One of Every Five Families in Nation Receives Red Cross Jobless Relief in 1933

AN ARMY of volunteer men and women relief workers almost ten times greater in numbers than the standing army of the United States carried Red Cross relief into the homes of America's jobless during the past eighteen months.

Six hundred and forty-five thousand women joined under the Red Cross flag in sewing garments for the needy, in distribution of bread and flour, and in canning foods for their neighbors in distress because of unemployment. A half million men—bankers, lawyers, doctors, merchants and men in every walk in life—gave of their time as chapter officials and as active relief workers in distribution of goods. Thousands of trucks were lent to carry flour and clothing from rail-road loading platforms to warehouses, and then into remote rural sections to be delivered promptly into homes where need was great.

"Only the Red Cross could assemble such an army of volunteer workers," was the tribute paid their service.

The relief was given to one of every five families in the nation.

Above, part of the nation's great sewing bee when 645,000 women sewed Red Cross cloth for the needy; at right, every deference was paid to style, as dresses on these girls show. Millions of school children were outfitted by the Red Cross.

It went into every hamlet, village, town and city and to all rural districts. The flour and bread came from $5,000,000 bushels of government wheat and the clothing from $44,000 bales of government cotton, voted by Congress to the Red Cross for free distribution. More than five million families were recipients of both types of relief.

The wheat was converted into 10,658,000 barrels of flour, and 223,901 tons of stock feed. The cotton provided approximately 90,000,000 garments—overalls, jumpers, dresses, underwear, stockings and sweaters, for men, women and children. Blankets, comforters and sheets also were given.

Distribution of the cotton clothing and the flour cost the Red Cross $735,000 from its treasury.

The last of the flour was shipped by the Red Cross in June, and the last of the clothing was distributed in October.

Children were clothed for school this autumn and their parents were given garments to meet their needs. This relief task was assumed by the Red Cross in addition to its chartered obligations in disaster relief, aid to veterans, health and safety education. Red Cross aid was given in 117 disasters in the United States and her insular possessions during the year. This relief work is made possible through the annual roll call for members carried on by Red Cross chapters each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Deepening Crisis In Education

United States Commissioner of Education George F. Zook made public today a summary of the effect of the economic crisis on education in the United States.

"This year more than at any time in our recent history, the quality, yes, even the existence of schools in many communities, is at stake," declared Commissioner Zook. "We find ourselves in the grip of a social difficulty from which we shall extricate ourselves only with great effort and pain."

Following is the summary based on recent information reaching the Federal office of Education most of which has been received directly from school officials, but some of which has been obtained through other national and state organizations.

Children Without Schools

100,000 additional children are deprived of educational opportunity this fall because of the closing of schools due to lack of funds.

1,659,000 children 6 to 13 years old are not in school in normal years.

521,700 children 14-15 years old are without school in normal years. That means a total of 2,280,000 American children of school age, who, according to most compulsory education laws, should be in school, but are not!

Nearly 2,000 rural schools in 24 states failed to open this fall. So far no city public schools are reported closed. Many private and parochial schools are closing.

Twentyfour Catholic schools have closed, affecting nearly 3,000 children. 16 institutions of higher education have been discontinued since last year. Estimates indicate that 1,500 commercial schools and colleges have closed.

In some communities free public schools have of necessity become tuition schools, admitting only those children whose parents can pay the rate asked. For example, in one town of 13,000 population, grade school tuition was reported as $3 per child per month, high school tuition $5.50 per month. In this town at least 200 children whose parents could not pay the tuition charges were being denied an education.

School Terms Shortened

Because of lack of available funds, 1 of every 4 cities has shortened its school term; 715 rural schools are expected to run less than 3 months. Reductions in school terms make worse an already bad situation. In normal years schools for 1,500,000 children were open six months or less per year.

New reductions of term in city schools have come on the heels of a constant succession of reductions. Terms in practically every great American city are today one or two months shorter than they were 70 to 100 years ago.

