POSSIBILITY FOR USE OF RUNNING WATERS OF STATE

FORMER Governor A. J. Weaver who was here from Falls City Monday to address the Kiwanis club, sees realization of his effort to make the Missouri river navigable, thus reducing cost of moving products to the seaboard.

His plan, part of which is the building of a huge dam at Fort Peck in Montana, will regulate the flow of water and prevent land erosion and farm losses. Mr. Weaver's successful leadership for greater utilization of the Missouri river reminds us of the possible economy and convenience in supplying electricity to every farm and town home by harnessing the waters of streams now going to waste. The government's interest in turning the Platte to larger advantage may be the forerunner of other federal movements to develop electricity and furnish irrigation wherever needed. After the first cost, the expense would be comparatively light. All possible use of the state's waterways may be remote, but, under government enterprise, not impractical.

March has scheduled for the Gay theatre in Wayne for the coming week. And each one is truly a feature. "I've Got Your Number," March 15, 16 and 17. Six of Hollywood's ace comedians are in the jollicking comedy drama, "I've Got Your Number." The list is headed by vivacious Joan Blondell, who kept audiences roaring in "Convention City," "Footlight Parade" and others. Playing with her are Glenda Farrell, Pat O'Brien, Allen Jenkins, Hobart Cavanaugh and Eugene Palette. The play is not all comedy. It also combines romance with melodramatic thrills, winding up with a smashing climax with a hand to hand battle between a band of crooks and the telephone trouble men. Daily events incident to the operation of the nation's gigantic telephone system furnish the theme. "Bolero," March 18, 19 and 20. Starring George Raft, Carole Lombard, and Sally Rand, "Bolero" is the picture many have been talking about. He rose to fame on a ladder of women whose only rewards were first a thrill and then a heartbreak. Romance throbs in "Bolero." "Dark Hazard," March 21, 22 and 23. The famous book of the month becomes the picture of the year. "Dark Hazard," tells of Edward G. Robinson in the stellar role, shows dog racing on the screen as the background for a most unusually dramatic picture. Theme of the story deals with a man's mad passion for gambling, which costs him love and home, Robinson, as the inveterate but well meaning gambler, will bet on any kind of game but his chief weakness is greyhound racing. The exciting races in the film were taken on the popular Compton race tracks near Los Angeles. It has a wonderful plot and it's different. Don't miss it.

Two Ways To SHORTENING hours and raising wages and thus necessarily increasing retail costs mean that farm buying power must be correspondingly strengthened to create needed parity and promote general prosperity.

In connection with experiments to drive off the depression, Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to the secretary of agriculture, is quoted by the Nebraska Farmer as pointing out steps taken to regulate production and provide employment, as follows:

(1) A temporary reduction of excessive output of agricultural products; (2) a removal of the restrictions on international trade; and (3) correction of the internal restrictions, especially the disparity between prices of different products and between debts and fixed prices.

Then he observed that, "Of the three steps, we have made real progress in only one—that of providing for reduction of excessive output of agricultural products. In foreign trade we have made little or no material progress, and in removing price disparities, it looked in the beginning as if we were going to make progress, but we have lost in the past 6 months much of that correction."

He says further, "There are two possible philosophies of recovery. One is to have a large volume of employment at moderate rates per hour and to produce a large volume of industrial goods at a low cost per unit. The other is to have a small volume of employment at high rates per hour and a small volume of output, with consequent high overhead costs, and correspondingly high profit margins per unit. Actions to date seem to be mostly following the second procedure. The effect is to maintain or intensify the price disparities which have held down business activity rather than to help correct them; and to increase the real income of workers only to a slight extent."

Child Labor

THE Omaha Journal-Stockman makes clear that in the proposed amendment to the constitution there is no intention to rob children of their right to useful, character-building employment as a part of the plan to stop the abuse of child labor. The Journal-Stockman quotes from the Kansas Farmer: "No one wants to prohibit all work of children under 18 years. No state has ever done such a thing or ever will. No president will approve such an act. To think that the 531 members of the house and senate with children of their own, or having close ties of kinship with young America, would enact sweeping legislation depriving the nation's childhood of the wholesome, character-forming tasks that fall to it in the home and on the home farm, is sheer nonsense.

"The proposed amendment is not a law. It is an enabling act that with the consent of three-quarters of the 48 states, would give congress power to do permanently what the NRA codes under President Roosevelt have done temporarily to emancipate a horde of sweated little slaves from exploitation in shops, mills and factories. "On its practical side, displacing the labor of these children with that of mature

Higiene Service Offered Students

Mouth hygiene branch of the national and state dental societies have been asked by the United States Health service to make a complete survey of all the grade school children in the United States. Dentists throughout the country are cooperating with the government and are offering this service free. They ask the cooperation of teachers and city superin-

wage-earners at better wages, is not only a final step out of the dark ages of the past; it means more buying and consuming power for the nation. It brings nearer live-and-let-live prices for farm products."

The Journal-Stockman concludes with this comment: "In other words, child labor, in the meaning of the amendment, is sweat-shop labor, long hours at small pay, with no chance for either recreation or education, youth's inalienable inheritances. It is conceivable that in the past there have been homes in this country where conditions came within that meaning, but few if any of them exist today."

William F. Porter who is circulating over the state as a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, is an old-timer in Nebraska politics. He represented Merrick county in the legislature in 1891 and 1893, and later served two terms as secretary of state. His political star shone strongest at the time of the former major depression, during which the populist party took root and gained considerable ascendancy. He was author of Nebraska's first Australian ballot law. With some of the important reforms advocated by the populists long since adopted and made the established laws of the land, and with other reforms knocking for attention, Mr. Porter doubtless thinks it is time for him to come back and lend a hand to the reconstruction business.

It is to the credit of the president that he is able to change his mind and correct errors. His quick decisions to take a step would invite dangers if he were not just as ready and disposed to alter his position as mistakes were revealed. Cancelling air mail contracts and turning the task over to poorly equipped army planes constituted a serious blunder, the which, however, the president is now making haste to rectify. In connection with cancellation, the public should know the extent of the ground for the action and the identity of the person or persons who advised the president. The perils of flying the mails and the facilities and experience required to do so should have been known to advisers.

The billions of federal money poured into recovery plans should and have made headway in improving markets and trade, and it is hoped the different stimulants administered during the past year will furnish sufficient momentum to absorb unemployment by private industries and send the country on the way to permanently better times. The government cannot keep up its high spending fever forever, and the sooner natural laws of supply and demand are made to function normally, the sooner will the country be back to a sound foundation and be able to reconstruct its economic fabric without danger of relapse.

Eighteen thousand Nebraska families will be made the recipients of garden seeds—gift of the federal government. It is proposed that each family plant two lots, each 50 by 140 feet, and raise enough vegetables to furnish supplies during the summer and next winter. The plan is expected to diminish later expenditures by federal relief agencies.

