

FIFTY-THIRD YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1933.

NUMBER THIRTYONE

RETAILING IS ADDRESS TOPIC

Norval D. Merritt, Kearney, Speaks To Wayne Men Monday Evening.

Retail merchandising is a special art, according to Norval D. Merritt of Kearney, who addressed Wayne Kiwanians, Young Business Men club members and others Monday evening following dinner at Hotel Stratton.

Mr. Merritt was at one time a member of the Retail Merchandising Research department of the United States and later was associated with a research group hired by retailers to investigate retail sales and the psychology of organization and display.

Violence attending the farm strike in some market centers is an unfortunate turn of events. Many farmers not only do not approve of the employment of force, but are taking a firm stand against it, stoutly opposing any interference with those who wish to market their products.

Some government experiments may help recovery; others may hinder it. But in time, despite obstacles, despite ill-advised experiments, the country will swing out of the depression, and then an era of prosperity for farmers and others alike will enable people to pay their debts and otherwise get ready for future calamities.

Education Week. This has not been set aside as education week to speed up efforts at education just for the week. It is designed to show achievements in education and to emphasize the value of education.

Flaming Repeal. A picture on the front page of a metropolitan daily newspaper recently showed several bright young men and comely young women who were qualifying to mix drinks and become full-fledged bartenders as soon as the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

Wonderful Country, Anyway. Notwithstanding the disjointed times and numerous mortal errors, this is a country of unsurpassed resources and wonderful possibilities.

Armistice of 1918 Found Wayne Campus A Military Drill Field

To see the easy sociability and collegiate air of campus hill nowadays, one would little suspect that those rolling grounds had once served as a drill-field, that the campus calm had been broken by the regular tramp, tramp of rough-shod feet, that the early morning quiet had been broken by shrill bugle call, followed by khaki-clad figures standing at attention while Old Glory rose aloft on the swaying flag-pole. But most of you will recall that in the fall of 1918, Wayne State Teachers college played host to a unit of the Students' Army Training corps.

Congress had passed the draft bill in August of 1918, which provided for establishment of such student training groups in our schools and universities. Men of high rank were eligible and from them, officers of the future were to be selected. They were to be housed, clothed, fed and given pay of a private soldier while following the college course mapped out by the war department. Enlistment was voluntary, and if the war had continued, the boys in this service would have been in the war within six months.

All America was occupied with war at that time, you'll remember. American housewives were cooperating by saving food, American women were spending long hours in the Red Cross work rooms, men were putting all available funds at disposal of the government in war bonds, even small children were saving for war stamps. Scarcely a family but was connected more or less directly with a soldier overseas. The newspapers carried fear-some casualty lists. Normal pleasures, normal interests were forgotten—America was gripped by war fever—all eyes were turned overseas where was being fought a war of magnitude, of cruelty, to dwarf any conflict in world history.

Small wonder that Wayne State Teachers college abandoned its usual schedule and turned itself into a military college. When October 7, the mobilizing date, arrived, 114 boys from this northeast section reported to their commanding officer, Lieut. B. J. Brooks. Similar units were grouped at Morningside college, at Peru and at the University of Nebraska. The boys averaged 18 to 19 years of age.

At once, the entire energies of the Wayne school were turned towards converting this into a military camp. The military students were in the majority—only women students and about 20 boys, most of them ineligible for military service, were enrolled.

"Flu" Grips Campus.

Scarcely had the men been mustered into service and their coats and blankets checked in, than the influenza epidemic hit Wayne. Fully 55 of the 114 boys were stricken, and as many regular students besides. Industrial Arts building was converted into a hospital as well as barracks, and school was adjourned for three weeks while faculty members struggled with this new disease, little-understood and seemingly uncheckable. Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Conn and other faculty members served as nurses for there were no trained nurses available. Four Wayne doctors divided their time between the barracks and between town and country calls. Dr. C. T. Ingham, Dr. S. A. Lutgen, Dr. E. S. Blair and Dr. G. J. Hess cared for the lads indiscriminately, and to their credit and that of the faculty members, not a one died. True, there were those on the hill who lived in deadly fear of the "flu germ" and avoided their fellow-men and hid their faces behind clumsy cloth masks.

After the epidemic passed, military schedule was resumed and classes taken up. Student soldiers attended classes morning and afternoon, and drilled in late afternoon. From one end of the campus to the other marched the khaki-clad squads—through mud-holes, through shrubbery—no respecters of sidewalks, these lads.

Evenings were given over to organized study in the library, with Dr. Conn taking personal charge, and calling roll at beginning and close of the two-hour periods. However, the military college idea was not wholly successful—faculty members found it impossible to teach the gentle science of mathematics to lads whose minds were filled with thoughts of war tactics. The two did not mix.

November 11 and the cessation of hostilities was cause of much rejoicing on the campus, and the boys were held on in service. At last December 18 was set aside for demobilization and two days later official discharges arrived, and the lads dispersed for their homes.

Many Completed Studies.

