Middle Course: THE World-Herald annotates a comment by the Des Moines Register on a Nebraska candidate, identified as Robert Smith, who is quoted as expressing himself against oppressive monopoly on the one hand and strangling collectivism on the other.

But does the candidate try to inveigle support from all quarters as the World-Herald suggests? He turns his back on two considerable and equally undesirable groups—political mossbacks on the extreme right and collectivists or socialists on the extreme left.

If the Register and World-Herald believe a candidate must swallow everything or nothing done by one party, they would have no candidates of conviction—no candidates who would be worth their salt to constituents.

Wallace, SECRETARY Wallace whose place at the head of the federal department of agriculture makes him a conspicuous figure in the national administration, spoke at the Arbor day celebration at Nebraska City Monday, and he gave the refreshing assurance that the government was not going to supervise every detail of every business.

Secretary Wallace says the present administration is trying to "bury the mistake of the farm board"—a mistake that was forced on the former administration by a combination of agitators—

Criminal Element: IT is doubtful if outlaws on the early frontiers were as bold and defiant as those who rob and murder in this day. With travel and escape made easy by use of automobiles, and defense made effective by use of machine guns, the modern criminal has every advantage over Jessie James and others of his ilk.

A woman contributing to the Christian Science Monitor stresses the fact that farmers are consumers as well as producers, and that one main reason for the tardy return of prosperity is the lack of parity in values.

much farm produce is absorbed in the purchase of things needed on the farm, and as a consequence many needs are denied, and thus impediments continue in the channels of trade.

Governor Chas. W. Bryan leaves next Saturday for Washington, and he says while there he will discuss with administration officials problems of unemployment in Nebraska and the question of restoring agriculture to a sound basis.

Opposition of dairymen and others concerned has led the AAA to abandon the dairy products control program.

A report states that up to this time twenty days of April have passed without rain. As a soothing influence, it is added that twentyfour days in April, 1932, brought no moisture.

County, state and national spelling matches do not cause the excitement that attends athletic exhibitions, but they encourage wholesome mental development that is quite as important as jumping over a high pole or breaking one's neck in a steeplechase.

With many candidates in the field and with party lines largely disregarded in local contests, no one will have a cinch and everybody will be interested.

If profit—the element of reward—were taken out of human endeavor, as contemplated by socialists, we would soon lose the ambition that has fashioned a sturdy, constructive race.

This Is a Time of Testing: Omaha Journal-Stockman: By the time the next six months shall have rolled around much of the uncertainty as to results of the new economic policies in agriculture and business will be cleared away and the nation will be in a position to discuss consequences rather than mere theories.

The same applies to many of the other policies that have been forced onto business and industry. During the past winter there was little disposition in any quarter to question the wisdom or the results of measures adopted for relief.

Uncertainty that now prevails, and is to some extent checking the general recovery, will in a few months give place to actual demonstrations.

For instance, "there can be no doubt but that the proposal of the government to further shorten the work week and increase the rate of pay has caused a great deal of anxiety among business men."

Furthermore, Mr. Roberts points out that "the theory that shortening of hours of labor and raising wage rates in manufacturing will increase purchasing power fails also to take account of the farmer who is not a recipient of any of this higher pay, although he is called upon to hand out more money for everything he has to buy."

We are now in the testing period. It cannot be said at this time what plans have been successful and what plans have failed.

SOUND MERIT: Trying to gather strength by reflected glory or endeavoring to shine by use of borrowed light, oftentimes indicates merit. One seeks business, social or political recognition on the ground that he is related to some distinguished success.

Decorations and favors will be in keeping with May day. Committees in charge for the women's club are: Decorations, Miss Cleo Patterson, Miss Marian Price, Miss Genevieve Kingston, Miss Dorothy Slater, favors, Miss Hazel Reeve, Miss Mildred Clark, Miss Louise Eggert, Miss Leone Westover; invitation, Miss Maude Curva, Miss Arlyn Nelson, Miss Eva Gilmstad; finance, Miss Nina Thompson, Miss Bertha Berres; banquet, Mrs. R. Progress Is Shown In Assessing Work: Assessor J. C. Bergt reports schedules turned in as compared with last year's totals: L. C. Gildersleeve, Wayne, 370 of 739; Charles Jeffrey, Strahan, 149 of 198; Frank Youngmeyer, Plum Creek, 99 of 205; A. G. Wert, Brenna, 94 of 195; John Jeff, Hunter, 82 of 192; Alex Luff, Wibur, 84 of 175; E. O. Siskier, Logan, 60 of 137; E. Kai, Leslie, 59 of 130; E. O. Scherer, Hoskins, 103 of 210; John Dreyson, Garfield, 52 of 163; S. H. Rev, Hancock, 25 of 170; Wm. Francis, Chapin, 29 of 190; M. W. Ahern, Deer Creek, 63 of 247; John Davis, Sherman, 34 of 193; and Chas. Schellenberg, Winside, 59 of 143.

Medical Group Has Eventful Meeting: Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne county medical association held dinner meeting here at the Stratton hotel Tuesday evening, about 77 doctors and their wives being present.

YOUTH: It seems tough luck for capable and ambitious boys and girls to be unable to get the jobs they want or the ones for which they are fitted—unavoidable consequences of the depression.

