FUNERAL RITES ARE ON SUNDAY

Services for G. W. Crossland Conducted At Methodist Church in Wayne.

Funeral services for George W. Crossland, long a resident of Wayne, were held in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Harold C. Caspey in charge of the services.

Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery. Lifelong friends of Mr. Crossland, Charles E. Gilder, sleeve, L. W. McNatt, L. W. Roe, James Steele, B. W. Wright and Carl E. Wright, served as pallbearers.

Out of town relatives attending the services were the four sons of the Crosslands, Will Crossland of Lincoln, Dr. Weldon Crossland of Rochester, N. Y., Clement Crossland of Baltimore, Md., Dr. Paul Crossland of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. George Mittauer, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Mittauer, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Butler, Louis F. Schonlau, Mrs. Freda Sauer and Mr. and Mrs. John Pearson, all of Omaha.

Mr. Crossland married Miss Mary K. Schonlau, on March 8, 1886, in Omaha and moved in July of that year to Wayne, his home continuously for 47 years.

Mr. Crossland died at his home in Wayne Wednesday evening, August 16, just at sunset. He had lived 77 years, 4 months and 9 days.

Considering the aged. A southern writer was asked why the elderly individual who is out of work, is overlooked in movements for reemployment.

Painters Meet To Form Group. A chapter of master painters was formed Monday when men from the northeast met here at the city hall.

As To Free Press. W. F. Cramb, editor and publisher of the Fairbury Journal, sounds alarm over the proposition to license newspapers which action he deems an infringement on the federal constitution.

Another Idea. Another Washington idea as expressed by radio Sunday night is to move big industrial plants into the country.

MORE EMPLOYMENT ENLARGED DEMAND HIGHER MARKETS

REPORTS state that the NRA is steadily reducing the ranks of the unemployed. More employment is expected to stimulate demand for more farm products and thus influence prices upward.

LOCAL MEN HEAR TRIPLE-A PLAN

Wheat Acreage Reduction Act Explained Tuesday By Agriculturists.

About 100 Wayne business and professional men answered the call to a mass meeting in the court house Tuesday evening and heard George H. Liggett, federal representative, and W. W. Derrick of the University of Nebraska agricultural extension service, explain the agricultural adjustment act and its relation to the NRA.

Gives Address Here Tuesday

Rev. W. A. Mansur Tells What Can Make Life More Worthwhile.

Rev. W. A. Mansur of Cedar Rapids, Neb., in addressing the Wayne Herald radio audience on Tuesday morning, chose as his subject "How You Can Make Your Life Worth Living."

Trust in God can make your life worth living. It bases life on God's fatherly control of earth and time. It cheers our endeavors by our filial relation to God, and it enables us to strive trusting that all things will work together for good.

Believing in immortality can make life worth living. Our hearts tell us that we are made to live after death. Immortality is necessary to life's completion for human hearts believe that God will make things right for us all.

College Winner In League One

U. & I. Team Holds Lead In League Two Of Kittenball.

When the college kittenball team defeated the Clover Farm last Thursday, the college won the championship of League I. The U. & I. team is still in the lead in League II.

Kittenball Team Goes To Kearney. Wayne Legion kittenball team will go to Kearney next Sunday to enter the state Legion tournament which will be held in connection with the 25th anniversary of the Legion and Auxiliary will also attend the sessions as delegates.

Hog Buying Plan Gets Under Way

Marketing Is Voluntary And Is Designed To Help Shortage.

There will be no need to rush pigs and brood sows to market immediately after the government's emergency buying program gets under way, W. H. Brokaw, director of the Nebraska agricultural extension service, says.

The schedule of prices announced by Wallace is as follows: 30 to 35 pound pigs, $9.50 per cwt.; 35 to 40 pound pigs, $9.00 per cwt.; 40 to 45 pound pigs, $8.75 per cwt.; 45 to 50 pound pigs, $8.50 per cwt.; 50 to 55 pound pigs, $8.25 per cwt.; 55 to 60 pound pigs, $8.00 per cwt.; 60 to 65 pound pigs, $7.75 per cwt.; 65 to 70 pound pigs, $7.50 per cwt.; 70 to 75 pound pigs, $7.25 per cwt.; 75 to 80 pound pigs, $7.00 per cwt.; 80 to 85 pound pigs, $6.75 per cwt.; 85 to 90 pound pigs, $6.50 per cwt.; 90 to 95 pound pigs, $6.25 per cwt.; 95 to 100 pound pigs, $6.00 per cwt.; over 275 pound brood sows, $4.00 per head above market value without dockage.

Local leaders point out that this is the logical time to build a much-needed place for community buildings, inasmuch as the government will finance and contribute liberally to such a project, for a limited time only, and Wayne Women's club will donate $6,000 toward the building.

Cost of marketing a pig weighing from 50 to 100 pounds is higher in proportion to weight than the cost of marketing a 200 pound hog, Nebraska college of agriculture men point out. In his statement at Chicago, Wallace indicated that the emergency program might put hog prices up 2 per cent.

The meat from the pigs over 80 pounds and better sows, which pass inspection for food, will be used for relief work among the poor. All the other products will go into tankage and similar products and not affect the open market for other classes of live hogs and dressed pork products, Wallace said.

Accident Victim Still Quite Ill

Damage Action Is Brought Against Bus Company By Wayne Man.

Rev. William Kearns, who sustained a broken ankle and chest injuries in a bus accident at Omaha is not so well this week according to report from the Omaha hospital.

Coleridge Couple Married Tuesday

Mr. Vincent Anderson and Miss Josephine E. Joseph of Coleridge, were married Tuesday noon at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. H. C. Caspey performing the ceremony.

ENDORSEMENT OF CLUBS ASKED

Community Council Will Acquaint Voters With Auditorium Project.

United action on the project to secure a new government-financed auditorium for Wayne, was indicated at special session of the community council in Chairman T. S. Hook's office Thursday evening.

Mayor Martin Ringer explained the need for the new building, and the plans for financing it. Total cost will be $40,000 with the city voting bonds not over the sum of $25,000, and the government financing the entire project.

Local labor will be used in construction of the building, and only those living here on July 1 are eligible. Labor will probably be handled through the newly-created re-employment committee.

As to cost to Wayne taxpayers, preliminary estimates place the levy at 1 1/2 mills per year for 12 years, then one mill for four years, or slightly less than the sum now spent annually to maintain city parks.

Local leaders point out that this is the logical time to build a much-needed place for community buildings, inasmuch as the government will finance and contribute liberally to such a project, for a limited time only, and Wayne Women's club will donate $6,000 toward the building.

Mrs. Rollie W. Ley has been appointed by Mrs. Jensen of Blair to represent Wayne county on the state committee to help in the NRA code administration.

N. N. C. ANNUAL REUNION IS HELD

Mrs. Harry Anderson From Wakefield, Is Re-Named President of Group.

Although the rain cut down attendance somewhat, it failed to dampen the enthusiasm of those former students and instructors of old Nebraska Normal college who met at the college Sunday for the annual picnic and reunion. Mrs. Harry Anderson of Wakefield, was re-named president of the group; E. W. Wright was re-elected vice-president; Mrs. Anita Potthast of Norfolk was chosen secretary; and James Ahern of Wayne, treasurer. Special guests were Dr. J. T. House of Montgomery, W. Va., Dr. and Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne, Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Bright of Chadron, and Mrs. U. S. Conn.

