

These questions and answers were prepared by A. C. Thomas and answered by "Uncle Gene" at the Wayne Herald's initial broadcast Monday morning.

How did you happen to become interested in journalism?

"I was born into it. It was about when I was filling in my first teeth that I discovered the battle to build up a creditable home newspaper on comparatively raw prairie. It was not long before I watched the Washington hand press deliver papers for my father and brother in the rate of about 100 an hour. It was a small's pace for sure, and I did not exactly relish the prospect. My idea then was to run a store, preferably a grocery—so that I could satisfy youthful craving for luxuries."

What of your father? "He was the son of an Episcopal clergyman in New York. In that early day, one had to be a minister, doctor or lawyer to satisfy the highest idea of a professional career, and so father selected the law."

Why didn't he stay with it? "The hard, stinging literary 'tingle' he was also inclined to the frontier, and he was inclined to move back with it. He started a country weekly, the Journal, at Ponca, Neb., in 1870, and he finally abandoned the law."

Was he interested in other newspaper ventures?

"He had a share in the first newspaper at LaPorte, Wayne county's original county seat, long ago abandoned. For a brief period in the early days he ran a newspaper at Jackson. He established the Herald at Hastings in the early eighties when the town was started. It was in 1888 when my brother, the late W. N. Huse, went to Norfolk and began putting bone and sinew into the Norfolk Daily News."

As you contrast the present with primitive experiences, what do you note?

"It is, indeed, a sharp change from tedious hand composition, patent insides and (Washington hand presses) to typetting machines and all-home print on perfecting presses."

Your idea of a radio look-up?

"What is good for metropolitan centers should be good for rural communities. It results justify the effort. Other central weekly newspapers will undoubtedly be encouraged to employ the same advantage. If it is too great a burden for communities like Wayne, it will of course be abandoned here until demand catches up. But I have confidence in it, as supplementary and broadening service, though I am not certain. Experience will tell. It is a costly experiment if it wins; more so if it fails. But it is strictly modern, and I think nothing is too good for the rural communities of Nebraska."

I want farmers and townpeople alike to know that this broadcast look-up is added to the Herald to help preserve and enlarge their interests. We are all interdependent. We have been engaged in a Titanic struggle against the depression ogre. We want to get rid of this diabolical critter. It has been sitting on farm prices and keeping them down. We want our friends in California to eat more pork and beef products, so that we can eat more of their citrus and other fruits. We want our friends in the east to quit fighting their belts, call off this prolonged period of fasting and turn those their appetites on the life-preserving food essentials produced in the middle west, so that we can buy more of their manufactured goods.

Individuals cannot live alone. One community cannot live apart from other communities. We must have customers as well as sources of supply. Enough hoarded millions could be dragged out of hiding to start the circle of buying and selling. Then we could have an enriched exchange.

"We seem to be engaged in an endurance test to see who can survive the longest on short rations—to see who can get along without things the longest. Numerous appetites have become faint trying to plug in on food supplies which are piled up in excess through failure of purchasing power. Millions of garments, look and feel like the polished floor of a skating rink, and they are nearly exhausted trying to hold together waiting for purchasing power to come along and give relief. So, Mr. manufacturer, use some of our farm products and we will buy more of your manufactured articles. Feed up your hungry multitudes from this huge, mid-western food basin, and we will begin wearing better garments and putting in improvements and doing a lot of things that have been forced into quiescence through deflated earnings, a condition aggravated by the hobgoblins of fear.

"Let the Herald-WJAG combination help unfasten the tentacles of this depression octopus—help the swing back to better farm prices and general prosperity which we believe is now on the way. "I feel sure that better days are not far ahead."

SERVICE MONDAY HELD IN WAYNE

Funeral Rites Conducted For William Meyer Who Died In Sidney.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the Beckenbauer chapel for William Meyer who died at Sidney Thursday evening, February 9, aged 45 years, 8 months and 6 days. (Rev. C. Doctor and Rev. H. Hopmann) had charge of the rites, the former in the German and the latter in the English language. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Meyer, who was weakened by effects of an accident he suffered last fall, could not overcome a severe attack of asthma. The body arrived here Sunday.

William August Meyer was born July 3, 1887, at the Meyer home farm northeast of Wayne. He was baptized August 7, 1887, and confirmed March 31, 1901. In 1913 he married Miss Louise Hordel, at Wayne. The latter died several years ago. Deceased leaves one son, Merlin, 13, at Sidney. He is also survived by his father, Henry Meyer of Wayne, two sisters, Mrs. Henry Beckenbauer of Wakefield, and Mrs. Alvina Echtenkamp of Wayne, and five brothers, Henry Meyer, George Meyer, Adolph Meyer and Edward Meyer of Wayne, and Paul Meyer of Sidney. His mother and three other of the Meyer family died some years ago.

Mr. Meyer farmed near Carroll for several years and then moved to Crawford, Neb., and to Sidney in 1918, having lived at the latter place since.

Morlin Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. West Shinkle and daughter of Sidney, came Sunday to attend the funeral. They will remain a few days with relatives.

Funeralbearers were Albert Echtenkamp, Bilger Meyer, Gilmore Sals, Elmer Meyer, Henry and Frank Hofelst.

WILLIAM BAYES RITES MONDAY

Death Comes Suddenly To Long-Time Resident Of Winside Vicinity.

William Bayes, 66, died suddenly at his home in Winside Saturday morning, and was buried in Pleasant View cemetery Monday afternoon following rites at Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Bayes was apparently in excellent health and his death came as a great shock to the entire community. Saturday Mr. Bayes went downstairs to fix the furnace and did not return. His sister, Miss Gertrude Bayes, became worried and found him sitting near the furnace in an unconscious condition. She summoned help and Mr. Bayes was carried upstairs, but died before a doctor arrived.

Deceased was born in Knox county, Ohio, on August 27, 1866, the son of William and Hannah Bayes. In 1885 he came to Nebraska and located on a farm near Wayne for five years before coming to Winside to remain the past 43 years. Mr. Bayes and his sister made their home together and he engaged in the real estate business.

Besides Miss Gertrude Bayes, deceased leaves three other sisters, Mrs. Etta Perrin of Winside, Mrs. Jennie Schrumpp of Wayne, and Mrs. Charles Hogle of Piqua, Ohio, and two brothers, Joe Bayes of St. Paul, Minn., and John Bayes of Salt Lake City, Utah. Two sisters and one brother preceded him in death. Joe Bayes, Mrs. Schrumpp and daughter, Miss Nannetta, and Mrs. Foy Cross of Superior, came for the services.

Rev. A. E. Fowler was in charge of rites at the church Monday, and the Ulrich-Strate quartet, made up of Fred Ulrich, Ed. Ulrich, E. A. Strate and Otto Ulrich, sang the following numbers: "The Harbor Call," "I Ask Not Why," and "No Night in Heaven." Funeralbearers were William Fleer, Charles Needham, G. A. Mittelstaedt, C. E. Benschhof, George Gabler and Herman Fleer.

Marry At Pilger Church On Sunday

Miss Hildegard Daum and Mr. Richard Dreyer of Pilger, were married Sunday at the German Lutheran church at Pilger, relatives and friends attending the wedding. Dinner was served to 100 guests afterward at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Daum of Pilger. The young folks will live on a farm north of Pilger.

MANY PROFIT BY HERALD'S BARGAIN ENDING MARCH 1

MANY new and renewal subscriptions to the Herald have come from Wayne and outlying territory since announcement a week ago of the bargain to be continued until March 1. The price of $1.25 per year is the lowest ever made, but it gives during a dull period an advantage which we are certain the public will appreciate. Any paid in advance may have subscriptions checked up farther at the low rate if they desire. Any in arrears may settle to date at the usual price and then take advantage of the reduction. Please do not delay until the last day, but register credits early and avoid the closing rush.

CITY OWNERSHIP POOL REQUESTED

Two Claims Filed Against City For Damages In Street Accidents.

A petition asking that the question of city ownership of the city swimming pool and accompanying 30 acres be submitted to Wayne voters in the spring election was presented to city council Tuesday evening. The proposed plan calls for a $10,000 bond issue, and was signed by 51 local persons. Mrs. Anna Kay and R. C. Hahlbeck guaranteed payment of expenses incidental to the vote in case the proposal failed to carry. If the petition meets legal requirements, it will automatically be placed on the spring ballot.

Two claims for damages resulting from street accidents were brought before the council Monday evening of last week. Clem Johnson drove into a barricade erected in middle of the street by unidentified boys who wanted the street closed off for sliding, and damaged his car. Harold Jensen had a like accident the preceding evening. The claims were turned over to the insurance company for action.

Carl Wright reported for the committee named to look into the present milk situation upon request of Young Men's Business club. A meeting of milk producers and retailers held in city hall Monday evening was attended by about 18 men, with Mr. Wright presiding and being elected chairman of the session. As a result of the discussion, Cliff Penn, Lyle Gamble and Frank Larson were named a committee to call a general meeting of producers and retailers for next Friday evening at the city hall, and to organize these men into a permanent group which could bring about standard prices for milk and do away with price wars.

A complaint regarding a cross dog which molested children was voiced and the council was unanimous in its opinion that dangerous dogs, whether licensed or not, would not be tolerated. Another complaint concerned minors being found in local pool halls, and it was agreed that the city marshals should be instructed to order boys under 18 years out of the halls with renewed vigilance.

Requests for street lights at a point on East Fourth street near the park and opposite the cemetery gates were submitted.

Councilmen J. S. Horney, Ernest Bichel, J. G. W. Lewis, Carl Wright and Walter Miller were present, also Mayor Martin Ringler, City Clerk Walter Bressler, City Attorney James Brittain, S. A. Hemple and members of Rev. Harold Esbert's class in civics at college training school.

Carroll Reopens Bank On Tuesday

Carroll State bank reopened on Tuesday under the new banking law passed by the state legislature, according to H. D. Addison, attorney for the bank. The institution is under management of A. R. Cochran, with N. M. Patton assisting.

The new law provides that banks may reaper if those holding 85 or more percent of the deposits agree to leave their funds in the bank until next December and thereafter draw out only one percent a month. The Carroll bank had 94 percent of the deposits in this agreement. The funds will not draw interest, and the bank officials are permitted to pay back the money faster than designated providing they liquidate earlier. The institution conducts banking, accepting new deposits which are subject to check as in any banking institution.

WAYNE HERALD RADIO STATION OPENS MONDAY

Daily Broadcasting Features Include Music, Talks And Other Numbers.

Radio broadcasting from the Wayne Herald studio began Monday morning by remote control over station WJAG, Norfolk. The programs are conducted each morning, excepting Sunday, between 8:30 and 9:30.

Radio broadcasting from the Wayne Herald studio Monday followed a two-hour salute given by WJAG at Norfolk Sunday.

A. C. Thomas, manager, and Frank Weidenbach, engineer, were here from the Norfolk station on Monday and Tuesday assisting with the broadcasts.

E. W. Huse, Uncle Gene as Karl Stefan has named him, is in charge of the broadcasting program. He gives some short "philosophies of life," reads late local news, markets, weather report and buying information. A feature each morning is the feeder and market news. Local firms also present special features and several merchants make announcement of their own messages personally.

Mrs. Edna Davis, with Miss Kathryn Lou Davis at the piano, was soloist on the Herald's initial program Monday. She dedicated her first numbers to Mrs. S. E. Auker of Wayne and Mrs. Nettie Davis of Blencoe, Iowa. The Blue King orchestra furnished music and dedicated this to advertisers on the broadcast. Miss Ruby Hinnersich pleased listeners with accordion numbers. Mrs. Rollie W. Ley was first local person to call, and Dayton Austins of Ponca were first to call over long distance. Many messages were received by telephone and letter. Farthest distance from which messages have come to date are Colorado and North Dakota points.