Not all left, however, for a good-sized group stayed to study at the college, and many received degrees from here later. Among these might be mentioned: Ralph Clayton, one of the two sergeants, who later graduated here and is now a construction supervisor for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company at Oakland, Calif.; Julius D. Young, the other sergeant, who also completed his work and now teaches in Lincoln high school; Hugo Srb of Dodge, state senator from his county and candidate for congress, who was graduated here; Lyle Miller of Brunswick, graduate of Wayne, and now superintendent at Dayton; Charles M. Daley of Crofton, graduate, now engineer for the city of Philadelphia; John Jenik, Jr., of Wayne, a graduate; Milo R. Sabin, graduate, now in business in western Nebraska; O. T. Conger, now mailman at Wayne; Earl A. Cady of Jamison, graduate; Frank Sederstrom, now of Wayne; Harry Mcintosh of Wayne, who studied here and now is in business in Des Moines, Iowa; Edwin E. Puls of Hoskins, who completed his work here and now is an electrical engineer in Detroit; Russell Prescott of Wayne, graduate, now professor at the University of Nebraska; Joseph M. Chudomelka of Dodge, graduate here, and now a doctor at Hadden Heights, N. J.; Henry G. DeKay, graduate, now professor at Indiana State university; Frank Brokenick of Dodge, graduate, now in Beatrice high school; Marino Wallin of Concord, graduate, now farming; Thurey S. Rosen of Wayne, graduate; Luther D. Fetterolf of Wayne, graduate, now engineer of ceramics at New Jersey Zinc company of Palmerton, Pa.; Ferdinand J. Hirsch of Winslow, graduate, and now school superintendent in southern part of the state; and Richard Hammond of Hartington, graduate, and in public works department of Weeping Water at present.

The Armistice of 1918 cut short Wayne's military training history, and forestalled military careers for 114 lads of northeast Nebraska, but the memories of those strained, busy days will be recalled this Armistice anniversary by those "on the hill" and by the widely-scattered members of the Students Army Training corps.

Public Policies IN this period of unrest and anxiety, with many proposed cures offered, it is well for the masses to employ soberest judgment and preserve the fine ideals which inspired the founders of this government. Let us exemplify the fortitude and dispassionate soundness of pioneer antecedents.

Violence attending strikes not only defies law and order, but brings increased hardship on the very class whose cause strikers profess to help.

The five governors, led by radical Governor Langer of North Dakota, butt into the recovery plan with a scheme that has more of the earmarks of Russian communism than anything hitherto proposed. As we understand, the plan presented by the governors proposed to license a farmer with iron-clad rules covering the acres he could plant, the quantities of grain he could sell and the number of animals he could market. Each farmer would be provided with a card, and a punch in the card would permit him to market certain livestock or grain or dairy products. This sort of program may be tolerated in Russia, but it would be unendurable for the independent American farmer.

Significantly—or at least suspiciously at this time—is heard the voice of the communist international, headquartered at Moscow, shouting for renewed allegiance to the Russian order and expressing hope for world conquest. In our present trials, communist agitators have quickened activities in the United States in the hope of winning accessions from the ranks of discontent. Let no one be fooled into following Russia's communist experiment which has no conscience and therefore is able to exercise no mercy.

Adding to the week's verbal fireworks is the appearance of General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who is out to ally fears and encourage support. The general speaks contemptuously of the "old deal" and of the opinions of individualists, tomahawking disagreement as a breach of loyalty. No administration ever had more nearly unanimous support on the start than the present one. None in the history of the nation ever had less cooperation than the one which it succeeded. In his feverish militancy, Johnson seems not to hesitate to berate those who do not swallow everything the administration offers, but who, not looking for political preferment, are eager for economic recovery without thought of hindering or helping the prestige of the party in power.

Ballyhoo Is Futile

THE Omaha Journal-Stockman calls attention to the fact that the country, "cannot be 'ballyhooed into prosperity,' and that it is the 'steady, sustained pace that is going to win.'"

That newspaper quotes from the Nation's Business as follows: "The road to recovery is not to be traveled at full speed. Few sensible men thought it could be. The reaction in business which came in September should have caused no great surprise. Nor was it remarkable that it should have been accompanied by a still greater mental reaction."

"Late spring and early summer saw the country in an emotional state. The air was full of blue eagles. Paraders filled the streets. The moving pictures exhorted us to rally 'round the NRA and President Roosevelt. It was like an old-fashioned revival. Business had but to believe and be saved."

"But as the emotional stage died down there came a sobering realization that the whole plan involved serious problems of readjustment."

Inflation Dangers

THE Lincoln Journal points out dangers involved in currency inflation, suggesting that even the person with a mortgage would not be benefited over a long period of years. The Journal concludes:

"The west was the hotbed of greenbackism in the days following the Civil war. Perhaps what we are now witnessing is an inheritance of those days. Chester A. Phillips, an authority on currency history, says that 'the farmers of the loyal states were among the unfortunate producers whose products rose in prices (during the war inflation) less than the majority of other articles, and from this standpoint they were losers rather than gainers by the paper currency. At that time the proportion of mortgaged land was low and few could take advantage by paying in depreciated dollars. The paper standard did increase prices and profits, but the farmer was the loser because of price disturbances, Phillips says."

Sioux City Out of Luck

THE Sioux City Live Stock Record wonders why Sioux City is made the butt of 'strike activities, offering this observation: 'Up to date it is working out like it did a year ago in the matter of this strike and picketing of roads. Sioux City is the only market that has been affected to the point of not having receipts enough to keep 25 per cent of packing house and market employes on the payroll. And how are you going to have a market for grub if you have not a hungry man with the price in his pants pocket? It can't be done. Neither can the price of raw products be boosted by shutting off one market out of the many in this country. It can, however, and does gang up supplies in other markets and thus contribute to keeping prices down."