Depressions cause more persons to look in the direction of office holding, and accordingly there promise to be more candidates for public places than usual. Although the nominating primaries do not come until in August, filings are already being made, and there are indications of a plentiful supply of candidates for all offices.

All may well wish for the return of times when initiative will be encouraged, when the disposition to work and save will be suitably rewarded, and when there will be fewer government bureaus to supervise private affairs and fewer government employees to enforce new rules.

If a public movement happens to be needed, it seems poor economy to disregard machines and restrict construction to hand labor.

Perhaps the reason a fellow forgets more as he grows older is because as he grows older he has more to forget.

tenders in order that this may be a complete record of the mouth conditions of all school children. The work will commence in Wayne Monday, March 19, with Dr. T. B. Heckert of Wayne, and Dr. R. E. Gornley of Winside, in charge for Wayne county.

Make New Rulings In Corn-Hog Plan

Several new statements and rulings from the corn-hog section at Washington help clear up problems for certain individuals wanting to sign corn-hog contracts either as tenants, owners, operators or landlords, states G. H. Liggett. Brief statements covering different cases follow:

Landlords who sign corn-hog reduction contracts agree not to buy more feeder pigs in 1934 than the average number they bought in 1932-33.

Men who buy and sell hogs and mix them with ones they farrow on their own farms will have to show satisfactory proof of what happened to their own farrowings. In cases of death losses which cannot be definitely accounted for, the man must figure that pigs which he farrowed himself were the ones that died and that the feeder pigs he bought were the ones that he sent to market.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW.

The fact that mothers-in-law have been receiving special and favorable consideration in a southern city gives emphasis to their useful places in the world. The fact that an occasional mother-in-law tries to boss the household of her son or daughter to the near discomfiture of the other half of the partnership only proves the exception to the rule of sympathetic and unselfish devotion. Every mother-in-law is a mother, and whatever consideration she deserves as a mother, she deserves as a mother-in-law, because of the close ties of relationship. And kindly disposed team work is needed to bind family members together for mutual help. Like the mother, the mother-in-law is usually anxious to make every personal sacrifice to relieve the burdens of those chosen by descendants as life partners, and reciprocity that is looking for the good instead of the bad, makes a strong and happy combination. The mother-in-law joke has long been passe and uninteresting. It never was a source of agreeable humor. The sting it contained stung mother sentiment—trifled with the richest love in the world. Mothers-in-law are usually high-minded and eminently well intentioned, and the trend to recognize and appreciate their heart interest in family circles denotes progress in civilizing influences.

DUE TO THE WAR.

To the World war most of the evils that have since beset society may be safely attributed. Far from making the World safe for democracy, the war was followed by a breaking down of individualistic expression in most of the principal countries of Europe. The economic order was everywhere badly disrupted. Dismayed and helpless peoples were forced to yield to dictatorships. Specious hopes demolished former liberties and led the way into virtual slavery. Want and misery have stalked while iron rule mingled promise with ruthless force. Multiplicity of crime may be charged to the ugly disregard of fellow-rights following in the wake of the war. Communism which trailed the world conflagration is now seeking to fasten its tentacles into the American public. It is now reported that communistic leaders are promoting student demonstrations on April 6, and while the movement is ostensibly for peace, it is pointed out as a bold incongruity by reason of the fact that the soviet government has one of the largest armies in the world. The fact that communists are against preparedness in this country is sufficient argument to support adequate means of defense to insure peace. The World war bequeathed a terrible tangle of disorders, and time and courage are required to straighten out the bad mess.

NEW ERA SEEN BY EX-GOVERNOR

Missouri River Project To Bring Prosperity To The Middlewest.

That the Missouri river will be the most useful in the world, and Missouri river valley area one of the richest sections of the globe is the prophecy of ex-Governor A. J. Weaver, president of the Missouri River Navigation association the past eight years, who was in Wayne last Monday.

"This association, and other business and farm interests are asking regional equality in the inland water policy of the United States," said Mr. Weaver. "The government has improved all our sea coast harbors and practically all the great rivers, and is now completing this inland waterway system through intensive work on the upper Mississippi and middle Missouri."

"The Missouri river, in which we here are particularly interested, has a completed six-foot channel at low water from St. Louis to Kansas City, Mo., and final contracts were let last fall for completion to St. Joseph. Work is going on in many counties between St. Joseph and Omaha, and also in the Sioux City area. With continuing allotments as expected, the navigable channel will probably be completed to Omaha by spring of 1938 or before, and to Sioux City a year later. This river, when completed, and especially when fortified by the giant Fort Peck reservoir in eastern Montana, will hold back the floods and conserve the water for channel use in the later summer and fall, and insure a nine-foot low-water channel. This means a great, useful river serving one of the richest sections of the country."

"A channel of this character will insure the assemblage of cheap raw materials and fuel for manufacture. But, to realize on the potential wealth of this region, we must place industry by the side of our agriculture. This is impossible now, for we must pay the freight both ways, and with such a long, expensive haul and high freight rates, our development has been seriously retarded.

"When we consider that practically every shoe factory has been driven out of the Missouri valley and that there are only 12 canning factories remaining out of 68 in Iowa and Nebraska, we can understand the need of cheaper transportation for an area which produces so many hides and can grow to perfection many staple vegetables and fruits.

"When we consider that the middle-western agricultural states lost 16 congressmen under the last census, and that the waterway status gained more than that, we can understand our isolation and the effects of the Panama Canal. Before the completion of the canal, many factories flourished in this region, for they could trade on an equitable basis with the Pacific coast, go a long ways east and cover the country from Canada to the gulf. This is no longer possible since shift of trade from the interior to the ocean, to the lakes and the gulf, because of the short route of the Panama canal. Briefly stated, it costs us as much to ship to either coast, as its costs to ship from one coast to the other. In asking for early completion of the river work from Sioux City to Yankton, S. D., we are asking no more than the government provided for every other section of the United States. We have contributed our share to waterways improvements elsewhere, including the Panama canal, and the only way we can secure any return on our investment or have regional transportation equality is to be given an outlet to these other waterways, and to a wider trade territory.

Under rulings of the interstate commerce commission and under joint river and railway rates, every inland city and community will make the same savings as river points. Otherwise this improvement would not be justified. With the improvement of the Missouri river to Yankton, completion of Fort Peck reservoir and general development of water resources of the Missouri river valley under the bill sponsored by our able senator, George W. Norris, the Missouri valley states may look forward to a new agricultural and industrial era.

"The development contemplated by Senator Norris, based on sound and fundamental principle that every natural reservoir site should be used for control of floods, irrigation, restoration of ground water levels for propagation and protection of wild life, domestic and live stock water supply, prevention of soil erosion, etc., will prove to be the most constructive thing the senator has undertaken in his long and useful career. This program, under leadership of President Roosevelt, should speedily come to completion as the president is thoroughly acquainted with our isolation and our needs. There is no doubt that that great benefits will come from such a program. We have only 26 persons to the square mile in the Missouri valley, and when we make it possible through this program to not only again secure, but to maintain industry in this region, population and payrolls will come for the benefit of all business, including the railroads. "It should be apparent to all that the railroads can't be any more prosperous than the communities they serve. Furthermore, interstate commerce commission reports that railroads which have connection with waterways are more prosperous and have the lowest rates. "I take real satisfaction that when I was governor of Nebraska, I helped secure appropriations of $25,000 for a survey of the state water resources, and that attached as exhibit "A" in the Platte and Loup power and irrigation project application is the printed report of the work of the engineers, as the result of that appropriation."