Following the covered dish luncheon which was served in the college cafeteria due to the storm, Mrs. Anderson presided over a business meeting in J. M. Pile hall. Short and informal talks were given by Prof. and Mrs. Bright, Dr. House, Dr. Lewis, Mrs. Conn, Lester Powers of Murdo, S. D., James Pile, son of the founder, Mr. Wright and Mr. Ahern. It was voted to hold next year's meeting the first Sunday in August, instead of the third as has been the custom, because many former instructors are preparing for their college work or are on a vacation at that time and unable to attend.

The committee in charge of compiling complete file of all former students of the Nebraska Normal college, reported excellent progress and hopes soon to have the past history and present address of everyone who once attended the institution. Later a pamphlet will be published containing all this information. The group hopes to have a plaque to the late J. M. Pile made for Pile hall, and this will be taken up at a later date.

Earl Wade and "Rough-House" Nelson gave a wrestling exhibition and Wade was declared winner. Mrs. J. C. Johnson was winner of the free trip to the Chicago fair.

Musical comedy revue presented singing and dancing in the afternoon and evening on the Main street platform. Minor sports and contests were also staged in the afternoon.

Wood Jones Helped Build Railroads Through Black Hills In Early 90's

No doubt, when future historians write the story of the west's settling, they will mark the end of pioneering days with coming of the railroads, for thus did civilization take permanent possession of the plains and mountain country, and link it up with the cultural and social activities of the east. And with the advance of the railroads into the Black Hills of South Dakota, into arid Wyoming and mountainous Montana, came a young man who found high school studies in Lincoln less interesting than the "last frontier" and left home to take part in laying a pathway for the steam engines.

And thus did Wood Jones of Wayne launch upon an eventful and colorful career in an engineering unit of the Burlington railroad.

This was the year 1891, a time of great development and experimentation. Mr. Jones' outfit was sent to South Dakota to chart out a route for the Deadwood, Spearfish and Hot Springs lines, all branches of the main line to Billings, Mont. Mr. Jones did the mapping for a topographical unit, which worked with elementary instruments quite different from the delicately constructed ones used today. One man made a record of each stake driven by the outfit, and another took the elevations from one stake to the next, following the surface closely to include the water line of streams and extreme bottom of gulches. From these records the route was laid out, working with instruments to determine the elevations, the engineers started from a known elevation and measured each rise, stake by stake, to hold the grade under the maximum 4 percent. A railroad line invariably follows a gulch or canyon in the mountains, Mr. Jones explains, and in the flat country it follows a valley or stream. (And, one might add, the highway follows the railroad.) Even the flat plains of Nebraska have a slight grade, and a small climb is made by trains going out of Wayne to Norfolk and Emerson, in passing from one valley to the next. But in the hills country the grade had to be watched carefully, for an engine of 1891 was taxed to the utmost to pull four cars of coal over the four percent rise, this being equal to four feet out of 100.

One wonders if there would not be considerable blundering and scouting around by an outfit sent into unknown country to lay out the best possible railroad route. But no, says Mr. Jones, for the railroad is never first in a country—always there has been a trail blazed through by freight outfits, trappers and scouts, and this is certain to be the quickest and most accessible route possible. Almost every railroad route was first a trail known to someone.

But to get back to the Hills, Deadwood was a well-established town with sturdy brick buildings in the year 1891. Its houses clung to the mountainside on either side of the gulch, so that one climbed flight after flight of wooden stairs to reach the upper streets. It was an important commercial town, outfitting the mining units which went back into the hills, and serving as a distributing center for a large area. Supplies had been freighted in until the railroad came, and prices were naturally sky-high—75c dozen for eggs, $1 for butter, flour at $25 per hundred, and hay at $120 per ton!

Early History Eventful

Deadwood, so named for the dead timber which lined sides of stream of the gulch, was one of the most colorful posts in early frontier days. This was the home of Wild Bill Hickok, gambler and sure-shot, of Madam Mustache who operated a popular gambling house with faro table, and wore a full beard and mustache. Here one heard amazing tales of Colorado Charlie and of Deadwood Annie. To Deadwood had come Calamity Jane, that daughter of Mormons who ran away from Salt Lake City when only 15, and spent remainder of her life on the trail. Jane could drive a six-horse stagecoach, was an expert with the bull whip, and was as at home in the hills wilderness as any early scout. They say that when she shed her buckskin suit and boots and donned women's clothes, she was a fine-looking woman. Certain it is that she reigned over the Deadwood dance halls as undisputed queen.

Lead City, just a few miles from Deadwood, was besieged by gold-hunters in 1876 and the Homestake mine which was opened up, has been in continuous operation these many years. It is recognized as the largest gold mine in the world. Due to this steady outpouring of rich metal, Lead has never known a depression, and has been enjoying prosperity while the rest of these United States worried and wanted and borrowed. Until the railroad came through, gold bullion was shipped by stage and subject to frequent hold-ups enroute.

"Ghost Towns" Frequent

Many of the towns which Mr. Jones knew in '91 have since become "ghost towns," leaving a shack or two, perhaps only a few hewn logs, to mark their site. Many towns were mere tent cities which sprang up overnight, and would be moved 20 miles or so when gold was found farther along the trail, or when the frontier advanced as the Indians receded, Saloons and dance halls were the nucleus around which these towns were built, and right merry were the celebrations which resulted when a mining outfit hit town after weeks of hardship in the Indian-infested hills.

Quite a different Black Hills country would greet Mr. Jones today. Gone are the mule outfits, the bull trains, the much-advertised "bad men" of the gambling halls. Now, fine roads thread the prairies following many of the trails which the freight trains blazed. Busy cities have sprung up where once were crude trading posts. The children and grandchildren of those cowboys and mule-skinner who made Black Hills history, have established homes, built cities with fine churches and schools, and are making the history of today.

Ancient Harp In Possession Of Betty Blair

Miss Betty Blair, who plays a clarinet in the city band, has perhaps the most antique musical instrument in Wayne county. It is a primitive Hebrew dulcimer or harp and bears the maker's date of 1748, while its type is older than the Jewish legends. Very likely it was on a dulcimer that King David strummed the accompaniment to the Psalms, and it is the favorite composition of the dulcimer was introduced into central Europe by the returning crusaders and gradually evolved into first the harpsichord, then to the Hungarian symbol, and finally to the pianoforte. It is now obsolete and practically extinct. Miss Betty's instrument is an heirloom of the Blair family and her aunt, Mrs. A. S. Howard of Kansas City, now visiting her brother, F. L. Blair, became quite proficient in playing the dulcimer. The instrument has lately been reconditioned and Betty will soon be able to entertain her friends with something so old that it is entirely new in the field of music.

Property Deeds Recorded Here

I. E. Ellis and wife to Merle A. Nicholaissen, August 18 for $2,350, lot 11, block 24, original Wayne.

Leora N. Wright and husband to Julius Temple House, August 18, for $3,500, lot 7, Conn & Britell addition to Wayne.

Local Men Hear Triple-A Plan

"If a farmer takes his wheat to the mill to be ground into flour, he need not pay the processing tax on milling which is bearing the cost of this project, providing the flour is for his own family. However, the landlord who takes wheat for rent payment, must pay the full tax. All wheat distributed by relief agencies is also exempt from taxation."

Relation of the NRA and Triple-A plan was explained by Mr. Liggett as follows: Money to pay the additional help required by NRA codes will be spent in trade by the farmers who have received wheat payments. If all the wheat growers signed up, $135,000,000 would be paid out this fall by the government, and $9,250,000 in all would be coming to the state of Nebraska, $6,000,000 of it within the next 30 days. Such an inflow of money should surely bring a general prosperity to the state, and Wayne county would share this to a great extent. "If the Wallace plan brings about a prosperous agriculture, then surely the state of Nebraska will be setting on top of the world."

