

Of Explanation Made Telephone Tax Reports Misleading To Many Taxpayers Discuss Questions—Farm Mortgages—Overloading Payrolls At Source Of Government—Amending Constitution.

The Herald's report last week of rural telephone patrons, asking the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company to reduce its switching charge, was accepted as such in quoting C. L. Fickett, local manager, in regard to an average tax of $5.88 imposed on each telephone in the system. Investigation discloses that the company pays no tax on rural telephones, but that the average was made up by figuring all telephones in the country-wide system. Lack of explanation befogged the report somewhat. In Wayne we are informed that the company pays, besides a corporation tax, a tax of $950 on 700 telephones. Thus, with no tax on rural telephones and a comparatively light tax in Wayne, the burden of $5.88 per telephone is evidently caused by larger investments and heavier taxes elsewhere.

Taxes Discussed. The taxpayers' meeting in the Wayne city hall Saturday afternoon furnished a forum for sharply disagreeing ideas that tend to clarify misunderstandings and show that human problems are not restricted to one group or one locality. Proposed legislative changes which were brought to the attention of the committee, aroused differences among members of the committee, and later, handed over to the taxpayers' meeting, caused many differences there. But the spirited discussions made people think, and the multitude of opinions often in conflict—may be expected to enlighten and safeguard the future.

The proposition to limit education at public expense to the eighth grade attracted much of the hope for no free schools in America expressed by Sir William Berkeley, colonial governor of Virginia, that feverish interest was aroused, and the subject was finally buried under an avalanche of disapproval. That everybody, rich or poor, should have unlimited opportunity in everything, paragonizing education and religion, as sought and guaranteed by the founders of the government, won encouraging support.

The recommendation to reduce teachers' salaries precipitated lively discussion. No one questioned the advisability of a reasonable downward revision, but disposition to deal a ruinous blow to education and thus indirectly to future citizenship was stoutly and successfully opposed. It was pointed out that while material possessions are necessary, mental training under competent leadership is an investment of supreme importance—one that cannot perish. It is something that cannot be destroyed by an unhappy turn in the economic wheel of fortune. Wholesome regard for school standards, kept as nearly unimpaired as possible, was reassuring.

Forclosing Mortgages. It is hoped those holding mortgages in Wayne county will not be in a hurry to assert full rights under the law. In the struggle of farming communities out of an unfortunate plight, it will manifestly be the course of wisdom and justice to permit delay. Leniency at all times, especially in times of stress, is repaid by later satisfaction and advantage. It is important to money lenders and property owners alike to keep persons in their homes and as far as possible preserve the credit of every community.

"Patronage Racket." A contributor to Liberty magazine discusses at length what he terms the "Patronage Racket" in Washington political circles as a source of reprehensible waste of public funds. The author calls attention to a practice of loading up public payrolls through congressional or other "pull," and causing a mountain of expense that is almost entirely useless. It is in Washington where nepotism seems to be worked to the limit with little or no return in the way of service. The relative of a congressman sometimes his wife—draws a liberal salary for a job whose work is actually handled by a girl, fitted for the job and receiving a comparatively small wage. The writer says the practice is restricted to no one administration, no one political party. The fact that a lot of useless employment is perpetuated as a means of paying political obligations or of helping relatives and friends suggests urgently needed reform at the seat of national government. Any administration's difficulty in reducing the number of employees down to the actual need of public service would seem to lie with a persisting swarm of house and senate members, each bent on taking care of his favorites.

To Amend Constitution. The approval of the only more state legislature the first of this week was needed to insure changing the constitution, so that newly elected senators and congressmen would take their places the first week in January instead of with a delay of several weeks. FIFTY-SECOND YEAR

COLLEGE COSTS COUNTY LITTLE

Dr. U. S. Conn Explains Tax Situation To Members Of Kiwanis Club.

"The total cost of Wayne State Teachers College to Wayne county taxpayers is only $2,000 annually, although the county paid property taxes totalling $475,000 for 1931, and will pay $850,000 for the year just closed," said Dr. U. S. Conn in his talk on the present tax situation before Kiwanis club Monday noon. "Only $1 out of every $275 goes to the support of this college, yet Wayne county contributes $2,000 to support of penal and charitable institutions of the state."

"Wayne county has had an average enrollment of 260 during the past 10 years, and has always had at least 142 representatives. Cedar county sends an average of only 119 students annually, yet pays a heavier tax toward its support than does Wayne. Dixon pays only 120 students less and has an average of 120 students attending. Fully one-half the men and women in this county who have gone through the college would not have been able to go beyond high school had it not been for the college being here." Dr. Conn pointed out. "Fully $60,000 is to be cut off our college budget for the next two-year period, yet this will mean a saving of only $300 to county taxpayers, meaning that by saving $300, this territory will be deprived of $60,000 annually. The reductions will be made in salaries and wages, although present salaries of instructors are 40 percent less than those in like educational institutions.

"This is not primarily a teacher-training institution," said the speaker, "for many of our students are preparing to enter medical, engineering and other professional fields. This fall our registration showed that new pupils had transferred from 47 different colleges, including six state universities, and most of these men and women had come because of the low cost at Wayne, rather than because they plan to enter the teaching field."

At the conclusion of Dr. Conn's talk, it was decided that the public affairs committee, headed by C. M. Craven, should direct the club membership in informing Representative Frank Klopning that local residents wish the appropriation for the college named in Governor Bryan's budget to be carried out.

Prof. John R. Keith presented several of his students in musical numbers. Orville Smith and Charles Ingham played two Finnish folk songs, "The Diets of the Serenade" and "Voice of Love" by Schumann. Harry Langley sang two numbers, "Water Boy," by Robinson, and "Into the Dawn With You" by Taylor. Guests were William Dowling of Madison, E. J. Harper of Norfolk and Rev. William Goede of Ohio.

Next week's program will be arranged by Kermit Stewart, director of music in Wayne school.

Judge Greene Gives Lecture

Chicago Man Comes Sunday To Speak On Christian Science Here.

Judge Samuel W. Greene of Chicago, gave an address Sunday afternoon on Christian Science at the Baptist church. The Wayne society, cooperating with the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass., sponsored the address.

E. A. McGarragh, first reader, introduced the speaker. "Because so much good and happiness have come to the students of Christian Science, through the study and application of the healing truth," said Mr. McGarragh, "Christian Scientists are always glad for an opportunity to share this happiness with others."

"Happiness is spiritual, born of truth and love. It is useless; therefore it cannot exist alone, but requires all mankind to share it," Mr. McGarragh read from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy.

One of the channels established for sharing this message with mankind, explained Mr. McGarragh, is the board of lectureship of the Boston church, this board being composed of men and women qualified to speak with authority on the subject. Judge Greene of Chicago is a member of this board. His address appears elsewhere in this issue.

MONTH DRAWS TO AN END WITHOUT SEVERE WEATHER

AS January draws to a close it leaves an almost unbroken record of mild weather. The first two weeks in December were extremely cold, evidently forgetting that we had a depression on hand, and as a consequence fuel bills were terribly annoying. Since then, conditions, the elements have appeared without teeth and without barriers of icy snow. Through January the mercury has barely touched freezing and roads have been easily passable. What February has up to its sleeves, no one knows. What it doesn't have in store in the way of boreal blasts, however, may be held back to be dished out by March which cares nothing about its reputation or about the comforts of the populace.

Miss Mildred Clark sponsored the freshman concessions and stunts; W. A. Behl was in charge of sophomore activities; Leonard Good, the junior; and Gayle Childs, senior. TAXPAYERS ASK CUT IN WAGES OF RURAL TEACHERS Group Adopts 17 Proposals Of Legislative Report And Rejects Three.

ABOUT 200 ATTEND MEET. About 200 Wayne county residents attended the taxpayers' meeting at city hall Saturday afternoon, called at request of rural school patrons to discuss a uniform wage scale for rural teachers. C. H. Hendrickson and his legislative committee submitted 20 resolutions which represented a digest of the various suggestions made to the committee members. The group voted favorably on 17 of the proposals and rejected three. The proposals are to be taken before state legislature.

Chairman Hendrickson's reading of the legislative proposals was followed by open debate upon each, during which Miss Pearl Sewell, county superintendent, Prof. Kenneth Parke of Wayne State Teachers college, Prof. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne State Teachers college, Simon Strate of Hoskins, Louis Theis of near Winside, Frank McGuire of near Pender, Wm. Janke of Winside, Roy Wingett of near Carroll, Otto Ulrich of near Winside and several others were heard from.

Set Rural Salary Scale.

Heated discussion followed introduction of a proposal to fix salaries of rural teachers between $40 and $60 per month, with Mr. Wingett making a spirited defense of the rural teacher, and Miss Sewell explaining that most teachers had been cut two years ago as well as last year, and that the salary average in the county was $66.45 per month, depending upon qualifications. She reported the salary division as follows: One teacher at $45; four at $50; three at $55; 15 at $60; 14 at $65; 20 at $70; 15 at $75; nine at $80; one at $85. Average for the preceding year was $83 and for the year before, $88.

