FIFTY-THIRD YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1933.

NUMBER SEVENTEEN

The Herald joins the Wayne community in placing itself unqualifiedly behind the spirit and purpose of the N. I. R. A., and will do its utmost to cooperate in the movement to hasten a revival of industry and business and market values. The exigencies of the time require strong expedients. We fought our way through the World War, and now, more than a decade later, we will have to fight our way out of the consequences of that terrible conflict. Extraordinary powers given the chief executive, will be exercised as far as necessary to accomplish recovery. The sooner unity of action follows, the sooner will the forces of restoration become effective.

Patriotic Response.
Response of employees to the administration's request for shorter working hours, which means largely increased overhead at a time when buying power is still at a low ebb, is the keynote as any war-time expression of patriotism. This heretofore has been particularly strong in an exclusively corn-growing and livestock-raising area where time is required to develop earnings, and where employing heads must look to the future to make ends meet and balance budgets. It should be known that the average business man has had the struggle of his life the last few years, and it should be appreciated that in submitting to increased costs—submitting to drastic economic surgery—in the hope that the consequent aggravation of suffering will remove the cause, he is rising to new and lofty heights of patriotic service. Many an employer has been carrying an almost crushing load, battling bravely to pay expenses and maintain standards, and smiling courageously and hopefully. The new deal invites him to risk more on an enfeebled foundation, throw remaining force behind a giant task to revitalize the arteries of industry, reduce unemployment and stimulate buying power by increasing consumption. Thus, the cornbelt business man or industrial head, by putting what he has left into the big recovery plan, acting promptly and wholeheartedly, is 100 per cent a patriot and hero. He is doing his full part in the government's titanic undertaking to put millions back to work and to develop markets for farm and other products.

May Boost Efficiency.
With less time on the job, without decreased pay, the employee should be able to put more steam and more interest into his work. His spirit of cooperation will be reflected in strengthened efficiency and renewed resolution to help his employer up the grade.

As To Need of Poor Farm.
We never think of poor farms but we recall Will Carleton's "Over the Hill to the Poor House." It imparts a touch of sadness. It implies the end of earthly usefulness—seems to banish hope for one who, bereft of every opportunity, goes thither. Still, so many persons have become so hardened in asking for alms, so nonchalant in accepting charity that we wonder if going to a poor farm would disturb their pride. Sometimes we wonder if many who boldly seek charity, have any pride. We will not be surprised yet to hear of some one, long accustomed to charity, asking the Red Cross for funds with which to attend the Century of Progress fair. While there are many deserving objects of charity, there are others who think the world owes them a living, and that all the work they have to do is to make collections.

Newspaper and Radio.
A magazine writer discusses the growth of the radio, and shows that it has a service of surpassing value to the public. The radio occupies a place that nothing else can fill, and the newspaper answers a demand that no other medium could supply. As the author points out, the publisher who uses both the broadcast and the printed page is the one who keeps closest touch with and gives the greatest service to the public. Any conflict between the two mediums delays progress and obstructs the worthy ambition of each.

Legalized Beer Next Week.
The legalization of 32 beer in Nebraska at midnight August 9 is to be welcomed in Omaha by the blowing of whistles, so it is reported, and the wetting of many whistles, we assume. And according to the voting trend, the eighteenth amendment is to be scrapped before long. However, it seems poor taste to make a loud noise or burn red fire over either accomplishment. If legalized sale is the best solution of the liquor problem, or is the surest way to secure largest practice of temperance, the concession should be made without any stentorian acclamations. Drinking beer is no more to brag about than using tobacco, and there is still far less to brag about in reclaiming liberty to go the length permitted by repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Finger Is Broken.
Paul Fawcett sustained a fracture of the little finger on his right hand, the last of the week, when he was playing ball.

Cars In Collision Near Here Sunday

Art Culner of South Sioux City, sustained minor cuts and his car was wrecked and a car from Wisner was damaged somewhat Saturday evening about 6:30 when the machines collided at the top of a hill on the Wayne-Wakefield highway two miles north and one and a half east of Wayne.

Mr. Culner was alone in his machine and was driving west. The impact turned his car over into a ditch. The body is badly broken and the machine, which was brought to Wayne, is broken beyond repair. Mr. Culner's cuts were cared for here and he was able to proceed to his home.

In the Wisner car were two men who were driving east. Neither was hurt. The machine was only slightly damaged and was brought to Wayne and later taken to Wisner.

Year Is Bustest At Wayne Library

Trustees of the Wayne city library, at the July meeting, examined the annual reports and found the past year the bustest in the history of the library. New readers added number 299, making a total of 1,908 readers' cards now in force. A large number of these live outside the city.

New books number 270 by purchase and 334 by gift, making a total of 6,247 volumes in the library. The 39 periodicals covering various lines of thought, add to the pleasure and profit of readers. Files of these are carefully kept and have proved very valuable in reference work. Circulation the past year was 39,974, which is 5,933 more than the previous year.

Since natural gas has been installed for heating the library, the furnace room has been remodeled to give ample storage space for magazines, Mrs. E. S. Blair, librarian, reports. Another much needed improvement has been the painting of the outside of the building.

MORE RAIN ADDS TO ASSURANCE OF NEBRASKA'S CORN

THE ground dries quickly when the heat is intense, and the feeling after every rain that no more moisture will be needed to insure a record corn crop is followed by uneasy anxiety for another soaking. July's total of 4.23 inches was not increased, but August 1 brought showers to different parts of north Nebraska, and early the next morning rain fell generally and abundantly. Wednesday morning the gauge in Wayne showed precipitation of six-tenths of an inch. It would seem one could now safely guarantee a corn crop in accordance with highest expectations; but likely additional showers will come at sufficiently frequent intervals this month to maintain confidence in the prospect. The big corn crop now reasonably assured will be a genuine boon to north Nebraska.

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD HERE

Mrs. C. J. Johnson Passes At Home Near Wayne Monday Noon.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at St. Paul Lutheran church for Mrs. C. J. Johnson, who passed away at her home northwest of Wayne on Monday noon, following an extended illness, aged 72 years, 1 month and 7 days. Rev. W. C. Heidenreich had charge and interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson's maiden name was Miss Anna Helena Christine Frank. She was born in Bedsted, North Schleswig, Germany, June 24, 1861. Her childhood was spent in the parental home. Deceased was married in 1883 to Jesse Peterson. Two daughters were born to this union, the elder dying and the other being Mrs. Wilbur Spahr of Wayne. The family came to America in 1885, settling at LaFox, Ill. Mr. Peterson died in 1897.

Mrs. Peterson was married to Charles J. Johnson April 16, 1900, and one daughter, Mrs. Harvey Haas of Wayne, was born to this union. The Johnsons came to Wayne county in 1911 and had lived northwest of Wayne the past 18 years.

Mrs. Johnson was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran church of her native land. Upon coming to Wayne county she united with St. Paul Lutheran church of Wayne. As long as health permitted Mrs. Johnson took part in activities of the church and was a member of the Ladies' Aid and Missionary societies.

Mrs. Johnson had been ailing for several years and for the last several months she suffered much at times. In her passing the home has lost an affectionate companion and mother for she was happiest when surrounded by her family.

Besides her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Johnson is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Oldenberg, and two brothers, Christ and Alexander Frank, all of Chicago. There is one grandson, Carl Alvin Haas.

Replevin Action Under Adversement

Carroll Newspaper Plant Involved In District Court Suit.

The replevin action filed by H. J. Whitacre of Lindsay, against Nick Warth of Carroll, heard here in district court Friday before Judge Mark J. Ryan of Pender, was taken under adversement. Briefs are to be submitted within 10 days and decision will then be given.

Plaintiff who claims all equipment and business of the Carroll News is his and that he hired the services of Mr. Warth in editing the paper, some time ago sought to discontinue Mr. Warth's services. Mr. Whitacre charges that Warth refused to give up the property, claiming a share in it. Mr. Whitacre took the property in replevin action and put up bond to substantiate his claims.

Warth claims damages and seeks a share of the business.

Work Of Squirrel On Phone Cable

The perseverance of a squirrel is shown on a piece of lead cable which the Northwestern Bell Telephone company found gnawed through here last week. The squirrel had worked on the pipe until a hole about an inch in diameter had been worn through. The work was discovered after water had soaked the lines and caused trouble. In another piece of cable the company found a tiny hole which had been caused when lightning, carried in on a line, was accepted by breaking through the cable.

SCOUT CAMPING PERIOD CLOSES

Camp Period Closes.
Each of the two weeks of summer camp, scouts were divided into the three patrols and took turns washing and wiping dishes, preparing the vegetables and setting carrying water for the kitchen and for the sun-heated shower bath. ## Raise Valuation In Wayne County

Tax Levies For State And County Will Be Made In Short Time.

A blanket 25 percent cut in real estate valuations in Wayne county, made by assessors this spring, was changed by the state board in Lincoln to a 19 percent reduction on lands and improvements and to 14 percent cut on lots and improvements. State board will soon fix the state tax and after that the county board will fix the local levy.

Lands and improvements, as turned in by assessors and representing 25 per cent cut over 1932, were valued at $18,684,670. With a 20 percent cut instead of 25 percent, the total is $19,805,750. Lots and improvements, cut 25 percent over 1932, totaled $1,677,545. With a cut of 16 2/3 percent instead of 25, the total is $1,862,075.

