

Service on Wymot Branch Discontinued—Tracing Up Soul With Business—Legislative Helps—John L. Soules at Niagara.

Train service on the Wymot branch of the M. & O. railroad was discontinued with the trip made on Wednesday of last week in accordance with permission granted by the inter-state commerce commission.

There is no frequent absence of soul in business. Is there a weakening of justice that comes in conflict with selfish interest? Is the rule of right sacrificed to the god of Mammon? Is daily action based on prejudice or a spite? Is religion a mere form, laid aside in all relationships that interfere with personal pleasure or personal advantage?

The cause of the depression is more a political group than the cure. No political group would hesitate to take the road to financial success and swing the world back to normal.

John L. Soules is probably the only surviving swimmer of Whirlpool Rapids, Niagara Falls. It should be understood that John is not only known as an endurance swimmer, but as an aeronaut and high rope walker.

John L. Soules, who swam the Whirlpool Rapids on a wager amounting to $1,000. It was to have been a race between John and another swimmer.

Question: "How about your dash down the water course?" Answer: "I think I spent five minutes in the water, and I traveled one and one-half miles often under water, and battling all the time to keep my head above water."

Question: "How did you manage to land?" Answer: "A fellow on shore threw me a line and I pulled myself out in that way."

Question: "Did you strike anything while being tossed about in the water?" Answer: "Yes. Rocks joined the surging water in lashing me, and I came out with one broken toe and a gash cut to the bone in my leg."

Question: "What about your other experiences in the popular eye, John?" Answer: "I used to go up in balloons and come down in parachutes. Once in making a parachute on a cherry tree, and the owner was mad because I damaged the tree more than I hurt myself."

Classes Prepare To Present Play

Arbor Day Is Observed By Classes With Planting Of Several Trees.

The juniors and seniors are preparing a three-act comedy-drama, "And Mary Did," by Lawrence Worcester. It will be played some day during the second week in May.

Freshmen are enjoying a study of words and are making a concentrated effort to broaden their vocabulary, and give all the old overworked words a rest.

Juniors and seniors planted several trees on the school grounds last Friday. Chris Rogers contributed the trees from his farm.

Supt. Rufus Cauwe gave an interesting talk in assembly last week on the importance of reforestation.

Intermediate Notes.

Pupils having work displayed on the good-work board this week were Doris Jones, Walter Meyer, Evelyn Day, Arlene Wessman, Helen Nichols, Leona Nichols, Darleen Jordan, Bonnie Erwin, and Leonard Salmon.

An appropriate Arbor day program was given during assembly period on Wednesday. Two numbers were given by intermediate room pupils. Bonnie Erwin recited the poem "The Birth of Arbor Day," by Nellie Cameron, and four boys and four girls gave some famous quotations about trees, and sang the song, "Trees."

Mrs. Ben Jones was a visitor Wednesday, and Mrs. J. E. Besire of Laurel was there Friday afternoon.

Posters with free-hand cuttings on conventional flowers were made during art period.

For Miss Verna Kraemer.

A number of friends were entertained in the Gust Kraemer home Sunday evening in honor of Verna Kraemer's birthday. Everyone enjoyed a pleasant evening. Midnight luncheon was served.

Pleasant Hill Club.

The Pleasant Hill club met with Mrs. Axel Fredrickson Wednesday afternoon. Visitors were Mrs. Ernest Peterson, Mrs. Bilger Pearson, Mrs. Axel Linn, Miss Teckla Goldberg and Miss Mildred Fredrickson. Lunch was served.

With Mrs. Nygren.

The Ladies' Aid was entertained Thursday last week by Mrs. Albert Nygren in her new modern home. A large number was present

Doubtful Experience frequent to keep the United States and other nations horrified and in a state of mind to resist the insidious propaganda of communist agents. Only last month thirty-five Russian people were shot as the result of an evidently trumped-up charge of sowing weeds among crops. Russian courts must make their decisions tally with the policy of the ruling class, and justice is often disregarded under the flaming march of communist terrorism. Little or no evidence is required to accuse and convict. Apparently all needed to deprive one of liberty for life is the belief that the dominant plan, acceptable to tyrant leaders, will be served. The communism of Russia which is offered the rest of the world as a panacea for prevailing economic ills, is often revealed as the very hideous thing that we do not want and that should be strictly avoided. And if we are not greatly mistaken in interpreting the history of America and in understanding the justice-loving qualities of its people, the communist experiment whose serpentine tail blights every hope it touches, will never gain appreciable headway in this country. Equality of human rights as guaranteed by the constitution of the United States; has been a source of confidence to people from many lands. Mistakes of judgment have been made, lapses of justice have sometimes happened, unavoidable breaks in the even tenor of economic development have occurred, but the general course has been onward and upward, and ideals fixed high in the popular vision are always sought, even though not always reached. Then why listen to communist firebrands for counsel—why listen to Russian propagandists whose plan sacrifices everybody and everything to a doubtful experiment?

Men's Clubs NEAV organizations among men have been springing up, and the fact that their ideals are uniformly high encourages hope in the future of our civilization. Many Lions clubs have been formed lately in northeast Nebraska towns, and they have actively enlisted in the work of community building. They are sponsoring public projects that arouse pride and inspire courage. Lions clubs and Kiwanis clubs and similar organizations are avowedly constructive. As builders of character and of the spirit that makes good and useful citizens, these men's clubs are found cooperating with 4-H clubs, boy scouts and other worthy organizations.

We note that in towns where Lions clubs have been established lately many substantially helpful public enterprises have been undertaken. Their fine principles will strengthen citizenship and enrich life.

The Kiwanis club of Wayne, has been an outstanding builder since its organization often fostering and supporting welfare movements and community benefits. This club's spirit of helpful good will was exemplified this week in having for its guests members of the newly organized Young Men's Business club of Wayne. The manifest purpose is to develop stronger ties of unity between the two organizations—an inspiration to high and constructive thinking—to largest possible realization of noble principles.

One of the latest responsibilities undertaken by the Young Men's Business club is to pass on the merits of strangers seeking alms. The plan is to separate the worthy from the unworthy, see that those in need of help and deserving of help are not neglected and that the public is safeguarded against imposition.