Said Dr. Lewis: "The farmers have always stood by and taken the leadings and let city folks take the best, for they have lacked leaders. If we cripple the rural schools, where will they get leaders?" Mr. Hendrickson brought up a recommendation during this discussion providing that board for rural school teachers should not exceed $10 per month, but this was voted down. Miss Sewell explained that teachers in rural districts now pay from $12 to $17 per month.

Mr. Strate suggested that the district school board be empowered to fix teachers' salaries after consulting the taxpayers of their district, but this was rejected in favor of the set wage scale, which carried by a narrow margin.

17 Resolutions Accepted.

Following considerable re-vamping, these resolutions were adopted by the group: That no property tax be levied or assessed on automobiles of any kind or character; that married women with husbands capable of supporting them be prohibited from holding any position at public expense; that public officers be limited to five cents per mile for mileage; that salaries of public officials be reduced, and that salaries not be paid during absence of officers from duty; that district, county judge or justice of the peace who consult privately any person concerning a matter pending before him shall be disqualified; that the legal rate of interest shall be six percent and the contractual rate be eight percent; that interest rate on due and delinquent taxes shall be at legal rate; that the court be empowered to grant a stay of sale for five years in real estate foreclosures; that when real or chattel security is taken, and is exhausted, no deficiency judgment shall be permitted, providing all mortgaged property and the income thereof be offered in payment; that the nepotism law be re-enacted placing kinship at fourth degree; that clerk of the district court also serve as clerk of county court; that free high school law be amended so as to reduce tuition charges by 50 percent (to $54 for rural patrons); that greater care be exercised in limiting output of teachers, and that salaries be adjusted according to qualifications, with downward revision in harmony with the times; that salaries should be reduced in all public schools above high school and tuition increased to make them more self-sustaining; that public expense shall not pay for hiring lawyer to defend person charged with crime, lawyer to prosecute him; witnesses to testify, and expenses of appeal to supreme court; that expenses of feeding of jail prisoners shall be closely regulated.

Three resolutions, one calling for repeal or modification of the primary law, the second recommending a shorter ballot with governing (Continued on Page Four)

SECOND PERIOD OF TERM OPENS FIRST OF WEEK

New Registrations At College Bring Enrollment Higher Than Before.

Second semester of the term at Wayne State Teachers College opened this Monday and total enrollment for the semester will exceed the number for the first semester. Some students dropped out at close of first period but a number enrolled and the new registrations exceeded the number leaving. The number of students withdrawing at the close of the first semester this year is less than the total who withdrew a year ago at the corresponding time. A few late registrations are expected next Monday as some will come from the university, Morningside college, Grinnell and other schools where the semester closes January 27.

Several new classes are offered in the college this semester. These courses, which are open only to seniors and juniors, are the following: Famous Americans and recent world history, offered by Dr. J. G. W. Lewis; history of the west, Miss Verna Eilefson; methods of teaching high school English, Prof. J. Q. Owen; principles of secondary methods, Prof. G. W. Costerian.

Heavy registration necessitated sectioning of some classes. The registrations were especially heavy in the following courses: Observation and methods, Prof. G. W. Costerian and Dean H. H. Hahn; theory of education, Dr. H. D. Griffin and Dr. Amy Chatauneuf; sociology and Prof. R. Bowen; American history II, Miss Verna Eilefson; history of civilization II, Dr. J. G. W. Lewis; political science II, Dr. Lewis; famous Americans, Dr. Lewis; recent world history, Dr. Lewis; zoology I, Prof. C. E. Wilson; botany I, Prof. C. R. Chinn; music I, Prof. H. H. SOME DEAD TOWNS AFTER WRECKAGE IS CLEARED AWAY

ECONOMIC law is as inexorable as flood or tornado in dealing with cities and towns, and any advantage to be gained in the process of change lies in the employment of all possible safeguards and directing forces. If inhabitants surrender to ill winds, figuring that effort is useless, they are likely to wake up when better fortune returns to find ground irretrievably lost. The town that is destined to survive a period of depression in best shape and with preserved strength is the one whose citizens are alert to popular demands and quick to adjust themselves to changed conditions. Railroads have lost old-time influence in making towns. It is now more up to groups on whose foresight, courage and enterprise the future largely depends, and these groups must be united and resolute to insure largest and best results. When the wreckage is cleared away following the economic storm, the dead towns here and there will be those whose citizens employed force against one another rather than in behalf of a united and fortified position in a mutually helpful community.

Interesting Records Of Long and Loyal Service Found Behind Scenes

High upon the hill towers the substantial and impressive Teachers college, growing year by year in its scope and activity, and turning out capable, well-balanced young men and women to carry on the state's education or to continue studies in specialized and professional fields. The college faculty is made up of instructors who have made names for themselves in their particular field of work, many having "grown up" with the institution and aiding materially in its rigid development. Their endeavors are known; their accomplishments noted.

But behind this army of instructors is a small group of workers whose loyalty to the institution is the type which comes with 20, 30, even 40 years of service, and who have an almost paternal interest in the generous campus which has evolved out of one lone building.

There's George Denkinger, for instance. You'll find him keeping a watchful eye on the roaring, steam-spitting monsters which inhabit the power house, or crossing the campus business-bent, followed by one or more frolicsome dogs. There's something strongly indicative of the Machine Age about this power house—all its activity, noise, regularity, with sunlight streaming across the huge tanks, and steaming and vividly green tropical plants sunning themselves and expanding in the warm, damp atmosphere. Sometimes Mr. Denkinger can be found tending the light greenhouses where are growing vivid poinsettias, a dwarf orange shrub bearing fruit, grapefruit plant, and a pineapple tree which bore fruit two years ago.

Mr. Denkinger has spent some 25 years tending the heating apparatus of the college, and during the span of service many radical changes have taken place on the campus. He has seen the original building, "handsome and elegant" in the manner of its day, become the nucleus for a group of buildings, and in its turn be razed to make way for a more modern structure. In the beginning, Mr. Denkinger had under his charge only two small boilers, and the college was lighted from the city plant. Now he supervises four monster boilers, and the college generates its own electricity, and heats the entire campus from the one building. Mr. Denkinger says that two more large buildings could be heated by the present plant, as only two boilers are now in use.

You'll find A. L. Dragon some-where about administration building, for this is his particular charge, and he has rounded out about 30 years of service. Mr. Dragon is an enthusiastic booster for the college and he thinks students of this day are wonderfully fortunate to have the opportunities they do for improving themselves.

"If I had had the opportunities they have today, I'd be the happiest man in the world," he confides. "I've been with Dr. Coon for 22 years, and it's a wonderful school. The majority of the students come here to get all there is in it—just a few come for a good time. As a rule, they're pretty level-headed folks."

Mr. Dragon has lived in Wayne a good 42 years, and recalls when J. M. Pile was teaching school on Main street where the old laundry stood, and also remembers when 80 acres were purchased atop the hill and the school building erected. The first building stood where administration now is located, with a windmill and tank behind it, and a belfry topping the structure. Cots were placed in basement and attic to take care of the out-of-town students. Later when the boys were housed in dormitories, each room held two or three cots and was numbered, the numbers corresponding with individual coal bins behind the dorms, in which residents of each room kept their own small stoves. Students were responsible for keeping their coal bins filled. One winter, Mr. Dragon recalls, the school buildings were heated with corn because corn was five and six cents per bushel and overly-plentiful.

Otto Ingverson, Antone Lerner and Mrs. A. R. Bruse are others who have rounded out many years of faithful service to the school.

Confidence Expressed THAT there will be no permanent unemployment, no permanent sagging of farm and commodity prices is the conviction of the Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman which says:

"Our next president says that 5,000,000 people now unemployed must be put on the land.

"He figures that even with all industries in full operation, there would be that number of idle because of the steady increase in the use of labor-saving machinery.

"While we think the five million could be absorbed in agriculture, with great benefit to themselves, and without any great increase in foods put on the markets, we don't think it will ever be necessary or ever be done.

"We are making a guess, just as he is. And one guess is likely to be as good as the other. Nothing is to be gained by putting more people on the land than are required to produce the food that the nation needs. Agriculture is using labor-saving machinery, too.

"Our idea is that with the return of better times, new industries and new demands for labor will arise. Just so many of our people are necessary to produce and distribute the prime necessities. The rest are free for employment in the production of luxuries and semi-luxuries. The desires of the people are unlimited. With the means to satisfy those desires there will be no employment problem.

"The idea that people must go to the land to live is to deny that prosperity can ever return to this country."

Currency Inflation

C. H. HENDRICKSON, former county attorney, has a communication in today's Herald offering inflation of the currency as a remedy for market paralysis. He may be right, or he may be mistaken. In view of the fact that the United States holds more than half the world's gold, we cannot understand that our troubles lie at the door of financial inadequacy. What appeals to us as the greatest need is a powerful influence, supported by confidence, to bring money out of hiding and start the circle of buying and selling. Inflation might or might not do it.

But it is not strange that persons disagree over the money question. It was made the paramount issue in 1896 when free coinage of silver was overwhelmed. Remonetization of silver or other means of inflation is now pressed forward. In the senate this week free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 was tabled by a vote of 3 to 1.

Disagreement over currency problems is quite as common in England as in the United States. Two leading London banks are in sharp conflict of opinion over the effect of the silver standard on affairs of that country. The Westminster Bank is quoted as saying that "idle money and idle machinery will be inevitable mates until the dollar and the sterling have their divorce annulled."

