

The Wayne business district is now operating under the general rules of the NRA, and each group will keep within prescribed hours for employees unless or until a different code has been worked out and accepted by the national administration.

Answering the Emergency.

Reduction of hours and often necessarily increased help - the purpose of the movement - and without decreased wages - also, the wish of the administration - cause hardship in varying degrees on the part of the workers.

Already An Uphill Task.

The last few years have multiplied difficulties for the average country merchant. He has been steered to look courageously to the future as he has seen income melt away.

To Avoid Coercion.

In a national emergency the people are persons who put on an extraordinary display of patriotism in the hope of discrediting neighbors who are just as sincere but who are less showy.

One welcomes the wisdom in the publicity drive begun locally to mobilize Omaha.

Morris Jacobs declared "I favor basing this publicity on education and reasoning - not coercion - selling everybody the idea that co-operation will be good for them and for the country."

Not coercion - that is the encouraging and significant phrase.

A good many crimes are committed in the name of liberty, and not the least of these crimes is to sacrifice liberty in times of great stress and need.

There is, on every side, a conviction that the whole program for national recovery, if widely supported, will succeed beyond our fondest dreams.

Firm as is the majority faith in this proposition, it would be too bad if those who do not share the optimistic view, or even those who are too cowardly and craven to join in the co-operative movement, should be boycotted, blacklisted and coerced into assisting the campaign.

Brutality will not be necessary.

In Omaha, in Nebraska, the early response indicates that education and reasoning will be enough. Even though the leaders of the publicity campaign are given the military titles of colonel and major, they will win great honor for themselves if they abstain from military battle tactics of force and compulsion.

To Lay Cornerstones.

Cornerstone for the new Masonic temple in Norfolk will be laid at 1:30 today and several from Wayne plan to attend.

Europe Warlike THE Omaha Journal-Stockman quotes Henry Morgenthau, sr., just returned from the Geneva and London conferences, as declaring that while the masses of Europe want peace, the leaders want war, and that European countries are ready for war. To presume that the masses should be permitted to say whether war is necessary or not, whether it should be declared or not is perhaps presuming too much on the status of civilization. It would seem that those who must stand the brunt of war, those who must suffer the consequences of war should have a voice in determining the course to follow. Mr. Morgenthau says conditions are similar to what they were in 1913, and adds: "All countries are expending more for armaments. All distrust each other. Europe will not look to us for manpower, again as she has all the men she wants, but one group or another would like a financial alliance with us." But in future wars, Europe will get neither manpower nor money from this country if financiers and others are influenced by past experience.

The Kiwanis organization conforms to the spirit of the day by asking members to follow certain high principles which are set forth. Among other ideals is this one: "In advancing standards in all lines of business and professional service, Kiwanians should seek to be men with a lively consciousness of what is right and wrong, men of fine sense of honor, men who prize individual integrity more than individual gain." The Kiwanis group is intently bent on improving business and social relationships, and at this time is wielding influence accordingly. The Kiwanis statement concludes: "The modern achievements of business and the professions are due as much to the realization of ethical standards as to mechanical efficiency. Progress compels constant revision of these standards—the continuous challenge of business to Kiwanis."

Hotel and restaurant employees in Cincinnati are protesting against a fifty-six-hour week as fixed in a temporary code, and they propose to ask for a forty-eight hour week. Whatever working period is established may be regarded too high by employees and too low by employers, but the justice of any wage scale may be easily determined by production and success in keeping out of the red.

Gildersleeve is local secretary and those eligible to apply for jobs, may call at his office and fill out information and application blanks. Those who find it more convenient to go to Winslow or Carroll may register with Mr. Miller or Mr. Williams. All applications will be forwarded to the state director, George Hodge of Lincoln.

Contractors on state and federal road work and other similar projects will hire their men from among those who register with N. R. S. secretaries throughout the state. Some road contracts are to be let August 11, 24 and 31 so men are asked to register at once.

The regulations read that ex-service men with dependents are to have first consideration. Next, the men living near the district in which the roads are being built will be favored. No one at present having a job will be considered.

In making this announcement the Wayne committee does not wish to encourage any one to think that there will be a job for all who apply. As a matter of fact there are no federal or state road improvements advertised in Wayne county at this present time. But there is a chance that Wayne men may be called to work on some of the contracts outside the county. The Wayne county committee, being among the first to organize, and to enter applications, should have a favorable chance to get some of the jobs for Wayne men.

The registration cards which will list each man's qualifications will be kept on file at Mr. Gildersleeve's office and the committee will be active all fall and winter in getting employers of every kind of man power to go to his office for their help.

Employers who need labor of any kind, by the day, week, or month, are urged to call Mr. Gildersleeve for information about men.

edition giving a history of the development of the community from the beginning. We are especially interested in the story of the growth of Hartington and the Hartington Herald because this editor's father started that newspaper just as the new town was springing into existence. As we recall, the printing equipment was unloaded on the virgin ground and a crudely constructed shanty was built over and around it. That marked the birth of the Hartington Herald.

