FIFTY-FOURTH YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1934.

NUMBER TWO

BUILDING BOOM IS PREDICTED

Numerous Improvements To Be Made In Wayne City During The Summer.

With the expected approval of Wayne's community house project, the city will be launched upon a wave of building which has not been duplicated in many a year.

Government authorities chose the two lots on southeast corner of Second and Pearl streets, owned by Mrs. Walter Savidge and Mrs. Frank Griffith, as site for the new post office building.

Northwestern Bell Telephone company will start construction of a new one-story, fire-proof brick building this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Miller are building two structures of note in the downtown section. They will replace the Hamburger castle on east side of Main street, between Third and Fourth streets.

John T. Bressler plans to build a 40-foot addition to rear of the store building occupied by Council Oak store.

The Piepenstock building on Main street has been remodeled and front altered to accommodate the new Ray L. Surber Furniture store.

When R. L. Larson added a grocery stock to his store this spring, he moved back the partition to enlarge the large room at rear and repaired and rearranged the fixtures.

Mrs. Kate Gaertner is converting the upper floor of her store building on Main street, formerly the Theobald store building, into three apartments and an office room.

Wayne State Teachers college improvements have been confined to the grounds where numerous evergreens have been added, especially in corners of the athletic field and around Pile hall.

Ernest Alderson is building a one story bungalow on Pearl street between Tenth and Eleventh streets.

The two houses on the Griffith and Savidge lots which were moved away to make room for the new post office building have found new locations. C. E. Nicholson built the Savidge house which was brought here from near LaPorte in 1881 when the county seat was moved, and moved it to Sherman street just west of the park.

Claude L. Wright filed April 16 as candidate for Wayne county superintendent on the non-political ticket.

Monday, April 23, will be observed as Arbor day which falls on Sunday, April 22, and tree planting will receive more attention than usual.

NORMAL BOARD MEETING HELD

Student Employment Program Works To Advantage In State Schools.

All teachers' colleges of Nebraska are taking advantage of the federal student employment relief program with more than 250 now being aided by this plan in the four institutions, it was reported by Presidents U. S. Conn of Wayne, Robert I. Elliott of Chadron, Geo. E. Martin of Kearney, and W. R. Pate of Peru, Monday when the state normal board met at the college in Wayne. The need at teachers' colleges for student relief is probably more urgent than at most liberal arts colleges for the reason that the majority of those preparing to teach come from homes of moderate means, and aid is thus much more urgent, the board feels.

The board reaffirmed its position on a rule passed some years ago requiring non-resident freshmen girls to room in dormitories at the respective schools. The board is backing the need for restriction. Members feel that young women just out of high school are able to do better work during their freshman year and the general welfare of the girls and interests of the school are best served by having freshmen make their homes in the halls. This is in line with a policy pursued generally in teachers' colleges having a dormitory system.

Each school head reported progress made to comply with orders from the state fire warden and these reports indicate that all requests made by the warden would be complied with during the next 60 days. These were mainly modifying of defective wiring.

Other business consisted of allowing bills. Besides the school presidents, the meeting was attended by President Edgar Fernau of Auburn, Secretary Fred W. Andersen of Cozad, State Superintendent Charles W. Taylor of Lincoln, John D. Rohn of Fremont and Judge Frank J. Munday of Red Cloud. Fred S. Knapp of Omaha, and Edwin D. Crites of Chadron, were unable to be present.

Next meeting will be held at Lincoln June 25. The music convention came to Wayne to remain for the past six years. Each year the meeting has grown in attendance and in accomplishments, until now it is an event of much civic pride, and of considerable economic benefit to Wayne townspeople.

District Rebekah Meeting Planned

District Rebekah meeting is planned in Carroll April 27. Several from Wayne plan to attend.

Music Meets Were Brought Here By A Former Principal

Mrs. Allis Pollard.

To Mrs. Allis Pollard, former principal of Wayne high school, goes the credit for bringing to Wayne the district music contest which this month attracted 1,150 students and many spectators to this city. For the past six years Wayne has played host to the event, the large college auditorium and campus facilities making it convenient to entertain so large a group.

When the administrative section of the district educational association met in Norfolk the fall of 1928, Mrs. Pollard invited the music meeting to Wayne, stressing in her speech that the new hotel, the college auditorium and the travel conveniences of Wayne would make it an ideal convention city, and enable towns in the district to send large delegations.

Norfolk had proved a thoughtful host that year, providing entertainment and cars for the delegates and it required tact to invite the music section to Wayne, when Norfolk was known to be interested in having it. Debate followed Mrs. Pollard's invitation, and Norfolk also presented advantages of that city as a convention center. But when the vote was taken, Mrs. Pollard's logic had prevailed.

The music convention came to Wayne to remain for the past six years. Each year the meeting has grown in attendance and in accomplishments, until now it is an event of much civic pride, and of considerable economic benefit to Wayne townspeople.

Wayne Will Award Medals To Eighth Graders In Two Schools.

Wayne American Legion post, at a meeting last evening at the court house, heard reports on Arbor day plans, scholarship awards and rehabilitation work.

In accordance with a national Legion plan, which is to be annual, the local post is presenting awards to four students, a boy and a girl in each of the eighth grades, at the city school and training school. The plan was presented to the two grades last Friday and awards will be made, probably by a state Legion officer, near close of school term.

Each of the four students will receive a medal and also a pin. The medal for girls bears picture of a girl holding an American flag. On the other side is the Legion emblem, also the words designating the honor: Courage, character, service, companionship, scholarship.

The boys' medals bear a picture of a soldier and sailor. On the other side is the Legion emblem and the following: Courage, honor, service, leadership, scholarship. The medals and pins are on display in the Mines jewelry store window.

Selection of the students to receive the awards will rest mainly with the students. A. L. Jacobsen, Prof. F. G. Dale and Prof. K. N. Parke comprise the Legion committee in charge of the project.

Arbor day plans were explained by Prof. Dale. The Legion will plant a memorial tree in Greenwood cemetery Monday.

Reports were also given on the gardening project by Dr. W. M. Hawkins and E. E. Galley. The aim is to provide plots for needy Legionnaires.