Fear Is Wiped Out

WE used to be afraid that everybody would grow richer and richer and want more and more, that no one would ever have enough or ever be satisfied, and that each would fret under the lash of the other fellow's financial excess and mounting luxury. An income sufficient to meet requirements of comfort and the demands of leisure would not gratify ambition or halt the mad race for more dollars and more show. But the sudden and tragic slow-up dispensed such fears, and the result has been to put a premium on values that are not determined by the dollar mark. As we grow back into prosperity, we will perhaps be slow to appraise material possessions as the only aim in life. And we will appreciate reasonable ease in making the grade, satisfied to avoid reckless spending and unnecessary waste. We will all be glad to be given another trial at stronger values at an early date. We are eager to put what we have learned into practice.

The Nebraska tax record for 1932 shows few counties that had lower levies for county purposes than Wayne county. Some counties that appeared to have had less really had more when the township tax was included. Those counties under township organization have part of the tax separated from the county tax. Under the commissioner system county taxes are thrown together. Dixon, Boone and Colfax are the only counties in the state with a lower tax than Wayne county. Wayne county commissioners who are making gratifying headway in retrenchment and tax reduction, had already scored economy as contrasted with other counties, according to the record.

The physical encounter between two members of the house of representatives in Lincoln this week over stamp allotments reminds us of the appropriateness of having one of the two combatants hail from the old town of Jackson in Dakota territory. This revives memory and perpetuates tradition. Fifty years ago, Jackson was a wild and bellicose town, and most arguments were not allowed to proceed far without resort to physical force—often use of dangerous weapons. In the early days Jackson supplied its full share to Dakota county's district court criminal docket. The Jackson representative in the legislature shows that he retains the prowess of his antecedents.

The taxpayers' meeting Saturday voted down the proposition to consolidate counties and create larger units—adverse action taken on the assumption that economy would not be served in that way. In some states where consolidations have taken place, however, the experience has proved a material help in reducing costs without any sacrifice of efficiency, and the same could undoubtedly be done in this state. In the course of retrenchment some big things, like county and school consolidations, should not be overlooked in the zeal to trim comparatively small expenses.

One Wayne club this week listened to a story of the world's fair to be held in Chicago this year. The former world's fair in Chicago took place in 1893, just forty years ago, and many suspected it was the cause of the depression which started in that year and lasted until 1897. The present depression having been going for some time, the coming Chicago show cannot be charged with responsibility.

The lieutenant governor of Nebraska has launched five investigating committees to investigate everything in sight in accordance with a resolution adopted by the senate. It is hoped investigators will proceed speedily and without large financial waste, bearing in mind that economy is as important in directing and concluding legislative hot air as in handling other branches of the public service.

Young hens coming on the scene with new production, stimulated by mild weather, may account for the shockingly low price for eggs. Anyway, the price took a big drop, dealing a terrible blow at purchasing power.

Smashing differences have entered the ranks of the promoters of technocracy, and thus outside opponents are more fully justified than ever. If experts don't agree, how could they expect others to agree with them?

Demand for good horses was proved in Wayne again last Saturday when bidding was active and prices satisfactory. The horse is keeping up as a farm need and is not losing to machines as had been feared.

Coalition Cabinet Urged

Sioux City Journal: Progressives of the republican party are hopeful that Franklin D. Roosevelt will give them some consideration when he forms his cabinet. What they would like to see would be a coalition affair, that is a combination of democrats and progressive republicans running things in the country after March 4. They do not go so far as to suggest that any regular republican be included in the official family of the next chief executive.

Senators Cutting, of New Mexico, and LaFollette, of Wisconsin, recently journeyed to Warm Spring, Ga., to see the president-elect. Both were hopeful that one of them might be chosen for the post of secretary of the interior. Both supported Mr. Roosevelt as did various other insurgent republicans in the middle west.

Gossip has it that if any progressive republican finds a place in the Roosevelt cabinet Bronson Cutting, the senator from New Mexico, will be the man. He is a former Harvard classmate of Mr. Roosevelt. He is a millionaire, a native of the east who has lived in New Mexico for the last 20 years or so, and who has been a persistent opponent of Hoover policies ever since he went to Washington. He was elected as a republican, but, like a good many others, belonged to the g. o. p. only during campaigns and on election day.

Pelicanocracy.

Christian Science Monitor: The pelicans are said to be interested in technocracy. The machine age has brought them such a large measure of benefit that they have become thoroughly converted to the proposition of a little labor and a lot of luxury.

The pelican is a wise old bird. As the holder of patents for the first known practical cold storage system it has led all other birds in the promotion of labor-saving devices. No bird has developed greater facilities for gathering and storing its food. And it has not been unmindful of the value of the inventions of man. Hence its interest in the cause of technocracy at a time when the economic situation has served somewhat to restrict its easy sources of food supply.

In early days, the pelican employed such crude methods as diving for the fish which formed its chief source of food supply. And then, at various points, great fish canneries got into operation and ejected, sufficient waste product to provide an easy living for vast colonies of pelicans.

Pelican youth grew up in an atmosphere of indulgence. The next meal meant only a short and pleasant flight to the nearest cannery. The machine age had removed the days of drudgery when their parents dived and ducked ten hours or more a day for a bit of herring and often went to bed hungry. But now many canneries have been closed by economic conditions and the younger pelicans untrained in the pursuits of their forefathers, are blaming the government for a shortage of food. Hence their return to technocracy with the hope that

All the cans in the cannery can come to the aid of the pelican.

RIGHTS.

Isn't Glenn Frank, noted educator, drawing on his imagination when he says the United States is trying to "assert the rights of a world power without accepting the responsibilities of a world power?" It looks to us as though the reverse were true. It has seemed to us that we have consented to carry world burdens without any rights in directing events or in exercising authority. This country was worked into the war and made sacrifices that won the war. Following victory, we were permitted minor influence at the peace conference. All we received in return for precious lives and huge treasure was ingratitude. We are now suffering from the senseless world conflagration, still asked by the main beneficiary to hold the sack and forget. We have plenty of responsibilities, but we are conceded few deserved rights. If we read Glenn Frank correctly he has managed to get his wires crossed.

The inauguration of the president on March 4. Under the amendment the president would take his place January 20. This would do away with the short or "lame duck" session in which there is more horse-play than business. Slow methods of travel and communication which led framers of the constitution to fix the inauguration five months ahead of the election, have been removed. And plenty of sound reasons to speed up the date leave no opposition to the proposed change.

CANDOR NEEDED.

So many stories with half concealed facts or with a coloring designed to bolster up a weak position are told that one must be alert and penetrating always to avoid being led into error. To serve a selfish purpose or to meet demands of an emergency, persons will sometimes advance ground that complete facts will not support. Trying to snatch advantage is usually caused by the high tension of the period—the feverish determination to absorb the shock and minimize the loss. But if all facts were freely given, the task of curtailing and readjustment would be easier and quicker. Feeling of confidence would bring the fair play of values desired with less loss and less nervous strain. The rule of candor in all differences of opinion, considering all viewpoints and all interests, would operate to clearer understanding and a better state of mind.

NEW NON-FICTION READ FOR PERUSAL AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mrs. E. S. Blair, librarian, announces the following new non-fiction ready for distribution:

"25,000 Words Frequently Mispronounced," by Vizzetelli, and "Pronunciation of 10,000 Proper Names" by Mackey and Mackey. These two referenced volumes are gifts from the now extinct Delphin society, purchased with funds turned over from the group's treasury.

"Recovery, the Second Effort," by Sir Arthur Salter, a former director of the economic and financial section of the League of Nations, reconstructs and illuminates these turbulent post-war years.

"A New Deal" by Stuart Chase, deals with the present economic and political situation.

"Facing the Facts" is a diagnosis of the present day by 12 Princeton professors of economics, giving an independent and non-partisan summing-up of our present ills.

"Thunder and Down, America's Appointment with Destiny," treats with the immediate phase of uncertainty and unsettledness and analyzes the entire outlook for western civilization. This is the work of Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, and is well worth studying.

"Autobiography of Lincoln Stephens" is the life story of America's greatest reporter. This California-born lad was first a horse trainer, then studied in European universities, and finally became editor of a New York paper. In his recollections he gives the keys to such personalities as Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

"Van Loon's Geography" is the story of the world on which we live told in a manner which those of unscientific minds can fully understand and appreciate. It is profusely illustrated with Hendrik Willem Van Loon's own sketches.

South Sioux City Triumphs.
Wakefield lost to South Sioux City basketballers by the close score of 17 to 14 here Friday evening. This was Wakefield's third game of the season, and Coach R. L. Fredstrom had five of the eight men on first team out of play, so introduced a squad of six sophomores. Play was very close and exciting throughout the game, each team holding the lead at intervals, and Wakefield holding the edge with a 9 to 8 tally at half. In third quarter Larson was put out on fouls, and this gave South Sioux a decided advantage. The line-up follows:

January Brings An Increased Interest In Spring Garments

Mid-winter fashions vie with the first spring arrivals for feminine attention in shop-windows and on display racks. The changing vogue is interestingly different with sharp departures from the winter fashions which whet one's appetite for a new wardrobe.

Silks Go To Front.