Many Want Work At Wayne School

Dr. U. S. Conn Explains That As Many As Possible Will Be Placed.

Dr. U. S. Conn spoke at chapel at Wayne Teachers College Wednesday, explaining how reasonable is the cost of attending college here. He stated that more than three times as many requests for part time work are coming to the office from young folks who wish to earn their way in school. As many will be placed as possible. Dr. Conn added that inquiries indicate a good enrollment this fall.

Franklin Philleo played a piano solo, "Hungarian Rhapsody" for Wednesday's program. Miss Mildred Moses sang.

WAYNE IN SOLID PHALANX BEHIND RECOVERY STEPS

BUSINESS and professional men of Wayne met at the court house Monday evening to discuss the National Recovery Act and to figure out the shortest and most effective way to cooperate in the present crisis. The motion that finally prevailed favored each business line arranging its hours separately in accordance with the national plan. The spirit of the community as reflected at the meeting, is one hundred per cent behind the recovery movement, and everybody is getting into the harness and preparing to pull ahead in perfect union. Time required in some cases to figure out practical working schedules should not be regarded with suspicion—should not be construed as an effort to postpone or to shirk responsibility. In this crisis, the best service to the country will be to do one's duty and to avoid waste in questioning motives. Theodore Roosevelt referred to one critical juncture in the battle between the forces of good and evil. Perhaps we have reached the Armageddon, and perhaps the battle is quite as much to purge ourselves of our own evils—of our own self-seeking, our own greed, our own injustices, as to look afar for all the causes of the economic malady. Let conscience rule, let devotion to the cause permeate every action, everyone quick to serve and slow to offer reproach.

NATIONAL HONOR TO WAYNE GIRL

Miss Arlyn Nelson Places Second In Essay In Milwaukee.

Miss Arlyn Nelson, secretary in the office of District Agent T. S. Hook of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, placed second in a national essay contest and announcement of the award was made at the convention in Milwaukee, Wis., last week. Secretaries to district and general agents of the country were eligible to enter the contest. First place was awarded to Mrs. Davenport, secretary to General Agent Baldwin of Washington, D. C., who has served in her office seven years. Third place went to Miss Krebs who has been secretary to the general agent in Wheeling, W. Va., for nine years. Miss Nelson has been in the Wayne office for two years.

About 1,000 agents and about 350 wives and secretaries were in attendance at the convention. Honors for the three were announced and all were present.

J. H. Kamp of Stockton, Calif., and T. S. Hook also went to Milwaukee from here. Mr. Hook served on the registration committee with five others.

Fred Sargent, president of the Northwestern Mutual, gave one of the masterful addresses of the convention. He stated that the United States has gone through three great crises, declaration of independence, freeing of slaves and the present industrial crisis. This country, he added, has developed rapidly and soundly on rugged individualism. This was the proper system to the present, he believes, but conditions have now changed and the government has taken steps to benefit all people.

Dr. Glen Frank of Madison, Wis., gave another one of the exceptional addresses. He stated that he sees the past and future as two orders, the past as an individualism and the future as a social order. The quicker the new order is adopted, the sooner he believes the social system will operate smoothly again. This is a "war against depression" and with cooperation Dr. Frank believes the war will be won.

Wayne One Hundred Per Cent on Code Plan

Organization Is Effected At Meeting Of Business and Professional Groups At The Court House Monday.

The committee chosen to lead local business groups in observing national recovery rules met last evening and decided to ask all to start the program of reorganized hours and wages in Wayne Saturday morning of this week. It was also decided to ask the city council to pass a supporting ordinance.

NAME ARCHITECT FOR STRUCTURE

Plans To Be Submitted To Reconstruction Office For Approval.

George Grabe of Fremont has been chosen as architect for the proposed Wayne community building originally sponsored by the Wayne Woman's club. Preliminary plans have been accepted by the joint advisory board of the city council and the Woman's club preparatory to submitting the detailed plans to the advisory council of the national industrial recovery act bureau.

If the complete plans, which Mr. Grabe hopes to have by Monday next, meet with the recommendation of this council, composed of John Latenser, jr., Omaha and Dan Stephens, Fremont, they will then be submitted to the district head for the final sanction, which will make available sufficient funds to build the project.

It will be necessary to set a date for a special election at city council meeting next Tuesday to vote a bond issue to take care of the city's part of the building's cost. Under the provision of the industrial recovery act the national government will pay 30 percent of the total cost. Present plans call for an outlay of between 30 to 40 thousand dollars. If the industrial recovery council does not favor the project, then the building cannot be built. According to Mayor M. L. Ringer, sufficient funds are not available and could not be raised within the city of Wayne itself.

The idea of the local building committee as incorporated in the preliminary plans, calls for a structure 80 by 140 feet in dimension. It will be designed after the conventional style of American theatre buildings, having the appearance in front of being two or three stories in height. Provision has been made for an auditorium that will seat 1,200 people, with stage in the back running 30 feet deep. The floor of the auditorium will also serve the purpose of a basketball court and dance floor. Seating arrangements are so laid out that an unobstructed view of the stage can be had from all points.

In the front part of the building under the auditorium seating two club rooms are located. The one set aside for the woman's club is 29 by 35 ft. Across a hall from this another room of similar size is designated as an American Legion club room. Kitchen facilities have been provided as well as rest rooms and a check room.

No site has been selected for the building although many are available. It was thought best not to begin negotiations for a site until it appeared fairly definite that the building would finally be made possible.

Kittenball Teams Put In Busy Week

Play Features Close Games In Both Leagues With Extra Inning Tilt.

About the only expression that can describe the past week's pastime in the kittenball leagues is "It clouded up and got clearer." Games started off with the apparently stronger teams outscored only to find the scores in their favor at the end of the seven innings. Other games were uncertain until some break or other tipped the victory margin into one hopper or another. Two games went to extra innings and one of these ended in a deadlock.

Perhaps the sparkle of the week came in the nine-inning, 5 to 3 game between the U. & I. and the Young Business Men. It was in this game that, in the dying stages a U. & I. man landed on third base with nobody out. Then J. R. Miller, Business Men's pitcher, struck out the next two batsmen and the third grounded out, short to first, to wet down the U. & I. hopes.

On Wednesday the college team took a fast game from the Randolph town team by 4 to 2.

The college and the U. & I. store still lead the leagues, but the Wayne Cleaners jumped from last to second place standing in league II. Clover Farm split two games into a win and a loss, as did the Legion, the Railroad ten presenting each team with its win.

In League II the Wayne Cleaners won one from each of the other three league members, and the Business Men tied the U. & I. in a nine-inning thriller. The Golden Rule boys still have old man jinx at their door and lost two more games.

League standings:

League	W	L	Pctg
College	12	3	.800
Clover Farm	8	7	.533
Legion	66	8	.428
Railroad	4	12	.250
League II
U. & I.	10	4	.713
Wayne Cleaners	7	8	.466
Business Men	6	8	.428
Golden Rule	5	9	.357

Results by games: Wednesday, July 26, College 4, Randolph 2; Wayne Cleaners 24, Golden Rule 4; Thursday, July 27, College 12, Clover Farm 5; Wayne Cleaners 8, U. & I. 7; Friday, Legion 18, Railroad 14; Young Business Men 5, U. & I. 5 (nine innings); Monday, Clover Farm 10, Railroad 8; U. & I. 15, Golden Rule 7; Tuesday, College 8, Legion 7 (8 innings); Wayne Cleaners 20, Young Business Men 14.

Friday's game in League II is changed from the printed schedule. The Golden Rule-Wayne Cleaner game will be played on Thursday and the Young Business Men-U. & I. game on Friday. Teams are again urged to be ready to play at 6:45. Darkness is even now spoiling the last innings of most of the games.

Loans To Farmers Made By Nation

Washington, July 29—More than $200,000,000 in loans to help the farmer have been disbursed or approved by regional agricultural credit administration, under which they are administered, reported today at the end of the seven innings. Other games were uncertain until some break or other tipped the victory margin into one hopper or another. Two games went to extra innings and one of these ended in a deadlock.

It showed that Chicago, the largest city in which one of the offices is located, has disbursed $489,000, while San Angelo, Tex., with a much smaller population, has disbursed $5,737,000. The Minneapolis office has advanced the most, $32,004,000.

Sioux City had 11,075 loans for $9,023,000 and Omaha 14,768 loans for a total of $18,918,000.

Make Valuations For State Lands

Lincoln, Neb.—Work was being done Friday by State Tax Commissioner Smith in regard to mailing county clerks percentage changes as made by the board of assessment on assessed land valuations. Certificates also were being mailed showing the total railway and sleeping car property as valued for assessment by the state board.

This year's decrease in valuation is the largest ever recorded. Lands and lots combined were this year assessed on a valuation of $1,435,384,208 as against $1,148,126,823. It is expected that the state levy will remain about the same.

Adjusted valuations follow:

National Recovery

CHANGES in regulations belonging to the national recovery act follow as often as necessary to make the plan work with the least hardship consistent with success. The undertaking is a big one, and it will require the faithful coordination of all industries and businesses to hasten desired results. Hearings on proposed codes are being conducted as early as possible to make any adjustment needed to insure greatest unification of effort and to clear the way for a steady upward course for employment and buying power.

