

FIFTY-THIRD YEAR

PRESBYTERIANS MEET IN WAYNE

Ordain Rev. Lindsey Tuesday Evening In Impressive Church Service.

Amid the welcoming handclaps of fellowship and with the simple but impressively beautiful services of the Presbyterian church, Albert Lindsey was duly ordained a minister in the church Tuesday night.

The ceremony took place in the Wayne Presbyterian church where the Niobrara Presbytery was holding its spring meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The rites opened with a hymn, followed by scripture reading and prayer by Rev. H. D. Johnson of O'Neill. Then came the anthem by the church choir preceding the sermon by Rev. J. W. Turner of Wakefield.

Following this were the constitutional questions propounded by Rev. Thomas A. Barton of Valentine; and the ordination prayer of Rev. F. A. Davies.

During this all ministers present laid their hands on the head of the kneeling candidate. It was the most solemn part of the ritual. As he rose, Rev. Lindsey was extended the right hand of fellowship by all pastors present.

The charge to the ministry was given by Dr. Presley of Omaha, and the service concluded with a benediction by the newly ordained minister.

In the afternoon, Rev. Lindsey passed an exceptionally satisfactory examination conducted by Rev. P. A. Davies, Rev. S. N. Horton, Rev. D. A. Dickey, Rev. J. W. Turner and Rev. H. D. Johnson. He was unanimously passed.

Dr. Larimore C. Denise, president of Omaha seminary, gave the inspirational message Wednesday morning. He pleaded for renewed hope and courage among the ministers.

Although people are financially depressed, yet they are willing to give what they have to the church, the speaker said. He continued with "Prayer and service are equally, if not more, important than money to the church."

Church members can give both. "Now is the time for teachers to measure up," Dr. Denise declared. "Now is our time to serve our people. They never were as hungry for help as they are now."

Rev. Thomas A. Barton of Valentine was elected moderator of the Presbytery for the coming year and Rev. Samuel N. Horton of Stanton will continue as stated clerk and treasurer.

AS APRIL WARMS VERDURE APPEARS AND HOPE RISES

APRIL always dishes out sharper reminder of winter than people relish, and this April is doubtless up to the average in vernal qualities.

This week has been especially free from frost, the sun glowing wonderfully and the wind reducing itself to agreeable mildness.

Now vegetation is coming on apace, and we should make our feelings harmonize as well as possible with nature's smiles and promises, looking ahead instead of behind.

Whatever obstacles we have had to overcome should give us more resolution and more poise. The hazards and obstructions that appear with us determination and put zest into life's course and quest.

Let us be sufficiently content in our respective niches to avoid harrowing worry, but at the same time sufficiently discontented to make progress and gain permanent headway.

Each person has some talent, each has a place in the world. Let each make the best of his talents, and in helping society, indirectly help himself.

Petersen Parlor and Gaertner Building Suffer Loss In Fire Wednesday.

Fire discovered about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning damaged the Pete Petersen billiard parlor fixtures and stock, and the J. P. Gaertner building which house them here. Loss to the fixtures and stock is estimated at $2,000 and damage to the building is placed at $800. Both are insured.

The blaze originated in the basement and had gained considerable headway when noticed by Marshal A. W. Stewart. As there was no fire in the basement it is thought the fire may have been started by electric wires. A large hole was burned in the floor and the fire damaged tables, supplies and windows. Smoke also caused loss.

Pete Petersen, owner of the contest, has been in Excelsior Springs, Mo., and returned yesterday after he learned of the fire. Mr. Gaertner, owner of the building, lives in Los Angeles, Calif.

SCHOOL BOARD NAMES FACULTY

Four New Teachers Will Be Added To Wayne School Faculty In Fall.

The teaching staff for Wayne public school was completed except for one last Saturday following several extra sessions of the school board.

Four new instructors will join the faculty, and one teacher is being eliminated from the high school. This elimination will probably require instructional work on the part of teachers in junior-high school, in senior high work.

Just what classes or what year of high school work will be taught by the junior high staff cannot be determined until the schedule is decided upon. It is hoped that this will not be required in many classes.

New instructors this year will be: Miss Helen Kellogg, girls' physical education, literature and hygiene in junior high school; Robert S. Gibb, coaching and high school instructor; and J. M. Lockard, history and geography in junior high school. The fourth instructor has not yet been decided upon.