Commander Robert Armstrong of Auburn, addressed the radio audience Tuesday. He explained the ways the Legion can and is serving at these times. Mr. Armstrong addressed ex-service men here Monday evening and also spoke at the city school Tuesday. Braden Carhart, Harlan Tegst, Don Turek and Willis Volk furnished popular instrumental and vocal music. Harry Langley, accompanied by Donald Linn, sang also.

Prof. I. H. Brittel was the speaker featured Wednesday morning. He explained early beginnings of radio in Wayne, telling of the first experimental work at the college science department. He told of radio development and stressed the wonderful possibilities and advantages of it. He expressed belief that the radio broadcasts will be most beneficial to Wayne. Mrs. Albert G. Carlson favored listeners with piano selections Wednesday morning, and Benny Kay with clarinet solos, Miss Kathryn Lou Davis playing his accompaniment.

This Thursday morning Rev. W. E. Eraisted, Baptist pastor, will speak. Arlington Prince of Winside, vice pupil of Miss Ardath Conn, will sing. G. W. Albert and Donald Albert will furnish violin and cello music.

J. E. Brittain is the speaker to be featured on Friday's broadcast. Arthur Rowden and Miss Vivian Brown, pupils of Miss Conn, will sing Friday.

Mrs. S. A. Lutgon, national chairman of drama, will speak Saturday. The Blue King orchestra with Braden Carhart as soloist will furnish music for that day.

Miss Charlene Brown will give a reading next Monday, February 20. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Oman will furnish vocal and instrumental music.

T. S. Hook, Kiwanis president, is scheduled to speak Tuesday morning. The Kiwanis octet, William Beckenbauer, Mr. Hook, F. E. Gamble, J. G. W. Lewis, C. L. Pickett, F. L. Blair, J. E. Brittain and L. W. Ellis, will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Carrie Welch on the piano.

Rev. P. A. Davies, Presbyterian pastor, will give a message Wednesday, February 22. Prof. J. R. Keith furnishes music.

Dr. U. S. Conn will speak on Thursday, February 23. Miss Marcella Hufmeister, pupil of Mrs. Grace Keyser, will play a piano number. Gereon Alvin and G. W. Albert will furnish old-time music on the accordion and violin.

H. E. Sman gives a short address Friday, February 24. Richard Pinkham and Hugh Linn, accompanied by Donald Linn, will furnish music. Mrs. D. S. DeWolf is scheduled to give a book review Saturday, February 25. Kermit Stewart will play piano solos. Rev. W. F. Most, Miss Adelyne and Miss Gertrude Most of Winside, will sing.

Sentence Given On Manslaughter

Slayer Of Paul Lowery Will Serve Eight Years In State Penitentiary.

William O. Flannery, rum runner convicted of manslaughter by a jury in district court at Pierce last week, was sentenced by District Judge Clinton Chase last week Wednesday to serve eight years in the state penitentiary. Sentence was pronounced after Flannery's motion for a new trial was overruled.

Flannery was convicted in connection with the slaying August 30 of Paul Lowery, Long Pine athletic coach, and former Wayne college student. Lowery was shot from ambush in a farm lane near Pierce while assisting Sheriff Ed. Schwartz tow a large automobile. Schwartz said the car contained liquor and Flannery admitted ownership of the machine.

Immediately after sentence had been pronounced the defendant's counsel, Hugh Boyley of Norfolk and Earl Moyet of Madison, filed notice that they would appeal the case to the supreme court.

STATE OFFICERS AT LEGION MEET

Commander R. Armstrong And H. H. Dudley Are Principal Speakers.

State Commander Robert Armstrong of Auburn, and Deputy Adjutant H. H. Dudley of Lincoln, were principal speakers at the banquet for all ex-service men, sponsored by the county Legion, at Hotel Stratton Monday evening. One hundred were present. C. A. Orr is commander of Irwin Sears post and John Laurie of Carroll is county commander. Dr. Peoples of Randolph, was toastmaster.

Mr. Dudley spoke on national defense and especially mentioned the inroads which communistic propaganda is making through schools, churches and other avenues. This is a real menace. Mr. Dudley showed that this country has a smaller standing army than the police force of New York City. He also pointed out that the "red" propaganda is making inroads so slyly that people do not realize its menace. It is a real danger and needs close watching. Mr. Dudley stated.

Mr. Armstrong told of the Legion program of helping distressed. He also mentioned the National Economy League's proposal to cut aid for the little fellows and leave large sums for those who already have plenty. The Legion is willing to meet the League on common ground. The Legion is urging upkeep of funds to help the men of small means.

Jean Boyd and Ollie Smith of Winside, sang solos. The Wakefield German band played selections, and three girls from Wakefield danced and sang.

Albert Borg of Wakefield, past state vice commander, spoke briefly.

Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Dudley spoke to the city school Tuesday morning before leaving for Lincoln.

Select Officers In Country Club

F. G. Dale Is President And He Names Committees For This Year.

Wayne Country club board of directors chose Fred G. Dale as president for the coming year at its meeting last Tuesday. F. L. Blair is vice president. Secretary is yet to be named. Mr. Dale appointed Mrs. Willard Wittse social chairman and Mr. Carl Wright house chairman for this year. He also named the greens committee, which includes W. R. Hickman, Carl Wright and Donald Miller.

The board includes Donald Miller, F. L. Blair, A. B. Carhart, J. W. Jones, Carl Wright, William Beckenbauer and F. G. Dale.

The board decided to reduce the charge for social evenings to 25c and to shorten the party series from three to two and one.

Winside Woman Breaks Her Wrist

Mrs. Ed. Miller of Winside, broke her right arm near the wrist Monday evening when she fell down cellar stairs.

Pelvis Is Injured When Mule Falls

John Brackert, jr., of Stanton county, suffered an injured pelvis bone Thursday when a mule fell onto him. The injuries are so painful that it is impossible yet to determine the exact extent.

DR. U. S. CONN TO ATTEND NORMAL BOARD MEETING

College Band Will Present Concert At Pender Next Wednesday Evening.

Dr. U. S. Conn goes to Lincoln Sunday to attend the meeting of the state normal board the following day, during which needs of the state teachers' colleges will be taken up before committees from legislature. The board has decided to ask that Governor Bryan's recommendations for the budget be carried out. It is felt that while this recommends greatly reduced appropriations, by economies and elimination of some activities, it will be possible to work within the new budgets.

About 50 members of the college faculty club attended a Valentine party in Pile hall recreation room Monday evening. Each member found his activities for the evening charted out and made four "stops" to play various games and work puzzles. Refreshments and decorations carried out the Valentine theme. Miss Louise Wendt and Mrs. R. M. Smith were in charge of arrangements.

Prof. John R. Keith will take his band to Pender for an invitational concert at city auditorium Wednesday, February 22. This will be mostly ensemble work. Two of Miss Ardath Conn's vocal pupils, Miss Jeanne Smith and Frederick Berry, will accompany the band.

The playlet, "Little Prison," was presented by members of the dramatic department at chapel Wednesday morning, under direction of Miss Viola Homan.

Robert Armstrong, department commander of the American Legion, and H. H. Dudley, deputy adjutant, visited the college Tuesday morning and expressed themselves as much pleased by the campus and equipment.

Mrs. Winifred Main spoke on China before members of the college Y. W. C. A. in Pile recreation room Wednesday evening.

By student vote, it was decided to go on with plans for the 1932-33 "Spizz."

Foreign Relations club will meet at regular time Monday evening.

Kearney cagers will come here Friday evening to play the Wildcats.

Name W. A. A. Teams. The following basketball teams have been chosen by Women's Athletic association: Freshman first team, Sara Jane Houtz, June McGill, Mary Alice Nielsen, Eleanor Reynolds, Audrey Selk, Albert Simon, Frances Stecker, Grace Walters; freshman second team, Fern Cornish, Audrey Hansen, Charlotte LaBreck, Gladys Spurlock; sophomore first team, Bea Anderson, Ella Andrews, Ruth Armstrong, Frances Atkins, Dorothy Dutton, Ann Mortens, Pauline Peterson, Leona Pribil, Mildred Walters; sophomore second team, Helen Alberts, Alice Molzahn and Irene Rose.

Will Durant To Speak. Prof. A. V. Teed has secured Will Durant, noted lecturer and author, to appear as part of the college lecture course this summer.

The date set is July 10. Other numbers scheduled for the summer session are the Festival Opera company of Chicago presenting "The Barber of Seville," the Quaries trio, a New York organization featuring a classical instrumental program, Mme. Lucchese in return program, and the Cornish players who were here last summer.

Name County Board For Indebtedness

Carrying out the recommendation recently made by Governor Charles Bryan, a board of conciliation to consider mortgage indebtedness problems has been named for Wayne county. On this board are Herma Heineman of Wakefield, Iver Anderson of Hoskins, August Wittler, and Rollie W. Ley of Wayne, and Henry Bredemeyer of Carroll. The selection was made by the state board from a list of names recommended. The county board will hold its first meeting at the court house at 1:30 Saturday, February 18, for the purpose of organizing. Persons desiring to confer with the board may do so at any time.

Former Student Dies In Omaha

Fred John "Mickey" Kane, 37, Omaha boxing and wrestling promoter, died Monday. Besides promoting matches Mr. Kane has made a mark as athlete. He was an all-state football star at Norfolk in 1913 and 1914, and played with Wayne College football team one season. Besides his wife, Mrs. Cora McGintis Kane, he leaves his father, three sisters and three brothers.

HERALD GRATEFUL FOR GOOD WORDS IN RADIO HOOKUP

THE Herald thoroughly appreciates the many kindly words of encouragement offered by persons from Wayne and other communities over its broadcasting venture. Wayne deserves this improvement, and the Herald will do everything within its power to maintain it and justify popular confidence. Our inexperience is a handicap in this new line of service, and a large measure of charity will be needed. This and neighboring communities have an abundance of excellent talent, and we are highly pleased over the readiness with which each one responds. Advertisers trying up with the Herald, report satisfactory results, and through their enterprise in employing the combination, undoubtedly more people will be persuaded to come to Wayne. This newspaper invites suggestions on either the broadcasting or newspaper, or on both.

DR. H. D. GRIFFIN ADDRESSES CLUB

Kiwanis Ladies' Night Will Be Next Monday Night; Editor Is Speaker.

Dr. Harold D. Griffin of the College commercial department, addressed Kiwanians at their luncheon meeting in Stratton hotel on Monday, taking as his subject the present economic upheaval, and urging closer and more analytical examination by voters before electing men to public offices.

"We are facing the strange phenomenon of a world which has plenty, even to the point of over-production, and yet starvation is facing many. There must be something radically wrong with our distribution system—there is inability of certain people to consume the goods produced, while others have too much. Somewhere among the brainy men of America we have ones who can solve the situation now facing us, and find its fundamental troubles."

"Today we fear the word 'radical' and all it stands for, but we disregard its real meaning, 'to get at the root of a matter,' and connect it with communistic activities. We will always have hair-brained thinking on the part of people not capable of getting at the root of affairs, and who are dangerous when they can gather together a following through gift of oratory or writing. We go at things in an orderly manner in this country, and it is to the credit of our people that dangerous outbreaks have not followed the startling economic readjustments through which we're now passing."