Fred Sargent, president of the Northwestern railroad, speaking before a convention of insurance men in Milwaukee recently, is quoted as having made the startling statement that the present great crisis is the third in the history of the United States, referring to the Declaration of Independence and to the move for secession of states in the early sixties as the other two. A condition of vital concern to everybody commands prompt and united action. Millions must have jobs, and their employment within the shortest possible time is the object of this nation-wide movement. With work, these millions will be able to buy farm products, and increased consumption of farm products will enable farmers to buy more manufactured goods, thus enlarging factory outputs and making possible larger and larger payrolls.

This drastic recovery act holds promises beyond giving jobs and developing buying power. It awakens business conscience. It effectually removes sweat shops, and starts racketeering on the run. It operates against unfair competition, and lifts standards of business ethics. It should displace harts with helps, exterminate rival hates, and bring society nearer the lofty goal of unselfish fellowship. Sometimes suffering is necessary before a cure can be effected. Often personal sacrifice is the price paid by an advanced step. Besides throwing off the tentacles of a world economic trouble, it is hoped the present movement will put finer principles into human relationships.

Aid To Farmer

COMMENTING on the underpaid workers in sweat shops, now banned by the national administration, the Omaha Journal-Stockman says among other things:

"Farmers know little about these deplorable conditions, but they will realize that the parasites in paying inadequate wages lower their purchasing power for foodstuffs; and by competing unfairly with legitimate business reduce the number of employes generally. The whole sweatshop regime favors poverty and undernourishment and thereby contributes not only to destitution but to crime.

"If in the near future these underpaid workers can be put even on a small increase in wages, not only in the textile industries, but in those other industries where this condition exists, the benefits to the farmer will be tremendous. Apparently, a sense of cooperation between the man in the city and the tiller of the soil is in the offing, and if the gigantic campaign that we are already well started into, is to combat depression successfully, the need for cooperation between the two is most necessary."

In a period of economic distress, fate often deals harshly, but one should stick to his grip, pull himself upright if he stumbles and rise if he falls. The one up today, may be down tomorrow; the one down today, may be up tomorrow. Fortune often plays disastrously with wisest calculations and best intentions, but it can't keep down anyone who refuses to surrender.

The current Nebraska Press reports that some one entered the residence of the editor of the Seward Blade recently and stole "several valuables including a revolver." We wish to congratulate the editor for having a house containing valuables; also deplore the absence of judgment on the part of a burglar in supposing that an editor possessed anything worth stealing.

"A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which one attempts to do," says William Matthews. "There is a sense of satisfaction in such work—conscientious work, full, rounded, exact, complete in all its parts—which the man who leaves his task in slovenly condition can never know."

Residents may help enrollment at the State Teachers college in the fall by furnishing part-time jobs for students. The student who is willing to work his way through school, deserves help. And he is reasonably certain to make good in the world after he finishes school.

The report of damage to growing corn by drought, grasshoppers or other things in some localities leads the Omaha Journal-Stockman to suggest that the crop is usually killed off three or four times during a season, but that it seldom fails to make large and satisfactory returns.

This week Nebraska's climate again demonstrates its wonderful versatility. Almost intolerably hot weather prevailed early in the week. Then came clouds, rain and a cold wave. It is the kind of climate that puts iron into blood and zip into action.

Plans for the county fair are going forward and they are working in the direction of usual success. The annual premium list will soon be issued for the enlightenment of exhibitors. Agriculture will be able to contribute liberally to this year's fair.

An effort is being made to have the annual state corn husking contest held in Wayne county this year, and growth of the crop hereabouts makes this an exceptionally desirable area for the exhibition.

Historic St. Helena

Hartington Herald: Archeologists from the state university are making some very interesting and valuable investigations at St. Helena. This town always has been a place of historic interest and if the excavators determine that it is the site of an ancient Indian village, that interest will be greatly enhanced.

Making Nations Behave.

Dr. A. L. Bixby: Having called to the Supreme Power in vain, Elizabeth Towne, of New Thought fame, turns commandingly to the president and says: "Make the nations behave, oh, Roosevelt!" Fact is the president has about all he can attend to right here at home. If he can make America behave he is doing all that can be done to merit popular approbation. Haven't we just finished a long and wearisome conference in London, and no further along than we were at the beginning? Mrs. Towne also admonishes the president to make us all behave, but is wise enough not to indicate what that manner of behavior shall be. In this complex civilization, with its thousand and one activities, the matter of mass or individual behavior is a problem more so now than ever before. Thousands of individuals, who like the writer, have lived exemplary lives and been on their good behavior so long that it has become a habit, find themselves quite upset, economically, industrially and mentally, so that the admonition to "behave" is as aggravating as being told to "get up" when you are all dressed and ready for breakfast. We would advise Sister Towne to think of something worth giving the public or do us a noble service of keeping quiet.

Effective Patriotism.

Christian Science Monitor: The recovery campaign in which the United States is now engaged is in a real sense a patriotic and humanitarian work. It deserves whole-hearted support. The Monitor is giving that support. Included in it, this newspaper feels, at this moment is the duty to bring to attention two dangers which beset the program.

One arises from the mobilizing of public opinion to push the blanket codes. Popular emotion, particularly when it takes on a patriotic fervor, is a very powerful weapon. And a dangerous two-edged one. The value of enlisting popular enthusiasm for the codes is clear. But it is equally clear that the other edge—the popular condemnation of those who do not respond to the coercion of the enthusiasm—will not be useful in the present situation.

For it needs to be recognized that some industries and individuals are going to find it exceedingly difficult to fit even a blanket code to their business. This is especially true of small firms which may have no reserves. The government has already recognized this fact. It is seeking to clarify the codes and will try to adjust them to unusual situations.

But Washington cannot examine the 5,000,000 employes to whom agreements are being mailed to determine which are unable and which unwilling to assist the recovery campaign. An employer's neighbors may be able to judge somewhat by his general attitude and their knowledge of local conditions. But the public as a whole will need to exercise more than usual discrimination before it attempts to say whether a man is trying to do his part.

Even enthusiasm may go astray; condemnation has a blind and cutting edge. Emotional ebullitions of patrioters and loose labeling of "slackers" will not be the best patriotism in the present national effort.

This campaign will be most effective if it is carried through without too much coercion. That is the second danger. The weapon of popular pressure threatens not only to do injustice to the individual but to lessen the value of the reform. For to be most beneficial, the effort to spread buying power, which is the core of the present campaign, must be more than an emergency measure pushed through as a patriotic project. If American business goes back to its old habit of putting into profits the buying power which should be distributed as wages to workers and lower prices to consumers, it will have lost most of the good which is available under the recovery program.

Now as always the most effective patriotism is voluntary. Undoubtedly it will be necessary to coerce sweatshop proprietors and wageogers. Some overconservative employers who honestly believe they cannot adopt the new system may be helped by pressure to explore the possibilities. But for the most part what is needed is education. As employers see that it is good business to provide for the consumption of goods when they are produced, they will join this campaign. When they understand that the government will not protect them from unfair competition, many who have desired to give employees a higher wage will enlist.

GOLD STANDARD.

WJAG had the gold standard for discussion by the Voice of the Street, at Norfolk recently, and one of the Herald's radio listeners was not exactly satisfied with the explanations offered, and has asked this subsidiary radio agency to give further light. An editor's knowledge of the gold standard or any other monetary arrangement is for obvious reasons largely based on the experience of others. We remember seeing a twenty-dollar gold piece during the war, but, as we recall, we were not permitted to handle it or make such careful examination as the acquisition of expert knowledge would have advised. However, the gold standard was discussed by Dr. J. G. W. Lewis of the Wayne State Teachers College faculty, in the Herald's studio May 1, and he then pointed out that a gold standard is a measurement by which all other values are determined. It is made the basis of all values. Dr. Lewis said partially to gold as a standard is caused by its convenience and by its steady value. Late temporary restrictions on the circulation of gold has somewhat decreased its value. After the nations finish wrangling over the gold standard, it will probably be reinstated, given new freedom of circulation, and then a twenty-dollar gold piece will be less of a curiosity.

Scout Camping Period Closes

day evening; then camp broke up rapidly. The girls folded up their own kits and R. C. Hahnbeck, W. H. Gifford, Carl Wright and Herman Lundberg took down the tents.

DEPRESSIONS.

A writer for a current magazine quotes leaders of the period from 1893 to 1897 to show that depression then influenced the popular mind about the same as they do now. The quotations— from 35 to 40 years in the past—while reflecting a condition of unemployment, market collapse and business paralysis common to any major depression, were almost uniformly weak in predictions. Some were overly optimistic; others unwarrantedly discouraging. Some predicted recovery long before it happened; others breathed despair without justification. Pessimism was defeated in 1893-1897, and it will be defeated in the present economic crisis, but recovery will be hastened by a united and determined front and by the courageous spirit that made and has sustained the United States. In another magazine Rupert Hughes makes this observation among others touching depression: "The depression will unquestionably loom large in all history. We ought therefore to extract from it as much as the great problems that defy us. We ought to meet our defeats with pluck, and fight the fight as a fight, not as a case of mumps or dums. The return of prosperity will be slow and broken by bleak deformations. Why, then, can't we make the best of the depression while it is fresh and lively? For the secret of happiness lies in not waiting until the event is only a remembrance before enjoying it."