Is All-Around Athlete. Mr. Gibb comes to the school with an unusually fine record in college athletics, scholarship and activities. He is a graduate of Crete high school and receives his A. B. degree from Nebraska Wesleyan university this spring.

During his college career, he played on the Wesleyan football team all four years, being named on the all-state second team as a freshman, on first and second teams as sophomore, on first team as a junior, leading the conference scoring, and on first team as a senior, being voted the "most valuable man in the conference."

This past year, he made the longest kick-off now on record, making a 107-yard dash when playing against Oklahoma City university. He played basketball all four years at Wesleyan and led the scoring each season.

During his freshman year, he received honorable mention on the all-state squad as forward, the same during his sophomore year playing center, was named on all-state second team as a junior, and during his senior year, with two games left to play, Mr. Gibb has scored 170 points in 18 games, an average of nine points each.

All-state teams are not yet selected. This year he was voted the most representative man in Wesleyan. He is a member of the national honorary psychological fraternity. In addition to his coaching work, Mr. Gibb will carry a full teaching load here.

Miss Kellogg is a graduate of Nora high school, and received an A. B. degree from Nebraska Wesleyan university in 1932. For two years she taught at Haigler, and has been in Hebron school for four years.

Mr. Lockard is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and has been at Long Pine the past three years as junior high school principal and also had charge of several high school activities. He sings, plays hand instruments and the piano. The board feels that in bringing Mr. Lockard here they are giving boys of junior high school age the male leadership they require.

Other instructors will be: Miss Minnie Will, kindergarten, which position will be held open for her until August, pending recovery of her health; Miss Coila Potras, first grade; Miss Ruth Ross, second grade; Miss Hazel Reeve, third grade; Miss Eva Gilmstadt, fourth grade; Miss Louise Eggert, fifth grade; Miss Maude Curley, principal of junior high school, mathematics and English and high school art; Kermit Stewart, music; Miss Anne Geisler, principal high school, Latin; W. A. Behl, debate and history; Gayle Childs, science; Leonard Good, commercial; and Miss Mildred Clark, mathematics, and H. R. Best, superintendent.

District Meeting. Wayne and Schuyler districts of the Peoples Natural Gas company held a meeting in Wayne last Friday to transact business. Miss Elizabeth Bridenstein and H. Wedge of Schuyler, Chris Peterson of Bancroft, Roy Lennart of Wakefield, W. L. Peterson and Judson Squires of Omaha, met with J. R. Reynolds and E. D. Gordon of the local office.

In Business Session. The Red Cross board held a business meeting Saturday evening for routine work.

TEACHERS SUFFER UNEASY SUSPENSE AT THIS SEASON

THIS is the time of year when town school teachers are in a state of anxiety over holding their jobs. The question of wages is not so largely involved. Teachers know they must accept less pay. But they also know that teaching forces are being curtailed and thus that the supply from which to draw greatly exceeds the demand.

They know that many new teachers are coming into the field, and that ambitious newcomers regard inadequate compensation better than none. In view of economic conditions which impose an extraordinary tax on the nerves of everybody, school boards no doubt become more critical than ever—sometimes more querulous in regard to teachers than facts would warrant.

We doubt not that prejudice more often influences the selection of teachers in bad times than in good times, and that no matter how capably or faithfully a teacher may have handled his or her work, peremptory dismissal is an increasingly common danger on trivial grounds.

Employing institutions and individuals and boards have developed under the pall of the depression a state of mind that engenders largely unsupported fault-finding which may appear in the guise of careful discrimination or necessary economy.

Fear Is Subject Of Kiwanis Talk

Wayne School Music Pupils Sing On Monday Program For Local Club.

Dr. C. T. Ingham addressed Kiwanis club Monday noon on the subject of "Commercializing Fear." Dr. Ingham's subject was relative to the element of fear in people that is often capitalized, as well as a child's, Dr. Ingham said.

The big national companies know this and some play upon it. "The cause for necessity to sell a great volume comes from the use of machines in developing mass production," Dr. Ingham thinks.