Auto Accidents Take Great Toll

Record of Fatalities for Year Shows Steady Increase of Car Mishaps.

Above, at the left, is Gov. Charles W. Bryan, acting from Jean R. Kinder, past department commander, American Legion of Lincoln, chairmanship of the honorarium committee that will head the American Legion's statewide observance of Arbor day. Mr. Kinder is general chairman of the ac-

190,000 fatalities, or a total for the decade of about 315,000 killed, and approximately ten million persons injured. Thus in the ten-year period it is pointed out that the number of people killed by automobiles would exceed America's record of soldiers killed during all the history of this country, and would surpass the fatal battle casualties of the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War more than six times. The number of persons injured non-fatally from automobile accidents during the present decade would exceed by more than fifty times the A. E. F.'s record of soldiers wounded non-fatally in action.

The serious effect which increasing rates of speed are having upon the trend of deaths from automobile accidents is shown in a study analyzing last year's experience on the basis of the location of mishaps. The rate of death per accident involving excessive speed was 28 per cent greater than the average; operating on the wrong side of the road, 6 per cent greater; passing standing street cars, nearly 2 per cent greater; going off roadways, 58 per cent greater; and reckless driving, nearly 37 per cent greater than the average.

The analysis of accidents of pedestrians involved in actions of pedestrians shows that in many instances pedestrians took their own lives in their hands. More than 800 were killed in crossing intersections diagonally. More than 3,300 pedestrians took their own lives crossing streets between intersections against signals, and 360 met death crossing intersections and 1,460 met death darting out into streets from behind parked cars, while 2,250 were killed while walking along rural highways. The figures show also that 1,680 children were killed while playing in the street.

The experience of pedestrians shows that the rate of death per automobile-pedestrian accident was 28 per cent better at intersections than between intersections and 25 per cent better in crossing intersections with the signal than against the signal. The most dangerous thing that a pedestrian can do is to walk on a country highway, as the rate of death per pedestrian accident on highways is nearly 360 per cent worse than the average death rate for all automobile pedestrian collisions combined.

Of the total of 29,900 persons killed in automobile accidents last year, the statistics developed show 1,630 deaths of children under the age of four, and 3,220 deaths under the age of fourteen. More than 41,000 children under the age of four were injured and nearly 130,000 under the age of fourteen. Under the age of four the rate of death per injury last year was 12 per cent greater than the average for all ages combined and in the ages of 65 years and over it was 280 per cent worse.

In Ten Year Period. In the ten-year period ending 1933 the number of persons killed in automobile accidents, exclusive of motorcycle mishaps, has totaled 278,112, of which toll nearly 125,000 have been killed in the last four years. On the basis of this four-year record it is estimated that in the remainder of the present decade there will be nearly

Recipes

Roast Stuffed Cured Shoulder.

Have a cured pork shoulder skinned and boned. Wash the shoulder and soak it overnight in cold water. On removing the piece from the water wipe it dry. Lay the shoulder fat side down, pile in saw the end of the shoulder, together to form a pocket, and gradually work in the rest of the stuffing. Lay the stuffed shoulder, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan without water. Roast the meat at very moderate heat (325° F.) until it is tender when pierced with a skewer or a fork. A 4 to 5 pound picnic shoulder will require about 3 1/2 hours to cook at this oven temperature; a 9 to 10 pound long-out shoulder will need from 4 1/2 to 5 hours.

Ham with Noodles.

3 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
2 cups cooked noodles
3 cups ground ham
Salt
Pepper
1 cup bread crumbs
Make a white sauce of the fat, flour and milk, and add about one-half teaspoon of salt, depending on the saltiness of the ham. Make alternate layers of noodles and ham in a shallow baking dish, pour on the white sauce, sprinkle crumbs over the top, and bake about 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375° F.).

Creamed Ham.

3 tablespoons fat
4 1/2 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
3 cups ground cooked ham
Salt
Pepper
Make a white sauce of the fat, flour and milk. Add the ham, stir, and cook the mixture about 10 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper.
Serve hot on toast, with waffles or in a rice ring.

Ham and Potato Cakes.

3 cups ground cooked ham
3 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
Salt
Pepper
Mix the ham, mashed potatoes, and season to taste with salt. Mold into flat cakes, flour them lightly, and fry in hot bacon drippings or other fat until brown.

Quick Potato Soup.

1 cup grated raw potato
6 cups milk, whole or skimmed
2 slices of onion
1 tablespoon butter
Salt or celery salt
Mix the ingredients, stir and bring quickly to the boiling point, cooking until the liquid thickens, and the potato is tender, with no starchy flavor. Remove the onion and add the salt and fat.
A little very finely chopped parsley may be used for additional flavor.

French Fried Onions.

6 or 8 medium sized onions
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 egg
1-4 teaspoon salt
Cooking fat
Skin the onions, slice very thin, separate into rings, dip into a batter made from the flour, milk, egg and salt, and drain well. Have ready a kettle of fat hot enough to brown a small piece of bread in 60 seconds. Put the onions in a wire basket, lower into the hot fat, fry until the onions are golden brown, remove, drain on absorbent paper, sprinkle with salt, and keep hot until served. Onions fried in this way will generally keep crisp for several days, or may be reheated in the same way as potato chips.

2 TIRES FOR THE PRICE OF 1

For the Standard List Price of one first line, 6 ply tire (used by most of the large rubber companies), we will give you two, first line, 6 ply Pharis Tires.

However, we do not mean that we will give two, first line, 6 ply tires for the Pharis list price of one, nor for our own list price of one. We are merely using this illustration as a guide to show what you actually pay for these tires.

The Pharis factory places a seal on every first line Pharis tire, certifying that it is their first line tire.

HERE'S WHERE THE DIFFERENCE IN TIRE COSTS COMES IN:

First: In the Pharis Line, you do not pay for national magazine advertising, as Gamble's know of no advertising planned for 1934, except in trade magazines to dealers.

Second: Sometimes the only selling expense of 50,000 tires is a letter or a telephone call to the factory.

Third: The tires go mostly to the territory where they are needed, without going to jobbing centers and then being re-distributed. Thus, savings on transportation are made.

Fourth: Gamble's sell for cash, so you do not help pay for tires others cannot pay for.

Fifth: Gamble's do not have elaborate service stations.

Isn't it easy to see, with all these savings, that Gamble's can sell first line tires at a big saving, without taking it out of the quality? Gamble's honestly believe that they are giving you more mileage per dollar in this first line tire, than any other rubber company gives in theirs.