The Chicago Tribune describes the "forgotten man" as the fellow who has toiled through his life either in town or on a farm, practicing economy, saving regularly from small income, living carefully, meeting obligations promptly, and accumulating enough government bonds or other investments to provide, in his declining years, for the support of his family—who now sees his industry and frugality defeated in considerable measure by adding possible inflation to already shrunken values. More than forty-four million savings accounts and more than thirty million life insurance policies are owned by persons who belong to the "forgotten man" class, according to the Chicago Tribune.

West Point is in gala attire for the national corn husking contest which takes place north of there today. Decorations feature Nebraska's major crop, and many corn designs are reported on display. The event is not just a match between state champions. It takes on the proportions of a celebration with music and parades and farm demonstrations. All roads will lead to the Stalp farm today, and Wayne county promises to contribute its full share.

In New York City's three-cornered contest, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, fusion candidate, won with a plurality of 254,506. Joseph V. McKee who is understood to have been favored by the Washington administration, scored second place, while John P. O'Brien, present mayor, came out third. O'Brien sailed as Tammany's choice, and the result is said to have been Tammany's first defeat in nineteen years.

The Literary Digest's preliminary poll was an accurate forecast of New York City's mayoralty election which took place Tuesday. When the Digest enters a doubtful field for a survey in advance, the election amounts only to an endorsement of the Digest's findings.

We are glad to note road building west of town is proceeding under a full head of steam. If the weather decides to hold off wintry blasts for a few weeks, both employed groups and the needed improvement will be benefited.

Nearly everyone recognizes the force of what Cicero said in this statement many years ago: "The higher our position, the more modestly should we behave."

People Impatient.

Lincoln Journal: When Secretary Wallace calls for a fair trial of the administration's recovery schemes he is asking for more than other plans received. The farm problem was being tackled long before the present administration took charge. But plans were no sooner adopted than the politicians and the farmers began to complain. They failed to co-operate or to give these plans a fair trial. The result was not only failure but uncertainty as to what might have been accomplished. It is only reasonable that a recovery plan should be given a fair try so that, if it fails it may be discarded forever. Present plans deserve this much consideration. While the secretary is not making an unreasonable demand, he is making one which may not be readily acceded to. Politicians and idealists are continually coming forward with something new. And the people are impatient.

Want No Quack Remedies.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Through the entire conference of the mid-western governors last week as well as through their meeting in Washington with the president and his advisers, there was a manifest note of impatience with the lack of results following the measures that have been taken for the relief of agriculture.

Farm holiday leaders, as well as the governors themselves, advocated that drastic measures should be taken at once. They apparently acted on the assumption that the government was able to do something that would bring immediate, instantaneous relief to the distressed farmers of the country.

As a matter of fact, the acute farm problem has plagued the government for more than a decade. If anything could have been done it is more than likely it would have been attempted long ago. All the usual remedies and panaceas having failed, the present administration has apparently been content to turn the matter over to the college professors and theorists to work out, if possible, a program that would place agriculture on a more stable and satisfactory basis.

With the details of this long term plan the country is hardly familiar enough to pass judgment nor have the different experiments inaugurated been in effect long enough to warrant an opinion as to their efficacy. The general attitude of the country is that of watchful waiting, to give the experiments a fair trial. Apparently that is also the president's position.

Immediate beneficial results can hardly be expected. Present conditions have been brought about by causes of long standing and the remedies applied in the past have increased rather than lessened the difficulties of the farmers' condition. In a word the evils of the situation have been at work for a long time and cannot be cured in a day.

The nation is disposed to withhold its verdict and await developments but the nation is not inclined to accept or apply the quack remedies of political farmers nor is it to be influenced by the rash acts of farm holiday members. The agricultural disease has been a long time in coming to a head and it may be a long time in showing signs of recovery.

KEEPING FAITH.

A story from the town of Western, Nebraska, proves that ground for confidence in human qualities has not been lost in the whirlpool of life's ups and downs of the past decade. The story revives any lagging faith. It supports the wisdom of placing a clear conscience and a good name above material riches. Two sons and four daughters of the late George R. Sawyer whose bank closed last spring, have worked out a plan to pay all depositors and all other bank obligations in full. They explain that they wish to make good every confidence in their banking institution. They want depositors to know they were not mistaken, that their faith was well founded. The senior Sawyer accumulated considerable property forty years ago, and as a pioneer banker he won and held the confidence of the neighboring communities through the years. The descendants propose to have the good record of their father kept untarnished by anyone's loss. The sons and daughters could have complied with the law without making complete restitution. But the extra saving of property would not satisfy conscience. They prized the family name above gold, and they may now look to the future without contemplating shaken faith or disturbed friendships. This is an example of unusual courage, though as a matter of fact its compensations are greater than any that could have been realized by any other course.

Plan To Present Operetta Soon

"Peggy and the Pirate," operetta by Morgan O'Hara, will be presented by high school glee clubs soon under direction of Kermit Stewart. Trials for parts are being conducted this week and the cast will soon be announced. O'Hara wrote "The Count and the Countess" operetta which the students presented in 1931, also "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," and "There Is No Death," well-known numbers.