A former Wayne county resident, motoring through Nebraska after an absence of several years, was thrilled by the rich vegetation everywhere in evidence, exclaiming that nothing to compare with it could be seen between here and the Pacific coast. When Nebraska has its usual proportions of rain and sunshine, its soil responds with a wealth of vegetation, and thus when one descends from the arid lands of the inter-mountain country, this state unfolds a panorama of green that delights the eye and reveals wonderful resources.

The Herald is wrestling with introduction of the new code of employment in its mechanical branch this week, and on working four employees we have trimmed off a total of 56 hours. Until we feel increased buying power, we cannot raise prices, and so we must meet the extra cost by endeavoring to increase volume at old prices. Editors and reporters are exempt, being classed with doctors and other professional people who have no fixed hours.

When anyone says the policies of metropolitan newspapers or others of smaller caliber are dominated by advertisers we always feel like offering denial and resentment without absolutely knowing. In all our experience, mostly restricted to the country, we have never seen evidence of the truth of the charge. On the contrary, we can conceive of no large or small publication that can give best service to the public under the controlling influence of outside selfish interests, whether they be advertisers or others.

The passage of J. G. Mines, pioneer Wayne jeweler, after suffering ill health for a number of years, removes a man whose word was as good as a government bond. When he represented a thing to be so, it was so. No hope for immediate personal gain could influence him to stress the value of a product beyond its actual worth. He belonged to that fine type that could be trusted implicitly—an exemplary quality worth remembering and worth following.

Wayne started the week with a most revolting tragedy, and how a state of mind could ever be fashioned by the worst circumstances to enact the terrible deed, is inconceivable to humane instincts. Man and wife have certain known rights, and if they can't respect such rights and live together peaceably, they ought to live separately. It outrages sensibilities to see an innocent child's life sacrificed as the result of family conflict.

Local stores have agreed on uniformity of opening and closing hours agreeable to the national code, and the arrangement may become so popular that it will continue long after the emergency passes.

TO CHECK CRIME. Charles Francis Coe, author of gangster stories and student of crime, is quoted as expressing the belief that crime could be more effectively checked by turning the prosecution of criminals over to the federal government. Mr. Coe would have federal authorities take over the duty of running down gangsters and racketeers and other outlaws, relieving counties and cities of the task. Mr. Coe is quoted as saying: "Crime will be against society, not against a county or a city or a state. Prosecution will be by society, not by a politically controlled organization depending upon the votes of a few communities. Then solution of crime will be sure in the vast majority of cases, prosecution will be genuine and speedy and efficacious." The Christian Science Monitor says this plan "is in line with measures President Roosevelt and Professor Moley have been planning for bringing federal power more effectively into the war on kidnaping and racketeering. The wide powers of the National Recovery Act are expected to control racketeering in industry. And the present public agitation against kidnaping has weakened the old states' rights objections to a federal police force. The time is ripe for a far greater exercise of federal power to check crime."

Murders Son In Home Tragedy

Tuesday Sedlak, fagged by remorse, gave out the only reason he has offered for the slaying. "I just lost my mind, I guess," he said. "When asked if he was sorry, he said, 'I'm kinda sorry it happened.'" At first, and he has been conscious ever since the shooting, he was noncommittal about his reasons for firing the shots and a conviction that he was going to die took away all thoughts of what might happen to him. Now, as each day finds him alive, he is sorry. "I think tonight, (Tuesday) will be my last night. It had better be. Think of the charges they'll bring against me," he said.

"I feel real sorry that I did this and I advise any couple who have these troubles to keep their heads and never take these things too seriously but control their tempers and get along the best way they can as man and wife," Mr. Sedlak concluded in a statement given Tuesday to Rev. H. A. Teckhaus and Mr. Addison.

Mrs. Sedlak, who was in the hospital suffering from shock, was able to go home Tuesday night.

Alfred H. Sedlak is a native of Germany, coming from a little town near Leipzig about eight years ago. He was employed at the Electric shoe repair shop for the past seven years and married Miss Amanda Dauns four years ago this July. All his family is still in Germany, with the exception of his sister, Anton Kaulwin of Omaha, to whom he sent money to come to the United States. All of the Sedlak children were born in Wayne. L. W. Kratavil, for whom Sedlak worked, stated that he was a good employee and that he had seen no dependency in Sedlak. He said, however, that he had noticed in the past few months a tendency on the part of Sedlak to forget things.

Funeral services for little Harry Sedlak will be Friday at 1 in Beckenhauer's parlor and at 2 in Pilger Lutheran church.

Carpenters To Meet. Building carpenters of northeast Nebraska meet at Wayne city hall Thursday to hear rulings of the NRA code in that line of work.

