only a fraction of what they used to be. And taxes used to be only a fraction of what they are now. In order to escape the high taxes countless factories, forced to stand idle, are being torn down. An example of some taxes follows: Sugar, 6c a pound; coffee, half of its retail value. Coffee is a big bargain at 50c a pound.

Never has begging been operated on such a wholesale basis. War veterans display their wounds. Germany does not provide for its veterans as other countries do. Children do their tumbling acts on the streets and in public squares. Street musicians play their violins or accordions just to obtain a few coppers from the person fortunate enough to possess some. These people are not begging for the enjoyment or profit of it. The small amount of aid received from the government—private charity has long been unable to meet the crushing demand—is in some cases not sufficient to provide food, not to mention clothing and shelter. Over 500,000 young men, entirely dependent upon state aid, are waiting for a place to place in hope of finding work, present only one problem in the great mass of perplexities facing the German government. Germany is able to furnish sustenance for 40,000,000 inhabitants. For the remaining 20,000,000 she must rely upon a favorable balance of trade. Germany was bled white in financing her side of the war. Through a horrible inflation she became bankrupt and she is heavily in debt. She is taxing her citizens to the utmost and still the treasury deficit last year amounted to $500,000,000. Many people lament the fact that the German republic has always been threatened and that it has proved to be a failure. At the time of the German revolution an unusual situation presented itself. Although some people tend to differ toward the monarchy, there were no truly republican-minded people in Germany. The parties which are supporters of the republic have assumed the foreign policy of fulfillment. They hoped in this way to attain reconciliation and peace. Miserable failures have been made in pursuing this policy. At home a mild socialist program was carried out. The government, on this account, always spent more than the revenues allowed.

It is therefore only natural that many people would oppose these policies. But why should the radical parties experience such phenomenal growth? The following grounds are chiefly responsible: 1. Economic crisis; 2. Germany as held in the fetters of an unfair treaty; 3. the youth. Our parties concern themselves with national principles and may therefore be termed national parties. But Germany, in addition to national parties, has international parties of varying degrees and different shades. Each party views another with hatred and jealousy. They say only in our way will our country be led on the road to prosperity. Each party has a powerful party machine with national headquarters, state and local organizations. Each one is closely connected with some military organization; the national socialists have their storming division; the nationalists, the Stahlhelm; the socialists, the Reichsbanner; the communists, the red front, etc. Each party has its particular badge of identification and its party salute. The national socialists raise the right hand in fascist greeting with a "Hell Hitler." The communist raises his fist saying, "red front," etc. Each party has its own press. Political meetings are held regularly to attract people not affiliated with some party. Each party has its designated places for entertainment. There is much truth in the statement which Finance Minister Dietrich uttered two years ago, "I believe the German nation has ceased to exist. Instead of it we have numerous petty groups pressing their own particular interests forward."

After two years of fierce party struggles and wrangling we find the inner political situation somewhat quieter. It is not that radicalism is subsiding and the parties are losing their hold upon the people—the election in Detmold Lippe on Sunday showed that—the people are simply ragged by party bickering which has brought them nowhere. Political disturbances are the order of the day, the national socialists and communists clashing most frequently. These parties have strong radical elements composed of young people. The children of the Bourgeoisie and the children of the Proletariat are purely a fact; others are true and sincere believers of their party principles; with some it is a livelihood. However, I believe radicalism has not passed. I believe it will still cause severe party struggles as long as the economic crisis prevails and if Germany is not freed from Versailles. I believe it will still persist. For the German youth has learned something. He is prejudiced and will make only desperate bargains. His life so far has been one of privation. Countless fellowmen on the other side of the untenable boundaries are sending him word of their fatherland. And above all they want real peace, a lasting peace. It is always the young people in Germany who stand up and say, "Our 2,200,000 have not died in vain."

New Semester Begins Tuesday

First semester at Wakefield school came to a close last Monday and second term began the next morning. Grade cards are to be issued today for both high and grade school pupils. Four Men on All-County Team.

Every year at close of season the coaches of the county meet and honor those men who have been outstanding throughout the season, by naming them on an all-county team. This year Wakefield placed four men: Arthur Larson, end; Charles Barto, tackle; Byron Hensler, guard; and Joel Lyman, half-back. Three men placed on second team: LeRoy Levine, tackle; Edward Hodge, guard; and Louis Henschke, fullback. Robert Anderson, end, and Bernard Busby, quarterback, were given honorable mention. Joel Lyman, hard hitting back who scored 145 points during the season, was named on the all-northeastern Nebraska first team. Larson received honorable mention. Lyman was also mentioned on the mythical all-state team. Although a large part of the squad will be lost this year through graduation, prospects look good for the 1933 team.