Anniversary Of The Armistice Recalls Wayne's War Record

On Saturday we observe fifteenth anniversary of the Armistice of Rethondes, and our thoughts go back to the more distant days when Wayne county's youth was volunteering for service in France, when many a mother was watching the casualty columns with dread, when gold star emblems were making their appearance in windows, and letters from the front were eagerly read and re-read and cherished. In the front-line trenches, in air service, in the marines, on transports, Wayne county men distinguished themselves as men of courage and endurance. As soldiers, officers, marines, pilots, "gobs," and "sky pilots" their records were clean, their honors numerous. And here mention should be made of Mrs. Paul Harrington who, as Miss Ella Morrison, saw long service in France as canteen worker.

When the order came to cease firing and American troops took ship for home, twenty-six Wayne countians were missing. Twenty-six stars on the bronze service placque at the court house testify to the splendid sacrifices of Harry Arrasmith, Walter Barrett, Anton Bastian, Clifford Benshoof, William Boyer, Ernest Deck, Oscar Flier, Lester Fogle, Jens Jensen, Josef Johnson, George Jones, Jens Jorgensen, Irvan Lyons, James Mathiesen, Edward Moeller, Sam Nickles, Clifford Pettys, Roy Reed, Chris Rossacker, Warren Seace, S. Scheimer, Irwin Sears, Claire Schultz, William Skiff, Thomas Swanson and Oscar Vogt. Of these, Jens Jorgensen, Edward Moeller and Anton Bastian were brought here for burial, and since the war period, Arthur Hinrichs, Mather Stanton, Herbert Welch, Arthur Cunningham, Frank Elming, Smith McManigal, Tony Lintz, Glyd Wilson, Herman Damme, Carl Mathsen, Ernest Soderstrom, Rolfe Henkel, George Smith, H. McNutt, Guy Strickland, Forest McEntee and E. B. Love have again laid to rest in the Greenwood cemetery.

Those soldier boys who came back, are carrying on today through their American Legion posts. Irwin Sears post at Wayne, named for the first local boy to lose his life, Roy Reed post at Winfield named for Winside's first war dead, and Carroll Legion post, exert a strong and healthy influence in community life, linking up with every important project, and carrying on their own work of looking after the welfare of ex-service men.

Wayne post now has about 100 members under command of A. L. Swan and several important projects have been sponsored by the post, including two big Fourth of July celebrations, origination of town band, and clearing up of old LaPorte cemetery. Dr. R. E. Gornley commands Winfield post, and R. V. Garwood, Carroll post.

Besides helping disabled ex-service men to apply for government compensation and state aid, the local posts line up behind the national Legion's aims, which include bringing about proper care and rehabilitation of injured ex-service men, carrying on of Americanization work, striving to bring about world peace by maintaining adequate army and navy, and bringing about legislation which would draft wealth and industry as well as manpower in case of war. The Legionnaires recognize need of many reforms, of much readjustment, and through their local, state and national groups, are carrying on—their work did not end with the Armistice of 1918.

Nebraska Author Scores A Success With "Miss Bishop"

"Miss Bishop," the latest book by Bess Streeter Aldrich, came out in August and made the six-best seller list at once. Of "Miss Bishop" the publishers say, "An American woman of courage and character—a person comparable to Abbie Deal of A Lantern in Her Hand. And also like A Lantern in Her Hand, the volume has all of the honest sentiment and the popular appeal that made its famous predecessor a phenomenal and enduring best seller from the east coast to the west."

Nebraska Author Scores A Success With "Miss Bishop"

"Miss Bishop" is the story of a universal character, the teacher whom we all have known—unmarried usually, existing with difficulty on a meager salary, wise. The background against which Miss Bishop moves is that of a typical Mid-Western town.

"The story opens in 1876 at a time when a mere handful of students was attending Oak River's new 'edifice,' Midwestern College. Among these students we discover Ella Bishop, who studies hard and mixes well with all. Subsequently we see Ella refusing her first proposal of marriage because her suit-or is not the one. Thus it is that when she graduates she is still unattached, and casting about for something to do, she applies and gets a job on the faculty of the steadily growing Midwestern College.

"Here begins her life of service to others, and soon afterwards come the trials and disappointments which are to test her character to its very depths. First she falls in love with the lawyer, Delbert Thompson, only to have him desert her ultimately for Amy, her orphaned cousin. Shortly after the marriage of Delbert and Amy, however, the lawyer dies, his wife, likewise, passes away in childbirth, and it is Ella, ironically enough, who takes their baby, Hope, into her heart and home. Years are passing. From this point on, the story sweeps on through this gallant woman's self-sacrificing career of dedication to others, shows her again thwarted in love by a seemingly relentless fate, tells of her inspired work in Midwestern College, and carries us on through the generations to Hope's marriage and otherhood. It leaves us with the teacher's final struggle to reconcile the seeming futility of all she has done, the insecurity of her old age, and the approach of death, with the ideals that have impelled her over life's long journey. Her final triumph over her doubts and disillusion is beautifully and movingly set forth."