Inadequate school terms for American children stand in sharp contrast to the school terms common for children in European countries: United States, 172 days, city 184 days, rural 162 days; France, 200 days; Sweden, 210 days; Germany, 246 days; England, 210 days; Denmark, 248 days.

The school term problem is rapidly growing more serious. Prospects for the coming school year reported by some states are: Michigan: 90 percents of schools will shorten hours; Nebraska: 15 per cent of schools will cut at least one month; Missouri: 100 high schools, 1,500 rural schools face early closing; New Mexico: Most schools will have shortened terms; Virginia: Many terms will be shortened unless emergency measures are taken.

Nebraska Is One Interested In Work

Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois farmers will be more concerned with the coming corn-hog adjustment program than farmers of other states, if statistics are a guide to the interest in the proposed plan. Iowa ranks first in both corn and hogs.

Nebraska ranks second in value of hogs marketed, third in value of hogs marketed, second in acreage of corn, and third in bushels of corn produced. Illinois is third in number of hogs, second in value of hogs, third in corn acreage, and second in corn production.

The three states together produce 45 per cent of the hogs and 41 per cent of the corn of the entire country. Farmers in the three states, if they sign up the corn-hog adjustment contract as might be expected, will get about half of the corn-hog benefit payments.

In Nebraska, Custer county ranks first in numbers of both corn and hog producers with about 3500 corn and hog growers living in the county. Nebraska has seven counties with over 2,000 hog producers and eight counties with over 2,000 corn growers. Custer, Knox, Gage, Cedar, Platte, Saunders and Lancaster, all counties of more than average size, have the most hog producers. Custer, Lancaster, Gage, Saunders, Knox, Buffalo, Cedar and Holt counties all have over 2,000 corn growers per county. Taking area into consideration, Burt, Seward, Dodge and Sarpy have been the ranking corn-hog producers of the state since 1930.

Government Plan Workable In State

The proposed corn-hog adjustment plan will be very workable in Nebraska. W. H. Brokaw, director of the extension service, said Wednesday morning on his return from a conference with Washington officials and other representatives from other states at Kansas City, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas were represented at the Kansas City meeting.

Dr. Black and his assistants in charge of the corn-hog section of the adjustment administration at Washington return to Washington this week-end with suggestions from four conferences held in the corn belt since last Friday. Brokaw said. The Washington men plan to whip the corn-hog contract and their administrative rulings into final form and get them printed as quickly as possible. The contracts and other details of the plan will be available to farmers at the first community meetings.

In the meantime, the Nebraska extension service will proceed as rapidly as possible to cooperate with county officials in setting up offices of emergency agricultural assistants in counties without extension agents. Brokaw plans to call conferences of the emergency agents and of the Nebraska county agents as soon as more complete information is available from the Washington corn-hog section.

Valuable experience in the wheat adjustment program has led the men in charge of the corn-hog plan to combine the application for a contract and the contract itself into one simple brief form which will be given to the farmers at the start of the educational program. More emphasis will be given on the importance of these community meetings where farmers can get together to learn the details of the corn-hog plan. Both corn and hog adjustment agreements will be signed up on one contract rather than on two as previously announced. The producer of both corn and hogs who signs contracts must sign up for both unless he raised less than four litters or grew less than 10 acres of corn in the years 1932 and 1933, which will be considered as the base years for both corn and hogs.

The farmers who sign contracts will form a corn-hog production control association in their county to administer the plan in a similar way to the wheat adjustment plan. This control association will arrange for the publication of names in the local press of those who sign up the corn-hog contracts. They will make a budget to cover other local expenses of the administration of the plan. The cost of administration is to come out of the 30 cents per bushel benefit payment on corn and the $5 per head benefit payment on hogs.

Several other details of the plan will be announced as quickly as the suggestions given the Washington men at Indianapolis, Kansas City, St. Paul, and Chicago are included in the tentative plan which is being discussed at the four regional meetings.

Have District Dinner.

Employees of the Peoples' Natural Gas company in Wayne district, numbering sixteen in all, had picnic dinner together at the Wayne office Monday evening. Emerson, Wakefield, Bancroft and Wayne were represented. A business meeting followed the dinner.