Rochelle Salts Used In Making Radio Microphone

Henry F. Gulliver of Ames, Iowa, son of Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Gulliver and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Jacques of Wayne, has secured success in the radio field by making radio microphones of Rochelle salts, demonstrating their use at convention of the Iowa chapter of American Radio Relay League in Des Moines last Friday.

The Des Moines Tribune tells about his work as follows: "With some of the showmanship of a Houdini about to perform a miracle, he would hold up a small square piece of linoleum on which he had cemented a small piece of crystal. 'This, fellows, is a microphone,' he announced. 'I shall speak into it and you will hear me clearly.' Bending his lean body over the table, he hitches up the piece of linoleum and the machine is as good as his word.

"He explained that his process is to make a solution of ordinary Rochelle salts in a jar of water. The temperature is adjusted to regulate the rate of crystallization. When crystallization starts, Gulliver submerges a 'seed' in the solution around which the crystalline deposit can form. The 'seed' is a long slim piece cut from another crystal. The crystal then grows around the seed, clear and ice-like, until Gulliver has obtained the size he wants. From the completed crystal, Gulliver cuts the pieces needed for a microphone and he hitches them up with foil and wire in a microphone box. He explains that the big thing about the process is that it is so simple that anyone can do it and make himself microphones astoundingly cheap."

The Gullivers plan to come to Wayne from Ames next Sunday to visit home folks.

Omaha Pastor Is Kiwanis Speaker

Tells Of Travels In India, Egypt and Holy Land At Noon Meeting: A journey half-way round the world on a mule back, with the Holy Land and India as his Mecca, was recalled by Rev. W. W. Hanne in his talk before Kiwanis club on Monday noon.

Frank Simpson of Omaha supplies mules to the British government for use in India and each year he sends over 400. He sent the Hannes as his guests.

The Holy Land was probably the richest experience of all said Rev. Hanne. One could walk the paths which Christ had walked over 1900 years ago and sail in fishermen's boats on the Sea of Galilee. Palestine is center of a great world-wide movement, the Zionist, which has as its purpose the bringing of Jews back to their native land.

Palestine is probably the only country without national debt—this is because the Jews have come in with plenty of money, and made a surplus in the national treasury. A big wall of social distinction separates the Arabs from the Jews. The former, having held the land over 400 years and not developed it, are very resentful of the Jews who have come in and bought this land and made it pay.

Slow improvement was noted in the countries visited—Egypt, India, and the Holy Land. They talk of war there with the same intensity as we talk of depression. Suspicion and unrest are everywhere. The British seem to be everywhere. The British seem to be everywhere. The British seem to be everywhere.

The meeting opened with group singing, after which Rev. P. A. Davies introduced his guest, Rev. M. C. Powers, and William Beckenhauer introduced Rev. H. Hopmann. Invitation of Business Men's club to a meeting Wednesday evening was accepted.

ICE

Nature's Only Refrigerator

NEVER FAILS to keep perishable food in perfect condition. Ice melting in your refrigerator keeps the air moist so that foods do not dry out. All gasses or odors from the different foods are carried down the drain pipe. This prevents one food from tasting of the other without being covered. We have plenty of ice to supply everyone and will appreciate your business.

How To Plan Meals Important Problem

It is one thing to know that your family ought to have a balanced diet. To provide such a diet is something else. There is decidedly a "how" to it, quite aside from the question of cost. In fact, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, meal planning is a science as well as an art, no matter whether you have a very little money to spend, or all you want.

The science of it is to provide the right variety of foods, as well as the right quantity. For lack of a better term, nutrition specialists call that balancing the diet. And they go on to give the formula, in their own language, which is: Provide the foods that will furnish proteins, minerals, vitamins, and energy in amounts to meet the demands of the body. A simple formula, if only you know which foods will do the job! But do you?

The specialists fortunately help us out on that. They tell us that milk and milk products, eggs, meat, poultry and fish are the chief sources of protein. Fruits and vegetables are important for minerals and vitamins. Bread and cereals, starchy vegetables, sugars and fats are classified as energy foods, and provide body fuel or calories. Each of us needs each of these kinds of food every day.

Then there comes the question of the kind of family you have. How many are children? How old are they, and are they boys or girls? What kinds of work do their parents do—that is, does the work take much physical exertion? Are there old people in the family? We need different quantities of food at different ages and according to activity. Very active people need more than others. Growing boys and girls need more perhaps than they ever will need again. You look your family over from this point of view and see how much to buy and how much to cook—with your eye on your fifteen year old son if you have one. He will eat as much as his father, possibly more.

So you plan the day's meals as a whole to make sure that everything needed is there, sometime during the day. Breakfast, according to our habits, is likely to furnish chiefly energy foods and some protein, but not much in minerals and vitamins, unless you have eggs and fruit. Dinner, as the big meal of the day, with vegetables or with fruits, or both, should include all the kinds of food we need. But if any one meal is lacking in anything, or short in quantity of any necessary kind of food, you can very well balance up in the next meal.

Putting it the other way round, even a nutritionist has been known to say, "If I eat what I need at breakfast and dinner, I can have what I want for supper."