President T. S. Hook was in the chair. Dr. J. C. Johnson, chairman of ladies' night committee, announced that about 15 couples were expected from the Norfolk club. Edwin E. Haskinson, city editor of the Sioux City Tribune will be principal speaker, and William Beckenbauer will lead the club and their guests in group singing. The dinner is set for 6:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Quartet And Team In Sunday Services

The gospel team from the Church of Christ was in Neligh and Magnet Sunday, conducting services at churches of which Rev. G. B. Dunning of Neligh, is pastor. The team and quartet assisted at the Church of Christ in Neligh Sunday morning, at the church 11 miles north of there in the afternoon and at Magnet in the evening. Mark Stringer, Miss Dorothy Davis, Miss Alice Beckenbauer and Howard Beckenbauer comprise the quartet. The quartet includes Miss Ruth Dressler, Miss Alice Beckenbauer, Howard Beckenbauer and Ivan Hart with Miss Dorothy Davis as pianist.

Wayne Debaters In Radio Feature

"Resolved that more than half of the revenues should be derived from other sources than tangible property taxes" was the subject of the debate in which Norfolk and Wayne high school students participated Sunday from radio station WJAG. Lucile Wright and Richard Moses presented the main arguments for Wayne, having that income are lower and expenditures more and that what is needed is reassigning of all property according to its real value. Junior Carlisle and Helen Heizenbach for Norfolk, maintained that property tax is not sufficient and that the sales and income taxes would solve the need. William Studley and Raymond Sela gave the rebuttal for Wayne.

EARLY SETTLER OF COUNTY DIES

K. Henry Meyer Passes On Monday Morning At Home Near Wayne.

K. Henry Meyer, resident of Wayne county half a century, died at his home eight miles southeast of Wayne Monday morning at 7 o'clock after a few days' illness, aged 80 years, 11 months and 20 days. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 from the home and at 2:30 from the LaPorte Lutheran church with Rev. W. A. Gerdes in charge. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery in Wayne.

K. Henry Meyer was born March 7, 1852, near Oldenburg, Germany. As a young man he spent 10 years as a sailor and then came to this country. He spent two years in Iowa and at the age of 30 years came to Wayne and had lived on the same farm here since.

On June 13, 1888, Mr. Meyer married Miss Wilhelmine Hayer at Wayne. Six children were born to this union, one daughter dying in infancy. Besides his wife, Mr. Meyer leaves the following children: Fred Meyer of near Randolph, Will F. Meyer, Emil F. Meyer, Ernest L. Meyer and Mrs. Otto Meier all of near Wayne. There are 18 grandchildren. Deceased is survived by one sister, Mrs. Johanna Grimm of near Winside.

Mr. Meyer was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith to which he remained faithful throughout his life. He was a member of St. Paul Lutheran church many years. Funeralbearers were Henry Frevert, Carl Frevert, John Kay, August Hille, Rudolph Longe and Frank Longe.

Results Found Good In Tests

Reception Of Wayne Herald Program Last Thursday Is Most Satisfactory.

Results produced last Thursday afternoon when the Wayne Herald conducted a test program over radio station WJAG, over which Monday it started broadcasting daily, were highly satisfactory. L. Thomas, manager of the Norfolk station, and others reported Frank Weidenbach, chief engineer with WJAG, was in Wayne Thursday with Mr. Thomas.

Miss Ruby Hinnersich played the piano accordion and a number of messages said the reception was excellent. Ed. Nichols was the first to telephone the Herald and compliment the station on the reception. S. B. Whitmore and the Gamble store were next. The first written message was from William Ritzer of Sotland, S. D., who said, "Received your test program over the air. It came in fine and clear. Keep the lady with the accordion on your programs as people love the music of that instrument."

"In instituting radio broadcasting, by remote control from station WJAG at Norfolk, the Wayne Herald is trying to do for the country what the city dailies are doing for the cities," said E. W. Huse in a brief talk on the test program. "We are confident that conditions are improving and our hookup with WJAG is one way of assuring our confidence." Mr. Huse invited everyone to listen in last Sunday to the "salute" program which Norfolk gave in honor of Wayne and he also announced that regular broadcasts will be conducted from the Wayne Herald studio each morning between 8:30 and 9:30.

Rural Schools

District 75. Lavern Stamm, Teacher. The school has entertainment each Friday morning. On February 3 Marcella Meyer sang "Sweet Kitty Clover". Victor Haase and Donald Grier sang a duet, and Elmer Stamm played a piano solo. Bonnell Grier, third grader, has had 100 in spelling since the beginning of school this year. Officers are elected each week and those named last week were: Emanuel Grier, room monitor; Marjorie Victor, playground monitor; Kenneth Peterson, librarian; Leola Meyer, flag monitor; Marilyn Griffith, hall monitor; Lee Thompson and Donald Grier, reporters; Leonard Meyer and Kenneth Peterson, editors. Pupils who have started their budget in penmanship are Arlene Griffith, Elmer Stamm, Marilyn Griffith, Dorothy Lutt and Kenneth Peterson. The pupils had a Valentine party on Tuesday. They exchanged Valentines. The third and fourth grades are having a book reading contest to try to develop love for reading, also to widen their reading span. The school has a chart, on which each keeps a daily record of number of pages read outside of school. Each also makes a written report of each book read and the reports are kept in booklet form. The fifth and sixth grades are making a joke, poem and story booklet. Each Friday pupils contribute something toward their booklet and everything must be original. Pupils enjoy this.

District 84. Marjorie Roe, Teacher. Pupils are still continuing their Good Citizenship club. The knights so far are Leo Stephens, Leona Obit, Wendell Eddie, Helen Hinrichs and Elvera Obit. A black K tag game is being used in school for bad English or ungrammatical expressions. The one tagged must wear the cardboard tag until he or she hears another one missing a word. Then the tag is relayed to that offender. Much interest and help in speech are derived from this. The following pupils had a perfect attendance record the first semester or first five months: Marvin Draghu, Helen Hinrichs, Alene Hinrichs, Norma, Wendell and Margaret Eddie. Valentine day will be observed this week, also Lincoln's birthday.

District 81. Helen Morris, Teacher. The pupils are studying design in art class. Each pupil from the first grade up brought border designs to class Friday. They had made the designs themselves. Earl Baird is leading in the second grade reading contest. School was not held Tuesday last week because of cold weather.

District 45. Izzetta Fae Buftow, Teacher. Children are enjoying the book, "The Treasure in the Little Trunk," a pioneer story brought by Marjorie Harrison. "History and Stories of Nebraska" and "Little Stories of Great Americans" are also being read. The spelling contest closed Monday when Buster Utecht's side finished the race. The losers, with Marjorie Harrison as their leader, are planning a party for the winners in their future.

A new song learned this week is "A Valentine for Grandma." Monday last week being Miss Buftow's birthday, children were treated to cup cakes, stick candy and gum. Attendance was very irregular last week due to illness and extremely cold weather. Language classes were combined Friday afternoon in an impromptu program consisting of stories, poems and songs appropriate to Lincoln's birthday.

District 85. Irene Iversen, Teacher. Fourteen pupils were absent on Tuesday last week on account of the storm. Esther, Frances, Wilma and Harry Goebbert are the only pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy this year. Friday all pupils above the second grade wrote original Valentine verses. Some very clever and amusing verses were composed. The past week the burlap was used to represent a frontier settlement as pupils imagined it would be during Lincoln's boyhood. They folded paper log cabins, cut trees, stumps and covered wagons. Each pupil was allowed to add any pictures that he thought would be appropriate. The pupils have purchased the following with some of the proceeds of an entertainment: A pencil sharpener, repairs for the water fountain, rulers, crayolas, bulletin board and a portable phonograph. We plan to get some baseball and tennis supplies later.

District 83. Cathrynne Shannon, Teacher. Because of extremely cold weather last week attendance was poor, only six pupils being able to attend part of the week. There was no K. S. S. club meeting last week because of small attendance. In the cross-continent spelling race the Fords traveled 288 miles,

Lincoln Speaks Comes Thursday

State Worker Will Present Knighthood of Youth Plan To Teacher. Supervisors of college training school are sponsoring a group meeting next Thursday afternoon, February 23, at which Miss Daisy Simons of the state department of public instruction in Lincoln, will present her department's plan of character education called the Knighthood of Youth. The meeting will open at 4:15 in the training school, and all Wayne city and rural teachers, as well as parents or others, are invited to attend. At last meeting of the Training school supervisors, relation of school to other organizations and institutions interested in character education was discussed and the following points were emphasized: That it is very important that all agencies interested in character education have a common blue print for the child's development; that the goal for all agencies should be to develop a socially-minded, self-directive individual; that some agency should be familiar with all the influences affecting the child and should attempt to integrate them to form a unified personality; that this agency should be the home, but where the home fails, the responsibility falls upon the school; best results will be obtained where the home and the school work together harmoniously for the child's welfare. Prof. Lund, field representative of Yankton college, visited the training school Wednesday morning. His nephew is a student at the college.

Play At Assembly. High school assembly program Wednesday morning featured a piano solo by Marguerite Sund, and a playlet entitled "Honest Abe," by the following cast: Abraham Lincoln, John Kyt; Pete, Llewellyn Whitmore; Bill, Vernie Meyer; Larry, Robert Hanson; Jimmy, Elaine Anker; Widow Lincoln, Helen Mahbott; Master Swartz, Eugene Hiptmeyer. Two parties were arranged by high school folks last Saturday evening. The seniors held a Valentine party at the Training school, with 17 present. Miss Emil Cooklyn, Miss Louise Wendt and Mrs. Elizabeth Martischang were special guests. Freshman party was held at the Clara Heyman home, with Robert Heyman as host. Miss Lettie Scott served as sponsor, and 18 freshmen attended.

Hold Declaratory Contest. Local declaratory contest will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in assembly room, with the following entrants competing: Humorous division, "China Blue Eyes" by Irene Bastian; "Who's A Fraud?" by Benny Sacco; "Horrors of Youth," by Jake Soden; dramatic division, "The Valiant," by Fern Van Allen; "The Unfinished Letter," by Mary Ellen Gulliver; oratorical division, "The Unknown Soldier," by Andrew Martischang; "Fighting for the Soul of the Nation," by Dale Hanks; "Spartacus to the Gladiators," by Algeo Cutler; extemporaneous division, Llewellyn Whitmore. "B" Tournament Planned. Prof. A. P. Gulliver announces March 2, 3 and 4 as dates for "B" division basketball tournament for Northeast district of the state high school athletic association. Teams entering are from Beemer, Belden, Carroll, Coleridge, Concord, Dakota City, Emerson, Holy Trinity at Hartington, Newcastle, Waterbury, Wayne college high and Winside. Prof. Gulliver will serve as director, assisted by Supt. R. A. Austin of Winside, Supt. Rufus Canawue of Concord, and Coach W. Ray Hickman. Last Friday evening a triple game was played in college gymnasium. As preliminary to the Beemer-Training school game eighth graders from the training school met eighth graders from public school and defeated them by a 22 to two score, and a squad of college high school alumni played a college team known as the "bone crushers." College high cagers triumphed over the Beemerites to the tune of 34 to 19. Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the basketballs will meet Belden in college gymnasium.

Plan for Music Contest. Students are busy memorizing their music for the local music contest scheduled here on March 17, and costumes for feminine entrants to wear will be chosen this week. These will be inexpensive and uniform dresses. Miss Maybeth Bowman has been conducting a music memory contest in music appreciation work among her sixth and seventh graders, and pupils are working on notebooks. The best books will be sent to the sectional meeting of music supervisors at Grand Rapids, Mich. For the contest, the boys and girls are learning to recognize names of compositions and their composers, and are drilling on the following 17 compositions: "Canzonetta" by Mendelssohn; "Adagio" by Bizet; "Andante Cantabile" by Tchaikowsky; "Arioso of a Fairy" by Debussy;

Recuperates in City. Miss Minnie Will who was in a Sioux City hospital, was moved recently to the home of her sister, Mrs. D. D. Tobias, there. She is improving steadily.