High Indorsement.

R. P. C. was empowered by the board to arrange with the San Francisco mint for the coinage of the tokens, which will bear the inscription "God for sales tax on a 5-cent purchase."—San Diego paper.

Restore Parity Is Object Of Program

The main object of the corn-hog adjustment plan will be to restore parity price on the two crops for farmers who sign the contracts to reduce their production. A. G. Black of the corn-hog section of agricultural adjustment administration in Washington says. He believes the goal can be reached by adjusting the supply of corn and pork to the present demand.

"The real task we face today," Dr. Black says, "is one of striking a new balance of supply and demand. When this new balance is finally struck, the disparity between farm prices and the prices of other things will disappear. Once the real trouble itself is removed, the symptoms of low prices will no longer exist."

By parity price on hogs, the economists mean a price per hundred which would make it possible for a farmer to buy about as many overalls, husking mittens, wagons, harness, radios, etc., with his hog crop as he did during the five years 1909 to 1914. All farmers would like to have that fair exchange value restored as it was before the war.

The corn-hog adjustment plan is the chance for corn belt farmers to cooperate with one another in reducing the supply to the present demand. No one farmer can afford to cut down his own operations while the others raise all the corn and hogs they possibly can raise, but if the majority of corn and hog producers stand with their neighbors in favor of trying to solve the knotty problem, it will be solved. Since the corn-hog combination produces the major cash income of corn belt farmers, the proposed corn-hog adjustment plan is likely to be the greatest cooperative undertaking farmers of any nation have ever considered.

National Education Week Is Observed In The Wayne School Last Week.

Leading roles in the operetta, "Peggy and the Pirate," which will be presented by Wayne high school some time in December, will be sung by Marian Becker and John Bruggar. In first year group, Waldo McIntyre had the only perfect paper, typing 20 words per minute.

Grammar Club Formed. Ten students of eighth grade have formed a grammar club and intend to make a more intensive study of grammar than remainder of the class.

On Friday morning, Raymond Sala came to seventh and eighth grades to give a talk in connection with National Education week, which he gave in high school assembly. Gerald Wright, Frances Sydow, Kenneth Dunklau, Twila Bergt and Giovanna Bennet read their themes also.

WILDCATS WIN IN HOME GAME

Wayne College Teachers College football team defeated Southern Normal from Springfield, S. D., here Friday evening in the last home game of the season, the score being 24 to 0. A new ball, which was slick, made fumbles frequent. Wayne outplayed the visitors throughout the game.

Manning made Wayne's first touchdown in the first quarter. Gast's try for the extra point failed. In the same quarter a pass, Dermitt to Manning, brought the ball to the yard marker and Gast took it over for a touchdown. Cast ran 28 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter. Wayne's last touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Dermitt went over the line after he and Borden had advanced the ball from the 45-yard line.

Competition In Chicago

Chicago: Every state and province on the North American continent where live stock production is important will send exhibits to the 1933 International Live Stock exposition which will be held at the Chicago Stock yards December 2 to 9.

Special train loads of pure bred beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine will be arriving here the last of this month from Canada, the eastern states, the southwest, and from the west as far as the Pacific slope states. They are coming to contest the international championships of the live stock show year which are decided each year at the Chicago exposition.

Thousands To Show. The huge outlay of amphitheatre, halls and show barns, that houses the international stock show will be filled to capacity with thousands of farm animals, the best that the country produces, says B. H. Heide, secretary-manager of the exposition.

Farm boys and girls will occupy the spot-light the opening days when prizes will be awarded in the contests of the National 4-H club congress and in live stock judging and exhibiting. The contestants are champions of the states from which they are coming and the winners at Chicago will be the national champions of the year.

Iceland Is Beauty Spot. From Russia, Mrs. Leonard's ship sailed to Iceland and anchored in lovely Reykjavik harbor. This little-known and much-misjudged land proved delightful.

Women of Iceland wear black skull caps, the tassel caught on one side by a slide, and have quaint laced bodices. Iceland has no army, no navy, no fortifications, no deficit, very little unemployment.