Imposing on PHILIP F. LaFOLLETTE of Wisconsin, who recently returned from an inspection tour of Europe, says that foreign countries do not understand the United States. While people in America are repeatedly told about the trials and tribulations of European nations, seldom does anyone explain abroad America's problems and needs. In Europe LaFollette found general ignorance of conditions here. He found Americans falsely defined in two ways—either as Shylocks or as sentimentalists. On one hand foreign groups regard people of this country as eager to grab every dollar—whether needed or not—and on the other hand as easy marks, ready to shell out money with little or no reason and with little or no security. Both extremes are pointed out as wrong and hurtful.

The impression that we are greedy or that we are weakly sentimental does an injustice that retards debt settlements and interferes with the course of best international relations. A person may suffer more than a relative whom he helps. A nation cannot pour out billions to fight and help others fight and not sorely need financial replenishment. Europe should be made to understand that the United States needs money—not to hoard, but to cure an economic paralysis, directly and indirectly due to the world war—a war which it did not start, but into which it was drawn and from which it emerged with victory that paid before gigantic sacrifices. Europe should be made to understand the United States demand for repayment is not based on avarice; that on the other hand refusal to pay is not justified by a belief that we are gushingly sentimental with an abundance of everything excepting sense enough to see through designing blandishments—without sense enough to guard our possessions and credit and look out for the future. Safety lies in friendly relations that do not require galling and irreparable financial losses.

Other nations should learn more of the truth about America and not restrict knowledge to ways and means to work us. We are fond of peace and good fellowship, but we are not fond of being shorn at frequent and regular intervals even if the shearing is accompanied by polite mannerisms and suavely spoken words.

The attempt on the part of Europe to work the United States into surrendering undeserved favor and undue material advantage suggests the growing tendency among persons in this country to impose on one another. A disposition to lean more and more on the government is apparent. The task of getting down to solid ground and earning all one gets has encouraged many to encroach on one another; to impose on friends or relatives and to abuse privileges of credit to the point of ruin. Enlarged burdens came with the depression, and a downward revision of living costs consistent with earning power may be accomplished without forfeiting fellow-confidence or self-respect.

Nations and individuals will develop more hopefully and rest more securely by a wholesome regard for pride and independence and by a practice of generosity that does not teach mendacity. It is better to live moderately away from the eyes of creditors than to make a big showing amidst a lot of nagging obligations; better to live in a hovel free from oppression than to live in a palace surrounded by debts that cannot be satisfied.

Anxiety is to worry what varoloid is to smallpox—a modified and harmless form, and probably no steps should be taken to arrest anxiety until or unless it becomes worry. If one is not spurred by anxiety he is likely to become so well satisfied with himself that he makes no headway and accomplishes nothing. Without anxiety he soon becomes a mere barnacle—just waiting to be knocked off. If a fellow happens to get up in the morning with no anxiety to fasten to, he meanders around aimlessly until something turns up to capture and rivet his attention. Worry seems to be something else—something that grabs hold feverishly with no hope for relief. It hinders instead of helps in performing one's task, whereas a little anxiety during waking hours is necessary to achievement and progress. Therefore, while one should talk himself out of worry, he should be careful not to smother all the fires of anxiety.

Music week starts next Sunday, and Wayne will signalize the series of music days with a broadcast from the Wayne Herald's studio by remote control over WJAG, appropriately featuring its band under the leadership of Prof. F. C. Reed. Music week brings to the front one of the most stimulating influences in life, Music soothes to rest, and arouses to courage and action. When the Titanic sank to the bottom of the ocean with its cargo of precious lives, members of the band played to inspire bravery and order as long as they could stay above the gathering waters. Music is a real boon to civilization.

Arbor day was set apart under the inspiration of J. Sterling Morton for planting trees and shrubs. Early foresight transformed a treeless state into an endless succession of groves. Every farmstead is dotted with trees. But the last year timber has been greatly reduced through use for fuel and unusual momentum is now behind a movement for reforestation. Thus, Arbor day means more now than for some years, and old-time practical observance will be revived in earnest. Every tree planted is a bequest to coming generations.

Paul Revere's mad ride from Charleston to Lexington was reviewed in a patriots' day celebration in Boston April 19, marking the anniversary of the first battle of the Revolutionary war. While events of the conflict for freedom from England are discussed in staid old Boston, leaders of the two countries are getting together on friendly ground to consider ways to safeguard world peace and reestablish world prosperity.

The odor of burning rubbish the past few evenings is really sweet incense, because it means getting rid of waste and making way for renewed growth. It means cleaning premises and making them more wholesome and more sightly. Also the appearance of plowed fields and gardens betokens reappearing verdure and nature's coming bounties.

If the Nebraska legislature keeps on much longer it will score a record session for time. As new crops of pigs and calves are reported and the corn planting season approaches, farm members of the legislature must be secretly yearning for adjournment.

Diplomacy.

Lincoln Journal: Reports from the white house conferences in which Premier MacDonald of England figures prominently, are very favorable. They usually are. Representatives of great nations do not bicker and squabble at meetings of this kind, because they realize that it would be futile to do so, since any victory won at a conference could be easily upset when the question is referred back to the home government for confirmation. No administration aide, for instance, is going to waste his energy fighting for a treaty or agreement he favors when he knows that the senate may never approve it. Naturally, politeness rules a meeting of this kind.

EASTER.

Recurrence of Easter, commemorating the resurrection; draws attention to the sacrifice of history's noblest character. The Man of Galilee found a world of ignorance and superstition, of oppression and cruelty. He left the world with the lesson of a new hope. He supplanted pagan worship with faith in imperishable spirit. He lifted mankind's dependence on material goods to confidence in a supernatural force, radiant, with love and promise. Before the Nazarene came to spread the light of Christianity, all kinds of heathenish and meaningless sacrifices were made to appease the gods—man-made gods which were believed to become violently wrathful over least infraction of man-concocted rules. Savagery was often practiced ostensibly to satisfy pagan religion, but in reality to gratify the revenge of some ruffing despot who had an insatiable thirst for more worldly power, more selfish gain. The founder of Christianity caused a rift in the clouds that had kept mortal thought bound to earth's environment and mortal trust pinned to wooden idols and fat-headed kings. A new religious era opened. A way to newer highest yearnings was marked by the life of the Nazarene a life that led the simple shepherds that brought the soul's finest gold above the dross of coarse materiality. Though the truth established nearly 2,000 years ago has often been misunderstood had often been misapplied, has often been languidly in the meshes spread by theological bigots, it remains undimmed as the beacon light to human hope, and it has been a guiding and sustaining influence to millions who have come and gone. Through centuries of ups and downs the world has made progress, slowly, sometimes almost imperceptibly, but progress as proved by contrasts, and clearer understanding has banished much self-presumption and cruel intolerance. The necessity of gratifying material needs is made easier by sharing thought with spiritual rewards, and by yielding more wholeheartedly in the direction of fellowship and brotherly love. The resurrection minimizes importance of mutable wealth and position and power and emphasizes attention to values that last forever. The Easter stimulus to spiritual ruff fits wondrously into the springtime revitalization of nature the rebirth of vegetation. Passing annoyances are trivial as we contemplate nature and plans for eternity.

high rope walking. I had no very narrow escapes. Once in Wayne I had arranged to give an exhibition between two buildings, but one owner feared his building would be damaged, and so the feat had to be declared off.