LOOKING AHEAD

The war, with inflation, wild spending and high flying, followed by inevitable collapse, has now reached a certain where systematic and certain reconstruction has become imperative. The government's repeated warnings and pleadings fell on deaf ears—aroused opposition—often defiance. Gently applied federal influences failed to secure cooperation. Individualism grew apace. Each person sought security only for himself. The result obstructed recovery and threatened further ruin. Then to escape worse conditions, the government turns to more drastic methods, organizing a drive on a big scale, with compelling requirements, to lift the country out of the economic bog. Each individual is reminded that his future anchorage depends on the stability of the country, on the welfare of society. He is reminded that his earthly stores are worth nothing without a soundly supporting government. Sensibilities are shocked into setting aside individualism for the time-being and coordinating activities in behalf of the general public. If this temporary suppression of the individual modifies greed and self-seeking and raises human relationships to a permanently higher standard, the past decade's ups and downs—mostly downs of late—will have been abundantly justified. Then the boasted escutcheon of liberty and equality will be hoisted to a new height and become more of a fact and less of a theory.

To Show How To Kill Bindweed

Demonstration To Be Given Next Monday By F. D. Keim Of University.

Farmers who are bothered with bindweed will have a chance to see an actual eradication demonstration next Monday, August 14, when F. D. Keim, special expert from the college of agriculture at Lincoln, shows the use and application of sodium chlorate in killing this weed. The demonstrations, arranged by D. S. Wightman will be as follows: 10 o'clock, at the Emil E. Meyer farm two miles north of Altona; 1:30 p. m. at the Tom Hughes farm three miles west and one and a half miles south of Carroll; 3 p. m. along the road one mile north and one-half mile east of Winslow.

This weed, known commonly as "creeping jenny" or small flowered morning glory is gaining quite a little headway in the county and the only satisfactory method of killing it so far discovered is the sodium chlorate treatment. Plowing seems to only spread the area covered by the weed and neglect will cause it to spread over a large acreage in a few years.

Arrangements have been made to purchase the sodium chlorate in large quantities and if enough is ordered it will be possible for Wayne county farmers to get rid of their bindweed patches with the least expense. Those interested should get in touch with D. S. Wightman at Wayne.

realism and the rest of the family appear as if they were living over their everyday lives on the screen. The picture is real, human and good entertainment for the whole family. The comedy of one of the members of the family is good but it gets a little boring before the picture is over. Well, venture that you will like it.

The short subjects for the end of the week and the first part of next include Lini Ross of the Maxwell House coffee hour, "Show Boat" fame, pictorial news, a sport reel and a travelogue, "Workers of the World." These do not all appear with each picture.

It must have been a thousand years or so ago that some one said, "Time is a great leveler. It takes away that which it has given and gives away that which has not been taken." How true this fits the movie star's destiny. In "Another Language" which shows at the Gay this week one of the big, he-man type stars of a few years ago is taking a small, very small part. You saw him as the black-shirted, two-gun Lassiter in "Riders of the Purple Sage," and he rode majestically across your moving picture screen in dozens of western and adventure stories. He was one of the greatest of the silent stars. He is William Farnum. And now, stripped of his glamour and atmosphere of conquering hero he plays a sculpturing instructor. Watch for him and when you see him you'll know that the price he pays for a corner of the public spotlight is that of being turned aside and forgotten. Time is a great leveler.

Friday-Saturday, August 11-12.

"Made On Broadway" They call Broadway the "hub of the world," that is those who live in New York do. But even Broadway has its gullible "smart" boys and "Made on Broadway" is the story of how one of these gentlemen is outsmarted. Robert Montgomery is a political fixer and his apartment is the rendezvous and meeting place for politicians, chorus girls and what not. His wife left him because she couldn't stand his night club home.

Well, Robert has the misfortune to rescue blonde, vivacious Sally Eilers from drowning and he fixes her for a chance for fame on Broadway. Sally isn't so dumb however, and what she does to Robert makes a good story. In the end Robert starts for Europe to escape the net he has woven about himself and on the boat he meets—well, see the picture.

Miss Eilers is at her best in this kind of a role and Madge Evans who plays the wife, while in a somewhat minor part, presents a smooth performance. You'll like Eugene Pallette as Terwilliger too. Sun-Mon-Tues., Aug. 13-14-15.

"Another Language" Once in a while a picture comes along picturing the life of a conventional, middle-class American family, with no startlingly lavish scenes in it and yet which through the fine performance of its characters lifts the vehicle into the three and four star class. This is what "Another Language" does.

The plot is too long and too closely woven to attempt a complete review but it can be called the fight a bride makes against the family of her husband. The family is practically the mother, who dominates the entire group when she can, by referring to the past and when she can't do this she resorts to ill health and spasms. Of course, the children side with her against the bride, Miss Helen Hayes. Finally a nephew provides the fireworks in which breaks through the bonds that the mother has thrown around him, and the fadeout comes in a driving rain. What a walk to end a picture. But it clicks.