From Iceland Mrs. Leonard went to North Cape to see the midnight sun but fog obscured it. Norway, Denmark, Sweden, the Free City of Danzig, Russia, then Cherbourg, France, were next on the itinerary.

Visiting Missionary Finds Chinese People Very Friendly

"Japan is the coming power of the east—China is but a group of provinces absolutely lacking in any unity. But if China could be united, Japan would keep hands off for she'd be undefeatable."

Such is the opinion of Rev. Otto Hollenweger, who with Mrs. Hollenweger, is visiting in Wayne at the E. E. Young home. And Rev. Hollenweger knows his Chinese for he has lived amongst them the past twenty-five years.

Twenty-five years with but one furlough, isolated with a small group of white folks among 60,000 Chinese in inland Hunan province, tramping over the mountains, 20 and 30 fighting superstition, distrust, hatred of "foreigners"...

Use Ancient Methods. "Seldom are projects finished— a shift in government leaves a road or railroad or public building half built, and there it remains. For instance, twenty years ago work was started on a railroad line out of Peking, the rails being laid from both ends till all but 300 miles were completed. But the gap remained, and remains today, and many remain for scores of years to come. But if the money used for internal fighting could be spent on roads and railroads, China would have a fine system of transportation."

He talks interestingly, humorously of his Chinese home, does Rev. Hollenweger. His features are Germanic, with close-cropped hair and graying mustache, his face tanned to a deep brown by the marsh eastern climate.

Fighting Is Continuous.

"Since 1910, there has been fighting going on in some province of China all the time. The country has stood still because it is not really a country, merely a collection of provinces. Bolshevists are on hand and have gained much strength. The government has struggled against them, but when troops have been sent to suppress movements, the troops have usually gone over to the bolshevik side. Bandits make travel dangerous. For instance, when the mission worker returned to China eight years ago he was asked to accompany 120 boats laden with grain, to a famine district up river. He expected government protection but instead was forced to bargain with each bandit chief whose territory he entered. And one chief's territory began where the last's left off! By paying money to the chief, he and his boats would be permitted to go on unmolested. When the procession finally reached the famine country, two and one-half months had passed, and nobody wanted the grain because a new crop of rice had come on. So the natives took the grain and made whiskey out of it! What was usually a twenty-day trip had lengthened out into 75, and then was futile."

Around Hungkiang where the Hollenwegers are stationed, is a very mountainous section and the mission folks cover this ground on foot, walking from 20 to 30 miles in a day. They find flat Chinese shoes made with quilted cloth soles and black cloth tops, the most comfortable footwear for mountain use. This district served by the mission is about 120x120 miles square, and has between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 inhabitants (an accurate census being unknown in Chinahad).

Hungkiang with its 80,000 population, does a good shipping business, although the depression has been felt. Lumber is brought here by three rivers, a wood oil for lacquers is shipped out in great quantities, and opium is distributed all over the province from Hungkiang. Men, women and children are numbered among opium users, and the missionary says it is much more general than ever before. The government did make an honest effort to curb its use, sending out and gathering up all pipes and taking names of addicts with threat that if they had not broken themselves of the habit by a certain time, they would be prosecuted. But like all other laws, it was not enforced by the Chinese authorities.

