DR. KARL ADAMS VISITS CAMPUS

Educator Inspects College As Representative Of N. C. Association.

Dr. Karl Adams, president of the state teachers college at De Kalb, Ill., made a visit of inspection to the college campus Tuesday as representative of the North Central Association. He expressed himself as pleased with the school and was very complimentary about the building, outlay and equipment. Dr. Adams inspected other teachers colleges of the state during his tour.

College officials are assembling data to be used when Dr. U. S. Chinn appears before the legislative finance committee for the usual hearing. It is customary for representatives of all expanding agencies when the committee is considering appropriations. Dr. Conn reports that he bills of special importance pertaining to the teachers colleges have been introduced in state legislature.

Prof. Kenneth N. Parke of the college faculty has been engaged in follow-up work the past two weeks, and visited schools in Thurston, Pender and Tekamah vicinities this week. All teacher-training institutions engage in this follow-up work in order to have a contact between the institutions and its graduates who are now in the teaching field. In this way, officials are able to gauge how graduates are filling their positions and just what superintendents and school authorities require in their staffs.

Rev. G. B. Dunning of Neligh, was chapel speaker Wednesday morning, and built his talk around the 72nd Psalm and its interpretation. Special two-piano music was offered by four of Prof. A. G. Carlson's students, Mrs. Doris Childs, Miss Helen Marie Davis, Miss Irma Mayer and Miss Frances Peterson, who played "Poet and Peasant Overture."

An all-college frolic is being planned for Friday evening in the gymnasium. The social committee is made up of Mrs. Ildik Holmes, Miss Amy Chateaufort, W. Ray Hickman, Miss Louise Wendt, Miss Esther Dewitz and Miss Mildred Snyder.

International Relations club and Wayne Business and Professional Women's club will hold a joint dinner at Hotel Stratton Monday evening. Miss Anna Geisler and Hugh Linn are making arrangements and William Weiershauer of near Concord, will speak on the present political and economic situation in Germany.

Second presentation of "The Alarm Clock," Alpha Psi Omega play, was given at Gay theatre on Wednesday evening.

The Y. W. C. A. held its usual meeting last evening.

Women students wishing to reserve dormitory rooms for the summer term are asked to get in touch with Mrs. J. G. Miller at once.

Dinner for Athletes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith entertained basketball men of the college at dinner Friday evening, following the game with Omaha. Coach and Mrs. W. R. Hickman were also guests, and Miss Enid Conklyn assisted Mrs. Smith in serving. The basketball boys who were guests are the following: Clifford Decker, Kenneth Paul, Lawrence Manning, Harlow Baker, Lee Weidum, Roger Evans, Warren Lamson, William Kunkle, Robert Brandt, George Larson, Kenneth Dowling, Daniel Hungertord, Elmer Peters.

FILLMORE AMONG COUNTIES URGING TAX REDUCTIONS

FILLMORE county taxpayers had a meeting at Geneva recently to discuss public costs and to figure out ways to retrench without seriously crippling public institutions and public service. Questions similar to those considered by Wayne county taxpayers were thrashed over. The proposition to remove all telephones but one from the court house met opposition on the ground of inconvenience and loss to citizens living at a distance from the county seat. Protest against combining offices of the county clerk and clerk of the district court was based on the ground that the district court is an appellate court. The educational system as society's best investment was stoutly defended, though the proposition to cut high school tuition fifty per cent was adopted. Laws were favored to reduce court costs. The importance of curtailing expenses incident to operating legal machinery is generally recognized. Taxpayers' meetings are valuable in the exchange of views, the clearing of misunderstandings, and through discussion, the drawing of conclusions kept free from damaging radicalism.

EX-SERVICE MEN BANQUET SOON

State And District Officers Will Speak On Program This Month.

About 125 ex-service men will attend the Wayne county banquet and program to be held at Hotel Stratton Monday evening, February 13, at 7 o'clock. State and district officers will be present to take part on the after-dinner program.

As arranged by County Commander John L. Laurie of Carroll, and Wayne Commander C. A. Orr, Department Commander Robert Armstrong of Auburn, Deputy Adjutant H. H. Dudley of Lincoln, and District Commander Harry Kountz of West Point, will give the principal addresses. Dr. Peebles of Randolph, district vice commander, will be toastmaster. The German band from Wakefield, directed by Prof. Eric Ecklund, will play, and Jean Boyd of Winside, will sing solos.