Answer: "I came in 1891 and I spent five years on a farm. Then I moved into Wayne and have been here ever since."

Question: "Since then you have cut out all perilsous undertakings excepting to eat onions?"

Answer: "Yes, I settled down after coming to Wayne. One time, though, I was invited to swim from Sioux City to Omaha, but the money offered was not enough to tempt me. As to onions, I confess FALSE TEETH.

False teeth believed to have been worn by George Washington on between 1792 and 1798, will this week be removed from the display cabinet in the University of Maryland dental school to Chicago for exhibition at the century of progress exposition. The artificial molars which Washington employed to grind victuals and keep his face in shape, are said to show a combination of plates, rivets and springs, compared with which the products of modern dentistry constitute the acme of ease and convenience. Speaking of false teeth, it is said a Wayne man with a new set of teeth stopped on a street corner some years ago to talk to a friend and that he talked so fast the teeth at first quivering and then jumping—slid off their moorings and hit the ground. That moment a hungry dog came along and grabbed the teeth and ran away with them. We have seen teeth dance a sort of shimmy until they become adjusted to parking spaces. Until one gets used to managing artificial teeth, it seems advisable to guard both conversation and eating in order to maintain secure anchorage. To postpone the day of false teeth, frequent attention to the natural masticators with which one was originally equipped, is highly essential. If people did not neglect or abuse their teeth, or if they would cut the right things to preserve them, they ought to last as long as the rest of the anatomy.

to both raising and eating them in large quantities, and they are not only not dangerous, but they are the healthiest food in the world."

Question: "Besides other odd jobs in Wayne, you were persuaded to officiate in public positions at different times?"

Answer: "Yes, I have served as constable and justice of the peace, and my experience in trying to get you and others to observe automobile rules was a big task."

against the wall and back again. It was preceded by a dull roar at which he remarked, "It sounds like 15 trucks are coming down the road." For 47 seconds the earth seemed to swing back and forth; then shaking followed. Everyone rushed to the street, some persons hysterical, others laughing. The quake demolished all but two business houses in Linwood but only a few houses were shaken off their foundations. Fortunately, people were out of the stores and moving picture houses at that time.

Mr. Erickson reports business as very quiet in California—much quieter than reports would indicate. He says that things picked up a little after banks re-opened, but the quake spoiled all this. Within a few days after the first shock, about 35,000 persons left Long Beach. This was partly due to fear, and partly to the lack of living quarters, as most of the big apartment houses were demolished. The morning the family left for Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. Erickson were shaken out of bed by a tremor.

The Ericksons left Linwood on April 1, and were four days on the road, following the Santa Fe trail to McPherson, Kans., where they stopped to visit. The Ericksons are now staying at the Carl Anderson home. Homer Erickson remained in California.

Plans For Camp Are Being Made

Girl Scout Council Members Will Arrange For Annual Outing In July.

Wayne girl scout council met on Tuesday evening at T. S. Hook's office with Mrs. F. S. Morgan, chairman, in charge, plans for the summer camp were discussed and arrangements for the camping season, which will probably open the last of July and continue about three weeks, were considered. Wayne troops had the largest percentage of girls at camp last season of any troops in this area.

Means of raising funds for the scout camp were also considered. The W. C. T. U. plans a benefit concert Saturday afternoon at 3 at the Beckenhauer chapel. The program will include vocal and instrumental music, and refreshments will be served. A free will offering will be taken for scouting. The possibility of sponsoring a picture show was also discussed.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor)

We are looking for a large gathering next Sunday evening, when we are to have the a cappella choir from the college with us. This choir under the able leadership of Prof. H. H. Hanscom has been singing somewhere every Sunday night. Next Sunday evening is the one night that it has for Wayne. Baptist and Methodists are uniting with us in this service. We shall be glad to welcome others who may wish to come. You will find it a beautiful service of worship. This service will be held at 8 o'clock.

The trial scene, "Protection," was presented last Sunday evening at our church to a well filled house. It was put on under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of America, with the assistance of 26 of our local citizens. It was well given. The leaders who were here declared that the home cast from Wayne was one of the best that they have ever worked with.

We are very grateful to Lesly Ellis for taking charge of our morning choir. The anthem Sunday morning was very beautiful.

Services of next Sunday are at the following hours: Sunday school at 10 a. m.; morning worship, 11; evening choir, 6; C. E. services, 8:30 p. m.; sacred concert by the a cappella choir of our college, 8 p. m. The Westminster Guild will be entertained by Mrs. Davies at the manse Thursday evening.

Miss Marian Davis Receives Honors

Miss Marian Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis of this city, and a granddaughter of Mrs. June Conger, was chosen popularity given for 1933 of the Enid, Okla., business college. She also received a gold pin for typing 119 words per minute, and the student cup for scoring 140 words per minute in shorthand, at the annual banquet held in Enid recently. Miss Davis is a graduate of the Wayne high school with the class of 1932. She is now making her home with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall.

To Be Graduated At Bible School

Miss Alice Shields of Wayne, is one of the 34 young men and women who will be graduated April 28 from the St. Paul Bible Training school in St. Paul, Minn., at the sixteenth commencement. Miss Shields has taken an active part in school activities and assists with the senior class program this Thursday. The graduates come from eight states and from Canada and most of them are preparing to be pastors or missionaries.

Off Gold Standard Cheapens Value

Lincoln, Neb.—"The action of the United States in leaving the gold standard has cheapened the value of the American dollar in foreign markets and will thereby create an incentive to buy goods in this country at the same time directing purchases away from other countries," believes Dr. J. E. Kirshman, professor of finance at the University of Nebraska.