Resources Untouched. "China would be a fruitful land with its vast resources, if it could have a strong central government," says the German worker. "A German engineer said there was enough coal in the province of Hunan to supply the entire world for many years, but it has never been mined, only a little taken from the surface. The reason? The old, old fear of a dragon who inhabits the earth. If they were to dig down he'd be disturbed and would bring disaster to the province. So the wealth of coal lies untouched, unwanted. "The foreigner's ability to go into a new country and detect coal, silver ore and oil without even digging below mystifies the Chinese, and they are convinced that these strangers have better eyesight than they do, and that they have the superhuman ability to see three feet down into the earth. "The Chinese also cling to the idea that foreigners catch their children to make medicine with and take people's hearts out. But they know we have good medicine—they come for it when ill. "If one can speak their language, he's as safe among Chinese as in America, unless running into robbers or bandits. Given enough to get a good rice crop, the Chinese are peace-loving and friendly. "In China we have the 450,000, 000 people without any central power to hold them together. An influential man with money, gathers up troops and weapons and establishes himself as king over his surrounding territory. And reign he does, with an iron hand, until he is suddenly and definitely dethroned by a knife or bullet. "The Chinese farmer moves along in the fashion which was good enough for his ancestors for centuries back. Instead of letting his cow do the work as in a more progressive country, your Chinese farmer follows the cow, taking the plow on his own back and carrying it through the flooded rice fields. Fields are flooded by irrigation or by rains, and lack of rainfall for a few months brings a famine and much misery. Any farmer's strikes then? No, the Chinese would never think of such a thing—they just hope for a crop next season.

The Chinese farmer moves along in the fashion which was good enough for his ancestors for centuries back. Fields are flooded by irrigation or by rains, and lack of rainfall for a few months brings a famine and much misery. Any farmer's strikes then? No, the Chinese would never think of such a thing—they just hope for a crop next season.

Use Ancient Methods. "Seldom are projects finished— a shift in government leaves a road or railroad or public building half built, and there it remains. For instance, twenty years ago work was started on a railroad line out of Peking, the rails being laid from both ends till all but 300 miles were completed. But the gap remained, and remains today, and many remain for scores of years to come. But if the money used for internal fighting could be spent on roads and railroads, China would have a fine system of transportation."

The methods of river control are antiquated too. The Yellow river has filled up rapidly and flooded the countryside, so the Chinese, instead of dredging it out, have built high dikes on each side, so that now the river is higher than the cities on its banks. A heavy rise means that the country will be flooded for miles around. "What of Japan? Well, the Hollenwegers came to America via a Japanese steamer last summer, and there met a Japanese politician who outlines the Japanese point of view in regard to Manchuria and China. "We Japanese stand alone in the world—every other nation is against us," he said. "We have to take things in our own hands—to go into China and protect ourselves."

"Japan seemingly has no idea of retreating from Manchuria, and China no doubt will be faced with more invasions. Japan is certain to dominate the east," says Rev. Hollenweger. Since the missionary couple visited Japan eight years ago, Japan has become wonderfully modernized, its cities resemble American cities. Large, modern steel factories are producing steel products for India, cheaper than the British manufacturers. Japan is so densely populated that sufficient food cannot be raised on the islands—she needs more territory and is taking it. And it must be admitted that as soon as the Japanese came into Manchuria, they cleaned it up and established order, such as the Chinese had never envisioned. And perhaps a strong domination by another government is the only thing which will make China into a great nation, in keeping with her size and population.

China would be a fruitful land with its vast resources, if it could have a strong central government," says the German worker. Citizens State Bank Will Be Liquidated Assets of the Citizens State bank are to be liquidated as rapidly as possible for benefit of depositors, according to O. H. Olson, receiver in charge, until arrangements for the receivership are completed. The bank was closed on October 18, 1932, and reorganization and liquidation have been pending on since that time, with stockholders hoping to re-open for unlimited business. New officers were elected and all plans made for the reorganization, whenever approval came from the state banking department. On November 8, E. H. Luikart, receiver for failed banks in the state, placed the institution in receivership. Jurgen Nielsen, Henry Tietje and Herman Westerhaus will continue to serve as the reorganization and depositors' committee.

He brought out that no nation had won the World war because we were all losers and were paying for our loss now, in this depression. He opposed over-arms, saying that this country should not fear foreign invasion, since every war we had fought, we had to go away to fight it. Rev. Simpson stated that he was not a pacifist in any sense, but did not believe in arming ourselves to the teeth, since the cause of all wars has been that one or more nations was ready to fight.

Anti-Sludge Motor Oil

10-W and 20-W

CAR MANUFACTURERS RECOMMEND NEW GRADES OF MOTOR OIL

After thorough study of common causes of difficulty in winter starting, motor car manufacturers have found, through investigations sponsored by the Society of Automotive Engineers, that most people use too heavy oil in winter, and that there is great variation in the starting characteristics of winter grade oils. They, therefore, recommend the use of two new grades for winter to be known as 10-W and 20-W, both of which are to have very definite viscosity specifications for starting at low temperatures.