High school debaters are hard at work on pre-season practice debates in preparation for later district competitions. On January 11 the squad went to Norfolk where both affirmative and negative teams engaged in a no-decision practice contest. The affirmative team was composed of Rosa Hinrick, Fred Miner and Arthur Larson; the negative team consisted of Muriel Hanson, Orville Worth and Arthur Larson. The debate was criticized by Miss Minnie Nelson. Next day the two teams met. Wakefield upheld the affirmative in the afternoon debate, with Rosa Hinrick and Arthur Larson making up the two-man team. Muriel Hanson and Fred Miner supported the negative at the evening debate. State question was used. Tuesday, January 24, both teams meet Norfolk debaters here, and three judges will make the decision. Negotiations are under way for a series of debates with Wayne, Tilden and Emerson. On February 2 three debaters will represent the school at the Midland college debate tournament at Fremont. Probably as many as 50 schools will compete and the tournament will last three days.

Operetta Is Successful.

A good crowd witnessed the operetta, "Aunt Drucilla's Garden," given by junior high pupils Tuesday evening last week, and a profit of $6.38 remained after expenses were deducted. Library Commission Is Helpful To Many Omaha World Herald: There are few women in the state performing a more important task than that which falls to Miss Nellie M. Carey, secretary of the Nebraska Library Commission at Lincoln.

"Upon Miss Carey devolves the responsibility for the circulating libraries available to individuals and communities where no other facilities are provided.

"Residents in cosmopolitan centers have no idea what a splendid service this is and how much it brightens the lives of persons living in isolated places.

"By special act of congress a low rate of 3 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound, parcel posts, was provided so that those of limited means might enjoy some of the library advantages that city folks accept so casually without any cost to them.

"The borrower pays the return cost and sends postage or refunds the commission the cost of sending.

"With the long winter nights ahead and the prolonged periods of enforced day leisure, persons who dwell in out of the way places will find it worth while to enter into correspondence with Miss Carey. She is, it is said, a most understanding person and eager to have the public enjoy the benefits of a wider range of reading.

"Miss Carey will, from material at hand and from lists available, outline courses of reading, as well as lend books, for those who wish to expand their intellectual outlook by other than a promiscuous consumption of books. Various library associations, publishers and literary leaders have grouped books under certain classifications so that one need not pursue a blind course when applying for loans.

"The work of the commission is three-fold; assistance in organizing libraries; a system of loans and the supervision of libraries in the state institutions under the board of control."

"Truth" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, January 22.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 67:9, "I will praise Thee, O Lord, among the people: I will sing unto Thee among the nations. For Thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and Thy truth unto the clouds."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from II Timothy 2:15, and reads: "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The spiritual sense of truth must be gained before Truth can be understood. This sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving, and meek. In the soil of an honest and good heart the seed must be sown; else it heareth not much fruit, for the swinish element in human nature uproots it. Jesus said: 'Ye do err, not knowing the Scriptures.' The spiritual sense of the Scriptures brings out the scientific sense, and is the new tongue referred to in the last chapter of Mark's Gospel." (page 272).

The Alarm Clock Scores With Large Audience Friday

An enthusiastic and amused audience witnessed Alpha Psi Omega's production, "The Alarm Clock," at college auditorium last Friday evening. Miss Charlene Brown of Wayne, playing the leading feminine role, gave an easy and convincing interpretation of a giggling, gangling small-town belle who was transformed into a sophisticated New Yorker, reveling in cocktail parties and smart night clubs. Harry Ellis Fisher's performance as the disappointed bachelor who was showered with country relatives, was smooth and enjoyable. Richard Fenske, hiding behind a bushy growth of whiskers, and chattering in animal-sounds, as befits a prosopopee of Philippine languages, was the source of much comedy, as was John McEwen in the part of the awkward, erratic and sponging bachelor friend. The play progressed smoothly with none of the slips and breaks which usually characterize college productions, showing careful coaching and preparation.

Cast for "The Alarm Clock" was as follows: Lulu Deane, Francina Limes; Charlie Morton, John McEwen; Grace Dunsmore, Irol Whitmore; Dr. Wallace, Russell Dow; Bobbie Brandon, Harry Ellis Fisher; Mrs. Susie Kent, Marie Mitchell; Homer Wickham, Richard Fenske; Mary Kent, Charlene Brown; Theodore Boom, Elmer Mahler; Reggie Wynne, Lennie Burnham.