Applications for contracts will be taken, and contracts signed within the next 15 days. Mr. Liggett is permanently located in the court house and is interviewing farmers there. The county committee named to help with this work includes August Biermann, Henry Westerhouse, Amos Claycomb, H. D. Addison and Frank Kloppeing.

Specific Information On How To Get The Blue Eagle

WASHINGTON.—Specific information as to steps that must be taken to receive the Blue Eagle are contained in a statement issued by Gen. Thomas E. Hammond, executive director of the President's re-employment program, as follows:

To all employers not working under codes that have been approved by the President, there are three methods to be pursued:

1. Sign the President's Reemployment Agreement without change or modification and mail it to the nearest district office of the Department of Commerce, the address of which can be obtained from any post office or chamber of commerce; but the provisions of the agreement into operation immediately; sign the certificate of compliance and hand it to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you your Blue Eagle.

2. If your line of business has submitted a code and the NRA has temporarily approved hours and wages to be in effect until the code is approved by the President, so as to meet with this endorsement added to the certificate of compliance: "To the extent of NRA consent as announced, we have complied with the President's agreement by conforming with the substituted provisions of the code submitted for the trade or industry." Hand this to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you the Blue Eagle.

3. If neither 1 nor 2 applies and you feel you should file a petition for relief, sign the President's Reemployment Agreement and mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. If you find you cannot comply with most of its provisions, then prepare a petition to the NRA asking for a stay or postponement of those provisions which would produce an "unavoidable hardship." Submit this petition to a trade association of your industry, or if none, to your local chamber of commerce or such other organization as can properly vouch for the facts. If officially accepted by one of the above, add the following to the face of your certificate before presenting it to the postmaster: "Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the association or organization." Then the postmaster will authorize you to use the Blue Eagle. This last procedure may take some time, and is, of course, subject to reversal when your petition is reviewed by the NRA.

Cosmetologists Organize.

Wayne cosmetologists met in city hall Sunday afternoon to perfect a permanent organization, and to adopt uniform price schedule.

Mrs. W. H. Gifford, president of the local group, led the discussion and called upon T. S. Hook, president of Wayne Kiwanis club, who explained workings of the NRA, and upon Joe Hallinger of Norfolk, who told of the code adopted by Norfolk beauty operators. About 30 nearby towns will be asked to join the Wayne organization, and a group meeting will be called here in the near future with representatives of these other towns present.

THE McNATT HARDWARE

"LAUGH and the world laughs with you; mourn and you mourn alone." Good humor can be extracted from the most perplexing situation. If we had no hardships we would have less to live for, less to give us strength, less to make us appreciate. We can laugh at our mistakes, laugh at the incongruities of the world, and feel refreshed to renew the grip.

LET US BUCK UP and gird our loins for the home-stretch in charging and subduing the depression. It is making its last stand. We can finish booting it into eternity and then, reflecting on the wicked stubbornness of the ugly critter, contemplate with satisfaction the battle staged and won, the while enjoying all the modern conveniences and comforts furnished by the McNATT HARDWARE.

WE HAVE EVERYTHING to make life easier, and prices are put just as low as we can quote and still stay in business. [We have many things you need to get ready for fall and winter—many things to take the teeth out of cold weather and give comfort and facility to household and office work. Think about your heating and lighting problems, the improvements—big and little—you need before winter begins to whistle—before beautiful snow drives chills up your backbone, and then think of the McNATT Hardware, Wayne, Nebr. Phone 108. We can serve you and do you great good at trifling cost.

Because I couldn't go south I had drooping of the mouth. Now I stay in Wayne—Believe me, it's sane.

Reason: "Weather-resisting supplies from the McNATT Hardware."

Mears Children High In Contest

Don Mears, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mears of Omaha, placed first in the 10 to 12-year-old division of the Douglas county 4-H health contest last week. GAMBLE STORES

THE LAST OF OUR ROADGRIPPERS - At Close-out Prices!

In accordance with codes adopted by various tire companies limiting the number of lines carried, we are closing out our present stock of the famous Pharis Roadgripper tires at extremely low prices.

Pharis Roadgrippers hold the World's Record for stock tires—110 miles per hour on the Indianapolis Speedway—an Official A.A.A. test. This was the first time in history that a stock tire was able to stand such a gruelling test. When Pharis Roadgrippers stand up under the terrific speed of 110 miles per hour, then surely they are doubly safe for ordinary fast driving.

The patented cushion cap breaker of the Pharis Roadgripper is a rubber shock pad between the tread and the body of the tire. This is an advanced type of breaker—positively tested and proven efficient and safe. Guaranteed by the manufacturer and Gamble Stores.

THESE EXTREMELY LOW PRICES ARE GOOD FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY—WHILE PRESENT STOCK LASTS.

Lack of Parity THE movement to help farm prices directly and indirectly, is now going on, but until it succeeds prosperity will not return to agricultural communities. It is regrettable that advances in costs of manufactured goods could not have been held back until the buying power of the farm population had been correspondingly increased and stabilized. The following report from the York County Commercial club, sent to Secretary Wallace, reflects a condition of contradictions acutely felt at this time in all agricultural sections:

"York is strictly an agricultural community and her merchants are dependent almost entirely upon farmers for their patronage. Our farmer customers have long made it a practice to supply their table, clothing, and household needs with the poultry, egg, and cream money. We estimate between 60 and 70 percent of our customers follow this practice. Today the local market prices are: Cream 14; sweet cream 19; eggs 7; eggs in trade 8; Leghorn hens 5. With such poor prices prevailing they are unable to make any purchases. "On the other hand the merchants are receiving daily notices of price increases which must be passed on to consumers when additional purchases are made. During the past two weeks, though merchandise prices remain very low, trade has declined materially. It cannot be otherwise while produce prices are out of line."

Party Lines THE democratic administration asks disregard of party lines in the present emergency, and yet William F. Stevenson, chairman of the federal home loan bank board, is quoted as having said recently: "Naturally, we are not taking the recommendations of republican members of congress for personnel which will carry out democratic policies." The rank and file of all parties have but one thought in mind in the administration of public affairs, and that is solution of problems in the interest of the public welfare without bias and without discrimination. Comparatively few are concerned about holding offices or about directing public policies, but all are concerned about getting the economic ship back on an even, onward keel, and all are anxiously cooperating to that end without thought of party affiliation or party prestige. Both democratic and republican leaders should lay aside partisan prejudice during the interim between political campaigns, and accept and support the choice of the majority. That is the shortest and easiest cut to best results, and the fine unanimity which acclaimed the democratic leadership on the start should not be rebuffed by exhibitions of narrowness on the part of anyone in the group now entrusted with authority.

Small Towns A Washington correspondent calls attention to the problem of making the NRA fit small businesses without causing them to blow up and fade out. In a moment of impatience, General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, is quoted as saying that an employer who can't pay $14 to $15 per week and maintain hours prescribed by the code, is too uneconomic and inefficient to keep in the industrial picture. In handling his big task, however, General Johnson should remember that all over this broad land are comparatively small towns, kept alive by comparatively small businesses. The trade volume does not make possible large overhead, nor are the expenses of an employee so great as those of one in a large center. An employer in a rural community earns less and an employee requires less. The small town serves the convenience of a considerable area, and its perpetuation, with its small institutions as little impaired as possible, will be a source of material aid to future farm values. The small town has had a vital part in pushing back the frontier, in developing the country and in preserving the best in civilization, and the machinery of recovery should be handled in a way to save its businesses, though as a rule they may be small.