The characterizations in this picture are splendid. They make the picture a hit. Every one of them seem to just exactly fit and you should enjoy it because it is a situation that could easily crop up in any family, even yours. Louise Closser Hale makes a perfect mother-in-law of the nagging, jealous type. Robert Montgomery and Miss Hayes carry through with James Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Gertrude Anderson of Sioux Falls, S. D., as maid-of-honor, and Miss Wilma Bailey of Iowa City, and Miss Helen Hillman of State Center, Iowa, as bridesmaids. All three are sorority sisters of the bride. Miss Anderson's dress was of pink mousseline de soie with which she carried an old fashioned bouquet of butterfly roses, pink sweet peas and gypsophila. The bridesmaids wore yellow organdy and carried nosegays of tansian roses and orchid sweet peas. Mary Jane Cofer, cousin of the bride, and Barbara Jean Olson, both of Lincoln, stretched blue and yellow ribbons to form an aisle for the wedding procession. The former wore yellow organdy and the latter, blue.

The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Ivan Baker, of What Cheer, Iowa.

Preceding the wedding, Austin Vickery of Omaha, uncle of the bride, sang "At Dawning" and Miss Elizabeth Baxter of What Cheer, Iowa, because of the bridegroom, sang, "Ousein."

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception and wedding breakfast. Mrs. V. H. R. Hanson, Mrs. J. H. Montgomery and Mrs. E. S. Kiernan were dining room hostesses and Mrs. Albert Borg had charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker left by motor shortly after the reception for a ten-day wedding trip in Denver and Fairplay, Colorado. At the latter place they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gould at their mountain cabin. For a traveling costume the bride wore a mole taupe knit swaggar suit with corse trim, and her accessories were of dark brown.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of the University of Iowa, where the former was a member of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority, of which she was president. She is also a graduate of All Saints school at Sioux Falls, S. D. Since her graduation from the university, she has been in Iowa City doing clerical work at the Iowa Memorial Union. The latter is a graduate of What Cheer high school and of the College of Law at the University of Iowa. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, of which he was president. Mr. Baker was also president of the junior law class. Since his graduation in February he has been doing research work for the National Law Institute under the direction of O. K. Patton.

and no Sunday opening, was layed by because the council had no ruling on whether they were acting within their power in passing such an ordinance wherein it would be provided for an occupation tax payable by all merchants and dealers not wishing to comply with the ordinance. Charges and implement shops were exempted in the petition. Commercial users of electric current will find the statements for their August bills figured at a rate of from ten to fifteen percent lower than the July statements. The council decided that such a reduction could be made and an ordinance will be passed later to that effect.

Land Prices Are Advancing

The owners of the good 160-acre 3 miles from Wayne, that I had advertised at $75 an acre, have today notified me that they will not take less than $30.00 an acre and at that price it is the best buy around Wayne. Have several other good quarters in this vicinity, one at $10,000 and one at $11,000.

Drying Is Found
Good Method For Preserving Food

One of the oldest methods of food preservation is drying, according to the University of Nebraska Agricultural college extension service. It is used more extensively for fruits but may be also successfully used for some vegetables; namely, sweet corn, pumpkin, squash and mature peas and beans.

The equipment required is very simple with almost no cost. The reduction in the bulk of the products dried makes possible their storage without special containers. This is a saving for many homemakers.

Preparation of Food
Fruits and vegetables used for drying should be fresh, crisp, young and tender. A satisfactory product can not be made from wilted or inferior grades of fresh material. All material to be dried should be thoroughly clean.

The material to be dried should be in small enough pieces that drying may be done within a reasonable length of time. Therefore, foods may be made into convenient sizes for drying by means of slicing. From an eighth to a quarter of an inch is a fair thickness for most products.

Methods of Drying.
Drying in the open air. The oldest method of drying, that of placing the material in the sun, is the simplest form. Bright, hot, sunny days are essential. Some protection against insects and dust should be provided. Cheese cloth, mosquito bar or wire screen are satisfactory. Small quantities of food may be dried by spreading upon clean boards, canvas, heavy wrapping paper or cloth. A sloping roof with a south exposure is an excellent place. Trays may be used if desired. Window screens or screen doors resting on boxes and placed in an open space make good drying trays. Of course the screens must be covered with a thin cloth before the products are put in place for drying. Before storing, sun-dried products should be placed in a slow oven for 20 minutes. Keep the oven below broiling temperature. This is done to complete drying by artificial heat and to destroy any insects that may have collected during the drying period. Material dried in the sun should be stirred several times during the day. Do not place material in the sun until the dew is well dried in the morning and remove before it starts to form in the evening.

Drying by artificial heat. Drying may be done in the oven. Care must be taken to keep the heat low and even and to stir often to insure even drying. The oven door must be left open to allow escape of moisture.

For Special Products.
Apples—Wash, pare, core, and slice apples. Drop apples as they are prepared into water to which table salt has been added at the rate of 3 to 5 teaspoons per gallon. Dry the material until when a handful of slices gripped firmly in the hand has an elastic feel and leaves no visible moisture upon the hand. The salt water dip may be omitted, if desired.

Beans—Gather when full grown and before pods are dry, then shell and blanch for three minutes in boiling water. Drain dry and spread out thin on trays. Stir frequently during the drying process. Dry until brittle. This includes lima beans.