Coming down to actual cases, then, breakfast on the farm, where the family is up and doing long before they eat, is naturally a bigger meal than the breakfast of the city family, eaten before there has been time to "work up an appetite." So there will be plenty of calories, plenty of protein, too, in the farmer's breakfast—which will be, say, oatmeal, sausage, hot cakes, and coffee, often potatoes, as well; or maybe ham and eggs with hominy grits, biscuits, and coffee; maybe hamburger patties and fried mush with sirup, or with fried potatoes; or mush and milk, corned beef hash with poached eggs, hot rolls, and coffee. Any of these breakfasts would be better with some fruit, fresh or stewed, such as apples, peaches, pears, or grapes, or oranges, in season; or stewed prunes, apple sauce, or canned fruit at any time. And they would not be expensive on the farm that grows its own food for the family.

If the city family may have to do with a lighter breakfast and may indeed prefer it. For cheapness and food value, then, cracked wheat or oatmeal with top milk, toast, and coffee may be enough; or fruit of some kind, fried mush and sirup with coffee; or fried salt pork with hominy grits and milk gravy; or French toast and coffee. For the children in all cases, milk. They should have, in some form, a quart of milk a day, or at least a pint and a half. So give them at least a glass of milk for breakfast. Dinner will probably include bread, meat, potatoes—and there, to go no farther, you have plenty of calories and plenty of protein. But you need more vegetables, or else fruit, or both. Tomatoes and cabbage are the old reliables when it comes to supplying vitamins at lowest possible cost. Or any kind of greens will be good—turnip greens, beet tops, mustard, collards, spinach or the dandelions and other wild greens that are now coming on. Serve greens often—every day is not too often.

So far we have included some of all the kinds of food, but there is one elusive vitamin that calls for special attention. That is vitamin C, which is plentiful in tomatoes, and especially in raw fruits and vegetables, but is often lost in cooking. For vitamin C, therefore, use plenty of raw salads. Cold slaw is a good one, or cabbage strips crisp-cold, like celery, or shredded cabbage with grated carrots or carrot sticks, or raw turnips, or raw apple, or other fruit on lettuce, to add more vitamin C.

Remember, since it has several kinds of food, including vegetables, is the most complete meal as to food value. (Don't forget, by the way, that macaroni, rice, hominy, etc., though often served at dinner in place of potatoes or some other starchy vegetable, are cereal foods, not vegetables.) But again, whatever substance is lacking or scarce in dinner can be made up in lunch or supper. A vegetable chowder, made of left-overs and milk makes a good supper because milk supplements all the other kinds of food. A cheese dish, other than because cheese is made of milk. Dried beans or peas are a good dish for any meatless meal, or for a meatless day, because they are rich in protein in addition to their minerals and vitamins. The protein of beans and peas is not "complete" as are the animal proteins in milk, eggs, and meat, but it is very substantial food nevertheless.

Finally, then: To provide a balanced diet, serve to your family, every day, milk in some form, either to drink, or in soups, sauces, desserts, or as cheese; give them vegetables or fruits or both, especially potatoes, tomatoes, the green leafy vegetables, and the yellow ones, serving some of them raw; give them bread and cereals; fats and sugars of some kind; and meats, eggs, or fish, when you can. Serve coffee and tea for the grown ups, but remember that they have no food value and must not be served as taking the place of anything else. Sweets should come at the end of the meal in order not to take away appetite for more nutritious foods.

Give the children plenty of milk every day, and remember that grownups need it, too, though not so much. If they do not care to drink it, serve milk soups, or use milk in desserts, or otherwise in cooking. Milk is the very best source of calcium, which children must have to make their bones and teeth grow, and the rest of us need to keep ours in repair.

Recipes

Strawberry Tarts.

Make pastry shells of puff or rich pastry. They may be filled with crushed, fresh, very ripe berries sprinkled with powdered sugar and topped with a spoonful of whipped cream, or a small serving of ice cream may be substituted for the whipped cream.

Asparagus Soup.

Fifteen stalks of new asparagus; 1 1/2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, half teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon salt. Scrape the asparagus, leaving tips whole. Cook "in" enough hot water to cover, until tender, adding salt to water. Strain off water, press stems through a colander and add with tips and water to enough hot soup desired. Mix the flour and when smooth stir into the soup, stirring all the time. When the consistency of cream, continue cooking in a double boiler for 10 minutes.

Beefsteak en Casserole.

Cut 1 1/2 pounds of thin round steak into 1 1/2 inch strips. Sprinkle each strip with 1 teaspoon minced onion, salt, pepper and paprika. Roll like a jelly roll and fasten with toothpicks and dredge with flour. Brown in fat and place in casserole. To the fat remaining in the pan add 2 tablespoons of flour, brown well and add 1 1/2 pint boiling water, 1/2 cup tomato juice, salt, pepper and paprika to taste and 1/2 green pepper cut into strips. Pour over the meat and cover closely, simmer 1 1/2 hours in a moderate oven. Serve from the casserole.

Celery with Brussels Sprouts.

4 cups Brussels sprouts
1 1/2 cups diced celery
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups scalded milk
Salt and pepper
Remove wilted leaves from sprouts and soak in cold salted water for a few minutes. Drain and cook in rapidly boiling water until tender. Melt the butter, add celery and cook over low fire for 5 minutes. Add the flour and milk as in making white sauce. Bring to boiling point. Add the Brussels sprouts, season with salt and pepper, heat well and serve.

Refrigerator Rolls.

2 yeast cakes
1 cup lukewarm water
1 1/3 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 teaspoons salt
2 cups mashed potatoes
2 cups potato water
3 eggs.
Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add the shortening, sugar, salt and mashed potatoes to hot potato water. When cold add yeast and eggs. Stir in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead well. Put into greased bowl. Place in refrigerator and cover lightly. If desired rolls can be made, and allowed to rise to double size. This dough will keep in the refrigerator for a week or more.