About Three-Fourths Sign Corn-Hog Plan

According to final producer's figures, Dixon county has signed 1,104 corn-hog contracts in the corn-hog control program, Agent G. M. Dunn reports. Average corn acres total 95,810. This is about 76 percent of the average corn acreage for the past five years for Dixon county. There are 23,008 contracted acres which is a little over 24.571 hogs given in for the average of the two-year figures. The percentage of sign-up is thus 72.5.

HALL FOR WAYNE NEAR CERTAINTY

State Engineer Says Approval Of Project Should Reach Here In Month.

That the outlook for Wayne's having a new community auditorium within the next few months is most encouraging was word members of city council brought back from Omaha Tuesday after interviewing John Latenser, jr., state engineer for P. W. A. Mayor Martin Ringer, City Clerk Walter Bressler, J. S. Horney, Carl Wright, I. E. Ellis and City Attorney J. E. Brittain made the pilgrimage to Omaha, stopping at Fremont for George Grebe, architect for the building. Mr. Latenser assured the Wayne men that there is no reason why the project will not be approved by Washington authorities within 30 to 60 days. He pronounced all material submitted by Wayne city as being in excellent shape.

An adjourned meeting on Monday evening the city council voted to transfer $20,000 from light fund to a special building fund. As much will be drawn from this fund as is needed to complete the building after the original $43,000 estimate is exhausted. Although the additional amount required by rise in building material and labor costs since the estimate was made will not run over $50,000 or $60,000, the council wished to demonstrate that Wayne is well able to handle any financial emergencies and made a liberal appropriation for this purpose.

The original estimate of $43,000 provided $40,400 for cost of building and $2,600 for architect's fees and other expenses. The city was to furnish $6,000 in cash and $25,000 in general obligation bonds, the balance of $12,000 to be given by the federal government in form of a grant. Wayne city held special election to vote the bond issue on September 5, 1933. The government is to furnish at least $12,000 for the building. Wayne Women's club is contributing $6,000 and the bonds will total $25,000.

Wayne city holds an option on two lots at Third and Pearl streets, owned by the Clyde Omans, and this will be site of the new structure.

No Changes In Rules On Contracted Acres

No recent changes in rulings relative to use of contracted acres or land rented to the government have been made under the agricultural adjustment program, State Corn-Hog Administrator W. H. Brokaw said today. The recent report relative to putting forage crops on so-called free acres was interpreted by some to mean that it was possible to use contracted acres for the production of forage or pasture crops without any restriction. "This is not true," Brokaw said, "contracted acres cannot be used for any harvested crop."

Recovering in Hospital

Philp Kohl is recovering following the operation he underwent in Bryan Memorial hospital in Lincoln and will be dismissed soon.

BUSINESS CODES OF FAIR DEALING HAVE RIGHT IDEA

GREATEST value in government codes lies in the encouragement of fair trade practices, but manifestly they have a long and troublous journey to make before inaugurating the millennium. The automobile industry's code which has demonstrated the existence of some sharp teeth, seems to be working successfully. In the printing industry, the code appears to consider chiefly the job lines rather than the publishing end which latter in rural communities is usually the main show. If the code contemplates fair practices for publishing, it will not permit the publication of county commissioners proceedings at a rate below cost of production. If the code of fair practice among merchants is properly functioning, dealers will get away from slashing the price leaders of competitors and will act more on their own initiative in establishing fair retail values. In remaking human nature and softening rivalries, the code business has on its hands a task that will require more than one season to score salutary results.

NEW PROGRAM IS BEING PROMOTED

Rehabilitation Plan Will Bring Independence To Families.

J. A. Anderson and J. F. Lawrence were here from Lincoln Tuesday to confer with Agricultural Agent G. H. Liggett relative to working out the new farm rehabilitation program. The plan is to enable land owners or tenants who have been unfortunate, to return to farm homes and establish their independence. The experiment is being tried in Wayne county with four families and if it works successfully, others will follow.

The depression has shown the great value of planned preparations for year-around living. Mr. Liggett reports. Most states are promoting such campaigns. In general they suggest that each household of five should keep two cows freshening at different times, about 30 hens, a half-acre garden with vegetables for table use and canning, and a half-acre orchard.

The allotment committee is working each day checking local records. The last date for filing corrections is Friday, April 20, and persons are asked to report by that date if they have any changes.

To prevent any grasshopper devastation in Wayne County, Mr. Liggett asks farmers to watch hatching places and report any quantity of hoppers to him. The pests, he says, usually hatch in pasture sod and during the hatching period they can be effectively destroyed. Poison will be furnished at cost for those who find hatching patches.

Judgment Reversed In Supreme Court

The Nebraska supreme court reversed judgment of district court this week in the action brought by Louis Thies against Frank Weible, et al, concerning execution of a judgment. Thies had a judgment against Weible and the Farmers Union Livestock Commission firm of Sioux City held mortgage on cattle belonging to the Weible Mercantile company. The cattle were sold. The district court awarded the money to Thies. The supreme court reversed the decision and ruled that the commission firm had superior right by reason of mortgage on the chattels sold. Thies attacked the validity of the mercantile company's incorporation because some members of it were infants in law. The higher court ruled that where a corporation exists, its right to function cannot be challenged by third parties although some of those participating franchise of being a corporation are ineligible.

SPONSOR ARBOR DAY CEREMONY

Public Invited To Program In College Auditorium Monday Afternoon.

Entering into the state Legion's campaign for "a tree for every stump," Erwin Sears post is sponsoring an Arbor day program on Monday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock, to which the public is invited. The student bodies of Wayne public school and college training school are expected to attend. The program will feature a pageant, "The Convention of Trees," written by Mrs. S. A. Lutgen of Wayne, and a short address by Rev. H. C. Caspey.

The numbers follow: Song, "America the Beautiful," by all; pageant by school children of Wayne; Arbor day song by Dolores McNatt, address by Rev. Caspey; solo, "Trees," by Arlington Prince of Winside; Arbor day song by college boys' quartet.

Mrs. L. W. McNatt has charge of the pageant, assisted by Mrs. H. C. Caspey. Girl and boy scouts, representatives of church groups and other young people's organizations will make up the cast of about 25, with Josephine Ley taking leading part of "Spirit of the Woods." Many of the children will be in costume.