The public does not often realize this, the speaker asserted. "The rest of the program was given by students of the Wayne high schools who placed as superior in the recent music meet. Accompanied by Kermit Stewart, their instructor, James Davies sang, 'Give A Man A Horse He Can Ride,' Gwendolyn Mulvey sang 'The Moon Behind the Cottonwoods,' and Everett Dennis sang 'Rolling Down to Rio.'"

These were followed by Miss Minnie Denkinger who sang two songs, "Sweet Miss Mary" and "Pale Moon." She was accompanied by the piano by Miss Esther Mao Ingham.

Kiwanis adopted a resolution of sympathy and regret to the Young Business Men's club on the loss of their loved member, E. R. Love, who died last week. The invitation to Wayne Kiwanians to attend the district meeting in Omaha on April 21 was also repeated through one of the state officers in a letter to the local club.

Dr. Lutén of Laurel, and Dr. Dewey of Coleridge, were introduced to the club as guests. About 40 members attended the meeting.

By eliminating these expenditures could be put and emphasis placed on the fundamentals.

Takes Deposit Case To Supreme Court

County Treasurer J. J. Steele was in supreme court at Lincoln Tuesday, invoking a reasonable interpretation of conflicting statutes relating to the deposit of public funds in banks. He stated that since the number of banks in the various counties have been decreased, a serious situation has arisen, since the law places a limitation on amount that may be deposited measured by the capital and surplus of the depository banks, whereas tax moneys exceed this limitation. The case came before the court on appeal of Mr. Steele from a judgment of $4,415 in favor of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company, representing difference between the amount it paid the county on account of a deposit in a failed bank and the amount it collected from the receiver, plus interest.

Voice Of Discontent
 A Des Moines report published in the Chicago Daily Drovers' Journal said the Farmers Holiday association proposed to call a nation-wide farm strike to start May 13 unless two demands—guaranteed cost of production for all agricultural products and currency inflation to pre-war standards—are in the meantime granted by acts of congress. It is proposed to draft the strike plans May 3 and 4. Milo Reno, national president of the Farm Holiday association, is quoted as saying, "We've given the administration more than a month to make good," and then he expressed disappointment over results, and adds: "We are going to have justice if we have to shut off every hog, every kernel of grain, every pint of milk and every pound of butter from eastern markets." We have always had agitators and sometimes they may be necessary to progress, but how much more agreeable it would be to accomplish reforms and grow into normal economic activities without fanning the flames of disagreement, without causing irritability and neighborhood conflicts. It is manifestly unfair to expect any administration to perform a miracle in a month. Under the stress of agitation and under the lash of feverish demands, an administration may do the very thing that would hinder more than help. We were a long time getting everything disjointed and out of order, and necessarily it will take considerable time to get back. Everybody is vitally interested in lifting agriculture out of the bog of low prices, but we would much prefer to avoid additional losses to agriculture through a strike of doubtful value. We think farmers would do better and recover sooner by being left undisturbed to handle their own business. Let us cooperate with them as far as possible without urging them to do things that might increase rather than diminish their burdens. In the tolls of readjustment, losses should be reduced as much as possible and as soon as possible, and it does not seem that flinging monkey-wrenches into the machinery would help.

Higher Learning
 WRITING for the Journal of the American Association of University Women, Paul H. Douglas complains that higher education has so far largely failed to show any considerable interest in an "intelligent effort to develop our economic and social life for the common benefit of all." The lure for money, or the desire to be with the crowd has led many college men to forsake principles inculcated in college to follow lines of least resistance—lines that promised greatest material rewards. As a matter of fact, the man who has gained so called higher education has often accomplished the goal through so much self-denial that he is quick to grab opportunities to make money—the advantage he so much needed in school—and thus he bends his effort in that direction and may forget fellow-considerations and fellow-welfare. Higher education no doubt lends strength and facility to achievement, and its employment selfishly and coldly is the exception rather than the rule, we are sure.

The Sioux City Live Stock Record is evidently of the opinion that in order to limit the number of acres a farmer shall be permitted to cultivate in fairness to the producer, congress must have the closest possible cooperation from nature. Suppose congress orders reduction of acreage filled to one-half and then suppose a drought comes along and cuts production of the remaining half in two. The Record thinks with possibilities from congress, possibilities from drought and possibilities from Milo Reno who is brandishing a farm strike, a famine might be produced with high prices, but nothing to sell.