Explaining the foregoing statement that business would be benefited by the removal from the gold standard by the United States, Dr. Kirshman has this to say: "Since the United States has left the gold standard, the American dollar has gone down in value in foreign countries. The pound, recognized international monetary standard, will now buy more dollars. The value of the pound then will be raised in this country which of course will make it possible for the pound to purchase more American goods than formerly."

Home From Trip To Texas Meeting

Miss LaVerne Larson arrived home Saturday from Texas. She attended the Athletic Conference of College Women in Austin. About 200 delegates from all parts of the country were there and the main addresses on promoting health activities for girls were given by Dr. Watson of New York, Miss Blanche Trilling of Madison, Wis., and Miss Anna Hiss of Austin, Texas. The water pageant by the athletic association was especially effective.

Omaha Trackmen Meet College Squad

Coach W. Ray Hickman has arranged a dual track meet between Omaha Municipal university team and Wayne State Teachers college trackmen for Friday afternoon, beginning at 3:15 o'clock. The public is invited and there will be no admission. Workmen have been busy getting the old track into good shape, as the new one has proven too soft for present use. The coach is faced with building up a team from freshmen and sophomore candidates as only six lettermen, Kenneth Paul, Harlow Baker, Hamer Wilson, Leland Copeland, Fred Terry, and Lee Weidum, are out this season.

Cooking School Well Attended

A large number attended the cooking school held Tuesday by the Peoples Natural Gas company in the Wayne office. Miss Ruth Freeman had charge and demonstrated many helpful cooking aids. The company presented roses to the visitors.

Hi-Y Club To Norfolk

Members of the Wayne Hi-Y club are invited to a meeting of the Norfolk club on Friday, May 5, at which a group of foreign students from the University of Nebraska will talk, and Ed. Weir, Freshman coach, will show pictures of the Olympics.

Announcement

A representative of the Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank is making his headquarters for Northeast Nebraska in Wayne for a short time. This company has a number of exceptionally good bargains in farms near Wayne at this time. One 160 acre farm 4 1/2 miles from Wayne, well improved, for $10,000. Another fine 360 acres 3 1/2 miles from Wayne for $55.00 per acre. This farm will be divided if necessary. A number of other farms a little farther out. Every farm they have acquired is being offered at way below its real value. Now is certainly the right time to buy land as it will surely advance in value in the next few years.

Rural School

District 33.

Miss Beatrice Cobb, Teacher.

Mrs. A. Dolph visited school April 19.

Twenty-two of the twentythree pupils received perfect attendance certificates this last month. Emma Bargholz was absent just half of a day.

Arbor day was celebrated with a short program and the planting of nine trees on the school grounds. The program was planned by the three eighth graders.

Marjorie Misfeldt, Teacher.

Pupils and teacher held their annual Easter lily hunt on Wednesday noon of last week. Mrs. T. G. Fillmore and Miss Wilma Fillmore visited school that day. Arbor day was observed on Friday with a short program commemorating J. Sterling Morton and his tree-planting program. Pupils chose their own selections, and Merton Fillmore illustrated his talk on Arbor Lodge with snap-shots taken on a visit there last summer. Arnold Nurnberg told why we observe Arbor day. Other numbers consisted of songs, poems and stories relative to trees. A number of trees, shrubs and flowers were planted, including two pine trees by Fred Ulrich.

Three girls have completed some interesting bird diaries. Arthur Ulrich is the only pupil with a perfect attendance record so far this year. Wilbur Radford has missed only one day of school.

District 15.

Lavern Stamm, Teacher.

The pupils enjoyed an Easter hunt Monday, April 17. Leonard Meyer found the most.

The district presented plays at district 15 Tuesday night, April 25. The pupils brought trees and plants April 21 to plant on the school ground. Eleven trees were planted.

School term closes May 16.

District 43.

Izetta Fae Buetow, Teacher.

Each morning pupils listen to Bible stories read from one of the books of the Master library.

The school observed Arbor day on Friday. Reading classes enjoyed a "story party." Each read a story about spring or trees. In a surprise program children recited verses or exercises which had been secretly memorized for the occasion. Bonnie Jeanne Kabisch sang "God Save This Tree We Plant." The pupils then planted one lilac bush, a red rose bush, white rose bush, a yew, some lilies and several ash trees.

Four gypsy wagons which passed the school Friday morning caused much excitement.

Pupils are finishing the story of "Waunda and Greta," two little girls who lived near Stockholm.

Oats and corn in the sand table are growing nicely. Some peas, beans and lima beans which are in cans are just coming up.

Reports were sent home April 21 and just one month of school remains.

In the arithmetic contest the blues won Tuesday, the reds being only a short distance behind. Winners, Marjorie Harrison, Warren Renz, Rosalie Korn, Junior Noakes and Melvin Korn, will be treated by Buster Utech, Leon Low, Bonnie Jeanne Kabisch, and Iona Helkes.

"Transfiguration," by Raphael, is being studied in group two language.

District 77.

In the recent county examinations, Ruth Rubcek received an average of 96, the highest average in the county. Nadean Meier had an average of 91 and Velma Kimball, a former pupil of Logan Valley school, received 94, the third highest average in Dixon county.

The Ralph Park family entertained guests for Sunday dinner, including Mr. and Mrs. Carl Franzen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Park and sons, Floyd and Gene

Park and Hazel VanH

A most impressive service was the Easter cantata, "The King Eternal," presented by the Methodist choir Sunday of last week with Kermit Stewart as director and Mrs. John T. Bressler, jr., organist. The church auditorium was packed to capacity for the resurrection message.

An illuminated cross at the front of the church furnished the only lighting. Soft strains of music were played by Mrs. Bressler as worshippers entered.

Lilies and palms were attractive in front of and around the altar platform which was extended to accommodate members of the choir who sat in three semi-circles. The illuminated cross cast the only light and this fell softly on the singers.

Story of the last supper, the trial, crucifixion and resurrection were told in the recitatives which were given by the soloists: Miss Letha Porterfield, soprano, Miss Jeanne Wright, alto, Everett Dennis, tenor, and Wilbur Porterfield, bass. The four also gave solo and quartet numbers, and one choir joined in the choruses.