They pour at sub-zero temperatures . . . Give easier starting . . . Yet could be used with perfect safety in mid-summer. Will not sludge. Now ready at all Standard Stations

Get set for the easiest starting winter you've ever experienced. At all Standard Stations you'll now find two new winter grades of Iso-Vis "D" Anti-Sludge Motor Oil—10-W and 20-W. These new grades not only meet the latest recommendations of car manufacturers for winter motor oils, but 20-W pours at 5° below zero, and 10-W pours at 20° below zero. At those temperatures these oils let your motor turn over easily—give positive lubrication instantly. And you don't need to worry about these oils thinning out dangerously under the heat of driving. They are so little affected by high temperatures that they could be used with perfect safety in your motor on the hottest summer day, though they would give somewhat higher consumption in hot weather. Because these new oils do not sludge you will get just as quick, positive circulation of lubricant in your motor at the end of 1000 miles as when you first put them in your crankcase.

Dust Storm Here Is Worst Known

The dust storm of Sunday was the worst ever experienced here, according to early seers. Wind blew a terrific pace steadily all day and the air was filled with fine silt. Houses and other buildings had to be cleaned Monday as the dust sifted in badly. This fine silt is said to be worth many dollars in value in enriching farm lands. The wind did some damage. Two large plate glass windows were broken Sunday, one in the Francis building and one in the Whitney hardware here. Dead limbs were broken from trees, and corn stalks were hurled through the air all day. Some corn not yet picked was blown down. The wind took a fence down on the John Owens farm. Many telephone poles were blown down and telephone wires were twisted considerably, hampering service Monday. The wind quieted Sunday night and the air was clear Monday.

November 22 and 23. Here's one of the smartest comedies that ever turned a preview audience into a gale of mirth. "Goodbye Again" stars Joan Blondell, Genevieve Tobin, Warren William, Wallace Ford, Helen Chandler and Ruth Donnelly. The film is running its 27th week on Broadway in New York and still going strong.

This comedy is a welcome change from the ordinary comedy. Refreshingly different in plot, and sailing along saucily under a strong breeze of smart dialogue, the picture is a laugh-tonic for young and old alike.

Just imagine a show so big it needs a star in every part. That's "Goodbye Again."

Transferred to Alma. Merrick McConnell who was here a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McConnell, following his work as C. C. Foreman at Camp Byron near Fremont, was called to Alma last Thursday to be foreman of erosion work at Camp Harlow. He left that day and is now in charge of the work.

Maytag Announces a New Washer. In announcing a new and improved aluminum washer, the Maytag Company of Newton, Ia., evidences firm belief in the public swing back to quality merchandise. For this new washer is the finest washer the Maytag Company ever built. And it is offered at no increase in price.

Fundamentally, this new washer is the same as the aluminum washer upon which the company built its enviable reputation. The square tub with its cone-shaped bottom and non-splash top, the hinged lid, the Gyrafoam action, the Roller Water Remover, the adjustable legs and other characteristic features are still apparent. The Roller Water Remover, however, has been improved by the addition of two tension springs, giving four point equalizing tension for the self-adjusting wringer.

The new Mono-Form base improves the appearance of the washer, forms a sturdy brace for the legs and facilitates replacing the electric motor with the gasoline multi-motor when desired. The self-adjusting legs are equipped with large, easy rolling rubber castors, one of which has a brake lock. All electric powered Maytag washers are now available with electric pump for emptying the tub. n611ad.

Carroll State Bank of Carroll 16,653.88
Citizens State Bank of Winslow 7,026.71
The sum of $676.00 is hereby appropriated from the County General Fund to the Jury Fund.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund the sum of 42c to the said Caroline Voget.
The following claims are on motion audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown. Warrants to be available and ready for delivery on Saturday, November 18, 1933.