Proposals of the National Economy League will be considered by Commander Armstrong in his address. The Legion is opposed to the league's plan of cutting appropriations which are helping furnish necessities for many ex-service men of small means and of continuing men of prominence and wealth who are drawing compensation. The League also favors cancellation of war debts and this the Legion heads oppose.

All ex-service men, whether belonging to the Legion or not, are invited to attend the banquet and hear the speakers.

Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Dudley will address the Randolph Lions club at noon the day they come here.

Debaters Enter Midland Tourney

Squad Makes Good Showing In Week-End Debates At Fremont And Omaha.

W. A. Behl and his two debate squads leave for Fremont this afternoon to take part in the Midland college invitation tournament which will take place there this afternoon, Friday and Saturday. Richard Moses and Lucile Wright comprise the "A" team which defeated both negative and affirmative of the state question, and William Studley and Raymond Sala make up the "B" team. Teams are expected from about 40 high schools.

Last week-end the coach took his squad to Fremont and Omaha for a heavy schedule. Lucile Wright and Richard Moses made up the affirmative team, with William Studley and Raymond Sala on the negative, and Milton Auker accompanying the teams as alternate. Both teams participated in the Friday afternoon debate at Fremont which was no-decision, and that evening the Wayneites went on to Omaha to debate Central high school. Affirmative team was awarded decision by Mr. Keenan, debate coach at Creighton prep school who served as critic, and the negative team took part in no-decision debate. Saturday morning both teams debated North high school, champions of National Forensic League last year, and the affirmative was given decision by Father Ryan, debate coach at Creighton university, with the negative team losing the decision. Dr. Pollock, head of political science department at Omaha Municipal university, served as critic.

PUBLIC AUCTIONS DRAW BIG CROWDS DESPITE MARKS

PUBLIC auctions of farm implements and live stock have been fewer than in former years, but those held have attracted large crowds, and prices have been better than one would expect at a time of unusually low market values. With a smaller number of sales, the demand for offerings is strengthened. The Wayne pavilion sales have been largely attended, and there have been plenty of lively bidders for everything brought into the ring. The pavilion sale next Saturday promises to be a good one, and undoubtedly a big lot of bidders will be on hand. It is hoped success will justify holding a pavilion sale each Saturday during the remainder of the winter.

Kiwianians Hear Musical Program

RADIO HOOKUP ENABLES WAYNE TO REACH FAR

Norfolk Plans For Program On Sunday Next Week To Welcome City.

FEATURES ARE ARRANGED

The Wayne Herald has completed arrangements for broadcasting by remote control from radio station WJAG, Norfolk, beginning on Monday, February 13. The programs, scheduled for each day extending Sunday from 8:30 until 9:30 a. m., will be transmitted from the studio in the Herald building by remote control to Norfolk where they will be broadcast. The Herald now carries news and advertising information to about 15,000 people in more than 3,000 homes. With addition of radio broadcasting these messages will reach 330,000 people in twenty-four Nebraska and six South Dakota counties. The Herald feels that the newspaper and radio combined will give Wayne and vicinity modern service that cannot be excelled. The Herald is the first Nebraska weekly to establish radio connection, and so far as is known this is the first such service offered in the country.

Station WJAG plans a special "Wayne Salute" Sunday afternoon, February 12, the day before broadcasting starts from the Herald. Many from Wayne will go to Norfolk that afternoon to broadcast a program of short talks and music. Several from Norfolk will extend greetings to Wayne. Every effort is being made to prepare a program of special interest for the "salute."

Preparations are under way to arrange the Wayne Herald studio and to make the hook-up for broadcasting from Wayne beginning February 13. Features of music and speaking that will be of interest to all listeners are being arranged. Market reports, latest news of the day from the vicinity, correct time and weather reports will be given. The Herald plans occasional features in German, Swedish and Welsh. The Herald will welcome suggestions, for the aim is to make the hour of interest to all listeners. E. T. Harper, representative of the Norfolk station, is in Wayne assisting the Herald with arrangements for the broadcast.