We prefer to believe the story of Russia painted by Will Durant, author and lecturer, who went into the country through the backdoor and who gained intimate, first-hand knowledge. He went to Russia inclined to favor the soviet experiment.

Relief Worker Is Named By Board Wayne county board, at its meeting Tuesday, appointed Mrs. A. C. Thompson permanent relief worker for the County Emergency Relief committee, to take the place of Miss Marjorie Ley who is in charge of the work until she leaves for the university at Lincoln this September.

Sodium Chlorate To Come To Wayne A carload of sodium chlorate for eradication of bindweed will arrive in Wayne the first of September. Those who have placed orders will be notified as soon as the car arrives and they will be able to get the material then direct from the Close observation soon changed his mind. He came back convinced that Russia's system of government is the worst set up in modern times. He does not hesitate to say it is more oppressive, more tyrannical than that experienced under the erstwhile czar. Anyone who has a suspicion that communism as practiced in Russia is desirable should make a personal investigation undisguised by guides who are afraid to expose the truth.

Myron Colson, former Wayne man, who was here this week from Winner, S. D., says the combined efforts of grasshoppers and drought have reduced growing crops in his section of South Dakota nearly to nothing, but that inhabitants still seem to have plenty of courage left. Anyone going to the frontier, has an abundance of courage, and he can usually retain it in the face of severe hardships. Mr. Colson says Winner business men have lately even reported improved trade. Looking over Wayne county's maturing crops, he thinks people here have little ground for worry.

The building of a community house in Wayne which may be accomplished advantageously at this time, is not only answering a large and real demand, but it will very materially cut down the requirements levied on charity. Its construction during the fall and winter will mean less help from the county and other sources for the community's unfortunate. Anyone with any pride would rather earn his way than accept gratuities, and the community house enterprise will have an important part in reducing local unemployment.

In addition to hoped-for recovery benefits, the NRA is the means of bringing competitors together in a friendly discussion of problems common to all. Rubbing shoulders, closer understanding and exchange of experiences tend to drive away bitterness in trade rivalries. Each learns that no one has a snap, and that difficulties are partial to no one in any line. Personal contacts among competitors show that all are disposed to be fairer and more reasonable than suspected from long range and over walls of selfish opposition.

The crime menace is fleeing before an aroused and determined public sentiment. Gangsters, racketeers and kidnapers are being sent to prison at an encouraging rate. Says the Christian Science Monitor: "America has the sentiment—strong enough, determined enough—and it has the resources to wipe out crime."

The fact that the east was attacked by the hard times long in advance of the middle west, encourages the belief that improved conditions, reported in the east now, will reach here in due time.

The traditional American habit to think receives additional stimulus at this time. Independent thinking, encouraged without restraint, made American institutions and will preserve them.

Individualism Inborn in Farmers. Omaha Journal-Stockman: In the very nature of his environment and occupation the farmer is strongly individualistic. The first lesson he is forced to learn is self-dependence and this becomes more fixed in his character as the years pass and experience ripens. Neither prosperity nor adversity has ever entirely eliminated this trait in the American farmer.

"It might have been suspected that under the stress of conditions he would be amenable to organization and cooperation and would present a united front in both economic and in political action. Nothing of the kind has happened," says a writer in Current History. "Cooperative marketing organizations have increased, to be sure; political action has been influenced by farmer sentiment, but the mass of the farm population still thinks and acts on its own."

"The Non-Partisan league which a decade ago swept a farmer-managed administration into power in the Dakotas has declined; the Iowa uprisings and demonstrations have had but mildly interested observers in other farm states. The producer today is giving more time to studying soil-replenishment and better livestock breeding than to passing resolutions. Strained finances have not brought any such agrarian uprising as has been frequently predicted."

"The average farmer is thinking in terms of his own problems and, though willing to join in any undertaking that seems likely to lift him out of debt and to a higher plane of living, he is not rushing madly after every self-appointed Moses who arises to seek a following."

Force of circumstances may compel farmers to act as a unit in some sections and under some conditions but, even then, the individualism of the men of the soil is certain to assert itself. This explains why no nation of agriculturists has ever been permanently enslaved. The industry itself develops independence and strength of character, qualities that make for true greatness in any people.

A few more orders can be filled and those wishing a supply are asked to notify any one of the county commissioners or D. S. Wightman.

Architect Here Tuesday. George Grabe of Fremont, who has been chosen architect for the proposed community building by a committee from city council, was in Wayne Tuesday afternoon to consult with Mayor Martin Ringer and councilmen.

INDIVIDUALISM. Glen Franks, president of the University of Wisconsin, and noted student of economics, is quoted as predicting that this country will never return to a condition of individualism and big profits. His guess is probably no better than that of persons of less distinction. However, the world would doubtless welcome barriers lifted against excessive profit-taking and against amassing of huge fortunes, but just as certainly would society recoil at the idea of forfeiting freedom of initiative. Progress has been impelled by the dynamics of initiative — by rewards that come to the individual through his exercise of genius or effort. It would seem a reasonable safeguard to the future to arrange a system by which the masses could not be harvested for the enrichment of comparatively few, but in doing this, we believe it would be a step backward to stifle the spirit of individualism — to kill inspiration that arouses individual genius, initiative, achievement. Glen Franks could be partially mistaken in his interpretation and still be a great leader of progressive thought.

raise his own food. Then the regular farmer wouldn't have to produce so much, and he could spend more time riding around in the automobile which he bought of a neighboring factory whose employees were also helping him solve the food problem. In the matter of ideas which are plentiful at this time, why not suggest one proposing that the government fix minimum prices for all farm products, including livestock, and then allow individual discretion in what and how much to produce?

Make Preparation For County Fair

Preparations for Wayne county fair to be held September 14, 15 and 16 are well under way. The board met last Saturday evening to make plans.

Season ticket sale is in charge of A. T. Cavanaugh, and tickets will be sold up until the day before the fair starts, but none will be sold after the gates swing open on September 14.

Many Unemployed Register In County

Wayne county's unemployed total 300 if one is to judge by the number who have registered with L. C. Gildersleeve, county registration agent. When calls come for labor, as for the proposed city auditorium building, men will be called from Mr. Gildersleeve's files by the county reemployment committee. Dixon county reports 200 unemployed. Madison has 700, and Stanton totals 125.

Wedding Of June Just Announced

Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Bernadette Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Shannon of Carroll, to Mr. Harvey Farnsworth of Brunswick, Neb., which took place June 5 in Sioux City.

Mrs. Farnsworth was graduated from Carroll high school and attended Wayne State Teachers College. For the past five years she has taught in Wayne county. Mr. Farnsworth is well known in this vicinity.

Kiwanians Endorse Auditorium Project

A special luncheon meeting of Wayne Kiwanis club was called last Monday for the purpose of presenting the coming bond issue for a community building, and securing endorsement of the project by the club. President T. S. Hook presided and E. W. Wright acted as temporary secretary in absence of Supt. H. R. Best. Fred L.