"Of course history repeats itself; men don't listen the first time it offers a lesson," some one said. Do we ever learn enough, do we ever remember long enough to keep from falling into the same ditch or burning ourselves in the same fire? We pay for excesses; we pay for indiscretions, and no one in particular is to blame.

Speaking before a gathering of business men at Detroit recently, James W. Beckman, magazine writer, said the need of the country was not a crop of technocrats, but one of "practocrats"—persons aliosed to make practical application of business knowledge.

In the Ozarks.
 We have been told that Missouri can come as near living within itself as any state in the Union, and that the Ozarks furnish unsurpassed scenic grandeur. That may be the reason why natives of the Ozarks are content to stay there. Recently a couple of Ozark inhabitants who happened to hear that a new president had been elected ventured out to see if they could get jobs in some of the public work under contemplation. The travelers were so terrorized by the first appearance of railway locomotives and railway cars that they left on foot to return to their native haunts.

Market Service Has Stock Report

The market news service from Wayne Herald radio station last Thursday presented the following report quoted from a city stock journal:

"An increase in the number of cattle to be marketed from now on as compared to last year was seen in the data compiled and released by the United States department of agriculture. The report follows: "There were about 10 percent more cattle on feed for market in the 11 cornbelt states on April 1, 1932, according to the estimate of the United States department of agriculture. This percentage increase amounts to about 136,000 head, when applied to the estimated number on feed April 1, 1932 based upon records of marketings and other information. Compared with April, 1931, there is a decrease of 13,000 head and compared with the five-year average a decrease of 40,000 head.

"The increase was general over the entire area, with decreases shown in only two states, Wisconsin and Kansas. In the area east of the Mississippi the increase this year was about 13 percent and in the area west of the river the increase was about 9 percent. The number on feed in the eastern area, is considerably above the average of the previous five years, while the number in the western area is below this five-year average, although larger than a year ago.

"Shipments of stocker and feeder cattle, inspected through stock yard markets, into the cornbelt during the nine months period, July 1932 to March 1933, inclusive, were about 4 per cent smaller for same period a year earlier. For three months, January to March this year, however, such shipments were 22 per cent larger than a year earlier. Direct shipments, not going through stock yards, were considerably larger for the nine months ending in March this year than for the same period a year earlier.

"Reports from a large number of feeders as to their marketing plans for cattle on feed April 1 this year show the proportion to be marketed before August 1 this year as even smaller than the small proportion reported last year to be marketed before August 1, 1932. If these plans are carried for markets from August 1 to October 1 this year may be considerably larger than supply last year.

"The estimated number on feed by states as percentages of the number on feed April 1, 1932 are as follows: Ohio, 100; Indiana, 107; Illinois, 120; Michigan, 112; Wisconsin, 91; Minnesota, 117; Iowa, 112; Missouri, 105; South Dakota, 140; Nebraska 110; Kansas, 95; 11 cornbelt states (weighted) 110.4."

Book Friends

enrich one's own life after passing 40. It's very readable.

"Bula Mataru—Stanley."

You who have thrilled to the story of Stanley and Livingston as a child, will enjoy this account of Stanley's life written by Jacob Wassermann. This modern conqueror, opener of continents, journalist, punter, becomes a lost man when life of action fails him. Mon followed him, often hated him, usually served him to death, says the author. Full of adventure, and very thoughtfully done.

"Who's Who In America."

Here's the 1932-33 edition, Volume 17, containing the men and women of note in every field of endeavor. Dr. U. S. Conn of Wayne State Teachers college represents this city.

"The Best Short Stories of 1932."

"Short Shorts" are not a new form of tennis; they're the new and dramatic story form, in tempo with the speed of the times. They're packed with new thrills, heightened suspense and fresh glamour, and thoroughly in tune with this age. The usual "short story" is not over 1,500 words in length. Included in the anthology are stories by Peter B. Kyne, Iuba Goldberg, Lord Dunsany and Zona Gale.

Annual Report of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture.

This is the annual report of the board as submitted in 1932 by George Jackson, and contains much good reference material.

"Nebraska Blue Book."

The Nebraska Legislative Reference bureau published this reference book, and it contains practically any information you could want concerning our state and its relations to the national government. Included are data on the executive officers, members of senate and house, history of the state, Declaration of Independence, constitution of the state, federal government in Nebraska, senators and representatives in national congress, military history of the state, local government, taxation, banking and insurance laws and regulations, newspapers, population and climate, educational institutions, public health and party organization.