Orange Pie.

Soak 2 teaspoons of gelatine in 2 tablespoons cold water for 5 minutes. Beat 4 egg yolks until light; add 2-3 cup sugar, 1 cup orange juice, 3 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind of 1 lemon and few grains of salt. Cook over hot water until slightly thickened, stirring frequently. Add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Cool. As it begins to thicken fold in stiffly beaten whites of 4 eggs. Pour into a baked pie shell and chill. Before serving top with whipped cream and sprinkle with candied orange peel.

Norwegian Prune Pudding.

1 cup prune juice
1 cup boiling water
1 1/2 cups pitted prunes
2 cups sweetener
Few grains salt
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
Grated rind 1-4 orange
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Combine the prune juice and water with the orange rind, bring to boiling point, and thicken with the cornstarch stirred smooth in two tablespoons cold water. Add the lemon juice and then salt and sugar to taste. Stir in the prunes. Let again come to boiling point. Chill and serve ice cold with a topping of sweetened whipped cream or uncooked meringue.

Upside Down Custards.

4 eggs
1-3 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1 quart milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Chopped nut meats, any kind (optional)
Place the granulated sugar in a small frying pan and melt it over a low heat until the color of maple syrup. Turn quickly into custard cups, rotating each one to coat it as much as possible. Next, beat the eggs light with the brown sugar, salt and vanilla. Add to the milk and turn into the custard cups. Place these in a pan and pour in boiling water to half cover. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., until the custards are firm in the center, or until a knife, when inserted, comes out clean. Chill, unmold, and sprinkle with the nuts.

Baked Omelet.

Beat 6 eggs slightly, add 4 tablespoons milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon paprika. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in pan and pour in egg mixture. Stir slightly at first. Then let cook slowly 2 minutes. Lift with fork so uncooked egg mixture may precipitate. Fold out, sides edges over toward center. Turn out on platter folded, side down.

Baked Ham.

Cook ham slowly 4 hours with 3 quarts cold water, 2 bay leaves, 2 onion slices. Remove from stock, take off excess fat and skin. Stick in 12 whole cloves and spread with sugar mixture of 1 cup dark brown sugar, 1 cup spiced peach juice, 1 cup grape juice. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven, uncovered. Cover and bake 15 minutes more.

Promoting Clubs For Young Folks

Promotion of boys' and girls' 4-H clubs is one of the aims of federal agents. Some questions of interest about the clubs are answered as follows:

What is a 4-H club? An organization of boys and girls 10-20 years of age with a definite program to follow in connection with the production of farm and home products and the personal development of themselves.

What is the object? To give the prospective young farmer and homemakers in Nebraska the best information available regarding improved farming and home making practices. To develop, through the activities of the club, the character, ability and local leadership of the boys and girls. To spread the information obtained by the members to the adults of the community.

Who has charge of 4-H clubs? County extension agents, the extension service of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, and the United States department of agriculture. The Smith-Lever act of Congress made it possible for these agencies to carry the results of experimental work at colleges and the collected experience of farmers out to boys and girls quickly and effectively. In counties without extension agents, individuals can get material from the extension service, college of agriculture, Lincoln, and lead a 4-H club.

Are 4-H clubs state or national? The 4-H club work has spread over every state in the union. Membership now totals near the million mark. It is said to be the most effective educational organization, outside the public schools, in the rural districts of the country.

For what do the 4-Hs and Clover Leaf stand? The four-leaf clover is the national emblem. There is an H in each leaf, each one meaning a great deal as shown in the following national pledge: "I pledge my head to clearer thinking, my heart to greater loyalty, my hands to larger service, and my health to better living, for my club, my community, and my country." The national motto is "Make the Best Better."

What is the situation in Nebraska? In 1933, 1,910 clubs enrolled 14,855 members with 17,488 projects in 88 of the 93 counties in Nebraska. 10,468 members finished 12,567 projects, which is almost four out of every five that started. Surveys have shown that there is about one boy or girl of club age per farm in the state. If there are 125,000 eligible boys and girls in the state, the field has hardly been touched.

How is a 4-H club started? Get in touch with your county 4-H committee, your extension agent or the extension service, college of agriculture, Lincoln, for information and supplies needed; study this written material; call together a number of prospective members and their parents; discuss the possibilities with them; form a temporary organization; choose the project to be followed; fill out and send the application blank furnished to the county agent or the state extension service; set a time and place for the first monthly meeting.

What are the general requirements? Five or more members in one project. Local leader in charge. Definite club organization with officers having charge of business meeting. At least six meetings. A judging contest. A demonstration team giving at least one public demonstration locally. An exhibit of products. An achievement day. At least 60 per cent of the enrollment making final reports.

Who can be the leader? While it is sometimes helpful, it is not nec-

Special Farmer's Rates

FOR AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY AND PROPERTY DAMAGE $10

I have the agency for Wayne county for a company that recognizes that the liability on a farmer's automobile is a good bit less than on a car used in town. This is not a mutual or a reciprocal company, but a stock company, one with assets of $7,000,000.00. I must try and select only good risks. This is a standard policy with no restrictions and covers liability up to $10,000.00 and property damage up to $5,000.00. The cost is $10.00 for most cars. Larger cars are $11.50. The regular price has been $18.00 and $20.00 for exactly the same policy. This policy can be issued only to farmers actually living in and operating a farm outside of corporate limits of any city or town. This is an experimental rate and may be withdrawn by the company at anytime.