Experiences Are Recalled

(By Uncle Gene)

HERE are a few personal recollections to inject a measure of buoyancy into youthful journeyings today. I was in my teens—rather long time ago. I bought a small pig for $1.50, parked it in a movable pen, in an alley, fed it mostly on table scraps and after some months I sent it to market for $3 or $4. I sold it earlier than business judgment would suggest because I needed the money to buy a new pair of jeans and a few other things. I remember that a young fellow couldn't keep well dressed on less than an occasional expenditure of a dollar. Anyway, I had capital left to start another pen.

I recall that when the one cow which I milked, came home with a wobbly-legged calf, I couldn't sell it for anything. I finally gave it to a mercifully inclined neighbor.

One year I raised a garden of cucumbers and had one customer during season. I sold this customer $5 worth of cucumbers for $2, most of which I dispersed in the direction of replenishing my wardrobe.

In that long-ago time I remember when our Sunday school had a picnic. I was interested in going out five miles instead of one mile in order to enjoy a longer ride in a lumber wagon. The preacher mentioned that a longer ride would add to the joy of the occasion.

This same preacher once loaned me a horse to ride, but as it belonged to a driving team, he cautioned me not to go faster than a trot. I held the horse down to a trot, all right—probably the preacher didn't expect—but for several days afterwards I found standing more comfortable than sitting—a special convenience at meal time.

I had more experience in raising chickens, but I was so curious about the development of the little fellows before time to hatch that I lost most of them, so I concluded that I was a good deal of a failure in that line.

Such was youth in the early eighties. Don't you think these recollections are rather reassuring to modern youths who have more advantages and usually, I would say, more sense—at least more than I had.

Youthful Ambition

WE wish to predicate what we are going to say about student ambition on the rather embarrassing confession that it was not in the plan for us to be precocious, and the plan worked well. A survey of the Wayne State Teachers College student body or any other modern student group, will doubtless show that young persons of today are not so lacking in precocity. The precocious person used to be the exception; now he is the rule; so in the course of evolution—from learning to swing from one tree to another in the jungles of Borneo to solving problems in calculus—with youth well advanced, the word in time may become useless and obsolete.

Dragging anchor mentally, as we were wont to do, led to disrespect for teacher leadership. Without reason, apart from carefully directed indifference, and without even attempt to understand our own loss, we regarded teachers coldly and attended school unwillingly. Teachers have made proportionate advance with their youthful charges, and mutual confidence and mutual respect tend to lift the

Fence Wire Is Used For Years As Phone Line

Did you know that a wire fence can be made to serve as a telephone line? It hardly seems possible and everyone told S. E. Auker in the early days that it would not work, but Mr. Auker made it work and just that kind of telephone line served his farm more than 25 years. And it served not only his farm but five neighbors who hooked onto the line.

About 35 years ago Mr. Auker moved to his farm, three miles northeast of Wayne. He did considerable stock feeding and had occasion to hook a telephone line. The late R. Philled at that time had a telephone switch board in Wayne with several patrons on it. Mr. Auker decided to extend service to his farm so he used the top wire of each fence and made loops over the roads with telephone wire. He was warned that the fence dare not touch anything moist or green if it were to operate. But here again Mr. Auker disproved the warning for he hitched the fence to cottonwood trees which he planted along his farm. The line worked and one of the trees even grew around the fence so that the latter went through the center of the trunk. Still it worked.

Five neighbors joined the line and part of the line to the country club still travels on fencing.

"I proved to them that there is no such word as can't," Mr. Auker concludes.

Leaves for Texas.

Miss Kathleen Smith leaves this Thursday for Dallas, Texas, to visit a few days before going to most backward into the sunlight of worthy student ambition and achievement. So, today we have more and more young persons eager to learn, eager to enjoy the fruits of learning, and thus able to put more into and get more out of society.

School and college advantages have steadily grown, and year after year they have poured equipped and polished brains into the vortex of the world's activities. These brains recognize the need of material things and are fitted to analyze material questions, but they are also able to contemplate values above the material, and extract from life intellectual enjoyment not based on the mere acquisition of dollars and cents. Education equips one to see more clearly and more comprehensively, and it is something that cannot be lost through deflation. It sticks forever, and makes life larger and richer.

Charity For STATE legislatures are trying to do things that Government will help the people, and congress is lumbering along towards the jumping off point—March 4—with the same idea in mind. We are telling members of legislative bodies what to do and what not to do, and we don't know what is best ourselves. We wouldn't hire a man to spade the garden and then kick him all the time he was trying to do it. We wouldn't ask him to spade standing on his head. In order to advise we should think a thing through first. If we keep shouting ill considered demands on legislative bodies, we get them confused and in such doubt that they can't do any better job of thinking than some of the rest of us. It is well to have congressmen and members of legislatures know that they are being watched, and held to account for their acts, but often we just kick and demand the impossible. We don't want to overdo defense of legislative bodies because they are not used to it and it might hurt them, but on the other hand I would have them given a chance to work out their problems without hampering them with an over-load of mere faultfinding. In government as well as in private business let us exercise the patience and charity that we ask and so much need for ourselves.

Viewing the plan proposed for agricultural relief by Francis J. Clair, as more theoretical than practical, Editor Y. A. Hartman in the Sioux City Live Stock Record makes this concluding observation: "New York is a great city, filled with fine American citizens, but they have treated us for our disease for so long that the treatment has become worse than the disease! Experience has proved that we can send boys from Iowa to New York to become successful financiers, but it's darned near impossible to bring a grown up financier from New York and make him into a good Iowa farmer."

Monday night's banquet by the American Legion, with appreciative guests, brought together the fine, stalwart manhood that has evolved from the youthful soldier boys who bared their breasts to enemy shrapnel somewhat more than a dozen years ago. Time has put strands of silver in their hair, and has etched deeper lines in their faces. The boys are rich in qualities of leadership in many walks of life.

President Hoover made a forceful speech before 1,500 party leaders attending the Lincoln day dinner of the National Republican club. The president asked for world cooperation to bring civilization out of the doldrums. The Hoover administration will soon disappear from the stage and into history, and then we must help the democrats pull things back to normal.

It is probably stimulating and helpful to have crepe hangers and obstructionists, but they are disagreeable—quite as much to themselves as to others.

Appreciation.

We wish to express sincere appreciation to friends for their many acts of kindness during our bereavement. Henry Meyer, Jr., and family and Merlin Meyer.

MOTHERHOOD.

The person who is the real sentiment of the household—the person who readjusts family feelings that get out of plumb,—who by gentle touches restores harmony when children sound notes of discord, who pours sympathy and courage into the drooping soul of a man after a day of ups and downs—often more down than ups—is the mother. She is who watches and counsels the child from one day's end to another—sees that clothing is sufficient and food is nourishing. She is at hand to assuage rising fever and coax a loved one back to health. She suffers self-denial while stretching dollars to insure comfort for her charges. She takes what is left after others have been served. Alert and tactful, she keeps the neighbors in good humor, and does her best to make the man of her choice a tolerable member of society. In times of unusual stress, when spirits often trail low, she is the bulwark of prudence, the guardian of finest and highest sensibilities. She is just as sensitive as she was on the day when she was led to the marriage altar. She is more deserving than she was then because she has toiled incessantly and sacrificed without limit. She has borne more than her share of the burden. There is no consideration so too liberal, no kindness too great to repay her loyalty. God might have been able to fashion a nobler creature, but he just didn't do it.

Officials Name Contest Dates

Vesper Service Planned By Wayne High School Glee Clubs And Chorus.

Sup't. H. R. Best, Sup't. H. N. Rhodes of Laurel and W. A. Behl, officers of the Northeast Nebraska Declaratory association, met in Sup't. FEBRUARY.

On account of the gift of Washington and Lincoln to the world in February, it is most appropriate during the month to stress patriotism and consider values that will safeguard and advance our citizenship. Sometimes we grow dissatisfied over the way things are running. Sometimes the economic machine gets out of gear and there is no immediate remedy for consequences. The late war dumped an unusually large assortment of monkey-wrenches into the economic works. It took ten years for the influence of the world conflagration to disarrange markets and blow up price equalities. It is now taking a painfully long time to smooth out the crumpled economic fabric and restore everything to normal. The world went on a terrible spree, and the sobering up ordeal requires more than a series of gestures. We become impatient, and we are often tempted to accept any cure-all that is offered. But we should look to the founders of Washington, the lives of Lincoln, the preserver, as an inspiration to courage and endurance. The orderly processes established by these two men of immortal memory should and may be kept intact, as the foundation for the changed and enlarged superstructure which we are now rearing. Let us be careful to avoid hasty judgment or precipitate action. We must help one another more now than ever, and the time will soon come when, as the sun of prosperity bursts forth again, we will rejoice over the victory won and the ground preserved. Let us look up and ahead, trusting in a turn of the tide which has never failed to come. Let us come out of the fiery experience with fewest possible scars.

(Rev. Wm. E. Braisted, minister)
608 Logan St., Phone 309-J.
Sunday, February 19:
10:00 a. m., Sunday church Bible study. Classes and a welcome for all. A young people's discussion group for both town and college young people. This is vital, interesting, worthwhile. Try it.
11:00 a. m., the morning worship hour. Prayer, praise, vital message. Subject: "Can we be strictly honest and rejoice in sufferings?" St. Paul said, "I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake." Can we do that? Think it over.
6:30 p. m., the young people's fellowship, good-cheer, study, discussion. And listen! The topic is: "Why Marriages succeed or fail?" That is interesting, is it not? And, seriously, what more vital, important subject? Welcome.
7:30 p. m. the glad hour with plenty of music and its inspiration you will gladly share and thoroughly enjoy. And a real life-gripping message on the subject: "There is a tide in the affairs of men." And what of it?
We had a fine, worthwhile day all last Sunday. Always welcome.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor)
It is less than a month and a half to the end of the church year. These should be busy weeks in all the organizations for each must wish to make the year just as successful as possible, and a good many things are always crowded into the last weeks.

It was a pleasure to have the boy scouts as our guests last Sunday morning. We want them to come again. There were thirty boys with their scout leader, Mr. Gulliver and Mr. Childs, present. We would have been happy to have welcomed more of the parents.

The Presbyterian Aid met the afternoon of February 15 at the church. The work of the afternoon was that of peeling wooden blocks. Mrs. U. S. Corn, Mrs. J. T. Bressler, Mrs. F. L. Blair and Mrs. R. L. Larson were the committee in charge.

The intermediates sang a special number for us at the evening hour last Sunday night. We are asking them to bring us a song every Sunday evening, and then stay for the short service that follows. The pastor is interested enough in this organization to give them special thought in preparing his message.

A special program is being prepared for the evening of March 5. Mrs. Hook has this service in charge.

Our services for next Sunday are at the regular hours: Sunday school, 10 a. m.; morning worship, 11; evening choir, 6; C. E. services, 6:30 p. m.; evening worship, 7:30. If you have no church home we shall be glad to welcome you to one and all of these services.

RADIO STATION GIVES SALUTE TO WAYNEITES

Norfolk and Wayne Speakers And Wayne Band Feature Sunday Program.

MANY SEND MESSAGES

Radio station WJAG, Norfolk, Sunday afternoon between 4 and 6 gave "salute" to Wayne preliminary to the Wayne Herald's instituting radio broadcasting Monday morning.