Prof. Fred C. Dale heads the Legionnaires planning the program, and he is assisted by Prof. K. N. Parke, C. A. Ori, G. A. Renard, J. M. Pile and John E. Bisen. The committee has sent out letters to all rural schools as well as city schools in the county, requesting them to enter into the Legion's observance of Arbor day by planting a tree on their grounds. Prof. Dale reports tree cooperation on part of the teachers, one rural teacher having already set out 81 trees in the yard. County Superintendent Pearl Sewell cooperated with the Legion by sending a folder on history of Arbor day and requests to plant a tree to all schools in the county. Wayne training school pupils are planting a tree for each grade on south side of the campus. Junior high school students in the public school will plant a program around a tree-planting ceremony, using tree donated by Business and Professional Women's club. Grade school folks will plant a tree for the P. E. O. chapter and high school students plan a similar ceremony. Each organization represented on the Wayne Community council is pledged to plant a tree on or near Arbor day. Prof. Dale predicts that a great number of trees will be planted over the state this month, this being much needed to repair damage caused by the wholesale destruction of Nebraska tree life for fire-wood during the years of depression.

One million trees were planted in Nebraska on the first Arbor day in 1872. Legionnaires hope to exceed this record in 1934. Arbor day is Nebraska's gift to the world, originating 62 years ago with J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City who introduced a resolution that April 10, 1872, be set apart for tree planting in the state of Nebraska. Since its inception the observance of Arbor Day has spread all over the United States, especially as a school festival. It is now observed in Great Britain, France, Canada, Spain, English West Indies, Norway, Russia, Japan, Australia, China, South Africa, New Zealand and United States possessions. After the World war, the tree was chosen as most beautiful living monument to dedicate to the soldier and sailor dead, and these will grow from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast along the great highways, one for each hero.

Lawyer Finds Rich Farm Territory On Southern Journey

Enthusiastic over the rich farm yields of the central south and fired by the possibilities of this country if modern agricultural methods were introduced, H. E. Siman returned home Thursday from a hurried business trip to Louisiana. Leaving on the Sunday preceding, Mr. Siman and two business associates drove to Mound, La., on a day and one-half there and Mr. Siman reached his home again on Thursday. On the return trip, 705 miles were covered the last day.

"I was astonished at the difference in the south from a few years ago—little cities are clean and prosperous looking and the roads are excellent. Last trip I made to the Ozarks the mountain roads were just dirt paths. Now there are fine paved highways well banked at the curves for safety."

"Flowers and vegetation are lovely now in the south, says Mr. Siman. Pastures are green—in fact, the Louisiana plans for 11 months of pasturing, and often 12. Cattle and sheep are knee-deep in alfalfa fields. Mr. Siman was amazed at the great productivity of the land during the past 75 years, with every other crop taken off, the land not enriched and very primitive farming methods employed. Where northerners have settled, their fields and plantation grounds are doubly productive, compared to the east-going southerners.

The southern landowner usually farms 5,000 or 6,000 acres himself with hired labor, and then rents out the remainder of his holding to negroes, being paid with one-fourth of the cotton crop and one-third of the grain for the small plots of five acres or more. The negroes live in shacks which are scattered thickly over the country, all in uniform state of dilapidation, all the same size and same style. And also numerous are the negro churches, all the same pattern with a little cupola in front and about equal number of windows broken out. You'd think they were discarded, but no—the negroes are ardent church-goers. If there are no weddings, no funerals or no fishing, they go to church, says the lawyer. And this holds true with their working, too. Work can always be put off till tomorrow if pleasures interfere.

When the negro farms, he has little interest in modern methods. For harrowing, he'll attach a scrawny little mule to each end of a log and drag this back and forth over the ground. It's a wonderfully rich, deep soil or it couldn't have remained productive under these careless methods. The live stock owned by the negroes is rather a poor lot, too. The mules Mr. Siman affirms he could pick up under his arm and carry, and the Jersey cows are not as large as Dr. Paul Siman's dog.

Government action in regard to taking cotton fields out of production worries the southern planters considerably. And to mention Huey Long is to start fireworks, for the average intelligent Louisiana is bitter against him.

Everyone seems to have employment. The saw mills which have been shut down for some time are now going full blast. The government work on the Mississippi is one of the greatest developments in the history of this country, in the opinion of Mr. Siman. For fully 700 miles along the river banks a levy has been built which removed all fear of floods. It's more important even than the Panama canal feat in Mr. Siman's opinion.

Louisiana, long noted for its illiteracy, now has wonderful public school buildings, practically all built within the last few years. Just across the river from Mound is Vicksburg, Miss., the city Grant had such difficulty in capturing back in 1863. Grant was anxious to capture Vicksburg in order to open the Mississippi to navigation. From the Louisiana shore, in connection with Admiral Porter's fleet and a large number of transports, he attempted to take possession of the bluffs. There probably never was a more thorough or continued defense made—no opportunity for rest for the confederate soldiers night or day, and they were almost reduced to starvation. The siege lasted from March 28 to July 4. Trenches dug by Grant are still discernible on the estate at which Mr. Siman visited across the river in Louisiana.

Madame Is Interviewed

MADAME Troyanovsky, wife of the ambassador from soviet Russia, likes American women, according to a published interview recently. She says American women are "independent and wide-souled," just like Russian women. She adds: "There is no compulsion of any kind about the lives Russian women lead." This contrasts sharply with reports from Will Durant and others who made close and searching investigations in Russia. Perhaps Madame Troyanovsky was never permitted to know how the masses suffered in Russia, facts of unspeakable want and misery, revealed by Durant, having been carefully kept from her circumscribed experience. Anyway, she expresses such delight over the similarity of American and Russian women that she suffers no feelings of homesickness for her native land. And the interview shows how tactfully she is able to cooperate with her husband in promoting friendly relations between the two countries. In cooking up and sugar-coating diplomatic exchanges, however, we do not want to grow so reciprocal that the Russians will be able to trade us some of their communist ideas for our goods and cash loans. We have plenty of ideas of our own. And memory of the things competent witnesses have told about Russia's record of experiments is too fresh to be set aside by contradictory stories of rosy hue that issue from gilded diplomatic channels.