"More Live Power."

Animals always have been and always will be interesting to people. The Standard Oil Company is making the most of this interest in their new advertising campaign to drive home to motorists the most valuable selling arguments that any gasoline ever had—"Live Power." Animals draw upon their live power and reserve energy—and in just the same way motorists are going to use the extra live power that is packed in Standard's Red Crown Superfuel—the swiftest, most agile, most vigorous gasoline sold at no premium price.

The refinery engineers let Standard gasoline cut another notch. They reset the complicated controls that govern the great gasoline stills so that Standard Red Crown Superfuel that now comes to you is actually ready to turn loose more power—more live power per gallon than any other regular priced motor fuel.

Standard's advertisements will ask motorists to use Superfuel and judge for themselves.

The Iso-Vis "D" motor oil campaign will warn motorists of the danger of leaving winter made sludge in the crankcase. The greatest cause of high oil consumption is sludge—sludge that fouls cylinders, makes valves sluggish so that gasoline power and mileage are lost.

Standard recommends a change to anti-sludge Iso-Vis "D" motor oil for keeping rings lively and free—reduces oil consumption to the minimum—adds fewer quarts between drains—allows greater efficiency from gasoline and is a most economical lubricant to buy.

Watch this paper for Standard advertisements during the spring and summer months. a2611

As a recognition of outstanding scholarship, Miss Ruth Paden, presented for the Wayne chapter an award to Miss Hilda Wasserberger, college senior.

Seniors, who were special guests of chapter members, were received by officers, Miss Paden, Mrs. H. D. Griffin, Mrs. D. S. Wightman, Mrs. G. W. Costerisan, Mrs. J. T. Bressler, jr., and Miss Beulah Rundle.

The program, at which Miss Paden presided, opened with "Andante Cantabile," by Tschalkowsky, and "Allegro in B Flat," by Mozart, played by Prof. John R. Keith, Miss Louise Heyne, Miss Caroline Spangler and Miss Claire Jensen, string quartet, with Miss Lois McDougal as accompanist.

Mrs. H. R. Best read poems by Paul Laurence Dunbar, these being "When Malindy Sings," "In the Mo'nin'," and "Lill Brown Baby."

Miss Dorothy Slater sang "Let All My Life be Music," by Spross, and "Charming Choc," by German. Mrs. D. S. DeWolf was her accompanist.

The string quartet played during the serving, fancy-form ice cream, mints, nut cups, plate doilies and napkins carrying out spring colors of orchid, yellow, green and pink.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Miss Beulah Rundle, Miss Norma Carpenter, Mrs. T. S. Hook, Miss Leone Westover and Miss Mildred Clark.

Tower In Mid-Street Once Held Wayne's Fresh Water Supply

Remember when Wayne's water supply was parked in the middle of Main street and one had to coax protesting horses around the dark hulk which had usurped the thoroughfare? That wasn't many years ago.

An attempt had been made as far back as 1886 to vote bonds for a water system but had failed.

A special election was held December 29, 1890, and bonds totaling $18,000 were voted, carrying by 151 to 36. Bids were accepted in 1891, during majority term of Frank Fuller.

Argentine Republic Is Found Progressive And Hospitable

Charm of hospitable people and busy business bustle, typical of the United States and the Argentine republic in South America, make transition from one country to the other an easy experience. So H. A. Hahlbeck, together with R. C. Hahlbeck of Wayne, found when he went to Buenos Aires, the capital of Argentina, five years ago.

Mr. Hahlbeck, who is with the United River Plate Telephone company, a subsidiary of an American corporation, is general plant manager. He was previously with the company in Mexico for seven years and took up his work in Buenos Aires in 1929. His visit here is his first since locating in South America.

Argentina is wonderfully productive, Mr. Hahlbeck finds. Its resources are varied and much of the vast country is yet undeveloped. Southernmost part of this triangular shaped nation is in the cold climate, and the northern edge reaches well up toward the equator. The greatest share of the country, however, is in the temperate zone and weather is quite similar to this region except that seasons are reversed. At first it is strange to have winter from April to November, with Christmas day one of the warmest days of the year. Mr. Hahlbeck found, but Buenos Aires and the major part of the populated areas of Argentina have no snow. Rainfall is plentiful, except during about two months in summer (our winter) when there is scarcely any moisture. Temperatures seldom reach freezing and heat is never intense, being quite similar to summer weather in Nebraska. That the north winds are hot and the south ones cold seemed a little odd at first, Mr. Hahlbeck found.

And the sun doesn't rise directly in the east as here. Buenos Aires is east of here, about three hours' time, and Mr. Hahlbeck noticed on his trip here that the sun's rise changes angle quite decidedly as one approaches the equator and again leaves it.

Though Argentina has mountainous country on the west and densely wooded tropical regions on the north, the main part is level, fertile farming land. One finds farms of all sizes, but many of the estancias (ranches) are from five to 40 thousand acres, usually farmed by the owner who has a colony of helpers, the number depending on the size of the acreage.

Wheat, linseed, oats and corn are chief products of Argentina, Mr. Hahlbeck says, and the country exports large quantities of all these. Cattle and sheep raising are also being exported. England alone purchasing approximately eighty per cent of the surplus. The stock is fed as there is abundance of grass for pasture during ten months of the year.