For string beans, gather when ready for table use, wash and cut in one inch lengths. Blanch or steam, then place on trays and dry until brittle.

Kale—Gather when ready for table use. Wash thoroughly, strip out the heavy mid-rib, dry off the water and place on drying trays. Dry until brittle.

PICK COMMITTEE FOR EMPLOYMENT

Men Are Registered For Road Work Which Will Be Let Soon.

At the regional meeting of 14 counties held in Neligh last Friday, Wayne county committee to serve in the national reemployment service was named as follows: J. J. Ahern, Wayne, chairman; Rolfe W. Ley, Wayne, Dr. W. M. Hawkins, Wayne, Fred Miller, Winslow, and G. W. Williams, Carroll. L. C. Gildersleeve is registration agent.

Mayor Martin L. Ringer and Commissioners Frank Erlendson and David Koch represented Wayne county at the regional meeting in Neligh.

Supplies came to L. C. Gildersleeve the first of the week and registration began at once. A number of road contracts will be let August 11, 24 and 31 and all work will be done by men picked by this county committee out of the list of unemployed.

The county committees work under the direction of George Hodge, the state director of national reemployment service.

Lovestock Market Shows Stability

The current week brought continued erratic and largely weak and unsatisfactory livestock markets. However, considering the volume of live stock handled at leading centers, there were more suggestions of stability and impending improvements than were noted last week. There were strong as well as weak factors in the week's uneven trade, and also many conflicting developments that served to make an uneven trade.

There were many suggestions of improved demands and broader outlets than prevailed the week before. There also was good support to the general trade in stabilized grain markets, continued firm markets for wool and hides and several other items in the by-products list, and a degree of returning confidence in the trade, in that speculative interest in hog products improved sharply. On the other hand, the week opened with stocks of meats heavy as a result of heavy slaughter over a number of weeks, and slaughtering continued heavy the current week, further piling up holdings. These developments came in the face of the severest heat wave of the season in the east, which led to sharply reduced demand for fresh meats.

The fat cattle market is quoted steady to 25c lower for the week, with the plainer classes of cattle showing the decline, and with the price spread widened. Closing activity was reported somewhat better than that of the earlier rounds. Butcher grades also are quoted steady to 25c lower, heifers being steady, and cows showing the decline. The top at Sioux City this week landed at $6.80, while the great bulk of fed steers and yearlings sold between $5.00 and $6.25. Fed heifers ranged largely between $4.40 and $5.75, and the great rungs of grass cows on hand sold between $2.50 and $3.50, with canners between $1.50 and $2.50.

Stockers broke under the weight of excessive marketing in dried out sections, and prices are 25 to 50c lower for the week. Improved demands developed on the break, and Sioux City yards are well cleared of holdings. The bulk sold between $3.00 and $4.00, with good kinds up to $5.10, choice feeders up to $5.25, and fancy stock calves up to $5.75. Hog prices are 15 to 25c lower than a week ago, after a week of excessive marketing around the circuit. Lamb prices are 50c lower, also due to heavy receipts.

To Help Farmers In Acreage Plan

George H. Liggett is starting his work in Wayne county as the emergency agricultural agent and secretary to the county organization committee who are working on the Triple A wheat adjustment plan. His office will be in the court house at Wayne.

Mr. Liggett has been appointed under civil service examination of the federal administration at Washington. He will be paid entirely from funds provided in the agricultural adjustment act, and be responsible to W. H. Brockaw, extension director and state administrator of the Triple A plan, at the agricultural college at Lincoln.

During the next few weeks he will help the county committee hold community meetings where all the wheat growers can discuss the details of the Triple A plan. He will also check a list of wheat growers which has been made up. Names of growers who attend community meetings will be checked off this list. Those who do not attend will have to be visited later.

As the program continues, Mr. Liggett will help farmers with their application blanks and contracts, and also help the committee figure up the county statistics and keep the records which will be needed by the permanent organization of wheat growers when it is formed this fall.

Push Refinancing Of Farm Mortgages

Washington, D. C.—A county-by-county campaign to speed refinancing of farm mortgages will be undertaken by the farm credit administration, which was authorized to loan up to $2,200,000,000 to farmers at the last session of congress.

Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the administration, explained the campaign would be employed to expedite the mortgage refinancing program and to supplement plans already under way in five states for buying up farm mortgages held by closed and restricted banks to aid in their liquidation.

Returning from airplane visits to Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky and South Carolina, he said the program for large scale refinancing will be carried into other states as speedily as possible and that from now on all applications for refinancing will be handled together with the bank campaigns.

Ask 400 Million Loans.
He said he is increasing the appraisal staff of the 12 federal land banks from what were 210 on April 1 to from 2,500 to three thousand men. Already 803 appraisers have been added and more than eight hundred more are in training.

Applications from 114 thousand farmers for 400 million dollars in loans have been received in the last two months.

The rate is increasing rapidly. He has arranged to obtain 100 million dollars from the reconstruction corporation to supplement 90 million dollars which the land banks had on hand to handle needs for funds during the first months.