"All in the Day's Riding."

Will James, the man who started life as a little orphan boy fending for himself in the prairie country, tells more about his colorful life on the plains in this lively book. He writes, "I can tell a live with a grin, while making a horse trade, but I can't write fiction, and as far as my writing being in cowboy vernacular, it strikes me as being only as anybody would talk who do this raising and education outside, and where university roofs is the sky and the floors prairie sod." As you can see, it's cowboy's plain talk, and will be enjoyed by the boy as well as his dad.

"Let the Hurricane Roar."

You who enjoy Rose Wilder Lane, co-author of "White Shadows in the South Seas" will want to read her latest novel, this time drawn from the roots of American life. Charles and Caroline come westward to the Dakotas to a dugout, grasshopper scourges, drought, loneliness, and the courage of the 17-year-old mother who faces these dangers unafraid, is the theme of the story. Her courage is personified in these lines: "Let the hurricane roar, it will sooner be over; we'll weather the blast and land at last, on Canaan's happy shore."

"The Lone Rifle" and "Ranchero."

Easter, seemed in brief, by Rev. Krohn: "Evidences of the resurrection of Christ, considering first the Easter story in its chronological order, weighing the evidences which the enemies of Christ advanced against this historic fact and lastly the effect of Christ's resurrection on the Christian's life. Christ's resurrection is the very foundation of our joy in life, our hope in death. The resurrected Lord keeps the birds of the air and clothes the lilies of the fields is able and pledged to feed and clothe the Christian the few short years of his earthly life. His resurrection pledges us everlasting restoration of bodily health and soundness of life and limb and guarantees that all things must work together for good to them that love God. His resurrection pledges us reunion with those of whom death has deprived us. "Because I live ye shall also live" is the assurance the living Christ gives his own. His resurrection gives incontrovertible proof that the Father has accepted sacrifice of His son for the reconciliation of the world. In brief, it assures us of the truth, "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

Easter Services Well Attended

Carroll churches were filled to capacity Easter Sunday as people flocked to the beautiful Easter services. The rural churches, too, were crowded with members and visitors.

Ministers had prepared special Easter messages and the choirs in all churches sang the joyful Easter-time songs. It was especially appropriate this year in the light of the new hope that has been infused into the hearts of the people and it was in keeping with the Easter message of rebirth to a new life.

The weather was ideal and the bright sunshine and warm weather served to further heighten the significance of the day.

Carroll Kiddies Enjoy Egg Hunt

There were whoops of delight and a confused, mad scramble as a big crowd of Carroll youngsters spread out over the Robert Pritchard place on the Carroll Lions Easter egg hunt. Members of the club had hidden 60 dozen colored eggs about the grounds and among them were two golden eggs. The finders of these two eggs were to receive a quarter.

The children were divided into two groups according to age and each had its hunting ground. To the two who found the biggest number of eggs also went a prize of 25c.

The two who found the most eggs were Norma Jarvis and Jimmie Hampton. The two that found the golden eggs were Earl Hurlbert and Claire Texley of Norfolk.

Bids Rejected On Park Buildings

The plans for beginning work immediately on the new Carroll recreation park hit a temporary snag. Bids for the three residences and barn now on the park site were rejected as too low and laying out and landscaping the ground stopped for the time. However, two deals are pending and if they are put through work on the park will begin at once.

The site, just south of the Whitney hardware store, measures 217 by 142 feet, and contains approximately seven-tenths of an acre. The ground is to be landscaped with shrubs, trees and vines and immediate work will include the plowing and discing of the ground and the planting of the trees and shrubbery. D. Hall of the Wayne nursery, has been awarded the contract to do the landscaping. The aim of the Lions club is to create a park not only for recreation but also to make it a beauty spot. In the park will eventually be a wading pool for kiddies, slides, picnic tables and benches and a tourist camp.

The Lions club is in charge of the project together with the village board, but the initiative in starting the movement came from the Carroll Women's club, who, according to H. L. Brede Meyer, started the movement that crystallized into the concrete plans.

Horoscope

If Your Birth Date Falls April 20 Through May 21, Then Take Heed.