McLeod Bill

THE argument in favor of the McLeod bill providing for the payment of frozen deposits in national banks, is that the government would be reimbursed when assets thawed out, that confidence violated by bank failures would be restored and that billions have already been spent in no more deserving ways. A depositor had a feeling that when he put his money into a national bank, it was safe and he could get it at any time. When the bank failed and his savings were tied up awaiting the tedious long process of liquidation before he could realize partial settlement, his faith collapsed. The depositor has lost through his confidence and through no fault of his own. To provide for immediate payments would scatter funds due depositors, and would help materially in strengthening the movement back to prosperity. Much money spent in relief measures by the government will never return, but bank deposit payments would filter back in considerable measure when values go up where they belong. Bank failures had much to do in breaking down confidence and aggravating the depression, and the government's coming to the rescue of losing depositors would more nearly answer an obligation than many purposes for which public funds have been devoted.

Warning Not Due

BUSINESS is considered so much better in some sections of the country that people are being admonished not to engage in an orgy of wild spending and reckless living. Words of caution will be deemed premature in farm communities until spending for agricultural products and farm animals becomes sufficiently wild to raise price levels to a parity with those fixed by the east's insatiable greed. Conditions have improved somewhat in farm sections, but not enough to hoist flags of warning against dangers that may lurk in a carnival of extravagance. Everywhere in the middle west houses shout for new paint and repairs and refurbishing, and these improvements will be provided as soon as prosperity necks around the corner and promises to keep on coming. Renewing properties as fast as possible will help return of good times, and will be a wise and economical course. Warning will be appropriate when we acquire a cash surplus and begin to hesitate between investments in doubtful stocks and substantial betterments.

Ponca has bought 220 acres comprising the Bigley ravine, and is offering the tract to the state to be maintained as a park. Bigley ravine is the center of a lot of early-day explorations and discoveries. It was there that Prof. Perigoue unearthed the plesiosaurus. It was near there the Ionia volcano—bluff of burning lignite—flourished until the river washed it away. In the neighborhood were the coal mines that were opened a thousand years too soon to produce decently burnable fuel. Now this wooded tract, skirted by the Missouri river, is to be converted into a state park, and accordingly its popularity as a leisure resort already gained will be justly enlarged.

Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator, was present to hear his testimony of last week contradicted by six witnesses who were accused of revolutionary talk. Chairman Bulwinkle of the committee said he had no intention of pushing perjury charges against Wirt, but indicated that nothing would prevent the district attorney from action. The committee seems disposed to drop the matter and turn attention to other things. Whether Wirt would prefer perjury charges or some other way to reach the public, the report does not state. However, Wirt will not be silenced if he retains the courage that he exhibited in the course of the hearing last week.

Wayne is now assured of three major improvements this year—post office building, community house and telephone building. It will be noticed by today's Herald that contracts have been let for several other valuable improvements, and others are being planned. This promises to be a year of unusual building activity here, and the investments are regarded fully warranted by the substantial and progressive character of the community. Loyal support of institutions we have and a united pull for those we need insure steady growth and stimulated values.

CHILDREN.

One's love for children intensifies abhorrence of any neglect or abuse which they may suffer. Tenderness turns to a fever of resentment when one hears of a child who is unnecessarily burdened or injured. The savagery that prompted the death of a 2-year-old girl in Chicago, is almost unbelievable. On a par with the brutal instinct of the guilty youth was the wild barbarity of the mob that outraged the funeral held for the little child. Sometimes the seared conscience of a parent permits a helpless child to suffer cruelties—cruelties that stunt normal growth—cause insuperable handicaps—permanently impair health and destroy deserved and needed equality. Parenthood implies responsibility that none can justly shirk. A child is entitled to protection and guidance—entitled to nourishing food and comfortable clothing, to social and educational advantages, and it is up to parents to accept and discharge the duty as a privilege—not a burden to be shifted as much and as often as possible to charitably inclined society. Every child has inalienable rights that cannot be carelessly disregarded or cruelly violated and every parent with a conscience will exercise every effort and care to direct and strengthen the child's footsteps. Nothing reflects discredit on parenthood like indifference to children's needs. Nothing incenses like inhuman treatment of children.

RECOVERY.

W. W. Burr, dean of the University of Nebraska agricultural college, says overproduction cannot be blamed for farmers' troubles. Henry L. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, says if we have more wheat than we can sell at home or abroad at a fair profit, people should be encouraged to turn attention to production of other things needed. Mr. Harriman would have both agriculture and industry do their own regulating with the government acting as umpire.

Rober W. Babson, business expert, says the fault is not on the farm or in the factory, but in our distribution system. Instead of curtailing production, shortening hours, raising wages and discouraging initiative, he would boost production, expand markets and stimulate consumption. All economists applaud progress made by the NRA to eradicate sweatshop conditions, though they deplore price-raising under the act ahead of increased buying power in farm communities, thus hindering instead of helping the return of prosperity. With a supervising and directing hand to prevent the tresspassing of one group on another, without butting into all lines of private endeavor, by giving free rein to the individual to do and win or fail, many believe the government could, allowing the laws of supply and demand to operate more naturally, do most to reestablish confidence, hasten a parity of values and hurry surrender of the depression.

Optimistic Report Given Kiwanians

By Dr. J. G. W. Lewis

Overhauling of the League of Nations to permit admittance of the United States under a new plan, international cooperation in trade, resulting in planned economy within nations and between nations, and a re-birth of good old-fashioned Americanism were impressions Dr. J. G. W. Lewis brought home from the fourth annual conference of Mississippi Valley international relations clubs recently, and which he passed on to Wayne Kiwanians at Monday luncheon meeting.

About 350 students, representing the serious-minded group, and faculty members attended the sessions. Not a military or pacifist or communistic gathering in any way, said the professor—just a round table discussion of international problems.

It was stressed that there has been no president in this country since time of Theodore Roosevelt who has not been far in advance of the people in international cooperation. The two approaches to peace, one by organizing and the other by being prepared, were discussed and conclusion was that you can't disarm in a world where other nations won't. It resolves into a long, slow process through intensive education, for when people become educated, they do the right things.