Fruit raising is also important in Argentina, many farmers devoting their entire time to orchards and vineyards. Exports of apples, grapes and wine are important trades. Considerable oil is produced, and some mining done. This fertility makes Argentina one of the wealthiest per capita nations in the world.

The plains region has but few native trees, Mr. Hahlbeck states. One, quebracho, is raised for its sap which is made into leather dyes. Many trees, poplars, eucalyptus and others, have been brought into the country for planting. Farmers have set out trees for windbreaks. One pretty sight in the cities is the planting of a row of trees on either side of principal streets in the business section.

There is plenty of good hunting and fishing for lovers of that sport.

Buenos Aires, a city of two and a half million people, is progressive and modern in every respect. New business blocks and houses are of latest types, some Spanish, others English and many American. Brick and concrete are the principal materials used as lumber is scarce and expensive.

Spanish is the chief language spoken in the Argentine, though there are 5,000 Americans and some 50,000 Britishers who speak English and some natives also learn the language. The natives have schools for boys and others for girls and the children wear similar uniforms to avoid distinction between the richer and poorer classes. The American have their schools also. The educational system, which is national, is one of the finest and is open to all. The plan is similar to that in this country. This general education outside of the larger cities is the result of work done by about 40 American teachers who went to the country some years ago at request of the Argentine government and helped establish the courses. And Argentina, justly boasting of good colleges, some being 350 years old.

Argentina's government, which is republican, has two houses of congress elected by the people. The president, who serves one term of six years, is also elected by popular vote.

Buenos Aires offers every modern convenience. Radio stations have been established and the capital has about 15 broadcasting stations. Mr. Hahlbeck reports modern theatres with American and European stars in most pictures. A few artists make Spanish speaking pictures but most of the films are English speaking with Spanish translation flashed onto the screen.

Most cars are American made and a fairly large percentage of city people own automobiles. The telephone system is operated similar to this country's and the development is increasing. The country has a well developed railroad system, mostly British owned and steamship shipping is important in transportation. The Buenos Aires harbor, visited by ships from all parts of the globe, is one of the finest and best equipped harbors in the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Hahlbeck will have completed about 18,000 miles when they reach Buenos Aires again the last of May. And the trip was varied. They flew over the Andes mountains of western South America, viewing this beautiful country from an altitude of about 15,000 feet, to Chile. They then went up the west coast of the continent by steamship and through the Panama canal, then on to Los Angeles. They are now en route across country to the east. Mrs. Hahlbeck is visiting her relatives in Illinois while Mr. Hahlbeck is with his relatives in Nebraska. He came to Wayne Sunday to spend a couple days. He and Mrs. Hahlbeck will go to New York the first of May and sail for home, the return boat trip requiring about 18 days.

Movielites

Features at the Gay theatre this week present more outstanding attractions for the second anniversary. P. L. March has booked "In the Money" for Friday and Saturday. "Riptide" for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and "Cross Country Cruise" for next Wednesday.

"In the Money" Thursday, April 26

"In the Money" stars Skeets Gallagher, Lois Wilson, Warren Hymmer, and that's guaranteeing a riot of hilarity.

This is the story of the Higgins bottoms. Everything goes well with them until they are "in the money." Papa goes in for chemistry and threatens to blow the roof of the house at times. And Dick gets smashed up in a motorcycle race. Bab goes in for eugenic husbands. Then the depression hits them with a bang and things really happen then.

"Devil Tiger" Friday and Saturday, April 27-28

"Devil Tiger" is the most sensational wild animal picture ever filmed. It has actual sights and sounds brought to you from the jungle. You see Asia's fiercest jungle beasts at death grips. You hear their cries.

The picture is the record of a group of people who cut their way through the tangles of the Asiatic jungle, woven by untouched nature for thousands of years. It pictures man's latest battle with the elements that have baffled explorers for centuries.

"Riptide" Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, April 29-30, May 1

Norma Shearer, star in "Riptide," received the Photoplay medal for her acting in "Smiling Through," judged the best on the screen in 1932. It is the belief of those who have seen "Riptide," that Miss Shearer's new romance is her finest screen entertainment. And Robert Montgomery, who is co-star, is also one of movieland's favorites.

Sylvia and Mary, sisters, are riding the crest of the gay wave of New York's night life—popular, clever, ready for anything. But, while Sylvia goes on her way, Mary falls in love with Lord Rexford, hard-working, serious-minded Londoner. Rexford deliberately misses a boat for England. They are married. Mary then finds herself in the sheltered life of the typical British wife. Her husband is busy. See for yourself how their problems work out.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lage and son and Miss Emma Schmitz visited in the Adam Saul home Sunday afternoon.

Music Furnished For Herald Radio

Instrumental And Vocal Numbers Provided For Broadcast.

Robert Brandt sang popular numbers for the Wayne Herald radio broadcast last Thursday. Donald Linn was accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Oman sang hymns and also old and new favorites for the Friday program.

Miss Peggy Morris, Marguerite Eining and Buster Ellis played piano selections for the Saturday program. Einar Berntson played harmonica selections and Miss Martha Crockett was his accompanist.