One of the important changes in today's fashion horizon is the re-appearance of printed silks, with lovely patterns for day time, evening and sports wear. For instance, an about-town silk frock with small white design on gray background may be worn with black hat, gloves and shoes and makes a very striking and serviceable February-through-spring costume, besides living up one's black winter coat.

Light tops to dark frocks are winning popularity, and if you are the type who can wear gray, you will be interested in grey-top-with-black frocks which are worn with grey silk toques, grey suede gloves and black shoes.

For spring we can look for bright colored blouses with the dark spring suits, such as green over a navy blue skirt, and lavender-blouse with purple suit.

Resorts Are Favoring Linens.

Taking the smart southern and European resorts as indicative of what we mid-westerners will be wearing next summer, we will do well to keep an eye on linens, for these are appearing in smart tailored suits in natural color with printed handkerchief linen blouses, and in various types of sports and about-town frocks.

Wooly Straws Are New.

Parisians are enthusiastic over a new woolly straw which is soft and light, and very appropriate for between season wear before time for the light-colored straws. Although the new models have a changed appearance, they are not so different as to make one feel uncomfortable and quite out of their personality. The beret and draped styles tip decidedly over the right eye, and uncover the left side. Brimmed models cover more of the forehead and are of straw braid as a rule.

Necklines Are In New Guise.

The high neckline cut close to the throat is in fashion again, but it appears with all kinds of decorative touches, such as short scarf collars twisted at front and buttoned down to the dress, organdie collars in decidedly feminine manner, fluffy organdie or chiffon collars resembling Hawaiian collars, and lace white lingerie collars tied close to throat and falling down the front in soft plaits.

the company, was surprised Sunday last week when co-workers gave him a party. A chair, stool and lamp were some of the gifts he received. Mrs. Fisher used to live at Wayne.

In testimony at Phoenix, Ariz., last of the week, Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to die February 17 for murder of Mrs. Agnes Leroy, implicated Jack Halloran, wealthy lumberman in the killing. Mrs. Judd also admitted that both she and Halloran were accessories in the killing of two other girls.

Technocracy.

York Republican: A terrifying word has been coined to plague those timid souls who are prey to fears born of material thinking. Technocracy is the name for a theory that labor-saving inventions have robbed people of their right and vocations. Their slaves have now arisen and become their relentless masters. From this time forward, it argues, we may expect advances in science to make less and less the need of human hand labor with the result that unemployment will increase and become a constantly greater social and economic problem.

Against this school of materialistic philosophers who take a pessimistic view of the future there is arrayed the thought and experience of another school that believe implicitly that man is the master of means and that as new conditions of unemployment arise they will be met with greater fields for labor.

This writer recalls the consternation that ensued in the printing trade when it was learned that a machine had been perfected to set type. Old time printers saw a gaunt hand writing on the wall a message of despair for hand workers. But the linotype widened the field of printing and produced new employment for all workers who could keep pace with the trend of things.

When the automobile came upon the scene and threatened economic extinction for horse raisers, livery stables, hostlers, blacksmiths, heavy drivers, carriage and wagon makers, and the like, a great cry went up that the giant monster was getting ready to devour with voracity the ancient vocations of the people. But though the livery stables did disappear and the carriage and wagon makers either quit or turned their places into automobile factories, new fields of employment ensued and thousands upon thousands of workers found a new livelihood in widely extended fields of operation that ran from the building of roads to the making and servicing of automobiles.

There are many unexplored fields in which workers may be busily employed. We think that when the present period of lost confidence is over and conditions are allowed to become normal by reason of the withdrawal of fear, new fields of employment will be discovered and the terrors which now beset the workers through the promulgation of the idea that they have become slaves of the creatures they have made will be found to be mere phantoms without substance or foundation.

Ways and Farm Prosperity.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: It may afford some comfort to those who are badly discouraged over existing agricultural conditions to learn that there have been periodic depressions in this great industry from the very beginning of history. The converse has been equally true, constantly recurring periods of great prosperity. There is no such thing as permanent depression or permanent prosperity.

Professor Herbert Heston of the University of Minnesota has made a deep study of the immediate as well as the after effects of wars on the farming industry and is of the opinion that "If farmers would study the history of their industry and their class, they might well find themselves vigorous advocates of peace.

"It does not seem to matter who wins the conflict," said Mr. Heston. "Time rather than result is the controlling factor, for, during two or three years, new price, interest, wage, and production levels are established, new areas come into cultivation, and when the war-time prices collapse with the coming of peace, the costs of production do not fall in accordance with prices, and tribulation follows.

"To the student of history, there is a deadly familiarity about the present agricultural situation. When he reads the reports of conditions and the schemes for relief, he sometimes rubs his eyes and wonders whether he is not back in the 1880's or the 1920's, or even back in the sixteenth or the fourteenth century. Outcries against low prices and high rents or mortgage interest rates resound through the centuries; farmers and landlords hammer at the doors of legislatures," and so on.

"From studies of recurring good and bad times, certain lessons were strikingly clear, and chief among these was the fact that war, if continued long enough, brought ruin to agriculture and made readjustments extremely painful. The one hopeful thing about the situation is that time tends to heal all wounds; and that after each crisis the human race has eventually fought its way back."

tion picture and X-ray photographs of plant and animal development was done at his Berkeley laboratory, or in the South seas. He has spent considerable time on the Fiji and American Samoan islands, studying tropical life on land as well as under sea. With the aid of two dusky native boys he would put on a helmet and work on the coral-floored ocean bottom, sitting and sketching peculiar seaweeds, fish or floral growths, and photographing these with a specially constructed camera in the glass box. This camera weighs 170 pounds on land, but undersea it was so light that he lifted it about easily. Often Mr. Pillsbury remained under water for two and three hours at a time, and yet he has never learned to swim! He was able to get photographs of devil fish, barnacudas, sharks, huge clams and jelly fish, and of these all he calls the last-named most dangerous for a fish two feet long has tendrils 10 feet long and one of these drawn across a person's body will inject enough poison to kill.

In the Berkeley laboratory, Mr. Pillsbury has mechanically controlled cameras which photograph specimens at certain intervals, showing every stage of development. For instance, a plant will be photographed every 15 minutes from the time it first buds until the petals drop off, which probably takes about a week, yet the showing of this film lasts only 30 seconds.

An Immediate Remedy Needed. Omaha Journal-Stockman: Senator Robinson's measure for the immediate relief of farmers and stock growers who are in imminent danger of losing their farms and ranches through mortgage foreclosures seems to strike a responsive chord throughout the country.

Farmers are vitally interested in saving their homes. They are not so keenly concerned in the more or less visionary scheme of domestic allotment by which complicated bureaucratic machinery may be set up that will perhaps eventually add the tariff to the price of wheat and cotton two or three years hence. By that time their farms and ranches may be gone forever.

If the Arkansas senator has hit upon a plan that will save farmers from bankruptcy this spring and enable them to carry on their business without fear of interruption until conditions become more favorable his scheme will meet the approval of the entire nation.

Of course a long time program for agriculture is desirable but in the existing emergency prompt and effective aid should be the first consideration.

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, January 29.

The Golden Text is from I John 4:7: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and everyone that loveth is born of God and knoweth God."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Isaiah 63:7: "I will mention the loving kindnesses of the Lord, according to all the Lord hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which He hath bestowed on them according to the multitude of His loving kindnesses."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, used in the lesson-sermon, reads: "People go into ecstasies over the sense of a corporeal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet

God is Love, and without Love, God, immortality cannot appear. . . . Mortals believe in a finite personal God, while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited." (page 312)

School Operetta To Be Given Soon
The operetta, "Hansel and Gretel," to be given by Wayne grade school next month under direction of Kermit Stewart, has an interesting history as the opera from which it is arranged came to be written almost by accident. Characters will be chosen soon and the definite date announced.
The composer, Humperdink's sister, Mrs. Wette; had compiled for her children a series of verses based on Grimm's fairy tale of Hansel and Gretel and sent them to her brother to set to music. This he did, arranging the work for a home Christmas celebration. It proved to be so enjoyable that Mrs. Wette and Humperdink elaborated it into a full length opera. A success from its first performance, this opera of childhood that appeals to grownups and children alike has gone around the world and become a part of the repertoire of nearly every opera house.
The composer could not have captured so well the spirit of the story had he not possessed a most intimate sympathy with and knowledge of his native folk lore. Accordingly he made frequent and appropriate use of German folk songs in writing his score for the charming version of the old fairy story provided by his sister.
In the arrangement by Berta El-smith the essential tunes and atmosphere are retained, making it a production undoubtedly much like the original operetta prepared for the children of Mrs. Wette.

Pleads Guilty To Theft Charge
Lewis Carl Segelson of Hartington, pleaded guilty in Wayne county court Saturday to charge of taking two sweaters valued at $13 and one suede jacket valued at $7.50, property of Orville Sherry. The court imposed on Segelson a term of 60 days in jail and assessed him costs of $18.20. He is serving the time.
Young Segelson came to Wayne to see a friend who stays at the same home in which Sherry lives. When it was found that Segelson left with the goods, Sheriff A. W. Stephens notified the sheriff at Hartington and the articles were recovered.