A Profitable Investment

EVENTS of the last few years have caused many people to ponder the insecurity and uncertainty of the average types of financial investments. This may lead to a more spiritual concept of substance, besting a careful consideration, discloses the fact that materiality in any form is unsubstantial, insecure, and uncertain...

To invest means, among other things, to confer, to endow, to vest (in). One of the definitions of "vest" is, "To put in possession so as to give an immediate fixed right of present or future enjoyment." How descriptive is this definition of the result which one obtains who turns to God, Spirit, for guidance, protection, supply, and peace! Reliance upon God bears immediate fruitage, for it adds to the relative worth "an immediate fixed right" to enjoy the blessings from God's power. This reliance is not too transcendental in its adaptation or realization at this present and in all time. Centuries ago Christ Jesus, the parable to illustrate the value of the kingdom of heaven. He told of a man who found a "pearl of great price." Note, that while it was a pearl of great value, a "great price" was required to purchase it. So highly did he value the pearl, and so much did he desire to possess it, that he "sold all that he had, and bought it." At another time Jesus said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Surely there could be no more profitable investment than the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and no greater profit could be obtained from an investment, for the promise is that not part of, but "all these things shall be added unto you."

By his words and works Christ Jesus, the Way-shower for mankind, revealed that it is always practical to seek first and always to do the will of the Father. His life and words reveal that such a simple trust in God is the only really profitable investment and is entirely practical in human experience. No one, before or after Jesus' time, has ever shown forth, as did he, the wealth and profit which such an investment produces. His spirituality derived from God, Spirit, was sufficient to meet all human needs, even to raising the dead, stilling the tempest, walking on the water; and we may conclude that his own human need was provided for as well, without lack or limitation. His was the seamless garment of high price, those who seek sufficient money to meet the financial needs, such as paying taxes and contributing to the poor; and he was not at a loss to know what to do with the multitudes in the desert places. So practical was his faith and trust in God that he was able to feed all and leave a surplus.

Nor was the proof of God's ample reward confined to Christ Jesus or his time. Notable among those whose faith and trust in God was abundantly rewarded is Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. Like the great Master, she not only was endowed with pure spiritual understanding, but was able to demonstrate in practical manner that her faith in God was well rewarded in freedom from lack and limitation. She proved that pure spirituality cannot be denied. As the student in Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy has given the rules which enable others to invest their all with God and receive surely and abundantly the good which He has prepared for all His children.

As the understanding of God, good, unfolds in human consciousness, the student of Christian Science, the student finds that this correct knowledge of God brings healing from disease, deformity, discomfort, and fear. It comforts the sorrowing, binds up the broken-hearted, and encourages the weary ones. Like the man who found the "pearl of great price" and sold all that he had in order to obtain it, the student of Christian Science finds it advisable and necessary to dispose of false material concepts as soon as possible and strive to gain the true spirituality, the consciousness of God's presence, power, and Science. "Seeking is not sufficient whereby to arrive at the results of Science: you must strive; and the glory of the strife comes of honesty and humility," writes Mrs. Eddy in "Miscellaneous Writings, p. 341. In the transitional state of consciousness these words on the same page are encouraging: "Do human hopes deceive? Is joy a trembler? Then, weary pilgrim, unloose the latchet of the sandals; for he who has no sandals, how can he stand? By that, you may know you are parting with a material sense of life and happiness to win the spiritual sense of good. O learn to lose with God; and you and Life eternal: you gain all."

Thinking Rightly About Business

MUCH thought is given to the question of business. For most people, supply seems to be dependent upon the state of business. If it is good, supply appears to be adequate; and this condition is thought to be an influence in helping the individual to live happily and to have good health. Seeing, then, that the state of one's business is believed to greatly contribute to the sense of harmony, we should see the necessity of looking at this question from the right standpoint.

Some individuals look at this subject more hopefully than do some others. Many people are beginning to see that to take the stand that business is bad, and that it is going to get worse, is certainly the wrong way to think about it. Many have stopped using the word "depression," feeling that the continual use of it has a bad effect upon the general outlook. Business is primarily mental. In fact, all human experience is the outward expression of a state of consciousness. Christian Science reveals God, infinite good, as the only Mind. If the individual accepts this fact, he can learn how to reject all wrong thoughts. The acceptance of God, infinite good, as the only Mind opens his thought to receive the good and perfect ideas which come from God, divine Mind. The only real business is the activity which comes from God. The one infinite, spiritual creation is always expressing the perfect activity which comes from the creator. Wonderfully uplifting is the realization of the truth set forth in this statement by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the source of all movement, and there is no inertia to retard or check its perpetual and harmonious action" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 231). For several years the world has been accepting the general belief that something has interfered with harmonious activity; and both time and effort have been expended in trying to ascertain what is the trouble. One who accepts the fact that omnipotent Mind "is the source of all movement," can never believe in depression as a real thing. On the other hand, the true idea of activity, one can refuse to accept the belief that any mortal supposition has interfered, or ever can interfere, with harmonious activity. A business man might be told, by several of his salesmen, that they found sales very poor, and he might learn that someone in a similar line of business had failed. He might feel anxiety and fear enter his thought. This, of course, would be a hindrance. On the other hand, if he refused to accept wrong thoughts about business and held to the fact that real activity comes from divine Mind, and is always perfect, his affairs would improve; and to this extent his words help to improve conditions in general. Since harmonious activity comes from God, divine Mind, and the real man, the true selfhood of all, is the image and likeness of divine Mind, the real man's business is always good, and spiritual man is ever rejoicing in harmonious activity. The great Way-shower, Christ Jesus, recognized that spiritual man ever reflects God, for he said, "The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he sees the Father do; for what things ever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise." One who accepts the true idea of activity is able to rise above the beliefs of fatigue, monotony, and worry; for the realization of the fact that the real man is divine Mind gives joyous strength, freedom, and expectancy of good. Since business is in reality the activity which comes from God, divine Principle, fear, dishonesty, greed, selfishness and the realization of the fact that man is a failure are for what things never he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise. Farmers Take Land Out Of Cultivation
Most Nebraska corn-hog contract signers will take their poorer land out of production as contracted acres, according to reports coming in to state corn-hog administration offices at Lincoln. These farmers probably have several things in mind in making this choice, says C. H. Liggett.

Many men realize that it takes very little if any more work to farm good land than poorer land on the farm. Since the cost per acre is about the same, the most profit is made from high yields of crops.

In times of low prices the least loss is suffered on good land.

Many farmers also take pride in their farms and try to build up and maintain the fertility of all their soil. Hauling manure to the farthest corner of the place takes more time than spreading it on fields near the barn. If they can take the contracted acres out of land away from the buildings and then seed the land down to legumes or grass, they will be keeping the fertility of all their fields more nearly uniform.