In the choir were the following: Sopranos: Mrs. E. S. Blair, Miss Doherty and Miss Verona McNatt; Miss Letha Porterfield, Miss Lucille Wright, Miss Helen Sauer, and Miss Eunice Beckenbauer; altos: Mrs. Mae Merrick, Mrs. D. S. DeWolf, Miss Grace McElroy, Mrs. J. C. Carhart, Miss Jeanne Wright; tenors: William Studley, Everett Dennis, Prof. G. W. Costigan; and Wilbur Beckenbauer and Misses C. L. Pickett, D. S. DeWolf, Fred Thompson and Wilbur Porterfield. Rev. H. C. Capsey, pastor, gave the opening prayer and benediction.

Reorganize Staff Of Hospital Here

Some time ago the Good Samaritan society, looking for a desirable location for a hospital and old people's home in northeastern Nebraska visited Wayne, and found here the conditions they were seeking, a progressive town, prosperous community and a splendid college. It seemed the ideal place to locate a community hospital, which would be conducted under moral and Christian precepts, and be open to every physician who meets the standards of the American association and Nebraska laws.

The Good Samaritan society will open and operate hospitals at Columbus, Fremont, Friend and Sterling in Nebraska, at Aberdeen and Hot Springs in South Dakota, and in North Dakota, Montana and Colorado. The deal was completed whereby the Good Samaritan society became the sole owners and managers of the former Wayne hospital. It has this week made some further changes in the personnel of the staff. Mrs. Darlene Studley, resident of Wayne, has been appointed superintendent. The society has added a graduate nurse and a graduate technician from the Chicago Memorial hospital. This technician will be in charge of the pathological and the x-ray laboratories. Miss Zwonitzer, Miss Tixley and Miss Witt, all graduate nurses who have been with the Good Samaritan hospital in the past, will remain and each is trained to serve with efficient, conscientious care, and to do it promptly and cheerfully.

The Good Samaritan hospital society believes that every hospital should have an open staff, and thus it opens doors to every doctor of good standing, and welcomes his patients to the hospital.

The society also operates an old people's home to care for old people or invalids with chronic diseases. This home is open to everyone, regardless of nationality or creed.

The aim of the Good Samaritan society is to serve God by serving his children. So it is essential to have religion in the hospital and home. All pastors are urged to call on patients, have devotions with them and read from God's word. A prayer will do much to comfort and restore them to health.

The hospital does much charity work in the community and in turn welcomes any gifts of bedding, food, books and magazines from those charitably inclined.

Bindweed Control Is New State Law

One of the new laws passed by the state legislature provides for eradication of bindweed from counties. It states that when 50 percent or more of land owners sign a request for the eradication work, it shall be the duty of the county to rid the land of this pest.

FIFTY-THIRD YEAR

Name Popularity Winners At Prom

Miss Gladys Spurlock and Richard Fanske are honored at college.

Miss Gladys Spurlock of Sioux City and Richard Fanske of Wayne were revealed as winners in the all-college popularity contest at the junior-senior prom held in Wayne State Teachers college gymnasium Friday evening. Mr. Fanske is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fanske of this city. Senior guests of the junior class, and these with others from the lower classes, made a good-sized attendance.

Decorations were pronounced by many as the most lovely in recent years. Yellow and rust streamers formed a canopy over the gymnasium, and a huge chandelier in the center gave the only lighting. Entrance was made through a latticed arbor, and lattice twined with green vines and banked with palms, gave the effect of a spring garden.

Gordon Ebersole of Sioux City, was chairman of the prom, and chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Conn, Prof. and Mrs. E. J. Hueter, Prof. and Mrs. W. R. Hickman, Prof. and Mrs. J. R. Keith, Mrs. Ida Holmes, Miss Louise Wendt, Miss Mildred Snyder, Miss Esther Dewitz and Miss Amy Chateaufort. Harold Smalley's Blue King orchestra furnished the music.

Announces Date Of June Wedding

Betrothal Genevieve Wright to Mr. Lexow of Illinois is made known.

At a party for friends Saturday evening in their home, Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Wright announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Genevieve Wright, to Mr. Alfred Conrad Lexow of Evanston, Ill. The wedding date has been set for June 14 and the ceremony will be performed by Dr. Fittel in the chapel of the First Methodist church of Evanston. The young folks will make their home in Evanston where Mr. Lexow is employed in the State Bank and Trust Company.

The announcement party Saturday cleverly worked out pictures and names of Miss Wright and Mr. Lexow in jig-saw and crossword puzzles, conundrums, anagrams and musical romance. Mrs. Philip Baas of Beemer, was an out of town guest. Luncheon served at the close of the evening carried out Miss Wright's colors of spring green and peach in the menu and table decorations.

Thomas Dunn Dies At Randolph Home

Thomas Dunn, farmer near Randolph and father of Tom Dunn, jr., of Wayne, died Easter Sunday after several months' illness, aged 67 years. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday last week at Randolph.

Missionary In Japan Tells Of Work On Visit

"Way down east, where the dawn comes up like thunder" and a menacing, clanking Mars strides across the oriental skies... where little old New York is thought of as a western city... where Geisha girls dance for "tired business men"... like a droning, crawling hive of wild bees suspended against a bleak cliff, lies the island empire of Japan in the iridescent Pacific ocean. To us occidentals it spells militarism and unrestful greed, but to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carlson, formerly of Rapid City, S. D., it is field of battle where they can fight the fight of the Christian faith against Shintoism and Buddhism.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson have spent 20 years in the mission field in Japan in Tokyo, the capital, and surrounding districts and now after two years' leave of absence they are going back, eagerly, happily, to take up their stations in the little mission in the heart of the metropolis of the Rising Sun empire.

They are connected with the Scandinavian Alliance which headquarters in Chicago. This missionary movement originated in Sweden and there are no church of its denomination in the United States.

Mr. Carlson is a native of Sweden and came over in the nineties with his parents. They settled in Cuming county where Mr. Carlson was married and then removed to the Black Hills. He became acquainted with the Scandinavian Alliance through Bible study, and has spent all of his time as a missionary in Japan. On Wednesday last week he talked to classes in the college and training school, and to various Bible classes here and at Wakefield.

"Japan is a unified nation," Mr. Carlson said. "There are no tribal lines holding people apart and through their system of compulsory education illiteracy is almost unknown," he continued. "The people are agreeable, industrious, clean and imbued with a desire to progress. In addition, they have a respect for western learning and are receptive to new ideas and modernization."