The youth was brought back to Wayne for trial.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE - ITS HEALING MESSAGE"

By Judge Samuel W. Greene, C. S. B. of Chicago, Illinois. Member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

There is a message in Christian Science for every individual. There is not a human need in the consciousness of man, woman or child, in this company, but it can be met and satisfied through a correct understanding of God as revealed in Christian Science. There is no mystery nor mysticism in Christian Science. It is the clear clarion-call to a busy, practical age, inviting mankind to a consideration of the new-old message of the Christ. It is crying in the words of the Master Christian, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Its appeal is to the sick, the sorrowing, the unhappy, the dissatisfied. It comes to a world steeped in materialism and in materialistic philosophies, to a people uncertain, confused, unhappy, offering light, hope, consolation, salvation—here, now and forever. It is marshaling a vast new army of thinkers. The outworn creeds and screeds and platitudes of unsatisfying religions are being replaced by vigorous, vital truths, concerning God and man; and great hosts of men and women everywhere are being blessed and benefited through their acceptance of Christian Science.

The Discoverer. The discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, through years of study, prayer, and contemplation, perceived a spiritual law of healing running through the experiences of the disciples of Jesus, and of his disciples. She saw that the healing work accomplished by those consecrated men was instant and permanent, and without the use of any material means or medicines. Being in need herself, of healing, she reached out in thought and prayer to God, claiming the presence and the manifestation of God's power just as in Jesus' time. To the great amazement of her family and friends, she was able immediately to rise from a sick bed and manifest a normal sense of health. She was not satisfied with the idea that this was a miraculous or unusual manifestation of God's power for her own benefit, but she believed that she had realized the existence of a definite, certain law of health and healing which was and is available for all who bring their thinking into conformity with that law.

God. This revelation or discovery changed the whole trend of Mrs. Eddy's life, and her every ability and energy was wholly dedicated from this time forward to the elucidating of a practical, operative plan of procedure to give this truth to mankind. She saw that the world needed a more understandable concept of God; something removed from the realm of fancy and superstition and blind faith. She saw that mankind's concept of God and creation needed changing from the material to the spiritual. She saw the need of spiritualizing the world's view of creation. The ordinary custom of praying, petitioning God to do some specific thing, or to forbear, doing some other thing, shows how God has been generally considered to be a great superman—one whom personal appeals will, or may, influence to do or not to do something. One may say, such a concept of God is surely not entertained today by thinking people. Perhaps not so generally as it was fifty years ago, but listening to the average prayer, one still hears much of the fervid personal appeal. During the past fifty or sixty years Christian Science has been making its appeal to the world's thought, and it is undoubtedly true that millions, not calling themselves Christian Scientists, have been blessed and enlightened through the spread of Christian Science.

Christian Science teaches that God is above, and far removed from imperfection, impatience, ignorance, disease, pain, and death. It teaches that such material concepts of God and of God's creation must necessarily be false, misleading, and unbelievable, from the very nature of God. The Bible says that God said, that is, considered, all that He had made and that it was "very good." Is it not fair, then, to ask of every seeming condition of creation or existence: Is this very good? and if it does not measure up to that high standard, may one not be privileged to say it is not of God's creation and is not true? Such is the position taken by Christian Science. It is not good, then it is not of God, and is not true.

The Bible says that God made all that "without him was not any thing made that was made." It is not difficult to interpret or understand that statement. It is as simple as "ABC," and yet, until Christian Science brought out the practical import, has the modern world ever heard of such a teaching? and even now when the Christian Scientist tells his friend that such a teaching is practical for everyday consideration he may still be thought odd or ridiculous.

Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 481), "Human hypotheses first assume the reality of sickness, sin, and death, and then assume the necessity of these evils because of their admitted actuality." She then adds, "These human verdicts are the procurers of all discord." Manifestly, for one to assume the reality of sin, sickness, or death, he must assume that God, the infinite good, is not in control of His universe, but permits some devil or evil to enter with discord and imperfection. Christian Science declares that God is omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent, and He is infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love. What a glorious vision of God is this—all that is tender, all that is good, all that is intelligent, all that is correct is of God, and there is no condition nor creation, which does not proceed from God.

Man. As Mrs. Eddy worked and thought over this marvelous concept of God, she saw how poorly mankind had realized man's heritage and high estate as creature of God, as God's son, as God's image and likeness. As soon as she turned to the Bible she saw that the two accounts of man's creation, as told in the book of Genesis, had been confounded and misunderstood by the average Bible reader. She saw that man, created in God's image and likeness, could never have been material or made of matter; that indeed matter with its defects and imperfections has, no reality as a product of God's "very good" creation. Then she saw that the confounding of the accounts of creation had been the cause of much of the erroneous teaching about man's original sin, his fall, and his banishment from God. Christian Science teaches that man is spiritual because God is spirit, that man is idea because God is Mind, that man can never be sick or die because he is of God, who is Life.

The apostle Paul surely had something of this concept of man when he wrote, "For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." How much sickness, sorrow, and sin have resulted from this false teaching and thinking concerning man, only the ages can reveal. What a glorious prospect for one to look upon his heritage of good that every good and every perfect gift is his, coming "down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." How wonderful for one to know and understand that there is no sickness, no imperfection, and that he is not subject to any false material laws. It is not strange that John the beloved, seeing something of this teaching in the life and words of the blessed Master, could write, "Perfect love casteth out fear."

It is interesting to note in the many testimonies of Christian Scientists that fear is usually the great bugbear to be met, and that when fear is overcome and one is trusting God completely, his healing quickly results. If Christian Science had brought nothing to the world but the very same teaching concerning the needlessness of fear it would still have been a great contribution to the world's thought. One really cannot fear when he has any right concept of God. One cannot fear Life, or Love, or Truth, or Principle, or Spirit, or good—and these constitute the nature of God and His creation. Therefore one cannot reasonably fear.

The Textbook. In her efforts to help others to see and understand these newly unfolded truths concerning God and creation, Mrs. Eddy saw the necessity of written statements. Accordingly, she began in a small way to write concerning her discovery. As her understanding increased her writings expanded, until eventually she had produced the volume known as "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," also called "The Christian Science Textbook." Naturally, a book propounding such surprising theories of God and His creation as does Science and Health would arouse criticism and opposition. During the more than fifty years of its continued prosperity the book has become one of very wide circulation, which is constantly increasing. It is in no sense a substitute for the Bible, and Christian Scientists do not so regard it.

More Cattle Fed Than Last Year

Nebraska has 5 percent more cattle on feed than a year ago according to the state and federal division of agricultural statistics.

Feeding operations in the corn belt are also about 5 percent larger than last year but about the same as those of two years ago, while those in the western states show a decrease of 7 percent. The time of marketing is expected to be about the same as last year. The proportion of heavy weight feeders is smaller.

Nebraska's cattle feeders increased operations only slightly this year even though corn and other feeds were very plentiful in the important feeding districts. Under normal conditions, a large increase in feeding operations could be expected when the feeding sections of the state produce such large quantities of corn and other feed crops as they produced this year. A number of factors were responsible for holding feeding operations down to only slightly more than the low operations of last year. Credit conditions are very poor. Early in the season the price of feeders was relatively high, and general decline in both feeder and fat cattle prices as the season progressed discouraged operations. Many feeders were discouraged by the declining market and the uncertainty as to future market prices.

Although the movement of feeders through markets to Nebraska feedlots was considerably smaller this year, there was an increase in the proportion of cattle which were moved directly from the range area to the feeding sections. Furthermore, there was a considerable increase in the amount of locally produced cattle which were put on feed. On account of the lack of credit, it was necessary for many feeders to procure their feeder supplies at the smallest possible cash outlay, and in a number of instances farmers resorted to bartering.

There was an increase of about 5 percent in the number of cattle on feed for market in the Corn Belt States on January 1, 1933, over the number on January 1, 1932. The percentage increase was about the same in the areas east and west from the Mississippi river, but in the area east of the river this represents an increase following an increase in January, 1932 over 1931, while in the area west of the river the increase this year only partially offsets the decrease in January, 1932. The decrease of about 7 percent in the western states was due to the sharp decrease in Colorado which is usually the largest cattle feeding state in the western group.

Information as to the weight of cattle on feed and probable months of marketing shows that the proportion of heavy feeders weighing over 100 pounds was smaller this year than last and that the proportion of both medium weight and light weight, including calves, was larger than last year. The proportion to be marketed before April 1 was reported about the same as was reported a year ago, but considerably smaller than as reported two years ago.

While the shipments of stocker and feeder cattle from stockyards to corn belt states during the last six months of 1932 was 10 percent smaller than in 1931, reports from feeders as to the origin of the cattle on feed showed a sharp decrease in the proportion bought at stockyards and a marked increase in the proportion of locally produced cattle and some increase in the proportion brought in from outside points other than stockyards.

DEBATERS FACE A HEAVY SLATE

Many Grade and High School Students Have Excellent Attendance Records.

Carnival planning occupied both students and faculty members of Wayne high school last week, climaxing in a lively and well-attended affair in the gymnasium Friday evening.

W. A. Behl took his debaters to Sioux City last Thursday to debate East and Cathedral high schools. Ray Sala and Jeanne Wright met East high squad, upholding the affirmative and negative as well, and losing in the decision. Lucile Wright and William Studley met the Cathedral squad, with Milton Auker alternating with the first-named. Both affirmative and negative sides were given by the trio, with the Waynites winning the one debate, and the other being non-decision. These were not conference meets.