Every man who plants corn takes two risks, one of getting a yield and the other of getting a paying price for the crop. Chances of getting a good yield on good land are better than on poorer land. On the contracted acres, the yield is set by the appraisal and the allotment committees. The farmer knows what it is before he accepts the corn-hog contract. He also knows that he will get 30c per bushel for the definite amount of corn fixed in the contract. There will be a small deduction for county costs of administration of the corn-hog plan but that cost should amount to less than a cent a bushel in most counties. In other words, the farmer who takes off contracted acres on his poorer land will be taking a definite payment on that land and running his crop and price risks on good land where he has a better chance to get a profit.

Bess Streeter Aldrich is Chief of Nebraska Yeomanettes

Ted Metcalfe Makes Announcement of New Nebraska Women's Boosting Organization, Dedicated to Pioneer Women of the State

Because of the general demand voiced by wives and sisters of Admirals, the Great Navy of the State of Nebraska, of which former Lieutenant-Governor Theodore W. Metcalfe is Chief Admiral, is to have an auxiliary organization among the women of this state to be known as Nebraska Yeomanettes.

BESS STREETER ALDRICH

"There is real work to be done in Nebraska," says Chief Admiral Metcalfe, "and we realize that the Great Navy, if it is to succeed in its efforts, must have the co-operation and help of the splendid women of our state who are doing so much toward the building of a greater Nebraska. The Nebraska Yeomanettes will be dedicated in service to the pioneer women of the state, and we expect to have as fine an organization among the Yeomanettes as we now have among the men as Admirals."

Bess Streeter Aldrich of Elmwood, Nebraska author whose "Miss Bishop," "A White Bird Flying," "A Lantern in Her Hand," along with other novels and stories, have brought her world-wide renown, has accepted the position of Chief Yeomanette of the new organization. Mrs. Aldrich's first story won a prize from the Ladies' Home Journal in 1911. Speaking of her books, she said: "I have four children and my study, which is within 'smelling distance' of the kitchen, is always open to the children. I have to listen to high school and primary school worries, and at the same time do my work." Mrs. Aldrich was a lawyer and banker at Elmwood at the time of his death eight years ago.

Certificates for Nebraska Yeomanettes are an attractive work of art. Appointment as Yeomanette is made by Chief Admiral Metcalfe in recognition of their loyalty and service to their community and state and in appreciation of their abilities and desire to render further service. Yeomanettes are called to diligently and sincerely enter into every worthy activity and cause for the betterment of Nebraska and their own local community, and they are assured of the active support of every Admiral in the state. All certificates, suitable for framing, bear the signatures of Bess Streeter Aldrich as Chief Yeomanette and Ted Metcalfe as Chief Admiral.

Second graders are continuing their study of Holland. Miss Ruth Ross read them the story of "The Leak in the Dyke" and this was dramatized on the sand table.

Harold Kohrt brought cake and apples to first graders Thursday, this being his sixth birthday anniversary. Mrs. Ernest Kohrt came to visit the room. In the two weeks' milk-drinking contest, boys were victors. First graders received a letter from Gene Root of Scholes, thanking them for Valentines. His mother wrote a note, saying Gene had been promoted to second grade.

Kindergartners' house is completed with paper outer walls and orange decorations. They are starting work on a stove and table for the house.

In spelling test over all words learned in third grade this year, Dorothy Jean Casper, Betty Meister, Robert Wright and Merton Anderson received 100 percent Friday.

National Defense Is Address Topic

Mrs. O. W. Hahn Is Speaker At Opening Session State Convention Here.

"National Defense" was the subject of the address given by Mrs. O. W. Hahn, Wayne, at Wednesday evening's state D. A. R. conference at Wayne college. Mrs. Hahn is vice president of the national Legion Auxiliary.

"We are lovers of peace," Mrs. Hahn stated. "An adequate army and navy do not mean preparing for war. Preparedness is regarded a means of keeping out of war. This country is far below others in defense."

Mrs. Hahn also warned against communistic propaganda, which is even being advocated by many teachers. This tendency should be suppressed to prevent growth of a terrible enemy within the country.

National and state officers were introduced. Music was by the college symphonic band, college quartet and Miss Jeanne Wright. Mrs. Clyde Oman led singing, and Rev. F. A. Davies offered prayer.

Welcomes were given by Mrs. C. A. Orr, Dr. U. S. Conn, Mrs. R. L. Larson, W. R. Hickman, Dr. J. C. Johnson and Henry Ley.

Air mail service was returned to private companies. President Roosevelt stated that loss of 10 men motivated the discontinuance of army fliers.

National Figure Speaks On Radio

Instrumental and Vocal Numbers Provide Music For Broadcasts.

Mrs. Russell Magna, D. A. R. president general, addressed the Wayne Herald radio audience on Thursday morning last week when she was here for the state convention. "Our society is non-partisan and non-political, it is essentially patriotic," Mrs. Magna began. "We must have progressive growth to reach a higher plane. We believe in adequate preparedness to protect the government from within and from without—adequate to assure peace. American citizenship should be awakened to defend this country against all destructive forces. Yesterday is history. Let us place faith in God and in American homes to inspire citizenship to promote the welfare of the future. This demands common sense and loyalty. Let us live for America and be true to its traditions," Mrs. Magna urged in closing. "Franklin D. Roosevelt played 'America' on the piano before Mrs. Magna was introduced by E. W. Huse, and he played 'Star Spangled Banner' at conclusion of her talk.

Mrs. Ernest Kohrt played accordion selections for the Friday program. Deloise Mattingly sang cowboy selections, playing his own guitar accompaniment.

Miss Marie Sund sang popular numbers for the Saturday broadcast.

Visiting Regent Is Warm in Praise of Wayne Hospitality

"This has been an outstanding convention and much of the credit for its success belongs to the Wayne D. A. R.'s and their town-people who have shown such wonderful hospitality," said Mrs. Horace Jackson Cary of Kearney, state regent and presiding officer at the D. A. R. convention here last week.

"We were especially fortunate in having national officers present, Mrs. Russell William Magna, Mrs. William Pouch, also Mrs. C. S. Paine of Lincoln, past vice-president general. Mrs. Magna is, I believe, one of the greatest women in the United States today. She heads an immense organization of over 150,000 members. In Nebraska alone there are 49 chapters and about 1,700 members.

"D. A. R. is the greatest force of organized patriotic women in the world today," affirms Mrs. Cary. "To be eligible to membership, one must prove that she is a descendant from a man or woman who saw service in the Revolutionary war."

Hand-Craft Exhibit Attracts Delegates

One of the most interesting features of the D. A. R. convention last week was the handcraft corner presided over by Mrs. Westie W. Wilder of Kearney. Here were exhibited very lovely and quaint hand-woven purses, knitting bags, towels, scarfs, throws and infants' wear, made at Crossmore, N. C., or by the Berea college student industries of Berea, Ky. Also from Berea college were the prettily decorated sugars and boxes of candy. A quilt on exhibition was made at Kate Duncan Smith college in Grant, Ala. All three schools are supported entirely or in part by the Daughters of American Revolution.