The League of Nations association secretary who was present, predicted that the league would be overhauled and recast within a few months and that the United States would enter under some new plan. In fact, he predicted that the government would soon announce terms under which we would enter the league.

International authorities among the speakers look for international cooperation by nations, rather than by individuals. Where capitalists formerly made investments in other countries, each nation will soon control trade within its boundaries and nations will organize to carry on trade among themselves. This is why President Roosevelt asks a new tariff policy so that a commission can regulate terms under which trade is carried on.

In the spirit of unrest which is found among students, may be interpreted a re-baptism of good old Americanism applied to new problems—the spirit of the best leader of the past, Washington, Lincoln, Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt, applied to modern problems. The colleges and universities are not going communistic, in opinion of the speaker. Students are merely applying good American reasoning to present questions. The group at Grinnell was optimistic—general opinion was that we have a country we wouldn't trade for any other on earth—that we might learn something more and there was possibility of making America an even better nation by this learning.

Open discussion followed during which Dr. W. Fling of the University of Nebraska was quoted as saying there was much fascist and nazist propaganda in this country. Dr. Fling met Germans for purpose of keeping this country out of future European wars. The nazist government plans to rise up and take the Polish corridor from Poland, he said, and wants America to be in sympathy with her government and not interfere. It was also brought out that Theodore Roosevelt felt responsibility of this country in keeping other nations at peace. He went farthest of any president in this direction, calling conferences and suggesting an international police force.

At business meeting, report on tree-planting was given by educational committee. Rev. W. W. Hanne of Omaha will tell of travels in India and Palestine at next Monday's meeting.

Work To Relieve Those On Relief

"It should be distinctly understood," states State Director Blatt, "that FERA is not operating an employment office. It aims only to provide work for persons on relief rolls so that they may learn what they get without stigma of charity."

"Federal Relief administration expects counties and communities to hire as many of the unemployed at local expense as possible," Mr. Blatt adds. "Providing real jobs is a local obligation. The most we can do is to permit people on relief to earn their necessities. They must be bona-fide relief cases."

"If everyone realizes that FERA is doing a relief job and not an employment job, the program will operate more smoothly," Mr. Blatt concludes.

Burr of the College of Agriculture, spoke on loss of foreign markets, making the statement that it is not because of great over-production of foodstuffs as most persons think, but really under-consumption which has caused our slump in farm prices. We produced less than the world needed even in depression years. Speakers brought out that restoration of our export trade, now shattered, is needed to bring back farm prosperity, and that this can not be restored until our monetary policy is restored.

It was also brought out that the war made it necessary for nations to be independent in food production and that since then, these nations have continued in such independence, making use of protective tariffs and quotas. Some have established quotas permitting only one bushel of imported grain to be milled out of every 10. An economist pointed out that limiting of production is not the way out of our present dilemma.

Hospitality Radiates From The Dilts Home In Logan Precinct

For over half a century the Mrs. Catherine Dilts home in Logan precinct has been a community gathering-place, a place where young folks and older folks loved to visit because of the warm hospitality and unvarying welcome of the little owner. She celebrated her 75th birthday last February 19, did Mrs. Dilts, but increasing years have only added to her zest for living—and her enjoyment of friends. True, the years have etched deeply into her face, but etched beautifully and accentuated the sweetness and the fineness of her. Friends marvel at her capability—alone she does the housework for the large home one and one-half miles south of Wakefield. Social and church groups are always welcome to meet there and the white house with its deep porch and homey air, is scene of many a big gathering.

Mrs. Dilts was born in Tipton, Cedar county, Iowa, and spent her girlhood there. After her marriage the Dilts family lived on a farm in that vicinity for about seven years before migrating to Wayne county. Mr. Dilts went on ahead the preceding spring and bought prairie land, building a small two-room frame house for his family. Mrs. Dilts and her three children came by train to Ida Grove, Iowa, and then took stage on to Missouri Valley, bumping over the uneven roads in a heavy stagecoach drawn by horses. The journey on to Sioux City was made by train. When it came to crossing the Missouri river, they went onto the little ferry and were marooned at night on a sandbar—not a very pleasant start on such an important journey!

The railroad had just been completed the spring before from Sioux City to Norfolk, and the little group went on to Wakefield by train. It was dark and the prairie mother spent her first night in her new home without glimpsing the country she had come to share. The door in the newly-completed house had not been hung yet, but was tightly wedged in, so the newcomers entered their home through a window. It was plastered and fairly comfortable. Most of the houses nearby were of frame—only one sodhouse in the neighborhood. Mrs. Dilts' first glimpse of Nebraska land was not very promising and a fence, not a tree or shrub, scarcely a road. One wonders if she didn't have a moment of homesickness for the comfortable Iowa home she had left behind.

But Wayne county's pioneers did not turn back even when blizzards and drought and prairie fires harassed them. Even when biting snow fell to completely envelop the settlers' homes and cut them off from human companionship and from medical care and food for days and days at a time.

There was a road running past the Dilts home but if one wanted to reach old LaPorte, he cut across the Dilts land and improvised a road. Two miles east on the Logan, then a quite respectable lift-stream with power enough to turn a water-wheel, was located the mill to which settlers took their wheat to be ground. At times the rascally little Logan overflowed and menaced crops, reaching out over fully a mile or more and turning promising young fields into debris-strewn soggness.

For supplies the family went to Wakefield—then an unpromising little settlement boasting a store or two with post office, land offices and mud-holes which one avoided by walking planks.

Mrs. Dilts and children came on Saturday evening—next morning they set off for town to attend church services in the new little schoolhouse. So few folks that crowds were forgotten—all came to worship together and enjoyed the social contact as they visited a bit after services. Rev. G. M. Lodge, Presbyterian pastor from Wayne, came over Sunday to preach. A little later the Methodist church came into being.

Frequently the newcomers drove to Wayne in their lumber wagon, making the trip in one and one-half to two hours.