Self-Relization Implies Development of All One's Virtues.

For a complete and successful realization of life's purpose...

All the individual virtues—intellectual, technical and aesthetic—have important bearing on one's adjustment socially.

Kindness is the practice of subordinating self-interest when this is seen to conflict with the good of others.

Kindness displayed in attention to wishes and welfare of others is courtesy.

The practice of promoting another's welfare with disregard for one's own self-interest is friendship.

Justice requires that rewards be so distributed among men that all individuals shall be given an equal opportunity for self-development.

The habit of promoting the well-being of all fellowmen in the community, in the nation and in the world, through individual effort and initiative, is the virtue of benevolence.

Self-realization requires the adoption and pursuit of an ideal no less comprehensive than that of total human welfare.

The first thing you know we'll be haranguing the farmers to do something for city relief.

Darwin's stuff is hokey. A race that can't even get rid of armament never could have got rid of tails.

Tells About Life In Oxford Halls

Dr. Weldon Crossland of Rochester, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Crossland of Wayne, tells about experiences while studying in England as follows:

Through the arrival in this city of the Rev. Weldon F. Crossland, D. D., new minister of Asbury Methodist church, Rochester has gained a Rhodes scholar.

Dr. Crossland won that honor after studying at an American college, Nebraska Wesleyan University, and entered Oxford in 1913.

On the campus of Oxford the future clergyman met not only the finest of England's manhood, but of her Colonies, as well.

On the campus of Oxford the future clergyman met not only the finest of England's manhood, but of her Colonies, as well.

Prince Democratic.

"He is one of the most democratic men of his time," Doctor Crossland said.

Doctor Crossland brought out the fact that the Rhodes scholar has all the benefits of an heir to the English nobility.

Doctor Crossland told that Cecil Rhodes, in providing his fund of his many students, had in mind the forming of contacts.

That which most people like to hear—how others live day by day—was told by Dr. Crossland, who said that a man servant there has only what they term a "staircase," one suite to care for.

Now Extinct Sons Of Herman Lodge Figured Prominently In Early Altona

Of The Once Influential And Flourishing Fraternal Order Nothing Remains But The Little Cemetery On The Hillside Just West Of The Town.

The old Altona opera house is gone, the jolly family picnics are a thing of the past—all that remains of Altona's once flourishing Sons of Herman lodge is the deep-grassed cemetery on the sunny slope just west of the cross-roads.

In a little iron-fenced plot sheltered by a sturdy conifer is a weathered monument bearing the name Splitzger.

Frank Woehler was an active member of the Sons of Herman and believes the Altona chapter was installed early in this century.

Meetings were held at the old opera house which stood in the north section, and after the building was demolished, members met at the different homes.

William Woehler, father of Frank Woehler, was instrumental in establishing the community burial ground, and he and his wife now lie in a family plot enclosed by an almost-sunken cement wall.

Members of the lodge recall that there were strangers buried there, for in the pre-auto days runaway horses brought their toll of accidents, and victims were buried in the little cemetery, as the church cemetery admitted only members of the congregation.

Former Resident Dies In Norfolk

C. J. Fuhrman Made Home In Stanton County Near Hoskins 49 Years.

C. J. Fuhrman of Norfolk, who formerly lived near Hoskins, died at his home Friday following two months of poor health. All eight children and his wife were at his bedside when death occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrman lived at Spring Branch until 1920, when they went to Norfolk to make their home. He was aged 71 years and 4 months lacking 4 days.

Deceased was born in Pomerania, Germany, on June 17, 1861, and came to this country with his parents when seven years old, set-ling near Watertown, Wis. In 1874 the family came to Stanton county to homestead, and Mr. Fuhrman made his home on the original farm until 13 years ago. On October 30, 1883, he married Miss Amelia Behmer of Hoskins, and eight children were born to this union, all of whom survive him. These are Mrs. Emil France of Appleton, Wis., Mrs. Charles Klingbeil of Baxter, Iowa, Mrs. Harry Brumels of Randolph, Mrs. R. Martin of Spring Branch, Mrs. Awalt Walker of Hoskins, Miss Ella Fuhrman at home, Ed. and Ernest Fuhrman of Spring Branch. He also leaves two brothers, August and Fred Fuhrman of near Norfolk, and 31 grandchildren.

Mr. Fuhrman farmed at Spring Branch until retirement, and served as county commissioner of Stanton county from 1905 to 1911, and was a member of the district school board for many years.