Winside Cow Has Highest Average

All cows in the Madison County Dairy Herd Improvement Association averaged 29.2 pounds of butterfat and 724 pounds of milk for February. This is a little more than a pound of butterfat a day. In the same period 38 of the cows had 40 to 49 pounds of butterfat, 12 from 50 to 59 and five over 60 pounds.

Mr. Heppery's herd of Norfolk, was high in group of less than 15 cows milked twice daily. This herd averaged 1,026 pounds of milk and 37.5 pounds of butterfat in 28 days.

Hugo Nicholson's herd at Wisner was high in the group of over 15 cows milked twice daily. The 20 cows averaged 677 pounds of milk and 36.1 pounds butterfat.

H. L. Anderson's herd at Battle Creek, had high in group under 15 milked three times daily. His 13 cows averaged 980 pounds of milk and 36.8 pounds of butterfat.

High cow of the association is one at Balzac farms of Winside. This Holstein on three times daily milking gave 2,064 pounds of milk and 90.8 pounds of butterfat. This cow has topped the association three times.

Good Samaritan Hospital. Gerald Steinbaugh, college student, underwent an operation on one eye last Friday.

Mrs. Paul Pedersen and infant daughter were dismissed Wednesday last week.

Miss Lavera Chamberlain, medical patient, was dismissed March 7.

House Is Entered. The residence of Mrs. E. R. Love was entered Saturday evening while Mrs. Love and family were down town. Things were disturbed but nothing missed.

January Marriage Is Announced Here

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Lily Bahde and Mr. Elmer Karnetz of Austin, Minn., which took place January 16 at Northwood, Iowa.

Mrs. Karnetz is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bahde of Wayne. She and Miss Fielda Frähm have operated a confectionery store in Austin for the past three years and they plan to continue this.

Miss Madeline Jacobson and Miss Gladys Arndt entertained 12 friends at the home of Mrs. T. B. Rockne at Austin Wednesday last week complimentary to Mrs. Karnetz. Towels were handed for the bride who was recipient of many gifts. Luncheon carried out the colors of yellow and white.

Past State Regent Entusiastic Over Nat'l D. A. R. Work

One of the most interesting personalities at D. A. R. convention here last week-end was Mrs. E. H. Wescott of Plattsmouth, who faithfully radiates energy and is fired with the sheer joy of living. She's a past state regent, was organizing regent of Fontenelle chapter at Plattsmouth, is a member of the Mayflower society of Nebraska, Women's Relief Corps, Nebraska Genealogical society and P. E. O. She's served as president of G. B. S. and Plattsmouth Women's club, and is prominent in musical circles. Since 1913, she's been a Daughter and has missed only two conventions in that time.

The patriotic work of D. A. R. is leading to a very definite constructive program in America in her opinion. "We believe in peace through national defense program," she says. "We believe in preservation of American ideals, of the American home, and of belief in God. We believe in education to the extent that D. A. R. supports 18 schools in whole or in part. We have a large scholarship fund. Our work with foreigners is highly important—our manuals are available in 18 languages, being given to foreigners seeking citizenship. The attendance upon naturalization ceremonies and extending hand of welcome to new citizens is one of our most important works.

"The foundation of all membership in D. A. R. is genealogy. The collection of data, the preservation of old records, marking of historic spots, the recording of the stories of pioneers are a vital part of the work. If no one had copied a date in years gone by, no one could be a D. A. R., for we must be able to furnish dates and names in direct line to a man or woman who gave service in the Revolution.

"The work with children, not just those eligible to D. A. R. but through the 'Girl Homemakers,' is of vast importance," says Mrs. Wescott. "Then there are the 'Sons and Daughters of the Republic of the United States of America,' groups formed for patriotic instruction. We also have a committee on the American flag, and this committee tries to educate on the use of the flag and its history. Our Americanization work is carried on through the schools, in connection with law enforcement officers. The Lue R. Spencer traveling genealogical library is one of our biggest works—it's valued at $5,000 and is available to chapters for the purpose of assisting new members to get data, and members to increase the number of their lines in D. A. R."

String Quartet Is Called Outstanding

Musical authorities who heard the Manhattan string quartet in concert last Thursday evening were lavish in their praise of the performance, calling it a rare musical treat. The four men played entire without music and have memorized a repertoire of about 500 numbers. They are young, talented, and seem truly to enjoy their playing. The student audience, while practically filled the auditorium, in spite of the many events for that evening, listened quietly throughout the program. "Quartet in G, Minor, Opus 10" by Debussy was probably the most enjoyable number, and for scores the quartet played "Londonderry Air" and "Andante Cantabile from Opus 11," Tschakowsky.

Engineer To Visit Wayne On Airport

State officers with whom Mayor M. L. Ringer, W. S. Bressler, H. S. Seace and Dr. J. C. Johnson conferred at Grand Island last Thursday, practically assured Wayne of establishment of an airport here. An engineer will visit Wayne, probably this week, and it is expected to start CWA labor on the project the last of this week. The state engineer will explain the requirements to be carried out on the site chosen, the Bressler land east of Wayne.

Legion Sponsors Arbor Day Plans

A Tree for Every Stump Is Slogan for Observance in Nebraska.

"A tree for every stump" is the slogan of the American Legion for the tree planting drive on Arbor day, 1934. Since April 22 falls on Sunday, Chairman J. R. Kinder is urging schools and other groups to plan special observance on Monday following. The Legion is sponsoring the state wide observance of 62nd anniversary of Arbor day this year as its community service project.

Department Commander C. P. Kratz of Sidney, emphasizes the urgent need to repair the damage caused by wholesale destruction of Nebraska tree life for firewood purposes during years of the depression. The Legion also feels, Mr. Kratz adds, that this day of Nebraska origin, which is observed by half of the civilized world, can quite properly be given more emphasis here at home. To enable others to help in observance, the Legion extends invitation to every group, every organization and every individual to cooperate in this Nebraska observance.

One million trees were planted in Nebraska on the first Arbor day in 1872. By concerted effort, Nebraskans are urged to exceed the fine records of predecessors.

During the last nine years, 32,000 farmers in Nebraska have made windbreaks and woodlot planting from stock furnished by the agricultural college extension service, University of Nebraska, under the terms of the Clarke-McNary act of 1924. This project makes it possible for farmers to secure forest tree seedlings and transplants at the cost of handling, packing and shipping. Approximately six million trees have been set out through this program during the nine-year period and, in spite of some very adverse seasons, the average survival has been 63 per cent.

Judge Draper, for several years commissioner of education for New York, presents "Ten Commandments for Tree Planting" and the Legion urges that these be lived up to this spring. They are:

Do not allow roots to be exposed to the sun, drying winds, or frost; prune with a sharp clean cut, any broken or injured root; have the holes large enough to admit all the roots without crowding; plant in fine loam enriched with thoroughly decomposed manure; do not allow any green unfertilized manure to come in contact with roots; spread out the roots in their natural position and work fine loam among them, making it firm and compact; do not plant too deep but let upper roots be set an inch lower than before; remove all broken branches, and cut back at least one-half of the previous year's growth of wood; if the season lacks the usual rainfall, water thoroughly twice a week; and keep soil in good degree of fertility by mulching the trees in autumn with manure.