The debaters have a heavy schedule for this week, meeting Norfolk high here last Tuesday afternoon and evening, taking part in a triangular debate with Wakefield and Emerson at Emerson Thursday afternoon and evening, going to Fremont Friday to meet the local high school that afternoon, and on to Omaha in the evening to debate Central high school and remaining over-night to debate North high school next morning.

Wayne high graders went down to defeat Thursday when they played Hartington quintet, the visitors' first team winning 23 to 17, and second team carrying off the heavy end of a 10 to eight tally. Several of the ineligible players will be permitted to play the second semester, and will be back in the line-up when Wayne meets Hartington here this evening at 7 o'clock, both first and second teams participating.

Girls' sextet sang at the home of Mrs. Winifred Main Wednesday of last week, when Mrs. Main entertained Methodist Ladies' Aid society.

Junior Hi Happenings. Six junior high pupils scored perfect attendance for the entire first semester. Roberta Baker and Betty Blair in seventh grade, and Wilma Baker, Ray Bonowitz, Delores McNatt and Lois Thompson in eighth. These seventh graders with perfect records the past six weeks were Roberta Baker, Betty Blair, Helen Hughes, Estom McGarragh; eighth graders were Wilma Baker, Verona Hahlbeck, Delores McNatt, Marie Thies, Lois Thompson and Betty Wright. Sixth graders had an irregular attendance record.

A new cartoon project has been started by Miss Florence Peterson for her seventh grade art class, and she reports several very clever cartoons completed in connection with studies in current event class. Eighth grade geography students are reviewing their work on Asia, with Deween Rabe in charge of the division on India, Harold Young on Japan, Robert Peck on Arabia, Delores McNatt on Palestine, and Wilma Baker on China. Sixth graders are studying Early German history and John Harrington and William Seymour made an excellent model of mud hut as used by the primitive folk. Edwin Dawson also made an interesting model.

Miss Maude Curley is starting a new project on insurance and pupils will investigate the different kinds of life, fire, accident and liability insurance, making personal interviews to obtain the information.

News of Lower Grades. Two fifth graders attained a perfect attendance record for entire first semester, Patricia Brown and Kenneth Peterson, and these two, with Scotty Thompson, made a like record for the last six weeks.

Miss Eva Glinzsdal's fourth graders with perfect record for the semester were Robert Dunn, Mildred Franzen, Barbara Heine, Donald Powers, Ned Wade and Lila Westerhouse, and for the past six weeks, Wilma Heidenreich, Barbara Heine, Wilma Hogwood, Mildred Ann Mau, James Mellor, Donald Powers, Helen Seay, Hollis Simerman, Ned Wade, Lila Westerhouse, Harvey Meyer, Mildred Franzen and Bobby Dunn. Pupils are studying about personal cleanliness and how boys and girls of other lands keep themselves clean. Several names were added to the honor roll in arithmetic this week.

Miss Ruth Ross reports the following second graders with perfect attendance for first semester: Donald Beeks, Arthur Jensen, Kenneth Sevy and, Evelyn Sorenson. Those neither absent nor tardy the past six weeks are Bobby Chan and Doris Jean Rockwell.

Marjorie Ann Berg, Don Buckley, Carolin McClure and Norma Powers were present and on time during the past six weeks, and of the group, Carolin and Norma had perfect record for all semester, according to Miss Coila Potras. The wee kindergartners made a surprisingly good record, considering influenza epidemic and difficult weather. Ivan Beeks, Elizabeth Bonawitz, Bobby Davis, Jack Fitch, Joan Jones, Kathryn Thompson, Floyd Kingston, Donald Boyce and Darrell McPherron had a perfect record for all semester, and Marjorie Jean Swinney and Lois Zepelin had a mark-less record for the last six weeks. Patty Love's birthday was Saturday, and treats were distributed Friday in her honor.

Legionnaires Hold Bi-Monthly Session. Irwin Sears post, American Legion, met at the Court house Wednesday night of last week for business session. Plans for sending a member to the Legion Convention in Chicago next fall were discussed and J. M. Brishen was named in charge. George Anderson will provide the program for the February 1 meeting.

It is designed to throw the light of spiritual interpretation on the Bible. It is also, as its name implies, a textbook on Christian Science, enabling the careful reader and student of its pages to apply successfully the healing power of divine law in solving human ills. It has the unique distinction of being the only book, aside from the Bible, ever written, the reading of which has healed many persons of various types of disease and sickness. With the growth and spread of Christian Science, the textbook is finding its way into the hands of many physicians and clergymen, and is often quoted by them with apparent approval of its teachings in certain directions. The book also, is being read by many scholars, authors, and teachers, as is evidenced by numerous references to its teachings in current literature. Thus, this book, upon which Mrs. Eddy spent much time and thought, is still carrying forward the message of education and healing to hosts of men and women throughout the civilized world. Christian Science is God's child is good, and is only good. If aught presents itself to his consciousness that is not good, be it sin or sickness, he denies its existence, because God made all that is good and He made only good, and there is no other creator. Let us consider, then, the process of reasoning, or treatment, in the case of disease. We shall take Jesus' work as a model, when he was called to see and heal Peter's mother-in-law, who was ill with a great fever. It is not recorded that he felt her pulse, or her fevered brow, to detect the intensity of her sickness. The record says that he stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her. Of course this does not mean that he talked to the fever as to a person, but he challenged the claim of fever. He denied its reality; he rebuked the belief of fever entertained by the woman and those around her. Then please observe what happened immediately "she arose, and ministered unto them," thus indicating clearly that she no longer feared the disease, that she no longer believed that it had any power over her, and that she was free. As soon, then, as her consciousness was freed from the false beliefs of disease and weakness, she was well. There was no period of convalescence, but she immediately was up and about her regular duties. This proves the point that it is made in Christian Science, that man is never really sick. One suffers because of his fears and his false beliefs, and as soon as they are destroyed he is well. Is not this exactly what Jesus brought out when he said, "If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free?" Of course, the statement that man is never really sick is not meant to dispute that human beings do become ill and do require loving attention and healing ministrations. When Christian Science declares that man is never really sick, it refers to the perfect, spiritual man of God's creation—the man whose creation is spoken of in the first chapter of Genesis. The false sense of man, or the "mortal man" as he is sometimes called in Christian Science, is that which must be corrected and healed; and to that end, effort is being directed in Christian Science. This is clearly the point made by the apostle Paul when he counsels the early Christians to "put off . . . the old man, which is corrupt; . . . and that ye put on the new man, . . . created in righteousness and true holiness." Through proper study and understanding of God's perfect creation as recorded in the Bible, and spiritually interpreted in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Christian Scientists do believe that the ills and discords of this human existence can be largely overcome. This is surely in accord with the promises and experiences of Jesus of Nazareth and his disciples. The vigor of the Christian Science movement, and the many instances of physical healing under its practice, bear eloquent testimony that Christian Science is founded upon the "spiritual Rock" that is, Christ, spoken of by Paul in his letter to the Corinthians. Again, let us consider the case of Jairus' daughter, who was raised from the dead. When the father first sought Jesus' help, he stated that she was quite ill, but while they were coming to the house we read that she died, and upon arrival Jesus was met with the statement that she was dead. His only comment was to the father, to whom he said, "Fear not; believe only, and she shall be made whole." Then Jesus went into the house, and rebuked the belief of death, saying to the mourners, "The damsel is not dead, but sleepeth." He went then into the room where the child lay, and taking her by the hand, called, "Maid, arise," whereupon she arose straightway and is the author of good. In every direction, or as Mrs. Eddy expresses it in another way, "Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals." (Science and Health, p. 13). Through the application of this reasoning, many men and women are working out harmoniously the so-called-business problems of life. Let us consider this briefly, by taking the case of one out of employment, seeking a position. In accord with this Science, one might first declare and know that all of God's creation is designed to present an harmonious and perfect manifestation. In other words, all of God's ideas being, "very good" must cooperate harmoniously. Then one might reason: I want to do something useful and helpful, and there must be something useful and helpful for me to do. In such cases one must reason unselfishly even lovingly, as well as sensibly. Perhaps here, too, the element of fear enters prominently. One may be afraid that there is no opening for him; that his income, being stopped, his family will accordingly suffer. A very little reasoning, however, should dissipate the fear. My heavenly Father cares for me. I live, move, and have my being in Him, and there is nothing to fear. Having overcome the fear, one can then decide what he has to give, and then his task, instead of its being to get a position, becomes a search for an opportunity to give something. I heard recently of a man of mature years, being in search of a position. At every place to which he applied he was told he was too old. Then some one showed him how he was seeking to get, instead of to give, and at the next place he talked differently. He didn't ask for a job, but began to tell the man in charge what he had to give, and how willingly he was to give, and how valuable his services would be. He soon interested the employer and was given a trial. He then applied himself intelligently to give some of the qualities he had mentioned—promptness, intelligence, loyalty, honesty, patience, industry, and such like, until his employer soon saw that he had made himself so valuable that he had, in effect, created a permanent place for himself in the business activity and he was permitted to organize a

Here's one reason a farmer needs a telephone. Telephone Helps Save Buildings When fire broke out in the John Fallon barn, Harmony, quick use of telephone brought help to the scene in sufficient time to save the house and other buildings located near the barn. At the time of the fire only one person was home, but the telephone brought scores of neighbors and threshers from nearby to aid in subduing the flames. No one can tell you when you may need to get help at once to save property or life. Those who live in homes with telephones have the peace of mind that comes from knowing help is only a telephone call away. In everyday life, the telephone cuts expense, helps in buying and selling. Always it keeps you close to friends and relatives. NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

NEW BOOKS FOCUS INTEREST ON THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

New arrivals among fiction and biography volumes at the Wayne public library include: "The War Lady," Margaret Wildemere's romantic and unusual story of a mysterious masked singer who appeared among the troops at a popular road house and brought to minds of all the feminine and beautiful girl of before the war.