Cars Are Damaged In Collision Here

The cars belonging to Matthew Holt, jr., and John Gettman were damaged Friday evening when they collided at Third and Pearl streets. No one was hurt. Mr. Holt was alone in his car and the machine turned over, the front being badly broken. Mr. and Mrs. Gettman and Clarence were in their car. The Gettman machine was broken only slightly.

HOLY NIGHT

Give me a draught from the cistern Of the holy darkness of night, Or from the trailing moonbeams In their soft and silvery light— Or, let lie in the woodland Where the mountains rising high Cleanse their lips with sheeted snow As they try to kiss the sky.

Let me listen to the night bird, I love that shrieking note As his song from o'er the valley To my weary soul doth float; Let the laughing brooklets warble And lull me into sleep; For out in God's night glory Souls will smile but never weep.

From Oxen To Tractor Is Farming Record Of Schuyler Fox Of Wayne

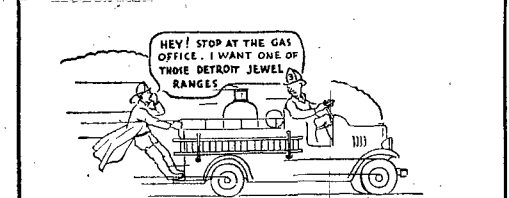

Schuyler Fox took his first lesson in plowing by following oxen across Wayne county prairie this spring he helped turn furrows with a large, modern tractor on the Wightman farm seven miles west of Wayne. Well he remembers this first plowing in 1876 when, as a lad of 15 summers, he "hired out" on the George Buskirk farm 12 miles southeast of Wayne and served a farm apprenticeship. With two oxen attached to a walking plow, he covered about two acres per day. A slight lad he was unable to lift the heavy wooden yokes for the animals but trudged along behind the dull, lumbering beasts day after day, breaking the virgin prairie. For his work he received $6 per month and room and board.

Mrs. Marie Fox and her four sons, Schuyler, George, Allen and J. S., came in 1875 from Pawpaw, Lee county, Ill., to join another son, J. J. W., who had come in 1873 to pioneer. This was just 59 years ago last March. The first home was three miles east of present site of Altona. After two years another son, Fred W., came from the east and they moved onto the Crawford place two miles east of Wayne, and then settled five miles northeast of Wayne. The house on this farm, known as the J. J. W. Fox place, was built out of cottonwood hauled from a mill near Ponca. Cottonwood is all right when it's green, but just try to drive nails into it, after it dries out, Mr. Fox challenges. Besides, it warps. J. J. W. Fox paid $3.50 per acre for the 160-acre property.

When the Foxes arrived there were 75 voters in Wayne county and all voted at LaPorte. The German settlement came first in Hoskins vicinity. Then John T. Bressler, Robert Sneath, George Buskirk and Joe Beckenhauer came to Leslie and the Aglers and Hunters to east of Wayne. These folks were firmly established in their prairie homes when the Foxes joined them.

Used Hay for Fuel.
Those were the days when wood was worth its weight in larder supplies—there were no trees except here and there along the creeks. So the early settlers burned hay in little stoves—tromping a wash-boiler like container full with one's heavy boot, carrying it inside, taking off the stove lids and turning the hay-filled holder upside down over the flame. It burned quickly all the while but it made a red-hot heat while it lasted. Some of the more inventive folks made hay twisters which could twist the hay into hanks, somewhat like yarn we buy now, and these could be thrown into the stove like cobs. Flax straw made the hottest fire because of the oil it contains. Otherwise, just ordinary prairie hay was used.

And when these early-comers talked about prairie hay, they did not mean our low-growing variety they grew hay as high as horses' backs in those days. Three miles east of Wayne site was a lake about three miles long and quite narrow. Here the young folks gathered for skating of a winter, and good sport it was during the long, frozen months. One day when young Schuyler Fox was out herding cattle for the Hunters, one animal got away and he was looking customers. They asked the way to Jackson and he told them 25 miles to east. As he started off he saw the men start west, the direction from which they'd come, at a rapid pace. Then, in his own words, he was a "scaared kid," for he was certain the men were intending to head him off and take the registered mail he carried. But the men didn't show up again and Mr. Fox reached his destination unmolested.

On another occasion he took a $600 draft from John T. Bressler, then county treasurer, to Wisner to be cashed. Well, $600 was too much for the Wisner bank, all at once, and so the banker made a round of the stores and picked up all available cash. Mr. Fox got a new grain sack for the money and bore it back to LaPorte.

On another occasion when he was in Wisner getting his mail sacks, he was asked by a stranger to be taken to LaPorte. All the way over the stranger chatted and questioned the lad, and next day he rode back to Wisner with him, continuing his conversation. A few days later the deputy postmaster at Wisner was arrested for taking money out of the mails. There the young Schuyler realized that he had been investigated by a federal officer who knew he helped sort the mail in Wisner, and might be implicated in the thefts.

Mr. Fox's marriage to Miss Jessie Skiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Skiles, took place at the Methodist parsonage here in 1891. The Skiles and Fox families lived across the road from each other northeast of town, the former family having come here from Wisconsin in June of 1880. Of the six Fox brothers who once made their homes here, only two remain—Schuyler in Wayne vicinity, and Fred W. in Los Angeles.

TIME TO CHANGE OIL

DRAIN OUT SLUDGE, THE OIL EATER

Time now to drain out winter-worn oil and change to heavier grades. When you change, keep sludge out of your engine. It clogs oil lines, hinders lubrication, fouls filters, makes valves sluggish. It causes rings to stick and pump oil. It is the greatest cause of high motor-oil consumption.