Funeral rites were held Monday afternoon at the home at 1:30 o'clock, followed by services at St. Paul's Lutheran church in Norfolk, in charge of Rev. John Witt. Interment was at Spring Branch cemetery.

Local Men Attend Meeting At Omaha

Farmer's Union Delegates Favor Cutting School Costs 50 Percent.

Simon Strate and John Drevsen from this locality were in attendance at the annual state meeting of Farmers' Union in Omaha last week. Charles Schellenberg of Winside, was also a delegate. The Wayne county men left Monday and came back last Friday.

The group went on record as opposing the county agent system, demanding cessation of appropriations to pay deficits incurred by the Nebraska state fair, asking for reduction in telephone rates to correspond with the present price levels, demanding that the cost of education in Nebraska be reduced 50 percent from 1928-29 levels, that the state university and all normal schools withdraw immediately from the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools. A resolution was adopted providing for a committee to work out a plan of arbitration between farmers and mortgage holders.

In the matter of national legislation, the convention favored the re-monetization of free silver, passage of the Frazier bill for refinancing of farm mortgages, national legislation to obtain cost of production, opposition to issuing of bonds for creating public wealth or for public improvements, substantial reduction in tariffs, and discontinuance of all "dollar-matching" schemes.

A demand is made for the abolishment of both the Interstate Commerce and the State Railway commissions, and for repeal of the truck law passed by the past legislature.

Other resolutions provided for repeal of the intangible tax law, exemption from tax of gasoline used on farm, opposition to diversion of gasoline tax monies for other than road building purposes, opposition to a general sales tax and approval of an income tax to lighten general property taxes.

The convention asked the legislature to lower the legal rate of interest, to investigate the cost of road building and maintenance, to repeal the deficiency judgment law, consolidate county offices, reduce license fees on passenger automobiles 50 per cent, to pass a warehouse act, and to oppose any road building at this time except in emergency cases.

A reduction to 5 cents per mile for traveling expenses of public officials was favored and a demand was made for the reduction in the salaries of the judiciary. In fact reductions in salary of all public officials is demanded in the resolutions as is a 50 per cent reduction in high school tuition.

WINS DECISION IN SUPREME COURT

Lincoln, Neb.—The supreme court has sustained the motion of John T. Bressler and others for the dismissal of an appeal filed by Robinson and others involving a large transaction in Wayne county lands.

The action was brought against Bressler and his associates to enforce the carrying out of the contract of purchase, but instead, the court gave Bressler and his fellow defendants a judgment for $75,000 because of the failure of plaintiffs to give a merchantable title to the land. This judgment was affirmed by the supreme court and when the case again came up in district court the plaintiff claimed the right to have the case retried but instead the trial judge entered a judgment based on the mandate of the supreme court.

Mock Herring Pie.

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons of cornstarch and pinch of salt
Mix cornstarch and salt and add to sugar.
Beat in yolks of two eggs, add 1 tablespoon (level) of lemon extract, 2 tablespoons of vinegar and lump of butter if you wish.

MONARCHS TO BE CROWNED FRIDAY

Eight High School Students Candidates For King and Queen of Carnival.

Candidates for reigning queen and king of the high school carnival scheduled for Friday evening, January 20, were nominated by the four high school classes last week. The nominees and their supporters are selling tickets, each one counting 50 votes, and the competition will remain open until evening of the event. The girl and boy with most votes will be crowned as part of the carnival merry-making. A chart has been installed in lower hall showing the day-by-day standings of the candidates, who are as follows: Seniors, Lucile Surber and Robert Ross; Juniors, Ruby Rhoades and John Brigger; Sophomores, Mary Margaret McGarrugh and Robert Cunningham; Freshmen, Peace Kingston and Lee Porter.

Milton Auker and Raymond Salla, upholding the negative, and Lucile Wright and William Studley, for the affirmative, met Wakefield debaters here last Thursday afternoon and evening, at the high school building in a non-conference, no-decision meet. Today the local debate squad goes to Sioux City to meet Central East high school squad.

Junior High News.
Miss Maude Curley's pupils are finishing up their autobiographies and Leonard Good, commercial instructor, will look after the typing and micrographing of these. Each student will be presented with a booklet containing life stories of all members of the class. Miss Curley reports the autobiographies as especially well done.

Friday afternoon the class went to visit the public library where Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh explained the use of the library, how books are grouped, and told them about books they would enjoy reading. In geography, the class has been studying the many uses of water, and listed these on the blackboard.