Art Thomas, WJAG station manager, opened the program of talks Sunday. He mentioned that E. W. Huse bought the Wayne Herald in 1910 and made it one of the leading Nebraska weeklies...

Mr. Huse responded with the following: "My profoundest appreciation to Norfolk, WJAG staff, Wayne band and Wayne people."

"In sorting over and rearranging a large and growing collection of 'Genes,' Karl Stefan, resourceful and justly popular WJAG announcer, has identified me as 'Uncle Gene' which I am disposed to accept for convenience..."

"The Wayne Herald's new broadcasting studio clasps hands with WJAG, Norfolk Daily News station, in a remote control hook up to extend service—the better to serve Wayne and outlying communities..."

"Combining radio advantages with the service of a weekly newspaper is an innovation—an experiment whose justification, like other ventures, will require time to prove..."

"And Wayne, with superior college and high school privileges, in the center of richly productive, gently-rolling prairies, with farm communities reflecting citizenship of the highest and finest type..."

"I have been up in the air for some weeks thinking about going on the air, and tomorrow we will begin—we will start bombarding the ether from the Wayne Herald's studio, and we hope our efforts will merit reception in the thousands of homes making up the invisible audience..."

Following one of Sousa's marches, played by the Wayne band, August Steffen, mayor of Norfolk, spoke. "This is a day of rejoicing," Mr. Steffen remarked. "A new radio station is going on the air. Norfolk welcomes its neighbor, Wayne, and hopes the new venture will be successful..."

BIRTHDAY SALUTE

February Date Is Triple Event

Washington's Birthday Also Anniversary Of Founders Of Scouting.

A triple event for all scouts takes place on February 22, which is the birthday not only of the father of his country, but also of the founders of boy and girl scouting. When Lord and Lady Baden-Powell were in New York a couple of years ago, the chief scout announced at a dinner in their honor...

"My wife and I have excellent taste in birthdays. We both picked that of George Washington." And just as the vision of George Washington foresaw, a great nation in a group of struggling colonies, so Robert Baden-Powell foresaw in the small group organized for play a movement that would spread around the world.

Perhaps the greatest test of scouting is the ease with which its basic idea is adapted to the differing needs of boys and girls and the widely divergent wants of young people in different lands. When Juliette Low came home to Georgia in the spring of 1912, armed with a handbook on English girl guiding, even her friends smiled at her enthusiasm.

Dr. J. C. Nielsen, Norfolk, congratulated Wayne on its good fortune to have such a progressive paper. Dr. Nielsen greeted Dr. Conn and stated that he will appreciate hearing from him and college talent.

In response, Dr. U. S. Conn stated that for a number of years northeast Nebraska has enjoyed station WJAG which reflects matters of special interest to this section. "The new venture in radio," Dr. Conn assured, "will be successful for Mr. Huse puts over what he undertakes."

Supt. Allen P. Burkhardt of Norfolk, congratulated E. W. Huse of Wayne and Gene Huse of Norfolk for their progressiveness. "The schools of Wayne," Mr. Burkhardt continued, "are outstanding in the state. They are a credit to Supt. Best and the board of education. Wayne has planned well and succeeded mightily."

Supt. H. R. Best, in responding, assured Mr. Burkhardt that it was a pleasure to be welcomed by him. Mr. Best expressed appreciation to (Continued on Page Five)

February Date Is Triple Event

Washington's Birthday Also Anniversary Of Founders Of Scouting.

A triple event for all scouts takes place on February 22, which is the birthday not only of the father of his country, but also of the founders of boy and girl scouting. When Lord and Lady Baden-Powell were in New York a couple of years ago, the chief scout announced at a dinner in their honor...

"My wife and I have excellent taste in birthdays. We both picked that of George Washington." And just as the vision of George Washington foresaw, a great nation in a group of struggling colonies, so Robert Baden-Powell foresaw in the small group organized for play a movement that would spread around the world.

Perhaps the greatest test of scouting is the ease with which its basic idea is adapted to the differing needs of boys and girls and the widely divergent wants of young people in different lands. When Juliette Low came home to Georgia in the spring of 1912, armed with a handbook on English girl guiding, even her friends smiled at her enthusiasm.

er the records of what the girls and their leaders did during these two crises, one finds a curious resemblance between the war and peace roles. In 1918 the girl scouts were knitting for the Red Cross and acting as messengers and ushers at meetings. In 1932 the girl scouts were sewing for the Red Cross and distributing food and clothes to the needy. In 1918 the girl scouts were cooperating with the food administration, canning fruits and vegetables and sometimes even growing them. In 1932 the girl scouts grew and canned fruits and vegetables for distribution to the destitute through family welfare associations and settlement houses. Both in war and peace times they played feminine roles. In neither did they drop their regular program, for helping your nation or your neighbor is just community service which girl scouts do all the time.

Girl scouting exists now in every state of the Union, and every American territorial dependency, and though the program was founded by an Englishwoman under the title of girl guiding, it has become American girl scouting and an integral part of American life. But on February 22, when the nation honors its father, the girl scouts remember also the father and mother of scouting. And they agree with Lord Baden-Powell that he and his wife have good taste in birthdays.

Sub Zero Weather Results In Fires

Tuesday last-week, when temperatures hovered below zero, Wisner had more fires than any other one day in the city's history. The Henry Suhr family was made homeless that day when fire destroyed their residence northeast of Wisner. Lack of telephone facilities prevented the family from giving the alarm. The Suhrs were sheltered at the Pender hotel after the blaze. The timely arrival of the fire department saved the Herman Dinklage farm home north of Wisner, and a blaze did a small amount of damage at the M. D. McGuire place there. A small fire also broke out at the Mrs. Jennie Gentzler place.

Dr. H. L. Feistner, state veterinarian Wednesday announced Thurston and Dakota counties were being reaccertified as modified tuberculosis free areas for another three years. No reactor cattle were found in either county, he said.

That Secretary Wilbur of the interior department will issue a waiver on Indian lands in Thurston county was virtually assured to a delegation from the county at Washington last week. The delegation was told that approval of the tax waiver would be given if the board of county commissioners in Thurston county made formal application, in writing, to the board of Indian affairs. The commissioners were wired immediately. After years of tornado and drought, Mr. Rossiter told Commissioner Rhoades of the Indian affairs bureau, more than 800 farmer-leasees of Thurston county Indian lands have found themselves unable to pay their annual taxes.

Hartington Youth Invents Airplane

Hartington, Neb., Feb. 13—A wispish, low-winged monoplaner embodying new principles of aviation has been built at home by Francis McNeal, a young farmer southwest of Hartington, who is awaiting favorable weather to give it a trial flight.

With no special training in aeronautics, the 21-year-old inventor has busied himself with the plane for two years' past. That his plans are not too radical is attested by the approval of a department of commerce inspector on the plans.

Uses Sheets of Metal. Unable to purchase proper wheels and fabric, he used part of an automobile running gear and sheets of light metal in construction of the plane. A rough field and the weight of this material, he believes resulted in minor damage to the plane during one attempt at a trial flight.

McNeal has had only one lesson in flying and that last year at a Sioux City airport where a pilot said he was adept at handling a plane. Without a high school education he began making blueprints and collecting parts in October, 1931.

Salvaging odds and ends, he has spent only $35 for material. His motor is from an old fly-over saved from a recent Hartington garage fire. He installed new thrust bearings, changed the manifold and timing, added a magneto and made other small changes.

Carves Props With Knife. Four propellers he has carved out of solid wood with a jackknife. For their bearings he has melted babbit metal. Metal braces on the plane were cut from an old steel bed, and the cables and wooden portions were made of other discarded material. The plane carries dual standard controls and is equipped with an old radiator.

The fuselage is uncovered since he did not have the money to buy cloth but he believes that this will result only in cutting down the flying speed.

McNeal estimates his plane will go seventy miles an hour and thirty miles to the gallon. Loaded, the craft will weigh about 1,000 pounds. It has a twenty-seven foot wing spread and is twenty-one feet long.

The Prospective Wife' is the name he has given it but the department of commerce knows it as number 12,552.

Not all of McNeal's mechanical abilities have been absorbed by construction of his airplane.

Can Make Pistols. Neighbors have found him handy in solving their repair difficulties. He is adept at fixing guns and has made several pistols out of scrap iron and wood.

A piece of piping, a couple sticks of wood and some flat pieces of metal are enough raw material for him to turn out a weapon that shoots well compared with a store gun. Also he has made an acetylene torch and various other contrivances.

McNeal's father died in 1927 and he does most of the work on the farm. He lives with his mother, five sisters and a brother.

Men Mentioned In Lady's Will In the will of Mrs. Anna Sophia Wilkens of Cedaridge, filed for probate at Hartington last week, Dr. S. A. Lutgen, Joe Lutgen and Mrs. Genevieve Alesch, nee Parker, were named among the 20 relatives and friends who were beneficiaries. The will, which has 26 sections, is the longest ever filed in Cedar county. The instrument designates the bequest to Joe Lutgen as a gift for his advanced education.

Subscription Offer Special For The WAYNE HERALD

Unprecedented subscription offer beginning now and lasting until March 1, 1933, $1.25 per year in advance. To celebrate introduction of broadcasting in connection with the Wayne Herald, this newspaper will during the remainder of the time between now and March 1 reduce the price from the long established rate of $2 per year to $1.25 per year in advance. Subscribers who are now paid in advance may take advantage of the offer by pushing their subscriptions ahead with a limit of three years in advance. Subscribers who are in arrears, may pay at the temporary bargain price after amounts due have been settled. The reduced rate may thus be turned to profit by present and new subscribers. Most people recognize the Herald as amply worth its regular subscription price of $2, but in order to extend its coverage in outlying territory in conjunction with the broadcasting innovation, the bargain price of $1.25 is offered, made available, however, for renewals and new ones alike. Three thousand subscribers for many years are able to pass on the merits of this newspaper, and many of them will be pleased to take advantage of the exceptionally low rate to run until March 1. Production staff for the play has been chosen as follows: Stage managers, Joseph Barber, Arthur McCauley and Harry Luckey; art directors, Allan Andersen, Ralph Higbee, Wilma Israelson and Kathryn Markeson; electrician, Arthur McCauley; property managers, Bea Anderson, Max Hendrickson and Ralph Jacques; costumers, Mildred Kehl and Helen Marie Davis; press Genevieve Winkler; publicity agent, Charlene Brown, makeup, Charlene Brown, Genevieve Winkler, Wilma Israelson, Kathryn Markeson and Allan Andersen.

Five girls of the dramatics department are preparing a one-act play, "Little Prison," which will be given in chapel next Wednesday under Viola Homan. The setting is an elevator and the elevator is now being constructed.

Hartington Editor Returns From West

F. D. Stone, editor and publisher of the Hartington Herald, has returned from Phoenix, Arizona, where he had spent the past three months, and resumed his work as a member of the staff. He left for the southwest the last week of October and arrived in Nebraska January 31.

Editor Stone comments on the vagaries of the weather as he observed them on his way home. He says it was raining in Phoenix, that people were tobogganing and sleigh riding in northern Arizona, that New Mexico was blanketed in large areas with snow, that in Kansas the farmers were working in the fields and that he found mild temperatures prevailing in Nebraska on his arrival. Since then, however, severe winter weather has prevailed with low temperatures and heavy snow.

Speaking of economic conditions in Arizona, Mr. Stone says that they are worse than last year with the mines all closed down and real estate at a standstill and that there are many people out of employment. Charity organizations are taxed beyond capacity to take care of the needy, he states.