Prairie fires were numerous but never disastrous in this locality. A heavy, choking smoke would precede the roaring of the flames, and then a wall of fire would sweep across the prairie, taking all before it, leaving blackened, smoking grass behind to testify to its fury. The Indian reservation was close—within two miles to the east—and Indians were frequent visitors at the Dilts farmhouse. Often the redskins were fed. On one occasion a bunch of them stopped and asked for a turkey. Mrs. Dilts told them they could have one and pointed out a certain fowl for them. Armed with big clubs, two redmen started after the bird. Easily, with sureness, one of them threw his club to hit the turkey squarely on the head and knock him flat. The Indians lived in teepees and huts on the reservation and usually cooked outside in the summer. They were good neighbors and never stole from the white settlers or attacked them.

The first Dilts house was on east side of the road, almost across from the schoolhouse. It was moved to present location about 40 years ago and additional rooms added to the two-room nucleus. Since then, remodeling has converted it into an attractive, modern home.

Of the six children in the Dilts family, four are now living. These are F. Ray on the home place, F. A. in Bakersfield, Calif., G. H. in Stillwater, Okla., and C. L. in Cleveland, O. Twelve grandchildren are numbered in the group.

"We had plenty of hard times in those early days," says Mrs. Dilts, "but we didn't demand so much so we didn't suffer as now. No cars, electric lights and other luxuries then. We raised enough to eat and our expenses were very little—low taxes compared to now. And we were happy too!"

Jean Smolsky was given a big certificate for a year's perfect attendance. The children were taken by Jacqueline Wightman's parents, the D. S. Wightmans, to Fairacres farm Tuesday afternoon, and there observed the animals and growing things.

Kindergartners with perfect attendance the past six weeks were Patty McKay, Yvonne Dunn, Junior Thompson, John Ulrich and Lynelle Shuck in the morning class and Howard Ulrich and Kathryn Thompson in the afternoon. The farmyard project has been started and a barn completed.

Seed To Be Adapted.

According to state extension agronomist, P. H. Stewart, Korean Lespedeza or other lespedeza varieties are not promising for Dixon county. They are, Stewart says, particularly adapted to the south and are of special value where soils are sour and low in fertility. It is always a good policy to investigate thoroughly any new seed that is offered for sale. Seed of any kind must be adaptable to the area in which it is to be planted. If it is not adaptable, money for high priced seed is wasted.

GET RID OF THAT DIRTY WINTER OIL

An oil gets thin and dirty even in a mild winter. Using your choke more lets raw gas get into the cylinders to dilute it. And you are bound to suck in dirt on slushy roads.

What's more, the way cars are built today, your oil takes twice the punishment it used to. It's important to have a tough, clean film that won't thin out dangerously at extreme heat.

Mobiloil's the biggest selling oil in the world because it can "take" that multiplied punishment better.

It takes only a few minutes to drain your crankcase and refill with Mobiloil. Stop today at the Mobiloil sign—you'll find it everywhere. And for smoothest all-round performance—look for the Mobilgas pump and fill your tank with the country's only gasoline with Climatic Control. White Eagle Oil Corporation, a Conoco-Vacuum company.

CALLING ALL CARS! While you're changing Winter oil, do a complete job—oil, chassis, transmission and differential.

Wakefield Musician Played When Andree Left On Ill-Fated Journey

It was the year 1897. The harbor of Gottenberg, Sweden, was in gala attire, filled with holiday crowds waving and cheering and hearing flowers. A tall blonde man appeared, well escorted, and boarded a ship waiting in the harbor. The Royal Artillery band, in full dress, played stirring strains as the ship slowly got under way and steamed out of the harbor, escorted by warships. The crowd waved in farewell and in encouragement to the man who was going out into an icy wasteland for the advancement of science and for the glory of Sweden. And this Salomon-August Andree, Swedish aeronaut and explorer, took leave of his native land and went to a death which remained a mystery for third of a century. And in the Royal Artillery band was a youthful trumpeter, Eric Ecklund, who now makes his home in Wakefield.

Andree and two companions, K. Frankel and N. Strinberg, were men of courage. Unaided by modern science, such as radio contact and efficient instruments, they defied the Arctic regions in a balloon. Andree was at one time head engineer of the Swedish patent office, and Strinberg was a 24-year-old university professor engaged to be married, but taking one last (and final) fling at adventure before settling down. Sailing to Danes Island, Spitzbergen, the three took off on July 11, 1897, and flew into oblivion. A message brought back by carrier pigeon dated July 13, read "Good journey northward." And no more word for 33 years although repeated attempts were made to find the expedition.

Thus, it was of great interest to Prof. Ecklund when news came that the little expedition he had watched start off from Gottenberg, had been found on August 5, 1930. Dr. Gunnar Horn's expedition discovered the remains on White Island, east of Spitzbergen. Evidently the balloonists had not come within 475 miles of the pole they set out to discover, but had drifted sharply to the east. White Island was cut off from Great Island by teacher-ice-floes, so the three pitched tent and waited for help which never came.

An expedition had visited the Andree camp a fortnight before Horn's party came, but did not see the remains. Melting ice revealed the well-preserved bodies of the three Swedish explorers. Horn's group found a cooking pot on the ice, quite a rarity in this white wilderness. They hunted and discovered a sled still holding the little canvas boat, now filled with water. Under the sled was a body. Another one sheltered another body which was surrounded by books and instruments bearing the name "Andree." The surprised men stood bunched in the tribute they realized the importance of their discovery. A mystery of 33 years' duration was solved!

The third body was nearby in a canyon. Evidently Strinberg had died and been buried by his companions, then the blonde Andree had outlived Frankel. The explorers pieced together the mute story of the tragedy. Evidently the balloon had been landed safely on an ice field and sledged, tent and canvas boat unpacked. The provisions of food, guns, oil and clothing and theatres. He returned to Sweden and joined a German orchestra which played in Sweden and Russia. In fact, the group had been in St. Petersburg three weeks when war broke out. Norwegians, Swedes, Germans and Danes made up the company which was playing an afternoon concert. Military officials carried them to their full dress suits and quarters in the military barracks. Prof. Ecklund got in touch with a Swedish official and was able to leave Russia. The Germans were held and he never learned their fate. When he reached Sweden, word had gone out that every man who had previously served in the army must report at once. He reported, found that his first papers taken out in the United States were not sufficient and he had to go back into the Swedish army, serving five months.