In a survey made this December to determine favorite radio stations of Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, WJAG, Norfolk, placed first with 68 percent naming it as first choice. WOW, Omaha, which was second, was favorite with a 13 percent following. The number listening to other stations ranged from 4 down to 1 percent.

Faculty To Hear Lincoln Speaker

College Students Present Musical Program At Training School.

Dean H. H. Fahn of college high school has been notified that a representative from the state department of public instruction at Lincoln will be here Thursday and Friday, February 23 and 24, to explain the Knighthood of Youth plan now in use in many rural city schools. The faculty will complete character education study this month and will then take up the various plans for character development now in use.

At last week's meeting of the character education group, place of the teacher in character development was discussed. It was stressed that drab, indifferent men and women should never think of teaching as a life job, that "sour-faced" teachers should not attempt to teach morals lest they create a distaste for such, that the main duty of the teacher is to develop personality rather than teach subject matter, and that one of the most desired traits of a successful teacher is "social acceptability."

Trend of Nations ATTENTION is called to the findings of archaeologists by digging into Persia's ancient past and disclosing achievements in handicraft and artistry that would be a credit to the present period. The great works of skill accomplished by Persian people lay buried for centuries before modern archaeologists proceeded to uncover the secrets. The fall of every ancient civilization followed too complete surrender to Mammon—too little consideration of moral and spiritual values. A nation grew rich and powerful, gained large material possessions and attained wonders in fashioning wood and stone, but success brought vainglory, then indifference to imperishable qualities, then weakness and ruin.

But for a halt in wasteful habits, a checking of insatiable thirst for costly gaiety, whether would any civilization be found drifting? But we have been checked, hamstrung and lambasted. Late trials would seem to have consecrated society to other purposes than mere worship of wealth, leading to reconstruction, on a higher and more enduring plane.

Touching possibilities along this line, the Christian Science Monitor says among other things:

"Shall it be said of the twentieth century that her inventors were greater than her idealists? That her social and moral standards failed to keep pace with her mechanicians? That a too-greedy profit-taking conspired to her undoing? Or shall it be said that, sobered by a world-wide lesson on the futility of war and greed and national aggrandizement, inspired by evidences of a new mental freedom which demonstrated how shackles of limitation might be broken by right thinking—these people lived to see a world at peace; commercial adjustments made equitable; supply and demand balanced, and a reign of justice bringing security to all mankind."

"Wildcat" Currency CORRESPONDENCE between an Indianapolis man and a Tekamah, Neb., banker as published in the Burt County Herald, is a forceful reminder of the kind of banking done seventy-five and more years ago. In that early day it seems the Tekamah bank was operated as a private enterprise, and was permitted to issue what came to be known as "wildcat" currency. The Indianapolis correspondent writes that he has in his possession a bank note issued by a Tekamah bank in 1857. Though now worthless as medium of exchange, the present Tekamah banker considered it of sufficient value as a souvenir to redeem it at face quotation which he did. The Tekamah Herald explains that the pioneer bank ran for only a few years and during its brief career issued approximately $10,000 worth of its own currency. As contrasted with 1857, banking has made long forward strides. But the banking system is facing new development, according to the Glass bill now before congress. All lines of business, including banking, find need of adjustment to changed conditions and new demands.

We are disturbed by reports of a prolonged spell of bad weather in California, with an unprecedented snowfall and an unusual shock to the nervous system of the southwest. In this country cold elements bearing generous contributions of snow are perfectly regular, and do not in the least deflate our assets or do violence to our reputation. It is different in California where the weather is a leading talking point in selling real estate or other property. Thus, an ugly stretch of weather out there proves a handicap which requires a lot of mind-wearing explanatory talk to overcome.

End of the time for introducing bills in the house came Monday, and the total of new measures is reported to have fallen twenty short of the average in ten previous sessions. This will be accepted as an encouraging sign. Now if the members will settle down to consideration of the business piled up before them, they can finish early, and perhaps leave a record of more good than harm. This would be an outstanding session if the legislature would repeal a lot of useless or obsolete laws which have cluttered up the statutes for many years.