Mrs. Aldrich will have a short story, "How Lies His Bed," in the Christmas number of Cosmopolitan. Her two sons, who attend college in California, were at home for the summer and the family spent several weeks in northern Minnesota. Corn-Hog Plan Is Discussed

Details Will Be Available Soon, Extension Agent Liggett Says.

Until more detailed information is available, about the proposed corn-hog adjustment plan, the breeding of sows for late February and early March farrow should proceed in about the normal number, W. W. Derrick, livestock extension specialist at the agricultural college believes. When farmers know more about the corn-hog adjustment plan, they can easily cull out their poorest brood sows and dispose of them in order to bring their numbers down to requirements of the hog adjustment contract, according to G. H. Liggett.

Even though the first regional corn-hog conference was held in Kansas City November 6 and 7, it will be several days before the plan can be explained to all the farmers at their school houses and other neighborhood meeting places. In few cases should a man who has made it a practice to raise early litters of pigs radically change his breeding schedule this fall because of the proposed corn-hog plan, Derrick feels. Culling out the poorer sows later would be a more practical way to meet the situation.

Among the puzzling questions before the hog raiser who is now ready to breed sows for early farrow, the more important have to do with spring and fall litter reduction, and the figuring of 25 per cent reduction on a small number of sows, Derrick pointed out. It has not been announced yet whether a man who has had both spring and fall litters can raise the usual number next spring and do all of his reducing in the fall of 1934, or if he must reduce each crop 25 per cent. About half the hog raisers of the state have less than a dozen sows. Twenty-five per cent of four, eight, and twelve is easily figured, but no ruling has come out regarding 25 per cent of odd numbers like seven and nine.

Four Gunmen Rob South Dakota Bank

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Four gunmen armed with two sub-machine guns raided the Exchange State bank of Lennox, twenty miles southwest of here late yesterday afternoon, carried four women and the president a half mile from town and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

The robbers fled in an automobile with the license plates of H. T. Poisson of Lincoln, Neb., whose automobile was taken from him on Lincoln streets several months ago by armed men. His car was recovered with other plates on after it had been used in a bank robbery at Pipestone, Minn.

Bandits May Have Been Here Norfolk, Neb., Oct. 8.—Norfolk police this morning were investigating to determine if the five men who held up a bank at Lennox, S. D., yesterday, were seen in this city Tuesday morning.

Police were informed that five men traveling in an automobile bearing an Illinois license were seen at a filling station here. The men were carrying weapons and looked like suspicious characters, according to information given police.

Omaha Get Thrill Omaha, Nov. 8.—Police Commissioner Frank Myers, acting on a hunch that he had spotted the car carrying the bandits who robbed the Lennox, S. D., bank yesterday, gave down town Omaha a thrill last night when he crowded the car to the curb on a busy street and held the five men in it under guard with his pistol until police arrived.

The five men, however, proved to be salesmen and were released after being taken to headquarters in the patrol wagon. Myers, sighting a Lancaster county license on the car, forced it to the curb in front of the World theatre, Fifteenth and Douglas streets, and leaping from his own car, drew his gun and ordered the men to sit quietly.

While a crowd of 100 or more looked on the men were searched in the street upon arrival of a squad of officers and then hustled away to the station. The car in which the bandits escaped from Lennox was reported to have carried Lancaster county plates.

them in the open again, figuring it better to lose by theft than to have sales decrease. The raise takes care of the theft.

Colors Important. Colors are important in displays, Mr. Merritt continued. Red, green, yellow and blue appeal to men. Women like pastel shades. Orange is favored by both, and should be used 82 percent of the time. Jaded green background appeals both to men and women and should be used 18 percent of the time. Yellow and black is the second best combination.

Items which have quick turnover and large profit should be three times the prominence of others. They should have larger display in one place or be displayed in three places in the store.

Mr. Merritt advised merchants to select items by the following criteria: First, does the item have the right style, i. e., is it the right kind and type; second, does it have a popular appeal, i. e., do all people need it; third, is it a real value; fourth, can it be popularly priced; and fifth, is it packaged right.

RED CROSS CLOTHES THE NATION'S NEEDY Flour, Bread, Clothing Reach Into More Than Five Million Homes

The greatest task ever undertaken by a relief agency in the history of private charity is drawing to a close with the final distribution of cotton clothing to more than five million families by the American Red Cross.

At the direction of the Congress, beginning eighteen months ago, the Red Cross undertook to convert the wheat and cotton surpluses of the Farm Board into food and clothing for the unemployed and needy.

In the ensuing months the Red Cross converted 85,000,000 bushels of wheat into flour and bread and gave it to 5,803,000 families. The distribution was through 3,700 Red Cross chapters and hundreds of other charitable agencies.

The clothing—dresses, underwear, overalls, jumpers, sweaters and stockings for men, women and children, and even blankets and canteens—was distributed to 5,465,410 families. More than 54,000,000 yards of cotton cloth were given to the needy. This clothing came from 844,000 bales of cotton.

The wheat distribution was concluded in June, 1933, and final distribution of cotton clothing is occurring in the fall months. In handling these tasks voted to it by Congress, the Red Cross will expend from its own treasury $735,000.

Seven hundred thousand women volunteers under the Red Cross banner sewed for the needy last year and many thousands still are making cotton garments for their Red Cross chapters.