Once again he sailed for the United States, arriving at Christmas time in 1914. He trooped the country over with Kilties' Scotch band and also with the Prince of Wales opera company for four years. He listed in the Sixth Nebraska, when this country entered into the European conflict, he spent 11 months in service. It was while he was playing with Bauman's band out of Chicago that he was taken ill during a Sioux City engagement. Walter Savidge came there seeking a band leader for his amusement company and brought Prof. Ecklund to Wayne. Since then he has been at Wakefield most of the time and now leads the Legion and municipal bands.

Says Mr. Savidge of him—"He's a real musician and you don't find many of his ability in these parts. He really knows music."

Two of Prof. Ecklund's players in the Savidge band have since attained prominence. Merle Evans has directed Barnum and Bailey's band for the past five years. He played trumpet under Prof. Ecklund. Nickish is now in the Kiltie band as trumpet soloist, and also has gained recognition as composer of band music.

Wayne County Cow Is High For Month

Highest individual cow record for March in the Madison-Cumming-Wayne county cow testing association is owned by Fairacres Farms, Winside. This registered Holstein, milked three times a day, produced 2,316 pounds of milk and 95 of butterfat. This same cow ranked first in two months recently, and this was the fourth consecutive month one of the Fairacres cows has topped the association.

The 251 cows in the association produced an average of 808 pounds of milk and 32.7 of butterfat for the month.

Four of the cows produced 60 pounds or more last month; ten from 50 to 59 pounds, and sixty-seven averaged from 40 to 49 pounds.

In Group No. 1, five to fifteen cows milked twice a day the Heperly farms at Norfolk had the high herd, with ten registered Holsteins averaging 1,052 pounds of milk and 38.9 of butterfat. Henry Marquardt's herd at Norfolk was second with an average of 778 pounds of milk and 29.3 of butterfat for twelve grade Holsteins.

The high herd in Group No. 2, sixteen or more cows milked twice daily, is owned by Hugo Nicholson of Wisner. His herd of registered Jerseys averaged 764 pounds of milk and 41.8 of butterfat. One of the twenty-one cows in this herd, twelve are first-class heifers. His young cows have shown great improvement over their dams, which is due entirely to the selection of better sires, Mr. Rotter said.

Second place in Group 2 competition went to G. O. Schmitt and Sons. Their herd of eighteen grade and registered Holsteins in March averaged 1,005 pounds of milk and 38.3 of butterfat.

The herd of twelve registered Holsteins owned by H. L. Anderson of Battle Creek placed first in Group No. 3, five to fifteen cows milked three times daily. This herd's average per cow was 36.7 pounds of butterfat.

Attendance was very irregular the past two weeks due to an epidemic of measles. School was dismissed Friday as Miss Brugger was ill.

Fifth and sixth graders are cutting border designs. They plan them for the fair. Seventh graders are making district maps showing homes of patrons.

New library books have come and everyone is enjoying reading. The readers' scoreboard has grown considerably too. Books from Wayne city library are also being read.

Lower grades made paper bird-houses and Dutch windmills for room decorations. Cheese boxes have been placed on the window sills and oats growing in them make attractive windows.

See TWILIGHT In the gloaming of the evening Just before the lights are lit, There's a moment for reflection As one sits and rests a bit. It's then the fading sunlight Brings the memories of the day As the flickering evening shadows Dance about in silent play. 'Tis the hour that one remembers Sweeter days that passed away, Dreams of youth when dreams were rosy Instead of sombre, dull and gray. Yet in the silent growing twilight Comes the peace that rests the soul, Shutting out the fearful tumult Of the seas of life that roll. Franklin Lee Stevenson

In awarding these certificates, it is the magazine's aim to provide proper recognition for the creative work done by women in their own kitchens, and also to raise the standard of accuracy and dependability of recipes as a whole. Legal Notice. To Edward G. Wessel, Martha E. Wessel, Gustav Wessel and Louisa Wessel: You and each of you are notified and will take notice that Richard O'Connor and John J. O'Connor, jr., executors of the estate of John J. O'Connor, deceased, as plaintiffs, have filed their petition and commenced an action in the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, against you and each of you as defendants, impleaded with other defendants, the object, purpose and prayer of said petition and action being to foreclose a certain mortgage on the following described real estate located in Wayne County, Nebraska, to-wit: The West Half (W 1/2) of Section Twentyone (21), Township Twentyseven (27), Range One (1), East of the Sixth (6th) P. M. Said mortgage was executed and delivered by you, the said Edward G. Wessel, Martha E. Wessel, Gustav Wessel and Louisa Wessel, to John J. O'Connor, now deceased, which mortgage is dated January 22, 1925, and was filed in the office of the County Clerk of Wayne County, Nebraska, on February 2, 1925, and there recorded in Book 45 of Mortgages on Page 225; said mortgage secures a note for $30,000.00, and interest thereon according to its tenor, executed and delivered by you to said John J. O'Connor, dated November 1, 1924. Plaintiffs allege, among other things in their said petition, that said John J. O'Connor departed this life testate on or about March 3, 1926, and that plaintiffs are the duly appointed, qualified and acting executors of his estate; that default has been made in the payment of said mortgage indebtedness and that there is due and owing to plaintiffs thereon the sum of $38,600.00, with interest on said sum at 10 percent per annum, as alleged in said petitions, and there is further due and owing to plaintiffs for taxes against said real estate paid by plaintiffs the sum of $194.85, with interest thereon at 10 percent per annum from November 6, 1933. That plaintiffs' said mortgage is a valid first lien upon said above described real estate; that you and each of you have or claim to have some right, title or interest in, or lien, claim or demand upon said real estate, but plaintiffs allege that the same is junior and inferior to the lien of said mortgage; that the fair and reasonable value and the market value of said mortgaged premises is far less than the amount due and owing plaintiffs and said premises are not kept in repair and are rapidly depreciating in value and are insufficient security for plaintiffs' debt and that plaintiffs are entitled to the appointment of a Receiver to take charge of, handle, control and lease said real estate and collect the rents therefrom during the pendency of said action. Plaintiffs pray, among other things, that the amount due and owing on said note, secured by said mortgage, be determined by the court; that said mortgage be declared absolute and foreclosed; that said above described premises be sold as provided by law; and that each and all of the defendants in said action be forever barred and foreclosed of all right, title, interest and equity of redemption in, and of all claims, liens and demands upon said real estate and pray that William H. Stageman be appointed Receiver in said action by the court and plaintiffs propose the Hartford Surety Company, Hartford, Connecticut, as surety of plaintiffs, as applicants for a Receiver, and as surety for said Receiver, and plaintiffs further pray for general equitable relief.