Bonds to Be Issued.
At an indefinite early date, the first of two billion dollars in bonds which the land banks are authorized to issue for mortgage refinancing will be issued. They will be sold as funds are needed to meet the requirements, for refinancing.

In the campaigns, a group of appraisers, five or more, will go into a county and will then appraise all farms whose owners or mortgage holders have asked for refinancing. The mortgage holders will include closed and restricted banks, banks which are in full operation, in some cases insurance companies and any other holders of claims against them. In many instances the mortgage holders are satisfied and do not intend to seek refinancing.

State Tax Levy Is Set By Board

Lower Valuation Makes Necessary Raise In Mills This Year.

Lincoln, Neb., August 1—Nebraska's 1933 state tax levy was set at 2.39 mills today by the board of equalization. This will raise $4,955,147 on the basis of the assessed valuation which recently was reduced.

The levy is .02 of a mill more than the 1932 levy, which included .11 of a mill for the capitol fund. The general fund levy was 2.26 mills last year.

Beer license revenue was not anticipated in making the levy.

Valuation Off 450 Millions.
The board found the state's total valuation was $2,078,283,350 a reduction of about 450 million dollars from the 1932 valuation, and of nearly a billion dollars from the 1931 figure. The peak valuation was $3,313,737,091 in 1931.

The amount of money to be raised was the lowest since 1918, and far below the 1927 peak of $11,779,299. Last year it was $5,974,772.

Although informed that the new beer tax might raise 750 thousand dollars, the board did not use this figure in its calculations. For one thing, vagueness in the language of the law left the board undecided whether the money would go to the general fund, or whether it would go to the school funds. For another, the board followed its usual custom of reckoning "miscellaneous receipts" on the basis of last year's total.

To Spend $5,810,480.
The miscellaneous receipts for the year just closed were $92,721, including the two major items of 563 thousand dollars for insurance tax and 153 thousand dollars for corporations tax and other receipts of the secretary of state's office.

The intangible tax is expected by the board to raise $1,042,897. This is on the basis of a 2 1/2 mill levy for $43,014,122 class A property and 8 mills for $76,590,022 class B property. A new law making the rates 5 and 10 mills was not yet effective.

The total to be spent for the year is $5,810,480.

No Levy for Capitol.
This was the first year since 1918 that a capitol tax levy was not made along with the general fund levy. Work on the capitol is practically complete.

State tax commissioner Smith has compiled a statement showing that the levy of 2.39 mills for state taxes will bring into the state treasury $4,955,147 for the year 1933 as compared with a total state tax revenue of $5,975,042 for the year 1932 when the levy was 2.37 mills on the dollar. The decrease this year is $1,019,895.

Comparison of the state tax levies for 1933 and 1932 upon counties follow:

	1933	1932
Cedar	$72,968	$93,670.91
Cuming	79,255	97,010.74
Dakota	32,491	40,076.08
Dixon	46,194	54,789.57
Knox	58,683	70,025.87
Madison	84,251	101,216.11
Pierce	51,849	63,270.10
Stanton	48,946	59,588.15
Thurston	37,288	46,578.72
Wayne	59,570	72,701.70

A Pica for the Individual.
Omaha Journal Stockman: In all our modern mania for mass action, mass production, mass saving, etc., there seems to be too much of a disposition to ignore or neglect of that equally important element, "individual psychology." The demand of the individual for the opportunity to develop was the fundamental principle of American progress and it must not be ignored or suppressed.

"I wish to compliment you on your esteemed editorial writing to competition, July 31," writes a Buffalo county reader.

"The most prosperous times the nation ever had were during the years from 1890 to perhaps 1915 when some observations were given to the Anti-trust laws, and we had conservative competition. I am predicting that we are fast losing our individuality and there is little in store for the younger generation to look forward to, under serfdom of restraint, caused by government control and mergers.

"Again let me compliment you, and why isn't it possible to start a nation-wide campaign on 'let's have more conservative competition and less of mergers of the big fellow.'"

If this nation is to survive and go forward we must give more consideration to the natural and legitimate demand of the individual for "a place in the sun." Mass movements of any kind can never be successful where they ignore or suppress the right to individual expression and opportunity. The mass, it must be remembered, is only an aggregation of individuals.

Bolivians at war with Paraguayans are wondering what they are fighting for. Not that the boys are any less patriotic, but strangers have begun to ask.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

To Help Reemploy Men of Nebraska

County representatives to ten regional reemployment meetings to be held soon in Nebraska were announced by George Hodge, federal reemployment director. The men will select county committees and submit names in time for the federal highway program on which bids will be taken August 11. L. C. Gildersleeve is Wayne county representative. Others in northeast Nebraska are: Ed. Bauman, West Point, Cuming county; Clarence Haley, Hartington, Cedar; Adolph Wenke, Stanton, Stanton county; Emory A. Austin, Ponca, Dixon; Lloyd Bridenbaugh, Dakota City, Dakota county; Frank Barka, Center, Knox county; Frank Warner, Norfolk, Madison county; Edwin Beach, Pierce, Pierce county; Supt. L. Crow, Pender, Thurston county. Wayne county is in the district for which a meeting was held at Neligh August 4.