Confidence in the Roosevelt administration will grow stronger as assurance is given of sound leadership in his cabinet. Senator Glass as secretary of the treasury, now reported, lends much hope. Owen D. Young who is said to have refused to be considered for secretary of state, but may yet be persuaded, would add strength and inspire confidence. Wise choice of a cabinet inet will prove vital to the administration, and this fact is doubtless in the mind of the president-elect.

A Wayne woman who owned a fine, well behaved Persian cat found the animal dead as the result of a dose of poison. The deadly poison might have been intended for rats, but, anyway, the valuable cat fell prey to it. Accidental or intentional, the loss is severely felt. Utmost care should be taken to keep poison safely away from pet animals many of which are very useful and all of which deserve a better fate.

Some persons say they are admirers of a president on the start, but cool off before the close. We feel just the other way. We are never enthusiastic over a chief executive until he gets into the harness and begins to sweat over public problems and tries to meet a multiplicity of impossible demands. Then he needs one's sympathy and support.

Town and country are so closely knitted together that if one suffers, the other suffers. The town's anxiety for better markets for farm products is quite as strong as that of the man on the farm. Never was there greater proof of the interdependence of different communities.

A fellow's face beamed for a moment—a smile on his lips and a twinkle in his eyes—and then he remembered that he had a lot of earthly burdens and he quickly lapsed back into accustomed gloom.

We understand a federal officer has been in Wayne lately to see if he could find "bad" money in circulation. We are wondering if he could find very liberal circulation of any kind.

It is easy to convince anyone that economic conditions are seriously out of joint, and it is not difficult to nail main responsibility on the war, but it is a tough problem to find remedies.

Farm Mortgages. Omaha Journal Stockman: The great amount of publicity given to the farm mortgage foreclosure situation in the Middle West is producing results, some favorable and others not so good. Most of the large insurance companies have tentatively agreed to a suspension of foreclosures pending legislative action. In the meantime, however, private loaning agencies have practically ceased to function and the farmer in need of money is virtually compelled to go to a government agency for it. Competition has been destroyed.

Inflation Of Currency. Omaha Journal Stockman: Judging from the number of bills that have been introduced in congress providing for inflation of our currency, there is considerable sentiment in favor of such a policy. We all realize only too well what deflation has done for the country and it seems logical to believe that inflation would tend to even matters up.

The great danger is that when inflation once begins there seems to be no place to stop. We had an example of this in the South during the Civil War and more recently over in Germany. Inflation of currency undoubtedly has a temporary stimulating effect on business and industry but it has always ended in disaster. "Undoubtedly the greatest difficulty in any plan of currency inflation," says the Guaranty Trust company's review, "lies in the fact that there can be no such thing as controlled inflation. In all the history of the world it has never failed to get beyond control."

"Many suggestions for the creation of more credit and more currency are being offered without any apparent study or grasp of the situation as these proposals might apply to it. There is more credit available today than ever before in our history and the outstanding currency is at its height—nearly a billion dollars more than at the peak of our boom period in 1929."

Flying Red Dust. Lincoln Journal: Falls City awakened the other morning to find a fine coating of red dust covering everything. During the night a strong wind had blown from the direction of southwestern Kansas and northwestern Oklahoma and the presumption was that this dust had come with the wind. The phenomenon is unusual but not heretofore unknown. It will be recalled that a light covering of this dust was sprinkled over Lincoln that afternoon nearly twenty years ago when a tornado ripped a path thru Omaha and other southeastern Nebraska towns. Red dust, lifted from the soil of Oklahoma by a storm, carried northward in swirling clouds was dropped in colorful patches here and there.

And that reminds the Falls City Journal of how the soil of the famous Nebraska loess region was formed. The winds of centuries carried dust from Iowa and Missouri across the meandering river and deposited it on the rocky hills that formed banks for the stream. It was deposited in thin layers, a little at a time until in our day the soil is found in places to a depth of 100 feet, a soil that seems to have a perpendicular grain into which apple tree roots burrow deeply and find sustenance and flavor for the finest fruit that grows. Over the river, in the loess region, it is claimed a great basin of still air predominated and into this basin, the dust settled and formed a rich soil famous for its food producing qualities. That accounts for the irregular contour of the region, that soil being found in places as far as thirty miles or more from the river. There is some of it found in the Iowa and Missouri side, but the major area is in Kansas and Nebraska.