You are required to answer said petition on or before the 21st day of May, 1934, otherwise decree will be made and entered in said cause against you and each of you, as prayed in plaintiffs' petition. Dated this 11th day of April, 1934. Richard O'Connor and John J. O'Connor, Jr., Executors of the estate of John J. O'Connor, deceased. By Fred S. Berry, Their Attorney. A124

If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth; and the truth shall make you free. John 8: 31, 32. Jesus says "if ye continue in my word" If you will use the word of God as your guide in life you shall know the truth. We are guessing at so much today in so many of the things that are so very important to us in life, and so many of our guesses are very bad and bring the opposite of what we need and want. Why not take God's word for it, and make sure that we are right. We are sure that God knows, then let us listen to what He says, and knows.

There is a class for you in Sunday school and we are looking for you next Sunday.

You are showing your loyalty to your church when you are present at each service. It is your voice to the community for God.

Movieletes

Just look at the line-up for the week! Tonight, "Heat Lightning," a startling drama taking place in the heart of the American desert, highlights Aline MacMahon. "The Cat and the Fiddle,"—you've been hearing about this—on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. "Hold that Girl," smart, breezy comedy featuring a Claire Trevor and James Dunn, is your treat for Wednesday, and "In the Money" with that guaranteed laugh-maker, Skeets Gallagher, is on the bill for Thursday, April 26. How's that for a week's offering?

"Heat Lightning"
Thursday, April 19.

It's laid in the heat of the desert where two sisters operate a gas station, and the entire action is crowded into 24 thrilling hours. Preston Foster is the woman-fascinator and his henchman is Lyle Talbot, a dumb crook who lines up in the comedy group. "I just killed a rat!" Around these burning lines is woven the drama of a woman's life—the story of why she hid herself in the desert.

"Jimmy the Gent"
Friday and Saturday, April 20, 21.

Hilarious comedy situations punctuate James Cagney's latest, "Jimmy the Gent." It's a racket of digging up lost heirs to cash in on vast inheritances for which there are no claimants. And the rival "heir chasers," represented by the firms of James Cagney and Alvin Karpis, are not above bribing hospitals and morgues for information. The blonde Betty Davis adds a romantic touch. Ralph Harolds, former Nebraskan, and Alice White are in the cast.

"Cat and the Fiddle"
Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 22, 23 and 24.

A new romantic musical co-starring team makes it bow to the public in "The Cat and the Fiddle," with Ramon Navarro and Jeanette MacDonald in the leading roles. It's an idyllic and thoroughly modern love affair between two ambitious young music students in romantic Brussels. This play had a long run on Broadway, and includes such hits as "One Moment Alone," "A New Love is Old" and "The Love Parade." Both Miss Mac Donald and Mr. Navarro are accomplished singers and make it a production you will long remember.

"Hold That Girl"
Wednesday, April 25.

"Every girl for herself . . . and let the men fall where they may" was the motto of the demon girl reporter. But she met her match in James Dunn, a detective who can talk fast and act faster. When she interferes with his work, he has her locked up in jail. She conceals herself in a car in which a jeweler is being "taken for a ride," much to her regret, and finds the gang leader to be one of her suitors. All in all, it's a thriller and you'll enjoy every minute of it.

"In the Money"
Thursday, April 26.

It couldn't be Skeets Gallagher without being a laugh from beginning to end. It's good drama, too, with thanks to Lois Wilson. Just one day, so don't miss it!

McCormick-Deering The Pinnacle of Planter Accuracy

The McCormick-Deering No. 102 corn planter. Equipment includes reel, eighty rods of check wire, two steel stakes and seed plates to cover all usual requirements. Plants in rows 28 to 48 inches apart. No. 104, the high-wheel planter, plants in rows 38 to 48 inches apart.

A Sure-Shot Variable Drop

Earlier inventors probably thought they had attained the ultimate when they had devised a machine that would put two, three or four kernels in the ground in checked rows with a fair degree of accuracy. But to be able to regulate, instantly, the amount of seed which would be accurately coulted out to the discharge channel was unthought of. Today, the particular grower demands this feature and it has been worked out in the McCormick-Deering planter in a simple, practical manner, which gives the user his choice of two, three or four kernels in checked hills, or one of three variations of drilling distance, with the same seed plate. A mere shifting of the foot lever (without stopping the planter) does the trick.

Seed Plate Always in Time

The feed shaft is keyed through the clutch and cannot chafe. The seed plate has sixteen cells, the ring gear has sixteen teeth, and the driving plate sixteen slots for the driving pawls. This makes it impossible to get the seed cells out of time with the receiving valve in the upper end of the boot.

THE OLIVER ROW CROP

A 2-Row Cultivator that works close, keeps level, holds its course and does not pack the soil

So much of the operating is done automatically, so much more is made so simple, that clean, close, uniform cultivating becomes a very simple job with the Row Crop. First, in following the rows—the Row Crop method of steering that brakes—brakes that steer—makes it simple for the operator to follow his rows closely at all times.

The tractor, itself, is high above, and far away from the crops and will not damage them, while the gangs work close. The Tip-toe Wheels, instead of packing, actually help cultivate the soil.

All shovels are out in front of the operator. There are none behind that he has to watch. He has only to control the general depth desired. The guide wheels and the 12-inch vertical "float" of each gang, allow each gang to adjust itself to the contour of the ground independently. All shovels on each gang are level at all times—there is no hinge action in the gang.

You want to see this tractor—with two and four-row cultivating equipment. There is also additional equipment for all row crop and general farm operations.