"Skeleton at the Feast," Carolyn Wells' new mystery, will interest all crime-followers who enjoy this prolific writer. A tragic New Year's party, climaxed with a threat conveyed by a bleached skeleton. Of course there's a murder, and it's all good reading.

"Microbe Hunters," by Paul De Kruif, tells the dramatic stories of great scientists who have discovered new worlds under the microscope. It will appeal to the scientific minded of most all ages.

"Camera Trails in Africa," by Martin Johnson, tells the experiences of this intrepid explorer and his wife in the wilds of British East Africa, and includes photographs taken by the author. Animal lovers, and those who enjoy adventure will want to read this.

"Wings of War," by Theodore MacFarland Knopfer, tells the United States' contributions to aircraft inventions, engineering and production during the World-war. It's primarily a book for men, but shouldn't be overlooked by air-minded boys.

"My Friend the Dog," by Albert Payson Terhune, is the gift of Robert Heyburn, and includes stories of wild animals and domesticated other animals told by that famous animal lover who gained boyland's interest by his "Lad."

Money Situation Discussion Given

In a letter written by C. H. Hendrickson, president of the Wayne County Tax Payers' League, U. S. Senator George W. Norris at Washington, D. C., the money situation is considered. The letter follows:

January 19, 1933.
Senator George W. Norris,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator:
It must be apparent to everyone that the currency has expanded. The obligations now in existence were generally incurred when a dollar was worth fifty cents. Today it is worth four hundred cents.

To have free and unlimited coinage of silver is as impracticable today as it was in 1890. That would simply make a few silver barons, billionaires and would not increase circulation just enough to be of any benefit whatever to the great majority of our people.

There are approximately nine billion dollars of farm mortgages. The Federal Reserve Bank has issued currency on government securities. The government should issue bonds to the extent of nine billion dollars drawing one-half of one percent interest, optional and due in fifty years. The government should place these bonds in the Federal Reserve Banks and direct them to issue nine billion dollars in currency on the security of these bonds. The Federal Reserve Banks without any further clerks, assistants, heads of bureaus or any kind, should loan this money to the land owners for the purpose of paying off existing mortgages. The land owners in turn should give the Federal Reserve Bank a mortgage for the full amount on this land at two and one-half percent interest, optional and due in fifty years, requiring no unnecessary red tape as to abstracts, etc. One-half of one percent of this should go to the government to pay off the interest on the bonds, which the Federal Reserve Banks should be permitted to retain for expenses, incidentals, and occasional losses, and two percent should go to the government in the way of paying off the principal. As the two and one-half percent is being paid annually to the Federal Reserve Banks, they shall return Federal Reserve notes to the extent of two percent and also give credit on the government bonds that they hold for a like amount.

These Federal Reserve notes should be made legal tender. This will put nine billion dollars of currency in circulation. The money barons in the East and the loan companies in this way will receive their money, and in this way the currency will be expanded, which was at the head of today. These money barons in the East having received their money will begin to loan money in various ways and to diverse enterprises, and in that way set in motion the factories that are now standing still.

In addition to that, an act should be passed that under no circumstances could the government of the United States issue bonds to be sold on the open market. The government should issue bonds when there is a deficit, but it has the power and the means to place these bonds in the Federal Reserve Banks throughout the country with directions to issue currency to the government on these bonds. If the money barons in the East consider these bonds of sufficient security to invest their money in, certainly the Federal Reserve Banks should have the power and the means to issue currency on the strength thereof. Every time the government makes a bond issue and offers them on the open market, the money barons in the East call in their money from all directions which contracts the currency and makes hard times! This has been the history of this country ever since the first bond issue. The only difference between a government bond and a government greenback is that one draws interest and the other one does not. The money barons in the East want the interest bearing greenbacks. We in the South, North and West, want the non-interest bearing greenbacks. They are all obligations of the government.

I wish you would give this matter serious consideration and write me your views on it.
Respectfully yours,
C. H. Hendrickson.

ONCE AGAIN HAIRY BUFFALOES ROAM NEBRASKA PLAINS

Not so long ago two Norfolks were heading northeastward and espied two buffaloes grazing high up to Hoskins, and local lore has it that they started homeward for their guns, bent on felling these wild remnants of Nebraska's early inhabitants which had come out of hiding. Be this true or no, a native American can't but feel a thrill when he sees Henry and George Langenberg's buffaloes grazing on the former's farm near Hoskins, for the ancestors of these stocky animals formed the roaring, powerful herds which once roamed our prairies and disputed their possession with the redskins.

The two buffaloes were brought from Beaver City two years ago and from them the Langenbergs hope to build up a generous herd. These are a sort of experiment and have excited much interest hereabouts, particularly since the arrival of a calf six months ago. The Langenbergs feed the animals alfalfa during the winter, and will turn them out to graze again when spring comes.

Partial Records Are Issued From School

applying God's power. He invited all who had troubles and burdens to come to him for healing; and a careful study of his teaching shows that he touched on all the human problems; Christian Science also offers, in its universal application, relief from every human discord.

One of the commonest complaints among men is of lack of friends, lack of family, lack of supply, lack of work, lack of home. The whole of lack is comprised in one lack; that is, lack of understanding of God. If God is all good—is Mind, Love, Soul, Spirit, Life—and if a man reflects God, with all that God is, he certainly can never entertain a sense of lack. A sense of lack indicates that mortal man is failing; or refusing to recognize God's omnipresence, and his remedy is to open his eyes—open his consciousness to a recognition of God. In the Old Testament it is related that Elisha, the man of God, was once the object of some king's wrath, and the king sent an army and surrounded the city in which the prophet dwelt. When the prophet's servant went forth in the morning, and saw this hostile force, he was greatly frightened, and wanted to know what could be done. Elisha told him to fear not; that they had God, and his protection was assured. Then he prayed that the young man's eyes might be opened. Then something happened to the young man. He was no longer afraid. He beheld the angelic host, and instead of being made a prisoner the prophet took all the invaders prisoner.

So in what is called the practice or use of Christian Science one frequently, by reason of improved understanding, sees joy and harmony come out of a situation that appears to be fraught with loss and destruction. I knew a Christian Scientist some years ago who was holding an elective position in a Middle Western city. Having been so placed for years, he gradually, according to the human tendency, looked upon the position as his source of supply. However, in a recurring election he was defeated. Then his friends began to sympathize with him, and bemoan his untimely loss, as friends sometimes do, but he, instead of accepting the situation as defeat, began truly to consider his relationship to God. Using his knowledge of Christian Science in a practical way, he saw that God had not changed; that God had not taken anything from him, and that it was his privilege and opportunity to prove that he understood something of God's provision for His creatures. He cheerfully and happily applied himself to the work that seemed available at the moment, declaring that his heavenly Father would make proper provision for him as he opened his eyes and was less than a year there came to him an opening in an entirely different activity from a source that he had never humanly considered, where he has been abundantly blessed during the intervening years.

If one believes that he can be without God's care, then he may easily fall into the error of belief in lack; but, on the other hand, suppose one is firmly and understandingly convinced that God is always caring for him; he will never even think in terms of lack. If one position seems no longer to be for him, he will not fear that he is out of work. He will rather reason that he has another position looking for him and needing him, and he must be alert and active to meet that need. Or, if one source of supply seems closed to him, he will not be fearful, but assume that God is awakening him to larger things, and he must be alert to see what is calling him. Or, if some particular companionship seems to be lacking, one will not stop to grieve, but know that in the infinite heart of divine Love are countless manifestations of helpful companionship, and he will heed the call to see what Love would have him do.

So, one may run the gamut of human experiences, and always find in his consciousness of God's ever-present goodness an opportunity for blessing; rather than for unhappiness; proving Paul's statement, "All things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."

Conclusion.
But some may complain of the prospect and program of Christian

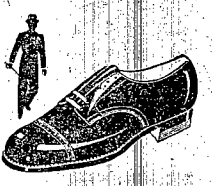

Science, and say such results and such conditions as you speak of are ideal. Certainly they are ideal; they are the ideal pictured by prophets, and made practical and effective in Jesus' ministry; and he promised that we could do no other than his. His call to mankind was to be perfect. Shall all enlist under his banner? Shall all really be Christians? Or shall we be content with something less than the perfect, something that is not of God? As one looks about him, he sees enlightened progress on every hand. Men are trying for better things. Our great nation is trying to do away with drink. Our president has called on all the people to make law enforcement effective. The nations of the world, have declared there shall be no more war. Are not all these mighty efforts significant of idealism in the world consciousness? Is it not the heaven of Christ, Truth, that will eventually leaven the whole lump of human consciousness? Shall those who boldly call themselves Christians be found in the rear, rather than in the vanguard of advancing humanity?

Nearly two thousand years ago the great Master and Teacher sent forth his little band of faithful followers to preach the good news, to heal the sick, to raise the dead, and to them he gave this marvelous promise which is our heritage: "Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall by any means hurt you."

Shall we be afraid to attempt to go forth and conquer in his name? But some may say, "The world is not ready for the ideal, the perfect." Has the world even been ready for any great movement, or for any great leader? Human consciousness is always saying, "Wait, go slowly." But Truth cannot wait. Its demands are imperative and they who hear its call must be obedient or they shall be deemed unworthy.

It is related that one came to Jesus saying, "Lord, I will follow thee, but let me first bid them farewell, which are at home at my house." Then Jesus said to him, "No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God. There can be no halfway service of God. It is the teaching of the Master, again, that we need to remember, 'No man can serve two masters. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.'"

Christian Science is calling for the highest and best that is in men—is calling for progress and unfoldment. As the individual is aroused to better thinking, better living, better health, better morals, he gradually sees more of God's presence and power and expects a more practical manifestation of this power, until he can, indeed realize something of Mrs. Eddy's vision when she says, "Science and Health, p. 557," "Divine Science rolls back the clouds of error with the light of Truth, and lifts the curtain on man as never born and as never dying, but as coexistent with his creator."

PISCES FOLK ARE MOST CHANGEABLE AND EVER ROMANTIC

(February 20 to March 21)
Were you born under the sign of Pisces? Then yours is the twelfth sign of the Zodiac, and your symbol is two fishes swimming in opposite directions, representing dissension. Poets, artists, dreamers belong in this group; you are romantic, usually absent-minded, usually talkative, but with remarkable mental equipment and intuition. Your sign is ruled by Neptune, the shadow planet, which inspires or disorganizes. Companionship is essential to you; you are inclined to be too generous, to crave the role of martyr and to assume unasked responsibility. Probably a little stubborn. If you will only learn to swim in one direction, Jupiter will bring you honor, glory and success. Michael, Angelo and George Washington were Pisces people.

The "Something New" In Vegetables Which Efficient Housekeepers Seek

In planning winter menus, it is usually difficult to find a sufficient variety of protective foods, the choice of inexpensive vegetables being limited to cabbage, tomatoes, some greens and roots. Of the roots, carrots and sweet potatoes are richest in protective values, but turnips are also a good source of vitamins B and C. Next to potatoes we eat more cabbage than any other vegetable, which is fortunate because cabbage gives the needed balance to bread, meat and potatoes, being classed with tomatoes, oranges and spinach, all disease-resisting foods. The cabbage grows in some form in almost every part of the world and has been an important food since beginning of history. Members of the cabbage family are our common cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, kale, red cabbage, kohlrabi, and many others. The cabbage loses its vitamin value by over-cooking. For best results, it should be cooked briefly in an uncovered vessel, and all the cooking liquid used.

The common "spud" of the army mess kit appears on the American table more often than any other vegetable, perhaps because there are so many attractive ways to serve it. The so-called Irish potato is not Irish, but was found in South America by the Spaniards who followed Columbus, and was given a name of Spanish origin. Ireland adopted the potato and the good folks made it their principal crop, but in the 1840's, a blight destroyed the potato crop and a general famine resulted, so the vegetable was associated with Ireland henceforth.

The sweet potato, strangely enough, isn't a relative of the Irish vegetable, but is a native of tropical America and was supposedly discovered by Columbus himself. It's a kin to the morning glory while the Irish potato belongs to the nightshade family. Nutritionists recommend baking, boiling or steaming as the best way to retain most food values.

This week's recipes are for vegetable dishes which are a bit out of the ordinary, and which bring the needed vitamins to the everyday menu.

Ham Smothered with Sweet-potatoes.

1 slice ham
3 sweetpotatoes, sliced
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup hot water
Brown the ham lightly on both sides and place in a baking dish. Spread the sliced sweetpotatoes over the ham and sprinkle with the sugar. Add the hot water to the drippings, pour over the ham and potatoes, cover, and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until the ham is tender. Baste the potatoes occasionally with the gravy, toward the last remove the lid, and let the top brown.

Sweetpotato Pie.

1 1-2 cups boiled, riced sweet-potatoes
2 cups milk
1-4 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon ginger
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2 tablespoons butter or other fat
Pastry
Heat the sweetpotatoes, milk, sugar, ginger and salt in a double boiler. Pour some of the hot mixture into the beaten eggs, mix all together, and add the butter or other fat. Pour the hot filling into a deep baked pastry shell, and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 30 minutes, or until the filling sets.

Fried Onions and Apples.

3 tablespoons fat
1 quart sliced tart apples
1 pint sliced onions
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
Melt the fat in a heavy frying pan, add the apples and onions, cover, cook slowly until nearly tender, and stir frequently to prevent scorching. Remove the cover, sprinkle the salt and sugar over the apples and onions, and continue the cooking until they are lightly browned. Serve at once.

Swedish Cabbage.

1 medium-sized head cabbage, (red or green)
2 or 3 apples
Water
1-2 cup vinegar
2-3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter or other fat
Salt
Pepper

RECIPES

Remember the huge brown cookie crocks that used to stand in the pantry at home? The crispy sugar cookies, the spicy molasses cookies, the crunchy nut and fruit drops—all waiting for eager hands to seize for the between meal "snack." A revival of this excellent institution—the cookie jar—is a splendid idea, and as a start here are some delicious cookies—easy to make and very inexpensive. Use them for quick desserts with fruit sauce, for luncheon or for tea—everybody likes cookies and here are favorites for all.

Date Bars.

3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup pastry flour
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat eggs, add sugar and beat again. Add balance of ingredients and pour in a shallow greased pan. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Cut in bars and roll in confectioner's sugar.

Suzette Sauce.

1 cup 1-2 cup butter; heat in 1 cup creamer sugar gradually. Add juice and grated rind of 2 oranges, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and some sherry flavoring.
Heat two tablespoons of this mixture, put a pancake into it and cover with the sauce. Then fold the cake and serve piping hot.

A Variation of Crepe Pancakes.

Make the batter as above. Fry each cake in one of the very small light frying pans. Grease the pan well with butter and pour in only enough batter to cover the bottom of the pan. Bake until the surface is covered with broken bubbles.

Chocolate Brownies.

1-3 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 squares melted chocolate
1-2 teaspoon salt
3-4 cup flour
1-4 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 cup nuts
Cream butter and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Pour into pan lined with wax paper. The cookie batter should be two-thirds inch thick when spread on pan. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Cut in squares.

1-2 cup fat
1 cup sugar
1-2 cup molasses
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
3-1-4 cup flour
2-3 cup raisins
1 cup milk
Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients, mix lightly. Drop portions from end of spoon on greased baking sheets. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Ginger Nut Squares.

1-3 cup shortening
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 cup molasses
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1-2 cups flour
1 teaspoon ginger
1-2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup nut meats
Cream shortening, add sugar. Add molasses and beaten egg and milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients and combine with first mixture. Add nuts, broken in small pieces. Spread mixture in shallow pan lined with greased paper. Bake about 30 minutes in moderate oven. Turn out of pan, remove paper and cut in squares.

Almond Ice Box Cookies.

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks and 2 whole eggs
beaten together
1-2 pound ground almonds
2 cups flour

FROSTY MORNINGS CALL FOR PANCAKES

Pancakes and winter are a good combination—nearly everyone enjoys these delectable cakes—with their crispy brown bathed in syrup and drowned in butter. But it is unnecessary to serve them only at breakfast—there are other meals that welcome them, as well, as part of the menu.
For the business woman who must prepare breakfast in a hurry or for the housewife who has not time to make her own batter, the prepared pancake flours are a great help. But did you know that by adding an egg to the milk the usual recipe calls for you have a cake of much finer quality? A bit is added to the cost—but it's worth it! There are wheat cakes, whole wheat cakes, and buckwheat cakes.

Sour Milk Pancakes.

2-1-2 cups flour, well sifted
3-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon soda
Sift above ingredients with the flour.
Add 2 cups sour milk and 1 well beaten egg

Beat mixture smooth.

Add 1 tablespoon melted shortening and beat.
This batter may be made thinner or thicker as desired to suit individual tastes.
Serve these cakes with syrup, honey, jelly, or—if you want a real thrill—with a thin cranberry sauce. When you serve them with the sauce make the cakes thinner than usual. The Scandinavian pancake is made with a much thinner batter and the cakes are made much larger.

Crepes Suzette.

1 cup sifted flour

1-2 teaspoon salt.

2 tablespoons powdered sugar
Sift with flour.
Add 1 cup milk.
2 whole eggs
Beat with a rotary beater until smooth, then stir in 1 tablespoon melted butter. The batter should be about the consistency of thick cream. Bake on a medium hot griddle. Reheat at the table and serve with Suzette sauce.

Waiter (pleasantly): "You sometimes find a pearl in an oyster stew."
Diner: "I'm looking for oysters."