In honor of Miss Florence Montgomery's birthday Wednesday of last week Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pfeil and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Montgomery and daughter, Mariene, spent the day at Edwin Lindsay's. From Council Bluffs. Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Martin entertained at dinner Thursday evening for Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bessie and their guests from Council Bluffs. The Council Bluffs folks are Mrs. C. A. Wood and son, Marion, Mrs. Rollie Miller and daughters, Elaine, Barbara Jean and Ethel, and Miss Bernice Olson. Market Live Stock. A report from Sioux City tells of several marketing stock from this vicinity. Going through the Wednesday list of sales we find Nebraska fairly well represented and tabs in the steer and heifer divisions were made by good feeders from the vicinity of Pender. Frank Westervelt of Pender was on the market with a lot of five yearlings of the Hereford breed, averaging 1,097 pounds, that scored $6.75. Herman Westervelt, a brother of Frank, was also on the market with six yearlings of top merit. His consignment averaged 1,036 pounds and turned for $6.50. Another Pender representative who came here was Eric Albers. He had two loads of choice White-face heifers totaling 62 head and weighing 732 pounds that cleared at the top in that division, $5.75 a hundred. Mr. Albers is a large and successful feeder. He expressed himself as being well pleased with his sale. Not to be outdone in the upper bracket of prices for steers was A. Watson of Wayne. He was on the market with 42 yearlings, averaging 1,006 pounds, that cleared at $6.40. His sale, he said, pleased him a great deal. His consignment was mostly Herefords. Asked about poor conditions, he reported a poor showing in small grains but was optimistic about crop prospects. The rain that was falling at the time his animals were going to the scales was one of the reasons for his jubilation. From Wisner came Herbert W. Albers with 30 Hereford heifers. They averaged 670 pounds in weight and cleared at $5.50. The ability to feed cattle properly evidently runs in the family. Notice to Creditors. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss. The Trained Man Wins. Popular Mechanics: Success comes from being able to do some one thing superlatively well, not from a mere willingness to try "anything." More than ever before there is a demand for trained men—education wins. Fortunately, education is available to everyone through home study, practical schools, night classes, and free libraries. Walter Chrysler started life in a railway roundhouse. He got his education by mail from a correspondence school. Lack of a university degree, need for no hardship in life. Consider the lives of Edison, Cyrus McCormick, West- inghouse and the Wright brothers—all men who worked first with their hands and then with their brains. These were men of action and of courage without any knowledge of things that "can't be done" imbibed from university textbooks. Their motto was: "Nobody ever gets anywhere by waiting—let's go!" And each one helped to change the face of civilization.

Moisture Excellent. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 2—Excellent moisture conditions in Nebraska, with the exception of the southern border counties and in the extreme northwest, were reported here today by A. E. Anderson, the state-federal crop statistician. In those two regions, corn has been damaged. Alfalfa and other hay crops have improved outside these areas.

- 2 tablespoonfuls of butter Meringue. 3 egg whites 6 tablespoonfuls of sugar Heat the gingerale to scalding in a double boiler. Blend the sugar, flour and salt and add to the hot liquid, beating until very smooth. Cook 10 minutes, add a portion of the hot mixture to the beaten egg yolks, mixing well, then return to the double boiler and cook, stir- ring for 3 minutes. Remove from the heat, add the butter, cool slightly. Pour into a previously baked shell, top with meringue and brown lightly in slow oven (325 degrees). Banana Ice Cream. (Better Homes and Gardens) (Serves 6) 1 can of sweetened condensed milk (1-1/3 cupfuls) Juice of 2 lemons 3 or 4 ripe bananas mashed 1 cupful whipping cream Pour the condensed milk into a mixing bowl, add lemon juice and stir until the milk thickens. Add the mashed bananas and fold in the whipped cream. Freeze in the tray of a mechanical refrigerator for 3 hours, stirring up from the bottom and away from the sides at the end of the first and second hours. Canned Sweet Corn. (Mrs. I. H. Anderson) 6 cups corn 1 cup salt 2 cups sugar Let stand two hours to make own juice. Then cook in juice for 20 minutes and seal. Field or squaw corn may be substituted for sweet corn. Wayne Man Patents New Poultrey Feeder Washington, D. C.—A new poultry feeder is protected by a patent recently granted to William F. Vahlkamp, Wayne, Nebraska inventor, by the U. S. Government, according to an announcement made by Clarence A. O'Brien, Washington patent lawyer. In describing the invention covered by the patent and citing its advantages over present poultry feeders, O'Brien disclosed that the Vahlkamp poultry feeder is of the magazine or hopper type wherein a quantity of feed is deposited in a magazine or hopper and dispenses itself automatically to a feeding trough as the feed in the trough is consumed by the poultry. The trough and the non-clogging hopper are supported on a frame upon which the poultry stand while feeding, and so arranged that the poultry cannot get into or stand on either side of the trough to spoil and waste the feed therein. A galvanized top on the hopper constituted by doors to be swung open for quickly and easily filling the hopper with feed, prevents the poultry from standing on the hopper, while downwardly and outwardly slanting walls on the hopper positively prevent clogging of the feed in the hopper. The simplest and most inexpensive construction characterizes the Vahlkamp poultry feeder.