Enlisted Under Banner "I Serve" School Children Help the Needy

IN 1933 there were 6,840,000 members of the Junior Red Cross in the public, private and parochial schools of the United States. They ranged in years from the twelve-year-old in grammar school through the senior classman in high school, and numbered about equally between boys and girls. Like the adult organization—the American Red Cross—every race and creed have equal rights under the Junior banner "I Serve."

Two outstanding works of mercy were the distribution of thousands of Christmas greeting cards in braille writing for the blind, and the children's toy party given in Ellsworth and Auburn, Maine, following devastating fires which made several hundred families homeless, and destroyed all of their household possessions. The children had been clothed, but it occurred to Red Cross workers that they had lost their valuable possessions, too—their dolls, books, wagons and other playthings.

Junior Red Cross members in ten cities were telegraphed about this state of affairs, and immediately there came rolling in great bundles of gifts for the children of the two Maine towns. A great toy party was held, and each child received at least three gifts, candy and ice cream to repletion, and the occasion was gay and festive with balloons and other decorations.

These boys and girls have aided in a magnificent degree in the huge unemployment relief work the American Red Cross has been carrying on for several years. Through funds they contributed, hundreds of schools were enabled to give free lunches to children of the jobless; they have collected and distributed clothing; in their manual training classes they made thousands of Christmas cheer to the veterans in hospitals, the aged, crippled and sick in their communities. One of their major works was the making of thousands of garments in their sewing classrooms from the cloth furnished by the Red Cross. They aided in many communities in canning surplus vegetables and fruits for winter stores for the needy.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help in Floods, Earthquake, Fires and Tornadoes in Year's Record

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Barton Payne announced. "As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross aided and discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 6,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States. Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 462,870 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,970,234. During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved. Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare, through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

Tornado Is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States?

This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross, which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and claims a heavy toll of life. It swoops almost without warning, and in the terrific whirlpool of its fierce winds it destroys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief in 44 tornadoes in eighteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 326 persons, injured 2,755 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,738 who were homeless, injured or otherwise victims of the storms.

Prepared to Save Lives

One of the most valuable services given to the American public by the Red Cross is through its Life Saving and First Aid courses. Virtually all of the life guards at beaches and pools in the nation are Red Cross life savers. Nearly every industry in America supports the First Aid work of the Red Cross because it annually saves lives of thousands of injured persons. These courses are taught by Red Cross experts in both lines. Last year 66,354 certificates were issued to persons completing the First Aid course and 78,795 certificates for completing Life Saving instruction.

Toll of the Earthquake

When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

Examinations were given Monday and Tuesday. Marjorie Harrison of the sixth grade received the highest average, 93, and was awarded a prize.

War Relics Exhibited.

In connection with Armistice day, John Soules has loaned a collection of war relics for the Herald window. Included are a cartridge belt, cannon model from metal of a gun used by Sherman in his famous march to the sea, a cavalry sword and musket. These were used by his father, Simon Soules, in the Civil war. A Spanish-American medal and "human" bullets, and a shell from the warship Nebraska complete the exhibit.

He careth for you"

IT is related of "Christian," in "The Pilgrim's Progress," that he began his journey on his back to Celestia City bearing on his back a great burden, but that it rolled away from him when he had gone far enough to behold the saving love of Christ. As we journey through this earthly experience, it seems sometimes as if we, too, were weighed with a heavy burden which we feel it is our duty to drop, although it greatly impedes our progress. What a relief it would be to get rid of this incubus, to learn that we may pursue our way unencumbered, and find all our needs abundantly supplied so long as we do not wander from the right path!

Are we carrying a load of loneliness? Even if we are in a solitary place, do not let us be misled by the blinding glad with the revealing of that truth which the physical senses cannot perceive, to enrich our thought and lift it above self, so that we can emerge from our present condition with open arms and giving hands, helpful and more useful than we have been.

Is poverty trying to crush out our freedom and our joy? Are we looking to material sources for supply? If so, we are finding but little. Let us look up; seek first the kingdom of heaven, and we shall not be troubled. It is just at hand. Then we shall find also enough of whatever is required to supply our daily need. But if both hands are holding on to burdens, how can blessings be grasped? We cannot grasp the blessing without dropping the burden. Which shall it be? Just for today let us reach out for the love, the joy, the peace which God is holding out to all, and our outstretched hands will let go their load. Let us keep reaching out for blessings, and we shall not be tempted to pick up again the burden we have dropped.

Are we weighed down by weariness, sickness, or pain? "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden," says the healing Christ, "and I will give you rest." "The burden is light." Not time, nor place, nor creed, nor race, is any barrier to the ever present Christ. Let us accept the health and strength which we inherit as children of God, and face each day with confidence, "for he careth for you."

We need not let grief rob us of the smiles which we owe to our fellow men. God gives joy instead of mourning. He teaches us that Love alone is Life, the ever present, Life of all. His vast creation keeps every day holy, and to carry only what comes to us from the hand of divine love. Then we shall be free and unburdened. We shall be free from the false sense of self, and so be better able to undo the heavy burdens of our neighbors, helping them to cast all their care on Love divine, gently reminding them that he careth for you.—The Christian Science Monitor.

War Veterans' Problems

Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 3,268 chapters dealt with the problems of 411,124 ex-service men or their families. The chapters also aided 7,346 men still in the regular army, navy and marine corps.