Symbol of Thaurus, first sign of the Earth Triptych and second of the Zodiac, is the bull. Like the bull, you have no fears, no hesitations—you plunge untiringly through all obstacles. You are ruled by Venus, the goddess of Love, and your earthly solidity is softened by generous affections. You're passionate but not demonstrative. Friday's your lucky day. You're often obstinately conventional in your actions and thoughts. Creature comforts, good food and a luxurious home are necessary to your happiness. But you earn them. You are a marvelous keeper of secrets and have fine judgment: Staunch, a pillar of society, teasing you is dangerous. Watch lest your calmness become intolerance. Two is your lucky number.

Book Friends You'll Want to Cultivate

Here it is spring and dozens of interesting things to do outdoors, but it's jolly to have a good book awaiting you when you come in for rest. For a clear, healthy outlook, follow this advice: "Brush your brain once a day, and see your librarian once a week." Adventure, mystery, biography, anthology, philosophy—all these have poured in to augment the shelves of Wayne public library, and are available now. Let's thumb through the new volumes.

In a group of books presented to the library by J. G. Mines are "Easter Pennsylvania" by Wallace Nutting, a charming book which is profusely illustrated by the author; "Shadows on the Rock," by Wilma Catherer's last book, "Inheritance" by Phyllis Bentley, and "Sheltered Life" by Ellen Glasgow.

"Mer Against Death." This unusual book is dedicated to "all who want to stay young as long as they can, and grow old as slowly as possible," and tells the story of the modern warfare against disease. It's the authentic record of some famous men and some lonely men who have fought to keep people alive, and is so humanly written that it should have broad appeal among thinking men and women. The author is Paul de Kruif.

"Jesus After 19 Centuries." "I am convinced that we must follow Him or perish in a world-wide catastrophe," says Ernest Fremont Tittle, in his book dealing with the need of Jesus in our lives today. A serious book, naturally, and a worth-while one.

"The Flying Carpet." If you are an adventurer at heart and thrill to tales of discovery and travel, you'll enjoy Richard Halliburton's last book, "The Flying Carpet." For Halliburton travels in a modern magic carpet, a plane, and adventures at Baghdad, home of the original carpet, and takes the crown prince for a thrilling ride on his "carpet" among other exploits. Halliburton, as you know, is a young Princeton graduate who made a colorful tour which he set down in "The Royal Road to Romance," and this leaped into popularity overnight. In this volume, he flies to Timbuctoo "because it sounded interesting," he spends two months living the life of the Foreign Legionnaires, he sees the Holy Land, Singapore, Bagdad, and has hundreds of unusual experiences, in Halliburton fashion.

"Lafayette." "He was a man, a man at heart," says Joseph Deltin in his new study of the colorful Frenchman who figured so gallantly in our early history. "His days were beautiful... he took life at a gallop." A candid and human account of this man who possessed such lasting charm and such romantic associations, that he personifies the gentleman to many generations to follow. "After Mother India." Here's a follow-up to Miss Mayo's "Mother India" by Harry H. Field who has made a personal study of the social problems in Hindu India, and knows his field. You who have read "Miss Mayo's book and wish further facts about it, will thoroughly enjoy this book. He concludes his answer with: "The primary object of 'Mother India,' as the author makes clear in its first chapter, was, however, not to reform but to inform." The reforming power since developed by the book towards the Hindu social status, has been bestowed upon by those hundreds of thousands of western readers who have grasped its message. But it for any reason whatsoever its issues are allowed to be blurred over, confused or twisted, then, perhaps, the greatest impulse for reform in Hindu India's history may be frittered away." Read this you like sociology and history. Read it if you like to be well-informed.

"More Toasts." First aid to the toastmaster and hostess—a new book chockful of usable stories, quotations and jokes, edited by Marion Dix Moshier. Classified according to subjects. "Life of Lord Curzon." Three big volumes tell the story of this unique nobleman taken from his biography by Right Honorable the Earl of Ronaldshay. Born of ancient and proud stock, Lord Curzon's career reached its peak with his appointment as viceroy of India, and he was virtual ruler of this country for seven years. Here he is shown as a great man who triumphed over physical infirmity, firm to the point of hardness, colorful and dominating. He was friend to Lord Tenynson, Dante Gabriel Rossetti, Ouidi and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, a statesman, administrator, patron of the arts and sciences. Fithy reading, you'll find this, but it'll be time well spent.