Great interest is being taken in the case of Winnie Ruth Judd, blonde "trunk slayer," the date of whose execution has been postponed to Good Friday, according to the Hartington publisher, and public sentiment is divided. Some hope that her sentence will be commuted, believing her to be guilty but that others were implicated in the crime, while some think she is a menace to society and should be hanged.

While in Phoenix, Editor Stone took an advanced course in journalism at Phoenix Junior College and also studied Spanish. He made two addresses on "The Country Weekly"—one before the Journalism night class of the Junior college and one before the journalism students of Glendale Union high school at Glendale. As usual, during his residence in Phoenix, he contributed a series of weekly articles to his newspaper.

Manslaughter Is Verdict Of Jury

William O. Flannery, charged with first degree murder of D. Paul Lowry, Long Pine athletic coach and former Wayne college student, was found guilty of manslaughter last Thursday by a Pierce county jury after it had deliberated nearly 12 hours.

District Judge Clinton Chase, who presided at the trial, was to pronounce sentence the middle of this week. The penalty for manslaughter carries from one to ten years imprisonment.

The defendant was confident he would be found not guilty. He may file motion for a new trial. Flannery's wife, son and father were in the court when the verdict was pronounced.

"Another endurance contest I don't care at all for is the one prosperity is making staying around that corner," Atlanta Journal.

RECIPES

- Iced Fruit Soup.
1 cup canned fruit juice
3 cloves
1-inch stick cinnamon
1-2 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1-2 cup sugar
1 cup orange juice
1 cup grapefruit juice
1-8 teaspoon salt
- Bring canned fruit juice, cloves and cinnamon together to boiling point. Mix cornstarch to smooth paste with a little of the cold water, add to boiling sirup and cook three minutes. Then add remaining water and sugar, which have been cooked together until clear. Add salt, cool, combine with orange and grapefruit juice, strain and chill very thoroughly before serving. Or, if preferred, place in freezing chamber of automatic refrigerator and partly freeze. The quantities given will serve three or four large portions.

Crop Rotation Plan Will Help On Farm

AMES, Ia.—The adoption of a three or four-year crop rotation which includes a legume will help farmers solve a problem which will arise if the proposed voluntary domestic allotment plan should be put into effect, William F. Watkins, extension soils worker at Iowa State college, said.

The allotment plan, if hogs are included, would provide for a reduction in the amount of pork produced which in turn would mean a smaller demand for corn. This would mean that some crops would need to be substituted for part of the corn acreage.

"The adoption of a crop rotation would be the logical answer to this question," Mr. Watkins said. "In each of the last three years Iowa had something over 11,000,000 acres in corn, or 52 percent of the total land in cultivation. Assuming that half of the Iowa farmers would adopt a three-year rotation and the other half a four-year rotation on cultivated land, the corn acreage would be cut to about 8,800,000 acres, or approximately 40 percent of the total."

The crop rotation provides for the growing of a legume such as alfalfa or clovers during one year of each three, or four-year period. Legumes and hay crops would be increased from a little less than 3,000,000 acres, 13 percent of the total, to more than 6,000,000, approximately 28 percent. The small grain acreage under such a system would be reduced from about 7,000,000 to a little more than 6,000,000 acres.

In addition to assisting with grain reduction, Mr. Watkins said, the growing of more legumes in a crop rotation would provide a home-produced, protein feed for live stock, would lower production costs and would aid greatly in maintaining soil productivity.

The Party Circle.

York Republican Governor Bryan and his friends show great bravery and forbearance in demanding the abolition of the party circle from the ballot. Had there been no party circle on the ballot last fall the chance is very good that it would be Governor Griswold today instead of Governor Bryan.

This newspaper believes that the abolition of the party circle is not a forward step. We do not need weaker political parties but stronger ones. We do not need more independent voting but more concerted voting.

We know by experience that our long ballot is a bane. Our people do not investigate sufficiently far to know whom they are voting for when it comes to state offices below the governor. When and if they are called on to make a cross after every name on the ballot there would be more confusion and doubt than there is now—and surely there is a plenty now.

Keep the circle in the interest of stronger parties, and to reduce the labor and attendant farce of voting which a circleless ballot will inflict.

"Jimmy, Aunt Amanda will never kiss you with that dirty face."

"That's what I figured."

Passenger: "I can't sleep a wink the way this train jerks. Is the engineer crazy?"

Conductor: "No, sir, he's just teaching his wife to drive."

"I have a new baby brother."

"Is he going to stay?"

"I think so. He's got all his things off."

Jimmy was pushing his baby sister's perambulator down the street. "Hey, Jimmy," called his buddy from across the way, "do you get paid for doing that?"

"Naw," replied Jimmy, disgustedly, "this is a free wheeling job."

WJAG for inviting Wayne debaters to use their station Sunday. The station is to be commended for its policy of encouraging broadcasts of an educational nature, Mr. Best continued. "As a result of the enterprising policy that has made the radio possible, I assure you that the city school is ready to assist in its success," the speaker concluded.

Charles Kelsey, Norfolk lawyer, extended salute to Wayne on behalf of Norfolk lawyers. Especially did he salute the Norfolk and Wayne Huses and Fred Berry of Wayne. Mr. Kelsey welcomed the Wayne station and expressed hope that it would cement the already strong friendships between Norfolk and Wayne.

In replying to Mr. Kelsey, F. S. Berry said that "Norfolk and Wayne are both outstanding in northeast Nebraska because of the things in them and because of the fine territory and towns around them. The radio seems a gift of the gods and I hope both will use it to carry us on and out of the present conditions." Mr. Berry complimented the Genes in Norfolk and Wayne.

Carl H. Peterson, Madison county attorney, in saluting Wayne said he realized Wayne has fine institutions and fine farms but above all it is an excellent place in which to live. For more than a generation, he continued, Wayne has had men and women, such as those of the Kiwanis and Woman's clubs, who have planned for the future and devoted themselves to unselfish work to get results. All enjoy the fruits of that public spirit. "Wayne is not a town in which most Nebraskans live but the one in which most Nebraskans would like to live."

H. D. Addison, Wayne county attorney, in responding extended greeting to Madison county. "Each community, Mr. Addison said, feels effects of the depression. "At some points groups are banding together to protect property by force. Feeling of apprehension, ill will and destruction of credit result. Wayne county," Mr. Addison continued, "does not sympathize with radical movements. The motto is 'Live and let live.' We are proud of the county, its people and institutions."

Don Mapes of Norfolk, lawyer, stated that he was glad to take a small part in honoring Mr. Huse. "Editors," he continued, "play a large part in moulding thoughts. We congratulate Wayne on having an editor of vision and action. We hope the broadcast will strengthen the pleasant relations between Norfolk and Wayne."

"Merchants and people of Wayne territory appreciate the opportunity the radio affords," Willard Witte said. The broadcast enlarges Wayne territory and all appreciate this.

C. A. Lederer, Kiwanis president at Norfolk, said "all communities are lifted by their newspapers and civic organizations and Wayne is fortunate to have such a paper as the Wayne Herald and such an active Kiwanis club. We greet both."

T. S. Hook, president of the Wayne Kiwanis club, replied by saying "I am sure that I speak for every member of the Wayne Kiwanis club when I extend congratulations to the Wayne Herald and WJAG upon their affiliation as a commercial and educational center of increasing importance. It is highly desirable that Wayne have an air outlet and the present arrangement is apparently ideal."

"I wish to add my appreciation and that of Wayne Kiwanians to the bouquets that have already been showered upon E. W. Huse, publisher of the Wayne Herald, by whose enterprise and business courage it is made possible to put Wayne and vicinity on the air. It is necessary to have pioneers in every community if that community is to march forward. In sponsoring this broadcasting station Mr. Huse is doing another of the things that we of Wayne have become accustomed to have him do. So to Mr. Huse and the Herald and to station WJAG again congratulations."

A. J. Betzold, president of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, extended hearty congratulations to Mr. Huse and Wayne. "We feel," Mr. Betzold added, "that the venture will be a success. It will form a closer contact between Wayne and Norfolk and will help build a better northeast Nebraska."

Burr Davis, Wayne, president of the Young Men's Business club, responded. He congratulated Mr. Huse and the Herald staff "for the enterprise in establishing remote control broadcasting from which Wayne and vicinity will receive special benefit. Wayne is well equipped to offer radio programs and the other program features will be of benefit," Mr. Davis believed.

Don Bridge of Norfolk, stated that he was happy to be on the program, because of pleasant personal and business relations with Wayne.

"I feel confident that the radio experiment will do what we predict," stated C. W. Brown of Wayne, in response. "We urge all to come and see our attractive little city with the college and fine farms. We are proud that our pe-per is the first to install the radio." Alfred L. Howser, Norfolk Legion commander, gave a military salute to Wayne and added that "400 Norfolk Legionnaires are ready to salute you."

Wayne Legion commander, C. A. Orr, responded and thanked Norfolk on behalf of Irwin Sears post. He said the Wayne Legion men are proud to have such a fine post as the Norfolk one as neighbors. He stated that the Legion is ready to help in distress.

Karl Stefan, popular WJAG announcer, said "On behalf of the radio family I send greetings to Wayne, in Nebraska. In the book of newspaper and radio progress we see the Huse family driving oxen across the prairie taking a printing press to new territory. Gene Huse of Norfolk was one of the first to make radio a necessity and Uncle Gene is now taking active part. The story is one of pioneering. WJAG welcomes Wayne on the air and the whole radio family says 'welcome and good luck.' When Uncle Gene says 'Good morning,' we'll be listening."

"Today marks a new element in Wayne," said Henry E. Ley of Wayne. "We have watched business and radio develop side by side and we deduct that the two go hand in hand. Wayne is amply blessed and should profit by the venture."

John Ole Olson of Norfolk, stated that it was a privilege to welcome Wayne to the air and he wished Mr. Huse success. Wayne and Norfolk are close and they should know each other better through the new connection. He sent greetings to E. O. Stratton.

J. T. Bressler, jr., replied that "Wayne citizens feel it a privilege to express appreciation to Mr. Huse for what he has done to build up the city. He has sponsored advance steps and the First National bank joins in congratulations."

"Women of Norfolk salute the women of Wayne," Mrs. M. S. McDuffe of Norfolk said. "As they go on the air, it is fitting that women be included in the program as the radio is now a part of every household, to which its voice gives color. Wayne is synonymous with education and we welcome her."

Mrs. R. L. Larson responded for Wayne. She said that "women are interested in every change that improves the home and they realize the educational and entertainment advantages of the radio." She closed with congratulations.

Fred D. Wolf of Norfolk, said that he was glad to "add congratulations to Wayne people and Mr. Huse. Norfolk and Wayne should draw closer together through this medium."

Edw. Seymour, responding, stated that he "is interested in trying to make a bigger and better Wayne" and is thus interested in the new radio venture.

Frank Erxleben, chairman of the county board, stated that he comes in contact with much despair in his work on the board and he is "glad to live where there are men like Mr. Huse who are willing to take steps to lick the depression. The optimistic stand of Mr. Huse helps battle the times. Wayne is a fine city and the radio will put it on the map more than ever."

Walter Priess said he had not lived in Wayne long but in his short residence he is convinced Wayne is one of the best little cities in Nebraska and has many progressive men.

Congratulations to Mr. Huse and the Herald were extended by Armand Hiseox who added that "as the radio has benefited Norfolk, I believe it will benefit Wayne."

J. R. Reynolds complimented the radio venture and said he appreciated Mr. Huse's courage and wished him success.

E. D. Gordon stated that he has found Wayne a fine little city and complimented it for being progressive. He congratulated the radio efforts.