Safeguarding Public Health

The Red Cross reports that 693 nurses are employed by 428 of its chapters in public health nursing. During the past year Red Cross nurses made 1,341,000 nursing visits, other than to schools, and also inspected 633,000 children in schools. Nursing at the bedside of the sick, unemployed, or other needy is a major part of their work. The Public Health Nursing Service of the Red Cross also directs the teaching of classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. This course was taught to 63,000 persons during last year.

An Army of Children

The membership in the Junior Red Cross last year was 6,929,868 boys and girls in schools, privates, public and parochial. They enjoyed volunteer work in hospitals and for orphans, the aged and crippled, and also aided their schoolfellows by providing attention for their eyes, purchasing their glasses, and giving many other types of service to them. Tio Juniors aid their school work by carrying on correspondence and the exchange of portfolios with school children in other nations.

The Red Cross enrolled 3,701,866 members in its roll call a year ago. Join in the 1933 roll call—Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

WILDCATS WIN BY NARROW LEAD

Nebraska "B" Goal Line Is Crossed For The First Time This Season.

Nebraska "B" team, after playing through till mid-season without being scored against, was defeated by the Wayne Wildcats here Friday evening by a narrow margin of one point. Wayne's strong offensive and excellent blocking proved too much for the visitors, and game ended 14 to 13.

Nebraska looked strong in first quarter, but Wayne showed up best in second and third periods. Coach W. R. Hickman ran in reserves in the fourth period and the line was weakened. Evans, Rosalie half, and Dermitt, South Sioux City half, made Wayne's tailback, and Gast, Plainview fullback, was responsible for some excellent punts and for much of the yardage. Wayne's first touch-down came second quarter when Evans and Gast brought the ball to the 30-yard line and Gast went off tackle for 27 yards. Evans went over from the 3-yard line and Gast's kick for point was good. In the same quarter, a pass put the ball on the 16-yard line and Dermitt took the ball over. Gast again made good on the placekick.

Nebraska scored first touchdown when a pass put the ball on the 32-yard line, and Cockburn faked a pass and ran to the 12-yard line. On a lateral pass, Cockburn took the ball to the 11-yard line and, after shaking off three men, took it over for a touchdown. Kick for extra point failed. Nebraska's second score came just 20 seconds before the final whistle, when Cockburn went off tackle and took the ball over the line. DeBrown's try for point was good. The game ended with Wayne holding a one-point lead.

Coach Robert (Red) Young and Coach Laurence Ely, former Husker all-American, accompanied the 26 Nebraska players.

Officials—Referee, Rich (Kearney); umpire, Sisty (Midland); head linesman, Gibb (Westleyan).

American Education Week Is Observed

American Education week is being observed from November 6 to 12, according to word received by County Superintendent Pearl Sewell, with the Legion, National Education association and United States office of education in charge. Its purpose is to furnish occasion each year to consider anew the ideals, purposes and achievements of universal education.

Governor C. W. Bryan's proclamation for education week contains the following theme for this year: Meeting the Emergency in Education: It is felt by many that during this critical period in our nation's history, when changes in economic ideas and practices follow one another so rapidly, the adjustments may result in the essential sometimes being discarded with the outworn. Free and universal education must be preserved as an important part of the basis for self-government. Therefore, it is hoped that such subjects as—The increased responsibilities of the schools, Financial support of the schools, and The schools and reconstruction—may be widely and thoroughly discussed during this week devoted to memorializing our progress in universal education and dedicating ourselves to its ideals.

The bridegroom went to Pilger for the week-end, then Mrs. Carson returned to Wayne to continue her work temporarily. She will go to Pilger later to join her husband, who is teaching a rural school. A point chart will be used, and felt symbols will probably be awarded for the following number of points: First, 500 points; second, 1,000; third, 2,000; fourth, 3,500.

Seventh grade Service League met the same day and decided upon a scholarship committee. Members to be Junior Ray Larson, Marian Vath, Norman Mahnke and Barbara Felber.

Second graders have a daily newspaper on their blackboard, called "The Chatterbox," and are correlating this with reading and spelling. News of the classroom and of outside activities are reported each day.

Thursday and she brought cunning little Halloween dolls for the children.

First graders' boat project has developed into study of submarines, and the children have been finding out how the crew gets air under water, and how the periscope functions. Miss Coila Potras entertained the children with popcorn and apples for Halloween, the corn being popped in the room.

Jessie Lou File had a birthday Thursday and brought treats for the wee kindergarten folks.

When seventh graders took up study of gas and electric meters in arithmetic last week, Van Bradford went to the Peoples Natural Gas company where the working of meters was explained, and he brought a meter to class to show the other pupils. Junior Ray Larson went to the city hall to inquire about electric meters, and borrowed one for class. All the children read their home meters as part of the project.

Armistice Day To Be Observed Provokes Thought

"Armistice day is a serious thought-provoking day, very different from the noisy, merry Fourth of July with its fire-crackers and picnics," says Mrs. O. W. Hahn of Wayne. "It's too momentous, too serious a day for other than reverent observation." And Mrs. Hahn speaks, not only for the Wayne auxiliary, but for thousands and thousands of American women, in her capacity as national vice-president in charge of the Northwestern division.