"Toward Civilization." This life we're leading today—is it a jangle and a confusion, or a prelude to stronger and truer existence? A group of foremost thinkers—all creators and designers in their fields—answer this question, and it's edited by that foremost student of politics, Charles A. Beard. Dr. Robert A. Millikan and Lee de Forest are included among the contributors.

"Life Begins at Forty." A few years ago, well within the memory of most of you readers, the fortieth milestone was a veritable mountain in the path of both men and women. Men began going into a physical and mental decline, and women were old. But now, says the author, 40 carries cheer and even excitement—it's a delightful age. He shows how to (Continued on Page Four) mar, Marjorie Fitch, Dewaine Buckley, Demogene Meyer, Betty Sund, James Thompson and Myla Jones Thomas. Reports on how Easter is celebrated in other lands were given Friday.

Second graders drew names last week and each wrote a letter to a classmate. Nan Nicholaisen's was chosen the best by Miss Ruth Ross, and Nan was named postmaster for Friday. Betty Meister, whose letter ranked second, was her assistant. In connection with their post office project, second graders have learned the proper form for letters, how to address envelopes, giving their return address, and proper way to stamp envelopes. Some very realistic Easter rabbits were drawn free-hand on the board last week, and then used as models for posters.

Carolyn McClure observed her birthday with a little party in first grade Friday. She brought ice cream and cake. Marjorie Ann Berg and Norma Powers received their large certificates last week Tuesday as reward for one year's perfect attendance. The children dyed Easter eggs Friday.

Kindergartners staged an egg-dyeing party Friday morning, and colored egg eggs which they nestled in straw and excelsior. Miss Grace McElroy added candy eggs to the nests. Royce Gildersleeve had a birthday party Friday and bought ice cream and cake for his classmates. Lois Zepin brought two hard turtles for the children to observe, and also some amusing blown-egg favors.

Etta Kett's Weekly Quiz

1. Is it proper to eat asparagus with the fingers?

2. How are artichokes eaten?

3. How much bread should be broken off at a time?

4. When is it correct to drink bouillon or other soup? Should one use two hands?

5. What is proper way to eat condiments, such as pickles, jelly, or sauces when served with main course?

6. How should a baked potato be eaten?

7. How should fish bones or grape seeds be removed from the mouth? Cherry seeds?

8. Why is it wrong to cut one's salad with a steel knife?

9. When are elbows tolerated on the dinner table?

10. Should the plate be pushed back when one has finished?

Answers.

1. Asparagus may be eaten with the fingers if it can be handled gracefully, but long, thin stalks will be flabby, and might better be eaten with the fork.

2. Always with the fingers. Pull off a leaf at a time and dip the edible end in the sauce, then pull it off with the teeth, leaving the tough part. When center is reached, cut the edges and eat out the "heart" with fork.

3. Break off moderate sized piece, enough for just a few mouthfuls, and hold it on edge of bread and butter plate or place plate to spread. Little hot biscuits are buttered over all surface as the butter tastes better melted in. Never hold bread flat in palm of hand to butter it.

4. If the cup in which soup or bouillon is served is a handled cup, it is correct to drink it. In fact, you may use two hands for bouillon because of the two handles.

5. Never smear these on food with a knife. Proper way is to cut off a few pieces of pickle, lay down knife, take fork in right hand, lift some of the condiment on tip of prongs, thrust prongs in to a piece of the meat and lift it to your mouth.

6. Break potato in half with the fingers, scoop out insides onto plate with a fork, then mix butter, salt and pepper into it with a fork. Or else break it in half with fingers and lay both halves, skin down, on the plate. Mix little butter in small part of a half with the fork and eat, then mix another portion. For those who enjoy the potato skins too, and it really is permissible to eat them when you know them to be clean, the halves are cut through with knife and fork into small pieces, buttered with fork alone, and eaten.

7. Remove one at a time with finger and thumb. Cherry seeds may be dropped from lips into the cupped hand.

8. Because the steel fork, meant for meats, will turn black when used in acids.

9. Between courses at a restaurant where people are eating at small tables, it is usually necessary to lean forward to converse, and this is a more graceful position than to hold hands stiffly in the lap.

10. Never.

11. Frosted Creams.