These times teach many things in the direction of humility. By humility we mean, doing things we do not want to do, and not doing things we want to do — submitting to rules of conduct that interfere with natural impulses — rules that check the spirit of boastful self-sufficiency. Ground for bragging has been largely swept away. The working of economic recovery has had a leveling influence, and the discipline necessary in raising and equalizing standards of values gives promise of making people more sympathetic and more helpful. The humility that recognizes fellow rights is a refreshing sequence to self-assumption and smug independence. Humility that does not destroy self-respect, will steady and stabilize civilization. Einstein who looks forward with confidence, says making over the world for democracy involves suppression of the individual. This conflict of purpose with means will, it is hoped, have its later rewards in enlarged and better safeguarded individual rights. Through suffering and humility, we may prepare for a new and heightened era of existence. Let us hope so.

Blair introduced his brother-in-law, A. S. Howard of Kansas City, Mo., who spoke briefly, and G. H. Liggett who is in charge of what adjustment in Wayne county, outlined the Triple-A wheat program. Councilman J. S. Horney and Mayor Martin Ringer told of the financing plan and the need for the proposed community building, and the club went on record as endorsing it. Regular weekly meetings will be resumed next Monday, August 27, after a summer of inactivity.

August Flower Gardens Greet Many Visitors

An August garden may be a thing of beauty. Here is nature in full maturity, in all its vividness and colorfulness and ripeness. One sees the red and orange zinnias meeting and making merry in different dialects — the purple petunias nodding their velvety heads in the breeze — the brown-eyed Susans and golden glow claiming kinship to the sun by their radiant colorings.

But such gardens don't just happen. They're the fulfillment of many months of planning and hard work. They're hard won, but well worth winning, as any flower lover will tell you. And Wayne has more than its share of lovely gardens — a tour of the residence district will soon convince you of this. Quite the most elaborate and dignified of formal gardens to be found in the city is on the college campus, and in the remarkable student city presents a cool and refreshing picture. The last few weeks the graceful fountain in the center splashes on the green lily pads below. Red roses are in full glory, and masses of red and white blossoms fill the flower beds.

Both Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Larson are "gardeners" enthusiasts and their gardens bear witness to this, for in two short years their back yard has made a remarkable progress. It really is a "friendship" garden, says Mrs. Larson, because so many of the shrubs and perennials have been gifts from their garden-lovers here in Wayne. The garden plot is entered through an arbor, and shows a center bed of bright nasturtiums, cannas and gladioli reached by narrow pebble paths, with masses of late summer flowers, such as petunias. One of the choice blossoms in the group is a canna with bright orange spotting.

On up the street, the A. B. Carharts have converted a vacant lot north of their home into a restful and pleasant garden spot, with masses of bright flowers and greenery on either side of a strip of lawn. Painted daisies, tall cosmos, purple phlox, hollyhocks and asters grow tall, thick and colorful. Brown-eyed Susans add bright splashes of yellow against the darker green background.

The Dr. S. A. Lutgen yard has been carefully landscaped and promised to be a place of beauty without a few summer. At the rear are two separate units, the one more informal with arbor and seats, the other a formal garden with rose beds. Lilac and bridal wreath hedge shrubs off a vegetable garden which has yielded generously all summer. The yard was landscaped a year ago in June, and includes almost every available shrub and flower.

Approach to the C. H. Fisher home is through a natural archway of greenery, and within one finds gladioli in colorful variety, waving feathery asparagus ferns, and vivid zinnias. And here are blooming dahlia plants which have reached a height of seven feet. An exploring bittersweet vine has climbed to the top of a telephone pole at the rear, adding interest to the background, and another has surmounted a pole at the garden entrance, intent on finding what took place in the marth house atop. Lining the closely-cropped green lawn of the Fisher home are irregular beds of flowers and greenery, including; halloin flowers — those delicate blossoms which are miniature ascension balloons when in bud, then unfold into white or blue bells. Soon Mrs. Fisher's blue salvia will be blossoming — an interesting bush fully six feet tall, which bears its odd-colored blooms until frost comes. Did you ever see a magic lily? It's a surprise from beginning to end, for in the spring it comes up as healthy foliage, then dies down and disappears. Suddenly a narrow stalk shoots up and bears lovely orchid lilies, completely minus foliage.

Mrs. Mary McMakin is responsible for the flowers which bank the Mrs. Grace and A. T. Cavanaugh home, and her tulips and iris made an admirable showing last spring. Shut off by white trellis is a pleasant bit of lawn with a lily pool in its center and inviting garden furniture. Herb one may find pink and white lilies and yellow poppies. It's the very place which would appeal to children, and naturally the Cavanaugh yard has become a gathering-place for young friends of the family.

When Mrs. Jason Gorst and Mrs. H. Lynn Tuttle brought amusing painted wooden figures for the Clyde Oman yard, they added just the needed touch of color to the interesting home. A fantastic, long-legged bird nods his head agreeably from the curved flower bed in front of the house, and we're red-garbed boy and girl sprinkle the lawn industriously from their little red cans, thereby assuring the future health and wellbeing of the bright-topped blossoms. And these purple and white and orange flowers just "belong" to the Oman house with its warm tan walls and bright awnings and trim. To the rear is an arbor of Grecian proportions which frames masses of bright pink phlox with its white columns.

Lets wander out west and turn in at the R. F. Jacobs home on west First. Although only a two-year-old, this garden could outclass many a garden of high school age. Hidden at the rear is a terraced garden approached through a white gateway; flagstones lead one to a lily pool in a far corner. Shrubs outline the garden and behind these are young poplars which will soon grow up to form a natural screening, and the white fence will be discarded. Mrs. Jacobs takes special pride in her zinnias which have grown to remarkable size, and in a moon flower which opens only in the evening and then fills the night air with its penetrating fragrance. The site of an old can has been converted into a sunken garden with pool centered among wild flowers and cacti.

Uniquely situated is the Ed Miller garden which is approached by a high balcony extending the width of the house at the rear, and affording a bird's eye view of the pool and arbor seat. At one end of the pool an interesting rock garden has been built, and we're colorful blossoms outline the water's edge. Water lilies, water hyacinths and taros prefer the water habitat. Of special interest are the square colored tiles which form a path past the pool. Mrs. Miller is a fancier of gladioli, and has produced some very lovely specimens of "Mimmet," a soft orchid shade, "Phipps," rich coral, and "Dr. Bennett," a deep burnt orange.

The William Beckenhauer lily pool is enjoyable even after dusk, for the miniature lighthouse sends out its beams over the trickling waters. About 125 goldfish call the pool home, and can be seen swishing about below, hurrying — nowhere. Notable feature of the Beckenhauer yard is the verdant hedge which outlines the smooth lawn. Much interest has been shown in the heliotrope-tinted lilies which open in early evening, revealing their umbrella centers, and close tightly when comes daylight.

Mrs. Fred Blair is another gladioli enthusiast and this last year added 20 new varieties to her collection. Her hydrangias add a cool, restful note to the rear yard with their white blossoms and green foliage. Are you familiar with Salpiglossis? It's a bell-shaped flower in the warm oranges and yellows, and can be found in Mrs. Blair's sunken garden.

Lets drop in at the W. F. Robinson home — here's another example of terraced garden and one which reveals hours and hours of careful planning and hard work. Mrs. Robinson is responsible for all the masonry — for the low brick wall which outlines the lower terrace, for the cozy seats within it, and for the lily pond at the foot of the steps with its hardy yellow lilies and cattails, and masses of striped ribbon grass, portulaca and pansies along its borders. In the spring, this garden must resemble a transplanted bit of the Netherlands for fully 2,000 tulip bulbs have been planted. There's a cactus plant from Clara Bow's ranch at Searchlight, Nev., and a choice example of Desmodium, which large bush will soon be a mass of light purple flowers. Mrs. Robinson is partial to a rose bush of the Grootendorst variety, which blooms the entire year, up to the first really cold days. And there's a Niropia weeping willow which overhangs the garden, and gives a truly Oriental cast to the scene. "We've made this into an outdoor living room," says Mrs. Robinson, and one can easily understand why the couple would prefer this lovely spot, to being indoors.

To the terraced slope at back of the Gust Wendt home has been added a rock-edged pool bearing pale yellow lilies, and a flash with shining golden fish. There's a suspension bridge model above the pool — perhaps this is where the pygmy folks sit when angling for the fish in the pool below! Remainder of the terrace is given over to masses of bright summer flowers. . . the petunias and portulaca setting the color pace. In the spring this plot was full of tulips and must have been lovely.

Formality rules the garden plan at Miss Margaret Schemel's residence facing the old college athletic field. Center of interest is an unusually large lily pool, balanced with beds of painted daisies, phlox and brown-eyed Susans. To one side is a smaller plotted garden with formal urns at the entrance. Combined with the cool greenness and white trimming of the Schemel house, this rear garden was a most inviting spot in mid-summer.

Prof. Charles Chinn combines pleasure with practicability in his large garden lot adjoining his home. Here he raises choice specimens of plants and shrubs for use in his biology work at the college, bringing shoots, plants and seeds from all over the surrounding country for his collection. One can count at least 30 different kinds of evergreens, including small yew trees of a Japanese variety, Canadian hemlock, black spruce from the northern swamps, western sugar pines, all rarely found in these parts. There's a small shrub called rose laphnea which has a powerful fragrance, which was found in Illinois. And of special interest is a telegraph cucumber vine of English origin, which will grow cucumbers fully three feet long. Prof. E. J. Hunterman has worked out a clever way to build a pool — he dug a trench in the shape desired, filled this in with concrete and then dug out center. After the floor was cemented and outer walls reinforced, a strong structure resulted without use of the usual frame. Prof. Hunterman advises draining such a pool in cold weather to avoid the cement freezing. Water for the fountain which streams up from center of the pool, comes from the lift which handles soft water in the house. Over-flow from the fountain follows a small groove down to a miniature mill-house where the water turns the mill-wheel. Jean Hunterman is responsible for the mill-house and small bridge; but his father figured out the wheel arrangement. Rocks for this pool were picked up all the way from down Watertown, S. D., and are all part of this great glacial drift. The smoky quartz is from Pike's peak, and there's a fine example of rose quartz included.

J. W. Jones goes in for gardening on a large scale. He has taken over an entire vacant lot at the rear of his home and converted this into a thriving garden which yields generously of vegetables and flowers. Here one finds those blooms which are autumn's own — the snapdragons, petunias, sun-tinted golden glows, the ruddy zinnias. And nearby are hibiscus with large pink and white flowers. In the springtime the iris and delphinium are belies of the flower-folks. There's a squash vine here worthy of special mention, for it has undertaken the covering of a dead cherry tree which is wholly lacking in greenery. Over in the corner of the plot Mr. Jones has grouped his wild flowers — violet, phlox, dutchman's breeches, bloodroot, jack-in-the-pulpit and wild chubmine, and in the spring these are well worth a visit.

An extended grape arbor leads the visitor back to an interesting grouping at the rear of the R. B. Johnson home. From the oval lily pool, arrowheads, near their huge leaves and white flowers, and iris flowering almonds and tiger lilies line the banks and enjoy their reflections in the still water. And for the one versed in its reading, there's a sundial nearby to tell the time of day. Tricking water, still pools of water, deep shade and much greenery have converted the north yard of the R. C. Hahlbeck home into a cool and restful spot. Mr. Hahlbeck built the big fish pool which has proportions of an old-fashioned rock well, and which shelters a wide assortment of fish in its several levels, varying from wee dots of baby fish to large fantails. The rocks for the pool and border were collected near Lake Andes, and through the Black Hills by the Hahlbecks. Umbrella plants, arrowheads, taro, bulbushes, parrot feather and water lilies thrive in the lower pools, and a sweet potato vine clings to the rocks. A miniature Dutch windmill adds motion to the warm stillness of the Will Hixcox garden. Rugged flagstones lead one to the irregular-shaped pool in which flash large orange goldfish of unusual brilliance. Seldom does one find such height in transplanted cattails — the red geraniums massed against the stone wall at back are most effective. Portulaca and sweet alyssum bordering the flower beds, are reminiscent of an old-fashioned garden. The interesting flower jar with hen-and-chickens nestling in the wee "balconies" in its sides, came from Ohio.

Dean and Mrs. H. H. Hahn are other flower fanciers. Their special favorite is the dahlia and their garden presents a wonderful variety of lovely blooms. Wayne has many other lovely gardens, as visitors every day testify when driving about the city.

Announcing Our

NEW GASOLINE

WE have just received our new Sinclair H. C. Gasoline which we have been waiting for, for several weeks. We have known for some time that this gasoline was in the making, but it has been a long standing policy of The Sinclair Refining Co., never to put any of their products on the market until they were sure that it was right in every respect, which method eliminates experiments at the customer's expense.

The color of this gasoline has been changed from Water white to Bronze which makes its identity easy and through the process of refining and treating we now have a high grade gasoline of Anti-Knock quality which costs no more per gallon than the ordinary regular white gasoline.

We invite you one and all to give this gasoline a trial and we would appreciate knowing your opinion of this new fuel for we are always trying to give our customers the most quality and the best service at no extra cost.

Numbers were as follows: Duet, "Dance of the Rosebuds," Mildred Ringer and Marjorie Vath; "March of the Dolls," by Elide, "The Rabbit," by Adler, "The Strawberry Bush," by Williams and "Polly Put the Kettle On," by Williams, Helen Laughlin; "Distant Bells," by Streabog, and "Once Upon a Tim," by Risher, Marjorie Fitch; "Soldier's March," by Schumann, "Gold Waltz," by Streabog, and "Old Folks at Home," by Foster, Barbara Heine; "The Sweet Violet," by Smallwood, and "Eid of Spring," by Brownfield, Arlene Soden; "Air in C Major," Mozart and "Cotton Pickers," by Martin, Marian Vath; "Pansies for Thoughts," by Grey, Arlene Davis; "Sunbeams and Roses," by Bliss, Bethel Brown; "Summer Night," by Grieg, and "Waltz," by Chopin, Sophie Damm; vocal solo, "Pale Moon," Minnie Denkinger; "Berceuse from Jocelyn," by Godard, Marjorie Lerner; "Hungarian Dance," by Brahms, and "Home Sweet Home," by Goerdeler, Lois Thompson; "Ace's Death," by Greg, and "Morning," by Grieg, Mildred Ringer; "Armour Coquet," by Friml, Verona McNatt; "Moonlight Sonata," by Beethoven, and "Impromptu," by Schubert, Helen Vath; duet, "Annie Laurie," Arlene Johnson and Lois Thompson, and "Schubert's Serenade," Sophie Damm.

Car Tips Monday
 Miss Margaret Fanske and Miss Miriam Huse sustained minor injuries Monday when the car they were driving slipped off a grade near Concord. Glass in one of the car doors was broken.

Herald Broadcast Presents Variety Vocal And Instrumental Music Planned For Programs Of Past Week.

Wayne college voice students gave numbers for the Wayne Herald radio program last Thursday morning. Miss Helen Copeland, Miss Laverne Purzer and Miss Mildred Moses sang solos, and Miss Esther Mae Ingham played the accompaniments.

For Friday's broadcast college students also gave solo selections. Miss Lavern Stamm, Miss Edna Boldt, Miss Lois McDougal and Miss Irma Carson sang. Accompaniments were played by Miss McDougal and Miss Helen Copeland.

Donald Linn and Robert Gulliver, playing the piano and saxophone, gave popular numbers for Saturday's broadcast.

Miss Dorothy Davis playing the piano and Miss Minnie Denkinger and Kenneth Beckman playing saxophones furnished music for Monday's broadcast. Buster Ellis played piano numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lynn Tuttle of Clarkston, Wash., sang solos, numbers of their own composition, for the Tuesday program. Miss Jean Wright played for Mrs. Tuttle, and the latter accompanied Mr. Tuttle.

Mrs. Ernest Kohrt furnished accordion numbers for Wednesday's program.

Miss Marjorie Lerner will play piano selections this morning. Elnor Berntson and Miss Alice Crockett have harmonica and piano numbers.

 Sunday, August 27, 1933:
 10:00 a. m., the church school of life and truth. Bible study for all ages and grades. Young people's discussion group led by the pastor.
 11:00 a. m., the worship. Read worship, cordial fellowship, with a vital, deeply interesting message, as: "A Half Hour with Dr. E. Stanley Jones." Perhaps no living man is more dynamically vital in thinking, working, speaking today than Dr. E. Stanley Jones. His work in India, Burma and China, and speaking all over the world gives him a dynamic knowledge to do us good. Recently he spoke fifteen times at a young people's conference in Lincoln, and for Sunday morning in place of a sermon, the pastor will give some striking sayings and reviews of these vital messages of Dr. Jones. Try to get this gripping man's thought and feel the splendor of his life. It will do us all good.

7:00 p. m., the young people's meeting, always interesting and helpful. New members welcomed, guests cordially invited. Study of vital life problems.
 8:00 p. m., the glad hour. Cheerful, inspiring singing and a worthwhile message, continuing: "Four Great Words of Jesus."

State President Will Speak At Annual Affair Here Week From Sunday.

Program is practically completed for the annual Wayne County Farmers' Union picnic to be held at Wayne fair grounds on September 5. The speakers will be: H. G. Keeney of Omaha, state president of the union; L. S. Heeron of Omaha, editor of the Nebraska Union Farmer; and William Hall, also of Omaha.

Entertainment will begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and will include music by the Farmers' Union band from Rock Creek, the Wayne Municipal band, by the children of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Eiders of Wisner, and by the Johnson triplets from Wakefield.

The sports program calls for two boys' races, two girls' races, a women's slipper-kicking contest, tug-of-war, and horseshoe pitching contest. In a double-header baseball game scheduled for after 3 o'clock, the Wayne Cornhuskers will play the Eagles from southeast of town, and the Rock Creek team from Wisner will meet the Leslie Wildcats from Wakefield vicinity.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are: W. E. Roggenbach and W. H. Peters from near Wayne; A. W. Dolph of Wakefield; John D. Reynolds of Niobrara, the district director, will be among Farmers' Union officials in attendance.

Writes Pageant For State Convention

With the production of "Nebraska Dream of the Pioneer" at state convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Kearney, October 11, pageantry will be inaugurated into the federation programs. This pageant is the work of Mrs. A. L. Lutgen of Wayne, and interprets Abbie Deal, portrayed by Mrs. Bess Streeter Aldrich in her story of Nebraska, "A Lantern in Her Hand." Mrs. Lutgen has written "The Birthright of the American Child" which was produced at Wayne county fair last year, alerting it to fit any women's club in the United States, and has already sold 100 copies.

Small Blaze Friday

A curtain and shade were burned and the kitchen smoked Friday morning at the L. A. Fanske residence when grease on a roast which Mrs. Fanske was cooking on top of the stove caught fire and this set fire to the curtain. Mrs. Fanske discovered the blaze when she returned to the kitchen after being away a few minutes.

Marries Sunday At Dixon Home

Miss Laura Louise Holmes Wed To Herman Eickhoff First of Week.

Miss Laura Louise Holmes and Mr. Herman Eickhoff of Wayne, were married Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage in Dixon, Rev. Harold Essert performing the ceremony. Mrs. Ida Holmes, mother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Ira George, the last two of Osmond, accompanied them and the Georges were attendants. The young folks left for a trip to St. Louis, Lincoln and Superior after the wedding. They will be at home at Pilger after September first.

Mrs. Eickhoff wore a brown silk and wood dress for the wedding and her accessories were also in brown. The bride received her A. B. degree from Wayne State Teachers College in January. Mr. Eickhoff, son of Fred Eickhoff, has finished the Wayne high school and taken advanced work at the college. He will teach seventh and eighth grades and instruct in band and orchestra in Pilger school.

Have Unique Fireplace

Rocks gathered by the Prof. E. J. Huntemer family all up and down the western coast, from San Pedro, Calif., to Banff, Canada, and from many western states, have been combined in a most interesting fireplace in a basement room of the residence here. There are petrified wood pieces from St. John's near the petrified forest, red granite from Arizona, and a large round stone which obviously served as an Indian's hammer. Sea shells picked up at Catalina Island off the coast of California, and an Indian head medallion add a decorative note to the center. Prof. Huntemer assisted by Jean Huntemer and Robert Heylman, built the fireplace in base of the upstairs fireplace. In keeping with the outdoor decorations of the room is the center light made with two pairs of buffalo horns alternated with arrow shafts around the globe. The horns were found by Mrs. Huntemer's father, the late T. W. Moran.

Raises Odd Potato

A potato which Cereon Alvin dug at his farm resembles a monkey, having the body, head, eyes and ears of one.

Miss Laura E. Lyons Writes From West

Miss Laura E. Lyons of Long Beach, Calif., writes Wayne county friends August 16 as follows: "At the semi-annual Iowa picnic at Bixby park were 100 couples who had celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The president of this group has been married 68 years.

"A good shower last night cleared the air. We have not had many hot days.

"There have been only four distinct 'settling' earthquake tremors lately. No damage was done. They just acted as reminders of what occurred March 10.

"Magnus Jensen and family, formerly of Winfield, went to Yosemite park for a vacation from Mr. Jensen's position as fireman, but Mrs. Jensen contracted a fever and they had to rush home. Mrs. Jensen is improving under care of Dr. Bernard Cullen, also a former Winfield resident.

"I attended the Nebraska picnic at Bixby park recently. Only a few registered from Wayne county. Mr. Forbes, Mrs. Piepenstock and daughter, Ella Miller, H. E. Griggs and daughter were some I saw. H. A. Evans of Sioux City, inquired about Henry Leys in Wayne. I also saw Rolla Hood and wife and two little girls. Mr. Hood was only a baby when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hood, left Wayne. The Hoods live in South Gate, Mr. Hood's parents and son, Will, live at Newburg, Ore. Clarence at National City, near San Diego, and Wayne at San Francisco. The two girls have died.

"Mrs. Alice Ley was well and busy the last I heard. In the Encinas Progress was an elaborate account of the silver wedding anniversary of the minister of the community church. They met in the Ley home and then went to surprise the minister. Mrs. Ley composed a poem especially for the occasion and this was published. Mrs. Ley and I are much interested in the possibility of a new community house in Wayne.