Keep sludge out by using ISO-VIS "D", the Anti-Sludge Motor Oil. It keeps rings lively and free, reducing oil consumption to the minimum. That's why you add it to less frequently between drains.

ISO-VIS "D" a 30c oil for 25c a qt.

Plan Directory Of Winside City

Cast is Chosen For Eighth Grade Play At Annual Promotion Night.

Orientation class at Winside high school is working out an interesting directory of Winside city, listing names of all inhabitants, all businesses and public buildings, with write-ups of the civic and social organizations. About 60 copies will be run off on the hectograph machine. In a contest to determine the best cover design, Ruth Smith's with an outline map of the state and Winside prominently marked, was chosen as the best. E. A. Austin teaches the class and is directing this project.

Rev. H. M. Hilpert of St. Paul's Lutheran church will make the eighth grade promotion address on May 19, final day of school. Eighth graders are working on a play, "Pirates and Pearls," for the program. Cast includes Waldron Weible as Harold Haugin, the first pirate and head of the "bold buccaners"; Lester Gottsch as Sweeney Henson, second pirate; Theo Witte as Alvie Haugin, Harold's sister; Deloris Meyers as Martha Dallas, Alvie's chum; Victor Koplin and Charles Strung as Len and George Smith, members of a rival gang, the "red hawks"; Vernon Selders as Harris Jones, another "red hawk"; Pearl Jugel as Miss Emmeline, the teacher who is giving a maquerade party. Time is the present and action takes place at a little party.

Dr. F. E. Henzlik, dean of teachers' college at the university, will be graduation speaker on May 16, and Rev. W. F. Most will preach the baccalaureate service May 13. Community choir will sing at both events.

The senior play, "The Ghost Parade," was given to a full house Friday evening and very enthusiastically received. Supt. Austin directed the production and 16 last-year students took part. Juvenile band made its first appearance that evening. A second performance was given on Saturday evening.

Eight seniors took the University of Nebraska regents' scholarship tests last week. These were Dorothy Bartlett, Harold Freva, Walter Jensen, Harvey Podoll, Iva Andersen, Elsie Kant, Norma Wolf and Leonard Nelson. The entire class took English classification tests sent out by the university.

Coach Gerald Cheney will take seven or eight trainees to the Norfolk invitational track meet on Friday. Wayne training school came Tuesday for a duo meet at Winside school.

Girls in senior civics class are working on soap carvings for their grouping of Washington, D. C., this week. Plane geometry class spent the first four days this week on special projects and starts a new unit on Friday. General science class had interesting reports on heredity last week.

In Grammar Room.

Donald Jugel brought a pretty plant for the grammar room Monday. Seventh and eighth grades have been making borders and wall paper designs for art work.

Sixth grade is leading in the spelling race. Fifth and sixth grade boys made wall paper designs for the fair last week. All boys were excused at 3 o'clock Friday after finishing their designs. Miss Lena Niemann substituted for Miss Theola Nuss Monday while the latter was helping with Arbor day rehearsal.

First and second graders have two cunning little baby bunnies brought by Earl Burr Selders and are feeding them carrots and dandelion greens sprinkled with water. Second graders wrote original stories about how the bunnies lost their mother. First graders had designed a chapter about dogs in their reading books. Paper birds were designed by first grade last week and have been strung across the room to fly in the breezes. Arlene Cary brought pussywills for the room. Last week the two grades worked industriously to improve their handwriting.

Observe Arbor Day Monday Afternoon

The student body and townspeople were invited to Arbor day exercises at schoolhouse Monday afternoon, sponsored by American Legion post and school faculty. The program held in the auditorium consisted of selections by the Legion quartet, a pageant, "Convention of the Trees," written by Mrs. S. A. Lutgen of Wayne, the song, "Trees," by girls' high school chorus, and "Nebraska" by all. Margaret Scriber had the role of Spirit of the Woods in the pageant, Junior Trautwein and John McIntyre had speaking roles, and others were elves, trees and children. Jean Boyd, Ollie Smith, Dr. R. E. Gormley and Rev. W. F. Most made up the quartet.

Following the program the group went out on the grounds where an elm tree was planted and H. E. Siman talked on origin of Arbor day and its value.

Choir practice Thursdays, 7:30 p. m. Next Sunday evening will be old hymn night. If you have a favorite hymn, let us know what it is and, if possible, it will be sung. Last Sunday evening a beautiful and impressive service "The Challenge of the Cross," was given by seven young women.

World Events

A mob of 6,000 communists, embittered over the French government's pay cut, engaged in skirmishes Friday, injuring 200 persons.

American Beet Sugar company has contracted for 100,000 acres of sugar beets to be raised in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, California and Colorado. This is 10,000 acres less than last year.

An interview with former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, given in 1908, and kept secret until the present, gives his views as follows: The inevitable world crisis was a clash between Japan and occidental nations: east and west must meet, and the west must conquer. Great Britain was guilty of sort of political miscegenation in allying herself with Japan. War was necessary. War was Christian. The Bible was full of fighting. The greatest soldiers were Christians. Theodore Roosevelt, then president of the United States, was his hero—the dominating, militaristic leader he hoped he himself was.

Harry Houston of Plainview, is president and Dr. G. E. Peters of Randolph, secretary of the No. 20 Highway association.