PRIDE. Too much pride may lead to a fall, but too little pride—the worthy kind that makes a fellow hold his head up and face ill fortune with resolution—is a serious handicap. One's soul may sink when he thinks he is not doing so well as he ought to do or so well as the other fellow is doing, whereas he does not know his neighbors' struggles and is unable to make fair comparisons. He knows he is having tough sledding, and he comes to believe he has been made the victim of fate's special wrath. He imagines he has more enemies than friends, more spiteful opposition than friendly support, but he counts frowns and overlooks smiles, notices the bitter and disregards the sweet. Thus, emphasizing the bad and blinded to the good, his spirits droop and he feels like slumping society and surrendering to perpetual gloom. Essential pride vanishes. He is mistaken in thinking there are more prickly thorns than sweet-scented blossoms, mistaken in believing neighbors are void of friendly interest. He must put more emphasis on favor and less on untoward luck to inspire courage and fortify the future. Let us arouse and maintain the needed pride which sturdy antecedents bequeathed.

Flannery Murder Trial Under Way

Witnesses Tell Of Slaying Of D. Paul Lowery Near Pierce Last August.

The trial of William O. Flannery of Milwaukee, Wis., charged with slaying of D. Paul Lowery, Long Pine athletic coach, on August 5, entered its third day Wednesday, and indications are that the case will not be completed before end of week. Allen and Frank Steady and Sheriff Ed Schwartz, witnesses of the fatal shooting, were on the witness stand Tuesday, and told their stories.

Mrs. Ed Smith of Chambers, and Ernest Lowery of O'Neill, sister and brother of the slain man, are attending the trial, and many friends of young Lowery from Chambers and O'Neill have come to the courtroom regularly. The defendant's wife, son, father and brother are with him. The largest crowd ever to witness a Pierce county trial jammed the courtroom Tuesday.

Young Lowery was a Wayne student.

Poultry Meeting Planned In State

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 1 Crops-poultry days are opening in five northeastern counties this week. They are expected to attract hundreds of farmers.

The meetings are being held in Dodge county, Burt county, Colfax county, Holt county and Nance county. The latter meeting comes on Friday. The sessions are sponsored by the Nebraska college of agriculture extension service and local farm bureaus. In all of the northeastern Nebraska counties, extension agents are arranging the programs.

Discussions about the poultry industry are expected to especially interest the northeastern Nebraska people since it is about time for the starting of hatching chicks for the coming year. In addition the farmers gathering for the meeting will talk over their crops problems, dealing with the planting of various crops for the coming year.

AHEAD. "America can move forward to a new system, but she cannot move back to 'recovery' under the present price system," says a writer in discussing technocracy. This reminds us that we cannot set ourselves back thirty or forty years in equipment and methods without further paralyzing industry and further deflating buying power. Junk the automobiles and radios and additional millions would be without employment, besides sacrificing many individual investments. Habits that have developed for a quarter of a century to lend facility and convenience and to make life richer cannot be entirely changed. We would say that we cannot recover by demolishing everything accomplished, that in necessary retrenchment we must preserve ground gained as far as possible, and make restoration to a better order more easily accomplished. While modifying habits to meet the depression, we must do our utmost to extend employment and thus increase demand with better prices for farm products. The deplorable condition right now is the low price level in the field of agriculture, but instead of wrecking the conveniences which the farmer has gained, the effort should be directed to stimulate markets and maintain standards which have made us more nearly worth while.

Health Condition In State Better

Lincoln, Feb. 1—Dr. P. H. Bartholomew, state health director, today said Nebraska's health showed a distinct upward trend during January.

The number of cases of influenza, which had gone over the 1,000 mark in December, were cut to 627 cases. Chicken pox and diphtheria also dropped off substantially as did scarlet fever.

Tuberculosis showed an increase in cases reported, from four to seventeen, smallpox went up from eleven to four cases.

With the exception of influenza, the prevalence of most diseases was about the same as in January, 1932. In January a year ago, fifty-nine cases of influenza were reported.

World Events

The Yorkshire tin plant in Ohio which for several months has been working on a 75 percent production basis, will operate at maximum capacity, starting Wednesday.