Secretary Wallace Expected. Superintendent N. C. Abbott, Nebraska School for the Blind, Nebraska City, is authority for the statement that the greatest celebration of Arbor day this year is to be at Arbor Lodge, Nebraska City. He further says that the committee in charge of this celebration is making heroic efforts to secure Secretary Wallace of the federal department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., as the orator of the day.

The Morton Memorial. The Morton Memorial at Arbor Lodge was dedicated on October 25, 1905, by former President Grover Cleveland. Most of the living members of President Cleveland's cabinet who served with Mr. Morton were present at these dedicatory exercises. Mrs. Cleveland was among the distinguished visitors. This memorial stands as a monument to the father of Arbor day. It was erected by penny, nickel and dime contributions of the school children of the state, and others interested in education. On it is this inscription from the writings of Mr. Morton. "Other holidays repose upon the past, Arbor Day proposes for the future."

Arbor Lodge. The old home of J. Sterling Morton was built on a quarter section of land adjoining Nebraska City. Around it Mr. and Mrs. Morton planted as seedlings, the gorgeous trees that now grace the beautiful state park known as Arbor Lodge. In the course of time, the first home gave way to a more pretentious one, and later Morton's sons expanded it into the stately mansion now viewed with such interest by thousands of visitors who annually go to Arbor Lodge. Both land and home were donated by Morton's heirs to the State of Nebraska after his death, and comprise one of the state's most beautiful and historically interesting spots.

Naming of Arbor Day. J. Sterling Morton was an ardent member of the State Board of Agriculture, and at its meeting in January of 1872 he introduced a resolution which called for setting apart April 10, 1872 as a day "consecrated for tree planting in the State of Nebraska." The resolution called for a one-hundred dollar prize to be awarded to the county agricultural society properly planting the largest number of trees on that day, and for a prize of a "farm library of twenty-five dollars worth of books to that person who, on that day, shall plant properly in Nebraska the greatest number of trees."

The members of the state board of agriculture were in complete accord on everything except the name. "Sylvan Day" was proposed as a substitute. Those favoring it said that although "Arbor" meant tree to the Romans, to Americans it meant a bower. But Morton contended that "Sylvan" applied only to forest trees while the word "Arbor" would include trees, hedges and shrubbery. Arbor Day was selected as the name. More than a million trees were planted the first year, and since then many millions have been planted.

Metcalfe's Impressive Story. Richard L. Metcalfe tells a story of Mr. Morton in his excellent book, "Of Such Is the Kingdom." Mr. Morton's name does not appear in the story but Mr. Metcalfe has told us in private conversation that the "distinguished Nebraskan" in this story is none other than J. Sterling Morton. This is the story as told by Mr. Metcalfe:

"One of the prettiest stories ever told relates to the devotion shown by a distinguished Nebraskan to the memory of his boys' mother. This gentleman caused to be erected over that mother's grave a stone upon which his own name as husband, and the names of his boys as sons of that good woman, were inscribed. After the stone had been put in place, he took his four boys to the cemetery, and kneeling at the grave, directed their attention to the fact that their names had been highly honored by being written on that slab of marble. Then paying a high and deserved tribute to the fine character of that mother, the father said: 'Boys, if any one of you ever does anything to dishonor this memory, I will have his name chiseled from this stone.'

In the paragraph following this story Mr. Metcalfe states a great truth. He says: "It would be a great benefit to all the boys of the world if the love and devotion shown for them by their mothers could ever be impressed upon them. If the boys would be ever careful lest they do something that, if known, would bring pain and sorrow to the mother heart, the future of the world would be secure."

"Would that we fathers could teach our boys how to grow as mighty oaks of the forest. 'As the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined.'"

Convention Guest Is Well Known For Work In Genealogy

One of the honored guests at D. A. R. convention here last week was Mrs. Clarence Sumner Paine, formerly national vice-president general for Nebraska from 1927 to 1927. As librarian of the state historical society, she has been invaluable to prospective D. A. R.'s seeking their lineage, or to members carrying on further research. She has been active in the Kansas State Historical society, the Oklahoma State Historical society, Nebraska Society of the Mayflower descendants, Colonial Dames in Nebraska, and Daughters of the Founders and Patriots of America in Nebraska, P. E. O., charter member of the Sons and Daughters of Pilgrims in Nebraska, member of the society of Colonial Wars in Massachusetts and many others.

The Nebraska Historical society has moved into new quarters in the state capitol tower, although the museum is located in west wing of the capitol, and the library remains in the basement rooms of the University of Nebraska library building. She cordially invites anyone interested in Nebraska's early history or in genealogy to visit the historical rooms whenever in Lincoln. Here, among other records, is a volume containing war records of the sons of Nebraska D. A. R.'s who fought in the World war.

"If I could belong to only one patriotic society, I would remain in D. A. R. for I think it does a most important work, and is a real force in the national world."

Leader of D. A. R. Has Rare Ability For Leadership

One's first impression upon meeting Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general of D. A. R. who attended the state-convention here last week, was that she was a very dainty well-poised person. Upon closer acquaintance, one marveled at the endurance of this not-very-tall woman who came through conference after conference, made speech after speech, and greeted everyone cordially with whom she came into contact, yet seemed fresh and capable at end of day. Endurance must be one of Mrs. Magna's strongest characteristics, else how could she embark upon so strenuous a tour as the present one, attending 15 state D. A. R. conventions within six weeks. She's an ardent air enthusiast, is this first lady of D. A. R.—in fact, she made the journey from Des Moines to Sioux City by plane, and embarked from Omaha airport Friday morning for Boise, Idaho. From there she goes on to Nevada and the Western coast, returning east in April in time for the Congress beginning April 16. Mrs. Magna flies whenever possible. "I believe we must accept flying as transportation of the present, not of the future," she states. "Aviation is unifying the states even quicker than did the automobile, and through flying, we are becoming a more United States of America. She's tremendously interested in young people—one gleans that from her every conversation. She's keenly interested in patriotic education for the young, and advocates D. A. R. groups in every institution of learning. "We can no more deny youth than we can belittle George Washington successfully for youth looks to us for understanding and we must give it. If there are certain youth movements in other countries of which we don't approve, then it is quite within the province of D. A. R. to sponsor through patriotic education the American youth movement." She favors adequate national defense on land, sea and air, but believes that the method of promoting complete knowledge of this subject is through practical studies of civics, government, interstate and international government. "The work of D. A. R. is of utmost importance now, and our country is better for us as a national society," says Mrs. Magna. "Every community which has a D. A. R. chapter is better because of it." Speaking in official capacity, Mrs. Magna advocates action in lieu of argument—more constructive publicity and less agitation. Fewer protests to be offset by more construction lines of work. Making of the D. A. R. into an organization forcefully effective through positive adherence to D. A. R. ideals, rather than constantly raising objection to the actions of others. "Intelligent training of youth during the formative years is important because education can't be postponed. Constructive patriotic education should be given to young people before voting age, instilling in them reasons for voting, for doing so intelligently, and then abiding by the will of the majority, and giving loyal support to those elected to office. Adverse criticisms and negative thoughts will never properly instruct a growing citizenry," said Dr. C. O. S. of government of the future. We must educate for the proper use of the ballot box, which is the keynote of proper government. "I believe in supporting all liberties—keeping them open and having more books available for libraries are one of the needs of the hour, particularly if we are to have more leisure time." She would stress the need of teaching money management in the schools for this is one of the angles of national defense for the nation and for every family in it—thus protecting the credit of this nation. As Miss Edith Scott, Mrs. Magna visited at the Ed. Mitchell home in Wayne during her boarding school days for she and Mrs. Steele of Tulsa, Okla., nee Miss Louise Mitchell, were friends at Miss Burnham's school in Northampton, Mass. Dr. Isabel Rust of Wayne college was also a school-mate.