Movielites

Two stars of the royal Barrymore family come to the Gay theatre in pictures this week and two other stars, Clark Gable and Jean Harlow team up in the picture in between. If the calibre of the casts is an indication of the calibre of the pictures, we would say that Wayne movie fans are due for a big week at the movies. Both of the Barrymore pictures were given three stars in Liberty's reviews and the Gable-Harlow show will appeal from that particular combination.

GAY THEATRE

Phi-Sat., August 4-5. "Reunion in Vienna." This is the picture that brings John Barrymore to you in another of his varied moving picture roles. As a banished archduke of the Hapsburg house he comes back to Vienna secretly, where a lot of other die-hard Hapsburgers are attempting to recapture some of the past glories of the imperial court in a reunion. There's the title.

Diano Wynyard, a court beauty of the old days, and an old flame of the archduke's although married to a Viennese doctor is at the reunion and again meets Barrymore. Between the two of them they can't decide whether they do or don't hold the old affection for one another. Barrymore's ardent, rehabilitating attentions seem to settle the question in the minds of the patrons, and for which we can't blame John. But the doctor knows that if he is to hold his wife he must put the matter to a final test. So the coolly walks out on the two for a night and they settle it for themselves. This picture doesn't end the way you think it's going to and here is the making of the picture.

Four members of the original stage play are included in the cast; the costumes is beautiful, Miss Wynyard is extremely easy to like, and John Barrymore is the same old John in "Reunion in Vienna." Sun.-Mon.-Tues., August 6-7-8. "Hold Your Man."

This sounds like the sententious bellow of a football coach to his line. As a matter of truth, it is a bit of advice to women everywhere on how the title is carried out. The story is not essential since most of the interest lies in the two leads, Clark Gable and Jean Harlow, teaming up together after that torrid bit of photoplay, "Red Dust."

The first reel or two is devoted to that artfully phrased, pointedly effective wise-cracking of Gable, Harlow & Co. And although it is a bit spicy and certainly a murder of the king's English it starts off another of those pictures that aren't so good for the grown-ups but very good for the children—up Clark is a young man without too many scruples again and Jean is the young lady whose morals could be made a lot better with very little effort. They slip up on a badger game and both get sentenced to prison but in the fadeout they have reformed and have settled down as docile as two lambs.

It might be interesting to know that Anita Loos wrote the story and put in it all the verve of her pen. Where even her story needed a little livening up the movie folks did it. You can expect to see and hear a little of the risqué but it won't hurt. It isn't vicious.

Wed.-Thurs., Aug. 9-10. "Looking Forward." This picture will strike a responsive chord in most people because it is the story of the struggle of the biggest store in London to come through the depression with its doors open. Here are all the trials and stormy moments bred of hard times and the conflict of an employer's humanitarian instincts against the necessity of self preservation. Of course, the store is saved so close to ruin that it supplies its own thrills.

The cast is particularly strong. At the head comes Lionel Barrymore in another lovable role of an old employee who loses his position but takes up catering and makes it go and finally comes to the rescue of his former employer. It gives Barrymore another opportunity to display his great human interest ability. Then Lewis Stone appears in the cast. For sheer ability to interpret almost any situation with feeling Mr. Stone has few peers. Phillips Holmes deserves mention as also do Benita Hume and Elizabeth Allan. There two young ladies are English and were selected particularly to give the production an English atmosphere. Miss Hume was seen in "Clear All Wives" but Miss Allan has never played in an American production before.

The title was borrowed from President Roosevelt's book of that name and with his permission. If it doesn't do anything else the picture should impart a little brighter outlook to Americans and it will give an opportunity to really become acquainted with the good old English accent that one hears about once in a while.

Support National Recovery Action

Details Of Operation For Code System Are Being Made.

The National Industrial Recovery Act sentiment that has swept across the entire nation gained additional support when Wakefield business men, in a mass meeting Monday night at a community hall, expressed themselves as unanimously in support of the move. The meeting was held in response to the call of the community club, and although nothing definite in the way of a concrete plan could be formulated, machinery that will be able to work out a fair code for each separate line of business was set up.

A motion requesting all employers to sign the emergency code agreement blanks was adopted and Mayor Menning Hallin was appointed head of a committee, to be named later, to work out plans with respect to opening and closing hours, wages and hours of employment. It was agreed that a set closing hour was to be optional with each employer.

As each retail sub-division is organized it will submit its code for approval to the NIRA headquarters. The organization to put Wakefield 100 per cent behind the president's request is expected to be completed by the end of this week.

Thomas Rawlings, Robert Call, Robert Good, John Lundest and County Assessor Monday were in Lincoln and Omaha last week conferring with Gov. Charles Bryan's State Engineer Roy Cochran and the federal engineer in Omaha in regard to the proposed change in routing federal highway 20 north of Allen. Present plans call for the highway to follow the railroad one mile north of town. Local men want the highway to go through Allen. They contend that this will save the expense of building an additional mile of road.

COOPERATION ESSENTIAL

to SUCCESS in

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S RECOVERY PROGRAM

We pledge our unqualified cooperation with the National Industrial Recovery Act and will do everything within our power to speed universal prosperity:

Text of Blanket Code on Hours and Wages

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Following is the text of the blanket code to which all employers throughout the country are asked to subscribe.

President's Reemployment Agreement

(Authorized by Sec. 4 (A) National Industrial Recovery Act.)

During the period of the president's emergency reemployment drive, that is to say, from Aug. 1 to Dec. 31, 1933, or any earlier date of approval of a code of fair competition to which he is subject, the undersigned hereby agrees with the president as follows:

(1) After August 31, 1933, not to employ any person under 16 years of age, except that persons between 14 and 16 may be employed (but not in manufacturing or mechanical industries) for not to exceed three hours per day and those hours between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., in such work as will not interfere with hours of day school.

Work-Week and Work-Day

(2) Not to work any accounting, clerical, banking, office, service, or sales employes (excepting outside salesmen) in any store, office, department, establishment, or public utility, or on any automotive or horsedrawn passenger, express, delivery, or freight service, or in any other place or manner, for more than 40 hours in any one week and not to reduce the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any one week, unless such hours were less than 52 hours per week before July 1, 1933, and in the latter case not to reduce such hours at all.

(3) Not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum of 35 hours until Dec. 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum week of 40 hours for any six weeks within this period; and not to employ any worker more than eight hours in any one day.

(4) The maximum hours fixed in the foregoing paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to employes in establishments employing not more than two persons in towns of less than 2,500 population which towns are not part of a larger trade area; nor to registered pharmacists or other professional persons employed in their professions; nor to employes on emergency maintenance and repair work; nor to employes in a managerial or executive capacity, who now receive more than $35 per week; nor to very special cases where restriction of hours of highly skilled workers on continuous processes would unavoidably reduce production but, in any such special cases, at least time and one-third shall be paid for hours worked in excess of the maximum. Population for the purposes of this agreement shall be determined by reference to the 1930 federal census.

Rates of Pay

(5) Not to pay any of the classes of employes mentioned in paragraphs (2) less than $15 per week in any city over 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14.50 per week in any city of between 250,000 and 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14 per week in any city of between 2,500 and 250,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; and in towns of less than 2,500 population to increase all wages by not less than 20 per cent, provided that this shall not require wages in excess of $12 per week.

(6) Not to pay any employe of the classes mentioned in paragraph (3) less than 40 cents per hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929) was less than 40 cents per hour, in which cases not to pay less than the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents per hour. It is agreed that this paragraph establishes a guaranteed minimum rate of pay regardless of whether the employe is compensated on the basis of a time rate or on a piecework performance.

(7) Not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours worked in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules.

(8) Not to use any subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this agreement which is, among other things, to increase employment by a universal covenant to remove obstructions to commerce, and to shorten hours and to raise wages for the shorter week to a living basis.

Price

(9) Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price on July 1, 1933, by more than is necessary by actual increases in production, replacement, or invoice costs of merchandise since July 1, 1933, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the agricultural adjustment act, and in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

(10) To support and patronize establishments which also have signed this agreement and are listed as members of N. R. A. (national recovery administration.)

(11) To cooperate to the fullest extent in having a code of fair competition submitted by his industry at the earliest possible date and in any event before Sept. 1, 1933.

Price Adjustment

(12) Where, before June 16, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods at a fixed price for delivery during the period of this agreement, the undersigned will make appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this, his President's reemployment agreement, or having become bound by any code of fair competition approved by the president.

(13) This agreement shall cease upon approval by the president of a code to which the undersigned is subject; or if the N. R. A. so elects, upon submission of a code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this agreement.

Exceptions

(14) It is agreed that any person who wishes to do his part in the president's reemployment drive by signing this agreement but who asserts that some particular provision hereof, because of peculiar circumstances, will create great unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by signing this agreement and putting it into effect and then, in a petition approved by a representative organization designated by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A., if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation.

This agreement is entered into pursuant to section 4 (a) of the national industrial recovery act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by sections 7 (a) and 10 (b) of that act.

THE MARKET BASKET

By Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture

Family food guide to low-cost balanced diet: Every meal Milk for children, bread for all.

Every day Cereal in porridge or pudding, potatoes, tomatoes (or oranges) for children, a green or yellow vegetable, a fruit or additional vegetable, milk for all.

Two to four times a week—Tomatoes for all, dried beans and peas or peanuts, eggs (especially for children), lean meat, fish, poultry or cheese.

Build Up a Vitamin Reserve.

Storing up food for winter means, in the ordinary sense, putting food away to be eaten when winter comes. It may, however, mean something else, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It may mean eating plenty of certain kinds of foods right now, to build up a food reserve in your body.

Particularly, you can store up a reserve of some of the vitamins, against a possible scarcity of vitamin-rich foods in winter. Midsummer is the very time for that, for gardens and the summer sunshine, directly or indirectly, are sources of all the vitamins thus far known.

Gardens are most abundant now, the summer days are longest now, and the summer sun is richest in ultra-violet rays. Greens, fresh peas, snap beans, lima, okra, tomatoes and new potatoes are much cheaper now than they will be when the home gardens have gone by. These vegetables will provide you with all the vitamins except one, and plenty of sunshine will give you that one.

Authorities agree that at least six vitamins called by the letters of the alphabet, A, B, C, D, E, and G, are indispensable to human health. There may be others, but you yet identified. But it is not always easy to get a full quota of all the vitamins. Some of them are found in many different foods, but usually the quantity in one ordinary serving of cooked food is small.

Furthermore, the supply of green foods, for most people, is uneven—more abundant and cheaper in the growing seasons, less abundant or less obtainable in the winter, or off season. It is then that the body needs its vitamin reserves—the accumulated store, which serves to a degree as insurance in the time after the gardens have gone by and the sunshine is less powerful.

Vitamin C, however, is not stored to any great extent, and must be provided daily in the diet—a fact, by the way, which makes canned tomatoes very important in winter. Vitamin B, also, is stored only to a limited extent, but it is found in many of the winter time foods. Plenty of sunshine will give you vitamin D.

But why so much stress on vitamins? Many people still ask that question. It is true that vitamins are very much of a mystery, even to science. Twenty-five years ago nobody had heard that word. Now we know that vitamins are substances contained in foods. Their presence or absence can be proved, and the part they play is in large degree established. Perhaps their reality is most convincingly proved when they are absent, for if they are lacking long enough, acute disease occurs.

In other words, vitamins are best known by their works. For example, a serious eye trouble (xerophthalmia) afflicts people who do not have green foods or some other food that supplies enough vitamin A. Several other diseases that are common among people who live on a limited variety of foods are known to be curable by changing the diet. In most cases the faulty diet consists too largely of cereals and breadstuffs, which are poor in vitamins. But usually the cereals—corn, wheat, rice—are the cheapest articles of food and naturally the most widely used by people whose diet is most restricted by cost.

Many people, however, and especially many children, are ill-fed for no reason of scarcity; either of food or money. The food they have may be more than enough in quantity but it may be poor in one or more of the different food substances necessary to good nutrition. The result in such cases is subnormal health or existence on the border line of disease. There are many more people in these stages than in a condition of acute deficiency disease. They are ill-fed, not so much through lack of food as through lack of understanding of what they need or perhaps through tradition or habit. In America particularly, for many generations, the specialists say, it was not our habit to use enough green foods to balance the cereals and meats in the usual diet.

In short, when something is lacking in the diet, in this country at all events, it is often something that is found in the garden foods, or something derived from the sun's rays. Therefore, make the most of the gardens and the sunshine while they are at their best, to get a good start for the winter.

RECIPES

- Fried Tomatoes: 6 or 8 firm tomatoes 1 egg 1 tablespoon cold water Finely sifted bread crumbs Salt and pepper 1 tablespoon chopped parsley Wash the tomatoes, remove a thin piece from the stem end, and cut the tomatoes into slices about one-half inch thick. Beat the egg slightly, add water, dip the tomatoes in this, and roll in the bread crumbs, which have been seasoned to taste with salt and pepper. Allow the coated tomatoes to dry out somewhat before frying. Heat fat, place the coated tomatoes in the hot fat, brown on one side, then turn carefully, and reduce the temperature so that the tomatoes will have sufficient time to cook before browning. Serve on a hot platter, garnish with chopped parsley, and serve at once.

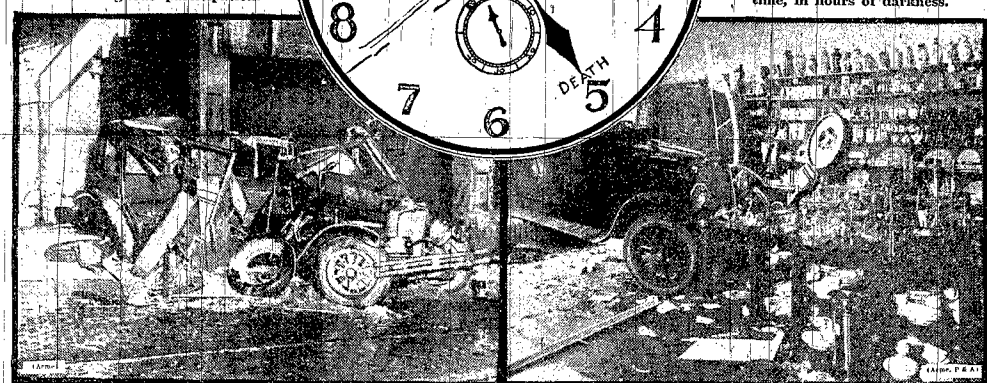

- Fried Okra: 2 quarts okra 4 tablespoons fat Salt to taste Select young okra, wash it well, dry thoroughly, and cut crosswise in pieces about one-half inch thick. Heat the fat, add the okra, cover, cook for 10 minutes, and stir frequently to prevent burning. Remove the cover, continue to cook until the okra is tender and lightly brown. Serve at once.

- Baked Cucumbers: 4 large cucumbers 2 tablespoons chopped onion 2 tablespoons chopped parsley 4 tablespoons butter or other fat 1 cup bread crumbs 1 cup tomato pulp 1 teaspoon salt Pepper Wash and pare the cucumbers and cut them in half lengthwise. Scoop out as much of the seed portion as possible without breaking the fleshy part, parboil the cucumber shells in lightly salted water for 10 minutes, and drain. Meanwhile cook the onion and parsley in the fat, add the other ingredients and the cucumber pulp, and cook this mixture for 5 minutes. Fill the cucumber shells with the hot stuffing, place in a shallow baking dish, add a little water to keep them from sticking and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes, or until the stuffing has browned on top. Serve in the baking dish.

How 20,000 Die Every Year on Our Highways

As bad as war, Automobile accident deaths in 1932 are conservatively estimated at 20,400, a death every 25 minutes every day, every night. In the American army during the war one soldier was killed in action or died from wounds every 24 minutes during our participation.

Lower left, a skidding accident in Detroit killing one and seriously injuring another. Skidding or failure to use chains causes 14 per cent of deaths caused by mechanical defects, a figure that could be reduced by ordinary precautions. Lower right, the car in the china shop at Mercer, Pa. Defective brakes caused 19 per cent of the fatalities due to mechanical failure in 1932. The "big three" mechanical causes of motor murder in 1932 were skids, bad brakes, and defective lights, with faulty lights leading list. Headlight glare is largely responsible but defective tail lights are also blamed. Of 1,530,583 cars officially inspected in Pennsylvania, 270,714 had faulty steering mechanisms; 547,203 had defective brakes; 738,709 had defective tires; and 1,119,932 had defective lights.

Only 312,344 cars, less than 21 per cent, were in good condition. Negligence of equipment is accountable for many deaths, but the reckless driver, Public Enemy No. 1, is blamed for 40 per cent of accidents involving deaths, and Professor W. Sherman Smith of the University of Toledo said he found in a special study that 85 per cent of fatalities were due to "poor judgment of driver." Experts agree that next forward step in design must be in glare-proof, fool-proof lighting systems, but more important than any mechanical improvement would be elimination of negligence and carelessness. Death toll in 15 years was 325,000, more than killed in all our wars.

Hotel Lexington New York

Miss Charlotte E. Field, chef and food manager, Hotel Lexington

ONLY one large New York hotel has a woman chef. Moreover, she is an American chef, holding her own and building a fine reputation among the army of foreign male chefs employed in the other hotels and clubs. She is Miss Charlotte E. Field, chef and food manager of the Hotel Lexington, one of the hotels under Ralph Fitz direction. It is affiliated with the famed Book-Cadillac in Detroit, the Van Cleve in Dayton and the New Yorker in New York.

The experiment of having an American woman cook for a thousand American men and women each day was undertaken two years ago. Not only is a woman in charge of the kitchens, but her entire staff of cooks is composed of women. The two-year experiment has proved highly successful, according to Manager Charles E. Rochester. "Women seem to have a large amount of natural ability in the kitchen," he said. "There seemed to be no reason why they should be out of place where more than a thousand meals a day are prepared. Miss Field has shown an appreciation of economy in handling food and an understanding of the value of variety. Her skill as a chef is attested daily by crowded dining rooms and grill."

Miss Field was born in Pittsfield, Mass., and acquired her taste for hotel food management from an aunt who was local fame in a country hotel kitchen. Miss Field attended Pratt Institute and Columbia University. She was called to the Lexington after she had attracted attention as a chef in a prominent New York restaurant. Because recent nutritional research has revealed that canned pineapple contains more known dietetic value than any other fruit, Miss Field places it in some form on each day's menu. Here is one of the favorites among Lexington guests, her pineapple meringue pie. Line a pie tin with a good rich pastry and prick with holes to keep it tight in tin while baking. Bake a light brown. Make filling as follows: 3 cups crushed pineapple, 3 tablespoons of corn starch, 1 cup of sugar, juice of one lemon, 1 tablespoon of butter, 1 egg yolk, 1 pinch of salt. Method: Bring pineapple to a boil, add butter, sugar, salt, lemon juice. Mix corn starch with a bit of cold water and add. Cook mixture well, and lastly add egg yolk. Remove and put in shell. Cover with meringue and cook till a nice brown.

McGee, kidnaper under death sentence, is a paroled prisoner from Oregon and that many others who have been in the crime spotlight recently have served time in prisons. Prisons seem to make them no better, but they at least commit fewer crimes in prison than when at large. Judge James R. Fage of the circuit court at Kansas City, a former prosecutor in Missouri courts, says: "I would abolish all parole boards and crime forgiving agencies. I will not attempt to discuss arguments advanced by those who believe in mercy for the merciful or pity for the pitiless. "America forgives criminals and their crimes. America is the most lawless and most law-ridden nation in the world. There is no other nation where life and property are as unsafe as in this our own country." The records do show that much crime is committed by paroled prisoners, and yet every prison warden will tell you of many more boys and men who have gone straight because of kind treatment and the proper use of the parole than have gone wrong. That, however, takes no cognizance of the many who are paroled who should not be paroled, who are prison repeaters, who are turned loose on society to kill and rob and destroy. The situation seems to be that parole boards have not used that keen judgment that should be theirs, have not made the most of their opportunities for observation and study of criminals, nor have they considered the temptations and pitfalls ahead when prisoners leave the barred doors behind. Paroles should not be granted to men who have committed major crimes. The risk is too great. Judgment should be used in tendering mercy in any degree to any man who kills or robs by force.

Judge Page, it would seem, is an extremist. There are extremists on the other side. Between the two there should be a more desirable middle ground of action. Surprises Church. Sioux City Journal: A smallish sort of man and two women companions entered the Cathedral of the Epiphany before late mass Sunday and took seats near the rear of the church. During the collection the stranger dropped a bill into the plate, and when later, in accordance with custom, the collectors deposited the contents of their respective plates in heap at the rear of the church, the bill stood out somewhat prominently, proving to be for $50. Immediately the collectors went into a huddle with the sexton. The general verdict was that the contributor had made a mistake and ought to be notified of it. The question was whether to interrupt him in his worship or wait until later. The sexton decided it would be better to wait until he was making his exit. The stranger and his party started to leave the church just before the conclusion of the service. One of the ushers buttonholed him, told him about the $50 bill and offered to return it. "No," replied the stranger. "There was no mistake." And he passed on. The donor turned out to be John J. Raskob, former chairman of the finance committee of General Motors corporation, former chairman of the democratic national committee, vice president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours corporation, et al. Mr. Raskob's companions were Mrs. A. Gervais and daughter, relatives. The party was on the way to Yellowstone park and had stayed in Sioux City over Saturday night, guests at the Warrior hotel.

Gospel Tent Meetings Are Still in Progress

Intense interest characterizes the gospel meetings in the tent at the corner of Eighth and Sherman streets. Evangelist Compton is preaching every night, except Monday, with an enthusiasm and zeal which compels interest and attracts all those who hear. Night after night, people, anxious to hear the truth, have assembled and listened with unfeigned desire and have learned the thrilling news of salvation. Assisting Rev. Compton are the Chicago jubilee singers. These singers are the delight of the audience. Mr. Long and his daughter, Lois, play guitars and sing and another young daughter and son, Lou and James, sing. Many are the compliments received by the family from the appreciative listeners.

Lately the party has been augmented by Evangelist Ada Pollard from England who will assist in the preaching. Do not miss opportunity of attending and enjoying the services which will be a source of everlasting comfort, cheer and enjoyment. Come, see, hear, and enjoy it all to the fullest. All are cordially invited.

THE GOLDEN RULE

Wayne Women Have Unique Record For Sixty Of Living

Wayne must have been very young and awkward and untutored when two of her pioneer daughters arrived. It was the year 1883, and the straggling western village covered but a small portion of its present spread. Only a building or two beyond the Third street corner on Main, and indeed it must have been like moving into the country when Mrs. Ellen Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Juhn settled in their newly-built homes on opposite corners of Fifth and Nebraska. Soon 50 years will have elapsed, and the early settlers continue on the same corners in the same houses which they have called home throughout young womanhood, motherhood and twilight years.

Mr. Juhn came from Sweden in May of 1884, and later that same year his wife and small son, John, came across the wide waters to the land of opportunity. It was a large, modern steamship of the White Star line which brought the young mother to America, but this being the year 1884, three whole weeks were spent on water before land was sighted. In 1849 the Juhn home on Nebraska street was completed and the family moved in. All around was unbroken prairie and few trees, but other houses soon began to spring up and the infant Wayne passed into healthy adolescence. Here in the Juhn home were born six children. John, now in Vancouver, Canada, Burt who now lives in Kansas City, George of Dixon, Ethel, now Mrs. Harry McMillan of Wayne, Nellie who is Mrs. M. J. Milton of Long Pine, Paul who lives in Council Bluffs, and Carl of Chicago. The third generation includes 13 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong came from the east in 1884, and Nebraska wilderness must have been an appalling sight to a young woman bred in New York state. The Armstrong home on Nebraska street was completed the same year and here the young wife began a housekeeping career of almost half a century's duration. Three children were born to the Armstrongs, James who is at Tulsa, Okla., Harry in Sioux City, and Mrs. Bertha Forbes of Rhineland, Wis.

Reduce Assessments.

Dr. A. L. Eixby.

Read by title we are informed that: "Omaha citizens want state to cut assessments." Wouldn't we all get in on that if it were possible? During the late period of expansion and currency inflation there was a general clamor for higher wages, higher flying, higher taxes, and who cared for expenses? People are now content with lower profits, lower wages, and fewer hours of exhausting labor. It naturally follows that taxes must be reduced to correspond with the general slowing down of profits. The late Attorney Oldham of Kearney in a speech favoring the restoration of silver as a medium of exchange and a measure of value, declared that any money was good enough for him if it would pay debts and buy liquor. Money is no longer plentiful. Exchange is crippled by the lack of currency. This condition accounts for a great deal of unemployment. If people are unemployed how are they going to pay taxes? So why maintain the cruel rate of assessment, why not cut down the cost of government to correspond with the narrower income of property owners who are put to their wits' end to get money enough to live on? By all means reduce assessments to a level making it possible for property owners to hang on a while longer.

FIFTY-THIRD YEAR

RELIEF WORK IS ORGANIZED

Name Miss Marjorie Ley To Administer Funds From Nation.

At an organization meeting of Wayne county's new relief committee last Thursday, Miss Marjorie Ley of Wayne was named county relief worker in charge of dispensing the funds made available by national legislation. Gene Huse of Norfolk, member of the state relief committee, met with Rollie W. Ley, the chairman, and County Commissioner Frank Erkleben and Mayor Martin Ringer, who make up the committee, and explained plan of work for the county groups.

Miss Ley has had considerable training in social service work at the University of Nebraska, and has had charge of several Lincoln families the past year in connection with her class work. There will be no salary in connection with the office. Miss Ley began her work last week-end, and will visit each family applying for aid, making a personal survey of home conditions and need for help. Money orders for provisions, fuel, clothing and medical care will be issued by the worker, with each family receiving on an average of $8 to $10 every 30 days. When the worker issues an order, she will designate just what it is to purchase, will countersign it and have it countersigned by a member of the local committee. The recipient will take it to any store, preferably one where he or she has been trading and which has already extended credit and is therefore entitled to the cash business. The order must be used in trade only. About $300 will be available for Wayne county's needy during the month of August. The 35 families now receiving county aid are being visited, and also any others who have requested aid from the relief group. Miss Ley will handle the work throughout August, until she returns to the University of Nebraska in September.

Reports will be sent in to the office at Lincoln twice monthly, and the committee will collect the orders taken in by local merchants twice weekly and send these to Lincoln. Merchants will be reimbursed by the Lincoln office, and no money will be handled directly by the relief worker or committee. The purpose of this special governmental appropriation is as much to raise the morals of families made destitute by depression, as to give them everyday necessities, according to Mr. Huse, and no attempt will be made to take over relief work now done by the counties, merely to supplement this. About 53 counties have been granted the federal aid to date, Douglas receiving $12,300 and Lancaster being slated for the second largest amount. Several counties will not apply for the funds, and others are not eligible.

Visitor Helps To Open Up New World To Deaf Children

"For some have tongues but they cannot talk, and some have ears but they do not hear" . . . and the bringing of these into natural communication with their fellow-beings has become the life-work of Miss Dorothy Ziebach who is attending summer session at Wayne State Teachers college. Miss Ziebach is the daughter of C. M. Ziebach of Winnebago, who retired from government service in 1932 after several years' supervision of Indian affairs there.

After a year's study at Clarke School for the Deaf in Northampton, Mass., Miss Ziebach entered the teaching field, and has been at the state school for deaf at Colorado Springs, Colo., the past four years.

The old method of talking on one's fingers is now obsolete, says Miss Ziebach, and children are taught lip reading from the beginning without resort to the "manual alphabet." After six or eight years of schooling, the child receives a thorough foundation in spoken language and in speech reading, and then is as close to normal as possible. About one-third deaf children are born without hearing, and others are left deaf by spinal meningitis, mumps, whooping cough, colds, scarlet fever, with far the greatest number resulting from the first. When about six years old, the children are started to school and are started right off with lip reading and work on elementary speech.

Instead of enunciating with great care and exaggerating lip movements, the teachers in these special schools talk in natural voice and make no effort to face their pupils when talking. As a result, the children soon learn to read normal lip movements and can read what is being said by seeing only the side of the face. When children enter for their first day's work, Miss Ziebach tells them a long story, none of which is understandable to them. Next day she repeats and a few words make themselves understandable, and before long the entire story is plain. Pictures are used to illustrate words, for the child who has never heard a spoken word, and has not learned to read, has no conception of the names for common, everyday articles. Consequently, every word must be taught separately. Perhaps the teacher starts with two objects, such as "cow" and "ball," and repeats these words until the children detect the difference, then adds a few more nouns. The written word is posted alongside a picture of it, and the two are linked up in the child's mind. At end of the first year, a child knows about 120 words, can count to 10, can identify and say eight colors, and use about 25 common verbs, also about 35 simple expressions such as "How do you do?"

It is worthy of note that if a child can speak a word or two when entering school, one of these is certain to be "Mama." At first, the voices are very unnatural and poorly-pitched, but this is remedied by careful teaching. Most schools have "radio ears" upon which records are played and headphones run from the ears to each desk. The children can turn the volume up or down to suit their hearing, and gain a feeling of rhythm from the vibration. Likewise, from placing the hand on a teacher's face, the vibration is felt and soon the child realizes that a like vibration comes from his own throat. In lip reading, children study the mouth's position, position of tongue, facial and throat muscles.

"And we always say 'deaf child, never 'deaf and dumb,'" says Miss Ziebach, "because a child can usually be taught speech even if handicapped by deafness." This country is way behind in teaching of the deaf. Back in the 1800's, an American went to England to learn oral teaching and came back to start a school in lip-reading here. But finances were lacking and the English wanted money for their methods, so the American went to France where he learned the "manual alphabet," and this was taught in our schools for deaf for years. But now practically all state-owned schools teach orally, and children are sent to them for about nine-months periods, the parents furnishing only clothing and transportation. Most schools take the children up to 11th grade, and then they can take post-graduate work if they have made a good scholastic record. Some go on to Gallaudet college in Washington, D. C., the only college for deaf in the world.

In the state schools, trades are taught which will enable the children to be self-supporting. Boys learn barbering, shoe repairing, printing, linotype operation, book-binding, agriculture, carpentering and painting. Girls are more limited in fields, but learn cooking, sewing, laundry work, linotype operation and book-binding.

Probably one out of every 200 children is too hard of hearing to go to a public school, says Miss Ziebach, and it is for them that state-owned schools are operated in

Bonus Is Millions For Wheat Farmers

Lincoln, Neb.—If all the wheat growers in Nebraska agree to cut their production down in 1934 as asked by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace they will receive a maximum benefit payment of $9,185,526. Two-thirds of this sum would be paid soon after September 15, 1933 and the remaining one-third minus administrative expenses, next spring.

W. H. Brokaw, director of the agricultural extension service at the agricultural college, announced the maximum benefit payments after receiving definite information from Washington regarding "trip A" wheat plan. The maximum is based on benefit payments of 30 cents a bushel on wheat used for human consumption.

The total maximum payment possible to Nebraska wheat producers was reached by multiplying the state average production by 58 per cent, which is the domestic human consumption, and then by 30 cents.

Cost of administration and the amount to be taken out by the federal administration to encourage foreign exports of wheat is likely to total about 2 cents a bushel. The exact amount will vary with the county costs of administration but practically all of the county costs go to local people who will spend their money in the county.

As a state, Nebraska stands to get from $9 to $10 in benefit payments for every dollar its citizens pay in as a processing tax. Brokaw points out. This cash money should stimulate trade, particularly in the wheat growing territory, he said.

The maximum payments which could be made by counties were:

- Antelope, $11,351.
- Box Butte, $230,897.
- Boyd, $10,198.
- Cuming, $4,262.
- Dakota, $6,423.
- Dixon, $2,077.
- Holt, $6,678.
- Keye Paha, $2,103.
- Knox, $9,065.
- Lancaster, $226,114.
- Lincoln, $171,681.
- Burt, $26,732.
- Cedar, $4,608.
- Pierce, $4,796.
- Rock, $547.
- Stanton, $5,007.
- Thurston, $4,214.
- Washington, $43,633.
- Wayne, $1,419.

Livestock Market Erratic In Week

Erratic live stock markets were recorded during the last week. There were some suggestions of good demands, and relatively broad outlets, but also outstanding suggestions of bearishness toward prices, and declines, as a result, were recorded in practically all departments. There were good supporting elements such as firm wool and hide markets and increased speculative interest in land around mid-week. However, these conditions were more than offset by effects of the duldest fresh meat trade of recent weeks. Supplies of meats continued heavy, as holdings as the week opened were heavy, and as slaughter continued on a liberal scale.

The disturbing elements of the breaks in grains, hog products and New York Stocks late last week were felt throughout the live stock industry the current week, especially in the hog department, which had an extremely weak market throughout the period.

The fat cattle market suffered most this week, after carrying good action and about the best stability in the entire industry for many weeks. Supplies of well finished cattle continued liberal, and there was further material liquidation of half fat stock, as well as increased movement of grass slaughter cattle. The better grades of cattle in many instances are around 50c lower for the week, and the cheaper grades are about 25c lower. The best cattle at Sioux City during the week brought $6.90 and the bulk of desirable fed cattle sold between $5.00 and $6.50. Butcher grades were an extremely low sale, although cheap kinds managed to hold nearly steady. Grass cows led in the declines recorded in this department.

Fairly good demands were shown for stock cattle in the face of liberal receipts. Recent rains, benefiting pastures and practically assuring a great corn crop in Sioux City territory were the leading factors in broad and active demand for thin cattle. Reports from the West indicated that better than normal supplies of western stock cattle were to be expected at Sioux City Stock Yards early next week.

Boosters Pay Visit.

Stanton band and boosters visited Wayne Saturday evening to advertise the American Legion's fifth annual pavement dance to be held here this Thursday.

Former Resident Passes In China

Rev. Harry Carmichael Jett, former Wayne resident, for twelve years a missionary of the Methodist Episcopal church in Yung-chun, South Fukien, China, died there on Tuesday, July 25, from bronchial pneumonia, according to cable advices received by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Jett were the only missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal church serving in South Fukien, other work in that province having been turned over to a British missionary society in 1931. For a number of years Mrs. Jett was principal of the South Fukien Bible school, and more recently a district missionary under special appointment.

Mr. Jett was born in Wayne, Nebraska, October 13, 1890, and was graduated from Baker university and Garrett Biblical institute. In 1919 he was united in marriage to Miss Wenona Wilson, of Baldwin, Kansas, who survives him. Mr. Jett was a delegate from China to the general conference of 1928 in Kansas City.

Mr. Jett's father is Abraham Jett, of Windsor Place, St. Louis, Missouri.

Valuation Is Cut By Twenty Percent

Lincoln, July 27.—County valuations for the 1933 assessment were equalized today by the state board for an average reduction on farm lands of nearly 20 per cent below last year's assessment, and a general reduction of 15 per cent from last year on town lots.

State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith said the board made the 15 per cent reduction for town lots statewide but allowed numerous variations in equalizing farm lands. Counties in northeastern Nebraska drought area were allowed a 25 per cent reduction on farm lands, while the reduction in small sandhill counties was put at 10 per cent. In most other counties the farm reduction varied from 18 to 22 per cent. Smith said the total reduction for the state as a whole would be slightly under 20 per cent less than in 1932.

Burt Gets 25 Per Cent Out.

Burt county, which asked a 37 per cent cut was allowed a 25 per cent reduction before the board. Dakota county was allowed to retain its proposed 25 per cent cut and other counties granted a 25 per cent reduction on farm lands included Dixon, Cedar and Knox. Platte county, the only other county which asked a reduction of as much as 37 per cent, was allowed only a 20 per cent cut.

Hall, Wayne, Boone and Cass counties were denied a 25 per cent reduction, and equalized at 20 per cent, and a 26 per cent cut in Adams county was reduced to 20 per cent. Buffalo's proposed 20 per cent cut was reduced to 18 per cent but Lancaster and Pierce counties were permitted to retain their 21 per cent slashes.

Several counties near Omaha were required to increase their reductions: Sarpy, from 14 to 20 per cent; Saunders, from 15 to 18, and Washington from 18 to 20.

Six Counties Unchanged.

Madison county's 14 per cent reduction was increased to 20 per cent. Holt county's reduction was increased from 9 to 20 per cent, still somewhat less than other counties in the northwestern drought region.

Among the counties listed at 20 per cent (and unchanged) were Dodge, Greeley, Jefferson, Merrick, Otoe, Seward, Stanton and Thurston.

Laurel Man Dies.

Harold Voter, 25, died Tuesday last week in Sioux City. Funeral services were held at Laurel Thursday. Mr. Voter leaves his wife, formerly Miss Kathleen Cherry, and a son.

Wheat Reduction Plan Is Explained

Enough figures and facts are now available so northeastern Nebraska farmers who grow wheat can do some fairly accurate figuring on how much they will get in return for adjusting their wheat acreage this fall and next fall, W. H. Brokaw, director of the agricultural extension service and administrator of the Triple A wheat plan says.

The story can probably best be told by going through an example. A farmer has had an average of 20 acres of wheat yielding an average of 20 bushels in the three years, 1930-32. His "base production" is 400 bushels.

The county allotment is based upon the five-year average for the county during the years, 1928-32. Northeastern Nebraska counties varied considerably in their three-year and five-year averages. In Antelope, Boyd, Dixon, Holt, Knox and Pierce counties, the three year average is higher than the five year average. In Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Madison, Stanton and Wayne counties the three-year average is lower than the five year average.

Since each farmer is entitled to his proportional share of the county allotment, this farmer's base production of 400 bushels is adjusted up or down according to the county in which he lives. If he lived in Holt county, he would adjust his 400 bushels downward; if he lived in Dakota county, the adjustment would be upward.

Supposing the adjustment is upward ten per cent, then this farmer's "adjusted base production" would be 440 bushels. His benefit payment is based upon 54 per cent of the 440 bushels, or 238 bushels.

The benefit payment is 30 cents per bushel, less the cost of federal and county administration expense, which in some of the northeastern Nebraska counties might amount to a total of five cents. 238 times

25 cents equals $59.50 cash benefit payment this fall and next spring.

If the rates and percentages remain the same through 1934, the farmer would get another benefit payment in the fall and spring of 1934-35 and another payment in the fall and spring of 1935-36. In other words, he has a chance to get three payments for two crop years, and could figure the additional possibility of 50 per cent more on his $59.50 making $89.25. The payment of $59.50 is fairly certain, the second and third payments will be made to bring the farm price of wheat up to parity price. If the open market price is parity, the payments will not be made, but the farmer will be ahead because he will get the higher price on 100 per cent instead of on 54 per cent of his crop.

In addition to the cash money in advance, this farmer saves the expense of raising the wheat on the land he takes out of wheat; he has limited use of the land, he has a guarantee of the cash money regardless of crop failure, and he also has the guarantee of parity price on 54 per cent of his crop, and the possibility of a higher price if the wheat supplies are reduced.

For these considerations, he will be asked to cut his acreage not over 20 per cent. He may reduce it more if he chooses just so long as he sows enough acres, which at his average yields, 20 bushels, will produce 238 bushels. That would be 12 acres.

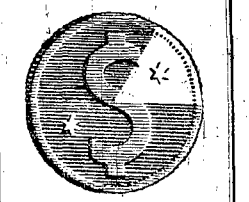

If he cuts his acreage, 20 per cent or four acres, he is fairly certain of getting about $15 per acre cash rent per year and has a possibility of getting $22 if the three similar payments are made for the two crop years.

Destroying Cotton Crop. Omaha Journal Stockman: Somehow the department of agriculture's plan to destroy part of the cotton crop in order to boost the price of that staple does not sound so cruel and heartless as the plan to plow up fields of wheat and corn, because cotton is not a necessary food. It certainly seems un-economic and wasteful, however, but since the farmers will be paid liberally for the destruction, they appear to be going about it in a matter of fact way.

Down in Texas, H. H. Williamson, extension service vice-director and state agent, in issuing instructions to cotton farmers, announces that "young cotton can best be destroyed by plowing and using cotton by running steady cutters through the crop. These ways are sure to be acceptable to the government. Proposals to destroy the cotton by grazing probably would mean weeks of delay in obtaining certification of destruction by local committees and a consequent long delay in obtaining governmental payments."

At one time cotton was king but these are certainly unhappy days for kings.

"Sensationalism That Serves. Christian Science Monitor: American journalism's best side is illustrated in the aid of Chicago newspaper is lending to this year's fight into the stratosphere. American newspapers are sometimes criticized, those in Chicago frequently, for the emphasis they have given to crime. In backing this exceptional balloon expedition, the Chicago Daily News has made it plain that some newspapers are much concerned with better things, and are willing to advance money liberally to help bring them about.

Naturally, newspapers like to print what is interesting. In the last few years it has become clearer that what is interesting can be even "sensational" without being harmful. Lindbergh's flight and the rest of them, ending at the moment with Post's seven days around the world, have made a new type of news, for daring, a hackneyed Chicago gangster has little chance against the great aviators.

The spectacular, which is constructive interests all readers. The lurid may induce larger street sales of a newspaper for the day while offending many of the regular home subscribers. As Chicago has found, the evil type of sensationalism also injures the community's reputation.

When a newspaper goes out of its way to make news of the wholesome type, it is doing a service not only to its own readers, but—if the occasion be big enough—to newspaper readers of the world. The good and the bad compete in newspaper columns for attention. What is constructive has to have the merit of real interest to win its readers. In helping to underwrite this attempt to fly highest above the earth, the Chicago Daily News has done something besides serving its own clientele or furthering scientific knowledge. It has emphasized again that a great zone of constructive journalistic endeavor is open to enterprising newspapers like itself.

Depression Cure. Stanton, Neb., July 29.—On every hand new depression cures, or different "rackets" said to be profitable are offered. George Anderson of this city has a "believe it or not" emergency profit producer which transformed $8 paid March 1, 1933, into $105 in pork.

March 1, Mr. Anderson purchased a bred sow, weighing 300 pounds for $8. Her spring litter ten little porkers, all lived and how average 150 pounds each. Their mother has added 100 pounds to her adroitpoups. So, according to Mr. Anderson's figures, at 400 pounds she is worth $16 as a stocker. Her ten pigs, weighing 1,500 pounds, would sell for $75 which would make a total of $91.

Add to this amount $14 for the 14 three-day-old baby porkers which this mother produced this week and you have a total of $105. Very little grain has been fed this prolific sow, pasture being her main source of food.

The Hypochondriac.

Omaha World-Herald: Some people worry about the state of their finances, others about the state of the weather and a few about the state of their health. It's all he has time to worry about, which saves him from a lot of miscellaneous worries which might go a long way towards spoiling his good time. The hypochondriac has faith in humanity, democracy, truth, justice, but no faith in the state of his health. He doesn't trust his health out of his sight and if the time should one day arrive when he felt he could, he probably would be the most unhappy individual ever turned away from a busy clinic.

Hypochondriacs may be divided into two general classifications, A and B. Classification A pays the doctor to keep telling it that nothing is wrong. Classification B pays him to say there is. It would be difficult to say which classification gets the most fun out of it.

A hypochondriac hates to die worse than any other class of worriers, because he figures that, once deceased, his worrying days will be over and no hypochondriac can bear the thought of that. He thrives on worry. Not worry as such of course. For goodness sake don't form the impression that a hypochondriac is interested in health as such. Who ever saw a hypochondriac, whether an A or a B man, worrying about anybody else's health? He is concerned exclusively with the state of his own health. This causes him to become ego-centric, and ego-centrism is straw-berries and cream to a hypochondriac.

Is there a cure for hypochondria? Who said we wanted a cure? We aren't really sick. We're the people who think we're sick or who are worried sick for fear we're going to be sick. Don't waste any sympathy on us, friends. We don't need sympathy. What we need is a doctor, trained nurse, fast ambulance, clear traffic down the highway and a hospital at the end of the road before this thing—whatever it is or isn't—gets any worse. That's us!

One way to assure the peace of the world would be to arrange that a nation couldn't have another war until it had paid for the last one.—American Lumberman.

France withdraws gold from New York and will pay the Bank of England three months in advance. We would be indebted for a how come.—Washington Post.

During August

Parents, see that your children's teeth are in perfect condition before school opens in September. It is an established fact that children cannot do so well in their studies if they are hampered with aching teeth.

Small defects may be easily removed and save later annoyance and cost. When entering school, every child needs and deserves the support of sound, healthy teeth.

During the month of August, preliminary to the opening of school, all school children's teeth will be cleaned at half price.

York Republican: Bob Gore, of Culbertson, just turned 100, scored the receding milestone and took a good look at the rising sun. 'I'm younger than most fellows. And the reason is, I never worked very hard, and I never tried to get rich.' This is his philosophy. We commend it to his fellows. Note that young Bob said he did not work 'very hard.' We know he must work. We cannot conceive of anyone passing the century mark without having worked steadily and systematically at something. Longevity and illness are utter strangers. But we think Bob is correct in not working too hard, especially now that he is getting up to the time he has a right to take it a little easy. Bob's attitude toward trying to get rich recalls the story of the sick king who was advised by his magicians to find a happy man and wear his shirt. After a long search he found the happy man, a village smithy, singing away at his task. But the envied fellow didn't own a shirt. We can't believe that Bob is shirtless but we will agree with his view that the combination of a happy heart and shirtless back is to be preferred to a dyspeptic stomach, a sour disposition, and a big checking account in the bank. We hope the next 25 years of Bob's existence are his happiest. He has found the secret of keeping young happily.