In times of change and stress, the value of these qualities increases, while that of our other possessions declines. Imagination, persistence and hard work, hitched to a trained mind, will pay dividends in these days just as they always have for past generations. But in the olden days the law was "Work or starve." Today the rule is "Think or Perish." That is the New Deal. Machines, with both their problems and their poetry, have freed the sweating backs of workers, and at the same time have created countless new opportunities for service. One hundred years ago a trip from New York to Chicago would have taken months, but it would have involved no work except your own and that of a couple of straining oxen. Today this same trip may be made in a few hours, but it requires the combined services of hundreds of persons—aviators, engineers, radio dispatchers, teletype operators, stewardesses, ground attendants and weather experts.

Nature's Plans and Others. McNaughton in National Pioneering: Nature is the final dictator of crop production. Nature has a way of wiping out surplus production, even when man insists on greater crop acreage in the face of distressed markets and below-cost selling prices. Our wheat crop this season promises to be one of the smallest in the past 40 years, not because of acreage reduction, but because nature failed to supply the normal growing conditions. We are in the midst of the greatest economic experiments in all modern time. Theorists who have been our greatest scholars of economics are working out intricate policies calculated to regulate production in line with probable consumption. But before these economists have a chance to put their theories into practice nature comes along with drought and hot winds and proves that man has little chance to actually regulate production. What is true with crops appears to be true, to some extent, with livestock. We hear increasing reports of ravages of cholera in swine herds, losses from anthrax, blackleg and other diseases in cattle. Man knows how to effectually combat and prevent such disease through the use of proven bacterins and serums, yet we continue to have such losses largely because many stockmen, in an effort to economize, attempt to "get by" in live stock, death losses cost a great period of low prices. Yet even at present unsatisfactory values of deal more than the money spent for preventatives. Every precaution should now be taken to prevent losses in live stock by disease in view of the general belief that prices are on the upward trend.

There is an old school of market students who have a firm belief in the theory that the workings of supply and demand, coupled with the elements, will eventually solve problems of production and marketing. Probably the rank and file of stockmen and packers are in that class. But we tried that system and look what it got us into! Now we're going to experiment on a system of planned production, and if nature doesn't interfere too much it may work. The country has had such a troublesome period under the old method of each individual for himself that all of us are more or less willing to enroll in the new school and see how the new system works out.

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich. UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels. It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced. Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars, which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars. But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost. For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense. We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change. We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us. Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed. Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933. In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak. The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you. By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable. Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it. The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them. August 7th, 1933 Henry Ford

leads the field

by the widest margin in its history

CHEVROLET, AMERICA'S NUMBER 1 CAR—47.99% of all low-priced cars sold

NUMBER 2 CAR—26.74%

NUMBER 3 CAR—19.21%

ALL OTHERS 6.66%

*Based on the latest retail registration figures from R. L. Polk & Company (all states for five full months). Since January first Chevrolet has sold in excess of 370,000 passenger cars and trucks.

People have come to expect Chevrolet to lead the world in automobile sales. But this year Chevrolet has done even more than that. According to the latest available figures, Chevrolet alone has sold almost as many cars this year as all the rest of the low-price field combined!

When a car looms above its field like that, there can't be any argument about it. It must be an all-round better buy. And that's exactly what Chevrolet offers you. Fisher bodies, with the new ventilation system and the strongest and quietest body construction of the day—solid steel over a sturdy hardwood frame. A valve-in-head six engine, unapproached for economy... Cushion-Balanced to blot out vibration... full of snap and vigor—altogether the most efficient engine in the low-price field.

Then there's Syncro-Mesh with Silent Second, the Starterator, Simplified Free Wheeling, the Octane Selector, long, parallel-mounted springs—more advancements than we have space to describe. And Chevrolet prices are as low as $445. Don't guess—buy from the leader. Get a car that has been proved sound and dependable by more owners than any other automobile you can buy.

BUY NOW!

If you need or contemplate buying a new range, now is the time to do it, and the Copper-Clad offers advantages that you will appreciate when you examine the stove.

COPPER-CLAD isn't merely the name of a range... It describes the way the range is built. The copper lining is placed between the asbestos and the heavy Keystone Iron range body. All asbestos, regarding is placed between the asbestos moisture from the atmosphere. The copper lining in the Copper-Clad Range prevents this moisture from coming in contact with the range body and thus keeps the range body from rusting out from the inside. Rust never gets a start in the Copper-Clad. This one feature alone means years and years of longer service. Be sure to read the 36 distinctive Copper-Clad features listed below:
