MOVIELITES

Prepare, my friends, for a super-film! One cannot be too lavish in describing George Arliss' character study of the enigmatic Voltaire.

The creator of "Disraeli" returns in a remarkable drama, elaborately staged and stirring throughout, with the gorgeous court of Louis XV as background.

For contrast, first of the week brings lively musical comedy, "Moonlight and Pretzels," featuring eight new songs!

Then Lew Ayres is heading this way in a dramatic romance, "Don't Bet on Love." If you like Ginger Rogers, and if you like some good racing, turn out for this.

"Voltaire." September 29 and 30. Mr. Arliss states he waited 20 years to find the proper dramatization of Voltaire's life.

and made a tireless study of the French philosopher's character. A single incident, the persecution and death of Calas, serves as dramatic background for this remarkable characterization.

About this incident has been drawn all the drama of the times, all the exciting intrigue which centered around the lovely Madame Pompadour, and the corruptions of the French court.

Voltaire, you will remember, was exiled from France at age of 22 for libelous writings, and was imprisoned in the Bastille in his next year.

He was always painfully thin and was frequently referred to as the fourth of a foursome called "Satin, Death, Sin and Voltaire."

Never was there a character so rich in contrasts—so lovable, so hated. He was fond of medicine and took much of it, including that prescribed for other members of his household.

He was the friend of monarchs and the critic of monarchies. He quarreled frequently with everyone about him and spent most of his 80-odd years in prison.

He was an ardent defender of personal liberty, and fought with his tongue and pen for the down-trodden of Paris.

This picture will without question be recognized as Arliss' greatest characterization. Don't miss it.

"Moonlight and Pretzels." October 1, 2 and 3. A most timely and lively musical comedy is due first of next week, bringing the story of George Dwight, small-town swindler who hoovers with ambition to be a big-time song writer.

Leo Carillo, Mary Brian, Jack Denny and his orchestra, and the Frank and Mill Britton band are a few of the headliners. And don't forget the 50 New York show girls, hand-picked, who flash their charms in the beauty parade.

"Don't Bet on Love." October 4 and 5. You remember Lew Ayres as Paul in "All Quiet on the Western Front?" Well, here he is in an altogether different drama centering around the race-track and its devotees.

GETTING ON HIS FEET AGAIN

SOMETHING WENT wrong with conditions in this country as well as in the rest of the world, but there are improving signs and people are getting on their feet again.

When the world went down the telephone company, along with most other business, was hard hit. We lost telephones by the thousands more than a third of our long distance business. But by sacrificing earnings, we continued in a normal manner in so far as our customers were concerned—we continued to provide good service and keep the property in repair.

As our business fell off and there was less work to do, the remaining work was spread by shortening hours. Thus many more employees have been retained by the Company than otherwise could have been employed. At the same time, with confidence in the future, the work of making necessary replacements in our property was accelerated as much as practicable thus providing additional work. All this has helped maintain purchasing power, benefiting not only employees but also those from whom they buy products or services.

Today the telephone is really ready to help all along the line in winning a new and sounder prosperity. It is ready to serve home and business—ready to make quick wide-invoice contacts, in and out of town for protection, for comfort and convenience.

Through good times and bad this Company has but one policy—to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost to the public consistent with the financial safety of the business.

College Instructor Spent The Summer Browsing Around The Mediterranean

Nowhere is the sky a clearer, lovelier blue... nowhere does the water reflect its tones more truly... nowhere is the air more inviting to relaxation and pleasure than on the Mediterranean.

Leaving Wayne on May 23, Dr. Haganir sailed from New York City and soon was in Mediterranean waters, entering through the Strait of Gibraltar, and pausing at Palma di Mallorca, that very mountainous island with coastline resembling Gibraltar's, and its cliffs rising sharply out of the sea.

At Bethany, the home of Lazarus and Mary, a beautiful new Y. M. C. A. building has been erected but it fails in its mission because both Arabs and Jews boycott it.

At Alexandria, the home of Cleopatra, the traveler found the modern city with its electric business, found in the water and reflected on walls of the grotto. As the boats swing with the tide, the Latin boatmen sing in their rich, full voices.

In Cairo which was reached by train, the traveler found Mohammedan women still wearing the veil although supposedly emancipated. Some with faces covered entirely, and others who wore more liberal uncovered their eyes.

Wonders of Egypt are the mammoth sphinx and the Pyramids. The Temple to Horus, most of which was recently unearthed, is finely preserved for nothing deteriorates in Egypt. Climate is always the same, there is no rain to rot buildings, no freezings, no sleet and hail, and consequently things last forever.

WAYNE SCHOOLS FORM COUNCIL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Mildred Ringer is Elected President Of Girls' Athletic Group. Student council of Wayne high school met to organize last Thursday morning and named Raymond Sala as president.

Prague in Czechoslovakia was visited next, and here Dr. Haganir found a leisureliness which is absent in more modern European cities. The Czechs are a most industrious people however.

At Catania, the home of the blind men and touchers, the traveler found a peculiar electric business, found in the water and reflected on walls of the grotto.

Youth Is Killed On Winside Road

Tire Blow Out Costs Life Of Norfolk Young Man Friday Night. Judd Wise, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Wise of Norfolk, was instantly killed last Friday morning about 3 o'clock when he sustained a fractured skull in an auto accident on Randolph highway.

Others Slightly Injured. Wise, Irvin Hintz, 18, and Clair Steffen, 19, were returning to Norfolk from Hartington when a tire blew out and turned the car over. Wise was struck on the head by a car door.

Raises Large Corn. W. H. Hoguewood grew unusually large corn on his field in north west part of the city this year. An ear which measures 13 inches long and is perfectly filled, but, is on display in the Herald window.

It's Smart TO BUY TIRES NOW. Now... is the time to buy tires. Prices may go higher. If they do, it will actually cost you money to use old tires.

Broadway ablaze with lights... the star's name flashing in massive letters... limousines sliding noiselessly to the entrances to disgorge their jeweled and silk-clad occupants...

But such a production is not born overnight, does not, like Topsy, just grow. It has its birth in a summer theatre somewhere in the east, and must be nurtured and disciplined by its conceiver before being sent before a critical Broadway audience...

These theatres are sometimes conducted by summer stock companies, sometimes by groups of Broadway players in training, and often have schools of dramatic instruction in connection, and pupils are utilized for the minor roles.

Miss Ramsey was particularly impressed by the fine informality and friendliness of the people engaged in this work, both actors and directors, and was struck by the seriousness of everyone concerned.

Take the word of a "Man about Gobi"

Next to a Camel Chevrolet gives most miles per gallon

No argument about the camel. When it comes to miles per gallon, there's nothing in all the Gobi desert—or Sahara—or anywhere else—that can beat him. No argument about Chevrolet, either. It's the most economical form of full-size transportation on wheels.

You can travel a long, long way in a Chevrolet Six without a single stop for gas or oil. In fact, you can get more miles out of a gallon of gas in a Chevrolet, than you can get in any other full-size car. The best proof of this is the way Chevrolet is being preferred by leading national business firms. These firms know their mileage figures. And today, Chevrolet is their first choice by an overwhelming count. Chevrolet is also first choice of the American public by the widest margin in history.