"I am looking forward with pleasure to the account of the Nebraska Normal college annual picnic. "I was caring for a patient at Silverado canyon but the temperature went to 102 and she had to be taken to Laguna Beach. I did enjoy the quietude, mountain scenes and air while there. We were at the camp called Johnnie's Place, eight miles from Orange. New paved and oiled roads are good all the way. There are 85 cottages, all with electricity and water. There are three more camps and a silver mine farther up the canyon, a little postoffice and library in the second camp. About 300 C. C. boys from Tennessee are employed by the government for fire protection and road building there."

Gives Address At Radio Station

Dr. J. T. House of Montgomery, W. Va., in a radio address from the Wayne Herald studio, spoke especially to former student Aug. 17. "Do not be afraid to think," Dr. House advised. "Thinking can do more now than ever in the history of the world."

Today the world is producing more food and more goods than ever. Still people are in need. Everyone should study what all this means, Dr. House advised. They should recognize this as a world of change. It is well to experiment so as to get at solution of these problems. The problem is to direct events according to best ideals, the speaker added. The aim is not revolution, but it is to give a fair chance to every man, woman and child. Humanity must come first, Dr. House thinks.

Dr. House feels that experiments in Russia, Italy and other countries may eventually work out to benefit of the people.

Gives Chalk Talk. Mrs. L. W. Kratavil gave a chalk talk Sunday evening at the Norfolk Methodist church before a joint meeting of the Methodist Epworth League and the Baptist young people's society.

Levy Is Lower. Stanton, Neb., Aug. 17.—The Stanton county board of equalization has set the 1933 levy at 3.81 mills, the lowest levy since 1920 and a reduction from the last year levy of 4.03 mills.

Has Arm Broken. Dorothy Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thomsen and granddaughter of the Wm. Kugters, had her left arm broken Tuesday last week when she fell while roller skating.

Stewart of Norfolk, went to Minnesota and the Stewarts remained there longer. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis went to Duluth and took the lake trip from there to Chicago where they spent three days at the fair. The exposition is wonderful, the Ellises think, but it is impossible to see everything. The best one can do is to get a general view of it and then pick things of most interest. Mr. Ellis thinks it best not to stay too long at the fair because one gets too tired.

Begins Death Fast. The threat of a fast until death enabled the Mahatma Mohandas K. Gandhi of India to regain Wednesday privileges he formerly had as a political prisoner. This he will be able to continue his campaign for the regeneration of "the untouchables," India's lowest class. After the mahatma announced at noon that he would start the fast, the British government came forward with a number of concessions.

The New GOODYEAR PATHFINDER

—AND your dollar buys MORE right now than it may ever buy again. You can see that as well as we can.

As raw materials—cotton and rubber—go skyrocketing, tires are bound to go higher, too. The best advice is—"Don't wait." We offered that advice months ago, when Goodyear prices were scraping bottom. Many people who took it have thanked us; others say they will never get caught again.

So we repeat! BUY NOW—because Goodyears are STILL priced very low and they can't stay at these levels very long.

Today the best buy for the least money is the new Goodyear Pathfinder. For years "the quality tire within the reach of all," the Pathfinder is now stepped up in mileage, safety and good looks. It has FULL CENTER TRACTION—20% thicker non-skid tread—stouter body of Supertwist Cord, the cord that gives under road shocks, doesn't heat up, prevents blow-outs, stands hard knocks, runs out a full long life of trouble-free miles.

Be sure your new tubes are quality Goodyears, too.

The Stephens went on to Oshkosh, Neb., for a few days while Mr. and Mrs. Ash remained with their son. Mr. Ash visited some of the big sugar factories in that locality. All returned home last Thursday and the visitors continued on to Stillwater next day. Mrs. Ash reports the crops rather dry along the route, and pronounces Wayne corn as good as any seen. Mr. Stephens is an instructor in the Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater, and his wife is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ash.

Week Encouraging In Stock Market

While live stock markets were erratic, and mainly on the decline the current week there were many encouraging elements, and developments suggested that a turn toward improvement in the general trade may be looked for. There is a little doubt that at the present time excessive marketing of all classes of live stock is the barrier to advancing prices. Hogs and fat cattle were produced in liberal supplies on an abundance of cheap feed the last year, and during that time those with feed on hand in many instances held back stock because of low prices.

Now that corn has advanced, and extremely dry weather over a big area has further reduced feed and lowered prospects for crops, heavy liquidation is on. Fed stock is being marketed in excessive supplies mainly because of advancing feed costs, and unfed stock is being marketed mainly because of shortage of grass and water. Thus, after three months of excessive receipts of hogs and fat cattle, deluges of green cattle and undeveloped hogs are coming to market to swell supplies of fat stock that are still running heavy. The result has been continued low prices and excessive holdings of meats throughout the greater part of the season.

The encouraging feature of this week's trade was the fact that continued heavy supplies of stock were absorbed with more readiness than during the preceding week, that fat cattle are closing strong for the period, and that the hog market rebounded sharply Friday, after having declined almost daily on the week's earlier rounds. Still, another encouraging feature was the report that consumptive demand for meats showed further expansion, and that supplies of lamb and beef were reduced in the face of continued heavy slaughter. Butcher cows are weak to 25c lower for the week as movement of starved out cows from grass sections is at its height. Demand for stockers contracted sharply as dry weather continued, and supplies at many western points were expensive.

Yankton is to vote on issuing bonds in the sum of $114,000 for a public works program which is designed to relieve unemployment.

Official reports, of a sharp increase in factory employment and pay rolls, together with a new drop in public relief expenditures, were characterized by President Roosevelt and his aids as encouraging signs of better times.

If your elephant wants to ride on top IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH A CHEVROLET. We didn't actually plan on elephants when we chose the bodies for the new Chevrolet. But we did choose bodies rigid enough, and strong enough, to support six tons of elephant, or anything else you can name. Fisher bodies... steel bodies plus a hardwood frame... exactly the same type of bodies used on all 12 and 16-cylinder cars. Steel alone is not enough to make you as safe and secure as we want you to be in a Chevrolet. A steel body, welded into a solid wall of protection plus resilient hardwood reinforcing to take up stress, absorb shocks and prevent the steel from following its natural tendency to buckle under pressure makes the sturdiest body of all--the kind used on the Chevrolet, and on no other low-priced car. Remember that when you buy a car. Be sure to get all you pay for... the super-safety of a steel-plus-wood Fisher body. CHEVROLET MOTOR CO., DETROIT, MICH. $445 TO $565 All prices f. o. b. School Resumes September Four Carroll school term opens Monday, September 4, when students will meet at the school to register, receive texts and assignments.

Some changes will be made in the high school course of study this year. French will be offered to the eleventh and twelfth grades rather than to the three upper grades, dropping third year French. Grammar and business arithmetic will both be offered as semester courses for the two upper grades. In past years just one of the subjects had been in the course. One of the high school teachers will this year do some work in the grammar room.

During the summer the furnace and coal rooms have been made fire proof. A number of desks have been refinished, and painting was done where it was needed.

The school has a number of exhibits for the county fairs and these will be ready when school opens.

All members of last year's faculty will return this term. Supt. C. L. Jiranek attended school two weeks at Ames and afterward he and Mrs. Jiranek spent a few days in the Black Hills. They are at home here now. Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Decker went to the Black Hills, Yellowstone park, Canada and Minnesota. Miss Evelyn Anderson, who went from Holdrege on an omnibus tour to both east and west coasts, will arrive home next week. Miss Dorothy Bartels spent the summer at her home here. Miss Frances Taylor went to the fair in Chicago and has spent the rest of the summer at Wayne. Miss Lella Adams also went to Chicago to the fair and has since been at home in Ricketts, Iowa.

Several of last year's senior class plan to attend college in Wayne this fall.