The religion of Japan is another factor in their unity. The Buddhist religion is national together with the Shinto doctrine. Shintoism is a worship of ancestors and of the emperor. Japanese believe that each one of them has arisen by an evolutionary process from a long line of progenitors of animal origin. This transmigration, they think, may be undone if a person lives an improper life. His soul at death, then has to go through the evolution from animal to man again. The emperor is deified although the idea is weakening but the worship of national heroes of the past is universal and unshakable. The only animal they worship is the fox.

Going on, Mr. Carlson said, "Missionary work is progressing surely but slowly." The greatest obstacles are Shintoism and the strong family system. "Since Shintoism centers on the emperor and the dead it is a delicate subject and must be handled very carefully. With respect to the family system, individual or personal freedom of choice submersed in family tradition and people cannot cast the old beliefs aside readily. The father rules the home. His word is law. Next to him the eldest son is most powerful and receives all the wealth and also the responsibility for the rest of the family at the father's death. Women occupy an inferior position but not to the extent as is universally believed, Mr. Carlson pointed out.

The standard of living in comparison with America's is low. Rice is the main staple food but the people are being encouraged to eat bread. Most of the flour used is American but some is milled in Japan. In her exports, Japan swings preponderantly to silk. In addition it ships quite a little tea, chinaware and lacquerware. The Japanese people as a race are skillful artisans and wonderful artists.

Mr. Carlson, in describing the modernization of Japan, said that in Tokyo, a city of 1-2 millions, one finds elevated electric lines, street cars, subways and automobiles. Mixed in with these one finds the rickshaws and the lumbering carts of the Japanese "baggage men."

On the Manchurian invasion question, Mr. Carlson rather excused the Japanese. "Japan is very poor in raw materials necessary for her existence," the missionary explained. "China is wealthy in them but is too backward to send them out. Consequently it is necessary for Japan to get her own and Manchuria is the answer to her problem." "The Japanese do not want Manchuria for colonization since the standard of living in China is so miserably low that Japanese people do not want to go there. "Basically," Mr. Carlson stated, "the Japanese want to pursue a policy of peace." This is especially true of the younger generations, but the older people are in power in the government and of course dominate it with the old idea of conquest. "The day will come, however, when the Japanese will feel sorry for their undertaking in Manchuria," Mr. Carlson said.

"That Christianity has a chance to advance in Japan Mr. Carlson is firmly convinced. The people were first suspicious of the missionaries but have lost that feeling now. The government is favorable to the movement and missionaries as well as all other foreigners receive absolute police protection. "However, people are not easily converted," Mr. Carlson added.

There are, in Japan, missions from all the church denominations with the medical missionary work being done almost entirely by the Episcopal church. Christianity was first brought to Japan by Japanese. Eighty years ago some sailors found a Bible floating in the sea and took it home with them. A Japanese who could read English translated it for them and the first words of the Christian God were heard.

In a few months the Carlsons are going back to Tokyo, with its polyglot population and its quaint mixture of oriental splendor and western modernization. They've had two years of visiting in the country where they grew up, but it can't hold them. There's something in the east that draws the missionary back to it. Perhaps it is the work... perhaps it is the feeling of duty born of a consecration to an ideal... perhaps it is that lure of romance where the world's crossroads meet... the fascination, the charm, the Circe of the East calling men back to the land of apple blossoms and Buddhist temples.

Surviving the young man are his parents and a sister.

Plan Rural Track Meet On Saturday

Winside School Will Sponsor Athletic Events For About 25 Schools.

Winside school has issued invitations to about 25 rural schools in the surrounding country, to attend a rural track meet here next Saturday, May 6. Arrangements are in charge of Supt. E. A. Austin and Coach Gerald Cherry. Events are open to all boys and girls in sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the country schools. Several schools have already sent in their entries.

There are to be three divisions for boys, and two for girls so that every child, regardless of size or age, will have an equal chance to win. Entrants will be classified according to age, weight, grade and height. Events will include: 50-yard dash, running broad jump, standing broad jump, high jump, basketball throw for girls only, 75-yard dash for larger boys only. Ribbons will be given to winners of first and second places in each event. There are no entrance fees whatever.

In connection with the meet, the Lions club is sponsoring a community day with auctions and special price offers by merchants.

Truckmen in Three Meets.

Winside high school boys will enter the Northeast Central Nebraska track meet at Wayne State Teachers college next Friday, May 5, competing with Pigeon, Wisner, for Malot last week, and everyone was glad that Remi found his real mother and father. Now they've started on "Bomda, the Jungle Boy at the Grand Cataract." Fifth graders cut out free-hand fruits and made a fruit man for health poster last week. He had an orange head, apple body, banana legs; fig shoes, bunches of grapes for arms, cherries for hands, and a pear cap. In art, sixth graders are making landscape scenes.

Third and fourth graders made satey-posters last week. The class was divided into three groups, each working out a complete poster. Betty Lautenbaugh is making a language booklet for the fair as outside work. During the past two months, the children have collected stamps - and these are being mounted this week. Stamps from Canada, England, Mexico, Poland, Germany, Roumania, France, Belgium and Denmark, as well as from the United States, are included in the collection.

Walter Gaebler brought his pet rabbit named Jasper to school last week for the children in first and second grade to enjoy. Third and fourth graders came in to see Jasper and the children wrote stories about it in language. Betty Lou Wittler, Joan Schneider and Frances Nelson brought spring bouquets for the room last week.

A Young Old Settler Visits Friends Here

J. W. Gifford of Belden, stopped off in Wayne to renew old acquaintances Wednesday morning. He was on his way to Randolph, and will journey on out to the western part of the state before returning to Belden.

Mr. Gifford, who is in his eighty-third year will be remembered for his globe trotting. Before the death of his wife a few years ago, they used to take yearly trips to different parts of the country. Both going and coming they stopped in Wayne to visit. They started their travels 21 years ago. Mr. Gifford remembers 1873 and 1896-97 and he voiced the opinion, "We'll come out of this in good shape." In spite of his years he preserves the same zest for living that characterized his life's philosophy, to live and let live. "My taxes are paid for a year so they can't move me off my place," he laughed. "And," he continued, "anyway you figure it the county owes me a living as taxes I've paid for the past 40 years. I expect to pay for quite a few years yet, too."

Mr. Gifford is an uncle of D. E. Coci and W. H. Gifford and Mrs. Cliff Penn of Wayne.

Monday, May-Day Is Dedicated To Youth and Beauty

Monday brings May-day, festival of flowers and youth, and Wayne will see twosomes and foursomes and groups of cunning youngsters tiptoeing from door to door, leaving their gay little baskets heaped with spirea and tulips, hung on doorknobs. For centuries, folks have celebrated the first day of May as the fulfillment of spring, and have exchanged May baskets filled with spring flowers, and have danced and sung about the May-pole. Young girls, chosen for their charm and beauty, are made queens of the day, and crowned with floral wreaths with pretty ceremony.

The modern observance of May day centers around national child health day, as proclaimed by act of Congress, and special stress is laid on health examinations and health legislation.

Often a Reign of Terror.

But in other lands, and even in our own larger cities, May day calls for a tightening of police belts as men go out to patrol the streets and quell riots, for on this day the

8. What voice is most pleasing to listeners?

9. What is the best way to cultivate a perfect pronunciation next to association with well-bred people?
10. What is the most general criticism of American voices?

Answers To Etta Kett.

1. To "try to do and, say only that which will be agreeable to others."
2. Decidedly not.
3. As the "bores" and the "bordered."
4. He is apt to wear well among his intimate friends, but does not add to the gaiety of a party.
5. By asking advice, such as, "We want to drive in Colorado. Do you know about the roads? Or, "I am to review a book for my club. Have you read any especially interesting ones lately?"
6. Do not talk of the unattractiveness of old age to an elderly person, of pleasures in dancing and hiking to the lame, or advantages of being well-born to the self-made man. Details of operations, remarks on personal blemishes or little personal peculiarities should not be remarked about.
7. She was not too apparently clever, but rather, when talking to a man, made him seem clever.

10. Talking too loud.

forces of disorder rise to haunt the organized society with the specter of disaster. Often May day becomes a day of terror.

Social affairs of May center around spring flowers, for the first blossoms lend themselves very prettily to table decorations. Here are a few games which are appropriate for May events:

"Flower Quiz."

Cut bright-colored flowers out of a seed or nursery catalogue, mount these on numbers and cards, keeping a list of numbers and flowers they bear. Pass cards around among guests and ask them to identify each flower, writing name and number on slips provided. A prize may be given to the one turning in most correct answers.

"Discard."

Spring brings house-cleaning, and many a garment is pulled out of hiding and disposed of. Ask each guest to bring along a garment which is to be discarded. When they arrive, ask them to put on the garment and wear it until they can make a "swap" with another guest. Some very amusing effects will result.

Men's Fashion Show.

May is an important fashion month, so why not let the men-folks stage a fashion show for you? Assemble several outfits complete, and hand these to the "models," asking them to dress and display the garments. Be sure and furnish plenty of make-up.

"Spring Poems."

Divide your guests into groups and ask each group to prepare a pantomime showing the characteristics of some spring flower, such as four-o'clock, ladies' slipper, rose, Johnny-jump-up, sweet William and sunflower. Let other guests guess what they represent.

"Blind Mate."

If you think men notice clothes, just test them out with this stunt. Ask each one to sit down in a circle, with their wives (or partners) standing behind them. Each one in turn must stand up and describe what his partner is wearing.

"We remember" when Hitler's mustache was what we disliked about him, and now it is the only thing we can stand.—Lynchburg News.

Dr. Paul Calhoun To Give Address

Lincoln Pastor Chosen As Commencement Speaker At High School.

Dr. Paul Calhoun, pastor of First Presbyterian church in Lincoln, has been selected as commencement speaker for Wayne high school this spring. The exercises will take place in the Methodist church, the evening of Tuesday, May 23. Dr. Calhoun is known as an excellent speaker and much in demand for public occasions. He, F. A. Davies will deliver the baccalaureate address at Presbyterian church Sunday, May 14.

Senior class day, with its program of musical selections, declamatory numbers and debates, is scheduled for Monday evening, May 22. At this time the will-and-prophecy will be read.

"Peg O' My Heart," senior class play, will be given at the Gay theatre on Wednesday, May 17. Junior-senior banquet will be either Thursday, May 18, or Friday, May 19. Place has not yet been arranged.

Place Second In Finals.

William Studley, extemporaneous contestant, and James Davies, oratorical contestant, each placed second in his division in the district declamatory finals, at Tilden on Thursday evening. W. A. Behl accompanied them.

Coach Behl took a group of debaters and declamatory students to Omaha Friday to enter the state division of the national forensic league contest. Those making the trip were James Davies, William Studley, Raymond Sala, Richard Messer, Lucile Wright, Vivian Sanfah and Mavis Baker.

Music students are planning a benefit program for this Friday evening to raise money to take contestants to the contest at Kearney on May 5 and 6.

Gayle Childs and Leonard Good accompanied a group of commercial students to O'Fallon last Friday to compete in the state contest. Paul Bertinson, David Hicks, Helen Vath, Edna Baker, Helen Jones, Katherine Craven, Romaine Simmerman and Elhino Gildersleeve were the entrants.

French Club Elects.

"Le Sociable Treize," newly-formed French club, met to name officers a week ago Monday. David Liker will serve as president. Gwendolyn Matvey as vice-president, and Mirabel Blair, secretary and treasurer. The club role includes 13 members. It is expected to carry on conversation in French at the meetings.

Coach Ray Holder reports that he will take a group of trackmen to the Norfolk invitational meet next Friday, will enter the Northeast Nebraska track meet here May 3, and the Northeast Central meet at Randolph on May 5.

In Junior High School.

Eighth graders are studying the four uses of equations in arithmetic. For history, seventh graders have written original plays on the "XYZ Affair" with France, and Roberta Baker and Betty Helen Ellis had the best ones. Eighth graders made maps of Nebraska for history class, locating the early Indian tribes.

In history, fifth grade has been studying about the invention of the telegraph and how the first cable was laid across the Atlantic for telegraphing. Kenneth Peterson brought some telegraph apparatus and demonstrated how messages are sent and received. Wilmer Ellis gave a special report on Samuel F. B. Morse's invention.

Fourth graders are taking up work with color charts in art period, and have been working these out in original designs, illustrating the colors with sailboat cut-outs, butterflies and the like. Irene Beckes is heading the reading club this week, and Mildred Franzen is vice-president.