The first prediction by a democratic leader that the next congress will approve some sort of currency inflation ushered the house coinage committee Wednesday into a detailed study of proposals to achieve expansion through the monetization of silver.

A record breaking number of sales are being made on the floor of the coliseum, scene of the national automobile show, the Chicago Automobile Trade association which compiles daily sales reports, announced 512 cars having been sold on the floor the first three days of the show.

R. G. Dun and Company, in its weekly review of business conditions in the Chicago business district, said buying had been greatly stimulated by an unexpectedly good attendance at the automobile show, new gains in steel, and preparations for the interstate merchants council which opens February 6.

Old campaign pledges recoiled on Chancellor Adolf Hitler Wednesday from the ranks of his own inspired following while he tried to win the moderate Centrists. Threatening to embarrass these negotiations to secure the necessary votes for a majority in the reichstag were demands for suppression of the communists' restoration of disabled war veterans' relief and other echoes of National Socialist campaigns.

Japan has withdrawn some of its objections to the League of Nations program for conciliation of the dispute with China, but the government is not too sanguine that its new terms will be acceptable to the league. If they are not Japan will seriously consider withdrawal from the society of nations, a foreign office spokesman said, leaving it to survive if it can without this country's participation. "But if it does survive," said the spokesman, "it will be a greatly changed organization."

Floyd Bollen, new member of the Nebraska railway commission at Lincoln Tuesday announced he had instructed Edwin Vail, commission counsel, to take steps seeking to remove a federal injunction which prevents the commission from interfering with rates of the North-west Bell Telephone company, according to the Associated Press.

Vail said it would be a month before any action could be taken in federal court, as factual material would have to be prepared, but said he was at work on the first move for a reduction in telephone rates of the larger companies in Nebraska.

Whatever the fate of farm relief measures in this crowded short session of congress, a broad program aimed at improving farm credit and mortgage conditions as well as raising commodity prices now is on the move on capitol hill, Emergency measures to provide relief for farmers faced with spring mortgage payments and no means of meeting them were studied seriously Wednesday by the senate banking subcommittee, which planned to hear testimony from various farm organizations and also the treasury department. In the senate agriculture committee hearings continued on the domestic allotment bill passed by the house and designed to raise the prices of seven selected farm products by taxing the miller, packer or other processor to pay a bounty to the farmer.

Survey Is Made Of State's Jobless

Lincoln, Neb. The steps being taken in Nebraska to assist its thousands of jobless are told in a graphic way by a survey in which county clerks participated.

County Clerk C. L. Holland, of Part county, reports $1,692 spent for direct relief in 1930, $9,398 in 1931, and for 11 months in 1932, $9,851. Mothers' pensions used up $1,965 in the first 11 months of 1932 and soldiers relief, $390. About 102 families and 367 persons were supported in 1932 in the county which has 13,000 population.

County Clerk H. H. Duffey, of Brown county, believes aid age pensions would be the best way to take care of relief. Direct relief in Brown county in 1930 totaled $5,074; in 1931, $7,777; for eleven months in 1932, $5,446. From 20 and 50 families in the county of 5,700 population get relief.

Boyd county will be unable to care of its needy much longer. County Clerk C. J. Tomek reports relief expenditures for 1930 were $3,538; 1931 $4,225; up to December 1, 1932, $2,364. About 25 families are being aided but many more will probably have to be helped. There are at least 250 unemployed men in the county of 7,000 population.

County Clerk Guy James of Thurston, reports the general fund from which all relief comes is now exhausted. The county gives all aid in the county. Mothers' pensions stopped in November on court order. Relief expenditures in the county, whose total population is about 10,500, totaled $14,468 in 1930; $13,100 in 1931 and $13,141 until December 1, 1932.

Chairman Frank Erbeben, of the Wayne county board, would like the state to build an old people's home and charge the counties for care of inmates. political science than a western law professor who said it was simply the study of how people get along together in a civilized society. And in this everyday business of getting along together and at the same time, getting things done, the practical politician—be he honest—has his uses. For he forms his theories. He forms them out of his intimate contacts. And of course they sometimes are limited or even incorrect because of the limited nature of those contacts.

The genuine student of the political sciences oftentimes can determine much more definitely how these practices will work out, because he has information as to experience elsewhere or can check them against proven fundamentals of government. To a greater and greater extent, research at universities and civic foundations are developing solid and pertinent factual matter about the working of public administration which practical men cannot afford to ignore.