National Leader Urges Progress

"Government is the voice of the people and that voice must be in harmony with the national problem of recovery," asserted Mrs. Russell Magna, president general, who addressed the 32nd annual convention of Daughters of American Revolution in Nebraska last Thursday evening. "There are differences of opinion. There will be criticisms. The emergency of the times demands setting aside personal views for the common good." "Patriots of the nation, in every walk of life, are giving ready response to the president's call. I believe it lies well within the province of the D. A. R.," Mrs. Magna added. "To go on record in support of any plan which will in all humanity put people back to work, restore purchasing power, feed the hungry, clothe the needy and above all, re-secure the faith of the nation in its own constitutional government. "Avoid skepticism, obliterate fear, discard adverse criticism, speak in terms of hope, assume attitudes of cheer, radiate smiles, promote courage, dedicate yourselves to an earnest sense of purpose," Mrs. Magna urged. "Remember, yesterday is past; to try to relieve it is futile. The day and the play cannot be changed. But American character, rising in any emergency, takes the new hand, stays in the game and anticipates winning. "Equal to personal desires for recuperation and stabilization are the hopes for national welfare. The American people will never fail. They will carry on through readjustment days, facing facts with high courage, determined faith and with the spirit that has made the nation. "A united front is a national defense crusade as definite as any wartime necessity. A unified nation is a secure one. Be happy to do your part in deeds as well as words. The voluntary spirit of the public is necessary. "Under Sam Houston's leadership the country will face the task squarely. Women have withstood the depression storm with the fortitude that has ever been a feminine characteristic. Out of their storehouses of necessity women will bring their courage, ingenuity, high hopes and resourcefulness. Their fearless, frank support is essential. "Let us again be content with common sense language, common sense attitude, sane reasoning, plain logic and the homely virtues of renewed faith in God, the preservation of homes and the promotion of the common good. Let us substitute action, affirmatives, confidence, cooperation, open-mindedness, optimism and support for their opposites." Mrs. Magna urged women not to wish they had lived in some past time. She inspired them to appreciate the changing drama in which we now live. "The future will estimate our value in proportion to the historical present. "In these days fraught with anxieties and changes, talk America up," Mrs. Magna urged. "History records radical changes in life from days of the Mayflower to the Revolution, from then to the Civil war, and from that crisis to the World war, on to the present day. Each period brought its cataclysm, its arguments and changed mental attitudes. Each epoch was met and overcome. We hold as heroic those who in their time met progress and the changes in their respective eras with determination and understanding. This we must do. "The D. A. R. stands for adequate national defense. We wish no more than adequate protection for America on land, sea and air. Therefore we advocate the disciplinary training of such groups as the reserve officers' training corps, citizen's military training camps, girl and boy scouts, 4-H clubs, civilian conservation camps and all groups of like nature which will make better men and women of the youth of our land. Training to obedience means the consciousness of service. Service means unselfishness and respect for duty. "We want peace," Mrs. Magna continued. "But we believe that the United States should always be able to protect herself against external and internal enemies. We demand adequate defense to maintain a righteous peace. "In our system of government, the ballot box is the key to the situation and training of voters to use intelligent discrimination should start before voting age. "Most effective patriotism is voluntary. To derive best results everyone must pull together and adopt a willingness to serve. Morality must be made virile. Positive national preservation demands punishment of crime. The sanctity of American homes must be held inviolate. Statistics show that 400,000 people have been making their living through crime and General Pershing warns, "Our nation is confronted by a crisis as serious as the crisis of the war." Society should give earnest thought and active cooperation to strengthen the defense against crime. The gangster must go. Public sentiment is a strong weapon. When stiffened and united in purpose to act, crime can be put out of business. "Civil interests and national questions should have consideration through thoughtful study. The will of the majority still prevails so let us uphold government, not dictate to it. "Youth looks to us for understanding, may we never fail them. We should accept the attitude of our forefathers to teach, to build, to educate and to understand young America. "Education of our youth is America's main industry," Mrs. Magna continued. "We curtail public school training to the nation's peril; nor can school days be postponed. To imperil education is courting disaster. At no time in the history of our republic has more educational program been more necessary than in the present precarious period. School portals should be kept open for all youth of America. "Under conservation and thrift I would urge cooperation in human conservation. The eradication of mosquitoes, ragweed and other pests have untold health benefits for humanity. "The D. A. R. student loan fund is in line with the educational program. Good character is a requirement of students. More than 1,600 students received aid in the $280,000 fund in 1933. "I plead for more active interest in libraries. Nebraska is upheld as a fine example in library work among the D. A. R. The chapters also provide sewing and other materials for immigrants at Ellis island, this being one of the most humanitarian services. "As a man thinketh, so is he; and as a nation thinks so will it be. We can mould the national thought with a positive, declarative, affirmative attitude by adopting a proper attitude and cooperating in these national movements," Mrs. Magna stated. "It is a great time to be alive. Patriotism is devotion to one's country; and a patriot zealously guards its welfare. Therefore, our opportunity is immediate. Put aside selfish aims. Your own preservation is dependent on national preservation. Let us not only do our part, but do our all." Mrs. Magna was introduced by Mrs. Horace Cary of Kearney, state regent. The college girls' trio furnished music for the program.

Our Churches Stalwart stand our cities' churches, Built of stone and wood and steel — Built for all the splendid people — Strength for all in woe or weal. Stand behind their each endeavor; 'Tis they that manifest our God — They build the morals of our city — They, the salt of all earth's sod. Ah, our churches! we revere them! And the good that they all do — They're the store house of the manna, Feeding souls like me and you. And we need the food they give us As the years all pass away, There we find the strength from Heaven That will help us on our way. Franklin Lee Stevenson