Dr. L. W. Jamieson stated that "any cooperative effort on the part of separated peoples is bound to be helpful for both. Wayne is fortunate to have Mr. Huse and the Herald who will sponsor such an enterprise as radio."

Dr. S. A. Lutgen sent a message which stated that he "admired the courage that enabled Mr. Huse to step forward in present times. I hope," he continued, "that you will find radio an enjoyable hobby as I did. It will keep Wayne abreast of the times."

C. H. Hendrickson, who was unable to be in Norfolk, sent a message.

Many telephone messages of congratulation were received on the Norfolk program. Among those received at Norfolk were from Mrs. Donald Mason of Neligh, G. A. Gansko of Madison, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morrow and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mittelstadt of Winside, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Strahan, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McMaster and son, Mrs. Jessie Reynolds, Sheriff A. W. Stephens, Herbert Priess, and Rev. William Kearns of Wayne, F. D. Stone of Hartington. Mrs. Huse telephoned to WJAG appreciation for the salute to her husband.

Admission of Failure. (Lincoln Journal) When the president-elect started asking for weapons with which to battle the situation which confronts the government, he was not at all bashful. If there was anything which congress could grant him which he thought might help his fight against depression, he put in a request. Democratic leaders in congress have revealed, now that a bill granting the new president wide powers for reorganizing the government is well under way with some chance of passing, that Mr. Roosevelt also wants full power to balance the budget.

Mr. Roosevelt, if the power to balance the budget is awarded him, is willing to accept full responsibility. That goes without stipulation. Mr. Roosevelt will have to accept responsibility if such power is granted. He is willing to go down to defeat should he fail to accomplish all he sets out to do, if congress will entrust him with the necessary power.

Speaker Garner seems to favor an arrangement of this kind. Even with the house under his direction he admits that congress has not displayed the ingenuity, or disposition necessary for solving the problem confronting the nation. Congress having failed, rather than try again, Garner is willing to give the president dictatorial powers.

While Mr. Roosevelt probably should have wide power in reorganizing the government and balancing the budget, this approach to a dictatorship cannot be viewed without apprehension. Congress should not be permitted to shirk responsibilities too easily. If congress is so organized that it cannot function efficiently, does it not require reorganization itself? If the system is an utter failure, is not a new system in demand?

If the people want a dictator, that is their privilege. But surely they do not need 435 representatives and 96 senators, all well paid, to tell them so. The granting of wide powers to Mr. Roosevelt may be the solution to the situation. If it is, it is best that action be taken. But if it is the solution, then congress has admitted and proved that it is vastly overrated and so organized as to be too cumbersome and unwieldy, to function under pressure.

SIoux CITY LIVE STOCK EXCHANGE More than 40 Years of Market Building In August, 1931, drastic cuts were made effective in commission charges by all selling agencies at the Sioux City market. On the most depressing markets ever known salesmen have been forced to work harder and longer to get results. Commission firms have been compelled to spend a far greater proportion of their earnings to interest new buyers seeking to create a demand where the need exists. No other market in our competitive territory shows such low service charges as does Sioux City. LOWER COMMISSION CHARGES Where a carload of cattle was charged $21 under the old schedule, we now find a charge of $15. the charge is at the rate of 70c per head for a total of $7. Hogs by truck pay a charge of 25c per head when the count per owner is from two and up to 52 head and when weight is not more than 3 Drafts. A carload of hogs now shows a $12 charge as compared with $14 under the old rule. A double deck of sheep now carries a charge of $18 as compared with $20 formerly. Under the old rule 10 cattle by truck were charged 80c per head for a total of $8, now When more than one head and up to 65 head of sheep are trucked in the charge is 20c per head. 66 head and up to 125 are sold at the maximum per owner charge of $13, or the same commission as charged for only 65 head. SCOTTY doesn't know the TELEPHONE saved his young master's life—but the DOCTOR says it did!

One of our customers recently told us of an experience which brought home to him the great value of the telephone. One evening, he said, his young son became violently ill from eating a large quantity of spoiled fruit. He rushed to the telephone and called the family doctor who arrived in a few minutes. After relieving the boy, the doctor said that half an hour's delay would have been fatal.

There are hundreds of services your telephone can perform—some which save time and expense, some which make living more pleasant and some which save life or property. It is an unlimited service—available for only a few cents a day.

One call may be worth more than telephone service costs in a lifetime.

February Social Affairs Reflect Patriotic Motif

George Washington's birthday lends color and interest to late February affairs, and offers countless decorative possibilities to the clever hostess. The bright red and blue with contrasting white makes a most effective and refreshing color scheme in contrast to the prevailing pastels.

First of all, let's take up decorative plans. If a portrait or print of George or Martha Washington is available, by all means hang it in a conspicuous place in the living or dining room, and drape an American flag over it. Bunting and colored strips of paper are available but should be used rather sparingly in the home—these are more appropriate to the hall or stage, and might be used in combination with large blue stars cut from heavy cardboard.

For informal home entertaining, the hostess and her assistants might dress in Colonial costumes and greet their guests with a curtsey.

Patriotic cascades from red, white and blue crepe paper may be handed to the guests as they enter. A large Martha Washington cake decorated with little silk flags and candied cherries, mounted on a continental drum made of cardboard and crepe paper, makes an effective centerpiece for the luncheon or dinner table. Blue candles in silver candlesticks may flank the cake, or old-fashioned white candles tied with narrow red ribbon with clusters of artificial red cherries caught in the bows, are equally effective.

Tall silver candelabras might be filled with candies wrapped in red, white and blue tissue paper. Red, white and blue flowers in a silver bowl make an effective centerpiece. Dainty and effective cherry blossom branches for decorating buffet and mantle may be made from cherry blossom crepe paper by cutting out the flowers, placing these and fastening on branches.

Place cards may be made from small white cards on which are pasted George and Martha Washington stickers or black paper silhouettes. A tiny red, white and blue ribbon bow or very small flag slipped through two holes in the card will add to its novelty.

Old-fashioned nosegays made by covering small cherry drops with cellophane and slipping the twists through a lace paper doily. Tiny American flags may be anchored in gum drops reflecting the patriotic colors. Fluffy frills of red or blue tulle might be used under the candlesticks, and silhouettes of the first president, his wife, hatches and flags might be cut from colored paper and mounted on silver background, to be used as table ornaments.

Fashion Jottings

Printed silks are given a prominent place in spring fabric collections abroad, according to fashion experts. These tend to the large, contrasting stripes, spots, and fine hair-lines to be used in tailored wear, and irregular mosaic designs. However, prints must share honors with plain colors in novelty weaves this season. The dark silks printed in white are seemingly headed for a popular season—delicate traceries of white flowers on black, navy, brown, spring green or the very prominent new coral. Checks and plaids appear in new guises, varying from white line plaids to modernistic blocked effects. Most of these fabrics are moderately crinkled crepe, but some are of a deep ridged crinkle in corrugated effect.

Necklines for spring feature return of the bateau (or boat) line and the jumper dress. Tiny pleated organdie ruffles are used to give the lingerie touch to many new frocks, and a new crinkled organdy is coming into popularity.

Gloves worn at a recent fashion show displayed several unusual fabrics. There were gloves of natural colored linen, of knitted angora dress material, of knitted linen, wide wale pique and hand-crocheted linen.

Bottle-Opener Key. Quite the newest combination is the bottle opener which is the notched top of a key, and is always conveniently handy. The key blanks are available and smiths fashion these into keys in any desired form.

DECLAMATORY MEET TONIGHT

First Issue Of The "Wayne Hi Harbinger" Planned For Next Friday.

Finals for the local declamatory contest at Wayne high school are scheduled for this evening. Eliminations for the humorous divisions were held last Thursday, for the dramatic, Friday afternoon, and for all freshman contestants, Monday afternoon. The five candidates in humorous section eligible to compete in the finals are Everett Dennis, Lucille Surber, Ruth Rhoades, Marcella Weber and Mildred Maloney. Miss Loula Avery, Kermit Stewart and W. A. Behl served as judges for this division.

Entrants in the oratorical division are James Davies, William Ahern, Marion Jones, Vivian Sandahl, William Moore and Don Davis. Because of the relatively small number enrolled, eliminations were not held in this group, and contestants will go into the finals. The same plan will be followed with the extemporaneous group, in which William Studley, Raymond Sala, Richard Moses, Ward Wasson and Walter Savidge will enter.

Mr. Behl is conducting a beginners' class in debate this semester which meets sixth period, and is made up of the following pupils: Paul Bernston, Lindley Keeney, Alice Mae Young, Dorothy Hook and Geraldine Gamble. Members of the class have been writing letters asking information regarding the tax problem, and have received several good answers from the state tax commissioner in Lincoln, and from Washington officials. Dorothy Hook has written to English authorities for information on the tangible and intangible tax in effect there.

Letha Mae Penhollow has turned in an interesting relief map of the North American continent for American history project, and Paul Bernston completed an artistic scrap book dealing with the life of Washington, and other clippings.

As outside work in solid geometry, Miss Mildred Clark's students have been turning in figures with 4, 6, 8, 12 and 20 sides representing solids.

"Wayne Hi Harbinger," school paper, will make its initial appearance Friday, under sponsorship of Miss Marian Marsh. Members of the journalism class will edit the paper, taking turns on the editorial staff. It is to be a four-sheet mimeographed paper issued every two weeks.

High school art students have been studying monochromatic, analogous, complimentary and split-complementary color schemes and using these in conventional designs.

Eighth graders had a geography drill on Asia last week with Gerald Wright and Harold Caspey choosing sides. Harold's side won. In geography, they began a new project on Australia, with Roderick Peck as leader. Eighth grade boys entertained girls in the class with a party Valentine day as they had more tardy marks in the recent contest. In arithmetic eighth graders are taking up the study of mortgages and learning about their uses through interviews.

For art, seventh graders completed a Valentine project and Verdun Hurlbert brought several interesting patterns from which he made attractive Valentines. Dorothy Liedtke and Betty Helen Ellis also made attractive ones. Original plays were written about Robert Morris and the financial side of the Revolution in seventh grade history, and the class decided that Mildred Ringer's and Roberta Baker's play was the best. In literature the class is studying the life of John Greenleaf Whittier and his "Snowbound."

Knighthood of Youth club in sixth grade met Monday to celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday anniversary.

Junior high school declamatory competition is progressing nicely, and elimination has occupied the entire week. Miss Florence Peterson has been assisting Miss Loula Avery by handling the seventh grade eliminations.

Lower Grade News. Fifth graders observed Thomas Edison's birthday by arranging a program of stories about his life and his inventions. Wilmer Ellis served as chairman of the affair. Lincoln's birthday was observed by a program of stories, poems, pictures and plays, with Mary Hicks as chairman. The class had a Valentine box of gay red paper with white decorations, and this was opened on Valentine's day and the greetings in it distributed.

Fourth grade reading club will meet every Thursday afternoon. Miss Eva Ghimsdal has made a large chart with each pupil's name on it, and we cut-outs resembling books will be pasted after the name after a book has been completed. The children have been busy making Valentines. For spelling, the class divided into two sides, the Lincolns and the Washingtons, and are having heated competition. To date the Lincolns are ahead.

201 Years Ago Washington Was Born

If we as Americans had deliberately set out to build up a model character worthy of leading our armies to victory and independence, and heading our first national government, we could scarcely have improved upon George Washington. He has withstood the attacks of de-bunkers—he has stood the acid tests of historians—upon his qualities has many a life been patterned and upon his virtues has many a youth been drilled.