Nor can the "practical" politicians ignore certain deep forces of which scholars often are more aware than they. These are the continuing demand of men for more honesty in government, the persistent striving to find better methods and the abiding confidence in the possibility of attaining a higher plane of public justice. The ward leader who leaves these out of account, who expects always to move his votes like the pawns on the professor's chessboard, is theorizing on uncertain premises. Political science, whether "practical" or academic, must prove its way as it goes.

and borrow money until such time as taxes can be increased. There is a basis of truth for that statement, but the public demand is not for more taxes, but for smaller government expenditures.

These experts say that the government credit ought to be good enough, built up during good years through a reduction of debts which contributes to a credit reserve to be freely tapped in bad times. The difficulty with the practical working of this theory is that every time in the past that income has exceeded outgo, congress adds new activities to absorb what is not set aside for reduction of debts, and then in bad times continues these activities and piles up a deficit. In private business the principle applied is to build up a cash reserve during prosperous years that is available when expenses exceed income. In private business nobody advocates spending as freely during depressions and borrowing to get the money to do it with.

The application of private business practices to government conduct of affairs is the real need.

Trees Demonstrate Their Worth.

Omaha World-Herald: "If there ever was a time in the history of Nebraska when we should plant trees it is now," says Outdoor Nebraska.

The advice is undoubtedly good. There never was a time when Nebraska had more trees than were good for it, and the past two years have seen heavy timber made on its comparatively scanty crop. In the warmth they have furnished as firewood our trees have been giving an impressive demonstration of how very valuable they may be in an emergency. Not only should they be replaced for all the other reasons that make tree planting desirable but for the benefit of a future generation, which may find as urgent need for a handy firewood supply as many are finding it now.

Forest conservationists have long urged the remission of taxes on land devoted to growing a forest crop until that crop has reached maturity and becomes marketable. It takes so long for trees to mature that persons who might plant trees as a commercial venture are unwilling to gamble annual taxes against a crop that can be harvested only once in about 50 years.

Whether a policy of tax remission would stimulate extensive tree planting in Nebraska is doubtful but the suggestion is interesting in connection with the current proposal to remit taxes on crop land which the farmer volunteers to withdraw from production.

NUMBER FORTYTHREE

COUNTRY CLUB HAS ELECTION

Membership Number Almost Total Of Last Year, Report Thursday Shows.

Wayne Country club has a membership of 499 to date for the 1933 season, according to report given at the club's annual meeting last Thursday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall following a dinner. This includes social and golf memberships and is about 25 less than the membership for 1932. It is expected that the number will be increased so that the total will be nearly equal to last year's. The treasury has $450 on hand and the 1933 dues are not yet collected.

Golf membership, which also includes social, is $20. The same as last year. The total membership this season is $7,500. This was $10,000 last year.

Carl Wright, A. B. Carhart and E. P. Miller were elected directors of the club for three-year terms, and F. G. Dale for a one-year term last Thursday. Those whose terms hold over are: William Beckenhauer, J. W. Jones and P. L. Blair. The directors will meet later and select the club's president and vice president from the seven on the board. J. W. Jones has been president the past year. The board selected the secretary-treasurer, and John C. Carhart has served in this office the past year.

Besides the report given by John C. Carhart, secretary-treasurer, reports were given by Mrs. Henry E. Ley, social chairman, and Mrs. Carl E. Wright, house chairman. The club does not plan improvements at the grounds this year.

In a new realm, each assured the other that she would continue activities.

Franklin Roosevelt, says a Washington Press correspondent, has always had a power to detach his mind so completely from current cares that he knows how to gain rest and relaxation whenever the chance offers. The presidency and other offices of responsibility exact a severe tax on the nervous system. Ability to free oneself from such strain is necessary and a great boon to those in such positions.

The need for greater culture is recognized in Paris where dining houses provide lectures on present-day topics of importance during the serving of meals.

"Every wrinkle in her face is a service stripe," Eddie Cantor advised. Worries which accompany responsibilities in the home or business cause these wrinkles which should not be regarded as unsightly, marks but as signs of conscientious, loving service to others.