Over these United States next Saturday, 8,000 units of the auxiliary will be taking a prominent role in Armistice day celebrations, working chiefly through the youth of the nation. "For the chief hope of our country is our youth, and those boys and girls should have serious thought of what Armistice day means, both in the past and to the future. The auxiliary is asking schools to procure speakers who will portray this anniversary day in its true light—rather than to clothe war in glory."

From her national contacts, Mrs. Hahn is well qualified to tell of the auxiliary's work. Consideration for nurses, she says, is one of the aims of the year. Now, there are no special hospitals, not even private wings, for nurses injured in the war under fire, gassed, or in accidents. The organization is asking that special wings be set aside, and they be cared for as near their homes as possible. Under present legislation only enlisted men in the army or navy have recognition from the government—nurses and canteen workers are not provided for.

Rehabilitation work is another important interest of the auxiliary. There are now 98,802 hospitalized men, and the auxiliary remembers them at Christmas time. About $121,000 will be spent on this activity alone this coming Christmas. In addition, approximately 18,000 families are remembered during the holidays.

Children Are Cared For

The auxiliary is interested in children of war veterans, and cares for about 182,000 of them. Some are quartered in private homes, and others are cared for in three

"billets" given over to war orphans. As the children become older, the auxiliary seeks to educate them, each step being responsible for its own group. When there are too many, the national organization helps out financially. For direct relief to children, over $700,000 was paid out last year, and more will be spent this year for the need is greater.

The auxiliary's work among children is versatile. For instance, a Nebraska widow and two children had no relatives except in England, and no means of support. The national organization got in touch with her English relatives and they were willing to care for her. The auxiliary sent the family to England. Out in a Pennsylvania mining town the miners were without work and their children were hungry. Auxiliary members canned 1,500 cans of fruit and vegetables for these children, and set up a food kitchen where three meals a day were served throughout last winter. And only a few of the youngsters were veterans' children.

The huge program of educating orphans of war dead will end in ten years, for by that time, every one will have reached legal age of 21, and will be out of the government's supervision.

Poppy Program Large

Last year, over 7,000,000 poppies were sold in this country on Poppy day—every one made by a disabled or non-compensated ex-soldier. About $72,000 was paid out in direct wages to the makers, and net profit of $153,000 resulted, every cent of which must be returned in some form to disabled veterans and their families.

Adequate national defense is asked by the auxiliary, with a navy built up to the London treaty. The growth of communism is viewed with alarm by auxiliary officials. Three years ago, Mrs. Hahn saw the official records in Washington, D. C., and found that in Nebraska alone there were 1,200 persons paying dues directly to Moscow, and she surmises there has been a big increase since that time, right here among our level-headed, dependable Nebraska folks.

in community activities—they have sponsored bands and assembled school libraries. Last year, $849,424 was spent in community work, including the erection of 23 war memorials. The national group, however, has frowned upon war memorials, condemning "granite and stone" until the human need is cared for.

The largest unit of last year was in Tennessee, but for the preceding two years, Lincoln, Neb., had the largest with 700 members. Over 350,000 women now belong, making an influential and active membership extending over the entire country, busily promoting its program of Americanism and welfare work.

"Fidac" Is World-Wide

You've heard the name "Fidac" but do you know its meaning? Well, translated into English, it means a federation of allied countries for furthering understanding. Every auxiliary member automatically becomes a member in this country, but among the allies, only government people can belong, and their only by appointment. The organization's purpose is to promote closer understanding and friendship among the countries grouped together in the World War. Fidac has established a school for American children in the Pershing Memorial building in Paris, where American ideals and language are taught the children of American residents. The French government supplies teachers for the school, and Fidac furnishes books and supplies. Thus, children are kept in touch with their homeland although many miles away.

General Balbo who headed the good-will flight to America, was second president of the international Fidac.

"The auxiliary will grow in activity and numbers," Mrs. Hahn believes, "because the depression has

Herman Fler Is A Hold-Up Victim

Unmasked Robbers Force Winside Merchant To Open Store Safe.

Two unmasked men held up Herman Fler as he was closing his general merchandise store Friday evening, and appropriated between $25 and $45 from his safe. Mr. Fler was alone in the store about 6:30 o'clock, and just finished placing his cash in the safe on a small balcony and was descending the steps when burp was thrown over his head and his arms pinned down. One man was on each side of him and they locked hands behind his head so that he was unable to see the assailants, and a revolver and shotgun were pushed into his ribs. The men forced him to open the safe, and then went through his papers, bank book, invoice book and note book to see if there should be more money on hand. Mr. Fler's son-in-law, Calbert Sherer, came in and did not see the three men. He was overtaken in a back storeroom and brought in with Mr. Fler. As the men were taken into a back room, Mr. Fler threw aside a bill-fold containing about $13 which the robbers had overlooked in their search. Leaving the two men on the floor, the intruders left by the east door and disappeared completely.

Mr. Fler did not see the men during the entire hold-up, but Mr. Sherer described them as dressed in overalls and jackets, one quite short and using his left hand for his revolver, the other taller. Mrs. Fler noticed two men watching the store building as she left at closing time, but presumed they were local men. This is the fourth time the Fler store has been robbed. About $1,500 in silks was taken several years ago, hose and dresses disappeared three years back, and neckties were taken last year.