Washington was a man of great physical strength although not always in good health. He was slow and deliberate of speech, and evidently not a brilliant talker; this is evidenced by the fact that none of his conversations have ever been recorded. He was not a great general nor a great statesman, but he was truly a great man; he held his army together by persistency and his will, not by strategic moves. He did not leave a Washingtonian theory of government. Why? Because, unlike Jefferson and Hamilton, he never evolved a set of principles; he simply faced it according to his own judgment.

They dined well at Mount Vernon in those good old days. A large punch bowl was sent from guest to guest when they were aroused in the morning, and the breakfast table was "garnished out by roast fowls, ham, venison, game and other dainties." Breakfast was at seven, with dinner at three, and a typical meal brought "sheeps-head, bass, pickled crab, ham, mutton, vegetables, pudding, fruits, cheese, old Madeira." Dinner usually lasted until six o'clock, the time being spent in eating, talking, toasting and nibbling the desserts. Supper came at nine o'clock, with such dainties as crabs, artichokes, oysters, strawberries and other fresh fruits, the day ending as it had begun with the punch bowl.

Margaret Jones, Betty Klammer and Elaine Yopum. Miss Loula Avery, Mrs. Don Miller and Kermit Stewart served as judges.

Horoscope

If You Would Know Yourself Read What the Stars Foretell For You.

If your natal date falls between February 20 and March 21, you are a third child of the water trinity, and you Pisces folk are changeable and contradictory. Your symbol is two fishes swimming in opposite directions. Poets, artists, dreamers, you are apt to be romantic, often absentminded, talkative, but with remarkably fine mental equipment and intuition.

Your sign is ruled by Neptune, the shadow planet, that inspires or disorganizes, and also by Jupiter. You are inclined to be too generous, to crave the role of martyr and to assume unasked responsibility. If you will only learn to point your aims in one direction, you will attain glory, honor and success. Remember, you're inclined to be a little stubborn.

To Slice Butter. Fold a piece of waxed paper over a silver knife and you can slice butter smoothly and easily.

Portable Ash Tray. Of masculine appeal is the small ash tray which clamps onto floor or bridge lamp, and is always at the user's elbow ready for use.

Silver Balls for Ice. There's talk about new silver balls which substitute for ice in one's water glasses. The balls contain frozen liquid which chills the drink.

Pockets for Swimmers. Water enthusiasts will find a waterproof pocket on the market this summer which attaches to the bathing suit belt and keeps one's valuables, cigarettes and matches dry.

Motorized Baby Buggy. England is responsible for a new motorized baby carriage which has a maximum speed of one and one-half miles per hour, and has a seat for the nurse at the rear.

Novelty Animal Clocks. Some very unusual new hand-carved wooden clocks have found their way onto the market recently. The animals have eyes which tell the time. Pupil of the left eye shows the hours and the right pupil shows minutes.

Washington Cake.

Cut a round sponge cake in halves. Put together with fluffy white frosting, sprinkle with chopped candied cherries and almonds. Ice top and decorate with candied cherries, making stems of angelica.

Ham and Mushroom Custard.

1-2 pound of mushrooms
3 tablespoonsfuls of butter
2 teaspoonfuls of parsley
1 teaspoonful of salt
1 cupful of chopped cooked ham
1 cupful of warm milk

From Ayrshire, Scotland, is this very palatable combination with eggs. Brown the peeled, sliced mushrooms in butter ten minutes, adding the salt and parsley. Blend warm milk and ham with the well-beaten eggs. Butter shallow baking cups, and put in each first some of the mushrooms, then pour egg mixture over them. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven—350° F.—until the custard is set. Serve with a crisp vegetable salad.—Miss J. R. Ayrshire, Scotland.

Purée of Green Peas.

3 cups shelled new peas
2 tablespoons butter
1 slice salt pork
1 quart water or stock
2-3 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon quick cooking tapioca

1-2 cup whipped cream, optional
Cook together peas, butter, pork, onions, water or stock and salt, until peas are tender. Remove pork and rub soup through coarse sieve. Return to fire, shake in tapioca, and simmer until it is clear. Serve in cups with garnish of whipped cream. Serves four to six.

When the peas are garden-grown and the pods crisp and fresh, a few of the pods may be cooked with the soup.

Chocolate Mousse.

1-1/4 cups unsweetened evaporated milk
2 tablespoons water
1-2 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 square (ounce) cooking chocolate

Scald together one-fourth cup of milk with water and half of the sugar in upper vessel of double boiler. Then pour slowly over egg yolks beaten until light with remaining sugar. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, for five minutes. Add salt and combine with chocolate which has been melted over hot water. Beat well until thoroughly smooth, cool and add to remaining milk which has been first scalded, then chilled and whipped until stiff. Add also vanilla, turn into refrigerator tray and place in freezing chamber from five to six hours. Serves six portions of the mousse.

Frozen Fruit Salad.

Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup pineapple juice. Add one cup boiling orange juice and dissolve gelatin. Strain. When cold add four oranges peeled and cut into sections, one cup white grapes, one-half cup maraschino cherries and one cup grapefruit pulp and juice. Mix all ingredients and when the gelatin begins to thicken, pack the salad into a mold, cover tightly, wrap mold in waxed paper and pack in ice and salt for several hours, or freeze in trays of automatic refrigerator. Serve on lettuce with fruit salad dressing.

Ham Mousse.

Use one cupful of diced cooked ham, 10 blanched almonds, juice of 1-2 lemon, 1 heart of celery, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 4 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon chopped pimento, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1-2 tablespoons gelatin, 1-4 cupful cold water, 1 cupful ham stock and 1 cupful of heavy cream.

Put the ham, celery, and almonds through a food chopper. Add all the seasonings and then the chopped pepper, pimento, and mayonnaise. Soak the gelatin in the cold water and dissolve in the boiling ham stock. Cool, and add the ham mixture. Fold in the cream (whipped) and pour into a rectangular bread pan 9 by 5 inches at the top and 2 3-4 inches deep. Place in the refrigerator until firm. Delicious.

Supreme of Chicken.

1 1-2 cups finely diced chicken
1 teaspoon minced parsley
2-3 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1 cup mayonnaise
1 1-2 cups whipped cream
1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple

1-2 cup shredded blanched almonds or chopped walnuts
Combine chicken (using canned if desired), parsley, seasonings, lemon rind and juice and mayonnaise. Set aside for half an hour, then fold in cream whipped until stiff, pineapple and nuts. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze at least four hours. Slice for service. Serves six.

Noodle Ring.

Cook 1-2 package egg noodles until tender. Drain, pack in a buttered ring mold and bake 1 hour in a moderate oven, 325 degrees F. Loosen around the edge and turn out on serving platter. Fill center with cooked lamb cut in pieces and reheated in brown sauce, together with a few stuffed olives.

Yankee Doodle Is America's Only Song Heritage From The Revolution

Out of every major conflict in which these United States have engaged, have come a definite group of battle songs which have come to be regarded as "national" tunes. The Revolutionary war brought "Yankee Doodle," the "Star-Spangled Banner" originating during the War of 1812, "Marching Through Georgia," "Maryland, My Maryland," and "Battled Hymn of the Republic," cheered the boys on during the Civil war, with the Southerners marching forward to strains of "Dixie," and the Northern troops marching grimly to meet them, the tune of "John Brown's Body," "Goody-by, Johnny Gray," "Well Have a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and "On the Banks of the Wabash" came into great popularity during the Spanish-American war, both in army camps and at home, and the world brought "Smile," "K-K-K-Kat," "Over There," "I Hate to Get Up," and "Long, Long Trail."

Always it has been the stirring, gay little songs which have been favorites of boys under stress of battle—not the more serious, heavy tunes. Our soldiers have always obstinately refused to sing stock martial tunes written for them, but instead have adapted racy music hall tunes to their use. Some of the most dearly loved tunes have amusing origins. Strangely enough, no one of the great national hymns has been written by a great poet, nor has a trained musician created the music to a national song.

"Yankee Doodle." Our one song legacy from the Revolutionary war is "Yankee Doodle" and while it is neither grammatical nor refined, its historical associations are woven and interwoven with the establishment of American independence. "Yankee Doodle" changed sides during the Revolution, starting out as a British song of age-old tune, and emerging as a strictly American melody at the close. During the war, the term "Yankee" was used as an especially insulting term, and the British officers took great pains to shout it at the citizens who took part in the Boston Massacre.

During the French and Indian war General Amherst had an army under his command made up of English and provincial troops, the latter being "quaint and ludicrous" according to current writers, with "some in black suits, some in blue, and some in gray. Some of them had long coats, some short, and some had no coats at all. Some had long hair, some short, and some wore enormous wigs," furnishing a great deal of sport for the regular British troops. An English doctor, in spirit of sarcasm, palmed off on the provincials the "Yankee Doodle" tune of Cromwell's time, calling it one of the most celebrated airs of martial music. It was entitled "The Yankee's Return to Camp," and begins: "Father and I went down to camp Along with Captain Gooding. When we saw the men and boys As thick as hasty pudding." Unsuspecting, the gullest Continental swallowed the whole joke, and nothing was heard in their camp for days but "Yankee Doodle." Little did the British suspect that the joke would react as a boomerang 20 years later, when some of those same militiamen marched to victory at Lexington to the self-same tune.

Little did the British suspect that the joke would react as a boomerang 20 years later, when some of those same militiamen marched to victory at Lexington to the self-same tune.

Life in Boston about 1768 was full of friction, seething with resentment as Royalist regiments were sent to watch the people and report on their professed disloyalty. Knowing the ploy of the Bostonians, the British would race their horses on the Commons on Sabbath days, and play the mocking tune, "Yankee Doodle," outside the church doors during services. A merchant told of one of the countrymen standing watching soldiers at target practice, with never a one of them able to hit the mark, and the tattered Continental rearing with laughter. Nettled, an officer invited him to try his hand, and the countryman promptly hit every target in the bulls-eye with the officers and soldiers staring dumbfounded. "Why," said the countryman, "I've got a boy at home that will toss up an apple and shoot out all the seeds as it's coming down." This tallies with other accounts of the colonists' marvelous skill with firearms.

The young merchant prince, John Hancock, graduated from Harvard and inherited a place of wealth and high position in Boston. Although strongly urged to join the royalist party, he sided with Samuel Adams and answered the threats of violence with "Burn Boston, and make John Hancock a beggar, if the public good requires it." His championship of the colonists' cause made the British add another verse to "Yankee Doodle,"

"Yankee Doodle came to town, For to buy a firelock. We will tar and feather him, And so will John Hancock." George Washington had received his military training in the Virginia militia, and when only 19 years old was made an adjutant-general and placed in command of a division. He was a capable and tried soldier, with an admirable record in the French war of 1755 fighting in the British ranks. When he stepped into command of the American army, he was working with a motley crowd clad in every known variety of attire, but all remarkably fine shags. Out of these civilians he created an army and outgeneraled all that Britain could send against him, in the midst of poverty and suffering he organized victory. Fearless, undisciplined, these men were little used to army life. A visitor to Washington's camp repeats the following conversation he overheard between a captain and one of his privates. "Bill," said the captain, "go and bring a pail of water for the mess." "I shan't," was the reply. "It's your turn now, Captain. I got the last."

And so it was a raw, untaught, but nevertheless enthusiastic and fired group of minute-men who went into the battle of Lexington. And when Lord Percy's troops marched out of Boston to relieve their British comrades at Lexington, they kept step to the strains of "Yankee Doodle," the overture to the dramatic American revolution. After their success at Lexington, the Americans appropriated the tune, and used it throughout the war, and at the surrender of General Cornwallis, when the British troops marched sullenly between two lines of ragged militiamen, their band played "The World Turned Upside Down," and the Continental bands responded with "Yankee Doodle."