Miss Hazel Reeve's third graders are studying shade values and making water color scenes using only one color. They have made booklets of their favorite poem taken up this year, and will illustrate these with free-hand drawings. In social study, the children are studying about little folks of other lands.

An auction sale was held in second grade Friday morning, in connection with the grocery store project. The children have been studying the different methods of telling time throughout the ages, and have learned how to tell time by a clock. Last week they constructed a sun dial out in the school yard and found out how it worked.

First graders are making bird booklets, writing original riddles about them and drawing crayon sketches. Everyone has completed fifth project in writing.

Kindergartners are enjoying a real live bunny this week which has been named "Happy." The

Frederick Moore Speaks In Wayne On Problems Of Japanese In China

Tall, lean, bronzed Frederick Moore stopped off in Wayne last week Monday en route from western to eastern coast to tell Wayne State Teachers college students of the political and economic situation in the far east, and its relation to the United States. A veteran newspaper correspondent and diplomat connected with Japanese as well as American governments, Frederick Moore is a convincing and easy speaker, and holds his audience without effort. If he is prejudiced in favor of the Japanese rather than the Chinese people, one feels he is sincere in his viewpoint, and that he pleads the Japanese cause very ably.

Asked if he preferred the Japanese race to the Chinese, Mr. Moore replied, "No I like the Chinese people personally. But if each big country in America were ruled by an Al Capone, I would much dislike the American government, which still likes the people living under it. It is that way with China." Speaking of the general conception of the Japanese as a militaristic people, Mr. Moore pointed out that Japan has the longest record of peace of any nation in the world, over 300 years without a war. And it was the United States that opened up Japan—made her enter world trade and commerce. Mr. Moore recently returned from the League of Nations conference at Geneva, and accompanied the Japanese representative to the league across the continent on his way home. During his colorful career as newspaperman, diplomat and author, Mr. Moore represented the Associated Press in the orient for six years, was New York Times representative and author of many magazine articles on eastern questions.

In his talk here Monday evening, Mr. Moore stressed the greater value of Japan over China as a market for American goods, and pointed out the unsettled government of the ancient empire.

"No American can say he knows all of China," said the speaker, "for China is larger than all of Europe and has more different languages than all the European countries together. Russia is now twice the size of United States in territory, and larger in population, whereas Japan is scarcely as large as Texas—nearly the size of California. Japan is not as large as the United States possessions in the Pacific ocean, all grouped together. Yes we fear Japan in this country," the speaker noted, "and many people consider her our greatest menace. In the past 25 years, there have been three distinct campaigns amongst us directed against the Japanese, and our own people, including important statesmen, have been so misled that the average man could not give a fair opinion on the Eastern question."

When Mr. Moore went to the orient, he had pre-conceived ideas concerning the possibilities of developing China. He had been told of the great buying power of China's 350,000,000 people, but didn't know that a census had never been taken, even in the largest cities, so this was merely a rough estimate. Mr. Moore believes the Chinese are about three and one-half to four times as many as we Americans in number. But this huge population buys only about three percent of the goods we export, so the stories of her great commercial importance are an illusion.

"Since the Boxer rebellion, we have kept troops ashore and naval vessels in Chinese waters to safeguard our interests. In fact, we have had from two to ten armed men there for every American merchant. And," asked the speaker, "what would happen to our business in this country if we had to hire two men to guard every merchant in our towns and pay for their upkeep? These armed men protect not only the merchants but our missionaries and diplomats as well. In the past six years, our naval vessels up the Yangtze river have had engagements with bandits on an average of once every month. This started with the migration of Russian agents in China in 1925, as part of their campaign to sovietize China."

"Conditions in the interior of China are inconceivable to the average man," said the speaker. "One children are bringing food for us from home. Afternoon class went to Donald Boyce's home for a birthday party Friday afternoon. Before Easter, the little folks made an excursion to the Joe Sridolsky home to see how the rabbits, ducks and dogs were cared for. The children found these pets tremendously interesting.

This air fleet could sweep out and bomb every city in Japan, whereas the only Russian city Japan could destroy is Vladivostok, relatively unimportant.

Russia has an army of over 600,000, so Japan can make no armament reductions and be safe from attack.

In the past three years, three distinct hostilities to Japan have been aroused. First was the naval campaign, with Britain, United States and Japan leading all other navies in size. Although there was no danger of any power attacking this country, we began to outbuild Great Britain. Needing some excuse to give the people, we scared them with the so-called yellow menace. But Japan can't attack us for she is 5,000 miles away.

"Japan is our greatest purchaser on the Pacific ocean. China is relatively unimportant to our commerce. How could a nation in which families are raised on 10c a day, and girl babies must be killed in order to take care of one's sons, be an important importing country? Japan does buy our wares—last year she consumed 12 percent of our cotton crop. Should we fight our best customer for sake of the Chinese trade? Would Japan fight us when she can't get at us to fight? Second campaign grew up on the western coast but ceased about 1924. Third campaign originated in China. The Chinese are noted for never fighting their own battles. Way back in their early history, a general said: "Do not spend Chinese blood to fight the Huns; use Huns' blood to fight each other." And this advice is still followed," said Mr. Moore.

The speaker proposed that instead of interfering in oriental affairs of which we know nothing, we who couldn't reform our own Chicago, Philadelphia and New York, give up laying down the laws of morality for a country in the other half of the world.

For Graduation Favors.

If you're chairman of the favor committee for the class party or junior-senior banquet, why not make school sports, kerchiefs for the girl members? Cut out good-sized squares of handkerchief linen in gay spring colors, and applique a little pennant with your school colors embroidered upon it, in one corner. Use the school colors if possible. If your group gets together, enough kerchiefs for the entire class can be made in one afternoon.

Epworth League society held a social at the church parlors Tuesday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Fowler went to Tilden last Wednesday to attend the two-day district conference. George Lewis accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wylie, their Wednesday, and he attended the conference while the Wylies visited relatives.

At Luther League devotionals on Sunday evening, Elsie Weible led a lively discussion on finding one's place in life. It was decided to hold the meetings at 7:30 instead of 7 p. m. Edna and Lena Nieman and Lydia Jensen are social leaders for May. Upon resignation of Edwin Trautwein as president, Donald Podell was elected to head the league. Vernon Nelson was voted in a new member. Donald Podell's side is still leading in the contest.
